Miss Mulock was of her age and wrote as the much belittled Victorians were expected to write. Quite fond of preaching and easily too sentimental, she still had the ability to model an interesting story and invest the characters she drew with a potency that had plausibility. Each chapter is headed with a poetic excerpt, as indicating the course of events, which headings must have involved much delving into compendiums and anthologies. And she makes the mistake, in her evident love for her hero, of creating him too utterly invincible. It is hardly possible to figure out a man who could so unfailingly strike twelve in every perplexity and emergency, and be so strong in initiative as to see so far enough ahead every time as to never make a bad break. And she had a weakness for "fine writing," and was fond of little asides, in which she used the word "ay" exhaustingly. And she mentions "dewy dimmed eyes" and other overtrained expressions, and dropped into French phrases as easily as Mr. Wegg said he would willingly drop into poetry. These are not blemishes, but little side lights of the period. But they are minor, because of the lofty spirit which animates the whole narration. The sentiment may not be vigorous, but it is true in its intent. The appeal to manliness and manly endeavor is inspiring. The day will hardly come when the blood will fail to course more swiftly at the story of a man's efforts to make for himself place and name despite his humble beginnings. We shall always believe in nobility so long as there are those to tell us that poor boys can rise to be great men and not sell their virtue, honor or integrity. And although, as said before, the hero is just a trifle too heroic, it is easily more worth while for the world as we have it today, to have preserved to us "John Halifax" and his sturdy nobility, than the evasive, shifting, non-productive Edwin of the Butler story. The latter man may in some measure seem, to those who can believe it, an average man. If so he is so pitiable an example that the Elderly Person prefers to resent so inexact a representative, and to put John Halifax as by far the fairer average of manhood which is striven for, even if not attained to.

The book has several moments that pulsate with large truths. One is when the friends, John and Phinneas, walk silently together, and feel that theirs is a friendship which does not need words to enable them to understand one another. And because of this "The best things never are expressed or expressible."

And it is well worth wading through all the adventures of Butler's spineless Edwin, to just meet one of his forefathers, the fine old gentleman who built a ladder against his west garden wall and every evening mounted it and said good night to the sun.

THE ELDERLY PERSON.

♯♯♯

Imperial Quartet.—The Imperial Male Quartet had nine concerts during the current week, this making a total of twenty-eight engagements sung by them during the month of October.

CONCERNING A. SCHONBERG
A FUTURIST COMPOSER
Felix Borowski in Chicago Record-Herald

Never in the history of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra has that organization interpreted so peculiar a work as that which it will set forth at its performances this week. The Five Pieces for orchestra by Arnold Schonberg will, it is certain, create something of a sensation. They represent the last word of modernism—progressivism, if you will. They ask nothing of the listeners' appreciation of pure beauty, of their love of melody, of their joy in emotional expression. They will not move all people to a sense of rapture, but by reason of the fact that Mr. Schonberg has apparently set at naught all those notions of music which have been entertained by composers and their audiences for several hundred years, there is every probability that his compositions will stun.

Schonberg has not been made known hitherto to concert-goers in this country. A few of his piano pieces have found their way here; one or two of his songs have been investigated by vocalists who are at once enterprising and courageous, but the composer's larger works for chorus or for orchestra have not been sung or played here. Mr. Stock will therefore give the creator of the five pieces for orchestra his first representation in America. It will be an historic occasion.

If Schonberg's compositions are practically unknown in America, the details of his career are also unknown, except as to the fact that whenever a new work of his appears abroad it is cordially hissed by the infuriated occupants of concert halls. It will be well, therefore, to set forth in this place some details of his artistic life, of his opinions and of his works.

Concerning his career but little can be said. Born September 18, 1874, at Vienna, Schonberg lived the greater part of his existence in that city until he left it to go to Berlin in 1901. For a short time he remained in the German capital, returning to Vienna in 1903. He did some teaching at the Stern Conservatory in Berlin, and when he made his way back to his native city Schonberg surrounded himself with a little bodyguard of pupils and disciples, whose admiration for him and all his works has taken the sincerest form of imitation. Evidently the apostle of the new ideas felt that the capital of Austria was not quite the place for a man who yearned to be in the van of that army of fighters who are struggling to set up the banner of progress. At any rate he bade another farewell to Vienna in 1911 and went back to Berlin, where he still resides.

As a composer Schonberg began harmlessly enough. His early works—those written in the '90s—are not distinguished for any startling qualities. Such ideas as he appears to have possessed he shared with a multitude of writers whose industry is greater than their gifts. Occasionally there were hints of a deeper talent than ordinarily is to be met with, but Schonberg at his best was not likely to be hailed as a genius of wonder-working kind.

It would manifestly be doing injustice to a writer who, whatever may be his artistic eccentricities, may have been altogether sincere when he decided to throw overboard all the preconceived ideas of musical beauty and to steer his ship of art into strange and trackless waters, to impugn the action which led to his becoming the most widely discussed musician of the day.

It is certain that Schonberg has not been widely encouraged to retain his convictions as they have been put forward in his works. So hostile has been the attitude of audiences at concerts which have given representation to his creations that the laughter which has accompanied the earlier portion of the performances has, in many instances, almost ended in riot when they have been conducted to a close.

As a teacher the composer of the Five Pieces for Orchestra professes to disclaim any desire to implant in his pupils the extraordinary ideas which have brought so much notoriety to his own productions. "The kind of instruction which a student should receive," he says, "should at least be that which helps him to understand his own ideas. Added technical resources will not help him; they are merely secrets of the craft to which only he should have access who finds them out for himself. Whoever understands his own ideas will evolve his own technic—by other paths, perhaps, than those which are generally followed in a course of study, perhaps even by round-about ways, but infallibly, surely."

Schonberg then goes on to say that he does not "recommend to the student the employment of modern resources of expression." But the fact remains that his own students have not taken his advice. Ponder, for example, the concert which was given by two of Schonberg's pupils in the Grosser Musikvereinsaal, Vienna, last March. It, too, was a historic occasion.

The pupils of Schonberg who were presented to the Viennese public at this entertainment were Anton von Webern and Alban Berg. The teacher himself was represented by his Kammersymphonie. A correspondent of the Boston Transcript sent a report of the proceedings from Vienna. "Hisses and laughter and applause," he wrote, "made a bedlam; between numbers little groups of disputants came within an inch of blows; one of the composers shouted remarks at the audience; members of the orchestra came down and entered into the row; the conductor went on strike; an official boxed the ears of a man who had publicly insulted him; the police commissioner ordered the hall cleared, and the concert was stopped before the final number. And all because some 'ultrists,' or 'musical cubists,' insisted upon going a little 'further' than even an 'advanced' musical public would tolerate."

Mr. Von Webern's music was accompanied by yells of laughter from the general public and applause from Schonberg's supporters. At the close there was much hissing, and it was some time before Schonberg could obtain silence for the opening of his Kammersymphonie. There was further demonstrations at the conclusion of that work, not quite so violent as those which had followed Von Webern's. It seemed as if the remainder of the concert might end peacefully. But it was Alban Berg who upset the apple cart.

He had persuaded a vocal artist to immolate himself in singing his songs. "They demanded," says the Transcript's correspondent, "a range of something like three octaves, including a desperate falsetto and a downward progression which no singer on earth, probably, could have made to sound like anything but a wail. 'Over the borders of the All,' he sings, 'you look meditatingly out,' and a few wheezes and groans from the orchestra accompanied his announcement. The following notes could not be heard for laughter. Schonberg turned around and said: 'I beg those who cannot remain quiet to leave the hall.' Then he began all over again—'Over the borders of the All'—somehow he got through it.

"Then the real trouble started, Schonberg marched off the stage apparently wild with anger. Down in the parquet there was no speaking, for the hissing and shouting. Up in the gallery two men were gesticulating furiously. One of them had a wife who vainly tried to pull him away from the conflict. The only policeman in sight was hustled up there. In the meantime Berg, the composer of the songs, appeared in one of the side boxes and shouted:

"'Be quiet! Go to the devil! Hinaus mit der Bagage.'

"'Shut your mouth,' yelled some one from the pit. Then shouts drowned further interchanges."

It is scarcely necessary to declare that the concert ended prematurely, Schonberg, white with passion, refused to stay in the hall. After he had left some of the orchestral players left, too, although they had no instructions to do anything else but play. Finally the concertmaster rose to address the gathering. "It will be impossible to finish the performance," he said, "wegen der Stimmung." So as the "Stimmung" was so entirely unpropitious every one went home.

PONTIAC, ILLINOIS

Maude Powell and Francis Moore appeared under the auspices of the Amateur Musical Club on October 9, in a splendid program, the local press commenting as follows:

Credit is due the Amateur Musical Club for bringing to Pontiac Maude Powell, the great violinist, who achieved such remarkable success last night.

A brilliant audience attended the concert, filling every seat in the large auditorium. Great interest was evinced in this celebrity's appearance and Mme. Powell was given an ovation.

She played an interesting program, ranging from Bach to Gilbert, the most popular selections probably being the allegro movement from the Coleridge-Taylor concerto, the Drdla "Souvenir," the Dvorak "Humoreske" and the undying "Traumerei" of Schumann. The Bach Sonata was played with a broad, sweeping tone and with marked attention to the melodic accent. There is a cleanness and clarity in Mme. Powell's work which, added to the sheer beauty and depth of her tone, makes her playing appealing to all. She is possessed of a wonderfully pleasing personality and it is that knack of seemingly taking her audience into her confidence that adds much to her success.

Mme. Powell was ably assisted by Francis Moore, the young American pianist, who contributed a brilliant group of piano solos as well as playing to accompaniments with exquisite sympathy.

The Amateur Musical Club is to be congratulated upon its endeavors to bring world famous artists to Pontiac and to the program committee is due especial credit for its untiring efforts. The present committee consists of Mrs. L. W. Tuesburg, Mrs. Gus Rollins, Mrs. Yost, Mrs. Harrison Smith, Miss Aureola Ott, Miss Gladys Sims, Miss Ruth Crocker, Mary Ebert and Mrs. H. H. Smith.

LIZZIE ABBOTT CLARK
Sister of Emma Abbott
Mezzo Soprano Teacher of Singing
719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
179 PLEASANT STREET MILWAUKEE, WIS.
Available for Church position. Next Season

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

JOSEPH KITCHIN VIOLINIST
5416 Jackson Avenue CHICAGO
Phone Midway 6400

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN Q. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg.

Sara Burdick
TEACHER OF VOICE DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Concert, Oratorio, Recital 727 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

DanielProtheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO 955 Third Av., Detroit, Mich.
Chicago address, care of Music News

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

Harriet Case SOPRANO
Management Sam'l B Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., Second Floor

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

H. B. Bartholomew
Teacher of PIANO AND VOICE 502 Kimball Hall

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STEEN
TENOR
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art.
Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT, Sec.

A REVIEW OF VIOLINISTIC CONDITIONS

The following very excellent article from the pen of Ovide Musin was recently printed in the New York Tribune:

In glancing over the growth in the field of music which has taken place in this country since the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers, nearly three hundred years ago, we should find great advancement, considering the length of time which has elapsed and the vast sums of money spent on music of late years. In some of the branches, and from the commercial point of view, we do find that such is the case. Americans are great lovers of music, and an astonishing amount of natural talent is continually manifesting itself, irrespective of nationality; but in certain respects the development might have been greater had America followed the example furnished by several European countries, which about eighty years ago founded government music schools, and where for hundreds of years previous to this the art and science of music and instrument making were fostered by the church, rulers and the nobility.

While the purpose of this article is not to criticize, I trust a few comments on some of the other causes which I believe have retarded the development of native musicians—violinists in particular—may not come amiss, notwithstanding the fact that we could mention the names of several who have reached a high plane without going abroad.

Just as the Puritan beliefs have been a great moral force, "the leaven which has leavened the whole lump" of national character, so must the Puritan religion which frowned on music have exerted for a time a powerful influence in checking the development of music as an art and its being chosen as a profession. Aside from hymns sung in the congregation, music in the early days was considered a wile of the evil one, and musicians inferior creatures. Learning was otherwise promoted and endowed by government and private wealth, and as time went on and European artistic influence crept in. Organs were installed in the churches and piano playing became an accomplishment in the education of young ladies, and eventually New Englanders took the foremost rank in regard to singing and oratorio societies.

With the advent of opera came musicians of different nationalities whose influence has been great in the musical uplift. European stars (singers, pianists, violinists and others—the cream of Europe, in fact), who have appeared here season after season for many years, have gradually awakened artistic aspiration and emulation throughout the length and breadth of the land. Real appreciation is beginning; but only musicians and artists who have done the work know from personal experience what it means to become one, and in order to supply an artist with an audience of connoisseurs the study of music in this country should be taken much more seriously by people in general.

An idea exists here that one who accepts financial aid in getting a musical education is more or less an object of charity, and that any one who respects himself will get it somehow by his own efforts, perhaps at odd moments taken from some other occupation whereby a little money may be made to enable him to pay for instruction. The fact is that to become an expert in any profession requires concentration and ample time. Violinists need to begin very young, the younger the better, and for the mastery of their instrument require years of constant daily training for the development of the functions of the fingers, wrist and arm, and for the technic and control of the bow, besides the study of music as a science, indispensable to an artist or connoisseur.

This question is regarded and treated differently in certain European countries where governments have taken it in charge, founding royal and national conservatories of music (on a plane similar to their universities), in which students are given the best instruction in all branches free of cost, the rules and regulations being most strict and the requirements the highest, and every one is obliged to "toe the mark." The object is not to make money, but art for art's sake, the nation esteeming itself amply rewarded or repaid by the freer and wider diffusion of musical knowledge and culture and the honors gained by its proteges throughout the world, its singers, instrumentalists, composers and directors of opera and orchestra. The Belgian royal conservatories (four in number, the first to be established being that at Liege) are so managed that while between professor and pupil the question of money is not permissible (the government being responsible for the salaries, pensions, buildings, equipment and maintenance, prizes and diplomas—everything essential, in fact), still these institutions are partially self-supporting by means of the orchestral and chamber concerts, oratorios and recitals given by the faculty, laureates of the conservatory and eminent soloists. Their point of view and the way these institutions are conducted and managed, and the results obtained might well be investigated for the benefit of Americans who have been and are still handicapped by the lack of such institutions in their own country.

Another disadvantage which afflicts the prospect of many in this country who are naturally gifted for a career is that school and college come first in consideration, instead of making general education supplemental to the dominating artistic tendency. Early training in playing an instrument may be pursued in connection with a common school education, but after that, and as young as possible, the prospective artist should be enabled to specialize according to his bent. One who has an artistic mind is not likely to neglect the languages, histories, poets and philosophers, and time will be found for general knowledge during the unfolding of the artistic powers.

Teaching of singing and sight reading in the public schools is good as far as it goes, but enough time cannot be given to it to make it sufficiently effective. It would be better were the money now expended in music teaching in the public schools concentrated in a few public music schools for such children as have the disposition for music.

An important point for consideration is that of choosing competent teachers from the very start, so that time will not be wasted by having later on to correct wrong methods and habits. There is a scientific reason why a violinist who learns to play with a correct position will have more ease, control and endurance than one who has a bad position in playing, and the proper way of holding and using the bow will produce a much better quality of tone. Scales wrongly fingered will produce faulty intonation, but properly fingered and practiced will always be in tune. The fundamentals of violin playing are too often neglected. Violinists come to me from all parts of the country who say they have been through all the studies and exercises of such masters as Kreutzer, Fiorilli and Rode; but when I ask them to play one of them they are not able to do so. And it is the same with the scales. If I ask them to play one they are not able to do so, although a great virtuoso may at once be recognized by his playing of a scale.

This general superficiality is due to the fact that the master violinists' interpretation of their studies and exercises is not sufficiently understood. This knowledge (together with taht of the way the classical composers for violin, both ancient and modern, intended their works to be rendered) is too limited. It was handed down by these masters to their disciples and their pupils, who have respected the traditions and methods which form the standard by which an artist must be judged.

The works of Corelli, Tartini, Vinaldi, Locatelli, Vitali, Campagnoli, Viotti, Paganini, Stamitz, Spohr, Kreutzer, Rode, Fiorillo, Baillot, De Beriot, Lambert, Massart, Leonard and others, master violinists, together with those of the composers Bach, Beethoven, Mozart and Handel, which formed the basis of the studies and repertory of all of my pupils in Europe, and as far as possible in this country, are indispensable to the formation of technic, taste and style.

One thing which should be avoided as far as possible is the custom of playing in public before one is properly prepared. The Royal and National Conservatories of Belgium and France prohibit all students who are not laureates from appearing in public, and from teaching without special permission from the director.

A fever for technical display tends to turn violin playing from its true mission, namely, that of rendering in correct tempo and style the meaning and feeling of the composer. The desire to play rapidly, to make a lot of notes as quickly as possible, can but be detrimental to the composition as a whole. While too much attention cannot be given to the technic of the left hand (when this is the means to the end, i. e., interpretation, and not digital acrobatics), more attention should be given to the control and manner of using the bow. The left hand is only the workman, the mechanic; but the bow enables the artist to give polish to the technic, color to the interpretation and the inspiration of the moment to find expression. Progress should be uniform in technic, taste, style and musical comprehension, all of which should be kept in mind until mastered.

The aim of every young aspiring violinist ought to be to excel by serious work, diligence and unflagging energy. Speaking of excelling reminds me of an ancient Arab fable, which may be applied to any profession, but more especially to the arts.

A stork, strutting one day on the bank of a pool, said to himself: "How prodigal Nature has been to me! I can run, I can swim and I can fly; if I am tired of swimming I take a walk. If tired of walking or running I fly, just as my fancy directs." An old serpent who overheard him, said: "Don't boast so much, my friend. You cannot run like a stag, you cannot swim like a trout and you cannot fly like a hawk."

The ideal and necessary point in order to shine is to excel in some one thing.

———♯♯♯———

NEWMAN LECTURES

E. M. Newman, the traveler lecturer, is soon to make his fifth annual appearance in this city. His wanderings during the past spring and summer were confined to the "Great Cities of Europe," where he took pictures and gathered the material for his new series of traveltalks. The choice of subjects was the result of the movement for civic betterment in this country in recent years, in order that his fellow-travelers may see for themselves the continental centers of population, and learn wherein they excel, and, on the other hand—and this is more often the case—wherein our cities are superior. Another factor in Mr. Newman's choice was his belief that there are many things of interest in these cities, which are visited by thousands of Americans each season, that heretofore have not been presented in travel-lectures. So he started out with the intention of bringing back new phases of life—new objects of art, and places of historic, romantic and literary associations—delightful out-of-the-way corners even more interesting than those in the beaten path, because of their novelty. That he succeeded even beyond his expectations is attested by the magnificent collection of color views and motion pictures, which will illustrate his lectures—pictures which are up to the standard that his large following has learned to expect, in point of beauty, variety and accuracy.

The new traveltalks will be presented in the following order: "London—Today," "Paris—Art, Life, Fashion;" "Rome—Ancient and Modern;" "Florence and Venice," and "Vienna—The City Beautiful," at Orchestra Hall, on five successive Wednesday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoons, beginning November 19. There will be three courses exactly alike.

———♯♯♯———

HELENE KOELLING

It will no doubt interest concert goers to know that Mme. Helene Koelling, who is to give a recital at the Illinois Theater, on the afternoon of November 16, has one of the largest repertoires of operas of any coloratura singer now before the public. Her list numbers thirty, in Italian, German and French, of which she has sung the leading role in nearly all.

Much is expected of Mme. Koelling's recital by those who have heard her voice, which is one of great beauty, warm and sympathetic.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 56 Rue de Seine
EVERINGHAM Hazel (Tel. North 3765) 1251 N. State St.
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Artbur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GALLUP Helen (Phone Austin 11713) Chicago Piano College
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 6171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4786) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 375
EMANUEL N. B. (auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO [illegible] Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boisievant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir), 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
DRIGGS and LE MESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Fionrnoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mailers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE J. S. (Lecture Recitals) 52 W. 45, New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 257 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 44 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone Drexel 3967) 4956 Oakenwald Av.
DEAL Alice R. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 8210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 624 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sheridan Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo, Milwaukee, Wis. 179 Pleasant St.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2865) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (61 Schiller St.) Pianist, Organist, Accompanist
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 3242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (646 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia
MURDOCK Effie (Res. Phone Midway 1692) American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4783) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory)
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4457 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BARTHOLOMEW H. B. 502 Kimball Hall
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4535) 2318 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Stewart 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Milwaukee, Wis.) 558 Jefferson St.
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5065) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenn
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinsbaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill.). 338 N. Ashland Avenne
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorinn (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.
DOELLING Mae (Concert Pianist) 4141 N. Hermitage Av.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio

ERST Stephen Adolph
1653 Edgewater Place

FAIRCLOUGH G. H.
Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn

FARDAHL Auna M. Abroad for season.
2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.

FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.)
Res. Studio, 1527 High St.

FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032)
[illegible] Cass St.

FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.

GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236)
Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood

GEORGE Louise
Chicago Piano College

GRANQUIST Arthur
Columbia [illegible]

GODFREY Eleanor F.
Kimball Hall

HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music

HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music
Northwestern University School of Music

HEAPHY Alice Christine (Boston, Mass.)
Worcester, Mass.—Day Building

HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3772)
726 Bittersweet Place

HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045)
426 Fine Arts Building

HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.)
443 Day Building

HUNT Emily Parsons (Phone Highland Park 120)
520 Fine Arts Building

HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741)
Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.

IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music)
536 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9206)

JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41)
Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall

KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.)
Arlington Av. and May St.

KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School)
712 Fine Arts Bldg.

LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals)
3550 North Halsted St.

LEVY Heniot (Kimball Hall)
American Conservatory

LIEBLING Emil
Kimball Hall

LOOMIS Clarence
American Conservatory

McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.)
North Shore School of Music

McKAY Lonis P., 2 Nelson Pl.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W)
American Conservatory, Kimball Ha

NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.)
(University School of Music

NYVALL David Jr. (Jamestown, N. Y.)
Hill Piano School

OLIVER Mary Lindsay
Moline Ill.

PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute)
415 W. 61st Place

PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904)
419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St.

PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288)
1921 Wolfram St.

PILLSBURY Agnes Hope
707 Fine Arts Bldg.

PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.)
Huron College School of Music

RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766
620 Fine Arts Bldg.

RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av.
Chicago Musical College

RICE Emma
Stillman Valley, Ill.

RIVE-KING Julie
Bush Temple Conservatory

RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist)
Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5529

ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142)
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

ROGERS Ruth Ata Duluth, Minn.)
11 South 20th Av., East

RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.)
3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn

RYDER Theodora Sturkow
4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)

SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420)
American Conservatory

STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.)
Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax

STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715)
5928 Woodlawn Av.

STOUT Lillian Mary
429 Fine Arts Bldg.

SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music.

SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall)
1524 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771

SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher)
American Conservatory

SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute of Music

STEAD Mabel Riggs
Peoria, Ill.

THAL Della (620 Addison St.)
610 Fine Arts Building

THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.)
Lawrence Conservatory

THOMPSON Frank Olin
Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee

TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn)
55 Auditorium

von MICKWITZ Harold
Bush Temple Conservatory

WALLACE Evangeline
522 Kimball Hall

WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831)
American Conservatory.

WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City)
4414 Main St.

WATT Harmon H.
Chicago Piano Colle

WILFORD J. E.
502 Kimball Hall

WILLARD Carolyn Louise
721 Fine Arts Bl

WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany)
Sciaper Str. 22 H. P.

WILLIAMS Kathryn L.
1516 Maller's Bldg.

WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist)
Denver, Col'o (2226 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Lonisville, Ky.
Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son
820 Fine Arts Bldg.

C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block
Syracuse, N. Y.

DITSON Oliver
Boston, Mass

DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8155)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

FILLMORE Music House
528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

FISCHER (J) and Bro. New York
7 and 11 Bible House

GAMBLE HINGED Music Co.
[illegible] E. Van Buren

ILLINOIS MUSIC CO.
6119 Greenwood Ave.

LYMAN M. B. and Co.
522 Kimball Hall

MacDERMID James G.
Fine Arts Bldg.

SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.)
64 E. Van Buren St.

THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co.
A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.

Waldo Music Co. Publishers
235 W. Newton St., Boston

WITMARK M. & Sons
New York

PIANO TUNING

LINDENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2151)
639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R)
Columbia School of Music

ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1671)
American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory
Kimball Hall

ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art
Fine Arts Bldg.

BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art
74 Auditorium Bldg.

BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle
School of Music, Ripon, Wis.

BLISS School of Music (Oak Park)
234 N. Kenilworth Av.

BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice
714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av

BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music
Zanesville, Ohio

Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director
N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.

CHAIGNEAU School of Music
59 rue Raynouard, Paris

CHICAGO Piano College
Kimball Hall

CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.)
Kimball Hall, Chicago.

CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.)
430 Fine Arts Bldg.

Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec.
40 Scott St.

COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.)
509 South Wabash Avenue

COSMOPOLITAN School of Music
Auditorium Bldg.

DRAKE School of Music
61 Auditorium Bldg

EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha)
203-4-6-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.

FAELTEN Pianaforte School
Huntington Chambers, Boston

HINSHAW Conservatory of Music
5th Floor, Kimball Hall

ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir.
2831 Washington Boulevard

KNOX Conservatory of Music
Wm. F. Bentley, Dir., Galesburg, Ill.

KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis)
Musical Art Building

LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music)
529 Fine Arts Bldg.

LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074)
522 Fine Arts Building

MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano
413 Kimball Hall

M. A. MONZEL Musical College
Kimball Hall

MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir)
309 Kimball Hall.

MorningsideConservatory Sioux City, Ia.
Orwin A. Morse, D.

NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music
Boston, Mass.

NORTH SHORE School of Music
Evanston and Leland Avs

NORTHWESTERN University School of Music
Evanston, Ill.

OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art
Warrington Bldg.

OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development
513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)

STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art
55 Auditorium Bldg.

TOLEDO Musical College
Toledo, Ohio

UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir
11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.

VALPARAISO University School of Music
Valparaiso, Indiana

VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance
42 W. 76th St., New York

VILIM American Violin School
411 Kimball Hall

WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres.
1515 Mallers Bldg.

West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438)
27 South Ashland Boul.

WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and DramaticArt.
29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo

WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano)
59th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

ALBERT Teachers Agency
633 S. Wabash Av.

BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency)
Carnegie Hall, New York

LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston)
College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf
421 Fine Arts Bldg

BRADLEY Kenneth M.
Bush Temple Conservatory

BUTLER Lester S.
Worcester, Mass.

LUTKIN Peter C.
Evanston, Ill.

ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin)
716 Diversey Boulevard

WATT Harmon H.
Kimball Hall

WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4666 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815)
Studio, 726 E. Ontario St.

BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849)
309 E. 41st St.

BECKER Ludwig
Columbia School of Music

BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.)
812 Wall Street

BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Wabash 1260
Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg

BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory)
Wichita, Kas.

BURKHOLDER Raymond
Streator, Ill.

BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831)
Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)

CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Irving 22273)
4520 Kimball Av.

CLEOPHAS Cornelia
Studying Abroad

COHEN Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra)
628 Lincoln Ave, (Avondale) Cincinnati

DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.)
North Shore School of Music

DRAKE Earl R.
84 Auditorium Bldg.

EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121)
6352 Rhodes Av.

EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco
1549 Octavia St.

FISCHEL Max I.
510 Fine Arts Bld

FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst)
106 Central Park West, New York

FREDERIKSEN Fredrik
426 Fine Arts Bldg.

FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4355)
4123 Ellis Av.

FROSOLONO Antonio
1227 East 44th Place

GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969)
3144 Logan Boulevard

GOLDBLATT Maurice H.
Chicago Musical College

GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.)
917 E. Adams St.

HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.)
Heizer School of Music

ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra)
1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)

KITCHIN Joseph
5415 Jackson Av.

KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio)
Oberlin College Conservatory

LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517)
3533 W. Monroe Street

MARTINSON Melvin
411 Kimball Hall

MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago
Branch, Kankakee, Illinois

MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357)
1024 E. 42nd Street

NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nusshaum School of Music)
4654 Grand Boul.

MUSIN Ovide (Virtuoso)
51 West 76th St., New York

PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832)
101 West 115th St., New York.

PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago
530 North Pine Ave.

ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island)
Vilim, American Violin School

SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston)
1451 Broadway, New York.

STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb.
University School of Music

STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra)
1325 Birchwood Av.

TOWNSEND Winifred
411 Kimball Hall.

VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin
Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory

WALKER Sadie (Phone Belmont 4534)
Cosmopolitan School of Music

WOODARD Guy
Bush Temple

WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937
American Conservatory

YOST Gaylord
Indianapolis Conservatory

ZUKOWSKY Alexander
627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917)
American Conservatory

SEARCH Frederick P.
Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R

VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis)
22 S. 10th St.

WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480
1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30)
4718 Kenwood Av.

ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante)
Worcester, Mass.

ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory
606 Kimball Hall

ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147)
304 Athenaeum Bldg.

BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.)
85 Auditorium Bldg

BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert
6557 Ingleside Avenue

BARRADELL Kennard
Kimball Hall

BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano)
110 Carnegie Hall, New York

BEARD William
625 Fine Arts Bldg.

BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580)
Columbia School of Music

BEERS Huldah (Contralto)
Edison Park, Ill.

BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005)
303 Kimball Hall

BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.)
Northwestern University School of Music

BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist)
6119 Greenwood Ave.

BISPHAM David
44 W. 44th St., New York

BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg.
Drake School of Music

BOLLMAN Mande Fenion
Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.

BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York)
Care Haensel and Jones

BORROFF Alhert (Phone Harrison 5819)
Kimball Hall

BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520)
4822 Madison Ave.

BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium)
Cosmopolitan School of Music

BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor)
1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.

BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269
Northwestern Uni. School of Music

BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3885)
(Harry Culhertson, Manager)

BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohlo)
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music

BRUEGGER Frederick
720 Fine Arts Bldg.

BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth)
7022 Vernon Av.

BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041)
727 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.)
Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau

BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone)
609 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183)
620 Fine Arts Building

Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass.
413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.

BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5486)
612 Fine Arts Building

CASE Harriet
Auditorium Bldg.

CHENEY Mary (New York)
600 Carnegie Hall

CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella, (Soprano)
4603 Sheridan Road

CLARK Charles W. (Paris)
12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.

CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimhall Hall (Phone Harrison 1831)
Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)

CLARK Lizzie Abbott
Res. 5498 Cornell Av. (Phone Hyde Park 6971)

CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152
Sherwood Music School

CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearhorn St., (Baritone)
Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11

CLIPPINGER D. A.
410 Kimhall Hall

CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano)
University School of Music, Lincoln, Neh.

CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher)
721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4496

COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho)
Boise Conservatory of Mnsic

COOK John Loring (Tenor)
300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 6168)

COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913)
4117 W. Harrison St.

CORLEW Mabel (Contralto)
4202 Prairie Ave, (Phone Harrison 973)

COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France)
6 rue Edmond Ahont

CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009)
608 E. 46th Place

CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor)
234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 6373)

DAHLSTROM Margaret
3242 Clifton Ave.

DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Pnhlique
30 Rue Marheuf. Champs Elysees, Paris

DE SALES Regina (Paris, France)
40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)

DeYOUNG Richard B.
American Conservatory

DEVRIES Herman
618-628 Fine Arts Bnilding

DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478)
816 S. Harvey Avenue. Oak Park. Ill.

DUFAU Jennie (Coloratnre Soprano)
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310
710 South Central Park Avenne

FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohlo)
H. B. Turpin, Manager

FARNUM Mrs. Frank
3359 Warren Ave.

FARRELL Joseph (Kansas City)
201 Studio Building,

FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante)
149 Tremont St., Boston

FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Harrison 3895)
63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 407)

FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arte Bldg
5906 Ontario St. (Contralto)

FRIDENBERG Ahhie L. (New York)
Studio 110 Carnegie Hall

FRISBIE Constance (Soprano)
5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)

GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782)
318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.

GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886)
3436 Flournoy St.

GARTON Samuel B. (Home Phone Ravenswood 6392)
923 South Wahash Av.

GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone)
413 Kimball Hall

GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone)
1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.

GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory)
Chicago Address, 522 Kimball Hall

GROW Ethel (Phone North 2686)
1002 Dearhorn Av.

GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art)
623 Fine Arts Bldg

HADLEY Grant (Tenor)
Suite 73 Anditorinm Building

HAIGHT Irma (Detroit, Mich.)
956 Third Avenue

HALL William John (St. Louis)
Musical Art Building

HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497)
423 Fine Arts Bldg.

HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher)
72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack, (Phone Ravenswood 325)
5057 Winthrop Av.

HARRIS Milon R.
403 Kimball Hall

HARTHAN-AREND Else (Phone Normal 1406)
care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.)
Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)

HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

HERDIEN Mabel Sharp
6132 Kenmore Ave.

HEUCHLING Mathilde
712 Fine Arts Building

HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923)
Chicago Musical College

HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano)
1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)

HINKLE Florence (Soprano)
294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)

HINSHAW William Wade (New York)
Metropolitan Opera Company

HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003)
6th Floor, Kimhall Hall

HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson)
304 Kimhall Hall

HOLT GeorgeNelson
509 S. Wabash Ave.

HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano)
3800 Broadway, New York

HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737)
5836 Washington Blvd.

HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544)
Auditorium Bldg.

Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland)
Tndor Mansions, 3616 Pine Grove Av.

HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante)
South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.

HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880
608 Fine Arts Building

HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund
Alliance, Ohio

HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267)
601 Kimhall Hall

IREDALE Bertha Smart (Phone Englewood 888^)
357 W. 63rd St.

JOHNS Ethelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131)
6463 Kimbark Av.

JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104)
4937 Michigan Ave.

KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619)
4433 Racine Avenne

KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201)
623 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)

KIMBELL Grant (Tenor)
5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831

KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neh.)
University School of Music

LA BERGE Charles (Baritone)
American Conservatory

LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774)
1375 East 54th Street

LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 6365)
420 Fine Arts Bldg

LAYFIELD Mahel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082)
7111 Normal Av.

LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6830)
6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1

LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335)
4460 Berkeley Av.

LINDQUEST Albert (Phone West Pullman 366)
237 E-113 Street

LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto)
1311 E. 63rd St.

LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola
3814 Ellis Avenue

LUND Rene S. (Baritone)
2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6802)

LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J)
1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.

LYNCH Miriam Goodhne (Voice Builder)
Drake School of Mnsic

MacBURNEY Thomas
609 Fine Arts Building

MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060)
3422 Fniton Street

McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439)
3620 Parnell Av.

MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E.
616 Fine Arts Bldg.

MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France)
27 rue Boisievant

MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 681)
2459 Jackson Boul.

MARELLE Marie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402)
5256 Berteau Av.

MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.)
209 Wesley Av.

MILLER Christine
1003 Heberton Ave., Pittshurg, Pa.

MILLER Herbert
716 Fine Arts Bldg

MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn)
1. W. 34th St., New York

MILLER John B. (Tenor)
Chicago Musical College

MOSHER L. Drew
137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.

MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone)
1155 Belmon Ave

MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles)
446 W. 40th Place

MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest
31222) River Forest, Ill.

MULREY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist
47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.

MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4577
300 Athenaeum Bldg.

MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano)
4902 Friendship, Av.

MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano)
6000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)

MURRISON Harry R.
Alliance, Ohio.

NARELLE Marie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122)
1216 E. 53rd Street

NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano
Plymouth, Ind.

NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199)
237 North Howard Av., Austin

NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York)
330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)

NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5509)
4125 Drexel Blvd.

OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute)
303 Kimhall Hall (Phone Harrison 5919)

OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147)
2112 Washington Blvd.

PANGBOURNE Annette (Phone Harrison 2313)
619 Kimball Hall

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England)
Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Reg S

PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto)
Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.

PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.)
Toledo Musical College

PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246)
4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contralto)
Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.)
Winona School of Music

PROTHEROE Daniel
810 Fine Arts Bldg.

RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Bluilding

RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782)
1738 Humboldt Boulevard

RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor)
Barre Plains, Mass.

RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513
413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av

REED Esta Asher (Soprano)
Abroad for a season

REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165)
6627 Indiana Av.

REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg)
202 Nixon Building

RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.

RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall
6318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.

ROBBINS Edith Lucile (11th and R Sts.)
University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.

ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting)
1372 E. 52nd St.

ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877)
7205 Stewart Ave.

RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto)
Principal Liederhelm, Auburndale, Mass.

RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 2865)
719 Fine Arts Bldg.

RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448)
3100 Lexington St.

SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing
201 Clarendon St., Boston

SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano)
401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb,

SCHUSTER Katherine
71 Auditorium Bldg.

SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York)
Wolfsohn Bureau

SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 469)
408 Kimhall Hall,

SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner)
St. James Bldg., New York

SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano)
63 Auditorium Bldg.

SHELP Dr. H. Wm.
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor)
616 Kimball Hall

SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano)
4044 Indiana Av.

SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano)
6523 St. Lawrence Av.

SMIDT Mahle Corlew (Phone Austin 12717)
5943 Ohio St.

SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173)
626 Madison St., Gary, Ind.

SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano)
Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio

SPOONER Philip (New York),
205 W. 57th St.

STEELE Mary Hinman
603 Kimball Hall

STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh)
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.

STEEN Frank (Tenor)
304 Kimball Hall

STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48)
4439 Calumet Av.

STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977)
65 Auditorium Building

STEPHALI Sofia Phone Midway 5912)
6106 Kimbark Av.

STEVENSON Lucile
4438 Berkeley Avenne

STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923)
1134 E. 64th St.

STULTS Walter A. (Evanston)
Northwestern University School of Music

TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L.
Lewis Institute, Phone West 793

THATCHER Burton (Res. Phone Drexel 4861)
Chicago Musical College

THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano)
Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.

THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082)
620 Fine Arts Building

TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3766
Bush Temple Conservatory

TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor)
813 La Salle Av.

TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949)
404 Kimball Hall

VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799)
5611 Woodlawn Av.

WAIT Barhara (Phone Midway 2380)
428 Fine Arts Building

WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2968)
1325 E. 64th St.

WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Oak Park 4397)
206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.

WATSON Ruth Swing
:225 E. 62nd St.

WEAVER Iva Bigelow
Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.

WEBSTER Frank B.
715 Kimball Hall

WEGENER Mme. Justine
Rush Temple Conservatory

WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone)
61 Auditorium Bldg.

WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 5946)
Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal

WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 E 34th St., New York

WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 1807
728 Fine Arts Bldg.

WILCOX John C. (Teacher)
Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo

WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio)
616 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS Dr. Carver
(Samuel B. Garton) Auditorinm Bldg

WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey
406 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS H. Evan
Akron, Ohio

WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway
6107 Woodlawn Av.

WYNN Bessie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

WYCOFF Eva Emmet
500 W. 143rd, New York

YOUNG Walter S. (601 Carnegie Hall, New York)
Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.

ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778)
(1140 E. 44th St)

ZIMMERMAN Ooliata
72 Anditorinm Bld

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today
Before You Forget It

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.

LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic

(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

WILHELM BACHAUS

CHICAGO, AMERICA

NOVEMBER 7, 1913.

Voices Made Beautiful

Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00. Lessons by correspondence.

Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

Now Ready. Second Edition Cloth, 192pp. $1.00 Postage 8c
THE RECENT REVOLUTION IN ORGAN BUILDING
By George Laing Miller, F. R. C. O., Eng.
Shows how mechanism and tone production have completely changed. Many illustrations, biographies and portraits of inventors. Specifications and views of keyboards of notable organs in England, France and U. S., including Unit organs and the new Liverpool Cathedral
May be had from all Book and Music Sellers
The trade supplied by Lyon & Healy, A. C. McClurg & Co., Ditson, Schirmer, Gray, Presser, Baker & Taylor, Fischer, Nordheimer, Novello & Co., Ltd., or THE CHARLES FRANCIS PRESS 52B, 13th Street, New York.

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician
ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

Languages
The Berlitz School of Languages,
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

Bergey
CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

CHICAGO, NOVEMBER 7, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS
United States, per year, postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser, Business Representative

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

$6.50 Cash

and four $5.00 monthly payments will get this GUARANTEED Shopworn No. 7 BLICK TYPEWRITER

Worth $50.00

Traveling and professional men will find this machine a big help. It will make your private and personal correspondence less irksome. At home on trains—in hotels—anywhere.

Don't Miss This Opportunity

The number is limited—order now—Pay on delivery of machine.

Blickensderfer Mfg. Co. 121 N. Dearborn St.
Chicago, Ill.

All the Leading Artists
Are Featuring
Palmer John Clark's
New Song
Someday, Sometime
Published in four keys
Low in Eb Med. low in F Med. high in G High in Ab
For Sale Everywhere
GAMBLE HINGED MUSIC CO.
CHICAGO

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock

A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original. The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:

"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."

For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cent's Postpaid.

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT Sec.

OLD VIOLINS AND NEW
OUR CATALOGS WILL SAFELY GUIDE YOU ALL FREE
AUG. GEMÜNDER & SONS
42 EAST 23 ST. NEW YORK

DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

Music News

Vol. 5 Chicago, November 7, 1913 No. 45

Editorial

AS TO SCHOENBERG

The Schoenberg free advertising propaganda has gone on merrily all over the world, but when Chicago was reached it fell to the earth with a rather sickening thud.

Debussy has been found to possess a certain mystic power—a sort of eerie charm for many people—and Richard Strauss has long since been adjudged a master of vivid color and of unctuous humor. Schoenberg displayed, in the concert of the symphony orchestra of last week, a certain humor which has a flavor all his own and he disclosed also an imitative bent in the direction of Debussy.

This proved interesting and amusing for a few minutes—but, after that time, it grew deadly dull and, while the audience of Saturday evening was moved to hilarity by the first of the "Five Little Pieces for Orchestra," it soon lapsed into apathy and before the end of the last one a complete spirit of boredom had settled on the audience and there was scarcely interest enough to last through three of the numbers—to say nothing of five.

All this is quite as it should be—for the works are intolerably ugly as well as stupidly dull.

Every art must be centered around beauty if it is to attract and gratify the multitude, and beauty in music is, and ever must be found, in form, harmony and melody. Definiteness of form will never grow burdensome; beautiful harmony will never lose its charm and the appeal of the melody line is, and ever will be the chief asset in music.

To be sure, monotony has to be avoided and color must be applied more or less lavishly, but these things cannot with impunity be made the chief points of composition; they are essentially secondary, and even though each composer who has been progressive has been ridiculed by the current press and critic, it does not follow that all good taste and all judgment should be held in abeyance while the world stands still to consider and weigh the Abortion-Music of Schoenberg.

In a cubist picture, to use a parallel illustration, one may imagine he discovers a sane thought after a week of study—but, why waste the time, when the world is full of pictures which are frankly, outspokenly beautiful—or at least which deliver a message promptly?

And in music—why search through an ash heap for a possible lost gem? Why stir up a mud puddle for the sake of some imagined "shadings," when the blue sky and beautiful cloud effects are just as easy to secure?

To those who heard Schoenberg last week it is not necessary to describe the filthiness of the music or the intolerable insanity of the effects—but for those who did not hear, it may be said in all seriousness that the effect was that of indiscriminate pounding of the keys of a piano with no regard to form or melody; the squealing of a pen of hungry pigs; the moanings of a sick calf; the noise of escaping steam; the occasional shriek of a whistle and many more things of the earth, earthy, and of demon land, demoniac—and all this occasionally put into contrast with a few sweetly-drawn tones, a single fragment of harmony or melody, promptly smothered in a sea of slime.

If this be not prostitution of art, what is it? The critics of the daily press fought shy- more or less—of putting themselves on record as to this sickening music, evidently keeping well in mind the fate of those who opposed such prophets in music as Wagner—but there was nevertheless considerable vigorous writing on the subject and much humor expended. A few extracts are appended:

* * *

It is unjust to deny Schoenberg's music the possession of logic, order and symmetry, and it is folly to describe him as lacking in feeling. The conscientious reviewer can only admit that because this music is new in every respect it is impossible to apprehend fully its logic, its order, its symmetry. There are moments when it seems quite mad and altogether ridiculous.—The Tribune.

* * *

If there is anything more utterly monstrous, more hideous and more artistically squalid than the music which Mr. Stock and his performers gave forth when they performed Schoenberg's "Five Pieces" yesterday, it can only be some other composition by their creator or by one of his disciples. To regard the music in any other light must first of all involve the abjuration of every principle of beauty that has been known to composers since music was an art. Harmony and a tonality, as those things are understood of all the people, are something entirely different in Mr. Schoenberg's scheme. A cat walking down the keyboard of a piano could evolve a melody more lovely than any which came from the Viennese composer's inner consciousness.

It is, indeed, possible that although Schoenberg's ideas of music are utterly at variance with those of all sane people, his orchestral technique may open up fresh fields to composers who are searching for new effects. There are many new effects in the "Five Pieces," and although it was often precisely those things which moved Mr. Stock's listeners to stuff pocket handkerchiefs into their mouths and to roll helpless with laughter in their seats, they were frequently not without a certain fascination of their own.

Considering that he is a self-taught musician, Schoenberg has gone wonderfully far in the acquisition of technique. His orchestral writing, however grotesque it must have sounded to unfamiliar listeners, is re-

Valparaiso Music College

Department of

Valparaiso University

Second Largest University in the United States

VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President

OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER

SOLO VIOLINIST

Welsh International Festival

MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE

SOPRANO

Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils

5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN

PIANIST

8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE

CONTRALTO

Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL

TEACHER OF SINGING

STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON

BASSO-CANTANTE

Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency

416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496

Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers

VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION

METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE

Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL

The Art of Singing

81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday

Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER TEACHER

VIOLINIST RECITALS

Musicales

3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT

Contraito

Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

markable indeed. That which he demanded of instrumentalists had, in many cases, never been demanded of them before.—The Record Herald.

It would seem an easy matter to write music after the fashion of this composer. The difficult part would be to divorce one's self from all feeling of tonality. If this could be done, a doubtful matter, the formula would continue to construct a theme of the greatest possible angularity and awkwardness on each of the days of the week and put them together on Sunday without memory or care as to whether they harmonize or not.

This is exactly what Schoenberg has done. There is not the slightest trace of harmonization, only a succession of voices which continue without regard for themselves or each other. In many places he has thought best to write the parts far out of the range of the instruments. The high squeals of the clarinets are one of the distressing memories of the performance. At other times there is a sudden cessation of the growling and grunting and snorting, and a single 'cello note, of ineffable beauty compared to what comes before and after, is produced.—The Journal.

———♯♯♯———

AS TO AMERICAN MUSIC

In spite of the apathy of the public to American music, there still continues to be much activity among musicians themselves along the line of propaganda, and this is entirely correct. Reforms must ever come from the advanced thinkers in every line of endeavor and surely our trained musicians are the ones to lead the multitude.

Just so far as personality and selfishness can be put aside in such a movement, just so far will it be successful.

And it is most encouraging to see many signs just now that composers are trying to help each other. Artists are doing a like thing and each class is beginning to try to advance the claims of the other—for this will certainly result in the upbuilding of a genuine American school of musical art if kept up consistently and long enough.

Teachers are using American compositions. The MacBurney Studios, for instance, have just given their sixth song recital where all the numbers were by Americans, and best of all, by Chicagoans. This is certainly a most practical means by which the wheat may be winnowed from the chaff and the real values of the music be ascertained.

Concert givers are realizing more and more every day that the mutual helping hand is what we need in America and most programs this season contain some American compositions.

This week, Gadski included MacDowell generously in her program—though badly placed at the end—the very middle being the logical position. On Sunday Dora Heyman will play the same composer at her recital, and Rosa Olitzka includes a song of Lola Carrier Worrell in her recital. At a recent pupils' concert given by Mrs. Estelle Russell: Cadman, Aylward, Hawley, Clough-Leighter, Bond, Bartlett and Speaks were listed alongside Schubert, Tosti, Gounod, Handel and others very familiar on such programs.

Last Sunday Walter Spry introduced in the Faculty Concert of his school a splendid work of Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, and Mrs. Clarence Eddy sang a new song by Chadwick, thus dividing up the program between these Americans and such established favorites as Mendelssohn, Popper, Strauss (Richard) and Bach, while in a recital at the Congress Hotel, Mr. Alfred Hiles Bergen introduced in a comprehensive program the following Americans: Protheroe, Freer, Bergen, Downing, Loomis, Carpenter and Borowski—again improperly placed, as they should have been given the position of honor in the middle of the program.

All these are merely straws—perhaps no more indicative than in other years—but encouraging nevertheless.

However, two other programs are announced which are frankly for the purpose of making propaganda for American composers and artists, and they ought to prove of intense interest.

The programs to be given by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra on November 14 and 15 is not only made up of works by Parker, Chadwick, Foote, Herbert and Stock, but it is complimentary to the National Institute of Arts and Letters, which will be in session in Chicago at the time, and several of the composers (probably three) will be present to conduct in person their own works. Further, the MacDowell "Concerto" in D minor will be played at the same concerts by Edith Thompson, an American, and a pupil of Mr. Chadwick.

Closely following this the orchestra will play, under the baton of Glenn Dillard Gunn, a program at Orchestra Hall, on Tuesday evening, November 18, when all the works will be American, and all the soloists of Chicago. Mae Doelling will play the same MacDowell "Concerto" heard the week before. Mr. Felber, a young violinist of the orchestra, wholly Chicago taught, will play a wonderful new violin "Concerto" by young Mr. Sowerby, a pupil of Arthur Olaf Andersen at the American Conservatory, this youth being but eighteen and wholly developed musically in Chicago, and the program will contain further an overture by Eric DeLamarter, a local teacher and critic; a "Symphonic Poem" by Mr. Colburn of the orchestra and the "Woodland Suite" by MacDowell.

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

THE CHICAGO OPERA COMPANY

Definite information as to the complete plans of the Opera Company has not been given out officially, but enough has been told to prove that the company is at last to be entirely freed from connection with the East, and that it will be in the future wholly and absolutely a Chicago institution, disregarding the East and making its appearances other than Chicago in the West.

It is said that all of the stock has been acquired by Chicagoans.

This is extremely gratifying and Chicago is proud to know that the company now belongs to this city exclusively, and that its rising success will be another of the means by which we shall rapidly reach a top notch place in the music of the world.

At various times Chicago business men and lovers of music have done magnificent service to the art and have built up various organizations which have gone far to give us solid prestige in music all over the world, a notable case being our famous orchestra.

It will be no less creditable to Charles G. Dawes, Harold McCormick and the other directors and stockholders of the Chicago Opera Company to have placed this magnificent enterprise securely in this city and to have guided and cared for its destinies during its formative period. The establishment of a fine opera company was the one thing we lacked, the great thing we needed, and all honor should be accorded to those who, in a business way, made it possible.

———♯♯♯———

AS TO "DICTION" AGAIN

(A Contributed Editorial)

Inasmuch as the work in which I am specializing is named "Lyric Diction," I feel called upon to respond to the article under the word "Diction," published in Music News of October 24.

We acknowledge that Webster defines "Diction" as "a choice of words for the expression of ideas"; but I am sure that if he had had our need of this most valuable word, he would not have hesitated in using it in a more comprehensive sense, since he knew probably better than anyone else that the development of a word spells advancement in educational life.

A word is, after all, only a means of expressing an idea, a tool, as it were; and if we can find a larger use than our forefathers imagined, it is not only our privilege, but our duty to allow its development.

A dictionary is but an historical record of the use of words, it is by no means a deterrent of word evolution.

As a means of justification of our use of the word "diction," note the name of the 1913 authoritative book. We call it a diction(ary) because it is an "inventory of our language." It is a collection of words arranged in some definite classified form, with explanations as to the derivation of each word, its full definition, together with full directions as to enunciation, articulation, and general pronunciation. If a book that serves this purpose is called a "dictionary," are we not justified in the same use of the word for oral and vocal utterance?

EFFA ELLIS
Keyboard Harmony
Melody Building and
Teaching System
Mean Rapid, Definite Reasoning, Based on the TRUTH Brief and Simple. Write about Special Modulation Course
EFFA ELLIS
204-5 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

Dictio is from the Latin and means "a word."

Dictare, "to speak."

Dictum, the authoritative speech, or word of law.

Dictate, to give audible expression to a formulated idea.

Dictator, one who speaks with authority.

Diction, as a derivation of the foregoing, should rightly have some reference to vocal utterance. It surely was deviating from its parent word in Webster's time if they found so small a use for it that it only meant to them "a choice of words." With this small use it would soon become obsolete. Many as good a word has died for the want of developed and general usage.

"Vocabulary" is a better word than "diction" for "a choice of words," because after all one can only choose such words as he has in his vocabulary. This word does not necessarily involve correct pronunciation, i. e., a foreigner speaking our language might have a wide "choice of words" because of his practical knowledge of words and their meaning in our language. He may have a fine "vocabulary" even though he fall woefully short in true phonetic expression, which is really authoritative diction.

I plead for the larger use of the word. We need it sadly because we have no other word that could, by any stretch of the imagination, cover so comprehensive an idea.

Enunciation and articulation would not serve the purpose because they are specific, even though the dictionaries are rather "hazy" about the definition of each. There should be no question as to the meaning of the word "articulation" since it refers to the possibility of action, and since consonants are the actions of speech the word "articulation" must refer to consonants only. The word "enunciation" (itself made up largely of vowels) has reference to pure vowelization.

"Pronunciation" includes both articulation and enunciation plus stress or accent. It means correct phonation of a single word, and for this reason it will not serve our larger purpose.

"Diction" serves this purpose most efficiently because (by right of birth) it means authoritative speech involving purity of vowel, definiteness of consonant, correct pronunciation, correct use of words and correct phrasing; and since it is authoritative speech it must be correct in every detail.

KATHERINE SCHUSTER.

———♯♯♯———

TWO APPRECIATIONS

My Dear Mr. Watt: I wish to say "thank you" for the new column in Music News. "Music to Come" column will be genuinely helpful to both concert givers and goers. Sincerely,

KATHERINE SCHUSTER.

♮ ♮ ♮

Music News is in receipt of the following letter:

I beg to acknowledge receipt of the Minneapolis Orchestra and Auditorium cut used for your special October number. I wish to take occasion to express not only our satisfaction with the manner in which the ad was set up, but also to congratulate you on the splendid issue. It was most interesting and effectively gotten up and without doubt will make many new friends for the Music News and its esteemed editor. Yours very truly,

CARLO FISCHER.

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studebaker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. 616 Fine Arts B'dg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - NEWMAN Baritone
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
...A TUNG - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
...Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists ... proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not ... accompanies but inspires -makes not mars-the soloist, enabling ... to bring out his best. 1246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
Management Alma Voedisch, 3836 Wilton Av., Chicago

Music in Chicago

SPRY MUSIC SCHOOL

The first faculty concert of the Walter Spry Music School took place in the Fine Arts Theater on last Sunday afternoon and was an affair of absorbing interest to the very large and equally enthusiastic audience.

The program was compiled with great skill and presented very beautifully.

The "Trio" Op. 11, by Beethoven, and the one Op. 99, by Schubert, opened and closed the program respectively and gave an air of distinction and solidity which was made absolute through the fine playing of Alexander Krauss, violin; Karl Klammsteiner, 'cello, and Walter Spry, pianist.

MRS. CLARENCE EDDY

Mr. Krauss, in the Mendelssohn "Concerto" again proved himself a fine solo player, though the ensemble with the piano accompaniment was not perfect and Mr. Klammsteiner in the tiresome "Dedication," by Popper, and the effective "Serenade," by Rimsky-Korsakow, showed himself a fine artist on the 'cello.

Mr. Spry presented one number only, but this was such a distinct novelty and it was played so admirably as to prove one of the features of the young concert season.

Mrs. H. H. A. Beach in her "Variations on Balkan Themes" (Op. 60), has taken rather unpromising thematic material and has built up from it a piano piece of great strength and beauty and one affording brilliant opportunities for the display of both musical feeling and virtuoso technic. Mr. Spry brought these in equal quantities to its reading, and rarely indeed is a neater or cleaner piece of work presented from the purely technical standpoint, while at every moment of the interpretation musical significance was also present in abundance.

Mrs. Clarence Eddy, a contralto, known widely throughout the country, made her initial Chicago appearance at this time, being supported by the masterful accompaniments of Mr. Eddy, and she too chose to present an important American composition, the "Aghadoe," by G. W. Chadwick.

Mrs. Eddy has been suffering from a serious cold and it may be that the control of her voice was not quite at normal, but its quality proved to be magnificent and her public appearance and interpretative powers are admirable.

Her voice is a very powerful one with astonishing breadth and resonance in the extreme low tones, while it also has a remarkable range upward and it is produced smoothly throughout.

"Aghadoe" is a dramatic splash, very difficult both technically and in the dramatic interpretation it requires, but it was read by Mrs. Eddy in a thoroughly convincing manner, and of those who heard it many singers will be eager to place it on recital programs.

For second group Mrs. Eddy sang wholly in German and easily proved herself mistress of the language as well as of the sentiments expressed by Bach and Strauss in the songs "Bist du bei mir" and "Allerseelen," works of widely different content, but both interpreted delightfully.

"O weine nicht" (Anon), proved to be a legato melody of unusual charm and it was given with distinguished simplicity of style and effect by Mrs. Eddy. C. E. W.

HELENE KOELLING'S RECITAL

On Sunday afternoon of November 16 Helene Koelling will give a recital in the Illinois Theater under the management of Carl D. Kinsey. Mme. Koelling was a member of the Manhattan Opera Company and also sang the leading coloratura roles for the Montreal Grand Opera Company during its first season. She has had much experience on the operatic stage, having appeared several seasons in Germany and Austria. Mme. Koelling understands the meaning of hard work, her engagements abroad calling for as high as seventy-two appearances in leading roles in one season. She has always been a diligent and painstaking student, having studied several years with Gerster, Marchesi, as well as masters of other schools. Mme. Koelling is quite a linguist, as she reads, writes and

Helene Koelling
Prima Donna Soprano
Montreal Grand Opera Co.
Recital, Illinois Theater, Chicago
Sunday Afternoon, November 16th
Management
CARL D. KINSEY, Chicago

sings in German, Italian, French and English.

She comes of musical parentage, her mother, a pupil of the elder Lamperti, having been a well known prima donna in Europe during her day. Mme Koelling's father is Karl Koelling, the well known composer of orchestral music. Her voice is one of rare beauty, wide range and of great flexibility, and as she is an artist of true musicianship much is expected of her recital.

CHICAGO CONCERT QUARTET

The Chicago Concert Quartet attracted a fine audience to the Colonial Club in Oak Park on last Friday evening and delighted every one present with the quality of their ensemble as well as by the excellence of the solo offerings.

Permelia Gale, a contralto, with most luscious voice and a charming personality, sang the great contralto solo from "Samson and Delilah" (Saint-Saens), and carried the audience by storm. Rarely indeed is more perfect artistry associated with a voice of such natural charm.

Miss Mary Ann Kaufman repeated her brilliant successes scored everywhere she has sung the great aria from "Traviata" and again proved the splendor of her voice and her great technical finish which makes her work notable.

Mr. Grant Kimbell, a singer of refinement and great musical charm, sang Coleridge Taylor's "Onaway, Awake" with splendid poise and artistic finish while Miss Kaufman was joined by Mr. Frank Dunford in "A Musical Dialogue," a work by Meyer-Helmund, showing the splendid voice and broad style of Mr. Dunford, as also emphasizing the fine points of Miss Kaufman's work. All these numbers were encored and excellent choice of second pieces was made in every case.

The quartet numbers from "Rigoletto" and "Martha" (Spinning Wheel), again proved the great finish and the fine ensemble of the four singers and the "Nonsense Songs," by Liza Lehmann, provided a half hour of unalloyed delight in which each singer had a prominent part, and the work of Mr. Carl D. Kinsey as coach and accompanist came strongly to the fore as well.

HELENE KOELLING

The very interesting program to be given by Helene Koelling at the Illinois Theater on Sunday afternoon, November 16, under direction of Carl D. Kinsey, reads as follows:

Part 1

Quel Ruscelletto ..... Paradies
Deh Vieni non Tardar ..... Mozart
Sortita D'Ofelia ..... Faccio

Part 2

Variations ..... Proch

Part 3

Auf Die Nicht ..... Hans Huber
Der Tag Wird Kalt ..... Hans Huber
Das Mitleidige Madel ..... Erich Wolff
Pan ..... Richard Trunk

Part 4

Mainacht ..... Brahms
An Die Nachtigall ..... Schubert
Am Bache ..... Dvorak
Heimkehr ..... Strauss
Inmitten Des Balles ..... Tschaikowsky
Auftrage ..... Schumann

Part 5

To a Hidden Violet ..... Mary Helen Brown
Pierrot ..... Dagmar Rubner
Come, Sweet Morning ..... A. L.

ROSA OLITZKA

Mme. Rosa Olitzka, contralto, will make her only Chicago appearance this season in song recital at The Studebaker, next Sunday afternoon, November 9, at 3:30, under the management of F. Wight Neumann. Following is the program:

Pieta Signora ..... Stradella
Aufenthalt ..... Schubert
Nussbaum ..... Schumann
Volksliedchen ..... Schumann
Aria: Scene of Andromache from "Achilleus" ..... Max Bruch
Scherzo B flat minor ..... Chopin

A. Leon Bloom

Die Uhr ..... Loewe
Zueignung ..... Richard Strauss
Das Verlassene Magdelein ..... Wolff
Er ist's ..... Wolff
Wind and Lyre ..... Harriet Ware
Synnove's Song ..... Kjerulf
Song of the Chimes ..... Carrier Worrell
Old Russian Song ..... Sillote
Jeunes Fillettes ..... Weckerlin

THE ILLINOIS COLLEGE OF MUSIC

A large audience gathered in Central Park Presbyterian Church, Sacramento boulevard and Warren avenue, last Tuesday evening, to enjoy the concert given by members of the faculty of the Illinois College of Music, which is under the direction of C. W. Edwards.

Mr. Ralph M. Gerber opened the program with two beautiful selections on the organ and later in the evening he played Guilmant's "March Nuptial." In this number Mr. Gerber was heard to best advantage and had to respond with an encore. His playing at this concert was above the highest expectations of his most ardent admirers.

Mr. Ralph Reiche, a young violinist possessing all the qualities necessary for a successful career, was heard in the "Hungarian Dance" by Fabani.

Miss Marie Edwards, the well-known pianist, played two numbers, "Sous Bois" (Staub) and "Etude de Concert" (MacDowell), in a way that brought forth hearty applause, which compelled her to return to the piano with an encore. Her playing Tuesday evening again proved the fact that she is one of the best young pianists in Chicago at the present time.

Albert Leo Preiser, accompanied by Mrs Preiser, were heard in a Godard "Sonata" for violin and piano. Mr. Preiser draws a pure solid tone from his instrument and there is about his playing a strong manly feeling which calls for closest attention from his hearers. His playing was one of the treats of the evening.

Miss Ida Moore, a reader with good voice and style, gave several readings during the program which were greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Gounod's "Hymn to St. Cecelia," a trio for violin, organ and piano, was well played by Miss Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Preiser, and with the assistance of Ralph Reiche, the program was brought to a close by the playing of "Love Dreams" by Liszt, arranged for two violins, piano and organ. It was indeed a fitting climax to a fine program.

H. M. B.

Bengel—Mrs. Helen Bright-Bengel opens her concert season with an appearance in Bloomington, Ill., tonight, in connection with Mabel Woodworth and Edgar Nelson.

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4365

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

MAE Doelling Pianist Teacher
4141 N. Hermitage Av.

SINAI TEMPLE CONCERT

Seventeen hundred people were in attendance at Sinai Temple on last Sunday evening and the enthusiasm was such as would have gladdened the heart of the most exacting prima donna in a down town recital.

Beyond any question, the Dunham Sunday night concerts have been adopted by southsiders in good earnest and constant success of the series is assured.

Other engagements made it possible on last Sunday night to hear only the last two numbers, but the program in full was one of great beauty and was admirably given throughout.

Mr. Albert Borroff was the soloist and besides giving an aria with orchestra he was heard in a splendidly selected group of short songs.

"The Sky Above the Roof" (Williams), a favorite song of Mr. Borroff, is really immensely effective in a quiet way, and "The Cold Winds Blow," by Sullivan, affords much opportunity for artistry.

The "Barrack Ballad" by Kipling-Bell is a famous number of the Borroff repertoire, and it had been heard on previous occasions when the impression made was a very great one. On Sunday night, however, it was simply stunning in the reading accorded and especially in view of the extra splash of color provided by the introduction of a drum obligato, an idea evolved by Mr. Borroff himself, and extremely effective.

Mr. Borroff is a genuine actor and not only in this "Barracks" number was he definitely impressive, but also in the "Three for Jack" he again showed what real humor, applied in a thoroughly artistic way, will do with an audience, while for final encore he sang a suave little song—purely lyric in character—with such beauty of vocal values as to further emphasize the fact, already proven, that he is a singer of infinite charm and variety.

C. E. W.

RUSSELL SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The second faculty concert of the Russell School of Music and Dramatic Art took place at the Calvary M. E. Church, Seventy-eighth and Morgan streets, on last Thursday evening and again proved that Mr. Russell has been thoroughly wise in the choice of his associates.

Mr. Guy C. Allen and Miss Erma Wilson were the pianists of the concert, both of them displaying technical fluency and musical taste. Mr. Allen gave the Bach-Oldberg "Prelude and Fugue in A Minor" and the G "Nocturne" (Chopin) excellently, and Miss Wilson was heard to much advantage in the Leschetizky "Lucia" arrangement, the C Sharp Minor "Prelnde" by Rachmaninoff and MacDowell "Shadow Dance" and "Polonaise," the latter being a work but seldom played, but so effective and so fine that it is a wonder all pianists do not adopt it for a closing number.

Miss Clare Livingstone, a singer of excellent appearance and fine training, gave a group by Fischer, Cadman and Hildach for her first offering, and for the second was heard with great delight to the audience in "Love and Eternity" (Morgan), a big song which was sung in splendid style and "Black-Eyed Susan" and "Cuckoo Clock," by G. A. Grant-Schaefer, these being so well liked that another from the same pen was added for encore. Mr. Grant-Schaefer played her accompaniments.

Mr. David Jacobs, of fine appearance but lacking in stage manners, played some violin numbers very beautifully, excelling especially in the piquant "Canzonetta" by d' Ambrosio, and Miss Elsie E. Zichy, a reader of much charm, wasted her opportunity in part by giving a trashy, slangy and tedious football story, this evidently being her idea of the proper concession to popular taste. For encore she read a little poem by Carrie Jacobs-Bond, which she gave with rare simplicity of style and wonderful effect. It was worth twenty of the other kind of pieces.

C. E. W.

GRANT KIMBELL

Grant Kimbell is one of Chicago's busy tenors this season. Besides filling the position as soloist in the quartets at the First Congregational Church of Oak Park, and the B'Nai Sholam Temple Israel of Chicago, he is a member of the Chicago Concert Quartet, and teaches in the Fine Arts Building.

Some of Mr. Kimbell's dates in conjunction with the Concert Quartet and as soloist are as follows:

October 11—West Side Co-educational Club with quartet.

October 31—Colonial Club, Oak Park, with quartet.

November 11—Oak Park Club, Oak Park, with quartet.

November 9—Englewood Presbyterian Church, soloist.

November 16—Calvary Episcopal Church, soloist.

November 19—Bach Choral Society, Chicago, soloist.

November 27—"Holy City," Chicago.

December 16—Joint recital, South Bend, Ind.

December 17—"Messiah," Albion, Mich.

March 17, 1914—Rogers Park Club, soloist.

Seagle—Mr. Oscar Seagle of Paris will be in Chicago for ten days, dating from November 10. Many friends will wish to see him and also pupils will find this an advantageous time to take a few lessons. Definite announcement of his plans may be secured from Gustaf Holmquist, 304 Kimball Hall, or at the Music News office.

Lutton.—Charles E. Lutton sang at the Swedish Mission Church in Edgewater in recital on November 5. He was assisted by Mr. Frank Earnest. Miss Hogfelt played the accompaniments.

SOME VISITORS

Music News was favored by several visitors last week, each of whom had something very interesting to say.

Hugo Goodwin, the extremely talented young organist and composer, who has just returned from a year in Europe, came first and he certainly proved that he went abroad with an open heart and mind and that he has brought back a fund of unusual and very useful knowledge.

Asked about his visits to the May Mansfield Studios he told very entertainingly of her Monday afternoon public classes, when, throughout the year she invites the public to meet her pupils and to see a little of their work, taking care always that many notables are present and that all Americans in Paris shall be especially invited. Miss Mansfield was described by Mr. Goodwin as a most charming hostess and a remarkable teacher.

He told also of an evening spent in listening to the pupils of Mme. Marie Roze in a performance of acts from various operas and thus disclosed the fact that this once famous prima donna is still an important factor in the pedagogic life of Paris—a fact truly which is unknown to many in Chicago where at one time Marie Roze had numerous personal friends, her husband of many years ago having been Jules Perkins, a famous young baritone, brother of Dr. H. S. Perkins, who still lives in this city. Jules Perkins, a member of the Mapleson Opera Company in London, and very famous in that city, died many years ago.

Mr. Goodwin related also his experiences with Mlle. Cecile Chaminade and repeated many interesting things told him by the vivacious Frenchwoman, who cordially detests ultra-modern music and has a fund of humorous information on the subject. Mr. Goodwin has promised to write, in the form of an interview for Music News in the near future the comments of Mlle. Chaminade on this subject.

Second visitor was Dr. Frederick Clark, also very lately from Paris where he has been studying with his famous brother, Charles W. Clark, whom he greatly resembles. Dr. Clark will open a studio in Chicago, where he will be associated with his brother during this season and where he expects to remain permanently.

Dr. Clark has also but recently attended Monday functions at the Mansfield Studios and he also speaks of Miss Mansfield as a fine teacher. Her work with the daughter of Charles W. Clark the past season has been particularly successful and the results were noted in a recent number of Music News.

The third visitor was Gordon Campbell, known by everybody in the music profession in Chicago as an accompanist par excellence and who has returned to America to accompany Charles W. Clark on tour after having been his studio and concert accompanist abroad for a year and a half, besides thoroughly establishing himself as an independent teacher in Paris.

Mr. Campbell is a most observant young man and can talk entertainingly on all subjects which have come under his eye. His

Thomas N. MacBurney

Baritone Voice Production Song Recitals

Three years assistant to King Clark

508-609 Fine Arts Bldg. Chicago Phone Harrison 6880

North Shore School of Music
Broadway and Leland Ave.
The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul
ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated) TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868
CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

trip through Spain was a particularly agreeable and novel experience and he can tell of the life of that country as few travelers can do.

He heard naturally many concerts in Paris and some opera. He prefers the classic composers to the moderns and was not largely impressed with "Pelleas and Melisande" at the Paris opera.

He heard Mary Garden in "Salome" and "Traviata" there, which seems a strange choice to a Chicagoan for, while the one audience which saw her "Salome" in Chicago still remembers it vividly there are few here who could imagine her in "Traviata." However, the prospect of her death scene is alluring.

The other two visitors came together, just as they go everywhere, for Cecil Fanning and H. B. Turpin are inseparable in reality and also in the estimation of that immense public which has grown to consider their joint artistry as something very unusual. They, too, have been abroad, and Mr. Fanning has scored very pronounced triumphs in many European cities, and undoubtedly stands higher today in the estimation of Europe than can be boasted by many young Americans.

Mr. Fanning is always looking for English text songs and he is incessantly presenting novelties of one kind and another. He writes poems as well as sings songs, and with Mr. Turpin at the piano, he gives programs which cover wide range of vocal and dramatic virtuosity.

Mr. Fanning and Mr. Turpin appeared this week in Minneapolis and Indianapolis and their bookings for the season are of remarkable range and value, including six solid weeks in New York, where they will appear under numerous auspices.

C. E. W.

CHICAGO GRAND OPERA COMPANY

On the record of the past and the interesting promise for the future, the season sale for grand opera at the Auditorium has surpassed all previous records and there has been more money cashed in at this time than there has been heretofore at the opening of the season. Such subscription volume argues well for the success of the organization in an awakened public spirit to worthily sustain an institution embodying the highest ideals as an artistic factor in the community.

It is particularly gratifying to observe that the music lovers have taken advantage of the reduced prices for season seats in the balconies and galleries. The sale in all the important sections of the upper house has been excellent.

The Chicago Grand Opera Company has now almost its full quota of principals, barring those that come for special engagements or go on the Pacific coast tour, rallied in Philadelphia for preliminary service. General Director Campanini has not only his lieutenant directors busy with the large orchestra, but all the minor officials are receiving instruction in their roles, preparatory to the general rehearsals that will start next week. In addition to the standard repertoire, Philadelphia is to get a taste of the novelties that the enterprising director has secured for the delectation of his clientele this season. The beauteous Carolina White, with her love for fine feathers, was stripped of her plumage by the custom officials, despite her protests that the land of freedom was robbing the artiste of her tools of trade. By the same token, the ever alert Mary Garden came into the country, leaning upon a lady's cane, garbed so wonderfully that the costume experts were baffled in trying to describe her; carrying a new variety of dog that yelped sotto voce in two keys—so that the Quaker City now entertains the finest assortment of artistic temperaments that the old and new world can furnish. Much is expected of the new singers for this season; and it is a matter for pride and interest that so many of them are of American birth.

CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Other than the Schoenberg monstrosities—told of elsewhere in this issue the programs of last week consisted of the Beethoven "Symphony" No. 1 and the Brahms No. 2—works of glorious import, both of which seemed of heavenly beauty when thus brought into contrast with Schoenberg, this being the only use for his music which it is possible to endorse.

The program for the current week will introduce Fritz Kreisler in violin "Concertos" by Vivaldi and Tschaikowsky and the orchestra will play the "Water Carrier" overture by Cherubini, the "Moorish Rhapsody" by Humperdinck and "Life's Dance" by Delius.

The interesting "American" program for November 14 and 15 reads as follows:

March of Homage (Huldigungsmarch).....Wagner
A Northern Ballad, Opus 46.....Horatio W. Parker
Dramatic Overture, "Melpomene" ..... George W. Chadwick
Concerto for pianoforte No. 2, D minor, Op. 23.... ..... Edward MacDowell
Larghetto calmato
Presto giocoso
Largo—Molto allegro

INTERMISSION

Four Character Pieces, Opus 48.....Arthur Foote
Prelude to Act III, "Natoma" .....Victor Herbert
Festival March and Hymn to Liberty ..... Frederick Stock

EDWARD CLARKE

The following is a clipping from the Englewood Times after Mr. Clarke's appearance at the Englewood Woman's Club:

"Monday morning was spent listening to an enjoyable lecture-recital, 'The Art of Song,' given by Mr. Edward Clarke, baritone, and his excellent accompanist, Miss Esther Hirschberg. Mr. Clarke traced the development of song from its earliest form, mere sounds, the association of sounds with definite objects or emotions, from whence came language, language in turn divided itself into language of the street, the conversation and the written prose; prose glorified soon developed blank verse; then poetry; and, the last word, song when poetry wedded itself to music. The later German school first manifested itself through folk songs, church music, lieds and ultimately the art song, which, as Mr. Clarke explained, was the intelligent expression of beautiful words and meanings through beautiful music. To illustrate the ever growing power of music to delineate fine shades of feeling, songs from Schubert, Schumann and Brahms were sung. 'The Erlking' was perhaps the most familiar, and its rendition masterly. Mr. Clarke's vocal selections and interpretations formed a happy combination." (Advertisement.)

GRINNELL SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The first faculty recital of the year at Grinnell was given Friday, October 24, by Sarah Innes MacDonald, pianist, and Mr. Marcel Roger de Bouzon, baritone.

PROGRAM

Erlkonig ..... Schubert
Mr. de Bouzon
Impromptu, Op. 51 ..... Chopin
Etude, Op. 10, No. 12 ..... Chopin
Miss MacDonald
In wunderschonen Monat Mai ....
Aus meinen Tranen spriessen ....
Die Rose, die Lilie, die Taube ....
Wenn ich in deine Augen seh..... Schumann
Ich habe in Traum geweinet .....
Allnachtlich im Traume .....
Mr. de Bouzon
First Modern Suite ..... MacDowell
Praeludium
Presto
Andantino and Allegretto
Intermezzo
Fugue
Miss MacDonald
Standchen .....
Liebestreu ..... Brahms
Sonntag .....
Wie bist du meine Konigin .....
Mr. de Bouzon
Am Seegestade ..... Smetana
Melodie, Op. 3, No. 3. ..... Rachmaninoff
Staccato Caprice ..... Friml
Miss MacDonald
Der Tambour ..... Hugo Wolf
Allerseelen ..... Richard Strauss
Romance ..... Claude Achille Debussy
Mandoline ..... Claude Achille Debussy
Mr. de Bouzon
Three original folksongs of Hungary—
Volt nekem szep Kedvesem
Szoke, kisslany, csitt, csitt, csitt
Zsidolanyak nem szabadmar magyar gavallerot cszerenti
Mr. de Bouzon

MATINS MUSICALES

Mu Phi Epsilon sorority held their second concert of the season Wednesday morning, October 29, in Recital Hall, 624 Michigan avenue. These musicales are a leading social event as well as very interesting musically. The singers heard were Ellen Raymer, Ruth Sharp and Harriett Smulski. Numbers for two pianos "Morning" and

DELMA-HEIDE
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris
MAESTO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE
ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Anditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. Hyde
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
Studio 521 Kimball Hall, Tues. and Fri. Res. 6611 Woodlawn Av

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

CHARLOTTE LOUISE PETTIBONE
Piano Accompanying Instruction
224 North Prairie Av., Austin, Chicago

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

"Night," by Chaminade, were played by Daisy Jones and Susie Ford in a very artistic manner, and was one of the interesting parts of the program. Minnie Cedargreen, violinist, was heard in "Summer Morning Serenade" by Drdla, and "Evening Song" by Schumann. Her playing deserves special mention in that her numbers were beautifully and faultlessly rendered. H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

AMATEUR MUSICAL CLUB

The patrons of the Amateur Musical Club enjoyed a well arranged and most interesting program last Monday afternoon in the assembly room of the Fine Arts Building. It is also well to say that the social hour following the program was in the form of a reception to the president, Mrs. Moore.

Miss Helen B. Lawrence opened the program with the piano numbers: "Poeme" (Scriabine), "Isolde's Liebestod" (Wagner-Liszt), and "Gnomenreigen" (Liszt). Miss Lawrence was most gracious to her audience by playing in a charming manner and with surety of technic her portion of the program.

Harrison M. Wild in his talk on "Affairs Choral" says the success of choral music in the future lies in co-operation, some offering their services, others their patronage.

Eric De Lamarter in his talk on "The Creative Listener" says what we need in our concert halls today is not so much the creator of music, but appreciative listeners.

Rossetter G. Cole told in a few words what the American Guild of Organists was accomplishing in the way of raising the standard of musicianship throughout the country and better music in the churches.

Edward C. Moore's talk on "The Composer in Modern Music" was most interesting at this time because of the recent playing of music by Schoenberg by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Charles E. Nixon gave a prospectus of the Chicago grand opera season which led his hearers to expect and believe the coming season of opera will be the best and most interesting of any in the history of the organization.

Sibyl Sammis MacDermid, the charming soprano, with the sympathetic support of the piano by Edith Bowyer Whiffin, was chosen to close the afternoon's program. Mrs. MacDermid, with all the power of her personality and excellent voice, sang an arioso by Delibes, "Le Papillon et la Fleur" by Faure, "Traum durch die Dammerung" by Strauss, and "Cacilie" by Strauss.

H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

SHERWOOD SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The Sherwood School of Music presented to a small but enthusiastic audience Mr. G. Magnus Schutz, baritone, and Mr. Herbert Kirchner, violinist, in an informal recital last Saturday afternoon at the school's home in the Fine Arts Building. Mr. Kirchner, a young violinist who is planning to go abroad soon for further study, gave a good account of himself and was well received. Mr. Schutz was in good voice and a jovial mood and his singing of numbers by Lully, Strauss, Schubert, Protheroe and MacDowell were especially well done and furnished a real treat to his hearers. H. M. B.

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Friday, November 7

Orchestra Hall, 2:15. Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Saturday, November 8

Kimball Hall, 3:30. Concert, Kurt Wanieck, Hans Hess, Ramon Girvin.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Sunday, November 9

Studebaker Theater, 3:30. Song recital; Rosa Olitzka.

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30. Song recital; Alice Nielsen.

Auditorium, 3:00. "Creation;" Apollo Club.

North Side Turner Hall, 3:00. First concert; the Boeppler Symphony Orchestra, Mabel Sharp Herdien, soloist.

Howard Theater, 3:00. Dora Heyman, piano recital.

Lincoln Turner Hall, 3:00. Ballmann Orchestra.

Sinai Temple, 8:15. Dunham Orchestra concert; Alexander Krauss, soloist.

Sunday, November 16

Illinois Theater, 3:30. Song recital; Helene Koelling.

Monday, November 17

Auditorium, 8:15. "Elijah;" Apollo Club.

Wednesday, November 19

Association Auditorium, 8:15. Bach Choral Society; orchestra soloists, Herdien, Johnson, Kimbell.

Thursday, November 20

New First Congregational Church, 8:15. Choir festival; Harrison Wild, Mable Corlew-Smidt, Lucy J. Hartman, Treble Clef Chorus.

Friday, November 21

New First Congregational Church, 8:15. Gaul's "Holy City;" united choirs and soloists.

Wednesday, November 26

The Auditorium, 8:15. Opening of the Chicago Grand Opera season.

———♯♯♯———

Johnson—Raymond Johnson, stage manager of the Chicago Little Theater (a term which in that diminutive playhouse includes electrician, scene shifter, stage carpenter, scene painter, property man and universal utilitarian) has won considerable distinction as one of the most promising among the younger futurist painters of America. He is a pupil of Nordfeldt and the first three pictures he ever submitted to an exhibition were hung on the line last year at the Swedish Club of Chicago. The first of the American post-impressionists to bring his attention to stage decoration, he has proved at the Chicago Little Theater that given the right surroundings, a free hand and a theatrical manager who is not terrified at beauty, America is quite capable of producing stage decorators who can hold their own even with such men as Craig and Reinhardt.

———♯♯♯———

Wengerd.—Mr. Charles Wengerd, who has a good vocal class at the Drake School of Music in Chicago, also spends one day each week at the Branch School at Kankakee. Mr. Wengerd has accepted the position as director of the Chorus Choir at the First Methodist Church at Pontiac, Ill., a very important and pleasant post to fill.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH
AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST
In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.
Address after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.
San Francisco Sierra News:
"A musician o wonderful power."

MISS NIELSEN'S PROGRAM

Miss Alice Nielsen, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York, will present the following program at her recital to be given in the Fine Arts Theater next Sunday afternoon under the direction of Wessels & Voegeli:

"O cessate di piagarmi" ..... A. Scarlatti
"Care Selve" ..... Mandel
"Perles" ..... Sinding
"Dors chere Prunelle" ..... Bjorgren
"Ouvre tes yeux bleus" ..... Massenet
Chant Venitien ..... Bemberg
"Du bist die ruhe" ..... Schubert
"Loreley" ..... Liszt
"Wiegenlied" ..... Brahms
"Rotschaft" ..... Brahms
"L'invitation au voyage" ..... Duparc
Chanson triste ..... Duparc
Gavotte from "Manon" ..... Massenet
"The Lark Now Leaves Its Watery Nest" ..... Parker
"The Leaves and the Wind" ..... Leoni
"When Love Is Kind"—Old English
"Fairy Pipers" ..... Brewer
"Un bel di" from "Madame Butterfly" ..... Puccini

APOLLO CLUB

This Sunday afternoon at 3:30 the Apollo Musical Club of 300 singers gives a single performance of Haydn's "Creation" in the Auditorium Theater. It has been more than ten years since the "Creation" was last sung in its entirety in Chicago, and this revival is looked forward to with interest. The solo artists announced to sing are Florence Hinkle, soprano; William Wheeler, tenor, and Herbert Witherspoon, bass. There will be an orchestra of sixty musicians. Edgar Nelson will preside at the organ and Harrison M. Wild will be the conductor of all the forces.

One week from next Monday night, at 8:15, the Apollo Musical Club will give a single performance of Mendelssohn's wonderful choral work, "Elijah," in the Auditorium Theater. Aside from the four solo artists already announced, a professional choir of sixteen singers will assist, as well as a professional ladies' trio and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

EDWARD CLARKE MUSICALE

Edward Clarke gave a Halloween musicale at his home, 852 Windsor avenue, Saturday evening, November 1. As this was the first musicale the Clarkes have given in their new home, it was sort of a housewarming affair and the rooms were beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and ferns. Mrs. Clarke, the violinist, played several numbers in her charming manner, and the others taking part were Mr. John D. Barber, baritone soloist of the First Baptist Church and pupil of Mr. Clarke; Mr. Earl Victor Prahl, pianist, and Mr. Elias Day, the Chicago entertainer, head of the Lyceum Arts Conservatory.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke gave a musical program at the home of Mrs. Morrill Townley, East Chestnut street, Sunday afternoon, November 2.

JAMES HAMILTON

The likeness presented is that of James Hamilton, a young Chicago tenor who is rapidly making a place for himself in musical circles. Possessed of an unusually beautiful and powerful tenor voice, he has by assiduous application been so successful in its cultivation that his services are being widely sought. The latest tribute to his vocal gifts is his engagement as solo tenor at the St. James Methodist Episcopal Church, where, under the direction of Tina Mae Haines, he completes a notable ensemble.

JAMES HAMILTON

During the past summer, as a member of the National Grand Opera Quartet under the direction of Bertha Smith-Titus, he appeared in 102 cities in the east and south, touring the Chautauquas of Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. Over eighty-five appearances were made in "The Bohemian Girl."

During October he filled several important engagements, among others being those with the Birmingham (Ala.) High School Chorus, Ravenswood Women's Club, concert in Kenosha, Wis., where he was immediately re-engaged for a later appearance, and in concert at the Shriners' Temple in Chicago.

The month of November sees him booked for numerous appearances, among which are a concert before the Rogers Park Woman's Club, several engagements with the Smith-Titus Quartet, and at Lewis Institute about the middle of the month.

Mr. Hamilton's work, which has all been done under the direction of Walter Allen Stults, is only another tribute to the excellence of the work that is being done in his studio.

MACBURNEY STUDIOS

Grace Brune Marcusson, soprano, assisted by William Lester, accompanist, will be heard in a program of folksongs and songs by the old English writers, Monday evening, November 10, in the MacBurney Studios, Fine Arts Building. The program will be as follows:

Seperazione ..... Arranged by Sgambati
La Colomba ..... Arranged by Schindler
Menuet d'Exaudet
Bergere legere
Lisette
Aminte
Jeunes Fillettes ..... Arranged by Weckerlin
The Meeting of the Waters
The Banks of the Daisies
Would God I Were the Tender Apple Blossom
The Pretty Girl Milking Her Cow
The Little Red Lark ..... Traditional
Nymphs and Shepherds ..... Purcell
Come Unto These Yellow Sands ..... Purcell
Have You Seen But a White Lily Grow ..... Arranged by Dolmetsch
When Daisies Pied ..... Arne
It Was a Lover and His Lass ..... Morley
I've Been Roaming ..... Horn

Liebling.—Mr. Liebling plays this week at the College of Saint Teresa, Winona, Minn.

CLARENCE EDDY
May be engaged for the
Opening of New Organs and for Organ Recitals
During the Season of 1913-1914.
Address: 510 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago.

RUTH ALTA
ROGERS
PIANIST
If desired, Recital Programs will be opened with explanatory talks on the compositions to be played.
MANAGEMENT
CHARLES E. WATT 522 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 6198

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL Phone Harrison 5919

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

Katherine Howard Ward
Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist
917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING
Baritone American Conservatory Kimball Hall

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

Churches

TRINITY M. E. CHURCH

Mr. Carl E. Craven is the director of music at Trinity M. E. Church, and that he is ambitious to place his quartet in a favorable light, is very evident from the splendidly arranged program of last Sunday evening.

The singers are Mrs. Edna Nall, soprano, Miss Beatrice Tollafson, contralto, and Mr. C. E. Matteson, bass, Mr. Craven himself singing the tenor parts.

Mr Craven is the only professional singer of the four, and the soprano on Sunday night was not in good vocal condition, but there are evidences aplenty in the work of all of them that their instruction has been good, and that they will become thoroughly satisfactory quartet singers.

Mr. Craven has broadened very materially in his art since heard last season, and with the broadening there has come added artistry as well. His singing of the fine song "Bow Down Thine Ear, O Lord" (MacFadyen) was a very good piece of work and had points of excellence of so many and such marked kinds as to seem emphatically to place him in line for work of the highest order.

The anthem, "Seek Ye the Lord," by Roberts, also furnished Mr. Craven a fine solo opportunity of which he made the best possible use.

Other concerted numbers—well contrasted and with many points of interest—were "How Amiable Are Thy Dwellings" (West), "He Loveth Me" (West), " I Will Lay Me Down," trio (Brown), and "Angel Land" by Pinsuti.

Miss Beatrice Tollafson played a violin solo very acceptably, and Mr. Matteson sang "O Eyes That Are Weary" (Brackett), with much sincerity.

Mrs. Edythe Pruyne Hall is the organist in this church and had selected for this special musical service a very attractive list of pieces which she gave in excellent style. These were: "Introduction and Priere a Notre Dame" (Boellmann) and "Grand Chorus" by Theodore Salome.

C. E. W.

WOODLAWN PARK PRESBYTERIAN

Good singing is being enjoyed at the Woodland Park Presbyterian Church, Kimbark avenue and Sixty-fourth street. The quartet consists of Margaret S. Tarrant, soprano; Lyravine Votaw, contralto; J. J. Kendrick, tenor, and W. A. Framke, bass. Under the direction of Mr. Framke, special music for evening song service is being prepared, and will be heard in the near future. Mr. E. G. Ewart, the organist, who has been at this instrument for eleven years, is as ever doing faithful and efficient work.

H. M. B.

MEMORIAL CHURCH OF CHRIST

The choir of the Memorial Church of Christ, Oakwood boulevard, near Cottage Grove avenue, sang on last Sunday the anthems, "While the Earth Remaineth" (West), "Oh Praise the Lord" (West), "They That Trust in the Lord" (Frey), and "Hark, Hark, My Soul" (West). William Lester, organist and director, has brought together a quartet consisting of Anna Agnes Bailey, soprano; Mabel Daly, contralto; Walter Diederich, tenor, and Cardon V. Burnham, bass, that is giving this church splendid music. Each singer has fine equipment as a soloist and their ensemble is excellent. A cantata is in course of preparation, to be given by this choir on or about Thanksgiving.

H. M. B.

SAINT LOUIS

At the First Presbyterian Church in St. Louis, where H. M. Blossom is organist and director of music, and where the quartet personnel is a very good one, the following vocal numbers were given on last Sunday: "Jubilate" in C, Dudley Buck; "In Heavenly Love Abiding," Holton; "Deus Misereatur," Millard; "Give Me Peace," Philo Otis, and the responses, "Show Me Thy Ways, O Lord," Shelley, and "Gently As Cherubim Sing," by Hanscombe.

THE LITTLE THEATER

The University of Michigan has asked The Chicago Little Theater to give a special performance of Gilbert Murray's translation of "The Trojan Women" of Euripides at Ann Arbor on February 7. "The Trojan Women" will be revived at The Chicago Little Theater this season, and the "Medea" will also be produced.

♮ ♮ ♮

People are talking about the Faun who pipes in "An Evening with Columbine" at The Chicago Little Theater on the fourth floor of the Fine Arts Building. The idea for it came from Ellen Van Volkenburg, who was greatly interested by the sharp angles and sudden movements which are the characteristic feature of the modern Russian Ballet at its finest and most significant. She was led by these to make a careful study of Greek vase paintings, which in turn trace back to Egyptian sculpture, and the dance of the Faun is based on her researches. The scene is played in silhouette at The Chicago Little Theater and makes a striking and unusual stage picture.

Paulist Choristers—Father Finn, musical director of the Paulist Choristers, announces that the concert originally scheduled for November 2, will be given at The Studebaker, Sunday afternoon, November 30, under the management of F. Wight Neumann. This change of date was necessitated on account of the novelties introduced into the program which the Paulist Choristers will sing.

Arizona School of Music—The Arizona School of Music at Phoenix, presented Claude Gotthelf, pianist, and William Conrad Mills, tenor, in an excellent program last Tuesday evening.

Music in New York

By ABBIE STEPHENS FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall

BACHAUS

"To know him is to love him; to name him is to praise." Poetry or prosody, the poet has celebrated in the quoted lines the desire of an honorable man's ambitions. The quest of the truly spiritual and wise. The wish of the sincere and upright. For to be loved is the summum bonum—the wholly-to-be-desired of the human heart in its core. To be named with praise is the crown of persistent and honest endeavor. The concealed yet eager and ardent aspiration of the lowly as well as the great. The distinguished attribute of the mens sana in corpore sano.

The pursuit of the artistic career is not supposed generally to stimulate those finer instincts making for patience in the line of promotion and recognition. The ego of the musician is generally conceded (metaphorically speaking) to be a plant requiring no special care in its efflorescence and growth to magnificent proportions. Needless to say that the versifier's job in such case is a waste of energy. The artist-musician has instinctive knowledge of the art of performing upon that popular instrument known as "blowing his own horn." An instinctive knowledge indeed; including those small tentative efforts acquired in early youth, which ultimately result in the habit—like every other habit—of becoming second nature. It's not a case of you blow my horn and I'll blow yours (a variant of that well known dictum, "Die eine Hand wascht die Andere," which really postulated a sort of loving one's neighbor, one's commercial neighbor, let us not forget), but it's "each one for himself, and the devil take the hindmost."

Now to deny that this is the attitude the artist assumes toward the public in general, and his circle of friends and acquaintances in particular, would be to put one's self at the mercy of the nearest alienist (from whose tender mercies—we call Harry Thaw to witness—Lord deliver us) and to prove ourselves, if not imbecile, at least dense and stupid.

Now and then there is an exception to this rule, proven anew by its exceptions, and the exception is almost invariably a personality and not a type—a personality in whose train walks modesty, sweet handmaiden of high endeavor and successful accomplishment. Forthwith the despondency of the pessimist over the decadence of manhood and the degeneracy of humankind, lifts itself and provides in its place an hour of perfect altruism, the temporary yet none the less triumphant miracle of the metamorphosed blue devil.

To have accomplished so much is a feat in itself. To add thereto a sort of wizardry in one's art is almost to achieve the impossible.

Well, there is such a man. Unconsciously, yet involuntarily leading a new crusade, silently making a propaganda for greatness, allied with amiability and discretion; a lover of perfection in his art whose life and the practice of his profession are free from the tricks and assumptions of the charlatan.

Such a one is Wilhelm Bachaus, whom we had with us in 1911; whom we have with us this memorable season of 1913-14—youngest of the pianists of the very first rank, to be counted with as one of the greatest since Bach and his well-tempered clavichord anticipated the aristocratic and well-bred piano of our own generation.

The modesty of Bachaus is conspicuous in his manner, his attire, his attitude toward his audiences and his colleagues.

Yea, verily, I believe that if the managers of all the ambitious pianists leaping joyously into the arena—a go-as-you-please game—from John Smith or Henry Jones to Ferrari-Ermanno Jasminsohn, were each to advertise his special pianistic protege as the only equal of the only Bachaus, that handsome young piano-poet of the inscrutable eyes, would enjoy the fun of it, and regard the joke as upon himself and a good one to boot. For the unrelenting gods relented at his birth, and bestowed upon him in heaping measure every good thing his heart might wish, including a sense of humor, without which the human's cake is dough and the instrumentalist and his fellow artists become so many strutting entities, alternating their everlasting promenade with self-inclined genuflections.

So we get back to the beginning and end as we began: "To know him is to love him, to name him is to praise." And when we have said that, we have, in a small sense at least, presented the case of Wilhelm Bachaus.

* * *

The New York Philharmonic Society

Three score ten and two are the worthy venerable years of the young Philharmonic

BONCI
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York
Knabe Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER
CONTRALTO
Management HAENSEL & JONES
AEOLIAN HALL, NEW YORK

MR. & MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS
Address 330 West 58th St.
NEW YORK CITY

MARIE NARELLE SOPRANO
110 Carnegie Hall, New York

PIANIST BACHAUS
Management Loudon Charlton
BALDWIN PIANO USED

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address—
Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER
AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av.
NEW YORK

BISPHAM
All communications to
Private Address 44 West 44th St.
NEW YORK

STEINDEL
ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Brokaw Power-Meyer
Violinist Conservatory
WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

SADIE WALKER
University Studios VIOLINIST Exclusive M'g't
5828 Woodlawn Av. Harry Culbertson

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

COLLINS J. BROCK
Basso-Cantante
EUDORA MOODY
SOPRANO Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Racine Av., CHICAGO, ILL.

Grant KIMBELL
Tenor
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

Chicago Concert Trio
ALBERT E. FOX, Piano WILLIAM HOFMAN, Violin
MARJORIE DODGE WARNER, Soprano
Management Charles E. Watt Kimball Hall, Chicago

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

Orchestra, New York's very own, yet ranking with the nobles of the world's orchestras.

Carnegie Hall, touched up with a new coat of paint and dabs of bronze powders, the first in twenty-one years, the studios alone a gold mine in their financial returns, housed a goodly audience within its walls, covered up with furs and wraps from the frozen storage house atmosphere pervading the auditorium (economy is the watchword after all that outlay for gilt and paint) yet wildly enthusiastic when Josef Stransky took his place at the familiar desk.

Mr. Stransky is already a popular favorite, beloved by the men of his orchestra and admired by the subscribers of both sexes.

The program was somewhat more than unusual in that it was devoted to the works of two composers only. Berlioz monopolized the first half of the program, and Tschaikowsky, adored above all Russians who wrote, adorned the last.

If there ever was an opportunity of making comparisons, the auditors of the concert of the evening of October 30 enjoyed one.

Berlioz—about an hour of his less entertaining music—is calculated to make an audience fatigued with listening to his endless frustrated attempts to say something of value and rarely succeeding.

Orchestra and conductor worked manfully, but Berlioz is not the vehicle to make us feel kindly toward the French word in orchestral composition. Chauvinists that the French are, they have themselves to thank for the dryrot of their compositional output.

Mme. Teresa Carreno was the soloist, and her playing of the "B Flat Minor Concerto" of Tschaikowsky called forth something like an ovation for her. This opus was the one chosen by Tina Lerner last season when she appeared here with Mr. Oberhoffer and his orchestra and carried all before her by an astonishing exhibition of virtuosity.

In this number Mr. Stransky and his coworkers reached a high level of excellence, doing ample justice to the inspired work.

The "Marche Slave" was the final number and went with verve and will, getting the wildest applause of the evening; and apropos of the concerts of the Philharmonic, it may be stated that it will not be heard in Carnegie Hall this week, the time being taken up in touring. On Sunday afternoon, November 2, the orchestra will give its annual Boston performance at Symphony Hall, with Fritz Kreisler as soloist. The Boston interest in the New York Orchestra is very pronounced, as last season long before the hour of the opening of the Philharmonic concert, Symphony Hall was entirely sold out and, judging from reports received by the Philharmonic management, the success of last season, as far as attendance is concerned, is about to be repeated. From Boston the orchestra tours to Holyoke, Mass., where a concert is given under the auspices of the Holyoke Board of Trade.

The following week three New York appearances are scheduled, the regular Thursday evening and Friday afternoon pair, at which the society will have the assistance of Jacques Urlus, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera; and the first of its Sunday afternoon concerts, with Mme. Gerville-Reache, that charming contralto soloist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Violin Recital by Florence Austin

Miss Florence Austin, a well known, ambitious and conscientious young American violinist, was heard in a well selected and interested program in Aeolian Hall on October 28, with Miss Edna Rothwell at the piano.

Miss Austin exhibited an admirable and fluent technic and a full, round tone; moreover, she played with dignity and an intelligent assurance that makes one proud to feel that she is an American and that her success is well earned and deserved.

Of the numbers she executed, the most ambitious was the "Concerto" in D minor (Wieniawski), which she delivered with breadth and a distinguished utterance. Her round, warm tone had free play here, and in the second movement, the "Romance," she showed a poetic feeling most admirable.

FLORENCE AUSTIN

The "Airs Hongrois" by Ernst, closing the program, again showed this artist's admirable schooling and artistry. The program follows:

Suite in G Minor ..... F. Ries
Allamanda
Intermezzo
Andante
Introduction and Gavotte
Concerto in D Minor ..... Wieniawski
Allegro Moderato
Romance
Allegro a la Zingara
Chaconne ..... Vitali
Prelude ..... Campagnoli
Through the Snow ..... Cecil Burleigh
Valse de Concert ..... Musin
Airs Hongrois ..... Ernst

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Florence Hinkle in Recital

In Aeolian Hall on the evening of October 28, Miss Florence Hinkle, a favorite American soprano, sang before an audience fine in size and representation.

Miss Hinkle was in excellent voice and she gave a program of interest and variety, not omitting songs by Schubert and Brahms. Her audience was appreciative and insisted upon encores.

Her program is appended below:

I.

Old Classical Airs

Piagero la sorte mia (My Lot Will I Bewail), from "Julius Caesar".....Handel
Heller Blick (Piercing Glance).....Haydn
Contentezza (Contentment).....Mozart
Come Unto These Yellow Sands.....Purcell

II.

Classical German Songs

Fruhlingsglaube (Faith in Spring).....Schubert
Lachen und Weinen (Laughter and Tears)....Schubert
Roselein, Roselein (Rosebud, Rosebud).....Schumann
O Komm im Traum (O Come in Dreams).....Liszt
Auf dem See (On the Sea)
Lerchengesang (Song of the Lark) } ....Brahms
Des Liebsten schwur (The Lover's Vow) }

III.

Modern French

Beau Soir (Beautiful Evening).....Debussy
Mireille .....Massenet
Lechemin de Lune (The Moonlit Road).....Paulin
Ariette (Were I Sunshine).....Vidal
Il neige des Fleurs (The Snow of Flowers)....Fourdrain

IV.

Songs in English

Old Irish arranged by C. Villiers Stanford—
The Falling Star
I Know My Love
Lullaby
Across the Hills.....Rummel
Ferry Me Across the Water.....Homer

Mr. Hans Morgenstern at the piano.

♮ ♮ ♮

Josef Hofmann in Recital

Josef Hofmann, the pianist, gave his first recital of the season, in Carnegie Hall, on the afternoon of October 27. There was a good sized audience. Mr. Hofmann was especially successful in the Liszt "Sonata." He was also heard in works by Mendelssohn, Rachmaninoff and Beehoven.

♮ ♮ ♮

Bachaus Program

The program for the Bachaus recital at Aeolian Hall on November 19 is as follows:

Overture from 29th Cantata.....Bach-Saint-Saens
Sonata Op. 111 in C minor.....Beethoven
Fantasie Op. 15 in C major.....Schubert
(Wanderer.)
Waltz Op. 34 in A flat
Three Studies Op. 25, in A flat, F minor, F major
Three Mazurkas Op. 59 in A minor, A flat, F sharp minor
Nocturne Op. 55 No. 2 in E flat
Polonaise in A major
Scherzo in C sharp minor } .....Chopin
Twelfth Hungarian Rhapsody.....Liszt

♮ ♮ ♮

Helene Koelling

The program for Helene Koelling's song recital at Aeolian Hall on Wednesday afternoon, November 12, reads as follows:

I.

Quel Ruscelletto.....Paradies
Deh vieni non tardar.....Mozart
Sortita D'Ofelia .....Faccio

II.

Variations .....Proch

III.

Auf die Nacht.....Hans Huber
Der Tag Wird Kalt.....Hans Huber
Das Mitleidige Madel.....Erich Wolff
Pan .....Richard Trunk

IV.

Mainacht .....Brahms
An die Nachtigall.....Schubert
Am Bache .....Dvorak
Heimkehr .....Strauss
Inmitten des Balles.....Tschaikowsky
Auftrage .....Schumann

V.

To a Hidden Violet.....Mary Helen Brown
Pierrot .....Dagmar Rubner
Come, Sweet Morning.....A. L.

Harry M. Gilbert, accompanist.

FRANCES PELTON-JONES

Harpsichordiste

Miss Frances Pelton-Jones of New York City certainly occupies the foremost place in America to-day as an exponent of the harpsichord. Her present concert tour has been a series of triumphs in each place she has appeared, adding new laurels in the West to those already gained in Eastern art centers. In New York, Miss Pelton-Jones has a following among the "400" as well as the rigidly musical circles, where her costumed concerts of classic music are counted among the most "recherche" affairs of the New York season. She is also very popular in Philadelphia, Washington, Boston, Montreal and other cities, while, last fall, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and other Pacific Coast cities paid tribute to her wonderful skill on the harpsichord. She is fortunate in possessing a most beautiful and valuable replica of the eighteenth century, whose exquisite tones delight the musical ear.

FRANCES PELTON-JONES

Clubs and schools that were unable to secure dates at the present time will be glad to hear that Miss Pelton-Jones is contemplating another western tour late in the season, which will give opportunity for her valuable instrument to be heard in other places. At it is, she is hurrying East now to fill important dates, already scheduled on the Atlantic slope. The following from the Lincoln (Nebraska) Star will show her phenomenal success at this point, where she appeared as the second number in the annual artist course of the University School of Music on the evening of October 29:

"She is a thorough musician technically and temperamentally, and possesses a charming stage presence, all of which contributes toward making her recitals real artistic triumphs. The beautiful sunny music of the eighteenth century, given with the atmospheric effects of the renaissance, made a strong appeal to the audience, and the artist was repeatedly recalled. The program was prefaced with an explanatory talk on the history of the harpsichord, its delicate construction and educative value. There are few replicas in America and Miss Pelton-Jones is the only woman player of note in the concert world today. She received her training under the world's greatest musical antiquarian, Arnold Dolmetsch, of Paris. Last night the audience was taken back to that fascinating period of the renaissance and the messages of the masters given at that time were revealed in sympathetic tones of wondrous beauty.

"Perhaps Bach had never been heard with such entire satisfaction as on this occasion when his messages came over the golden tones of the harpsichord. The organistic qualities of the instrument were very pronounced in the 'Largo' from 'Xerxes' by Haendel, and in the Beethoven and Haendel marches. The recital will long be remembered as a notable event filled with an educational charm, the pleasure of which would be difficult to surpass.

"At the close of the concert the audience remained seated and gave the artiste a regular ovation, which brought another recall, 'Annie Laurie' being rendered. The program was arranged in a way that showed the possibilities of the instrument as well as the artistic work of the performer, which merits highest praise. The following highly interesting program was rendered:

Prelude in C major....Johann Sebastian Bach (1685)
Solfeggietto .....Ph. Emanuel Bach)1714)
Gavotte and Musette (from English Suite 3).....
.....J. S. Bach (1685)
Air with Variations (Harmonious Blacksmith).....
..... Haendel (1685)
Le Coucou (The Cuckoo).....Claude Daquin (1694)
Largo from "Xerxes".....Haendel (1685)
Gavotte in A major.....Gluck (1714)
Pastorale, Sonata in E minor.....Scarlatti (1683)
Capriccio, Sonata in E minor.....Scarlatti (1683)
Les Rappel des Oiseaux (Roll Call of the Birds)
.....Rameau (1683)
The King's Hunting Jigg.....Dr. John Bull (1563)
Celebrated March from "Saul".....Haendel (1685)
Gigue .....Jean Baptiste Loeilly (16—)
Adaptations from the Early Romantic to modern schools:
Marcia Funebre (from Sonata Op. 26) .....
..... Beethoven (1770)
Bridal Chorus (from "Lohengrin")....Wagner (1813)
Scherzo, Op. 70, No. 3.....Heinrich Hofman (1842)
(Arranged for harpsichord by Frances Pelton-Jones)

(Advertisement)

———♯♯♯———

Richardson—John Finnegan, Irish tenor, has a tremendously busy season before him. In addition to a tour that has been arranged for him later on in the season, G. Dexter Richardson, his manager, has booked him with a number of prominent clubs, societies, etc., which include appearances in the following cities:

In New York City on November 23; in Brooklyn on November 26; Patterson, N. J., on December 1; in Hoboken, N. J., on December 7, and a tour through Maine with Mme. Lillian Blauvelt, prima donna soprano, from December 9 to 21.

———♯♯♯———

American Conservatory—Kurt Wanieck, pianist; Ramon Girvin, violinist, and Hans Hess, 'cellist, will offer a program of chamber music next Saturday afternoon. The principal numbers will be a 'cello "Sonata" by Grieg, and the Godard Trio. Mr. Wanieck will contribute a group of piano numbers by Chopin and D'Albert.

Mr. Allen Spencer will give his annual piano recital Sunday afternoon, November 23, at the Fine Arts Theater.

———♯♯♯———

Baton Club—The next meeting of the Baton Club will be on Monday evening, November 10, at the Boston Oyster House, at 6 p. m. After dinner an address will be made by Dr. George L. Scherger.

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

WOULD A CODE OF ETHICS APPLY?

"My price for vocal lessons is four dollars each, Miss G., and I expect at least a lesson a week. You say that you can't afford more than a lesson once in two weeks? Well, having heard you sing, I can't advise you to study anyway. You would hardly repay the effort of us both."

Mr. E. then excused himself, and the young woman, almost in tears, left his studio.

When she told her experience to friends they encouraged her. She sang in her home choir and the church-goers liked her singing. She was a self-supporting girl and, as she had told Mr. E., her income was too small for the expenditure of four dollars a week for music, and even two dollars would enforce much planning.

Now, Miss G. was the niece of a prominent and wealthy business man, and her friends went to him about the young woman's voice. He had her to dinner one Sunday afternoon and after hearing her sing asked her about studying. She told him her experience. He wanted to know whether she still wished to have Mr. E. as her teacher, and, being assured that she did, wrote a note to that instructor telling him to give her the number of lessons that he thought best, and send the bill to him.

The next day, with much diffidence, she called at Mr. E.'s studio; was met, rather coolly, by his assistant, who took the letter to him. As soon as this was read, the teacher's manner completely changed. He hurried to meet Miss G., and he bowed her ceremoniously into his singing room, where he heard her in several familiar hymns. Then he declared that her voice was remarkably sweet and promising, and assigned her three lesson periods a week.

The story is a true one, and the principals are residents of New England.

The question arises: What caused the voice to change so soon? Would the first treatment of the young woman square with a professional code of ethics? Have musicians such a code? If not, why?

♮ ♮ ♮

Boston Vocal Teachers' Association Meet

The second meeting of the Boston Vocal Teachers' Association, really a banquet, was held at the Boston Art Club recently. This club was organized last year and Stephen Townsend is president, Clarence Hay secretary and treasurer. The executive committee are Frank E. Morse, chairman (elected for three years); L. B. Merrill (for two years), Frederick Wodell (for one year).

The purpose for which the club is formed is, primarily, to become acquainted with the vocal teachers here. The members are men only.

Some twenty represented the club at the last meeting, and these were much interested in a stenographic report, taken by Mr. Wodell at the last meeting of the New York music teachers' convention, of Dr. Mukie's address about resonance and other vocal theories, and read by Mr. Wodell.

Ivan Marawski, a veteran of the profession, entertained the company with his stories of experiences and his reminiscences of earlier times, and he was asked to give a more formal address at the next meeting.

At present only three meetings a year are obligatory—one in October, the last in May, and another somewhere between these two.

Among those present at the meeting just held were Mr. Townsend, Mr. Hay, Arthur L. Hubbard, Mr. Marawski, Charles Stevens, Mr. Merrill, Louis Schalk, Willard Flint, Mr. Morse and Mr. Wodell.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Boston Singing Club Library

An important accession to the library facilities of the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, appears in the gift announced last week of the entire music library of the Boston Singing Club. This organization, between 1900 and 1910, was very active, but since the election of its conductor, H. G. Tucker, to the professorship of music at Wheaton College, Norton, Mass., the concerts have been given up. For the purposes of the singers a considerable library of part songs and other musical literature had been amassed. It was decided that these works ought to be at the disposal of an institution where they would be in frequent use. Accordingly the entire collection was offered to the New England Conservatory.

The Boston Singing Club during its career gave concerts at which were heard opera choruses seldom or never heard on the operatic stage in this country—original works by American composers and other compositions not usually presented by a singing society. Two well remembered performances were of Chadwick's "Noel" and Horatio Parker's "Wanderer's Psalm." For some of the works presented, special translations were made by Nathan Haskell Dole. Included in the gift to the conservatory are several works from the private library of the late Carl Zerrahn. Programs in raised type are an interesting reminder of the Singing Club's custom of inviting to its concerts the students of the Perkins Institution for the Blind, for whom were provided special programs with the words of the piece of the evening in raised type.

The gift adds value to the New England Conservatory's system of three working libraries—the Conservatory Library proper, devoted to the standard literature of music; the Choral Library, the basis of which is the great choral library of the famous Boylston Club and its successors, the Boston Singers, given to the conservatory through the generosity of George L. Osgood; and the Orchestral Library, containing scores and complete orchestral parts for the use of the Conservatory Orchestra.

♮ ♮ ♮

Notes

Sunday afternoon, November 9, 300 musicians, under Emil Mollenhauer, will give a concert in Mechanics Building, under the auspices of the Boston Musicians' Mutual Relief Society. Earl Cartwright, baritone, will sing.

The fiftieth anniversary of the inauguration of the great organ in Boston Music Hall, now in Edward S. Searles' Music Hall, Methuen, Mass., and thoroughly renovated, was celebrated Sunday, November 2. The organ recital was given by Wallace Goodrich.

The usual series of three concerts by the Longy Club, an organization of wind instruments, will begin in Jordan Hall Thanksgiving night, November 27, with an American program—Mason, Oldberg, Archer-Gibson and Brockway being the composers. Later a quintet by Gustave Strube, a sixteenth century sonata for flute, oboe and piano by Leillety; a ballade for oboe and piano, and a novelette by Molherbes; two little pieces by Woollett, and a septet by Flamand. There may be choruses by Beethoven and Schumann with wind instument accompaniment. The dates for the second and third concerts are Thursday, January 22, and Wednesday night, March 4.

♮ ♮ ♮

Organ Recital at the New England Conservatory of Music

Jordan Hall, in the New England Conservatory of Music, is a theater-shaped auditorium, having a large stage, the rear of which is occupied by a Hutchins organ that, architecturally and acoustically, is superior to the average concert instrument. On Monday evening, October 27, a member of the faculty, Mr. Homer Humphrey, gave an organ recital demonstrating that he is conservative but nowise pedantic in his attainments. It was evident that modern works are more to his taste than the heavier classics which figured on the program; and these French compositions proved themselves also to be more pleasing to the audience. The music was played with a clean technic and in a creditable manner. The program is appended.

PROGRAM

Sonate Pastorale, Op. 88.....Josef Rheinberger
Pastorale
Intermezzo
Fugue
Fantasia and Fugue in G minor.....J. S. Bach
Prelude in E flat minor, Op. 66.....Vincent d'Indy
"Piece Heroique".....Cesar Franck
Cantilene .....G. Pierne
Scherzando .....G. Pierne
Moderato cantabile, from the Eighth Symphony.....
..... Widor
Finale in C major.....Homer Humphrey

S. H. L.

♯ ♯ ♯

Cowen—Gertrude F. Cowen announces that Helen Wetmore, a young Canadian soprano, will make her American debut at Aeolian Hall, New York, Monday evening, November, 10. The program rendered by Miss Wetmore will embrace several songs new to his country. Also, a group of old Italian airs, modern German and French selections, and a mixed group of English songs. Miss Wetmore will be accompanied by Mrs. Florence Wessel.

People & Events

A POEM BY MISS GALLOWAY

Music News is pleased to present more of the dainty verses by Flora M. Galloway, the poet-pianist of Lakemont, Pa.

A SUMMER EVENING

I wander through the deep and fragrant wood
With heart attuned to Nature's harmonies,
I list enraptured to the song of birds
And hear sweet music in the zephyr breeze.

The flush of sunset lingers in the west
The mists of evening slowly gather round,
All Nature breathes of peace and quiet rest
Within my heart fond memories resound.

From out dim shadows of the yester years
Bright visions of the loved and lost I see,
Dear friends, companions of past joys and tears
I hear their voices softly calling me.

Come home to rest, they sweetly seem to say
Thou pilgrim, exile from the eternal shore,
Lift up thy heart and hasten on the way
To find with God sweet peace for evermore.

♯♯♯

A SOCIAL EVENT

The California Avenue Congregational Church Choir was given a delightful entertainment at a reception given them by Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Knapp and their daughter, Helene, at their home, 2743 Jackson boulevard, Wednesday evening, October 29. After the program of music, in which their fine Victrola was an interesting feature, and solos by Miss Helene Knapp, the choir gave some glees and choruses and two anthems by request of the host and hostess. Mr. and Mrs. Milon R. Harris were then requested to lead the way to the dining room, where sixty people were most delightfully served with the good things abundantly set before them. Miss Helene Knapp and Mr. Charles Alden were the soloists at this reception and both are from the Harris studio.

♯♯♯

CONDERSPORT, PA.

Your Charleston correspondent spent the past week in conducting the music in the Teachers' Institute of Potter County, Pa., held in Condersport, and was, therefore, given opportunity to hear and meet some of the talent sent out by Lyceum Bureaus to such gatherings.

On Monday evening Benjamin Chapin gave one of his "drama-stories in monologue." His portrayal of the home life of Lincoln as president of the United States, in costume and make-up, was a masterpiece in the way of an entertainment, and ought not be passed by.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Gales in "Indian Life" were scheduled for Tuesday evening, but through sickness were unable to fulfill the engagement, and the Edwin R. Weeks Concert Company substituted. The company consists of Mr. Weeks, comedian and singer; Mrs. Weeks, soprano and pianist, and Miss Sinclair, violinist, and they furnish an evening of genuine enjoyment. Mr. Weeks is inimitable in his funmaking.

Thursday evening we had the International Operatic Company, an organization hailing from Pittsburgh. Five people comprise the party, Mrs. Tekla Farm McKinnie, soprano; Miss Rose Heidenrich, contralto; Mr. J. Allen Grubb, tenor; Mr. Burt P. McKinnie, baritone, and Miss Margaret Day, pianist. In a varied program of sterling worth they held the audience for a good two hours, after having kept them waiting some forty-five minutes through delayed train connections. One ought to mention individual numbers to do full justice to their work, but with a word of praise for Mr. McKinnie's rendering of Spence's song, "The Brigand," and his encore, "A Chip of the Old Block," we have to be satisfied.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Avon Sketch Club and Bert Wells held forth Friday evening, in an "evening of music and mirth." Four ladies (soprano and alto and two readers, banjo, piano, etc.) are the "club," who assist Mr. Wells in the musical part of the program, and also in the short comedy sketch with which they conclude the evening.

♮ ♮ ♮

Altogether, the teachers found their time, after the regular sessions, right well occupied, and pleasurably. J. HENRY FRANCIS

♯♯♯

THE NEWMAN LECTURES

Never before in the history of travel-lectures have the cities of Europe been presented as they will be in the new series of travel talks which E. M. Newman, the noted traveler and lecturer, will soon present in this city. Believing that there is an abundance of interesting material in all of these capitals, which heretofore has been overlooked, and knowing from past experience that his fellow-travelers prefer "to visit" the more familiar places, Mr. Newman spent six months last spring and summer rambling about London, Paris, Rome, Florence, Venice and Vienna, and was abundantly rewarded in the wealth of artistic pictures of new phases of life which he was able to procure. London attracted him because of the suffragette movement on which is centered the attention of the entire world, and the pictures of the activities of the militants will be a striking interlude in the portrayal of real life in the world's metropolis. Interest in Paris never wanes and no other city makes such a universal appeal. Here will be seen the art treasures, cafes and boulevards, and life among the artists and models in the Latin quarter. Mr. Newman will show why Paris dictates the world's fashions, the shops where the creations of the greatest designers originate, and the models on the streets and at the races. The next stage of the journey offers, within the radius of a few miles, a most remarkable contrast between the ancient and modern in architecture, art, and religion, and it will be easy to understand why "all roads lead to Rome." Then will come Florence, the paradise of the art student, and Venice, of the liquid streets and romantic gondolas. In contrasts to these ancient Italian cities Vienna, "The City Beautiful," will be found a striking example of the most modern developments in civic betterment. A model for the future, its splendid streets, public playgrounds, parks, promenades and open air cafes, are a relief after the congestion of the other European cities. A truthful and realistic portrayal of the most interest-

E. E. FREER
Part Songs

O World, Be Nobler
Trio for Women's Voices, with Piano Acc.

Listen, Awake!
Trio for Women's Voices

The Wood Pewee
Quartet for Women's Voices

Stanzas on Freedom
Quartet for Men's Voices

For Music
Quartet for Mixed Voices

Phillida and Coridon

Shall I Be Loved as I Grow Old

Lord, When the Sense of Thy Sweet Grace

Be True

Grace for a Child

Unto Us a Son Is Given

A Christmas Carol

OBTAINABLE AT
CLAYTON F. SUMMY & CO.'S
64 E. VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

TITTA RUFFO'S master
LELIO CASINI, recommends
HAMILTON
HOPKINS
(Casini's Assistant for 4 Years in Milan)
710 Fine Arts Building
CHICAGO

GEORGE W. MUNRO
Voice Specialist
Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.

Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.

Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.

Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR
420 Fine Arts Bldg
LASH

4

GREAT AUSTRALIAN TOURS

DAVID BISPHAM — Opening at Sidney May 31, 1913

MADAME LILLIAN NORDICA — Opening at Sydney July 26, 1913

MISCHA ELMAN — Opening at Sydney June, 1914

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK — Opening at Sydney June, 1915

Under Exclusive Management and Personal Direction of

Frederic Shipman

American Address 3835 Flournoy St., Chicago

Australian Address Hotel Australia, Sydney

ing phases of these wonderful municipalities will be made possible by the new color views and the novel motion pictures which the lecturer took in person.

The Newman travel talks will be presented at Orchestra Hall, on five successive Wednesday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoons, beginning November 19. There will be three courses exactly alike.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH IN NEVADA

The royal receptions attendant on Frederick Preston Search's recital tour through Nevada are most extraordinary when one considers the limited population of the state. University city, cultured club audiences and mining camps have been vying with each other in splendid tributes. Some very amusing experiences have been greeting the young 'cellist. In one mining camp a rival faction had gained possession of the concert hall and declined to vacate. The friends of the recital, however, started an alarm of fire close by; and as the insurgents rushed out, the music lovers moved in, and the concert began. One young lady rode fifty-five miles on horseback to attend the recital. After the concert the other faction began their dance, in the midst of which a girl ran across the hall and sprang from a window, fourteen feet from the ground, to separate two rival lovers engaged in a fight over their respective claims to her affections. This, the young soloist thought, was going it some. Elsewhere, however, the audience would have done honor to any eastern state. At Reno, where the university professors, leading musicians, literary clubs and the Y. M. C. A. all united in presentation, a splendid audience attended the recital in the Majestic Theater. Both soloist and accompanist were at their very best, and the great audience was more than enthusiastic and appreciative. On this occasion the program presented Grieg's beautiful "Sonata in A Minor," Bach's "Suite in C Major" for 'cello alone, and the Klengel "Concerto in D Minor," as principal numbers, besides several lesser numbers of great brilliancy. The audience was very demonstrative over a group of the 'cellist's own compositions, his "An Evening in Tangiers" in particular capturing the popular interest by its unique Moorish coloring and dervish dance movement. Harry A. James, musical critic at Reno, writes: "It must be remembered that this wonderful young player is only twenty-three years old and the enthusiastic audience of last evening can readily figure out what a brilliant future this young genius has before him. His own compositions, as played last evening, reveal a music soul that will place him at the head of the world's greatest 'cellists and composers in a short time." Another hearer reports that the Search recital "far surpassed all expectations."

WISCONSIN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Mr. Frederik Frederiksen of Chicago has been engaged for two days' teaching each week at the Wisconsin School of Music in Madison, and has already made numerous friends in the Wisconsin city.

A faculty concert given in the Woman's Building on last Sunday had the following program:

Sonata for Pianofore and Violin A Major..... Cesar Franck
Allegretto ben moderato
Allegro
Recitativo—Fantasie
Allegretto poco mosso
Mr. and Mrs. Frederiksen

It Is Enough; aria from "Elijah".....Mendelssohn
Alexius Baas

Violin Concerto, Op. 31, D Minor, (No. 4)..... Vieuxtemps
Introduzione
Adagio Religioso
Allegro energico
Mr. Frederiksen

Traum durch die Daemmerung.....Strauss
Es hat die Rose.....Franz
A Fool's Soliloquy .....Campbell-Tipton
Alexius Baas

Violin Soli—
Andante and Allegro vivo.....Paganini-Sauret
Elfentanz .....Popper-Helir
Hungarian Dance No. 2.....Brahms-Joachim

Suite for Pianoforte and Violin, Op. 61 (2)..... Eduard-Schutt
Allegro moderato
Scherzo
Moto amoroso
Finale
Mr. and Mrs. Frederiksen

Clough.—Miss V. Clough, a very talented young pianist from Sioux City, Iowa, who is studying here with Mr. Liebling, played Grieg's "Erotik" and Raff's "Valse Caprice," Opus 129, at the Woman's Catholic League meeting last Saturday with brilliant success.

CHRISTINE MILLER RETURNS FROM EUROPE

The popular American contralto, Christine Miller, returned last week from Europe, where she has been traveling and resting for about five months. Miss Miller's season is heavily booked by her managers, Messrs. Haensel and Jones, and she will appear with most of the leading orchestras and clubs of the country. Prominent among these are the Boston Symphony orchestra, under Dr. Muck, in the Ellis series of concerts at Worcester; the Boston Handel and Haydn Society; the New York Oratorio Society; the St. Louis Apollo Club; the Cincinnati Orpheus Club; the Pittsburgh Art Society; the Syracuse Arts Club, and the Chicago Apollo Club.

CHRISTINE MILLER

JOHN R. RANKL

Mr. John R. Rankl, formerly of Oshkosh, but well known in Chicago for several years, returned to his home town to give a song recital before the Twentieth Century Club and scored a complete success. The beauty of his voice and the charm of his readings were commented upon on every side and Mr. Rankl has been the recipient of several letters of special thanks for his work and the local press also printed many fine notices, one of which is appended here:

The program for the afternoon was entirely musical, consisting of a song recital by Mr. John Rankl, a former Oshkosh boy, who, like so many others who grew up in this city, has won remarkable distinction as a vocalist.

Miss Nina Wilson played the piano accompaniment for the singer, and her work was certainly an inspiration. Like the poet, a good accompanist is born, not made, and Miss Wilson's brilliant execution, coupled with her magnetic interpretation, was a strong factor in the musical perfection of the program.

Mr. Rankl left Oshkosh about nine years ago and the success achieved by him in his musical career is something of which this community should be proud. At present he is located in Chicago where he is assistant teacher in the MacBurney studio of music. He is also a member of the "American Art Company Quartet," which needs no introduction. Mr. Rankl uses the King-Clark method of which he is a master. The musical numbers rendered by him were of the highest class and he sang with excellent expression, and his voice was equally smooth, clear and charming on high and low tones.

At the close of the concert, music lovers crowded around him to express their appreciation and enjoyment of his splendid recital. (Advertisement.)

MINNEAPOLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

(Delayed Correspondence)

October 24 has come and gone—a time long and eagerly anticipated in Minneapolis, the evening of the first symphony concert of the eleventh season. All were in a happy mood, musicians and audience alike. An ovation was given Mr. Oberhoffer and his orchestra both at the beginning and the close of the program, a program, by the way, most interesting, including old time-tried favorites, together with the first performance (in America) of the new Strauss "Festival Prelude." The best word-picture of it was given by Victor Nilsson in the Journal when he said, in part: "The 'Prelude' is a ten-minute revel in tone-color of every hue of the rainbow, and a few besides, all lustrous and penetrating, even if each is not always discernible as a unit. Like the post-impressionist masters, Strauss paints entirely in gleaming, glistening lights without shades. But his drawing is as firm and minute as that of the skilful etcher, and this often apparently formless mass is a world of microcosmic detail."

Putnam Griswold, a former Minneapolitan, and now a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, was soloist of the evening, singing four baritone solos—"Gruppe aus dem Tartarus" of Schubert; "Mit Maedeln sich Vertragen" of Beethoven; "Was duftet doch der Flieder" and "Wahn! Wahn!" from the "Mastersingers of Nuremburg." Mr. Griswold was in fine voice and sang with great vigor. In response to heavy applause he sang the serenade of Mephistopheles from the "Damnation of Faust" (Berlioz).

♮ ♮ ♮

First Popular Concert

Another full house attended the opening Popular Concert Sunday afternoon. The soloist, Lucille Stevenson, sang the "Ave Maria" from Bruch's "Cross of Fire," and "One Fine Day" from "Madame Butterfly." Miss Stevenson has a rich, appealing, soprano voice, and was indeed the attraction of the day. The program consisted, as usual, of the "lighter" works of the masters. Especially interesting was the transcription of the old Hebrew chant "Kol Nidrei" of Bruch.

M. J. W.

♯♯♯

HINSHAW CONSERVATORY DRAMATIC PUPIL WINS RECOGNITION IN NEW YORK

Miss Catherine Rhea has just been engaged to play the leading character part in the well-known play "The Thief." Miss Rhea graduated at the Hinshaw Conservatory in the department of acting two years ago, and has made a very rapid progress in the profession since that time. In fact, there are very few young actors or actresses who have risen more rapidly. Her entire dramatic education was taken at the Hinshaw Conservatory and her first position was secured by Mr. John Arno Hinshaw, the conservatory manager. Mr. Hinshaw has perhaps secured more positions for graduates than any other manager in Chicago and has given much time and effort toward affiliating with Lyceum bureaus, concert and theatrical managers, thereby creating an opening for talented pupils when they have completed their course of study.

PROF. BERTRAND DE BERNYZ
VOICE SPECIALIST
also concerts and oratorios in Carnegie Hall & Aeolian Hall.
First teacher of Frieda Hempel, Metropolitan opera star, acknowledged by New York music critics as only successful rival of Mmes. Patti Melba and Sembrich, also teacher of many other eminent concert and operatic artists. Special course in TONE PRODUCTION, INTERPRETATION and OPERATIC ENSEMBLE. Special features: OPERA PERFORMANCES in NEW YORK THEATERS; Information, 58 W. 72nd St., New York City, "The Adrian"

LUELLA CHILSON-OHRMAN
SOLOIST AT WORCESTER FESTIVAL SEASON
Address 4603 Sheridan Road

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY MURRISON MABEL
Bass-Baritone Pianist
Oratorio Accompanist
Concert
JOINT-RECITALS
Alliance Ohio

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker
TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN
ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
4596 OAKENWALD AV.
Phone Drexel 3987

ARTHUR P. THOMAS

Mr. Arthur P. Thomas gave a very successful piano recital at Appleton, Wis., last week, the program being as follows:

Sonate Opus 27, No. 2 (Moonlight).....Beethoven
Adagio sostenuto
Allegretto
Presto agitato
Scherzo Opus 40, E flat major.....E. Liebling
Two Romances, Op. 28, No. 1 and 2
Arabeske, Opus 18
Novelette, Op. 99, No. 9, B minor } .....Schumann
Organ Prelude and Fugue in A minor.....Bach
(Arranged for piano by Franz Liszt)
Two Preludes, Op. 28, Nos. 15 and 17.....Chopin
Etude, Op. 28, No. 1, F minor.....Chopin
Rhapsodie, Op. 79, No. 2, G minor.....Brahms
Paraphrase on the Waltz from "Die Fledermaus," Op. 10 .....Strauss-Schuett

The local press commented as follows:

The piano recital given by Arthur P. Thomas, recently added to the faculty of Lawrence Conservatory, was largely attended and much appreciated by the enthusiastic audience. Mr. Thomas is a German, with the inborn love of music of that nation and thoroughly at home with his chosen instrument. In addition to a superb technic, comprehensive knowledge of the possibilities of his instrument, Mr. Thomas displayed an earnestness and enthusiasm for his art that is too often lacking. His personality indicates his sincerity of purpose. He has appeared before many audiences in Europe where his success, both as a performer and teacher, was very marked. Besides being extremely well equipped technically, Mr. Thomas showed himself capable of great finesse in detail work and exquisite coloring in the finer passages.

The recital of last evening was full of evidences of virtuosity and Mr. Thomas vindicated the high praise given when he first came to Appleton. His touch is bewildering in its fine gradations from the velvety pianissimo to the forte and the piano responded nobly to the powerful climaxes of the artist and never dwindled into sentimental effeminacy as a result of any lack of restrained control. His phrasing has a certain light, inspiring the feeling that the artist is on top of the work. (Advertisement.)

AN HISTORICAL PROGRAM

Ethel Leginska, English pianist, will give a somewhat unusual program at Aeolian Hall, New York, on Thursday afternoon, December 11, 1913.

Among the numbers on the program will be one from Bach who dates back to 1685, and she will play numbers from the different composers up to the time of Debussy, showing the progress in pianoforte compositions, and many music lovers who did not have the pleasure of hearing this very exceptional artist at her debut in January of this year, will be afforded the opportunity of hearing her now.

Some of the other dates that have been booked for Miss Leginska, are as follows: A concert for the Russian Jews on November 2; a recital at the Parish House in Glen Falls on November 11; with the German Club in Cleveland on November 23; a private recital in Toronto on November 26; at the Tuesday Salon in New York on December 2; with the Syracuse Arts Club on December 4; a recital at Aeolian Hall, New York, on December 11; a charity concert at the Plaza Hotel, New York, on December 15; a concert at Massey Hall in Toronto on January 6; a recital in Boston for the Harvard Musical Association on January 16; a recital at Abbott Academy, Andover, Mass., on January 17; a concert with the German Liederkranz of New York City on February 7, and an appearance with the Rubinstein Club of New York City.

Brahms Quartet—The Brahms Quartet sings on November 21 at Whitewater, Wis.; November 24, Ashland, Wis.; November 25, Plymouth, Wis.

NEWS OF THE N. A. O.

The Connecticut Council of the National Association of Organists held its first "get-together" banquet last night at the Hotel Winthrop, and was attended by about fifty of the leading organists of the state. At the National convention held at Ocean Grove in August it was decided that such gatherings as these should be held by cities and communities, in order to bring together in a fraternal way all the organists. Connecticut was the first to fall in line and the success of the affair was far beyond the expectation of its promoters.

There were present as representatives of the National Committee, Tali Esen Morgan, the National Superintendent, and Arthur Scott Brook, chairman of the Program Committee. The banquet hall was most beautifully decorated and the service was of the very best. After the banquet the toastmaster, Mr. Julius E. Neuman, made the opening speech, telling what had been done during the past year for the N. A. O., and what is going to be done in the future. He predicted that every organist in the state would become members of the organization within the next year. Tali Esen Morgan, the next speaker, gave a brief history of the formation of the National Association of Organists, and its work every year since that time. Mr. Morgan stated that the organists represented the best class of musicians in this country, but that they had lived a narrow life within their own churches or communities. He urged them to advertise their names and profession in the musical papers so that people would come to know who they were. To stop giving "free" organ recitals and put a value on their musical services. Mr. Morgan was followed by Arthur Scott Brook, who stated that he was there as the personal representative of the National President, Dr. J. Christopher Marks, who on acount of a sudden engagement, found he could not keep his appointment to be at the banquet. Mr. Brook spoke on the fraternal purposes and value of the Association and predicted a very rapid growth in the membership during this year.

Rev. Scott Kidder, D. D., of Greenwich, one of the founders of the N. A. O., made a brilliant and a witty speech, urging the organists to come to the front and do something to unite all of the profession. He paid a tribute to Mr. Morgan, stating that the entire success of the movement was due to his untiring work. Arthur H. Turner of Springfield, Mass., gave a review of the last convention, stating that Ocean Grove was the "Musical Mecca" of America. The last speaker was Dr. Karl P. Harrington, professor of music at the Wesleyan University, at Middletown, who gave a brief account of his visit to Berlin and other European cities.

It was decided to hold the next state banquet at Hartford on Monday evening, November, when it is expected that quite a large delegation from New York will attend.

Grant-Schaefer. — Charles E. Lutton, Claire Livingston and David Jacobs, pupils of G. A. Grant-Schafer, sang at the Normal Park Methodist Episcopal Church on October 28, Mr. Grant-Schaefer being at the piano.

ALBION, MICH.

Mrs. Longman, who appeared here in recital, is a soloist of national reputation, with a studio in Chicago, and she delighted her audience. She gave her recital in an informal way, interpreting many of the songs and giving sketchy translations of the group of German legends, which added greatly to the pleasure of the guests. "The Cautionary Tales," a group of five songs by Liza Lehmann, furnished an excellent vehicle for her splendid dramatic ability, and gave her hearers an insight as to how really great an artist Mrs. Longman is.

The following program was sung by Mrs. Longman, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Orchard, of Chicago:

Old Songs—
My Faithful Johnnie.....Beethoven
The Love of Jane.....Old French
Last Night .....Kjerulf
Hans and Liesel.....Old German
Songs based on German Legends—
Waldesgespraech .....Schumann
Erlkoenig .....Loewe
Die Lorelei .....Liszt
Cry of Rachel .....Salter
Five Cautionary Tales.....Liza Lehmann
Jim
Matilda
Charles Augustus Fortescue
Rebecca Offendort
Henry King
Brindisi (Lucrece Borgia).....Donizetti
If I Could Call the Years Back.....North
It Isn't Raining Rain to Me.....Carey
The Camel's Hump.....German
Hame .....Davies

BOSTON OPERA COMPANY

An exceedingly handsome prospectus of the Boston opera season is at hand and its contents throughout are interesting.

The repertory is especially fine and includes the following works:

IN ITALIAN

Aida .....Verdi
Il Barbiere di Siviglia.....Rossini
La Boheme .....Puccini
La Gioconda (revival).....Ponchielli
Cavalleria Rusticana .....Mascagni
Don Giovanni .....Mozart
Francesca Da Rimini.....Zandonai
The Girl of the Golden West.....Puccini
The Jewels of the Madonna.....Wolf-Ferrari
Lucia di Lammermoor.....Donizetti
Madame Butterfly .....Puccini
Manon Lescaut .....Puccini
Otello .....Verdi
I Pagliacci .....Leoncavallo
Rigoletto .....Verdi
The Secret of Suzanne.....Wolf-Ferrari
Tosca .....Puccini
La Traviata .....Verdi
Il Trovatore .....Verdi

IN FRENCH

Carmen .....Bizet
Tales of Hofmann .....Offenbach
Faust .....Gounod
Louise .....Charpentier
Manon (revival) .....Massenet
Monna Vanna .....Fevrier
Samson et Dalila .....Saint-Saens
Thais .....Massenet

IN GERMAN

Haensel und Gretel .....Humperdinck
Die Meistersinger .....Wagner
Tristan und Isolde.....Wagner

Anthony—A feature of the Swedish Club Club Concert on last Sunday afternoon was the duet singing of Miss Margaret Slattery and Mr. N. W. Anthony, whose voices blended admirably and whose selections were very pleasing. Mr. Anthony also sang a number of solos very acceptably, being particularly pleasing in his Swedish songs.

JOHN DOANE, JR.

Mr. John Doane, Jr., head of the organ department at the Northwestern University School of Music, and organist and director at the First Congregational Church of Evanston spent the summer in San Diego, Cal.

While in California Mr. Doane was offered a most attractive position at Pomona College, in Claremont, a suburb of Los Angeles. He was kept busy in San Diego, some of the leading organists of the city studying with him, and he gave several recitals, one of which in the new White Temple Baptist Church attracted an audience of fifteen hundred people. Immediately after this recital Mr. Doane was offered an engagement this winter by the Amphion Club on an artists' course, which includes such artists as Bauer, Gogorza, Alda, etc.

MME. HELENE KOELLING

Helene Koelling, late prima donna soprano of the Manhattan Opera Company of New York and of the Montreal Opera Company, has been pronounced one of the most gifted of American coloratura sopranos, combining therewith the more difficult art of a concert singer.

Mme. Koelling through her education and early training in Chicago may be considered a Chicago product and her first appearance in recital here ought to be of interest not only to her large circle of friends, but to all admirers of "Bel Canto."

Evanston.—The first special musical service for the year at the First Congregational Church, under direction of John Doane, Jr., will be given on Sunday afternoon, November 9, at 4:30. The quartet is composed of Mrs. Sanger Steele, Miss Hazel Huntley, Mr. John B. Miller and Mr. Gustaf Holmquist.

The Eddy Hymns—A very readable article on "The Hymns of Mary Baker Eddy" was published in the Christian Science Monitor of Wednesday, October 15, the subject being treated with much skill and very evident appreciation.

Ehrhardt.—Mr. Edward Ehrhardt played at Temple Sholom Alliance on October 26, Leonora Club October 27, musicale October 31 and at the Baron Hirsh Club on November 11. He will present his north side pupils in recital in January.

Devries—Mrs. Hazel Eden Mudge, a pupil of Mr. Herman Devries of Chicago, has been engaged as soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, the numbers she will sing being "Vissi d'Arte (Tosca), and "Ritorna Vincitor" (Aida).

Johnson.—Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson was soloist at the third of the Epiphany organ recitals, given on Monday evening of this week by Dr. Francis Hemington.

Huntley.—Miss Hazel Huntley will appear in recital at Harrisburg, Ill., on November 12, and on November 15 and 16 at Hoopeston, Ill.

DR. W. RHYS-HERBERT'S "BETHLEHEM" PERFORMED SPLENDIDLY AT ST. PAUL, MINN.

(Special Correspondence)

St. Paul, Minn., October 29, 1913.

It is the city of St. Paul that claims the honor of giving Dr. Rhys-Herbert's "Bethlehem" its initial performance last evening, at the Dayton Avenue Presbyterian Church. It was sung as a part of the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the church and the pastorate of Dr. Maurice D. Edwards.

Many of the salaried soloists of the city gave their services in the chorus in a friendly effort to give Dr. Rhys-Herbert's latest work a good send-off, and as a matter of fact, it proved to be one of the most inspiring evenings of sacred music in the history of the city. The director of the chorus was Mr. Rollin M. Pease; the soloists, Mrs. Etta Waits Houstin, Mrs. George E. Gere, Mr. Owen T. Morris and Mr. Francis Rosenthal. Dr. Rhys-Herbert, the composer, presided at the organ in his usual masterly way.

THE ZANESVILLE, OHIO, SCHOOL OF MUSIC

A teachers' recital was given on Friday, October 10, by Charles Thatcher Whitcomb, tenor; Delia Porter, pianiste; Mary Patterson, pianiste; E. Francis Buckmeyer, violinist; Martha Spence and Joseph Spencer, accompanists.

The program was:

Selection by Students' Orchestra

Waldesrauschen ..... Liszt

Miss Porter

Witches Dance

Romance ..... Severn

Mr. Buckmeyer

Humoreske ..... Dvorak-Saenger

Selection by Orchestra

Kamennoi Ostrow ..... Rubinstein

Mary Patterson

Stillen wei di Nacht ..... Bohm

Mr. Whitcomb

Good Bye Rose ..... Burkhart

Selection by orchestra.

VON ENDE SCHOOL

At the Von Ende School of Music in New York, Mr. Lawrence Goodman played this program on Saturday afternoon:

Rhapsodie ..... Brahms

Hungarian Dance ..... Brahms

On Wings of Song (Transcribed for piano by Liszt) ..... Mendelssohn

Contrabandiste ..... Schumann

Carneval ..... Schumann

Impromtu, Nocturne, Scherzo ..... Chopin

Etude De Concert ..... DeSchloezer

Serenade ..... Brockway

Rhapsodie ..... Dohnanyi

Danse Negre ..... Scott

DEATH OF DUBOIS

Theodore Dubois, the famous organist and composer of France, died this week in Paris. M. Dubois was very well known to many Chicagoans as their pedagog, and he also was the composer of the "Fantasie Triumphale," which was written especially for the dedication of the Chicago Auditorium, and which was played at that time by Clarence Eddy.

PERMELIA GALE

Mrs. Permelia Gale, who is under the management of Alma Voedisch and whose residence is at 318 North Kenilworth avenue in Oak Park, is contralto soloist at the First Congregational Church of Oak Park and has made an excellent impression in that suburb.

Mrs. Gale has been engaged recently to sing the contralto parts in "The Messiah" when that work is given by the Evanston Choral Society, under the baton of Dean Peter C. Lutkin in December, and she has many other fine engagements for the succeeding months of the season which will be detailed later.

MR. HYDE'S PROGRAM

Following are the numbers which will be played by Herbert Hyde in his recital at Emmanuel Church in La Grange on next Monday evening:

Sonata No. 14 ..... Rheinberger
Praludium
Idylle
Toccata

Twilight ..... Stebbins

Melody ..... Massenet

Intermezzo (Fantasia Sonata) ..... Hyde

Lied, Le Soir, Andantino ..... Chauvet

Rhapsodie Catalane, Reverie, Elfs, Caprice Heroique ..... Bonnet

JEWELS OF THE MADONNA

The premiere of "The Jewels of the Madonna" that was expected to create a tremendous sensation in Paris, apparently failed of that point by a considerably majority. The appearance of the tenor failed to impress mightily, in the impassioned role of Gennaro; but the most disappointing part of the performance was Andree Vally, who essayed the role of Maliella. The Parisian cantatrice had a pleasing little voice, but from the very start, her audience seemed to lose interest and had no sensation beyond surprise that such an unconvincing singer was featured in such a dramatic role. One may readily imagine that this story would have been vastly different, had Mary Garden carried out her original intention to appear in this part.

JOHN DOANE'S CALIFORNIA RECITAL

Press comments on Mr. Doane's recital:

San Diego Union.—Armed with a mastery of technic, and an absolute knowledge of the capabilities of his instrument, Mr. Doane also possesses the requisite musicianship for an organist whose specialty is recital playing.

San Diego Sun.—Mr. Doane's recital was nothing short of superb.

Baptist News.—The technic Mr. Doane has developed is little less than amazing, altho Mr. Doane is too musicianly to allow technical brilliancy to obtrude itself upon the attention of the listener. A strongly poetical temperament rules all his interpretations, and this in turn is controlled by a musical intelligence and good taste which avoids the pitfalls of sentimentality that yawns so widely in the path of the temperamentally gifted. In a word, Mr. Doane is an artist, and at that, one of exceptional ability. (Advertisement)

The Piano Pedals By Mrs. A. M. Virgil. Clear, Concise, Melodious, Results unequaled. Price $1.00 Sale unparallelel. Your Dealer or The Virgil Piano School Co. 42 W. 76th St., New York

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
304 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 7931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

HAZEL EVERINGHAM
Pianist Accompanist Teacher Ensemble
Address 1251 N. State St. REDPATH BUREAU

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

The Elderly Person

THE ELDERLY PERSON

The year's necrology among musicians will include the names of two men who will be best, and perhaps longest remembered by compositions bearing the same title. Stephen Adams wrote the song "The Holy City," and Alfred R. Gaul called the cantata which he wrote for the Birmingham Festival "The Holy City." Each man voiced the age-enduring longing in a different manner, but each endeared himself to his time for revealing so much of the vision which came to him. In the background of every soul's consciousness is the hunger for some knowledge of what is to follow the present existence. Sooner or later that blank stone wall of the hereafter with the door shut tight faces every human being, and he realizes that he has no absolute knowledge of what it is to be. His faith is not destroyed, because his reason tells him that Infinity would not be Infinite if its ways were easily or readily understood. The very mystery and the inscrutable secrecy are revealing in themselves of the certainty of continuity. Otherwise the source would not be impregnable. But just because of the soul's longing for some accurate knowledge, it builds with religious fervor on the scriptural promises, and finds a reliable, a restoring comfort and confidence in those assurances of what shall be. And any vision from a far-seeing spirit is gratefully accepted as cementing the foundations already built. For that reason the Adams "Holy City" found eager multitudes waiting for its message of future happiness and its radiant pictures. And the composer put the text into easily flowing melodies that were as soothing in their way as were the restful words. It has been sung and played to the conventional "frazzle," but it is a long way from being worn out. It is not unwise to predict that it will live for a long, long time and fill a well-defined and useful purpose in the world of music.

There are any number of people who hate the sound of it, but there are more to whom it is real solace and refreshment, and because it ministers thus it has the essence of endurance, which after all is time's way of testing values. Adams did not write it until he had lived a long time, and it has the undercurrent of maturity. Its popularity induced a perfect flood of imitative literature of the same tendency. But the copies lived only a brief butterfly day. Much like the old Coenen setting of "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say." Others come and go, but this has continued to be the accepted one and holds its place undisturbed in the average choir loft.

Incidentally it may be remarked that the composer's name was really Maybrick, but for his own reasons he assumed the name of Adams for his writings. His brother was the unfortunate man whose death was so unusual and so shrouded with untoward conditions that for years his unhappy wife was under suspicion and imprisonment

The Elderly Person finds himself wandering how many persons feel now the little thrill of pleasure that came over any well-balanced soul when the jolly swinging rhythm of Adams' "Nancy Lee" was heard for the first time. He can't make much comment about the song, for it is written in the books that treasure occassional memories that he used to sing it himself. And that, as the gipseying song says, was "a long time ago," and would hardly be believed possible. It was first heard, however, by the Elderly Person, when sung by a young woman, May Phoenix, by name. Rather an unusual song for a woman to sing, but it redeemed from oblivion a concert that otherwise would have been consigned to dark places, because of its general inferiority. The concert giver was one of these "all round nuisances" who can "play" as he called it, several instruments, whistle some, fiddle a little, and sing too, on a pinch. This faker was blind in addition to his other misfortunes. The young woman was so gracious and sincere, and seemed to feel the humor of her situation so well, that the small audience fairly rose to all her offerings. And she did things so deftly that there was no patronage in the enjoyment. So after presenting Tours' "Three Singers" she fairly bubbled through "Nancy Lee" for encore, and introduced us to the damsel who would keep company with us for many years to come. In those days we were in the thick of covey of English songs which began flying across the ocean soon after the civil war and its effects were well past. Prior to their arrival Harrison Millard and Will S. Hays and Gumbert and Kucken had the monopoly of ballads. But every one who sang at all affected the operatic arias as their chief stock in trade. Contemporary or perhaps a little before Adams came the lovely Cowen songs, and Sullivan and Blumenthal. And Pinsuti too, we can't leave him out, for every soprano sang "Eyes So Blue" and every baritone reveled in the impetuous "Bedouin Love Song." It sounded more than good, not long ago, to hear a fresh voiced young fellow dashing his way through the royal measures of the fine old song. When The Elderly Person gets tired of seeing programs made up of Schubert and Schumann and Brahms he wants to get off into a corner and shake his aged head a little, and stamp his feeble foot and in quavering tones to protest that there were good songs sung in his heyday that have certain living rights yet, and should be given occasional hearing. Perhaps if he heard them again he might say that they really were not stalwart enough to stand comparison with the time-tried. But until it has been shown to his Missouri doubting spirit he is going to believe that "The Warrior Bold" and "Blue Alsatian Mountains" have poetry and melody and imagination in their makeup, and that Blumenthal's "Message" was well worth while.

Alfred R. Gaul's "Holy City" as a cantata bears somewhat the same relation to the larger or more erudite forms of composition that Adams' "Holy City" as a song bears to other church music. It is so popular, so well liked and so much used that by the elect it is to be looked at askance. Mr. Gaul was one of those musicians who began as boys in an English choir stall and became so saturated with the beauty and richness of the liturgy of the church, of its endless mystery and uplift, that they developed unconsciously into exponents of the many phases of that service. They have absorbed so much of history, of heroism, of lofty faith, of devotion, of reverence, of inspiration that they simply have to pour it out in new and glowing forms. In the finest sense of the word, the best of this sort of musical literature is inspired. It cannot well be less. Neither can it be without a certain authority and directness. Mr. Gaul began playing at 17 and was still playing when he passed away in September, at the age of seventy-six. He lived near Birmingham, England, and conducted and taught and played and composed all those busy years between seventeen and seventy-six. And out of it all, doubtless, his real heritage to his day and ours, will be the work which by its melodiousness, variety, majesty, tenderness and more than all, its sublime enunciation of unhesitating belief in immortality, has received an approval that cannot be gainsaid. It first came into the ken of the Elderly Person in that trying period of our history when President Garfield was assassinated. The lofty courage of the soprano aria: "These are they which came out of great tribulation," lent itself notably to the occasion when memorial services were held. The cantata was written earlier, but "Novelties" did not go out west so rapidly then as they do now. Birmingham has been rather fortunate in some of its commissions to composers. For Mendelssohn wrote his "Elijah" for one of its famous festivals, and if memory serves correctly, the "Gerontius" of Elgar was first heard there. The city for once honored its own, and in doing so honored itself, when Mr. Gaul was commissioned to write a work for one festival. It was not his first work, however. His beautiful pastoral, "Ruth," had already been welcomed. But the newer work has rather eclipsed the older one, and the ones following "The Holy City" have never quite equaled it in popularity. This is somewhat strange too. Perhaps time will reverse, in a measure, today's decision. The "Passion Music" more and more finds its way into the libraries of Lenten cantatas, along with "Crucifixion" and "Seven Last Words." This music is of most lovely quality, imbued with the greatest emotional tendencies and accenting in renewed intensity the great sacrifice and its obligatory renunciation, and the need for imitation and acceptance from all who would be worthy followers. Mr. Gaul's other works are but little known, his occasional anthems infrequently used, and his songs and part-songs unfamiliar this side of the water.

The Elderly Person finds himself wondering at the end, as at the beginning of his pages. These men, like all who went before, had visions and hungers, and aspirations and perhaps frets and carpings about that holy city which lay beyond their sight, and of which they sought to know, as they grew older they could not help but sense

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers

Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on

KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

MYRTLE Elvyn RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Kimball Piano Used
Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Concert Direction M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av. New York

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
"A Ladder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys .50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice .50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS
Phone Austin 12717
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT
5943 OHIO STREET

WILLIAM HINSHAW
BARITONE
Of the Metropolitan Opera Company
Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

Iva Bigelow Weaver SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE. WIS.

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work. May Mansfield PARIS STUDIOS: 27 rue Boisleveo Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory 207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.
A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Aak for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN AMERICAN COMPOSER In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals. Recitals of His Compositions. Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

H. W. OWENS VOCAL DIRECTOR
WESTERN CONSERVATORY
Voice Teacher Coaching
PHONE CENTRAL 7804

JENNY DUFAU CHICAGO GRAND OPERA COMPANY
COLORATURA SOPRANO

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

FOR SALE—A small upright piano, at a bargain. Address M., Music News.

TO RENT—Time in Studio; 84 Auditorium Bldg. Apply any morning.

FOR SALE—Concert grand piano; genuine Henry F. Miller, Boston; eight feet ten inches long; unusually beautiful instrument; suitable for hall, school or large drawing room; bring expert musician to test it; owner going away; $250 cash. Address H. Music News.

FOR RENT—A few good teaching hours; 516 Kimball Hall.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

TIME TO RENT—In large studio in Fine Arts Bldg. Address W. D. Music News.

Harmony and Counterpoint, by Mail if Desired
Critic and Special Writer Musical Mss. Edited

LESTER S. BUTLER

TEACHER OF SINGING

Boston and Worcester Critic and Correspondent of Music News. Steinert Hall, Boston, Mass. Day Building, Worcester, Mass.

Compositions and Arrangements

A Sigh (medium voice)	.50—17
Dear Girl with the Dreamy Eyes	.50—17
Twilight Hour	.30—17
Missionary Call (mixed quartet)	.05
Brotherhood Hymn (male quartet)	.06
The Darkey's Lullaby (male quartet)	.15
Inner Voice Waltz (Piano) J. W. Black	.30—17

All the compositions here listed are musically melodious. Obtained of the advertiser or at music stores.

Anna Groff - Bryant

Studios of Vocal Art

Ethel Bell Reeves Assistant

606 Fine Arts Building Chicago, Ill.

Phone Wabash 1051

Arthur P. Thomas

CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER

Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

Wm. Clare Hall

Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Elias Bredin

TENOR

NINTH FLOOR, AUDITORIUM BUILDING

Hazel Dell Neff

SOPRANO

PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN

PIANIST TEACHER

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and

4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.

COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing

Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin

Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN

SOPRANO

Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital

429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

by their own attitude toward it, that it existed. But they could not know by actual contact until they too were behind the door closed so sternly to all who remain behind. What did they find? And was there a special beauty because of the pictures they had drawn? And possibly a special benediction for them because of their use of their imagination to succor other pilgrims? There isn't any answer to these wanderings. But of one thing there is now no question. They know.

THE ELDERLY PERSON.

———♯♯♯———

Owens.—Mr. H. W. Owens of Chicago, who has had great experience in choral conducting throughout the country, is spending almost all his time in Chicago this season and has an extremely large vocal class, many from out of the city, among whom may be named Miss Alys Randabaugh, Celina, Ohio; Marian Mentzer, Conroy, O.; Mayme Jenkins and Lillian Jones of Jackson, Ohio; Helen Glockle of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Stella Brown and Ralph Hurst of Omaha, Neb.; Robert Jones of Venedocia, Ohio; Malcolm Wyckoff of Morrisonville, Ill., and Pearl Mayme of Tipton, Ind. He also expects a few more from Ohio by the winter term.

———♯♯♯———

Evanston—Frau Wilhelmina Christiana Pfirshing, a valued member of the University School of Music, whose specialty is languages, gave a very interesting lecture at the Music Hall of the Northwestern University, on Tuesday, on "Evolution of the Book." She was assisted by Mr. Lemuel W. Kilby and Miss Josephine Jones, artist pupils of G. A. Grant-Schaefer, who were accompanied by their teacher, in an excellent program of songs.

———♯♯♯———

Chicago Normal.—A musicale will be given at the Chicago Normal College in Englewood at 12:15 p. m., November 10. Among the music numbers will be the cantata, "The Sea and the Moon," John Hyatt Brewer, given by the Senior Glee Club under the direction of H. W. Fairbank, and "The Fisher Maiden (Smart), by the Junior Glee Club, under direction of Miss Garthe. The soloists will be Mabel Sharp Herdien, Waldemar Zutz, Rose Wood, Valerie Walker and Marian Chase Schaeffer.

———♯♯♯———

International.—The new International College of Music, under the direction of Emma Clark-Mottl, has added a number of new teachers to the faculty, among them Mr. Herbert M. Bailey, baritone, who will have charge of the public school music department. The college has organized a chorus and orchestra and will soon give a large faculty concert.

———♯♯♯———

Lund—Mme. Edla Lund, the newly elected head of the vocal department at the Musical Art Institute in Oklahoma City, Okla., gave a song recital on last Thursday evening in that city, which was an unusual success, the local press being particularly enthusiastic in its praise.

———♯♯♯———

Williams.—Mrs. Stacy Wiliams gave a musicale at her residence, 4745 Sheridan road on last Wednesday evening, when several prominent young singers, pupils at her studio, appeared in a well selected program with great success.

IN BRIEFER FORM

Paulist Choristers.—The concert announced for last Sunday afternoon was postponed at the last minute to November 30.

♮ ♮ ♮

Beard.—William Beard, baritone, was soloist for the opera evening at Fullerton Hall last Sunday. The work given was "Faust."

♮ ♮ ♮

Zukowsky.—Alexander Zukowsky presented the usual program last Sunday afternoon with his orchestra, at the Hebrew Institute.

♮ ♮ ♮

Thompson.—Mr. Cave Thompson, blind pianist of Chicago, will give a recital at the Milton School of Music, at Milton, Wis. on November 13.

♮ ♮ ♮

MacLeish.—Miss Lillian MacLeish, soprano, gave a Scotch program, in costume, at the residence of Mrs. M. Haddon MacLean on November 6.

♮ ♮ ♮

Heyman.—Miss Dora Heyman, a pupil of Della Thal, will appear in a very interesting piano recital at the Howard Theater on Sunday afternoon at 3.

♮ ♮ ♮

Itte.—Mr. Fritz Itte, violinist, and Mr. Carl Klammsteiner, 'cellist, assisted Miss Henriette Weber in the "Opera Evening" at Fullerton Hall on Sunday.

♮ ♮ ♮

Ward.—Mrs. Katherine Howard Ward played a program of organ numbers preliminary to the services of the Sunday Evening Club at Orchestra Hall last Sunday.

♮ ♮ ♮

Fanning.—Mr. Cecil Fanning's recital at the Masonic Temple in St. Paul on Monday was a splendid success—a capacity house and great enthusiasm greeting the young singer.

♮ ♮ ♮

Cookingham.—Miss Edna Cookingham played piano numbers at a reception given by the Playgoers Club to the "Yellow Jacket" Company at the Congress Hotel last Sunday.

♮ ♮ ♮

Langer.—Mrs. Ora Padget Langer, contralto, sang at the Arche Club on last Monday and will appear at the Illinois Club, in connection with Charles Lindquest on next Sunday afternoon.

♮ ♮ ♮

Woodstock.—Mrs. Fidelia B. Hamilton will present at the Presbyterian Church on the 17th the Alexander Matthews cantata "Life Everlasting." Mrs. L. A. Torrens of Chicago will be the soloist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Turner Hall.—The first of the Turner Hall concerts on North Clark street, under the direction of William Boeppler, will take place on Sunday afternoon at 3, the soloist being Mabel Sharp Herdien.

♮ ♮ ♮

North.—Dorothea North sang October 18 in recital at Quincy, Ill., and this will be followed in close succession by recitals at Des Moines, Iowa; St. Clara's College, Sinsinawa, Wis.; Springfield, Ill.; Red Wing, Minn.; Albert Lea, Minn., and in a private musicale at Lake Forest, Ill.

Music in America

SYRACUSE, N. Y.

Syracuse is once more wide awake musically, and promises much that is good and will be appreciated by concert-goers.

The opening month of the season, October, was so unusually full that we shall be able to make brief notice of only the most important concerts and recitals.

The Melba-Kubelik-Burke appearance at the Arena drew an audience which almost filled that large auditorium. The audience was at first cold, probably due to the size of the hall, which made the volume of tone which these artists brought to their hearers seem small in comparison to what it would be in some of the smaller auditoriums where we have been accustomed to hear such artists; when this feeling had worn off there was no lack of warmth and enthusiasm.

The U. S. Marine Band attracted large audiences both afternoon and evening of October 20. The afternoon program was largely made up of light numbers. The performance on the xylophone by Mr. Lewin was marvelous in its line. The best number was the "Lohengrin" Fantasie, but it was a rather sudden shaking up we received when this was followed by a two-step as encore.

The evening program included numbers by Wagner, Liszt, Mascagni and others—an excellent program in its entirety.

Two organ recitals were given at the First M. E. Church, by the organist, Mr. Harry Vibbard, assisted by his choir and a violinist. Mr. Vibbard's programs are always interesting and given with that consummate skill which puts the sympathetic hearer at once at ease so he can lean back and thoroughly enjoy the program from beginning to finish. We feel that these recitals given by Mr. Vibbard from time to time are of such value that the church could well afford to thoroughly advertise them and as a result have the auditorium filled to overflowing. There is an uplift experienced at such recitals which makes them of a moral as well as intellectual value.

Professor Alfred C. Goodwin's piano recital on October 22 was the first of the annual series of recitals given by members of the music faculty of the Fine Arts College. Piano and vocal recitals by other members of the faculty will be given at intervals during the season.

The first public students' recital will be given in Concert Hall, Crouse College, on the afternoon of November 12.

Frequenters of the opera were delighted to hear Emma Trentini in "The Firefly," last week, and were no less enthusiastic over her work than at her first appearance at the Wieting, when she was the admiration of all who heard her.

♮ ♮ ♮

Coming Events

The Syracuse Arts Club has announced the following list of artists for this, the sixth season.

October 27, Mr. Cecil Fanning, baritone; Mr. H. B. Turpin, piano.

December 4, Miss Grace Kern, soprano; Miss Ethel Liginski, pianist.

January 13, The Adamowski Trio.

February 10, Mr. I. Bachellor, poet-novelist.

March 10, Miss Christine Miller, contralto.

The officers and directors of the club are: Mr. Harold L. Butler, president; Mrs. Carleton A. Chase, vice-president; Mr. Frederick V. Bruns, secretary-treasurer; Miss Jessie Decker, Mr. Harry Allen Flint, Mr. Ralph Stillwell, Mrs. H. H. Wadsworth, Professor Edgar A. Emens, Mr. W. P. Hitchcock.

The Central New York Music Festival Association has resumed its weekly rehearsals and in making preparations for a greater festival than that of last year. May 4, 5 and 6 have been announced as the date of the festival. No other one feature of the musical activities of a city will do so much toward interesting and educating the masses as a well conducted choral organization. Such an organization merits the support of all who are interested in the creating of a greater interest in the better class of music.

ZENO NAGEL.

CHARLESTON, WEST VIRGINIA

The Aborn English Grand Opera Company gave two performances at the Burlew Thursday, matinee and evening, presenting a double bill, "Hansel and Gretel," and "Cavalleria Rusticana," to "fair sized" audiences.

I wish we might stimulate the people to a little patronage of efforts of this kind, for I believe the Aborns are doing (even with such a seeming lack of interest on the part of the necessary co-operators) an immense amount of good in the way of education.

The Humperdinck opera, in the afternoon was enjoyed by the youngsters, but "Cavalleria" was almost too much for them. Their elders, however, as many as could attend, voiced well their appreciation; and the evening audience helped along in enthusiasm at all events.

The casts offered were perhaps the best that have been here and might justly call for individual consideration, did space permit. But with a word in praise of Madame Edith Helena as Santuzza, and Henry Taylor and the conductor, James Tressi, we must be content with expressing our congratulations, and good wishes, and hopes for return engagements.

Word comes from Huntington of the meeting of the West Virginia State Federation of Women's Club, October 15, and of a delightful program given by the Huntington Choral Association.

Program provided for the entertainment of the West Virginia State Federation of Women's Clubs, by the Hostess Clubs of Huntington, and given in Marshall College Auditorium, Wednesday, October 15, 1913, at 8:15 o'clock:

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
3534 Lake St. Available for Church Position

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School 9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN Q. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg

Sara Burdick
TEACHER OF VOICE DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Concert, Oratorio, Recital 727 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Stewart 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Palmer Christian
Concert Organist - Pupils - Coach - Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music. Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone O. P. 4397. 206 South Lombard Av., Oak Park Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Orotorio Recitol
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av
Phone Normal 1406

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS
PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

Chorus—
Farewell Minnehaha ..... Coleridge-Taylor
Choral Association
Piano—
Menuetto-Scherzando ..... Stavenhagen
Novelette ..... Rimsky-Korsakoff
Miss Mildred Macgeorge
Vocal—
Bedouin Love Song ..... Chadwick
Mr. H. Clay Warth
Piano—
Funerailles ..... Liszt
Miss Mildred Macgeorge
Vocal—
Prologue from Pagliacci ..... Leoncavallo
Mr. Alfred Wiley
Chorus—
Sweet and Low ..... Barnby
Choral Association

Mr. Warth's solo was especially well spoke of.

The Kanawha Musical Society announces a series of three "Artists' Concerts" for the winter. The Russian Symphony Orchestra, November 17; Alice Nielsen, December 5, and the Barrere Ensemble sometime in March.

J. HENRY FRANCIS.

♯ ♯ ♯

LOS ANGELES

The Tivoli Opera Company of San Francisco, Mr. W. H. Leahy, manager, is giving very enjoyable performances. Last week Balfe's "Bohemian Girl," and this week Planquette's "Chimes of Normandy." The orchestra is well handled by Hans S. Linne. Mr. Henry Santry, as "Count Arnheim," also "Henri," in the "Chimes," proved vocally and dramatically a popular favorite. Myrtle Dingwall as "Serpolette," was surely charming in voice and acting highly satisfactory.

Mr. Charles E. Gallagher as "Devilshoof," and the "Bailli," was nothing lacking in excellent rendition. John R. Phillips, tenor, in "Bohemian Girl," acted well and sang with some very good effect, with a quality of tone not wholly satisfactory.

Miss Rena Vivienne, in "Arline" and "Germaine," proved a capable and interesting artist, and is in the line of popular recognition. Next week "The Beggar Student" will be presented.

Mme. Frances Alda, prima donna, soprano; Frank La Forge, pianist, and Gutia Cassini, 'cellist, will appear in the Behymer second series of the Philharmonic course, November 4.

The repetition of the Verdi Centennial by the People's Orchestra, drew a large audience and the performance of the Requiem Mass, by orchestra, chorus and soloists, exceeded in excellence the former presentation. The rendition of the "Messiah," was promised for the Christmas time.

The Matinee Musical Club gave a very enjoyable program in celebrating Verdi Centennial. Vocal and instrumental selections from his best operas and compositions were rendered.

Master Alfred Wallenstein, a boy of 14 years, has been discovered as a well nigh prodigy in the mastery of the 'cello. A group of well known musicians, give in his behalf, a concert, to raise a fund to send him abroad to perfect his education in the line of his promising talent.

Richard Schliewen, second concertmaster of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra, who comes with the best training and experience with European teachers and orchestras, is to be a valuable adjunct to Herr Tandler's ensemble.

The "Symphonic Poem," by Sibelius, which is to have its initial performance here, is becoming very interesting to the orchestra.

Signor Achille Alberti, who has been away seven months in the East in operatic work with his pupil, Miss Margaret Jarman, and also a trip to Europe (Italy) placing this young artist, has returned to his home in Los Angeles. He is a baritone of pleasing and artistic equipment in opera.

S. W. MOUNTZ.

446 West Fortieth Place.

♯ ♯ ♯

INDIANAPOLIS

President's day of the Matinee Musicale was celebrated October 8, at Hollenbeck Hall. David Baxter, basso, and Mrs. Arthur Monninger, pianist, gave the program. Mr. Baxter was in excellent voice and delighted the large audience with his artistic singing. Mrs. Monninger displayed a fluent technic and good rhythm. Miss Marie Flanner added greatly to the program with her sympathetic accompaniments.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Indianapolis Orchestra gave its first concert of the season at the Murat, October 12. Miss Alma Beck, soprano, was the soloist. The ensemble of the orchestra is very much improved this year and altogether the program was a most finished one in regards to technic and Mr. Ernestinoff conducted with his usual verve and precision. Miss Beck has a voice of much natural beauty and she uses it with intelligence. Her personality is most pleasing and she was accorded a very enthusiastic reception, the audience demanding several encores. The program follows: German Triumphal March (Reinecke); Festival Overture (Lassen); Vltava (Smetana); Aria, "Farewell, Ye Hills," from "Jeanne d'Arc" (Tschaikowsky); Unfinished Symphony (Schubert); "Under Thy Window" (Lachaume); "A Music Box" (Liadow), and "Dance of the Hours" from "La Giaconda" (Ponchielli).

♮ ♮ ♮

The pupils of Klarissa Koons Estabrook, of the College of Musical Art, gave a recital at the college October 20. The following pupils took part: Medora Hopkins, Kenneth Ried, June Jones and Jessie Heil, assisted by Crystal Topp and Cleon Colvin, violinists. A very artistic and enjoyable program was given.

Johann Berthelsen, baritone, of the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music, gave his debut recital at Hollenbeck Hall, October 21. He had the assistance of Charles H. Gabriel, Jr., pianist, and the following program was given: "Frulingsglaube" and "Der Lindenbaum" (Schubert), "Ich Grolle Nicht" (Schumann), "Sonate, Op. 26" (Beethoven), "L'Heure Exquise" (Hahn), "J'ai Pleure en reve" (Hue), "A toi" (Bemberg), "Jeux d'eau" (Ravel), "Ballade, No. 1" (Brune), Prologue from "Pagliacci" (Leoncavallo), "Mephisto Waltz" (Liszt), "A Spirit Flower" (Campbell-Tipton), and "The Love of Yesterday" (Charles H. Gabriel). Mr. Berthelsen sang with artistic finish and his interpretations reflected musicianship and poise. His enunciation in French, German and English is fine. One of the most novel and interesting numbers on the program was the "Ballade," by Brune. It is a number of unusual musical value and should find its way in the repertoire of concert pianists. Mr. Gabriel was very much enjoyed in his share of the program and also came in for honors as composer, his song being one of real artistic worth. Miss Alta Randall supplied very artistic accompaniments.

♮ ♮ ♮

The first subscription concert of the Maennerchor was given October 22, Miss Maggie Teyte being the attraction.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Indianapolis Conservatory School of Grand Opera, under direction of Johann Berthelsen, has organized and begun rehearsals twice weekly for the study and production of the world's greatest operas. Among those to be given this season are: "Carmen" (second act), "Martha" (second act), "Il Trovatore" (fourth act), "Romeo and Juliet" (marriage scene and second act), "Madam Butterfly" (second act), and "Marriage of Figaro" (first and second acts). G. Y.

♮ ♮ ♮

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The first meeting of the Piano Teachers' Association was held Wednesday evening, October 15, at 1410 N street, N. W. The subject for the evening was "How Can the Association Help Toward the Greater Success of Its Members?"

The program for the coming season was decided upon, a bulletin of which will be issued shortly for the use of members. At its different meetings the association will consider during the year the elements which contribute to the success of the teacher of piano.

The petition for the crediting of the outside study of music in the high schools, presented by the association to the high school authorities, was read, as also the general working plan presented by the executive committee. Its adoption in the high schools, although in a simplified form, is a matter of great moment to all interested in the progress of music in the District. The present conditions for granting credits were explained and application blanks distributed among those present.

In regard to the difficulties being encountered in making the association a success itself, and thus a factor for the success of its individual members, the president spoke as follows:

"The beginnings of an association such as ours are bound to be difficult, especially in such a city as Washington, where, up to the present time musical interest has been largely only scattered, and organization along musical lines almost notoriously impossible. We all have the hope, however, that in the future musical interests will concentrate more definitely in this city, and signs seem to point that way. If the association can struggle along until that time comes, helping as much as possible to further this purpose, it will be all the more prepared to fill a needed place in the future musical life of the capital through the experience and development to be gained only through growth.

"As a watchword for the coming year, I should suggest 'Persistence.' Nothing in the world will take the place of persistence. Talent will not, for nothing is more common than unsuccessful men of talent. Genius will not, for genius unrewarded is almost a proverb. Education will not: the

ELLA L. MILLS — PIANIST — American Conservatory and 117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

JOHN R. RANKL — Bass-Baritone — PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL — 609 FINE ARTS BUILDING — Phone Harrison 6880

SOFIA STEPHALI — COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO — CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS — Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912 — Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

HANS HESS — CELLIST — American Conservatory — Telephone Lincoln 7917

MARGARET LESTER — SOPRANO — Phone Harrison 6880 — WILLIAM — COMPOSER — Accompanist — 608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George — Children's Harmony — Chicago Piano College

Jennie F. W. Johnson — Contralto — American Conservatory and 4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Preiser Violin School — ALBERT LEO PREISER Director — Phone Austin 4043 — STUDIOS 530 N. Pine Av., Austin 5407 S. Halsted St. and 2831 Washington Boul.

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS — OSCAR SEAGLE — BARITONE — 17 Avenue Mozart Paris (France) — American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM — PIANIST AND TEACHER — In Paris all Summer — 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK — DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS — Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London — FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY

WHITEHILL — BARITONE — Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON — SOPRANO — 520 Fine Arts Bldg — Phone Drexel 8183

Esther Plumb — CONTRALTO — 4173 Lake Avenue — Phone Oakland 3145 — Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson — Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

WALTER DIEDERICH — TENOR — TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL — 608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

MR. TENOR MRS. DRAMATIC READER — Karl Buren Stein — JOINT RECITALS — 55 Auditorium Bldg. — TEACHERS of SINGING ELOCUTION ACTING

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

DanielProtheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO 955 Third Av., Detroit, Mich.
Chicago address, care of Music News

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

Harriet Case SOPRANO
Management Sam'l B Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., Second Floor

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STEEN
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

world is full of educated men who have been failures. Determination and persistence alone are all powerful. The present purpose of the association should be to foster among its members knowledge and enthusiasm which are the chief stimuli to persistent effort. The consideration during the year of the subjects chosen should give a certain amount of knowledge that will be helpful toward success. Moreover, if every member strives to regard every other member with consideration and a feeling of good-fellowship and mutual helpfulness, rather than taking a harmful critical attitude, there is of necessity bound to spring up an enthusiasm without which all success is impossible.

"Therefore, let us take for our motto for the coming year 'Enthusiasm and Persistence.' 'Press on' has solved and always will solve the problems of the human race, so why not our own individual problems and the problems of the Washington Piano Teachers' Association?"

♮ ♮ ♮

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, Dr. Karl Muck, conductor, will give five concerts at the New National Theater this winter. The dates are November 4, December 6, January 6, February 17 and March 17. As usual the concerts will be on Tuesday afternoons and will begin at 4:30 o'clock.

An unusually brilliant list of soloists is announced, among them being such celebrated artists as Pederewski, Fritz Kreisler, Teresa Careno and Elizabeth Boehn Van Endert. Mme. Van Endert is the principal lyric soprano of the Royal Opera, Berlin. This will be her first appearance in this country. Other artists announced are Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler, pianist; Mme. Maggie Teyte, prima donna of the Chicago Grand Opera Company; Mme. Schumann-Heink, contralto; Ysaye, Godowsky and Girardy; Miss Alice Nielsen, prima donna; John McCormack, Irish tenor, and Mme. Julia Culp.

Dr. Muck, who is now at his home in Austria, will arrive in this country the last of this month. HORACE D. HITCHCOCK.

———♯♯♯———

CINCINNATI

The Westminster Presbyterian Church Choir of Hamilton, Ohio, gave the oratorio, "The Prodigal Son," by Vincent. The tenor was Mr. Wm. C. Smith, a pupil of Mr. L. Drew Mosher. Mr. Smith possesses a very beautiful tenor voice, and is an extremely talented young man. He acquitted himself with much credit in his solo parts and with the baritone.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Herbert Schatz, baritone, who possesses an exceptionally fine voice, and is a pupil of Mr. L. Drew Mosher's, was the soloist on Sunday last for the First Presbyterian Church, singing the baritone parts in Barnaby's "Rebekah."

♮ ♮ ♮

The recital given by Mr. Sidney C. Durst, pianist and organist, and Mr. John C. Hersh, bass, at Hamilton, Ohio, on October 21, was financially and artistically a great success. These two gentlemen are special favorites in Cincinnati. Mr. Durst is one of our best organists and is constantly before the public. On this occasion Mr. Durst rendered exceptionally well the "Postludio" by Manzanares, and "Idylle" by Rhinebergen. He showed himself also a composer of no mean ability, opening the program with one of his own compositions, "Festival Prelude." He was also the accompanist to Mr. Hersh on this occasion.

Mr. John C. Hersh is a native of Cincinnati and the possessor of an excellent bass voice which he uses with skill and good taste. He displayed unusual ability in two Strauss songs, "Zueignung" and "Mit deinem blauen augen," and Tschaikowsky's "Pilgrim Song." Mr. Hersh has done much public work and we hope to continue hearing him often in the future.

L. DREW MOSHER.

———♯♯♯———

MILWAUKEE

The Arion Musical Club, with Daniel Protheroe director, as formerly have announced a program quite up to their usually fine standard and are also bringing forward their Junior Musical Club at a festival concert of the combined clubs.

November 11 will be the first, with the assistance of Florence Hinkle, soprano, and Herbert Kirschner, violinist. The second, February 26, to consist of part songs, and Mildred Potter, contralto, assisting. The third, May 5, the Arion May Festival Concert, with J. H. Brines, tenor, and Lucille Stevenson, soprano, assisting artists. The club has now their own home and hall for rehearsing and featuring many social and musical events for associate members as well, free of charge—the whole creating an ideal interest and fellowship so necessary for success. It is with much satisfaction we hear of Mr. Boeppler's appointment as director of a new symphony orchestra in Chicago. He has been a pioneer in so many things musical for the benefit of Milwaukee, and so ready to recognize home artists as well as foreign, that local musicians should and do feel satisfaction in any new honors and opportunities awaiting him.

The one deplorable thing about the musical situation in Milwaukee is the lack of a symphony orchestra and sufficient orchestral concerts. We must be duly appreciative to the Music Verein this year in presenting the Chicago Orchestra in an extended series. They have always done something in this line, but never undertaking as large a project as this year.

Among interesting events of the near future will be a piano recital by Sidney Silber of Lincoln, Neb., formerly of Milwaukee. It is several years since Mr. Silber has visited Milwaukee and his many friends will surely welcome the event.

The Mills & Hollander concert direction announce four concerts on a large scale insuring popular prices at the Auditorium. Few people uninterested realize the immense difficulty in filling the shoes of an impresario. When our biggest artists are presented in a small place the price of seats are too high; when in the Auditorium many object to the acoustics. We feel in reading the list of artists presented by this new concert direction that the latter objection is largely met in the selection of artists who are equal to any demands.

November 20—Mme. Melba, Jan Kubelik, Mr. Edmund Burke, baritone.

January 29—Alice Nielsen, Nicoline Zedeler, violinist; Mr. Adams Buell, pianist.

February 21—Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra; Mr. Harold Bauer, soloist.

March 24—Mme. Clara Butt, Mr. Kennerly Rumford.

The heartiest good wishes extend to these popular young musicians in their venture in the managerial field.

MUSIC AT RIPON, WISCONSIN

The artists' recital and concert course for the season of 1913 and 1914 was brilliantly opened with an organ recital by Mr. Clarence Eddy, the noted organist, on Monday evening, October 20. This course is given under the auspices of the Ripon College School of Music, of which Mrs. Elizabeth Battle Bintliff is the director. The program presented by Mr. Eddy was a most interesting one. He is a master of the art of program making as well as of his chosen instrument, the organ. The numbers contained in this program ranged from the severely classical great "G Minor Fugue" of J. S. Bach, which was played by request, to the music of modern composers. Mr. Eddy always places some novelties on his programs. Those compositions which were designated "new" in this evening's recital were "At Twilight," by J. Frank Frysinger, and "Fantasie Symphonique," Op. 28, by Rossetter G. Cole. "At Twilight" met with popular approval, the audience receiving it with much enthusiasm. Mr. Cole's "Fantasie Symphonique" was of particular interest to a Ripon audience, for Mr. Cole was once the director of the School of Music and is very well known in the city, having here many friends. It proved to be a very masterful piece of writing for the organ and an important addition to the literature of that instrument. It must be a great source of satisfaction to a musician where his "new" compositions receive the attention of an artist like Mr. Eddy and are chosen by him for his program. The composer can be sure that his work will receive adequate interpretation and be presented to the public under the most favorable circumstances. Comment on Mr. Eddy's playing is only favorable. Those who formerly heard him say "better than ever," and all agree that his playing was wonderful. He brought from the organ such effects that one had only to close the eyes to hear the grand orchestra. He is preeminently sincere in his work. He greatly pleased his Ripon audience and gained many new friends and admirers. The next number of the course is on November 12 and will be a joint recital by Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson, the well known Chicago contralto, and Mrs. Helena Stone Torgerson, harpist. E. B. B.

Demorest.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Demorest of Los Angeles, announce the birth of a girl, born October 2, Marjorie Jacqueline Demorest. Mr. Demorest is organist of one of Los Angeles's largest churches, the Third Church of Christ, Scientist. The Demorests are receiving many congratulations.

Williams.—Miss Katherine Williams and Miss Stella Harsh will give a series of opera informal talks at the residence of Miss Williams, 941 Hyde Park boulevard, through the season, the first being on November 19 at 10:30 a. m.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 65 Rue de Seine
EVERINGHAM Hazel (Tel. North 3766) 1251 N. State St.
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1635 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 5171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4788) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 375.
EMANUEL N. B. (auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Charles S. Wray Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

HARPSICHORD

PELTON-JONES Frances (New York) 3 W. 92nd St.

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boisievant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir), 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 605 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
DRIGGS and LE MESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av.
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Flournoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE J. S. (Lecture Recitals) 62 W. 45, New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 257 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 44 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone Drexel 3987) 4955 Oakenwald Av.
DEAL Alice R. 715 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 6402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo 2534 Lake Ave.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2868) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (61 Schiller St.) Pianist, Organist, Accompanist
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av,, Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5348 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie (Res. Phone Midway 1692) American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1384 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 35 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2316 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Stewart 2519) 5415 Sangamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Milwaukee, Wis.) 558 Jefferson St.
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5065) 8555 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenu
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenue
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorium (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COCKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.
DOELLING Mae (Concert Pianist) 4141 N. Hermitage Av.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio

ERST Stephen Adolph
1553 Edgewater Place

FAIRCLOUGH G. H.
Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn

FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season.
2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.

FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.)
Res. Studio, 1527 High St.

FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032)
874 Cass St.

FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.

GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236)
Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood

GEORGE Louise
Chicago Piano College

GRANQUIST Arthur
Coln n.t [illegible]

GODFREY Eleanor F.
Kimball Hall

HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music

HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music
Northwestern University School of Music

HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773)
750 Bittersweet Place

HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045)
426 Fine Arts Building

HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.)
443 Day Building

HUNT Emily Parsons (Phone Highland Park 120)
520 Fine Arts Bldg (Mon. and Thurs. P. M.)

HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741)
Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.

IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music)
306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9206)

JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41)
Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall

KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.)
Arlington Av. and May St.

KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School)
712 Fine Arts Bldg.

LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals)
3350 North Halsted St.

LEVY Heniot (Kimball Hall)
American Conservatory

LIEBLING Emil
Kimball Hall

LOOMIS Clarence
American Conservatory

McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.)
North Shore School of Music

McKAY Louis P., 2 Nelson Pl.
Grand Rapids, Mich.

MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W)
American Conservatory, Kimball Ha

NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.)
(University School of Music

NYVALL David Jr. (Jamestown, N. Y.)
Hill Piano School

OLIVER Mary Lindsay
Moline Ill.

PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute)
415 W. 61st Place

PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904)
419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St.

PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288)
1921 Wolfram St.

PILLSBURY Agnes Hope
707 Fine Arts Bldg.

PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.)
Huron College School of Music

RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766
620 Fine Arts Bldg.

RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av.
Chicago Musical College

RICE Emma
Stillman Valley, Ill.

RIVE-KING Julie
Bush Temple Conservatory

RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist)
Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629

ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142)
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.)
11 South 20th Av., East

RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.)
3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn

RYDER Theodora Sturkow
4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)

SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420)
American Conservatory

STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.)
Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax

STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715)
5828 Woodlawn Av.

STOUT Lilian Mary
429 Fine Arts Bldg.

SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music.

SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall)
1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771

SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher)
American Conservatory

SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute of Music

STEAD Mabel Riggs
Peoria, Ill.

THAL Della (620 Addison St.)
610 Fine Arts Building

THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.)
Lawrence Conservatory

THOMPSON Frank Olin
Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee

TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn)
55 Auditorium

von MICKWITZ Harold
Bush Temple Conservato

WALLACE Evangeline
622 Kimball Hall

WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831)
American Conservatory.

WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City)
4414 Main St.

WATT Harmon H.
Chicago Piano Colle

WILFORD J. E.
502 Kimball Hall

WILLARD Carolyn Louise
721 Fine Arts Bl

WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany)
Schaper Str. 22 H. P.

WILLIAMS Kathryn L.
1516 Maller's Bldg.

WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist)
Denver, Colo (2226 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Lonisville, Ky.
Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son
820 Fine Arts Bldg.

C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block
Syracuse, N. Y.

DITSON Oliver
Boston, Mass

DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8156)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

FILLMORE Music House
528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.

FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York
7 and 11 Bible House

GAMBLE HINGED Music Co.
67 E. Van Buren

ILLINOIS MUSIC CO.
6119 Greenwood Ave.

LYMAN M. B. and Co.
522 Kimball Hall

MacDERMID James G.
Fine Arts Bldg.

SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.)
64 E. Van Buren St.

THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co.
A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.

Waldo Music Co. Publishers
235 W. Newton St., Boston

WITMARK M. & Sons
New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2131)
639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R)
Columbia School of Music

ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1571)
American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory
Kimball Hall

ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Ar
Fine Arts Bldg.

BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art
74 Auditorium Bldg.

BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle
School of Music, Ripon, Wis.

BLISS School of Music (Oak Park)
234 N. Kenilworth Av.

BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice
714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av

BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music
Zanesville, Ohio

Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director
N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.

CHAIGNEAU School of Music
69 rue Raynouard, Paris

CHICAGO Piano College
Kimball Hall

CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.)
Kimball Hall, Chicago.

CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.)
430 Fine Arts Bldg.

Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec.
40 Scott St.

COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.)
609 South Wabash Avenue

COSMOPOLITAN School of Music
Auditorinm Bldg.

DRAKE School of Music
61 Auditorium Bldg

EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha)
203-4-5-6 Old Brandels Bldg.

FAELTEN Pianaforte School
Huntington Chambers, Boston

HINSHAW Conservatory of Music
6th Floor, Kimball Hall

ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir.
2831 Washington Boulevard

INTERNATIONAL College of Music
54 Auditorinm Bldg.

KNOX Conservatory of Music
Wm. F. Bentley, Dir., Galesburg, Ill.

KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis)
Musical Art Building

LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music)
629 Fine Arts Bldg.

LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074)
522 Fine Arts Building

MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano
413 Kimball Hall

M. A. MONZEL Musical College
Kimball Hall

MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir)
309 Kimball Hall,

Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia.
Orwin A. Morse, D.

NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music
Boston, Mass.

NORTH SHORE School of Music
Evanston and Leland Avs

NORTHWESTERN University School of Music
Evanston, Ill.

OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art
Warrington Bldg.

OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development
513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)

STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art
56 Auditorium Bldg.

TOLEDO Musical College
Toledo, Ohio

UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir
11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.

VALPARAISO University School of Music
Valparaiso, Indiana

VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance
42 W 76th St., New York.

VILIM American Violin School.
411 Kimball Hall

WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres.
1516 Mallers Bldg.

West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438)
27 South Ashland Boul.

WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art.
29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo

WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano)
69th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

ALBERT Teachers Agency
633 S. Wabash Av.

BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency)
Carnegie Hall, New York

LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston)
College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf
421 Fine Arts Bldg

BRADLEY Kenneth M
Bush Temple Conservatory

BUTLER Lester S.
Worcester, Mass.

LUTKIN Peter C.
Evanston, Ill.

ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin
716 Diversey Boulevard

WATT Harmon H.
Kimball Hall

WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 466 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 8[illegible]5)
Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.

BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849)
309 E. 41st St.

BECKER Ludwig
Columbia School of Music

BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.)
812 Wall Street

BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Wabash 1260
Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg

BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory)
Wichita, Kas.

BURKHOLDER Raymond
Streator, Ill.

BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831)
Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)

CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Irving 22273)
420 Kimball Av.

CLEOPHAS Cornelia
Studying Abroad

COHEN Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra)
628 Lincoln Ave. (Avoudale) Cincinnati

DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.)
North Shore School of Music

DRAKE Earl R.
84 Auditorium Bldg.

EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121)
6352 Rhodes Av.

EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco
1549 Octavia St.

FISCHEL Max I.
610 Fine Arts Bld

FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst)
106 Central Park West, New York

FREDERIKSEN Fredrik
426 Fine Arts Bldg.

FRENCH Melha Mae (Phone Oakland 4365)
4123 Ellis Av.

FROSOLONO Antonio
1227 East 44th Place

GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969)
3144 Logan Boulevard

GOLDBLATT Maurice H.
Chicago Musical College

GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.)
917 E. Adams St.

HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.)
Heizer School of Music

ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra)
1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)

KITCHIN Joseph
5416 Jackson Av.

KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio)
Oberlin College Conservatory

LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517)
3533 W. Monroe Street

MARTINSON Melvin
411 Kimball Hall

MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago
Branch, Kankakee, Illinois

MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357)
1024 E. 42nd Street

NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nusshaum School of [illegible]usic)
4654 Grand Boul.

MUSIN Ovide (Virtuoso)
51 West 76th St., New York

PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832)
101 West 115th St., New York.

PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago
530 North Pine Ave.

ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island)
Vilim, American Violin School

SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston)
1451 Broadway, New York.

STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb.
University School of Music

STEINDEL Alhin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra)
1325 Birchwood Av.

TOWNSEND Winifred
411 Kimball Hall.

VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin
Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory

WOODARD Guy
Bush Temple

WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937
American Conservatory

YOST Gaylord
Indianapolis Conservatory

ZUKOWSKY Alexander
627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917)
American Conservatory

SEARCH Frederick P.
Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R

VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis)
22 S. 10th St.

WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480
1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30)
4718 Kenwood Av.

ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante)
Worcester, Mass.

ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory
606 Kimball Hall

ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147)
304 Athenaeum Bldg.

BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.)
85 Auditorium Bldg

BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert
6557 Ingleside Avenue

BARRADELL Kennard
Kimball Hall

BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano)
110 Carnegie Hall, New York

BEARD William
625 Fine Arts Bldg.

BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580)
Columbia School of Music

BEERS Huldah (Contralto)
Edison Park, Ill.

BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005)
303 Kimball Hall

BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.)
Northwestern University School of Music

BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist)
6119 Greenwood Ave.

BISPHAM David
44 W. 44th St., New York

BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg.
Drake School of Music

BOLLMAN Mande Fenion
Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.

BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York)
Care Haensel and Jones

BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 5819)
Kimball Hall

BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520)
4822 Madison Ave.

BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium)
Cosmopolitan School of Music

BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor)
1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.

BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269
Northwestern Unl. School of Music

BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3885)
(Harry Culbertson, Manager)

BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio)
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music

BRUEGGER Frederick
720 Fine Arts Bldg.

BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth)
7022 Vernon Av.

BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041)
727 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schntz (Meadville, Pa.)
Pa. College of Music Concert Bareau

BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone)
609 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183)
520 Fine Arts Building

Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass.
413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.

BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5485)
512 Fine Arts Building

CASE Harriet
Auditorium Bldg.

CHENEY Mary (New York)
500 Carnegie Hall

CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella, (Soprano)
4603 Sheridan Road

CLARK Charles W. (Paris)
12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.

CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831)
Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)

CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152
Sherwood Music School

CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone)
Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11

CLIPPINGER D. A.
410 Kimball Hall

CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano)
University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.

CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher)
721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495

COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho)
Boise Conservatory of Music

COOK John Loring (Tenor)
300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 5156)

COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913)
4117 W. Harrison St.

CORLEW Mabel (Contralto)
4202 Prairie Ave, (Phone Harrison 973)

COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France)
6 rue Edmond About

CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009)
508 E. 46th Place

CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor)
234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)

DAHLSTROM Margaret
3242 Clifton Ave.

DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique
30 Rue Marheuf, Champs Elysees, Paris

DE BERNYZ Bertrand (Studios)
58 W. 72nd, New York

DE SALES Regina (Paris, France)
40 rue de Ville Jnst (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)

DeYOUNG Richard B.
American Conservatory

DEVRIES Herman
618-628 Fine Arts Building

DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478)
815 S. Harvey Avenue. Oak Park. Ill.

DUFAU Jennie (Colorature Soprano)
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310
710 South Central Park Avenue

FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio)
H. B. Turpin, Manager

FARNUM Mrs. Frank
3359 Warren Ave.

FARRELL Joseph (Kansas City)
201 Studio Building,

FICHTNER Lndwig Carl (Basso-Cantante)
149 Tremont St., Boston

FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Harrison 3895)
63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 408)

FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg
6906 Ontario St. (Contralto)

FRIDENBERG Ahlie L. (New York)
Studio 110 Carnegie Hall

FRISBIE Constance (Soprano)
5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)

GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782)
318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.

GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886)
3435 Flournoy St.

GARTON Samuel B. (Home Phone Ravenswood 6392)
323 Sonth Wabash Av.

GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone)
413 Kimball Hall

GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone)
1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.

GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory)
Chicago Address, 522 Kimball Hall

GROW Ethel (Phone North 2635)
1002 Dearborn Av.

GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art)
523 Fine Arts Bldg

HADLEY Grant (Tenor)
Sulte 73 Andltorium Building

HAIGHT Irma (Detroit, Mich.)
955 Third Avenue

HALL William John (St. Louis)
Mnsical Art Building

HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497)
423 Fine Arts Bldg.

HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher)
72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack, (Phone Ravenswood 325)
5057 Winthrop Av.

HARRIS Milon R.
403 Kimball Hall

HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1406)
care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.)
Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1757)

HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

HERDIEN Mabel Sharp
5132 Kenmore Ave.

HEUCHLING Mathilde
712 Fine Arts Building

HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923)
Chicago Musical College

HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano)
1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)

HINKLE Florence (Soprano)
294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)

HINSHAW William Wade (New York)
Metropolitan Opera Company

HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003)
6th Floor, Kimball Hall

HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson)
304 Kimball Hall

HOLT George Nelson
609 S. Wabash Ave.

HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano)
3800 Broadway, New York

HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737)
5836 Washington Blvd.

HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544)
Auditorium Bldg.

Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8568 Graceland)
Tudor Mansions, 3615 Pine Grove Av.

HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante)
South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.

HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880
608 Fine Arts Building

HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund
Alliance, Ohio

HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267)
501 Kimball Hall

IREDALE Bertha Smart (Phone Englewood 8885)
357 W. 63rd St.

JOHNS Ethelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131)
6463 Kimbark Av.

JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104)
4937 Michigan Ave.

KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8519)
4433 Racine Avenue

KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201)
523 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)

KIMBELL Grant (Tenor)
5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831

KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

LA BERGE Charles (Baritone)
American Conservatory

LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774)
1375 East 54th Street

LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 5365)
420 Fine Arts Bldg

LAYFIELD Mabel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082)
7111 Normal Av.

LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880)
6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1

LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4336)
4460 Berkeley Av.

LINDQUEST Albert (Phone West Pnllman 366)
237 E-113 Street

LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto)
1311 E. 53rd St.

LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola
3814 Ellis Avenue

LUND Rene S. (Baritone)
2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6602)

LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J)
1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.

LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder)
Drake School of Music

MacBURNEY Thomas
609 Fine Arts Building

MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060)
3422 Fulton Street

McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439)
3620 Parnell Av.

MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E.
616 Fine Arts Bldg.

MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France)
27 rue Boislevant

MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 561)
2459 Jackson Boul.

MARELLE Marie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402)
5256 Berteau Av.

MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.)
209 Wesley Av.

MILLER Christine
1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

MILLER Herbert
716 Fine Arts Bldg

MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn)
1. W. 34th St., New York

MILLER John B. (Tenor)
Chicago Musical College

MOSHER L. Drew
137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.

MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone)
1155 Belmon Ave

MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles)
446 W. 40th Place

MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest
3122) River Forest, Ill.

MULRFY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist
47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.

MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4577
300 Athenaeum Bldg.

MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano)
4902 Friendship, Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.

MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano)
5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)

MURRISON Harry R.
Alliance, Ohio.

NARELLE Marie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122)
1215 E. 53rd Street

NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano
Plymouth, Ind.

NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199)
237 North Howard Av., Austin

NICHOLS John W., Tenor (New York)
330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)

NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5508)
4137 Drexel Blvd.

OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute)
203 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 5919)

OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147)
2112 Washington Blvd.

PANGBOURNE Annette (Phone Harrison 2313)
519 Kimball Hall

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England)
Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Reg S

PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto)
Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.

PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.)
Toledo Musical College

PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246)
4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contralto)
Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.)
Winona School of Music

PROTHEROE Daniel
610 Fine Arts Bldg.

RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782)
1738 Humboldt Boulevard

RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor)
Barre Plains, Mass.

RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513
413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av

REED Esta Asber (Soprano)
Abroad for a season

REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165)
5627 Indiana Av.

REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg)
202 Nixon Building

RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.

RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall
6318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.

ROBBINS Edith Lucile (11th and R Sts.)
University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.

ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting)
1372 E. 52nd St.

ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877)
7205 Stewart Ave.

RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto)
Principal Liederheim, Auhurndale, Mass.

RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265)
719 Fine Arts Bldg.

RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448)
3100 Lexington St.

SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing
201 Clarendon St., Boston

SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano)
401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.

SCHUSTER Katherine
71 Auditorium Bldg.

SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York)
Wolfsohn Bureau

SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 459)
408 Kimball Hall.

SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner)
St. James Bldg., New York

SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano)
63 Auditorium Bldg.

SHELP Dr. H. Wm.
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor)
516 Kimball Hall

SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano)
4044 Indiana Av.

SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano)
6523 St. Lawrence Av.

SMIDT Mahle Corlew (Phone Austin 12717)
5543 Ohio St.

SMITH Lyla S. (Phone Albany 10069)
Studio 3200 Logan Boul.

SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173)
625 Madison St., Gary, Ind.

SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano)
Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio

SPOONER Philip (New York)
205 W. 57th St.

STEELE Mary Hinman
503 Kimball Hall

STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh)
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.

STONE Frank (Tenor)
304 Kimball Hall

STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48)
4439 Calumet Av.

STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977)
55 Auditorium Building

STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 5912)
6106 Kimbark Av.

STEVENSON Lucille
4438 Berkeley Avenue

STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923)
1134 E. 47th St.

STULTS Walter A. (Evanston)
Northwestern University School of Music

TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L.
Lewis Institute, Phone West 793

THATCHER Burton (Res. Phone Drexel 4881)
Chicago Musical College

THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano)
Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.

THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082)
620 Fine Arts Building

TODD Ernest G. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3765
Bush Temple Conservatory

TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor)
813 La Salle Av.

TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949)
404 Kimball Hall

VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799)
6611 Woodlawn Av.

WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380)
428 Fine Arts Building

WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958)
1325 E. 64th St.

WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Oak Park 4397)
206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.

WATSON Ruth Swing
1225 E. 52nd St.

WEAVER Iva Bigelow
Mack Block, Milwankee Wis.

WEBSTER Frank B.
719 Kimball Hall

WEGENER Mme. Justine
Rush Temple Conservatory

WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone)
61 Auditorium Bldg.

WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 6046)
Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal

WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bnreau
1 E 34th St., New York

WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 1267)
728 Fine Arts Bldg.

WILCOX John C. (Teacher)
Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo

WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio)
516 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS Dr. Carver
(Samuel B. Garton) Auditorinm Bldg

WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey
406 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS H. Evan
Akron, Ohio

WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway
6107 Woodlawn Av.

WYNN Bessie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

WYCOFF Eva Emmet
500 W. 143rd. New York

YOUNG Walter S, (801 Carnegie Hall, New York)
Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.

ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778)
(1140 E. 44th St.)

ZIMMERMAN Collata
72 Auditorium Bld

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today
Before You Forget It

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic
(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

MARIE NARELLE

CHICAGO, AMERICA

NOVEMBER 14, 1913.

Voices Made Beautiful

Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00 Lessons by correspondence.

Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

For Female Voices

Piping Down the Valleys Wild 3 pts., Alfred J. Silver
Now Is the Month of Maying 3 pts., Alfred J Silver
For sample copies address—
J. Fischer & Bro., New York 7, 8 & 11 "M. N." BIBLE HOUSE

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician
ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Concert and Choir Bureau

HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

Languages

The Berlitz School of Languages
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

The Musicians' Piano Tuner

Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

Bergey

CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Chicago Piano College

(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

CHICAGO, NOVEMBER 14, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS
United States, per year, postpaid $2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser, Business Representative

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

W. Rhys-Herbert's Sacred Cantatas

"Bethany" "The Nazarene" "Bethlehem" (new)

For 4 solo voices and chorus.

Vocal Score, each cantata - $1.00

The above mentioned cantatas were written to suit the popular taste: they are free from abstruse and perplexing harmonies, always bright, and expressive of various moods They have, moreover, the advantage of being accessible to both small and large choral societies, and can be given with organ or piano only, where no orchestra is available.

Your regular dealer can supply copies. Publisher:

J. FISCHER & BRO., New York
7, 8 & 11 "M. N." Bible House

Harmony and Counterpoint, by Mail if Desired
Critic and Special Writer Musical Mss. Edited

LESTER S. BUTLER

TEACHER OF SINGING

Boston and Worcester Critic and Correspondent of Music News. Steinert Hall, Boston, Mass. Day Building, Worcester, Mass.

Compositions and Arrangements

A Sigh (medium voice)	.50	27
Dear Girl with the Dreomy Eyes	.50	27
Twilight Hour	.30	17
Missionary Call (mixed quartet)	.05
Brotherhood Hymn (male quartet)	.06
The Dorkey's Lullaby (male quartet)	.15
Inner Voice Waltz (Piano) J. W. Black	.30	17

All the compositions here listed are musically melodious. Obtained of the advertiser or at music stores.

SERVICE, equipment, accommodations, together with a well selected and ample stock, makes our store the natural trading place for the music teacher, music student, and for the general discriminating music buyer.

CLAYTON F. SUMMY CO.
MUSIC

Publishers Importers Dealers

64 East Van Buren Street, Chicago
(Steinway Hall Building)

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians

by Horace D. Hitchcock

A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original. The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:

"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."

For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cent's Postpaid.

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY

522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT Sec.

DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

Music News

Vol. 5 Chicago, November 14, 1913. No. 45.

Editorial

AS TO SCHOENBERG

It is a part of the duty of any representative orchestra leader to let his public hear, once anyway, each novelty which may attain the dignity of extended notice in any part of the world. Therefore, it was only fitting that the Chicago Symphony patrons should be given the opportunity to hear Schoenberg once at least. The following letter which was printed in "The Tribune" one day last week is very interesting, as showing the viewpoint of the layman. In the opinion of Music News, however, it is not necessary to worry over the possibility of there being many repetitions of the disgusting mess put together by Schoenberg and labeled "Five Little Pieces for Orchestra."

"Glencoe, Ill., Nov. 3.—(Editor of The Tribune.)—All the adjectives, expletives, epithets of all the critics, if summoned to describe the badness of the Schoenberg suite, the bedlam of cacophony, on the stage, which prevailed for that "bad quarter hour" at Orchestra Hall Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, would not fitly describe it, for it was unspeakable! But for disturbing one's neighbors one would have left the hall after the first movement; that would have been the only adequate commentary—more forcible than rotten eggs, which, the papers inform us, the performance of this suite received at the hands of audiences abroad.

"And to think that a high salaried musical director of a high salaried orchestra would lend his time and talents and those of his men to such a performance! For Mr. Stock is alone responsible for putting it on the program, beside such gems of classicism as Beethoven's First and Brahms' Second! And is this the use to which the hall is to be put—the hall which the "plain people" saved to Chicago as a testimonial of their affection for that grand old man, Theodore Thomas—their desire to give him a home for his orchestra? Better change it to a hippodrome at once!

"Major Funkhouser should direct the public censor, Sergeant O'Connor, to attend the next performance of this Schoenberg suite. We know what his verdict would be." S. F. NEWHALL.

AS TO AMERICANISM

Our correspondent, E. E. F., thinks that the last program of the Amateur Musical Club was deficient, inasmuch as both soloists—pianist and singer—confined themselves to foreign works. In full detail the letter read as follows:

"It seems that this club fails of its purpose, if in its programs it ever fails to have at least one number of an American composer (and the more artists from the club, or Americans, the better). If the number is instrumental, well and good—if vocal, better still, for then it will have to be in English, and following Mr. De Lamarter's short address, we will be creating listeners of our own composers and teaching them to find out if works and texts compare favorably with foreign works. (Let us hope our texts will be of a higher order than some of the foreign plays and operas—morally.) If we are doing good work then we must cultivate more patriotism (new works must first become known in the land of their birth), and, as is our duty, praise and perform the good, and condemn the worthless. Our movement may be forward, but we must be evolutionists, not revolutions. Every great work goes one step beyond the demand, otherwise we retrograde. But this one step must be connected, logically, with the past—not a forward burst out of nothing." E. E. F.

AS TO PRONUNCIATION

It is often said of young American singers, and very truly, too, that they pronounce French, Italian and German better than they do English.

Woe betide one of them who happens to debut in France, Italy or Germany with poor pronunciation of the language of the country!

But those foreigners who honor us in America by placing a small group of American compositions at the tag end of their programs, rarely take the trouble to learn good English pronunciation—probably because we do not exact it, and the results attained are sometimes extremely funny.

Mme. Gadski, for instance, in her Orchestra Hall concert last week, very earnestly, and much to the amusement of the audience, insisted that "the little pigs had dun ut" in the trashy "Irish Girl" song, which she gave as one of her encore offerings.

ONCE MORE—DICTION

Music News, while insisting that the word "Diction" is used very loosely by many vocal teachers and critics, who many times mean nothing more nor less than enunciation or pronunciation when they say "diction," is yet entirely aware that new uses of old words may be inaugurated by a consistent and concerted movement.

Miss Schuster has explained fully in Music News of last week a new use of the word and has proven her right to employ it in such a sense.

THE EVANESCENCE OF SUPREMACY

Musical America used as a caption for its extensive review of the Paderewski recital in New York, "Paderewski Falls from Old Supremacy."

The article was long and well written, containing much of praise of the noted

Valparaiso Music College
Department of
Valparaiso University
Second Largest University in the United States
VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh International Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER TEACHER
VIOLINIST RECITALS
Musicales
3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT
Contralto
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

pianist and considerable which was not praise. This is a characteristic paragraph:

"In a number of instances he played very beautifully—though not at all unapproachably—last Saturday. In all too many others he showed but as a pale reflex of his former self."

FIRST WEEK'S BILL AT THE OPERA

"The fourth grand opera season in Chicago will open Monday evening, November 24, with the performance of Puccini's "La Tosca." In this, Mary Garden will appear in the title role supported by Vanni Marcous in his great creation of Scarpia, the vengeful minister of police. The second opera, Tuesday evening, will be Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," with Caroline White in the role of the ballad singer. This performance will also have notability in the first appearance of Titta Ruffo, the most eminent baritone of the time, a rewelcome for Amadeo Bassi in the leading tenor role and the contralto, Mme. Julia Claussen. The first big novelty of the season will be Massenet's latest masterpiece, "Don Quichotte," on Wednesday evening. This will be conducted in person by Cleofonte Campanini, the general director of the company, and the cast will include Mary Garden, Hector Dufranne and Vanni Marcous in his great creation of the title role. Wagnerites can take joy in the announcement that "Die Walkure" will be advanced on Thursday night, with Mme. Julia Claussen, Charles Dalmores and Mme. Jane Osborn-Hannah in the leading parts. There will be a popular matinee Thanksgiving afternoon, with "Madame Butterfly" as the attraction. The first English opera of the new series will be Herbert's "Natoma." This will be conducted by the composer and the cast will embrace Jane Osborn-Hannah and George Hamlin in the leading role. The Saturday matinee has not been decided as yet."

AMATEUR CLUB

The Amateur Club is certainly doing important things this year, and the function of last Monday afternoon was distinctly novel and at the same time thoroughly enjoyable.

It consisted primarily of a talk by Karleton Hackett on "Don Quichotte" (Massenet), and "Mona Vanna" (Fevrier), two of the novelty operas announced for the impending season, and which are both of them important and beautiful.

Mr. Hackett spoke in a well modulated voice that was easily heard in every part of Assembly Hall, and he displayed a remarkable fund of information on his subject.

The piano illustrations were played so deftly by Miss Susie Ford as to win immediate response from the audience, and Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson sang two short scenes from "Don Quichotte" with such opulence of tone and such remarkable brilliancy of execution as to astonish all who heard her.

These extracts are florid and have very great range, but nothing daunted by these special difficulties Miss Johnson tossed them off with great abandon and proved easily that the opera style of music is but another of its many phases of which she is full mistress.

LYLA SMITH WINNING SUCCESS

Lyla Lucile Smith, who possesses a soprano voice of much beauty and dramatic quality is winning much in her favor since coming to Chicago from one of the best music schools in the middle west. Miss Smith is teaching and achieving splendid results with a large class of pupils at her studio, 3200 Logan boulevard. In an evening of songs held at Recital Hall, 2600 Milwaukee avenue, Saturday evening, November 1, pupils of Miss Smith combined with those of Charles E. Riddle, were heard to good advantage. Two pupils of Miss Smith, the Misses Staff and O'Besney, deserve special mention for singing with good style and finish. H. M. B.

Mendelssohn Club—The Chicago Mendelssohn Club announces its twentieth series of concerts in a most attractive folder, which will be sent on request. The dates of the concerts are December 11, February 19 and April 30. Tickets are sold only for the series, but a most attractive "students" rate is in force this year.

Musical Advance

501 Fifth Av., New York

A Musical Monthly which is technical enough to interest the Artist, brilliant enough to amuse the Social World, of a depth which will hold the critic, and broad enough to be popular with all Musical people

For Sale on all news - stands ten cents per copy; one dollar a year.

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

Music in Chicago

THE APOLLO CLUB IN "CREATION"

The Apollo Club reached a high water mark in choral grandeur on last Sunday afternoon and indeed the entire performance was one of merit, although the vagaries of the organ at this theater were so pronounced as to make for blemish in many instances.

The soloists were good without being remarkable, except in the case of Florence Hinkle, who is ideal for oratorio always and who in "The Creation" was superb. Such beauty of tone and such flexibility of technic is possessed by but few singers of the day, and to these attainments she adds charm of manner and intelligence of interpretation in a very remarkable degree.

Mr. Witherspoon, artistic always, was not in his best form vocally, and in his lower tones especially lacked resonance and power, but as usual he succeeded in giving a very satisfactory interpretation.

Mr. William Wheeler, a newcomer here, sang the tenor parts with a nice vocal quality for the most part, but seemed decidedly amateurish in his thought and performance.

One of the daily papers accused him of a "tremolo," which is hardly fair, inasmuch as the tremble which was very evident in the first part of the afternoon and which was undoubtedly due to fright, was very well controlled, and in fact it almost disappeared before the end of the performance.

His reading of "In Native Worth," was his best effort and was really excellent, while Miss Hinkle in "With Verdure Clad," gave an exposition of pure art very difficult to surpass.

The "Adam and Eve" duets in the last part, between Mr. Witherspoon and Miss Hinkle, were admirably done, but the trios in the first part were distinctly ragged—probably due to insufficient rehearsals.

The orchestra was admirable throughout, and Mr. Nelson at the organ accomplished all that could be dreamed possible under the circumstances.

The Apollo Club itself, however, must be given praise of the most emphatic sort, for the wonderful reading of the beautiful Haydn score. Not alone was the tone beautiful and flexible and all such matters as attack and phrase observed with the utmost fidelity, but also there was present a genuine inspiration in the reading, and there were many moments of genuine uplift.

"Achieved Is the Glorious Work" and "The Heavens Are Telling" were paeans of praise voiced in most beautiful cadence, while "Awake the Harp" was a bit of joyous lyricism beyond the reach of most choral bodies, great or small.

That the public did not appreciate this exceptional opportunity to hear the old classic "Creation" to the fullest extent is matter for regret, but if the excellence of "Creation" be an augury of the work in the coming "Elijah" then indeed should every music student in the city especially, be in the Auditorium on next Monday evening.

Mr. Wild was in splendid form on Sunday afternoon and to his painstaking care and musical impulse must be ascribed, of course, very much of the excellence of the performance. C. E. W.

Effa Ellis Perfield

will be in Chicago Nov. 16-17-18 Auditorium Hotel to give personal lessons on her Keyboard Harmony, Melody Building and Teaching System.

See her—no charge for explanation

ILLINOIS COLLEGE OF MUSIC

A most enjoyable recital was given last Friday evening by students at the Illinois College of Music, 2831 Washington boulevard. The following students took part: Delight Verdenius, Hester Hoskins, Bonnie Donaldson, Helen Neff, Sadie Moore, Rose Rubenstein, Robert Couffer, Fred Johansen. Piano numbers were given as a close by Miss Marian Allers, of the faculty. The evening was in charge of Miss Eula M. Foote, member of the faculty.

The following students gave an excellent program at the college last Saturday afternoon. Margaret Harvey, Helen Emmons, Libbian Fogel, Madeline Corsiglia, Vesta Learn, Henrietta Madden, Carl Wagner, Edith Conlon, Shirley Stetler, Bonnie Donaldson, Franklin Paul, Cyril Burlingame.

There will be a recital at the college this Friday evening, the program being in charge of Miss Ida Moore of the faculty. It will be given by Mabel Petersen, Eleanor Prince, Margaret Hiner, Mildred Paulson, Clarence Jensen, Willard Groom, Fred Johansen, Mr. Hutchinson and others. The program of Friday evening, November 21, will be in charge of Mrs. Patterson of the faculty.

A CARRIE SCOTT PUPIL

Miss Hazel Reid, a pupil of Miss Carrie Scott of the Mendelssohn Conservatory of Music, gave a piano recital at the Sacramento Avenue M. E. Church last Tuesday evening, with the assistance of Nellie Mulch, reader, W. Harold Simons, violinist and the Mendelssohn Ladies' Quartet, the ensemble of which is Rose Larsen, Hazel Reid, Margaret Andersen and Clara Andersen.

The quartet did some excellent work in "Come to Our Hearts" by Winner, an old-fashioned song, but very musical, and an arrangement of the "Barcarolle" from "Tales of Hoffman," as well as two attractive pieces by Barnby. Miss Mulch pleased the audience with some too-long numbers, and Mr. Simons showed talent and style in his numbers, but is very much lacking in stage manners.

Miss Reid, who is but seventeen, is first of all to be commended on the fact that she has so large a repertoire and that her memory is so faithful an adjunct. She is extremely musical as to touch and very attractive in her readings, and added study and practice cannot fail to bring her far to the front as a concert player. Her readings were always interesting and her arrangement of program was most attractive.

A Beethoven "Sonata" and the "Fourth Rhapsodie" by Liszt comprised her larger offerings in the solo line and much variety and charm was added in short pieces by MacDowell, Rubinstein, Leschetizky, Grieg, Seeboeck and Moszkowski.

By far the most vital point in the program and one at which Miss Reid did some very good work—was the "Hungarian Fantasie" by Liszt, for which the second piano part was well played by Miss Clara Andersen.

In this number Miss Reid showed much fluency of finger technic and also considerable breadth of style, her rhythms were accurate and each of the many cadenzas was played clearly and brilliantly. C. E. W.

MABEL SHARP-HERDIEN

Mabel Sharp-Herdien sang at the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Slade on November 4.

Mrs. Herdien also fills the following engagements in the near future:

Boeppler Symphony Orchestra, November 9.
Orchestra Hall, evening of November 9.
Normal School, November 10.
Dubuque, Iowa, November 18.
Bach Choral Society, November 19.
Medinah Temple, November 20.

Columbia Damen Club—On November 6 Mrs. Hanna Butler sang before the Columbia Damen Club very successfully, Mrs. Lily Wadhams Moline being the accompanist.

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils Studeba ker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. 616 Fine Arts B'dg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - NEWMAN Baritone
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires -makes not mars-the soloist, enabling him to bring out his best. 246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
Management Alma Voedisch, 3836 Wilton Av., Chicago

AGNES LEIST BEEBE

Agnes Leist-Beebe, whose vocal studio is in Kimball Hall, presented her pupil, Alice Geer Ferguson, in a song recital at Kimball Hall on Monday evening, before a large audience, which waxed most enthusiastic over the work of this singer and rewarded her with great applause and so many flowers that the top of the piano was almost hidden under them.

Mrs. Ferguson has a very charming appearance and manner and her voice is of unusual type, inasmuch as it is distinctly a coloratura, and yet, especially in its middle range, is full of temperament also. She can toss off a song like Stern's "Spring" with utmost ease and gaiety, and yet she can sing Rubinstein's "Du bist wie eine blume" and Wolf's "Verborgenheit" and "Er Ists" with depth of feeling and solidity of tone.

True intonation and good rhythm also enhance the value of all she does.

Besides the songs mentioned, she was heard in Ware's "Boat Song," which she did in exceptionally fine style; Cowen's "Birthday," in which everything was well considered and well delivered, the enunciation being for the most part very good also.

This made it the more strange that she should have been indistinct as to words in two songs of Lida Browning White, which she sang with rare musical charm but in which the words were not distinguishable.

These songs were "In November" and "And Then Came Summer," with "Ann Flynn" by the same composer as encore, and all of these proved to be well written both from the vocal and the piano standpoint and very effective musically. Mrs. White was at the piano throughout the evening, and besides proving herself a fine composer showed values as an accompanist which are not excelled by many Chicago professionals.

Mrs. Ferguson gave also a group of songs from the Whelpley "Maud" and the arias "Leiti Signor" from "Les Huguenots" and "Adieu Forets" from the Tschaikowsky "Jeanne d'Arc," in both of which she displayed great skill and poise and which the audience found very much to its liking.

An added attraction to the evening was a group of piano solos by Simon Buchhalter, a pianist of breadth and power, and one whose readings bear the stamp of great authority. The audience was very demonstrative in expression of approval of his work and evidently wished for larger opportunity to hear him. C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

AT THE LITTLE THEATER

On last Sunday evening Mr. Maurice Browne and Mrs. Ellen Van Volkenburg Browne invited the "Stratford Players" and other friends in the dramatic world, as well as some critics, to hear a specially arranged presentation of "An Evening with Columbine," the delightful bill they are now giving at the Chicago Little Theater.

The performance was one of rare finish and its every fine point was seized upon and commended thoroughly by the very distinguished company present. Mr. and Mrs. Browne and their co-workers made ideal hosts and the evening was one to be treasured in memory as a red letter event. C. E. W.

AN ENSEMBLE CONCERT

Any school would be fortunate in the possession of such a fine trio of ensemble players as Kurt Wanieck, Ramon Girvin and Hans Hess, who gave a concert for the American Conservatory pupils at Kimball Hall on last Saturday afternoon.

These young men play the piano, violin and 'cello, respectively, and that each is an artist has been many times attested, while it is equally true that their work together is exceptionally fine.

Kimball Hall was crowded to the limit—even the "Amen Corner" where Mr. Hattstaedt usually sits alone was filled, and this splendid audience was most lavish in its expressions of approval.

The Grieg "Sonata" for piano and 'cello, which opened the program is a work very rarely heard, but one withal providing the most effective of opportunities for both players and one also, which in its totality combines breadth and grace in thoroughly satisfactory way and has also the characteristic northern color in abundance.

To say that it was played well is to express the fact but mildly—indeed, it would be difficult to imagine any better technical or musical treatment accorded it, and this is true also of the Godard "Trio" in F Major, in which these two artists were joined by Mr. Girvin.

The Godard number is not nearly so vital as the Grieg and its themes are sometimes rather overelaborated. It has nevertheless many moments of exquisite beauty, and these were brought out to the full by the three players.

Between these two ensemble numbers Mr. Wanieck came forward in a group of piano solos and again demonstrated his worth in that line, as well as proving anew his popularity with the American Conservatory clientele which, at this time, applauded him to the echo.

The D'Albert "Scherzo"—tricky and difficult, but thoroughly cunning in makeup and brilliant of effect, was played with remarkable surety and abandon, and two well contrasted "Etudes" by Chopin were given with great virtuosity. C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

Post—Miss Minnie E. Post is giving an illustrated course of four lectures on "Music Appreciation," at her Austin studio. The three already given have been on the subjects "The Classical Period," "The Romantic Period" and "The Ultra Modern Period," while "Edward MacDowell" will be treated on November 21, at which time song illustrations will be given by Mrs. E. R. Benedict.

Helene Koelling
Prima Donna Soprano
Montreal Grand Opera Co.
Recital, Illinois Theater, Chicago
Sunday Afternoon, November 16th
Management
CARL D. KINSEY, Chicago

MRS. MARCUSSON'S RECITAL

Mrs. Grace Brune Marcusson, an artist pupil of Thomas MacBurney, gave a program of old time songs at the MacBurney studios on Monday night and won the sincere admiration of everyone who heard her in the charming selections she had made.

Mrs. Marcusson has, in the past year, improved in vocal breadth and power in an entirely amazing way and she has also retained that charm of manner and sincerity of bearing which has made her work delightful always.

Facility and dexterity she has gained also, and in interpretative thought she has reached a plane where all moods and tenses are within her grasp and where she is able to take a song, grave or gay, and very definitely and very beautifully set forth its whole content.

It is a most grateful task to set out in the preparation of such a program as that presented at this time. For, while the usual repertoire of singers does not include many of the really old things, yet there is a wealth of such material to be found by a little patient delving and surely in this case Mr. MacBurney, Mr. Lester and Mrs. Marcusson had collaborated to select, prepare and present a program which could not be surpassed for variety as well as charm of effect.

Music News printed this program last week, but so exceptional was it found to be on Monday night that it is again given place here and it is thoroughly recommended as a list which contains the very maximum of delightful old time songs.

Seperazione ..... Arr. by Sgambati
La Colomba ..... Arr. by Schindler
Menuet d'Exaudet
Bergere Legere
Lisette
Aminte
Jeunes Fillettes
} Arr. by Weckerlin
The Meeting of the Waters
The Banks of the Daisies
Would God I Were the Tender Apple Blossom
The Pretty Girl Milking Her Cow
The Little Red Lark
} Traditional
Nymphs and Shepherds ..... Purcell
Come unto These Yellow Sands ..... Purcell
Have You Seen But a White Lily Grow ..... Arr. by Dolmetsch
When Daisies Pied and Violets Blue ..... Arne
It Was a Lover and His Lass ..... Morley
I've Been Roaming ..... Horn

In such a program as this the assistance of an artist like Mr. Lester is of course invaluable and to say that Mrs. Marcusson sang delightfully will no more than express the fact.

As to what was best it is difficult to choose—a personal choice, out of the feast of good things would perhaps embrace "Menuet d'Exaudet" and "Aminte" of the Wekerlin "Bergerettes," "The Meeting of the Waters" in the "Traditional Group" and "When Daisies Pied and Violets Blue" by Arne as possibly just a trifle the most charming numbers on a program which throughout was of positive value and effect.

C. E. W.

Francis—Mr. J. Henry Francis, choir master of St. John's Church in Charleston, was the leader of a big chorus choir which attained much prominence in a series of revival meetings in the West Virginia city.

CHICAGO OPERA COMPANY

The Chicago-Philadelphia Grand Opera Company quickly assembled and artistically regulated by Cleofonte Campanini, the new general director, opened its preliminary season, Monday evening at the Metropolitan Opera House in Philadelphia, presenting Puccini's "La Tosca" with Mary Garden in the part of Floria Tosca, in which she made such a pronounced success here last season. In this artistic venture she had the comradeship of Vanni Marcoux, who made the sensation of last season in Boston, in the role of the brutal Barone Scarpia, as one of the most realistic representations ever witnessed on the grand operatic stage. This performance also pleasantly introduced Giovanni Martinelli, a tenor who was at once received into the artistic brotherhood with much acclaim. General Director Campanini conducted the opera in person.

On Wednesday evening, the performance even surpassed that of its brilliant predecessor in a wonderful audience that assembled in honor of the great baritone, Titta Ruffo. The opera was "The Barber of Seville," and the distinguished baritone appeared in the leading role of the mischief maker. Jenny Dufau made a delightful impression as the radiant Rosina. This opera was directed by Guiseppe Sturani.

On Thursday evening, a revival of "Aida" was made, with Carolina White in the title role, a part in which she achieved such distinction during the past summer, at the Verdi Centenary in Parma. The new Cincinnati contralto, Cyrene Van Gordon, impressed very favorably as Amneris.

On Friday evening, the company adjourned to Baltimore, and gave "Rigoletto" for the first time this season, Titta Ruffo appearing in the title role, and Alice Zeppilli as Gilda. On Saturday afternoon, in Philadelphia, "The Girl of the Golden West" was revived with Carolina White in her great creation and Giovanni Martinelli as Dick Johnson. "Lucia" was given Saturday night, with Jenny Dufau in the title role.

HELENA BINGHAM IN STREATOR

Following is some comment of the Streator press on the appearance of Helena Bingham before the La Salle County Music Teachers' Association meeting:

The event of the afternoon was the singing of three hundred grade school children under the direction of Miss Ruby Smith, supervisor of music in Streator public schools. The songs were by Miss Helena Bingham and were a revelation of the possibilities of what the right kind of songs accomplish for children. They sang with enjoyment and a good sense of rhythm and tone. Miss Smith is an admirable director, seeming to woo the music and meaning from their childish hearts and voices. The children had very few rehearsals, and did remarkably well, scoring the ovation of the afternoon.

Miss Ferol Leggette made her final appearance in Streator in a little group of Miss Bingham's compositions ,as dainty and airy as herself. "The Javanese Doll's Serenade," "Her Liteeary Tante," "Ladder of Clover Blossoms" and "It Is Not Raining Rain to Me," were each as quaint and fantastic as their titles imply, and all tenderly reminiscent of childish sentiment.—(Advertisement)

Frosolono—On Sunday afternoon, at Seward Park, Sig. Antonio Frosolono conducted his Illinois Theater Orchestra (augmented) in a splendid program of pleasing character, before a very large and equally enthusiastic audience.

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole management HARRY CULBERTSON

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4366

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

MAE Doelling Pianist Teacher
4141 N. Hermitage Av.

DORA HEYMAN IN RECITAL

A distinctly cheering figure on the concert stage horizon is Miss Dora Heyman, who appeared in piano recital at the Howard Theater on last Sunday afternoon and who proved at once that she has presence, musical ability and intelligence in fine degree.

She is a pupil of Miss Della Thal and has studied exclusively in Chicago. Her technic has reached a thoroughly satisfactory stage and in addition to this her readings are both sane and intelligent, while they are marked also by musical meaning of the finest sort.

The beautiful Bach "Prelude and Fugue" (A Minor), much abused in its "transcription" by Liszt, was yet played with clarity, and the A Major "Theme and Variations" by Paderewski, difficult and effective, was managed with great skill.

The Chopin group, consisting of two "Etudes," a "Prelude" and the A Flat "Ballade," was most delightful, both in makeup and in presentation, and proved Miss Heyman to have a genuinely poetic bent.

At this point the audience insisted upon an encore and after the addition of a second "Prelude" by Chopin a great quantity of flowers was presented to the young pianist, and she was given most enthusiastic applause.

The closing group, not heard by this writer, included short pieces by Debussy, Moszkowski and MacDowell, and ended with the "Twelfth Rhapsodie" by Liszt.

C. E. W.

PUPILS OF J. E. WILFORD

Piano pupils of Mr. J. E. Wilford gave the following program at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lee on Linden avenue, last Friday evening:

Fairy Whispers ..... Krogman
Carolyn Johnson
By the Brookside ..... Doring
Bessie Yager
The Feather Dance ..... Ducelle
Mary Hoggins
Playing Dragonfly ..... Ganschals
Vivian Loven
Song ..... Selected
Mrs. Fricke
Tarantella ..... Dennee
Florence Tourtelot
Polish Chivalry ..... Piesczonka
Helen Johnson
Bagatelle ..... Wilson
Evelyn Lee
Song ..... Selected
Mrs. Fricke
Polish Dance ..... Quigley
Helen Skinner
Scherzo—Valse ..... Dennee
Florence Loven

A. G. O.—The American Guild or Organists will hold a public service in St. James' Episcopal Church Sunday afternoon, November 16, at 3:45 o'clock. Four members of the guild, Dr. Francis Hemington, Miss Florence Hodge, William Belknap and John W. Norton, will participate. The guild will have the assistance of the choir of St. James'.

A SHELP PUPIL HONORED

Miss Rohdes, a contralto in the class of Dr. William H. Shelp, was offered a position for a long trip on the road by Thaviu, who heard her in the chorus of the "World in Chicago," and was so impressed with her talent and attainments that he predicts a fine career for her. It was offered also to provide elaborate musical education for Miss Rohdes.

The young woman decided, however, to continue the development of her fine voice in the Shelp studios, rightly concluding that a method which had evolved her voice from nothing could be depended upon to carry it to its fullest possibilities.

Dr. Shelp discards all traditional teaching and pays no attention whatever to breath control or any other mechanical adjuncts of the art—depending wholly upon the imitation of pure tone to form the voices of his pupils. That he has been wonderfully successful is attested in the case of Miss Rohdes, and also in that of many others—notably in the case of Mrs. Nichols, a choir singer in Ravenswood, whose voice was so improved by his methods that the advancement was pronounced phenomenal by her former choir director. Dr. Shelp's home studio is at 2156 Eastwood avenue.

COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL

The following faculty program will be given by the Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art, at the Auditorium Recital Hall, on Friday evening, November 21.

Sonata for Piano and Violin, A major ..... Mozart
Allegro Molto
Andante
Presto
Miss Marie Schada and Mr. Henry Esser
Knowest Thou the Land ..... Liszt
Mrs. W. S. Bracken
Fantasie, Op. 49 ..... Chopin
Miss Schada
Im Herbst ..... Franz
La Seperazione ..... Sgambati
Le Savoir ..... Georges
Mrs. Bracken
Sonata for Piano and Violin ..... Brahms
Vivace ma non troppo
Adagio
Allegro Molto Moderato
Miss Schada and Mr. Franz. Esser

ENGLEWOOD BAPTIST CHURCH

H. W. Fairbank, organist and director of a chorus choir of forty-five voices at the Englewood Baptist Church, Stewart avenue near Sixty-third street, rendered a program of much beauty and worth at the musical service on Sunday evening, November 2. Mrs. Marian Chase Schaeffer, the soprano soloist of the choir, was heard in the beautiful number, "Galilee" by Combs. On Sunday morning, November 9, Mrs. Schaeffer proved that her voice and style of singing is especially adapted for oratorio by singing "He Shall Feed His Flock" and "Come unto Him," from "The Messiah."

H. M. B.

FALL MUSIC FESTIVAL

The annual fall festival was held at the Chicago Normal College on Monday, November 10, at 12:15 p. m. The "Burlesque Piano Concerto" by Strauss opened the program, with Mr. Waldemar Zutz at the first piano and Miss Rose Ward at the second piano. The Junior Glee Club under the fine direction of Alice Garthe sang "The Fisher Maidens," and with the splendid assistance of Mabel Sharp Herdien's glorious soprano voice this cantata was heard with much satisfaction. The Senior Glee Club assisted by Valerie Walker, soprano, under the efficient direction of H. W. Fairbank, sung the cantata "The Sea and the Moon," by Brewer, with excellent effect, gaining such by good sustained tone, attack and enunciation, thereby showing most careful training. Marian Chase Schaeffer was heard and very much admired in a group of Child's Songs and Readings. Mrs. Herdien closed the program with a light but charmingly sung group of songs. She was in fine voice and the manner in which she was applauded until she had returned to the platform with two encores shows how she is admired by the students and faculty of the college. This was Mrs. Herdien's fourth year at the festival and it was plain that she enjoys her work before this appreciative audience.

Mr. H. W. Fairbank and Miss Garthe are to be congratulated on the splendid work they are doing in the school and thus making these fall festivals possible. H. M. B.

FLORENCE HODGE

Miss Florence Hodge, organist of the Edgewater Presbyterian Church, is to play at the service of the American Guild of Organists at St. James' Episcopal Church, November 16.

Later in the month she plays a recital at the First Presbyterian Church of Nashville, Tenn., on the newly installed Austin organ on November 25; another recital at Murfeesboro, Tenn., on the 26th, and a wedding service at Murfeesboro on the 27th.

Miss Hodge is booked November 10 to play the Schuett D Minor suite for violin and piano with Amy Keith Jones before the North End Club, and the accompaniments for Miss Jones and Miss Barbara Wait on the program they are giving with Mrs. Helena Stone Torgerson, harpist. Hodge also played an engagement with the same group of musicians October 31, at Grand Rapids, Mich., before the St. Cecilia Club.

RECITAL OF MR. ALLEN SPENCER

Mr. Spencer will give a piano recital at the Fine Arts Theater, Sunday afternoon, November 23, at 3:30.

PROGRAM

Allegro from Toccata in G major ..... Bach
Gigue from 9th Suite in G minor ..... Haendel
Thirty-two Variations in C minor ..... Beethoven
Prelude, Fugue and Variation ..... Cesar Franck
(Transcribed from the organ score by Harold Bauer)
Brouillards (Fog) }
Ondine } ..... Debussy
Feux d'artifice (Fireworks) }
(From Second Book of Preludes)
Impromptu, Op. 142, No. 3, B flat major ..... Schubert
Bauerntanz (Peasant Dance) Op. 24, No. 3 ..... Ganz
Autumn Idyll ..... Cyril Scott
Autumn, Op. 36, No. 4 ..... Moszkowski
Waldesrauschen (Forest Rustlings) ..... Liszt
Gnomenreign (Dance of Gnomes) ..... Liszt
Ernani Paraphrase ..... Verdi-Liszt

Thomas N. MacBurney
Baritone
Voice Production
Three years assistant to King Clark
Song Recitals
608-609 Fine Arts Bldg. Chicago
Phone Harrison 6880

North Shore School of Music

Broadway and Leland Ave.

The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul

ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)

CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

APOLLO CLUB IN ELIJAH

Next Monday night at 8:15 the Apollo Musical Club of 300 singers gives a single performance of Mendelssohn's wonderful choral work, "Elijah," at the Auditorium Theater. The title role of Elijah the prophet will be sung by Herbert Witherspoon of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and the other solo artists to appear are: Florence Hinkle, soprano; Rosalie Wirthlin, contralto, and William Wheeler, tenor. The beautiful ladies' trio "Lift Thine Eyes" will be sung by Mable Sharp Herdien, soprano; Leonora Allen, soprano, and Rose Lutiger Gannon, contralto; and Edwin Wolf, soloist of St. James Episcopal church, will be the boy soprano.

A professional choir of sixteen singers will also assist, namely: Sopranos, Mary Ann Kaufman, Edithe Roberts, Louise Burton, Helen Axe Brown; contraltos, Hazel Huntley, Permelia Gale, Louise H. Slade, Ora Padget Langer; tenors, William E. Johnson, Grant Kimbell, Elias A. Bredin, William Griswold Smith; basses, Hyde W. Perce, Frank M. Dunford, F. C. Atwill and Ernest D. Dewey.

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra will furnish the orchestral accompaniments, with Edgar Nelson at the organ. The forces will number over 400 persons, all under the baton of Harrison M. Wild.

———♯♯♯———

WARRINGTON THEATER

"A Butterfly on the Wheel," is given an elaborate production this week at the Warrington in Oak Park, and is one of the season's feature offerings.

The play is the work of two members of parliament, one of whom was formerly an American actor. First produced in London by Lewis Waller, it ran for two years to astonishing business. Charles Frohman secured the American rights and presented it for long runs in New York and at Powers' Theater, Chicago. It is one of the big plays of recent seasons.

All of the company will be seen, and in excellent parts, while fifteen or twenty extra people will be used in the performance.

Week of November 17, David Graham Phillips' great book play, "The Grain of Dust," will be presented.

———♯♯♯———

CHICAGO MADRIGAL CLUB

In the eleventh annual competition for the W. W. Kimball Company prize of one hundred dollars, offered by the Chicago Madrigal Club, the prize was awarded November 1 to Mr. Louis Victor Saar of Cincinnati, O. The judges were Allen Spencer, Herbert Miller and D. A. Clippinger.

———♯♯♯———

Sinai Temple.—Letitia Gallaher will be the soloist at the Dunham Orchestral Concert at Sinai Temple on Sunday evening.

THE ORCHESTRA CONCERTS

The concert of last week, heard only in part, was opened brilliantly with the "Overture" to the Cherubini "Water Carrier" and was further made interesting, in an orchestral sense, by the playing of the Humperdinck "Moorish Rhapsody" and "Life's Dance" by Delius.

Fritz Kreisler was heard in a "Concerto" by Vivaldi to much effect—this effect being very largely due to the exquisite precision and beauty of the accompaniment furnished by the orchestra.

The program of American compositions in which Foote, Chadwick and Kelley will appear as joint conductors with Mr. Stock, will be given on Friday and Saturday of this week. Detailed arrangement of the program is as follows:

Prelude to Act III., "Natoma".....Victor Herbert
A Northern Ballad, opus 46.....Horatio W. Parker
Dramatic overture, "Melpomene".....George W. Chadwick
Concerto for pianoforte No. 2, D minor, opus 23.....Edward MacDowell
"The Defeat of Macbeth".....Edgar Stillman Kelley
Four Character pieces, opus 48.....Arthur Foote
Festival March and Hymn to Liberty.....Frederick Stock

There will be a special Thanksgiving program on the afternoon of November 27, with a most interesting program of semi-popular character.

———♯♯♯———

ARCHE CLUB

The Arche Club met in its regular session Friday afternoon, October 31, at Abraham Lincoln Center. The interest shown at this meeting proves that the club is accomplishing excellent results and more brilliant prospects for the future. Ora Padget Langer, soprano, was the singer chosen for the afternoon and was heard in a well selected group of songs by MacDermid, Foote and MacFadyen. Mrs. Langer was in fine voice and sang with a charm and grace which completely won her audience, which demanded an encore. Mrs. Charles Orchard, the well known teacher and accompanist, shared the honors of the afternoon by furnishing excellent accompaniments to Mrs. Langer's songs in a way that showed she has few if any equals in this line of work.

H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

JOSEF HOFMANN

Josef Hofmann will be heard in a recital next Sunday afternoon, November 16, at The Studebaker, under the management of F. Wight Neumann, and will play the following program:

Sonate, Op. 106.....Beethoven
Allegro, Scherzo, Adagio Sostenuto, Allegro Risoluto (Fuge)
Polonaise, E flat minor
Nocturne, B major
Mazurka, B major .....Chopin
Sonate, B minor.....Liszt
Prelude, A minor
Prelude, D minor
Polichinelle .....Rachmaninoff
Barcarolle, F sharp minor.....Dvorsky
Etude, D sharp minor.....Scriabine

MUSIC TO COME

Friday, November 14

Orchestra Hall, 2:15. Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Saturday, November 15

Kimball Hall, Chicago, Piano College, 2:00. Piano recital, Violet Vokoun.

Kimball Hall, 3:00. American Conservatory recital.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15 Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Sunday, November 16

Lincoln Turner Hall, 3:00. Martin Ballman Orchestra; Arthur Frazer, pianist, soloist.

North Side Turner Hall, 3:00 William Boeppler Orchestra; Rose Lutiger Gannon, soloist.

Illinois Theater, 3:30. Song recital, Helene Koelling.

Studebaker Theater, 3:30. Piano recital, Josef Hofmann.

The Auditorium, 3:30. Melba-Kubelik concert.

Fine Arts Theater, 3:00. Joint recital, Louise St. John Westervelt, soprano; Helen Lawrence, pianist.

Monday, November 17

Studebaker, 2:30. Amateur Club annual scholarship program; M. Gulli and Lucile Stevenson.

Auditorium, 8:15. "Elijah;" Apollo Club.

Tuesday, November 18

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. American composers' concert, direction Glenn Dillard Gunn.

Music Hall, Evanston, 8:00. Song recital; Cecil Fanning.

Wednesday, November 19

Association Auditorium, 8:15. Bach Choral Society; orchestra; soloists, Herdien, Johnson, Kimbell.

Lyceum Arts Conservatory, 523 Fine Arts Building, 8:15. Song recital; Lemuel Kilby.

Thursday, November 20

New First Congregational Church, 8:15. Choir festival; Harrison Wild, Mable Corlew-Smidt, Lucy J. Hartman, Treble Clef Chorus.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Men's fall festival concert.

Friday, November 21

New First Congregational Church, 8:15. Gaul's "Holy City;" united choirs and soloists. Auditorium Recital Hall, 8:15. Faculty concert, Cosmopolitan School of Music.

Monday, November 24

Auditorium. Opening of the opera season.

———♯♯♯———

Dalcroze—Owing to the remarkable success of the Dalcroze system of eurhythmics recently introduced in the curriculum of the American Conservatory, it has been found necessary to form new classes, the others having been over-crowded.

DELMA-HEIDE
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris
MAESTO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE
ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. HydE
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
Studio 521 Kimball Hall, Tues. and Fri. Res. 5611 Woodlawn Av.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

JESSIE KING
PIANISTE
Studio 416, 55 E. Van Buren Street

MME. KOELLING'S RECITAL

This Sunday afternoon at 3:30 Mme. Helene Koelling, late soprano of the Manhattan and Montreal opera, gives a recital

MME. KOELLING

at the Illinois Theater under the management of Carl D. Kinsey. The revised program is as follows

Quel Ruscelletto	Paradies
Deh vieni non tardar	Mozart
Sortita D'Ofelia	Faccio
Variations	Proch
Auf die Nacht	Hans Huber
Der Tag wird kalt	Hans Huber
Das Mitleidge Madel	Erich Wolff
Pan	Richard Trunk
Mainacht	Brahms
An die Nachtigall	Schubert
Am Bache	Dvorak
Heimkehr	Strauss
Inmitten des Bales	Tschaikowsky
Auftrage	Schumann
To a Hidden Violet	Mary Helen Brown
Pierrot	Dagmar Rubner
Come, Sweet Morning	A. L.

SHERWOOD MUSIC SCHOOL

The second in the series of recitals which are to be given by the Sherwood Music School took place on Saturday, November 8, at 4 o'clock, in the studios in Fine Arts Building.

The program was given by Mrs. Jessie Devore, violinist, and Mr. Arthur Fram, pianist, members of the faculty.

COLUMBIA SCHOOL OF MUSIC

A joint recital will be given by Louise St. John Westervelt, soprano, and Helen Lawrence, pianist, at the Fine Arts Theater on Sunday afternoon, November 16, with the following program:

Wir wandelten
Der Gang zum Liebchen
Der Tod, das ist die Kuhle Nacht
Botschaft
} ..... Brahms

Miss Westervelt
Mr. Arthur Ganquist at the Piano

Impromptu, G flat major ..... Chopin
Waltz, E Eminor ..... Chopin
Poem ..... Scriabine
Etude ..... Juon

Miss Lawrence

De Greve
Le Jet d'Eau
Colloque Sentimental
Fantoches
Recueillement
Ballade des Femmes de Paris
} ..... Debussy

Miss Westervelt

Isolde's Liebestod ..... Wagner-Liszt
Waldesrauchen ..... Liszt
Gnomenreigen ..... Liszt

Miss Lawrence

The Enclosed Garden ..... Kurt Schindler
Happy Bird ..... Louis Victor Saar
A Song of Pain ..... Mabel Lee
Golden Eyes ..... Eleanor Everest Freer
Spring ..... Henschel

Miss Westervelt

CHICAGO PIANO COLLEGE

Miss Violet Vokoun will play the following piano recital program at the Chicago piano College Lecture Rooms in Kimball Hall on tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock:

Suite, Op. 16 ..... Grieg
(Norwegian Folk Scenes)—
Bridal Procession Passing By
Carnival Scenes
Nocturne Op: 15, No. 2 ..... Chopin
Rhapsody Op. 11, No. 3 ..... Dohnanyi
To a Wild Rose ..... MacDowell
From an Indian Lodge ..... MacDowell
Concert Etude F sharp major ..... MacDowell

MEN'S FALL FESTIVAL

The Men's Fall Festival Chorus, under direction of Edward T. Clissold, will give their annual concert at Orchestra Hall on Thursday evening, November 20.

They will be assisted by Helena Stone Torgerson, harpist; Edgar Nelson, organist, and the Maple Women's Quartet.

The chorus numbers will be:

"What from Vengeance" (Sextet from Lucia) ..... Donizetti
"Swing Along" ..... Will Marion Cook
"Smile" ..... J. S. Fearis
"Hallelujah Chorus" (The Messiah) ..... Handel-Protheroe
Arranged for Men's Fall Festival Chorus
"John Peel" ..... Old English arranged by Mark Andrews
"The Parting" ..... Dregert
"Love's Old Sweet Song" ..... Molloy-Protheroe
Arranged for Men's Fall Festival Chorus
"Soldier's Chorus" (Faust) ..... Gounod

Downing—On Sunday afternoon, November 30, at the Fine Arts Theater, Mrs. Lulu Jones Downing will present Mr. Charles W. Clark in song recital. Gordon Campbell, accompanist. The program will include one group of Mrs. Downing's songs.

Fram.—Mr. Arthur Fram will be the accompanist in a recital to be given by Alfred Hiles Bergen at the Sherwood Music School tomorrow afternoon at 4. Recitals are given every Saturday at this hour.

Music in New York

By ABBIE STEPHENS FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall

SEA BORN

I know not, I care not, that leagues of budding green,
Of roadside, and hillside stretch barriers between.
The gray gulls skirt the intervale;
The sea mists mount the upland trail;
And lo, beside my darkened pane,
The minstrel sea wind, strolling bold,
Plucks at his harp of sunset gold,
Till sweeter, clearer, echo-plain,
The lilt on my star-lit waves' refrain
Beats on my naked heart again.
I know not, I care not, that leagues of inland green,
Of roadside, and hillside stretch barriers between.

MARTHA HASKELL CLARK.

Apropos of Marie Narelle

I have just come from a day spent with Marie Narelle in her lovely country home; near enough to town to make shopping not an expedition but an outing, and sufficiently removed from the intimacies and familiarities of city life, to supply a retreat—a Patmos—though not exactly in the wilderness.

The country in its autumnal attire has a thousand lures and snares for the unwary feet of the being with the aesthetic inclination of mind and soul. The Australian soprano is keenly aware of this, and she enjoys the ecstasy of her guests who penetrate to her sylvan retreat—there is often a string of automobiles before her hospitable door—and almost envy their hostess all the sweets of country life with city joys near at hand when one is desirous of them.

But Marie Narelle supplements aesthetic delights with entertainments calculated to round out and crown a visit.

In her spacious and comfy living room one feels absolutely at home and welcome. The speeding of the parting guest comes all too soon with a hostess at once so gracious, amiable and vivacious as this charming singer.

Nature was in her most delightful mood when she created Mme. Narelle. The soprano is unmistakably of a type combining the physical traits of the ardent Celt, and the characteristics of the Spanish ancestors, who, coming to Ireland generations ago, handed down to their posterity Andalusian physical traits as a heritage.

Tall, fair, with large, well opened violet blue eyes, and hair black as polished ebony, Mme. Narelle is a striking personage; wonderfully attractive and fascinating. A real Valkyr; "divinely fair and most divinely tall," with vocal and temperamental attributes calculated to have vanquished Wagner himself; (for he, poor man, was not exactly the Knight of the Grail, his was the quest of the Valkyrie.)

When Mme. Narelle smiles her radiant smile, you realize how far she is removed from the prima donna of the stereotyped grimace. Her eyes laugh; her lips quiver and you know that she is indulging in no calculated poses. Indeed naturalness is the key note of her character. She is incapable of enveloping herself in those quasi mysteries, part and parcel of the outfit of the common or garden variety of prima donna. The commercialized singer who plans campaigns as a general plans his battles.

There is too much of beautiful spontaneity and impulsiveness about this charming woman ever to make it possible for her to become the business woman with an arriere pensee. Clever and practical though she be, the petit soins of the prima donna with her eye everlastingly upon the box office receipts are foreign to her. Like that other most womanly and altogether delightful singer, Lillian Nordica, Mme. Narelle has all the domestic virtues—the desire to help others—to put her friends at their ease, and to get all that is beautiful and good out of life. Very few are taboo to her, and her spacious home is filled each week-end with guests from far off climes as well as near at hand.

If, gentle reader, you have ever tasted the Mulligatawny soup prepared by the fair hands of Australia's leading soprano, you will know how versatile are her talents; and if ever you are invited to make an inspection of the larder with its shelves of jellies and jams and pickles and all sorts of "goodies" confected by those hands, you will wonder how she manages to do it.

But you see she is no prima donna of the tantrum school. Her time is more usefully spent than in fighting impresarios, and thinking out ways and means of making herself a nuisance.

She regards her profession as a heaven-sent vocation, and if she ever has "kicks" to register, heaven be praised, her "ructions" go unrecorded by any newspaper.

She has the amiable fad of collecting beautiful antiques: Sheraton and Chippendale furniture; Sevres, Dresden and Capo di Monte porcelains, with perhaps some precious trifle of the Ming dynasty to make a collector's heart beat a shade faster.

Standing among her fair household gods, she is a queen with all that elusive attraction one attributes to royalty, and when she consents to sing, and you hear her luscious voice with its unusual range; its honey-

BONCI
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR
SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York
Knabe Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER
CONTRALTO
Personal Address, 1003 Heberton St., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Management Haensel & Jones, Aeolian Hall, New York

MARIE NARELLE AUSTRALIAN SOPRANO
Management SUTORIUS
ABBIE S. FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall, Sole Representative
No. 1 West 34th St.

MR. & MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS
Address 330 West 58th St.
NEW YORK CITY

PIANIST BACHAUS
BALDWIN PIANO USED
Management Loudon Charlton

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address—
Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER
AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av.
NEW YORK

BISPHAM
All communications to
Private Address 44 West 44th St.
NEW YORK

RENE S.

LUND

Baritone

Song Recitals Concert

All inquiries and bookings personally attended to by Mr. Lund. Circulors mailed on request.

2453 W. Monroe St., Chicago Tel. Seeley 5602

OLGA LEAMAN

Teaching SOPRANO Concerts

6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE

CONTRALTO

Oratorio Recitals Concerts

Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS

THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915

Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING

CONTRALTO

Oratorio - Concert - Recital

815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR

TEACHER OF VOICE

300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5198

NORA LORAINE OLIN

VOICE

303 KIMBALL HALL Phone Harrison 5919

ELLA C. BIGELOW

TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE

AKRON, OHIO

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS

SOPRANO

CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS

6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

Katherine Howard Ward

Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist

917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

ROY DAVID BROWN

PIANIST

KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING

American Conservatory

Kimball Hall

Elias Bredin

TENOR

NINTH FLOOR, AUDITORIUM BUILDING

HEATHE GREGORY

BASS-BARITONE

Recitals Concert Oratorio

616 East 49th Street

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt

SOPRANO

Oratorio Concert Song Recital

Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

like mellowness flooding space, you are tempted to wonder why nature so rarely attempts to create a being so near perfection.

♮ ♮ ♮

Evan Williams in Recital

The well-known Welsh tenor, Evan Williams, scored quite a triumph for himself on the evening of November 7 in Aeolian Hall, in that he successfully surmounted a most evident hoarseness, and pleased his audience by an artistic interpretation of a formidable program.

Mr. Williams' program was sufficiently diversified to please the most exacting tastes. From Handel with his purely classic style, to Beethoven and the foremost German composers, there was much to choose and tidbits for various appetites.

The singer did ample justice to the recitative and aria, "Waft Her Angels," from "Jeptha," and "Sound an Alarm," from "Judas Maccabeus," and was accorded prolonged applause as a reward.

"An die ferne Gelibete" Beethoven's rather wearisome song cycle (this time done into English and not improved by the interference with the smooth-flowing German versification) showed the artist's versatility and command of vocal resources; his breadth of phrasing, and variety of style.

The audience of excellent size, was prodigal of applause and Mr. Williams accorded them a group of encores.

The interesting program follows:

Recit., "Deeper and Deeper, Still" (Jeptha)....Handel
Aria, "Waft Her Angels," Jeptha .....Handel
(With Organ Accompaniment)
Recit., "My Arms! Against This Gorgias," Judas Maccabaeus .....Mendelssohn
Aria, "Sound An Alarm," Judas Maccabaeus..... Mendelssohn
Song Cycle: To My Distant Beloved .....Beethoven
O'er the purple crested mountain
On the cliffs or in the caves
Lark that sings't
Oh that my true love were here
The spring is returning
Wake thy lute
Wandering
Faith in Spring
Impatience } ..... Schubert
An Irish Noel ..... Holmes
Cradle Song ..... Brahms
The Youth's Departure to the War ..... Homer
"Sorrows of Death" (Hymn of Praise), Mendelssohn
(With Accompaniment)

♮ ♮ ♮

Mme. Carreno in Recital

Mme. Teresa Carreno, the South American pianiste, was heard in an interesting program in Carnegie Hall, on the afternoon of November 5, by an audience of good size.

Her offering included the Sonata Pathetique of Beethoven, various works of Chopin, etc.

Her best work was done in the elucidation of a Brahms Opus: An interminable series of dry and boresome variations upon an Handelian theme of slight significance. It was Brahms the Builder, at his most architectural. However, the pianiste seemed in perfect sympathy with the notable composer's intentions.

She received much applause.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Herbert Witherspoon's Recital

Mr. Herbert Witherspoon held forth vocally on Thursday afternoon, November 6, in Aeolian Hall, where the numerous recitallers receive their friends and admirers, and perhaps a segment of the music-loving (much abused phrase) public.

Mr. Witherspoon contributed a varied program.

♮ ♮ ♮

Song Recital

Mr. Roman Stern, lieder singer, gave a concert in Carnegie Lyceum on Thursday evening, November 6. His program embraced compositions by Weber, Schumann, Schubert, Brahms, and others.

♮ ♮ ♮

Notes

Mr. Horatio Connell, baritone, will be heard in a recital in Aeolian Hall, on November 25.

On Friday evening, November 14, in Aeolian Hall, Mrs. Lillian Birmingham will be heard in an interesting recital including the "Waltraute" scene from "Die Goetterdaemmerung."

Hattie Scholder-Edlin, pianiste, will give a recital in Aeolian Hall on the afternoon of November 13.

Browne—Ellen Van Volkenburg, who in private life is Mrs. Maurice Browne, and in public co-director with her husband of the Chicago Little Theater, tells this story against herself: "When I was crossing to England this summer and looking very—well, steamery, a woman on the boat said to me: 'Oh, Mrs. Browne, I saw you this spring in Boston in your husband's production of that dreadful play of Strindberg's, "Creditors." You played Thekla, didn't you? Yes. You looked so diabolically handsome. How did you manage it?'"

♯ ♯ ♯

Stein.—Miss Glendora Barnes, contralto soloist, and Miss Bess Marion Anderson, pupils of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Buren Stein, are making a great success of their musical-dramatic recitals as the number of return dates show. They have appeared recently in Kenosha. Pleasant Prairie, Racine, Milwaukee, Wis., and in Salem, Zion City, Paddock's Lake, Gurnee, Waukegan and Lake Bluff, Ill.

♯ ♯ ♯

Parker—Mr. Frank Parker, last year in Chicago, and lately placed at the head of the vocal department at Christian college, Columbia, Mo., gave a fine recital at that institution recently. In connection with Cady Kenney, pianist, and Alvin L. Barton, violinist, he has formed a College Concert Trio, which expects to fulfill many western engagements.

♯ ♯ ♯

Choral Society—The Marshall Field & Company Choral Society, founded in 1907 with a membership of 140, has grown to nearly 200 active members. Heretofore but one concert a season has been given, but two will be rendered this season—one, composed of part songs, on December 4, in Orchestra Hall; and another, comprising two cantatas, on April 16, 1914, in the same place.

♯ ♯ ♯

Levy—Mr. Heniot Levy, pianist, played a recital before the Lutheran Ladies' society, at Red Wing, Minn., on November 4, and appeared at Fargo, N. D., on the 4th. His program on both occasions comprised the "Chaconne" (Bach-Busoni), "Renaissance" (Godowsky), "Sonata" Op. 58 (Chopin), "Carneval" Op. 9 (Schumann), and the "Tannhauser Overture" (Wagner-Liszt).

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH
AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST
In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.
Address after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.
San Francisco Sierra News:
"A musician of wonderful power."

Books and Music

VOCAL ART

A very attractive little book by Mme. M. A. B. Girard entitled "Vocal Art," has for its sub-title, "How to Tune a Voice." and this is indicative in a degree of the trend of the interesting volume.

The preface of this little look is so wholly indicative of its content that it is here reproduced:

"Dr. Girard has spent nearly a lifetime in simplifying the study of voice culture. She has sought the natural method of singing, based on scientific principles. Convinced that difficulties in singing arise from ignorance of the right use of the vocal organs, and of the body as a whole, she has made wide and careful investigation of the methods of the best masters, at the same time pursuing a scientific study of physical health and disease, especially as shown in the action and conditions of the nose, throat, lungs and nervous system. Dr. Girard dwells with great emphasis upon the subject of nutrition of the nerves. She says the nerves are the life current conductors, and that any confusion or abnormal action in any part of the nervous system, manifests itself in the voice, that there is not an organ, faculty, function or talent, that is not influenced by the condition of the nervous system. That voice production is governed by natural and acoustic law, and that anyone who, through knowledge of right conditions, can bring about a correct adjustment of the whole organism and by an understanding of just what is required before making an attempt to sing, thereby avoiding unnecessary repetition, may, in a much shorter space of time than is generally supposed, develop a rich, full, pure tone, and a brilliant trill. The great demand for the fruits of Mrs. Girard's labor induced her to make a specialty of voice culture from a physiological and hygienic standpoint."

Turning to the very back of the book we find letters of recommendation for the method expounded from such masters as Lamperti, Sangiovanni, Carlotta Patti, Carl Formes and Whittlesey—surely sufficient authority to make the book representative.

A perusal of the pages between the preface and the letters, however, proves not only a fascinating pleasure to any one at all interested in vocal art, but it is also the way in which one many become most thoroughly convinced that Dr. Girard knows whereof she writes so entertainingly.

A great deal of personal history is included and the results of much observation and research very plainly set forth, so that when the book is finished the reader has not only been pleased as he went along, but has arrived also at the sure conclusion that he has found a very practical and helpful treatise on the art of singing.

♮ ♮ ♮

Browne and Howell Company

This enterprising new firm of Chicago has put out a number of thoroughly attractive and useful books on musical subjects, two of which are just at hand.

"How the Piano Came to Be" is the title of a small book of about sixty pages, and it tells most beautifully (Ellye Howell Glover) the origin and history of the instrument which is known and beloved in almost every home in Christendom.

The illustrations are beautiful and the general style is charming throughout. A dainty Christmas gift for a young student and one which may be kept always for reference.

"In Music Land," by George P. Upton is one of the most charming gift books imaginable, for it treats of the great subjects of music in a perfectly simple and direct way, and yet with the authority of so widely experienced a writer as Mr. Upton.

Dorothy, Katherine, Alice, Martha and Tom (to whom the book is dedicated) have been asked to state just what they would like to know about great musicians, and with the cue thus obtained the story teller sits down on a succession of evenings to present the tales in the most entertaining way imaginable, and with just enough of solid history interwoven in each story to make it absolutely authentic.

A book which any child, or in fact any student of music at any age, would be delighted to receive for a Christmas present.

Is It Enough?

A Musical Novel, by Harriette Russell Campbell, entertainingly written and with good climax. Put out in very attractive shape by Harpers.

♮ ♮ ♮

Symphonies and Their Meaning

This is a goodly book by Philip H. Goepp and has been sent to the public in a neat dress by the J. B. Lippincott Company of Philadelphia.

Like the aforementioned books it is admirable for gift purposes, but it is rather in the form of solid meat than as salad or dessert and its contents will be best appreciated by the advanced student. It would be an admirable companion for any student who is listening to his first season of symphony concerts.

The book consists of 350 well written pages and its content may best be described by quoting, in order, the titles of its various chapters. There are: "The Symphony During the Nineteenth Century," "Berlioz and Liszt," "Dramatic Symphony," "A Symphony to Dante's Divina Commedia," "The Symphonic Poems of Liszt," "The Symphonic Poems of Saint-Saens," "Cesar Franck," "D'Indy and Followers of Franck," "Debussy and the Innovators," "Tschaikowsky," "The Neo Russians," "Sibelius," "Bohemian Symphonies," "The Earlier Bruckner," "The Later Bruckner," "Hugo Wolff," "Mahler," "Richard Strauss," "Italian Symphonies" and "Symphonies in America."

♮ ♮ ♮

Music from Witmark

"Stepping Stones to Music Land." Easy progressive material for the piano in four parts. A well arranged beginner's manuel. "Dear Little Hands," a song, with lyric and music by Caro Roma. "My Days Are in His Hands," a sacred song, in three keys, by Ernest R. Ball. "It Was for Me," a sacred song, in three solo keys and also arranged as a duet for high and low voices, by Charles B. Blount.

♮ ♮ ♮

New Music from C. W. Thompson and Co.

C. W. Thompson and Company of Boston, send out some striking new music, the list beginning with four easy and melodious piano pieces under the general caption, "The Locusts," and with the sub-titles "Sporting Locust," "Song of the Locust," "Flight of the Locust" and "Night Song of

CLARENCE EDDY
May be engaged for the
Opening of New Organs and for Organ Recitals
During the Season of 1913-1914.
Address: 510 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago.

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Violinist Brokaw Power-Meyer Conservatory WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

COLLINS J. Basso-Cantante BROCK
EUDORA MOODY SOPRANO
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

Grant Tenor KIMBELL
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

DEWITT DURGIN TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

AGNES LEIST-BEEBE ORATORIO SONG RECITAL PUPILS
SOPRANO
509 Kimball Hall and 3985 Drexel Boulevard

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

the Locust." These are by John Proctor Mills.

"Distant Years," a pleasing "Nocturne" in medium grade, by F. H. Cleaves.

"Two Nocturnes," printed together in attractive cover, by H. F. MacColl.

"Creole Dance" and "Shadow Dance," good salon pieces by S. W. Jamieson.

"Fragrant Meadows," an easy Valse Caprice, by B. Frank Michelsen.

"Ariel Mazurka," by Isaac Goldberg.

"Pink Junes," "Love of God" and "Threnody," three attractive songs by E. May Greenwood.

"My Home," words by K. D. Byrne and music by Harry H. Bennett.

"Love's Lament," words and music by Mabelle Claire Perkins.

"The Heavenly Land of Peace," a sacred song of good value by Walter Rolfe.

"Give Ear, O Ye Heavens," by Warren W. Adams.

♮ ♮ ♮

Clayton F. Summy Company

The new music from Clayton F. Summy Company, Chicago, includes a small "Suite" for pianoforte, by R. Nathaniel Dett, called, "In the Bottoms," and presents a very attractive picture. The music is of medium difficulty and covers a considerable range of sentiment, the sub-titles to the separate pieces being "Prelude," "His Song," "Barcarolle," "Honey" and "Dance."

Frederick Williams is represented by "Spring's Greeting," a gay little piano piece, excellent for teaching.

"Songs or Cantillations" by Natilie Whitted Price include "The Little Old-fashioned Girl" and "The Clock" and a fine list of encore songs includes "'Tis the Air of You," a charming little conceit by Marguerite Easter.

Alfred Wooler contributes a strong sacred song, "Out of the Depths," for high or low voice, to the "Third Series of Songs for the Church" and "Saw Ye My Savior" (high-low), by Mary Baker Eddy and Frederick Root provides a new song for the Scientist congregations.

♮ ♮ ♮

William A. Pond and Company

Volume one of "Organ Treasury" is entitled "Festive Music," Volume two is "Postludes" and Volume three "Voluntaries." All are excellent.

In "Edition Pond" a very attractive and very useful "Pipe Organ Collection" is issued, containing many useful selections for church use, while in sheet form the "Second Series" includes many fine works, by Faulkes, Gregh, Archer and others.

Compositions for violin and piano include "Sweet Genevieve," well arranged by Henry Tucker.

Sacred songs by Mrs. Joseph F. Knapp include "The Hand of Christ and "Open the Gates of the Temple" (duet).

Songs of Samuel S. Aronson bear the titles "Cradle Song," "A Foreboding," "Cupid's Art," "My Dreams of You" and "If Only Thou Art True."

♮ ♮ ♮

Chappell and Company

Chappell and Company of New York send some very handsomely gotten-up songs by Silesu, these including "A Little Love, a Little Kiss," written very charmingly and in three keys to suit all voices. Other songs are:

"When Joy Bells Ring," A. Herbert Brewer.

"My Love for You," H. Lyall Phillips.

"Red Devon of the Sea," Clarke; "Wolfgof, the Bowman," Nelson; "I Heard a Sweet Song" and "Were I Some Star," Dorothy Foster, and "A Protest," by Noel Johnson.

♮ ♮ ♮

Vocal Music from Oliver Ditson

The list of new songs sent out by the Oliver Ditson Company during the month is a very large one and there is much of great value in this list.

A new volume of the "Musician's Library" which is, as everyone knows, an exceptionally fine and accurate edition, is made up of "Forty Songs" by Adolph Jensen, for high voice, and ought to furnish a feast for any soprano or tenor.

Louis Victor Saar, whose songs have come very rapidly and emphatically to the front, is represented in the Ditson list by "The Little Day Star" (high), "The Moon and the Star" (high-medium), "A Petition" (medium-low), "To One I Love" (high-low) and "Rose Immortal" (high-medium).

The "English Songs" series consists of many old favorites in a new edition, one of the latest being "The Arrow and the Song" by Pinsuti. William Spencer Johnson is represented by "A Road Tune" (high-medium), "Even Song" (medium-low) and "From Oversea" (high-low).

Two songs by Howard C. Gilmore are "Hame to the Highlands" (medium) and "Of the Kingdom of Dreams" (high-medium).

Songs of Tschaikowsky series is increased by the addition of "Pimpinella," a Florentine song for medium voice.

Arthur Bergh is listed in "Sleepless Dreamings" (high), "Thou Art My Rest" (high), "Would You" (medium) and "The Night Rider" (low).

John A. Carpenter is represented by "May, the Maiden," "The Hearts Country" and "When the Misty Shadows Glide."

Charles Fonteyn Manney—"Be Near to Me" (high-medium), "Night and Day" (high-low) and "Parted Presence" (high).

Sacred Songs, Third Series, contains splendid works by many fine composers, notably "O What Is Man" (Beethoven), "O Love Divine" (Haydn), "The Homeland" (Wooler) and "In Heavenly Love Abiding" (Walter C. Young).

♮ ♮ ♮

An Appreciation of MacDowell

From The Linden Press at Montreat, North Carolina, comes a dainty little booklet from the pen of Mrs. Crosby Adams.

The title is "What the Piano Writings of Edward MacDowell Mean to the Piano Student" and the work itself is one which should certainly be read and pondered upon by every serious student in the country. Mrs. Adams, in this charming book, gives some intimate glimpses of MacDowell and at the same time she reveals her own high ideals in most pleasing light.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Piano Pedals

Very seldom indeed does a new work

come to hand which at once impresses its significance and value as does "The Piano Pedals," a new treatise on "How, when and where to use the pedals of the piano," by Mrs. A. M. Virgil.

Mrs. Virgil is an experienced teacher, a thorough student and an absolutely artistic musician. She has therefore viewed her subject from many and varied standpoints and has evolved an educational work of the utmost value to every student of the piano and one which will be invaluable in the class room.

Beginning with "Pedal Signs," Mrs. Virgil clears up that moot question most satisfactorily and then proceeds through thirty-two pages of most concisely written text to explain and elucidate every possible complication which may arise in actual study at the pianoforte.

It is impossible in a short article to tell how thoroughly and how well she has done this but it requires only a cursory review of the pages of the book by any practical pedagogue to bring the absolute conviction that the work has never been so well done before from the practical standpoint.

This book is issued and distributed by The Virgil Piano School Company of 42 West 76th street, New York, and is worth attention.

♮ ♮ ♮

Gilbert Music Company

The Gilbert Music Company of Chicago sends out an attractive list of Sacred Songs, including the wholly fine and already successful new song by Lily Wadhams Moline, "A Psalm of Praise." This is printed in two keys for the convenience of high and low voices and the actual hearing of the number in church service has been positively convincing of its unusual value.

♮ ♮ ♮

Church, Paxon and Company

This company sends out "My Rose in a Garden of Tears," a sentimental song by Jerome Heller.

♮ ♮ ♮

Piano Music from Ditson

The Oliver Ditson Company may be depended upon each month to issue a list of good teaching material for piano as well as many salon pieces of merit. The list this month includes:

H. Weyts—"Perfumed Breeze," easy waltz movement.

G. A. Grant-Schaeffer—"March of the Boy Scouts." Good for teaching march rhythm.

Reginald Barrett—"Mazurka," "Minuet" and "Little Gavotte." Excellent medium teaching material.

Leo Oehmler—A long list of easy and medium grade teaching pieces.

Russian Piano Music—A beautifully printed and illustrated series of Russian compositions by Arensky, Borodin, Cui, Iljinsky, Scriabine, Tschaikowsky and others. A request for list would be worth while.

Frederick A. Williams — "Wayside Spring" and "Autumn." Good teaching material.

Paul Opper—"At the Dance," "Colonial Days," "Come Join the Dance," "In the Apple Boughs," "May Breezes" and "Measured Steps." Medium teaching material.

James H. Rogers—A long list of good teaching material ranging from easy to medium.

J. P. Ludebuehl—"Album Leaf," "Evening Song," "The Gipsy Band," "Shepherd's Song" and "Tarentelle." Fine, easy teaching material.

Jean Paul Kursteiner—"Naivete," a good salon piece.

Eber C. Hamilton—"Two Venetian Lovers." Attractive salon piece.

Easy Piano Duets—A fine list by Baumfelder, Gounod, Iucho and Moffat.

Richard Ferber—"Album Leaf," "Moment Musical" and "Zigzag." Medium grade teaching material.

Gustave Lazarus — "Little Serenade," "Gavotte," "A Dream of Summer" and "At the Spring." Medium grade teaching material.

TITTA RUFFO'S master
LELIO CASINI, recommends
HAMILTON
HOPKINS
(Casini's Assistant for 4 Years in Milan)
710 Fine Arts Building
CHICAGO

J. Fischer and Brother

J. Fischer and Brother of New York have a most attractive catalog of many kinds of music but in no respect do they excel over their list of Organ Compositions.

The shape and style of page adopted by them is an improvement over the ordinary and they have been most careful in their choice of composers for exploitation.

A new list just sent out includes some characteristic and wholly admirable works by J. Frank Frysinger, including "Nocturne," "Meditation," "At Twilight," "Supplication," "Scherzo Symphonique," "Chant sans Paroles," "Reverie" and "Traumlied."

Ralph Kinder is represented by his "Prelude and Fugue," "Toccata." "Cantilene du Soir," "In Moonlight" and "In Springtime" and "Legend" by Gottfried H. Federlein is also found to be a fine addition to the organist's reportoire.

♮ ♮ ♮

Gamble Hinged Music Company

The Gamble Company have sent out thematic catalogues and circulars of various and attractive sorts.

"The Story of Bethlehem," a new "Christmas Cantata" by Daniel Protheroe, is worthy the attention of every choir and will doubtless be a feature in the coming holiday programs in the churches.

♮ ♮ ♮

Part Songs by Freer

Among the quartets written by Eleanor Everest Freer and scheduled in the issue of Music News for last week are two Christmas numbers of very great value and which should find a liberal place on the coming holiday programs.

A "Christmas Carol" to exquisite words by Agnes Greene Foster is a very charming little number for mixed voices, with piano accompaniment, and will be found readily available for the use of choirs of all degrees.

"Unto Us a Son Is Given" is an anthem of large form and considerable development and will well repay investigation with a view to prominent place on Christmas programs.

♮ ♮ ♮

B. F. Wood Music Company

The B. F. Wood Company are sending out two thematic catalogs, one devoted to "Secular Songs" and one to "Sacred Songs." The lists included are so fine and so characteristic as to be well worth the trouble of asking for.

Two new songs which have been received from this Company have proved to be interesting and effective. One of these is "Suppose," by Reginald Barrett (words by Eugene Field), and the other is "When You Are Near" by D'Auvergne Barnard. Both are songs which will well repay inspection.

OAKLAND METHODIST EPISCOPAL

Much good music is being heard weekly and more of the same is in course of preparation for special musical services at the Oakland Methodist Church, Oakwood boulevard and Langley avenue. O. E. Robinson, the musical director, has under his guidance a splendid chorus choir and a most excellent organist in Mrs. W. H. Klose. On last Sunday evening the choir was heard in the anthem for seven voices, "Souls of the Righteous" by Noble, and the beautiful duet, "The Lord Is My Light," by Buck, was sung in a most satisfactory manner by Mrs. McGlashan and Mrs. Wagner.

H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

Kneisel—The Kneisel Quartet will come to Chicago for the first of their series of three chamber music concerts, Sunday afternoon, November 23, at the Studebaker, under the management of F. Wight Neumann. The personnel of the quartet remains the same as last year—Franz Kneisel, first violin; Hans Letz, second violin; Louis Svecenski, viola, and Willem Willeke, 'cello. The program will contain the Mozart Quartet F major, No. 9 (Breitkopf & Haertel edition); Chadwick Quartet D Minor, No. 5, and the Beethoven Quartet F minor, Op. 95.

———♯♯♯———

Johnson—Jennie F. W. Johnson will be the contralto soloist with the Bach Choral Society, John W. Norton, conductor, in the Bach-Schubert concert, to be given in the Association Auditorium, 19 South La Salle street, November 19 next. Miss Johnson has specialized in the study of the Bach choral music, hence does the work exceedingly well.

———♯♯♯———

Hall—William Clare Hall appeared in joint recital with Miss Barbara Wait, at Janesville, Wis., last week, under auspices of the Apollo Club, and both artists scored a complete success.

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

GIVING CREDIT FOR OUTSIDE STUDY

In the November 7 issue of Music News Mr. Hitchcock in his story of the meeting of the Piano Teachers' Association in Washington, D. C., tells of efforts being made to secure for pupils of the high schools credit for music study done under competent private teachers approved by the school board.

In Chelsea and other Massachusetts cities and towns, piano, voice, organ and other branches of music may be studied with private teachers and credit toward a graduation diploma secured. In Minneapolis, if memory serves, the plan has been in successful operation for some time.

This is a step in the right direction. In too few towns and cities of America is any interest shown by the majority of the citizens in the work done in music by the public schools. Yet there are quite good salaries attached to the position of director of music, and these add materially to the annual school appropriation and the annual tax rate which the taxpayers have to pay.

But there is another thing to think about, and that is that music teachers whose pupils are from the public schools and receive credit for outside work done with them, become, in a sense, under the control of the school authorities and quasi-public school teachers.

And this is as it should be, because the school boards have the right to require the private teacher, teaching other branches of education, and private schools to have a standard of attainment for their pupils as well as a preparation for teaching that will conserve the public interest. Naturally the board would see that teachers of music, allowed to teach in conjunction with the public school teachers, have adequate preparation for their duties, and characters necessary to secure a position in the schools.

And this would, slowly, perhaps, but surely, give the private music teacher a standing in the community that is justly due, eliminate the ill-prepared and those of questionable character from the profession and place all instructors of the public under the control of constituted authority.

♮ ♮ ♮

Notes

The young pianist, Wilhelm Bachaus, gives a recital in Jordan Hall, Thursday afternoon, November 20, at 3 o'clock. He was heard here two seasons ago.

The annual recital of Heinrich Gebhard, the local pianist, will be given in Jordan Hall, Monday, December 8.

George Copeland of Boston gave a piano recital in Jordan Hall, Thursday, the 13th. His program was made up of Debussy's second set of preludes, twelve in all, heard for the first time in this city.

Thursday afternoon, November 18, John Chipman, American tenor and native of Boston, will be heard in a program of English, French and German songs in Steinert Hall, at 3 o'clock.

Miss Maud Scheerer of the Powers School has taken the text of "Samson and Delilah" and worked it into a dramatic reading. She has retained some of the beautiful arias, and the whole will be given soon in Steinert Hall, Mrs. Helen A. Hunt, mezzo-contralto, being the assisting soloist.

A varied program was given by the pupils of the Faelten Pianoforte School, in Huntington Chambers Hall, Thursday evening, November 6.

There was an illustration of senior class work in unison playing, in ensemble, as well as in solo performance.

MacDowell and others represented American composers.

A lecture recital will be given in Steinert Hall, Saturday afternoon, December 6, by Mme. Antoinette Szumowska.

The fifth symphony concert program will include Schubert's B minor, called the "Unfinished," and Beethoven's "Pastorale," F major No. 6. Heinrich Warnke, principal 'cellist of the orchestra, will play Haydn's D major concerto. Anton Hekking played it in 1890; Hugo Becker, the German 'cellist, played it in 1901.

♮ ♮ ♮

Sunday afternoon, November 23, at 3:30, Paderewski gives his second Boston recital in Symphony Hall under the local management of Mr. Mudgett. This will be his first Sunday recital in this city.

Advanced students of the New England Conservatory of Music gave a concert in Jordan Hall Friday evening, November 7. The program will contain numbers from Rheinberger, Beethoven, Brahms, Grieg, Chopin, Vieuxtemps, Debussy and Liszt. The soloists are Alice V. Gay, Cavendish, Vt.; Beatrice Ragsdale, Madill, Okla.; Alice P. Davis, Rochester, N. Y.; Dorothy Hills, Delaware, O.; Annie Haigh, Dubois, Pa.; Dorothy Cook, Waban; Margaret A. Kent, South Boston.

The 28th annual report of the Beneficent Society of the New England Conservatory of Music, which has just been issued, shows that during the past season the beneficiary committee loaned the amount of $1,321.50 to eleven beneficiaries, nine women and two men. The finances of the society, which has an honorable history dating back to the presidency of Mary A. Livermore, are reported to be in good condition. The newly elected president is Mrs. Charles H. Bond.

A sizable group of former and present pupils of the dramatic department of the New England Conservatory has been engaged for the performances of the Jewett players.

Many pupils of Clayton D. Gilbert, director of the dramatic department of the New England Conservatory of Music, are filling professional engagements this fall.

L. S. B.

♮ ♮ ♮

Song Recital by Roland Hayes

Mr. Roland Hayes, tenor, at his recital in Steinert Hall on Wednesday evening, November 5, displayed a voice that has received good cultivation and whose qualities give promise of still higher artistic worth. His best numbers were: "Domani" by Palloni, "A Spirit Flower" by Campbell-Tipton, and "A Song of June" by W. S. Johnson. Fortunately, as a younger singer and still under training, he showed good judgment in not undertaking more ambitious and pretentious music; but there will come a time when he will achieve a laudable mastery over higher artistic forms. His accompanist was Miss Bertha Baumann.

Mr. Roland Tibbs, head of the piano department at Howard University, gave a fair reading of Schumann's Symphonic Etudes, and a satisfactory rendition of the Rachmaninoff "G minor Prelude." He was at his best in the "Lento" by Cyril Scott, and in the "Fantasia in F minor" by Chopin.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Kneisel Quartet Concert

A comparatively small audience was attracted by the excellent program offered by the Kneisel Quartet on Tuesday evening, November 4. It cannot be said that the performance was flawless and above reproach, but the program, nevertheless, appealed to appreciative listeners. Occasional parts of the music rose to loftier heights and received a more virile reading, while again other parts were dry and inclined to be tedious, falling to lower levels and lacking invigorating inspiration.

The program shows very well what was offered at this time, the Brahms number making a deep impression because of the added color and timbre of the clarinet (Mr. Henri Leon Leroy).

PROGRAM

Quartet in F minor, Op. 95 ..... Beethoven
- Allegro con brio
- Allegretto na non troppo—Allegro assai vivace ma serioso
- Larghetto espressivo—Allegretto agitato

Quartet in D minor, No. 5 ..... Chadwick
- Allegro moderato
- Andantino
- Leggiero e presto
- Allegro vivace

Quintet in B minor, for two violins, viola, violoncello and clarinet, Op. 115 ..... Brahms
- Allegro
- Adagio
- Andantino—Presto non assai, ma con sentimento
- Con Moto.

S. H. L.

♮ ♮ ♮

The New York Philharmonic Concert

The concert given by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra (Josef Stransky, Conductor) on Sunday afternoon, November 2, was a veritable feast of good things and a rendition that will long be memorable. The soloist was Mr. Fritz Kreisler and he gave a manly interpretation of the Bruch Violin "Concerto in G minor" winning distinctive approbation in the slow movement, although throughout there was beauty of tone and an authoritative mastery of every detail.

The work of the orchestra was superb. Its gradations of tone were most effective, and when joined to zestful, hypnotic playing, there were times when the climaxes

Charles W. CLARK

"The World's Greatest Interpreter of Song"
American Tour November, 1913—June, 1914

Direction Redpath Musical Bureau, Cable Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Owing to the clamor for recitals by Mr. Clark during the month of December, he will teach in Chicago during the month of February.

For Particulars, Address Dr. Frederick Clark 83 AUDITORIUM BLDG.

that were attained were of an overpowering intensity.

The orchestra program presented the Rienzi Overture (Wagner); Symphonic Poem; "Death and Transfiguration" (Strauss); and Symphony, No. 5, in E minor (Tschaikowsky). S. H. L.

THE NEWMAN LECTURES

Those cities which are never omitted from the itineraries of European travelers will form the subject of the new series of travel talks which Mr. E. M. Newman will present at Orchestra Hall on five successive Wednesday and Friday evenings and Saturday matinees, beginning November 19. In "London Today," the first subject, every phase of life in the world's metropolis is to be reviewed, and all the familiar places of literary and historic interest will be visited. The activities of the militant suffragettes, the riots they have incited and the depredations they have committed will also be shown on the screen. In "Paris," the second lecture, Mr. Newman will pay special attention to the life in the "real Latin quarter" among the artists, students and models; to the fashions as they are worn at the races and on the streets, and to the shops of the designers responsible for them. Pictures of the latest conceptions will be sent Mr. Newman weekly, as they appear by his assistant, who remained abroad. The objects of art in the Louvre and other galleries will also be included. In "Rome, Ancient and Modern," the architectural gems of the present and the majestic ruins of the past will pass in review. A visit to the Vatican with its art treasures will include a glimpse of the Pope walking in his gardens. "Florence," with its memories of illustrious artists, sculptors and men of letters, and "Venice, the Smiling City of Romance," will comprise the fourth lecture, and in contrast to the ancient cities of Italy Mr. Newman will conclude his course with "Vienna, the City Beautiful," whose wide, well lighted streets, uniform architecture and splendid public buildings and playgrounds are models for the future. New color views and motion pictures of unusual charm were taken by Mr. Newman last summer and will illustrate all the lectures. There will be three courses, exactly alike.

———♯♯♯———

Nelson.—Mr. Edgar Nelson will appear as accompanist for the William Hinshaw recital, which is soon to be given in Chicago.

The Chicago Opera Company in Philadelphia

Since it is facts, not fancies this paper indulges in, it is useless to print the unfounded rumors of the possible uphcaval in the opera situation, as regards the relations of the Chicago Opera Company to the city of Philadelphia. Suffice it to say, that following a recent board meeting,

JENNY DUFAU

Mr. T. D. Cuyler, chairman of the executive committee of the Metropolitan Opera Company of Philadelphia, issued a letter to the effect that such statements were the product of the imagination, entirely. So, also is the thought that the Boston company will succeed the present company in Philadelphia.

As to actualities, the Chicago company opened on Monday evening, November 3, perhaps stronger and if possible better than ever in its illustrious history. With Garden in the lead, Campanini the director, and "Tosca" the bill, a combination was presented quite difficult of improvement. Garden, unfortunately, was not in her most excellent form, however, as always, she was the superb artiste. The most critical must admit that fact.

The real beauties of vocalism were reserved for the second performance of Wednesday evening, when Mlle. Jennie Dufau and Titta Ruffo appeared in the "Barber of Seville," and Guiseppe Sturani acted as musical director.

CLEOFONTE CAMPANINI

The impression created by the distinguished baritone, in the role of Figaro,

Ethel Altemus
PIANIST
Philadelphia Address 1526 Spruce Street
Personal Representative
FREDERICK CLARK
83 Auditorium Building, Chicago

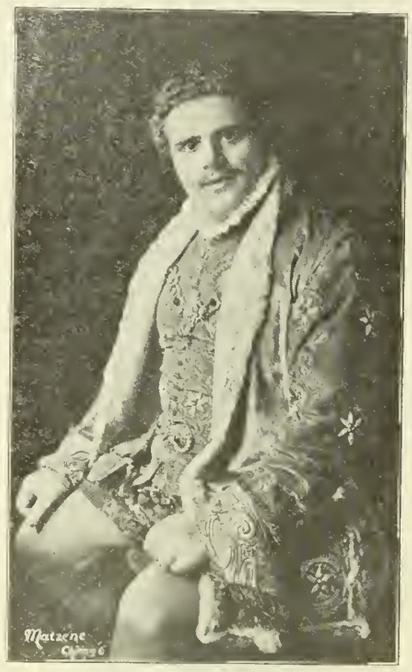
JENNY DUFAU
SOPRANO
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

was marked. There were two vital reasons for this, that he has a robust, sonorous voice, used with every bit of art conceivable, and that his histrionic ability is very unusual in an opera singer. Also, Ruffo has an able opposite in Mlle. Dufau, cast for Rosina.

Mlle. Dufau, it will be recalled, has been a favorite as a coloratura, with the present company for several seasons, and is also admired for her concert successes both here and in New York, where she has appeared several times this fall. On this occasion her "Rosina" was most dainty and effective, quite as it is meant to be, and was delivered with a sufficient degree of power. As a Philadelphia critic wrote of her: "Miss Dufau is a 'sure' singer, and one never felt uncertain of her attack and maintenance and she is a thorough mistress of coloratura, an attribute most necessary in a role so full of florid passages. She delivered the famous 'Una Voce Poca Fa' with much charm, but she was even better in the 'Io Sono Docile,' which is one of the loveliest bits of the opera."

Giorgini has a lyric tenor wholly beautiful, which he used with fine effect. His appearance as the handsome lover proved to be an added pleasure to the audience. His acting was indeed distinguished. Others in the cast were notably Louise Berat, who has a short but exacting role and who was applauded generously for her achievements; Henri Scott, the Philadelphia basso, was cast for Basilio; while Fosetta, Trevistan and Venturini were added.

High hopes were dashed to the ground Thursday evening, when Mme. Carolina White, the really distinguished American dramatic soprano, proved to be seriously handicapped by a severe cold, and which for a time was considered to be tonsilitis. However, Miss White was not substituted for, but attempted the role of "Aida," which began well enough, but which she was unable to finish, really, abandoning the singing of the last act. Consequently, the honors went to Martinelli who sang "Radames." His voice, particularly the high tones, were thrilling, his work even advancing until his climax in the third act. Even his "Celeste Aida," perhaps the most difficult test of a tenor's capabilities, was entirely satisfying.



ARISTODEMO GIORGINI

Of the younger singers of the company, one deserving especial commendation, and one who is being honored with particularly difficult roles, is the Boston girl, Miss Beatrice Wheeler.

Miss Wheeler is a contralto who appears to possess without doubt the real contralto quality, despite the fact that one Philadelphia critic declared her voice to be a mezzo "not contralto;" the writer recalls that this same critic, if we are not deplorably mistaken, announced that Mlle. Dufau sang the "Polonaise" from Thomas "Manon" when the young prima donna in fact offered the "Il Bacio" (Arditti).

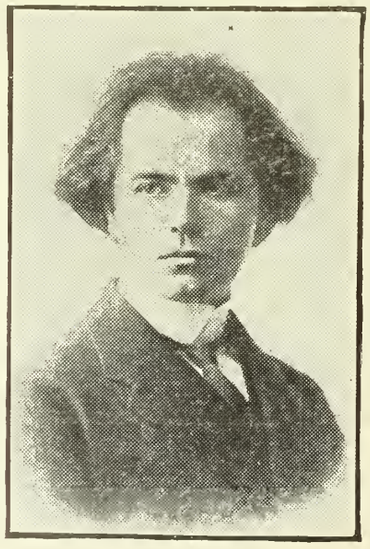
As Amneris, Miss Wheeler looked the part to absolute perfection. Though an American, Miss Wheeler is of the stunning Spanish type of beauty, and with the aid of the necessary make-up, is quite as handsome as one will ever see on any stage at any time. Also, for a young singer, she has achieved remarkable things in her several years abroad with smaller opera companies. That Chicago will have many commendable opinions to pass upon her work this year, is anticipated by those who heard her work.

So much for the principals.

"Aida" was stunningly, even prodigally set, the scenic effects and costumes being startlingly wonderful, beyond the usual for that particularly exacting opera. The chorus and ballet did exquisite work, and Mlle. Galli, the dainty danseuse, took all spectators by storm.

Opera in all its glory will burst upon Chicago the twenty-third of this month, after its annual brushing in the East.

F. D. B.



Jan Kubelik

Writes as follows of the

Mason & Hamlin

MAS & HAMLIN CHICAGO

Mason & Hamlin Co.,

Gentlemen: It is with the utmost pleasure that I contemplate my tour in this country with your wonderful piano for an accompanying instrument. Its remarkable tone qualities will prove most satisfying to me and most pleasing to my audience.

Sincerely yours,

Jan Kubelik

Mason & Hamlin Pianos on exhibition and sale only at store of

Wabash and Jackson Cable Piano Company CHICAGO

BOEPPLER AT TURNER HALL

They turned them away by the score from North Side Turner Hall on Sunday afternoon. The gentleman who sat next me, and let me share his program, said he had not seen such a crowd, nor such enthusiasm in a long time. A distinct air of festivity and gratulation was in the air. The stage was banked with great clusters of chrysanthemums. The seats at tables were at a premium and the waiters kept busily stirring. The balcony overflowed and people squeezed into benches where there was really no room for them and all parties laughed and made the best of it. Such a nest of fireworks needed only a touch to set an explosion going and that came with a whirl after President George A. Schmidt had given a little speech of felicitation, and then introduced Mr. Boeppler, the new leader of the orchestra. The reception left no doubt as to the cordial regard in which Mr. Boeppler was placed by his auditors. After bowing repeatedly he turned to his men and swung them into his "Jubilee March," which went with a joyous lilt and produced even more enthusiasm.

Mr. Boeppler is a new Richmond in the field of orchestral music in Chicago. His initial appearance marks him as a man to be reckoned with. He has already made his firmly recognized place in the branch of choral music. The concerts of the Germania Society have been on an unusual plain of artistic excellence. Mr. Boeppler has enthusiasm and restraint in equal quantities and infuses this temperament into those subject to his baton. The singers of the Germania were a compact body, singing with an illuminating taste and delicacy that made the music live with a quality which appealed to the sensitive ear, as tinctured with intense musical feeling. Mr. Boeppler brings these same fine qualities to bear upon his orchestral forces. He had about thirty-five players of varying grades of excellence. Out of them he drew a surprisingly graceful ensemble for a first appearance. The strings were solid and of even, smooth tone. The wood wind choir was well balanced and governed in the matter of voicing. The brass and the tympani were inclined to intrude. But any shortcomings from any of the forces were doubtless well known and felt by the director and need no comment here. The Weber "Jubel" overture was done best of all, with a number of touches of individuality and a real feeling for dynamics. The "Carmen" airs were well done, the bits of solo for cornet smooth and enjoyable. In the encore, which was our friend the "Lucia" sextette, Mr. Boeppler indicated that he could work up climaxes of intensity, comparing well with his more excitable Italian confreres, who draw the harmonies with more effort than he expended. His beat is firm and unequivocal, but elastic where he chooses to exert his privilege. The Beethoven "Andante" was approached with a species of reverence and a rich tone from the 'cello section. Altogether a most fortuitous entrance for Mr. Boeppler into a sphere where his talents will find a new and enlarged opportunity and welcome.

Mrs. Mabel Sharp Herdien was the vocalist. She did the big Aida aria "Ritorna Vincitor" superbly. There was an opulent tone in the declamatory portion and a color of velvety softness in the closing phrases. She sang a brilliant encore to a fine accompaniment furnished by Miss Grace Grove. ALBERT COTSWORTH.

———♯♯♯———

A COLLEGE RECITALIST—CHRISTINE MILLER

Christine Miller's popularity as an "educational" recitalist is shown in the great demand for her programs by famous universities and colleges all over the country. Among Miss Miller's many bookings for the season. are engagements to present recital programs before the following schools and colleges: Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Lawrence Universities; Radcliffe, Bethany and Coker Colleges; the state university of Iowa; Miss Master's School at Dobbs Ferry; the Francis W. Parker School of Chicago; the Woman's College of Jacksonville, Ill.; the College of Industrial Arts of Denton, Tex.; Miss Cowle's School for Girls at Hollidaysburg, Pa.; St. Joseph's Academy at Greensburg, Pa., and the Sweet Briar Institute of Virginia.

PROF. BERTRAND DE BERNYZ
VOICE SPECIALIST
also concerts and oratorios in Carnegie Hall & Aeolian Hall.
First teacher of Frieda Hempel, Metropolitan opera star, acknowledged by New York music critics as only successful rival of Mmes. Patti Melba and Sembrich, also teacher of many other eminent concert and operatic artists. Special course in TONE PRODUCTION, INTERPRETATION and OPERATIC ENSEMBLE. Special features: OPERA-PERFORMANCES in NEW YORK THEATERS; Information, 58 W. 72nd St., New York City, "The Adrian"

LUDELLA CHILSON-OHRMAN
SOLOIST AT WORCESTER FESTIVAL SEASON
Address 4603 Sheridan Road

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY MURRISON MABEL
Bass-Baritone Oratorio Concert
JOINT-RECITALS
Pianist Accompanist
Alliance Ohio

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL.
Mrs. W. S. Brachen, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING
PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544
STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker
TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN
ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
4596 OAKENWALD AV.
Phone Drexel 3987

People & Events

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH IN OREGON

What could be finer, in critic's tribute, than the review by Professor R. M. Beere, of Frederick Preston Search's artistic recital, given at Pendleton, Ore., October 24. Professor Beere's article appeared in the Pendleton Live Wire. We wish we could reproduce the article entire, but the following excerpts will show its splendid character:

A large audience, which turned out despite the rain and the fact that only one day's notice had been given that he was coming, sat spell-bound in utter silence at the Auditorium last night, listening to wonderful music from the 'cello of Frederick Preston Search, 24 years old, who looks like a mere boy.

It was the greatest musical event in the history of the city. Musical critics pronounced him a marvel in expression, sympathy, power and technic. Those who love music, even without technical understanding, were demonstrative in their appreciation. It was a heart-warming sight when, after the concert, many of the audience waited for the gifted youth to get into personal touch with him.

To the ears of those who have not heard Search's playing, a sincere description by one who understood would sound extravagant. But frankly it is utterly impossible to adequately tell of his performance in ordinary words. Suffice it is to say that Pueblo, Colorado, the place of his birth, produced an amazing musical genius in this lad. It is safe to say that some day he will be world-famous, and America will boast of Search as Hungary did of Popper.

Search has been until recently a member of the great Gewandhaus Orchestra of Leipzig, Germany, under Arthur Nikisch. He was trained under world-masters, including five years under Julius Klengel at the Royal Conservatory at Leipzig. His tour of the United States is developing into the musical sensation of the age. Pendleton was very fortunate in having him here for one evening, and music lovers are hoping that this city may soon hear him again.

Last night's program was rich and varied. The distinguished soloist was accompanied by Walter Chapman of New York, a young pianist of extraordinary ability and exquisite touch. Chapman shared in the applause and honors and responded to several encores.

Search played Hugo Becker's "Andante Religioso," Saint-Saens' "Le Cygne," and David Popper's "Butterfly." His first encore was Cadman's "From the Land of the Sky-Blue Water." Each round of applause was long and insistent. In the second group Chapman played the Bach-Saint-Saens "Gavotte," and gave Sinding's "Serenade" as an encore.

Then came the astounding revelation when Frederick Preston Search played Antonin Dvorak's entire "Concerto" in B minor. No such music had ever been heard here before. Ecstasy was too keen for long applause between the movements. It was the experience of a life-time to hear this marvelous work, the greatest 'cello concerto ever written, interpreted by such an artist as Search. It is rarely attempted, except by a few of the greatest artists, on account of its enormous difficulties. Last night's interpretation was sublime.

The first, or "Allegro" movement, is fast, very exciting and invigorating, and full of technical difficulties. The second movement, "Adagio ma non troppo," is slow, large so to speak, and remarkable for its extreme length, but it nevertheless kept the audience at the heights of joy throughout. Especially effective were the sobbings of the 'cello in the slow movement. They struck right to the heart. This effect has never been excelled by any composer or artist. The third movement, "Allegro Moderato," brought one back to the lightness and happiness of the first movement. It was a glorious climax for the whole concerto. After several technical passages of very great difficulty, came the "Coda," in which the 'cello brought out a beautiful melody of charm and cantilene, or song-like quality. The concerto closed with some long drawn-out harmonies, giving the illusion that the music was vanishing in the distance. At the close the piano brought us back to the world with some full chords.

After having heard Frederick Preston Search play that concerto, one concludes that Dvorak has stated everything that can be said in highest form of music.

Following an intermission, Search played "A Perfect Day" by Carrie Jacobs-Bond, Schubert's "Serenade," a "Minuet" by Beethoven, ending with his own composition, the delicate and fanciful "Butterfly Waltz," which was heartily received. As an encore to this he gave a "Nocturne" by Chopin.

Chapman then played two piano solos, Debussy's "Arabesque" and a Chopin "Etude." A storm of applause brought Liszt's "Dreams of Love" as an encore. Chapman's finest effort was his first solo, which was a dance in old style, arranged by a modern French composer.

Frederick Preston Search finished the program with two 'cello solos, giving a melody from Puccini's "Madam Butterfly" and Veral's "Polonaise Fantastique."—(Advertisement.)

CLARENCE EDDY

Mr. Eddy gave a very successful organ recital at Harrisburg, Ill., last week. The Saline County Daily News commented at great length, a few paragraphs being here reproduced:

The famous organist, Clarence Eddy, gave to our people of Harrisburg the most wonderful program ever rendered in this city. He is indeed master of this instrument and has no superior. He has no mannerisms, but plays with perfect poise and naturalness. His finger technic, pedaling and registration were all alike magnificent. He shows versatility and absolute certainty even in the most difficult passages.—(Advertisement.)

Hinshaw.—In addition to his engagement with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in Milwaukee, William Hinshaw will have an appearance with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra in Minneapolis on November 23, a day preceding his engagement in Milwaukee.

SOFIA STEPHALI

Following is some comment of the Pennsylvania and New York press on the appearances of Mme. Sofia Stephali, soprano:

Sofia Stephali gave an interesting program last night before a large audience. Her lecture was most instructive. She possesses a sweet mezzo-soprano of excellent quality.—Allentown (Pa.) Chronicle and News.

Mme. Sofia Stephali was heard last night by a large and appreciative audience She talked most interestingly on the subject of music's influence. The illustrative songs were delightfully expressed, one of the favorites being Metcalf's "Land o' the Leal."

In conversation with a reporter yesterday, Mme. Stephali spoke of her enthusiasm for her art and how much the audience has to do in bringing out what the singer has to give. Mme. Stephali has been under her present management three years and during that time she has been heard in 192 cities of both the United States and Canada. To the query so frequently asked as to her nationality, she replied: "I am a D. A. R. and a member of the Order of the Eastern Star. This means that I am proud that I am an American.—The Asheville (N. C.) Citizen.

"Music and Life" was the subject of Mme. Sofia Stephali's concert-lecture Tuesday evening. Her concert on "Music and Childhood" was also greatly enjoyed. Possessed of a mezzo-soprano voice of unusually beautiful quality, Mme. Stephali sings with the greatest ease and equally well a light, bright waltz song or a heavy dramatic selection. Her capabilities in this line were especially demonstrated Tuesday evening. She is a musician of broad outlook and wide experience, who has had much contact with practical phases of life. She speaks with authority and her lectures are freighted with truths.—Amsterdam (N. Y.) Evening Recorder.

MRS. CLARENCE EDDY

Mr. Edward Moore of "The Journal" wrote as follows on the Chicago debut of Mrs. Clarence Eddy:

Mrs. Eddy is a singer of fine natural endowments and excellent attainments in her art. She has a voice which is at the same time soft and voluminous. Even when raised to its greatest power it never loses its dulcet mellowness, and during less exacting periods it is fairly velvety in quality. This in itself would mark her singing as being the means of more than ordinary pleasure even if there were nothing more to be said in favor of her performance, but she adds to this excellent organ emotional feeling and a fine intelligence in her singing.

She introduced herself through the medium of one of the new compositions of the program, George W. Chadwick's ballad "Aghadoe." The work was originally written for contralto and orchestra, the orchestral parts in this instance being played on the piano by Clarence Eddy. It is entirely melodic in character, like all of Chadwick's compositions, somewhat Irish in character, and with the accompaniment indulging freely in tritones, empty fifths, and the other hall marks of the modern French school. It was well received. She confirmed the good opinion found of her by later singing a group of songs in a very artistic manner—(Advertisement.)

NOTABLE CONCERT OF SCANDINAVIAN MUSIC

Under the above caption musical America prints a splendid review of the recent concert in New York—a concert of great significance and much beauty. We append part of this review:

Carnegie Hall was the scene last Sunday afternoon of one of the most interesting concerts which the present season is likely to bring forth, when a program of Scandinavian music was given by the Scandinavian Male Chorus of New York and the Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra, Ole Windingstad, conductor, with Julia Claussen, mezzo-soprano; Charlotte Lund, soprano; Gustaf Holmquist, basso, and Cornelius Rubner, pianist, as soloists.

The concert gained in individuality because of the high standard maintained in the selection of the groups of songs which the three singers offered, most of them novelties to a New York audience, and the two orchestral pieces, which were also new. It was a program, perhaps too lengthy, yet inter-

REINDAHL VIOLINS AND BOWS

VIOLAS and 'CELLOS

Reindahl Grand Model, $250.00

REINDAHL VIOLINS
Used and Endorsed by

Bernard Listemann	Kocian
Chas. Gregorowitz	Jan Kubelik
Leonora Jackson	Emile Sauret
F. E. Haberkorn	Fritz Kreisler
Axel Skovgaard	Alexander Bull
S. M. Jacobsohn	Hugo Heermann
Arthur Hartmann

Artists know the rarity of violins whose tones are "sweet" from lowest G to A in altissimo. You know how much you desire a violin whose tone qualities are distinguished in power, intensity, brilliance, evenness, sympathy, perfection of open fifths, stopped fifths, thirds, octaves, clear harmonics, pure pizzicato tones, distinct arpeggios, distinct in shake, trill and staccato, and withal quickly responsive to bow-pressure from real pianissimo to fortissimo. If you have such a violin you may not be interested; if you have not, you will be interested in a booklet—"An Artist's Touch"—which I will gladly mail you FREE, and which contains opinions from world famous artists who use

Reindahl Violins

Violins sent to responsible persons on trial, for comparison with other new or famous old violins. If desired, gradual charge accounts opened.

Knute Reindahl

Ateller, 318 Athenaeum Bldg., 59 East VanBuren Street, Chicago, Ill.

The Piano Pedals By MRS. A. M. VIRGIL, Clear, Concise, Melodious, Results Unequaled. Price $1.00. Sale unparalleled. Address Dept. C.
The Virgil Piano School Co. 42 West 76th St., New York

CHORUS OF THE OAK PARK PUBLIC SCHOOL, W. OTTO MIESSNER, DIRECTOR

The above Chorus, which appears often in functions of the public schools, has been pronounced by many competent authorities to be the very best in any School of Chicago or Suburbs. Mr. Miessner is an enthusiastic and tireless worker along the line of Children's Chorus, which he has so successfully made a specialty of his work.

estingly put together and consequently capable of holding the goodly sized audience.

Mr. Holmquist, well known in the Middle West, gave of his best in Sodermann's "King Heimer and Aslog," Sjogren's "Evening Star," Stenhammar's "Sverge" and Peterson-Berger's "Autumn Song," displaying a voice of excellent quality, especially in the medium register. Professor Rubner, who is widely known as head of the department of music at Columbia University, outdid himself in the performance he gave of the familiar Grieg A Minor Concerto. The spirit of the work was made the center of interest, and if the manner in which the solo part was played was not that of a virtuoso it was that of a serious musician who knew what he was playing, which, in the summing up, means so much more.

To Mr. Windingstad, who conducted both orchestra and chorus, must be given the highest praise. An energetic, young and gifted musician, he showed himself to be from the opening measures of the Overture "Helios," by August Carl Nielsen, now conductor at the Royal Opera in Copenhagen. This work and the fascinating "Midsommarvaka" (Midsummer Eve), by Hugo Alfven, two novelties, proved to be so much finer than many of the new lesser Russian and German pieces which we have heard in recent years that it might be worth while for the conductors of our American orchestras to look at the works of contemporary Scandinavian orchestral composers occasionally.

MUSIC IN OAK PARK PUBLIC SCHOOLS

At the meeting of the Illinois Teachers' association in the Assembly room of Oak Park High School on Friday morning, November 7, a children's chorus of 250 voices from the fourth and fifth grades under the direction of W. Otto Miessner, were heard in a number of songs taken from Mr. Miessner's own "Art Song Cycles." There were at least a dozen of these recreative songs sung by the children and throughout that list it was proven that there are few if any directors accomplishing the results that are being obtained by Mr. Miessner in the public schools of Oak Park. One of the points noticed from the time the children arise to sing till they are seated is that every pair of eyes is on the director. Other features of their singing that is above the average are the splendid attacks and releases. The enunciation and the shading of tone are also well nigh perfect. It would indeed be hard to find another chorus of equal number and age to compare with the Oak Park children. On Friday evening in the same room was heard a musical program given by the High School Orchestra of sixty pieces, and a chorus of three hundred voices, under the direction of Mr. Meisner. The numbers included:

Wedding March ..... Handel
Orchestra
Hallelujah Chorus, from "Messiah" ..... Handel
Chorus and Orchestra
Largo ..... Handel
Amaryllis
Intermezzo (Cavalleria Rusticana) ..... Mascagni
Chorus
Bridal Chorus (Rose Maiden) ..... Cowen
Chorus and Orchestra
March, Kaiser Frederick
Orchestra

H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

Alberti.—Mr. Sol Alberti, has been engaged as accompanist for the Chicago Chamber of Commerce Glee Club, under the direction of Arthur Dunham. He will also be accompanist at an important concert at the Hyde Park Masonic Temple next Monday evening. Mr. Alberti has recently played recitals at Detroit, Mich., and Peoria, Ill.

American Conservatory
KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO, ILL. Chicago's Foremost School of Music
Modern Courses Masterfully Taught by 70 eminent artists. Superior Normal Training School. Diplomas and Degrees.
Unrivaled free advantages. 28th Session begins Thursday, September 11, 1913.
New Catalog mailed free on application. JOHN J. HATTSTAEDT, Pres't

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
504 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 7931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusiv Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

IN BRIEFER FORM

Votaw.—Miss Lyravine Votaw, contralto, appeared at the West Side Woman's Club, in a solo group on Tuesday evening.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miller.—The very striking picture of Miss Christine Miller, which was printed in Music News last week was made from a life sketch drawn by Carl Bohnen, the St. Paul artist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Chicago Musical College.—On Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the Ziegfeld Theater an ensemble program will be given by Sol Alberti, Herman Felber Sr., and Herman Felber Jr.

♮ ♮ ♮

Gannon—Mrs. Rose Lutiger Gannon is to be the soloist of the second concert of the series being given at the North Side Turner Hall, on Sunday afternoons, by William Boeppler and the Boeppler Symphony Orchestra.

♮ ♮ ♮

Kimbell—Grant Kimbell has been engaged to sing the tenor solos in "The Holy City" at the new First Congregational Church Friday night, November 21, and the "Elijah" tenor solos at Waukesha, Wis., the latter part of the month.

♮ ♮ ♮

Highsmith.—It will be interesting news to the many friends of the popular soprano, Miss Mary Highsmith, to know that she is to be married to Dr. Joseph B. Lyding on New Year's Day. Miss Highsmith will continue her professional work in Chicago, after her marriage.

♮ ♮ ♮

Reception — The Cosmopolitan School has issued invitations to an informal reception on Saturday afternoon, November 15, from two to four o'clock. This reception is to be given in honor of the non-resident pupils of the school.

♮ ♮ ♮

Cosmopolitan School — On Saturday afternoon, November 22, the Cosmopolitan School will give a pupils' recital in Recital Hall, Auditorium Building. Members of the class of Mr. Eames, Miss Hopkins, Mrs. Bracken, Mrs. Saltonstall and Mr. Gandell will furnish the program.

♮ ♮ ♮

McGranahan. — Mr. Thomas McGranahan will sing at De Kalb, Ill., on November 14; White Water, Wis., 21; Minneapolis, Minn., 27; St. Paul, Minn., 28; Milwaukee, Wis., 29; Chicago (Paulist Choristers Concert) 30; Ashland, Wis., December 1; Beloit, Wis., "Stabat Mater," Jan. 1.

♮ ♮ ♮

American Conservatory—Advanced voice pupils of Mme. Linne; violin pupils of Adolf Weidig, and piano pupils of Victor Garwood and Silvio Scionti, will appear in recital at Kimball Hall, Saturday afternoon, November 15, under the auspices of the American Conservatory.

♮ ♮ ♮

Pangbourne—Miss Annette Pangbourne, a very artistic young singer, who is a member of the faculty of the Willett School of Singing, has been appearing frequently as soloist at the Western Avenue M. E. Church, where she is a great favorite. Miss Pangbourne recently gave a recital at Kimball Hall and demonstrated fine gifts both intellectually and musically.

A. G. O.—The first dinner of the A. G. O. for the season will be held on Monday evening, November 10. The subject for discussion will be "How I Spent My Summer."

♮ ♮ ♮

Chamber Music — Harold E. Knapp, Charles Elander, Alfred G. Wathall and Day Williams (Mrs. Hila Verbeck Knapp at the piano), comprising the University String Quartet, gave an excellent program Thursday afternoon, November 6, at the Music Hall in Evanston.

♮ ♮ ♮

Clark.—The engagements of Charles W. Clark for November are as follows: 4, Iowa City, Ia.; 6, Topeka, Kan.; 7, Wellington, Kan.; 10, Hutchinson, Kan.; 11, Wichita, Kan.; 12, Columbia, Mo.; 17, Burlington, Ia.; 20, Houston, Tex.; 26, Bluffton, Ind.; 28, Gary, Ind., and 30, Chicago.

♮ ♮ ♮

Swainson—The Misses Esther and Dorothy Swainson, whose lecture recitals were so much admired in Chicago last winter, are engaged for a series at the Maison da Lied in Moscow in February. At present Miss Dorothy Swainson is engaged in giving a series of twelve piano recitals at Sunderland and Newcastle, England.

♮ ♮ ♮

University—At Leon Mandel Assembly Hall of the University of Chicago, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra was presented in a concert last Tuesday afternoon, the program including the "Symphony" No. 10 (Schubert), "Overture to Coriolanus" (Beethoven), "Petite Suite" (Debussy), and "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" by Strauss. Other orchestra concerts will be given December 16, January 27, February 24 and April 7, and Maud Powell will give a violin recital on December 2.

Finger and Wrist Studies
"Scales, Intervals and Chords." Grades I to V
By JAMES L. LA FLEUR
A Practical and Scientific System of Studying Harmony While Developing the Technic of the Piano

Contents: Diagram of the Major and Minor Scales with exercises to develop the weak fingers. Perfect, Major, Minor, Augmented and Diminished intervals. Chords of the 7th and 9th, Chords of the seventh on the leading tone. Diminished 7ths, Secondary 7ths, Mixed chords and inversions of each chord. The Chords and Intervals are written in every key and the formation of each Interval and Chord thoroughly explained.

Exercises to train the thumb to pass under the fingers in scale passages and exercises to develop the fingers for scale playing.

This is the only book published that combines harmony with piano technic.

Price $1.50, usual discount.

For Sale by
CHARLES W. HOMEYER & CO.
332 Boylston Street
And all leading music dealers. BOSTON, MASS.

Anna Groff - Bryant
Studios of Vocal Art
Ethel Bell Reeves Assistant
606 Fine Arts Building Chicago, Ill.
Phone Wabash 1051

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

Musical Advance.—The Musical Advance has been purchased of Cecil Mackay by Clarence Le Massena and Spencer B. Driggs (son of the late S. T. Driggs) and will hereafter be published monthly by the Musical Advance Company at 501 Fifth avenue, New York.

♮ ♮ ♮

Parsifal.—The third program in the opera evenings at the Art Institute will be given on Sunday, November 16, at 8, when "Parsifal" will be the subject, and the music of this opera will be illustrated by Henriette Weber, piano; Fritz Itte, violin; Carl Klammsteiner, 'cello; Robert Macdonald, organ; Frank Wagner, bells, and Miss Ethel Grow in the part of Kundry.

♮ ♮ ♮

Chamber Music.—The series of seven concerts to be given under the auspices of the Chicago Chamber Music Society, Wessels and Vogeli, managers, will enlist the services of the Chicago String Quartet, the Chicago Woodwind Choir, the Flonzaley Quartet and the Kneisel Quartet. The first program will be presented on December 4 by the Chicago String Quartet.

♮ ♮ ♮

Bach Choral.—Next Wednesday evening, November 19th, the Bach Choral Society, John W. Norton, conductor, will give a concert in the Association auditorium, 19 South La Salle street. Two choral numbers by Bach, and one choral number by Schubert will be sung. Jennie F. W. Johnston, contralto, Grant Kimbell, tenor, and Luther J. Williams, bass, will be the soloists in the Bach numbers. Mabel Sharp Herdien, will sing the soprano rôle in Schubert's "Song of Miriam." Twenty-six members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will play the accompaniments and also the "Unfinished Symphony in B Minor" by Schubert. A boys' choir of thirty voices, taken from St. James' Episcopal choir, will sing the chorales.

AMERICAN COMPOSITIONS TO BE PRESENTED BY INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

Three members of the artist faculty of the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music will give a program of American composers early in December. In fact, this will be the first of a series of American music recitals. Those taking part will be: Charles H. Gabriel, Jr., pianist; Johann Berthelsen, baritone, and Gaylord Yost, violinist. At the first recital Mr. Yost will give the John A. Carpenter "Sonate" for violin and piano, besides two other manuscript pieces by Mr. Carpenter. These will be given for the first time.

It is the intention of the faculty of the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music to present new and worthy American compositions at various times throughout each season and American composers having manuscripts and desiring their performance can communicate with Gaylord Yost, 430 North Meridian street, Indianapolis, Ind. Songs, piano, and violin and piano compositions are especially wanted.

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers

Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on

KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

MYRTLE Elvyn RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Kimball Piano Used
Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Concert Direction M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av. New York

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
"A Ladder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys 50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice 50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO Phone Austin 12717 CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS 5943 OHIO STREET
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT

WILLIAM HINSHAW
BARITONE
Of the Metropolitan Opera Company Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

Iva Bigelow Weaver SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work. May Mansfield PARIS STUDIOS: 27 rue Boisleveu Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory 207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.
A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Aak for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

H. W. OWENS VOCAL DIRECTOR
WESTERN CONSERVATORY
Voice Teacher Coaching
PHONE CENTRAL 7804

Beatrice Wheeler CONTRALTO
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

TO RENT—Time in Studio; 84 Auditorium Bldg. Apply any morning.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

FOR RENT—Studio seventh floor Fine Arts Bldg., Mondays and Thursdays; $15 per month. Address I. Music News.

HARMONY and composition by mail. Raymond Robinson, organist and choirmaster of Central Church, Boston. Address 6 Newbury st., Boston, Mass.

TO RENT—Unusually large Studio equipped with Grand and Upright piano, electric lights and fan. Reception room with telephone in connection. Tuesdays and Fridays from 3 o'clock on; 516 Kimball Hall.

GEORGE W. MUNRO

Voice Specialist

Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.

Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.

Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.

Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

Wm. Clare Hall

Tenor } Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Hazel Dell Neff

SOPRANO

PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN

PIANIST TEACHER

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and

4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.

COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing

Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin

Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN

SOPRANO

Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital

429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

Music in America

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

The first monthly public students' recital of the University School of Music of Lincoln, Nebraska, took place on the evening of October 30, in the University Temple Theater before a large audience. The following program was rendered:

Valse Brilliante, Op. 18 ..... Chopin
Genevieve Rose

Se Come roi piccina io fossi, from "Le Villi"..... Puccini
Helen Snyder

Two Humoresques ..... Kronke
Ruth Witte

Prologue from "Pagliacci" ..... Leoncavallo
Will West

Etudes, Op. 25, Nos. 6, 1, 12 ..... Chopin
Herbert Schmidt

Au Vord d' un Ruiffeau Hungarian Dance, No. 2, ... Boisdefre-Drdla
Grace Morley

Vissi D'arte, Vissi D'Amore, from "Tosca," Puccini
L'amour est Une Vertu Rare, from "Thais"..... Massenet
Mildred Hanks

Concertstueck ..... Pierne
Helen Wallace
(Second Piano, Mrs. Will Owen Jones)

♯♯♯

RECENT TRIBUTES TO SIDNEY SILBER'S MUSICIANSHIP AND ARTISTRY

Sidney Silber, head of the pianoforte department of the University School of Music of Lincoln, Nebraska, returned to his official duties last week after a short tour which took him to twelve cities of Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. Following are some tributes from his appearances in Chicago:

CHICAGO DAILY JOURNAL.

Sidney Silber is a pianist with marked signs of genuine greatness. There are many artists who have come with a flourish of trumpets and played less well than he. It is enough to say that he played MacDowell's "Sonata Tragica" and made of it an impressive work. He has complete command of his resources, he plays with absolute clarity, splendid poise and a zestful dash. He has come here practically unknown; he will go far in his art before his race is ended.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE

An impression of the pianistic art of Sidney Silber obtained from the performance of one work must necessarily be incomplete, the more so since that composition happened to be MacDowell's "Sonata Tragica." When, however, the impression records a masterful grasp of the composition plus a faculty to exalt its advantages and to minimize its shortcomings by a comprehensive command of the resources of the instrument, it suffices to proclaim Mr. Silber a recreative artist of rare gifts and a virtuoso besides. It is evident that he has studied his instrument faithfully and his art to as good purpose. But it is evident, also, that he is a pianist by native talent; that he discovers in the instrument that medium of expression best fitted to his natural inclinations, and that he plays it because he has a great deal to say that can be said in no other way. One is persuaded that anything which Mr. Silber may have to offer to the public will be well worth hearing; that in years to come he will be heard widely and that his art will reflect much honor upon the land that gave him birth.

INTER OCEAN

The newcomer is a pianist of real attainments. His technic is a clean, crisp, competent organism and his sense of interpretation a finely poetic perception of moods and their expression. His program which was a comprehensive affair was a temptation at any point of its procedure. The MacDowell Sonata impressed his hearers as a reading of unusual dramatic power. The Chopin Barcarolle Mr. Silber gave eloquent reading. The D flat Nocturne was likewise distinguished by poetry of mood. In a technical aspect Mr. Silber revealed traits of a reliable, well directed mechanism. There was no great show of virtuosity, but there was real power in his playing.

RECORD-HERALD

A pianist of virile touch and of showy execution he aims—or he aimed during his concert—at the exhibition of a bold style. He is at least a pianist of individuality; a pianist whose claims to respectful consideration are not lightly to be thrust aside. Mr. Silber's program comprised MacDowell's "Sonata Tragica," a group by Chopin, and some unhackneyed works by Kaun, MacFadyen, Wolff and Pugno. Not every program by piano recitalists is as interesting.

POST

We could hear just enough of Mr. Silber to know that he is an artist of rank, with a brilliant technic and an excellent understanding of what he wishes to do. He played a taxing program and won the cordial approval of his audience. He would have merited more attention than it was possible to give him yesterday afternoon.

♯♯♯

LOIS ADLER IN ST. PAUL

The latest success that Lois Adler, the pianist, has enjoyed, was in a recital before the Schubert Club of St. Paul on October 22. A large and enthusiastic audience gave the Chicago artist a splendid ovation. The St. Paul daily paper says the following:

Miss Adler was heard in a brief range of numbers, including a Gigue by the seventeenth century Loeilly, arranged by Godowsky, two Etudes by Chopin, one of which was played as an encore; Liszt's Valse Impromptu; Brahms' Capriccio in B Minor; Debussy's Reverie, and Dohnanyi's Rhapsodie in C major. We say a brief range of numbers meaning as to length, for the scope of pianistic possibilities contained in these selections proved sufficiently comprehensive to present Miss Adler as a pianist with powers of large and varied expression.

It was not primarily a technical performance which is the curse of the modern pianoforte recital. It was not a maudlin attempt at sentimental pose and eccentric conception; it was a well balanced achievement telling of ripe experience, finely sensitive thought and deep feeling, while breathing through it all was the evidence of true musical instinct and a reverence for things musical. No finer illustration of this very reverence could be imagined than her altogether admirable playing of the Chopin Etude. No more poetic rendition from a musican's fingers could be imagined than her playing of the beautiful Debussy Reverie with its lovely singing legato and dreamlike character of thought. Of equal worth also was the Brahms Capriccio in B minor from the Klaverstucke, Opus 76. Its allegretto movement was admirably caught by the player and with charming grace did she glide into the piu tranquillo with its wealth of expression, leading up to the ritardo diminuendo at the close with excellently subdued effect. With the Debussy number it constituted the most finished performance of the afternoon. . . . .—St. Paul Pioneer Press, October 23.

Those who did not hear Lois Adler's recital before the Schubert Club last Wednesday missed a musical treat Miss Adler proved to be one of the most accomplished pianists that has played here in some time. —St. Paul Pioneer Press, October 26.

(Advertisement)

COLUMBIA, MO.

The first of the faculty recitals of Christian College occurred on October 14, when the following program was given by Frank Parker, head of the vocal department, assisted by Miss Alma Wallace, pianist:

My Native Land (Haigler)..... .....Kaun
Moonlight Night (Verlaine) ..... Hermann
Three Comrades (Busse).....Hermann
Mr. Parker

Aria "The Vision" (from "The Departure of Hiawatha") .....Coleridge-Taylor
Mr. Parker

Piano—
Barcarolle in D.....Cyril Scott
Danse Andalouse .....MacDowell
Miss Wallace

Four Songs .....John Alden Carpenter
The Heart's Country (Florence Wilkinson)
When the Night Comes (Carpenter)
The Cock Shall Crow (Robert Louis Stevenson)
May, the Maiden (Sidney Lanier)
Mr. Parker

The Proposal (Bayard Taylor) .....J. H. Hahn
The Parting Hour (Teschemacher).....Ellen Wright
After the Night the Dawn (Simpson).....
.....Vincent Thomas
Mr. Parker

Piano—
Scherzo in F Sharp.....d'Albert
Polichinelle .....Rachmaninoff
Miss Wallace

Four Songs (Mss.).....Henry V. Stearns
Love Song (Ben Jonson)
Rose Rhyme (Erskine)
Pastoral (Jones)
A Night Etching (Scollard)
Mr. Parker

Mr. Walter B. Roberts played the accompaniments for Mr. Parker, with the exception of those of the four manuscript songs of Mr. Stearns, which were played by the composer.

♮ ♮ ♮

The second in the faculty recitals series at Stephens College was given October 20. Mrs. Lucas of the voice department gave an aria from Meyerbeer's "Robert le Diable," and two groups of songs. Basil Gauntlett, director of the School of Music, played a "Ballade" by Liszt, and with Miss Hibbard, Beethoven's "Sonata" for violin and piano.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Phi Mu Alpha of Missouri University, which has for the past six years given Columbia a fine concert course, announces a regular series of six concerts, with Madame Schumann-Heink as a special attraction. She is to give a recital on March 12. In the regular course, Charles W. Clark is to be heard in recital November 12; Wilhelm Bachaus, pianist, December 12; the Flonzaley String Quartet January 21; Beatrice Harrison, 'cellist, February 2; Kathleen Parlow, violinist, March 9, and Florence Hinkle, soprano, April 6.

For the gallery seats season tickets are sold for $1.00, so that university students may hear these concerts at an average admission price of 17 cents a concert. Last season the average attendance at each of the concerts was 1,050, so that the students seem to realize the opportunity given them.

♮ ♮ ♮

Three members of the faculty of the Music School of Christian College—Cady Kenney, pianist; Alvin L. Barton, violinist, and Frank Parker, baritone—have formed a Concert Trio. Messrs Barton and Kenney are prepared to give the best of the violin and piano "Sonatas" from both modern and classic schools, and Mr. Parker will feature the best of the songs by modern American composers.

F. P.

WORCESTER, MASSACHUSETTS

The first concert of the Steinert series took place in Mechanics Hall Sunday night, October 26, at 8:15.

The artists were Mme. Maud Powell, violinist; Mme. Yolanda Mero, pianist; Miss Harriot Borrows, soprano; Francis L. Moore, accompanist.

The opening number, Grieg's "Sonata in G Minor," opus 13, was given the artistic reading expected of Mme. Powell, with Mme. Mero at the piano. There were moments when the accompanist seemed to force the solo, and disturbed the perfect balance of the musical picture. But the varied moods, from lento doloroso to allegro animato, were felt to be true expression and a sense of contentment accompanied the closing harmonies.

Miss Borrows appeared at a disadvantage because of the attainments of her colleagues. Her voice pleases by its natural qualities which later may be developed to a high degree of accuracy.

The solos for piano: "Capriccio," B minor (Brahms), "Arabesque" (Debussy), "Scherzo" (Chopin), "Hungarian Rhapsody," No. 2 (Liszt), were played with a technical skill and interpretative logic that carried their messages with convincing force and pleasurable sensation.

Mme. Powell, in addition to the Grieg sonata, delighted her hearers with the first movement from the Wieniawski "D Minor Concerto," Brahms' A major "Hungarian Dance," a "Minute Waltz" (Chopin-Powell) and "Zapateado" by Sarasate.

This artist is too well known as an authoritative interpreter of violin works to require extended notice. The mere fact that she will appear at a concert as a soloist is conclusive evidence that a part of the program at least will be an artistic success. Mr. Moore, her accompanist, supplemented her work with marked effectiveness and decided merit.

Frank H. Luker was at the piano when Miss Barrows sang, and his work was satisfactory.

The second concert of the course will be Sunday night, November 9, and the program givers will be Miss Inez Barbour, soprano; Mme. Nevada Van Der Veer (Mrs. Reed Miller), contralto; Mr. Evan Williams, tenor, and Mr. Reinald Werrenrath, baritone.

♮ ♮ ♮

Recitals

The second recital of the Hultman-McQuaid School of Music this season was given in Pythian Hall, Day Building, Wednesday night, October 29. The audience was large and continuously interested. The pupils taking part were Miss Frances Berkovitch, Russell Karb, Mrs. Teresa Larkin Carroll, Miss Lillian Israel, Miss Ruth Dana, Daniel Hult, Miss Elsie Bacon, Miss Ethel Hedlund, Master Raymond Helsing, Clifford Harrington, Miss Frances Berkovitch and Mrs. Alma Ingram. These represented the piano, violin and vocal departments of the school.

Miss Alice C. Heaphy, pianist and teacher, will present the pupils of her class in two recitals during the month of November, the first being given in the second and last the fourth week of the month. Miss Heaphy will play Chopin works at both

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
3534 Lake St. Available for Church Position

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN Q. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Racine Av., CHICAGO, ILL.

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Stewart 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Palmer Christian
Concert Organist - Pupils - Coach - Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music.
Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone O. P. 4397. 206 South Lombard Av., Oak Park
Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recitol
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av
Phone Normal 1406

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS RECITALS, PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

recitals—the "Mazurka," Opus 33, No. 3; "Waltz," opus 64, No. 2; "Etude," opus 29, No. 9, at the first; and the "Grand Polonaise," opus 22, at the last. These will be informal studio meets and are to be supplemented by formal ones later.

The first informal studio recital of the Virgil Piano School, Fred W. Bailey, director, took place Thursday afternoon, October 30. These are conducted on unique lines, because the pupils are assembled and Mr. Bailey asks anyone he chooses, and that pupil responds with a piece which he has been studying. A limited number of friends, including parents, are invited. Mr. Bailey is the organist and choirmaster at Piedmont Church and has organized a girls' choir of nearly forty voices, which will give the "Harvest Cantata" by Gerrett the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

Miss Mary Tucker, director of the Tucker Piano School, who studied with Harold Bauer a year ago, attended his recent recital in Aeolian Hall, New York City.

Stewart's "Nativity" will be given December 21 by the Plymouth Church Choir, assisted by a women's orchestra from Boston and a woman harpist. A special musical service will be given November 23, a feature of which will be the singing of requested old hymns. W. Gray Harris is the organist and Dr. A. J. Harpin bass soloist and director.

Arthur Hackett, tenor, formerly of the Piedmont Quartet, will sing as soloist at the annual production of "The Messiah" by the Worcester Oratorio Society in Mechanics Hall, December 26. He will also be the soloist for Sullivan's "Golden Legend," which Jules Jordan will soon produce in Providence.

♮ ♮ ♮

Boston Opera Company in Concerts

The second season of concerts, in Worcester, under the direction of Frederick Lamb, will begin in Mechanics Hall Tuesday, November 11.

Mme. Lina Cavalieri is scheduled for December 1, and Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini for January 6.

Mrs. J. Heard Cutter and Mrs. William James Hogg have the local arrangements in charge.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

———♯♯♯———

PHOENIX, ARIZONA

The opening of the Phoenix musical season by two new members of the faculty of Arizona School of Music, Claude Gotthelf, head of the piano department, and William C. Mills, director of vocal department, was most auspicious.

Mr. Gotthelf is one of the best pianists that has been heard in Phoenix. In all his playing there is warmth and richness of tone coloring, and that depth of conception which is so satisfying to the real lover of music.

Mr. Mills has at his command a lyric tenor voice of a full quality, which he uses with great skill, and his enunciation was at all times clear and distinct. He has much temperament and really interprets what he sings.

———♯♯♯———

Kober—Miss Georgia Kober is meeting with great success on her concert tour. She appears in Wahpeton, Fargo and Grand Forks, North Dakota, this week.

ANN ARBOR

The musical year at Ann Arbor, Mich., has opened most auspiciously and everything indicates that the year will be one of the most successful in its history. The University School of Music began early in October and the enrollment was extremely gratifying, not only in point of numbers, which is far in excess of past years, but in the point of view of standards. A larger percentage than usual, of students who are preparing for serious musical careers, being in attendance. These come from practically every state in the Union. Mr. Edward James MacNamara, the young Patterson, New Jersey policeman, in whom Madam Schumann-Heink has taken so great an interest, being among the number.

The first concert of the school year took place Thursday evening, October 16, when a most interesting program was given by senior members of the faculty. The concert by Paderewski, which was to have opened the pre-festival concert series, has been postponed to March 2, on account of illness, consequently, this series will be opened November 12 by Margaret Matzenauer of the Metropolitan Opera Company, in a song recital. This concert will be followed by the Philadelphia Orchestra and a choral concert in January by the Choral Union, under Professor Albert A. Stanley, with Marion Green and Lucile Stevenson as soloists and later by Carl Flesch. Details of the festival to be held in May have not yet been announced, but negotiations are on foot with some of the world's greatest artists. Hill Auditorium, Michigan's new $300,000 music hall, which was used for the first time at the May festival last year, promises to be well filled at all of the concerts this year, since already 3,500 course tickets have been sold.

The Michigan State Teacher's Association which convenes in Ann Arbor, October 29, November 1, and for which nearly 10,000 delegates are expected, will be furnished a wealth of music during the convention. Two complimentary concerts are to be given in Hill Auditorium, one on Thursday evening, October 30, and the same to be repeated Friday afternoon, October 31. A most interesting program given largely by artists from the University School of Music faculty will be offered as follows:

Albert A. Stanley, Conductor.
(Director, University School of Music)
Organ—Concert Overture ..... Rogers
L. L. Renwick
Unfold Ye Everlasting Portals (Redemption) ..... Gounod
University Choral Union (300 Voices)
Aria—"Depuis le jour" (Louise) ..... Carpentier
Florence Hinkle
Organ—
Canzona ..... Faulkes
Polonaise ..... Faulkes
Dragon Flies ..... Shelley
L. L. Renwick
Songs—
Heller Blick ..... Haydn
Zur Ruh, Zur Ruh ..... Wolf
Il neige des fleurs ..... Fourdrain
Le Nil ..... Leroux
Ferry Me Across the Water ..... Homer
Florence Hinkle
Intermezzo, Op. 4 ..... Brahms
Scherzo, Op. 8 ..... Arensky
Gnomentanz, Op. 215, No. 2 ..... Raff
Concert Etude, Op. 36 ..... McDowell
Mrs. George B. Rhead
(University School of Music)
Recitative and Cavatina—
Dio possente (Faust) ..... Gounod
William Howland

(Head of Vocal Dept., University School of Music)
Gallia ..... Gounod
University Choral Union and Florence Hinkle
Organ accompaniments by Earl V. Moore (Head of organ department, University School of Music).
Piano accompaniments by Frances Louise Hamilton (University School of Music).

In addition to the two concerts mentioned, considerable music will be interspersed in the general sessions. Mr. Earl V. Moore, head of the organ department of the University School of Music, will contribute several numbers on the big organ in Hill Auditorium, while the Glee Club of fifty singers will take part in two sessions. A chorus of several hundred school children will repeat Fletcher's "Walrus and the Carpenter," which was so well received at the festival in May. On Friday evening on the occasion of Governor Farris's address, music numbers will be contributed. Earl V. Moore, organist, and Mr. Bruce Bromley, a pupil of the University School of Music, will sing:

"The Horn" ..... Flegier
"A Song of Steel" ..... Spross

Mr. Henry James Dotterweich of the piano faculty, School of Music, will contribute:

Caprice Espagnol, Op. 37 ..... Moszkowski

The following series of concerts have been scheduled by the University School of Music for the coming year. Other concerts, the dates of which have not yet been announced, will be announced from time to time:

November 6, 8:00 p. m.—Faculty concert in High School Hall.
November 12, 800 p. m.—Margarete Matzenauer on Choral Union Series in Hill Auditorium.
November 17, 8:00 p. m.—University Symphony Orchestra Concert, High School Auditorium.
November 19, 4:15 p. m.—Historical vocal recital, William Howland, School of Music Hall.
December 3, 4:15 p. m.—Historical piano recital, Mrs. George B. Rhead, School of Music Hall.
December 4, 8:00 p. m.—Faculty concert in High School Hall.
December 9, 8:00 p. m.—Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra on Choral Union Series in Hill Auditorium.
December 18, 8:00 p. m.—Piano recital by Nell B. Stockwell, School of Music Hall.
December 1, 8:00 p. m.—Piano recital by Harrison Albert Stevens, School of Music Hall.
December 11, 8:00 p. m.—Piano recital by Henry James Dotterweich, School of Music Hall.
January 8, 8:00 p. m.—Piano recital by Nellie Mae Goucher, School of Music Hall.
January 14, 8:00 p. m.—Faculty concert in High School Auditorium.
January 19, 8 p. m.—University Symphony Orchestra, High School Auditorium.
January 21, 4:15 p. m.—Historical vocal recital by William Howland, School of Music Hall.
January 23, 8:00 p. m.—Lucille Stevenson, soprano, and Marion Green, baritone, and the University Choral Union on the Choral Union Series, Hill Auditorium.
January 28, 4:15 p. m.—Historical recital, Mrs. George Rhead, pianist; Samuel P. Lockwood, violinist, School of Music Hall.
February 18, 8:00 p. m.—Carl Flesch on Choral Union Series, in Hill Auditorium.
March 2, 8:00 p. m.—Ignace Jan Paderewski on Choral Union Series, in Hill Auditorium.
March 9, 8:00 p. m.—Volin recital by Anthony J. Whitmire, in School of Music Hall.
April 16, 8:00 p. m.—Piano recital by Frances Louise Hamilton, in School of Music Hall.
May 13-16—Twenty-first annual May Festival in Hill Auditorium. Chicago Symphony Orchestra, The University Choral Union, Children's Chorus. Albert A. Stanley and Frederick Stock, conductors. Soloists and works to be announced.

CHARLES A. LINK.

# # #

Fraser—Mr. Arthur Fraser played a very successful piano recital before the La Salle County Teachers' Association, in session at Decatur last week.

ELLA L. MILLS
PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

JOHN R. RANKL
Bass-Baritone
PUPILS 609 FINE ARTS BUILDING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
Phone Harrison 6880

SOFIA STEPHALI
COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

HANS HESS
CELLIST
American Conservatory
Telephone Lincoln 7917

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 608 FINE ARTS BUILDING Accompanist

Louise George
Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Jennie F. W. Johnson
Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Preiser Violin School
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director Phone Austin 4043
STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS
OSCAR SEAGLE
BARITONE
17 Avenue Mozart
Paris (France)
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER In Paris all Summer 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK
DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London
FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY

WHITEHILL
BARITONE
Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO 520 Fine Arts Bldg Phone Drexel 8183

Esther Plumb
CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3245
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago, Ill

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

MR. TENOR MRS. DRAMATIC READER
Karl Buren Stein
JOINT RECITALS 55 Auditorium Bldg.
TEACHERS of SINGING ELOCUTION ACTING

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

DanielProtheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO The Miraflores, 1420 Flower St.
Los Angeles, Cal.

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

HarrietCase SOPRANO
COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STONE
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Music Abroad

BERLIN

The season is now in full swing and the number of concerts to be given is greater than ever this year. The standard of the concerts on the whole is not very high, due to the great number of concerts given by half finished pupils for the purpose of securing notices and starting a "career." A first appearacne, unless vilely bad, usually secures good notices. It often happens that a truly great artist will be condemned in Berlin, whereas a beginner, one whose repertoire is limited to the one program he has worked on for many years, will receive good notices. For this reason many artists of international renown do not visit Berlin. But, strange to say, as their fame becomes greater in other countries it becomes greater in Berlin. It so happens there are a number of artists who do not play in Berlin and who were received ungraciously when they did appear many years ago, who have become great in Germany without having played in Berlin, because of their deeds in other countries. Josef Hofmann and Paderewski are two who may be mentioned. Of course there are artists who have been acknowledged from the start in Berlin. Pablo Casals, the great Spanish 'cellist; Mischa Elman, Emil Sauer, Ysaye, etc. Busoni has had to fight his way; Fritz Kreisler also, and many others could be mentioned. Great success in Germany does not mean the same in other countries. Ansorge, a pianist of distinctly German characteristics, is successful only in Germany; also Schnabel, Friedberg, among others. Willy Burmester, the violinist, has the greatest artistic and financial success in Germany, but it is limited to that country. Very little good singing is heard in Berlin, and the great singers rarely visit the city. In fact, there are few cities where so much really bad singing is heard as in Berlin. But the quantity is here. Many evenings there are eight concerts to close from. With the increased number of concerts it is more difficult than ever for true worth to break through in Berlin, and without financial backing it is impossible. To give concerts here is not as expensive a luxury as in other large cities such as New York, London, Paris, St. Petersburg, etc. The price is going up, however. A recital now costs from $100 to $150, an orchestral concert about $450. In this deluge of concerts most of them can be put down to advertising account with the hope of its being returned many fold in a small city in the United States or Russia. French students are rarely heard in Berlin. Italian still more rare There is a small percentage of Scandinavians. The majority of the pupils, excepting the Germans, are Russians and Americans.

The season was formally opened by a concert in honor of Saint-Saens, in which the composer-conductor-pianist played his "Africa" Fantasy and "Wedding Cake Waltz" for piano, accompanied by the Philharmonic under Oskar Fried, conducted his symphony and accompanied two of his arias, most beautifully sung by Claire Dux, of the Royal Opera. Henri Marteau played the B minor violin concerto. Oskar Fried conducted the overture. "The Barbarian," which opened the concert (some thought the work was chosen with a point in view.) The famous musician was given a most enthusiastic reception.

Other concerts of importance have been given by Jascha Heifitz, the twelve year old violinist, who musically and technically takes his place among the big ones; Kreisler; Ysaye and Pugno in a sonata evening. Tonight Ernst Lengyel, the Hungarian pianist, who is bound to create a sensation when he is heard in America, and Mischa Elman are giving recitals.

Tena Lerner, the Russian pianist, will have an unusually heavy season in Europe. She has been engaged to appear as soloist at the following concerts: Lamoreux Orchestra, Paris (Chevillard); Gurzenich concerts, Cologne (Steinbach); Mouveaux concerts, Antwerp; Musikverein, Christiana (Nissen); Royal Symphony concerts, Stockholm (Jarnefelt); Riga Symphony (Schneevoigt); Warsaw Philharmonic (Birnbaum); Manchester Halle Orchestra (Balling); Scottish Orchestra, Glasgow (Mlynarski); Liverpool Orchestra; Brodsky Quartet, Manchester; Gentlemen's concerts and Orpheus Society, Manchester; Subscription concerts in Hull and Huddersfield; Bournemouth Orchestra; Harrogate Orchestra; North Staffordshire Orchestra, Hanley; Bohemian Quartet, Leipsic; recitals in Paris (2), London (2), Christiana, Stockholm, Leipsic (2), Berlin and other German cities; tour of Spain, etc., etc.

During the season 1914-15 Tina Lerner will make her fourth tour of the United States and Canada under the management of Loudon Charlton.

L. B.

DRESDEN

Max Reinhardt's gorgeous stage setting of Vollmoeller's legend, "The Miracle," to music of Humperdinck, took us by storm. This moody pantomime was chronicled by all our critics, none of them, however, succeeding so well in catching the point and in depicting the mood of the old legend as the able critic of the "Guide" T. D. (an English weekly of Dresden). I therefore take the liberty of quoting part of his report. It runs: "The big hall transformed into a church. Time put back many hundred years. The philosopher of the twentieth century allowing intellect to be silenced by feeling. Mysticism made to appear more rational than reason. Aestheticism, humanity, symbolism and religion welded together into a glowing whole, which assuredly left no one cold. Vollmoeller's adaptation of the old legend was the least factor in the combination of causes which took the spectator out of himself, at first almost against his wish, afterwards gladly. As we read the legend we smile indulgently, but the sound of church bells, of chanting distant Ave's, the sweet scent of incense, the perfect harmonics of color and light steal over our senses; the critical mood passes and we fall under the influence of the mystic; the more readily for the beautiful presence of the image representing Virgin Mary, which dominates the whole like an incarnate blessing," etc., etc.

Humperdinck's music adapts itself beautifully to the various moods of the play. It is melodious, sweet, full of color and mood, not important, nor original, but adequately illustrating the situations. The miracle was presented in the circus seating 5,000 persons. More than 1,000 actors were on the arena. The houses were sold out each time. "The Miracle" was quite an event here.

The first "new" opera produced here was Wolf-Ferrari's "The Jewels of the Madonna," well known almost everywhere in the music centers of the world. It had a big success, due chiefly to the exquisite reproduction under Schuch's lead, and the assistance of first rate soloists and the gorgeous stage setting. The book also is replete with stage effects, which the music successfully illustrates. Otherwise it is not deep nor original. Eva von der Osten as Maliella, rivals the best of representatives of the part. Vogelstrom (Gennaro) and Plaschke (Rafaele) did beautifully. It will certainly prove a great drawing card.

The temperamental violin virtuoso, Sascha Culbertson, on October 1 introduced himself here as a chamber music player, his program comprising Brahms' Op. 108, Mozart's Sonata, and Beethoven's Kreutzersonata, Op. 47. His pure violinistic gifts so far are displayed to greater advantage in violin soli and virtuoso performances. As such (a virtuoso) he takes rank with the first in his profession. For the chamber music style he is as yet too young and inexperienced with life's sad lessons—for Beethoven and Brahms have to be lived through.

A. INGMAN,

Franklinstrasse 20, Oct. 3, 1913.

Nichols—Mr. and Mrs. John W. Nichols, well known throughout the country for their attractive vocal and piano recitals, are very busy these days adding to their already extensive repertoire many new songs and piano numbers for forthcoming concerts, which include bookings late into next summer. At present a tour for February is being arranged which will take them as far south as Texas. They are already booked for recitals in Warren, Ohio, February 3; Alliance, Ohio, February 4; Washington Court House, Ohio, February 6; also, Marietta, Ohio; New York City, Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo., etc., etc. Their return trip through the south will include appearances in Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and Virginia, followed by a series of engagements in the vicinity of New York. They have been secured for a joint recital on March 20, by the Rye Seminary, Rye, N. Y.

———♯♯♯———

Robinson.—Miss Carol Robinson will appear with Jenny Dufau in recitals at Mt. Vernon and Springfield, Ill., on November 11 and 13. She will be accompanist for Harry Weisbach in his recital at Orchestra Hall on Sunday, November 30, and will play a recital at Winona College, Winona, Lake, Ind., on November 22.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 65 Rue de Seine
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Artbur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 5171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4788) 620 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3942 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 376
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO [illegible] Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

HARPSICHORD

PELTON-JONES Frances (New York) 3 W. 92nd St.

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boisievant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2105) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir). 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
DRIGGS and LE MESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V. Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Florence St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE J. S. (Lecture Recitals) 62 W. 45, New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 44 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (Wm Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5754) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone Drexel 3987) 4956 Oakenwald Av.
DEAL Alice R. 715 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 824 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Lutb. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo 1534 Lake Ave.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2868) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (St. Louis) 4417 a LaClede Av., Phone Forest 4763-R
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra. Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie (Res. Phone Midway 1692) American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
ALTEMUS Ethel (Philadelphia) 1526 Spruce Street
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Stewart 2519) 6415 Saogamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Appleton Bldg.) Voecks' Building
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5066) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUCHHALTER Simon 424 Fine Arts Building
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenn
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirstl (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenne
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorium (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.
DOELLING Mae (Concert Pianist) 4141 N Hermitage Av.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg

ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland Ohio
ERST Stephen Adolph 1553 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season. 2608 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Stndio, 1527 High St.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032) 874 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Coln mbia School of Music.
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045) 426 Fine Arts Building
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HUNT Emily Parsons (Phone Highland Park 120) 520 Fine Arts Bldg. (Mon. and Thurs. P. M.)
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music) 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9206)
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KING Jessie (Studios) 419-59 E. Van Buren Street
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
MATTESON Hannah (Accompanist) Edison Park, Ill.
McBRIDE Alice Emmons. (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Lonis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (Jamestown, N. Y.) Hill Piano School
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 51st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St.
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolfram St.
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766 520 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res, 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715) 5828 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lilian Mary 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THAL Della (620 Addison St.) 610 Fine Arts Building
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J, Berwyn) 55 Auditorium
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservato
WALLACE Evangeline 522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano Colle
WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str. 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1515 Maller's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Colo (2226 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Louisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 820 Fine Arts Bldg.
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Luin Jones (Phone Graceland 8155) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro. New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers 235 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2131) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1871) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 509 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 61 Auditorium Bldg
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
INTERNATIONAL College of Music 64 Auditorium Bldg.
KNOX Conservatory of Music Wm. F. Bentley, Dir., Galesburg, Ill.
KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 529 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir.) 309 Kimball Hall.
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art Warrington Bldg.
OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 55 Auditorium Bldg.
TOLEDO Musical College Toledo, Ohio
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W 75th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School, 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1515 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art. 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 69th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.
ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 715 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4666 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815) Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Lndwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Wabash 1260 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Irving 22273) 4820 Kimball Av.
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Stndying Abroad
COHEN Sol (Cincinnati Orchestra) 628 Lincoln Ave, (Avondale) Cincinnati
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Avs.) North Shore School of Music
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco 1549 Octavia St.
FISCHEL Max I. 610 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 105 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 425 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Manrice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KITCHIN Joseph 5416 Jackson Av.
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of Music) 4554 Grand Boul.
MUSIN Ovide (Virtuoso) 51 West 78th St., New York
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York,
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 530 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Pbone 552-R Blue Island) Vilim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall.
VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory
WOODARD Guy Bush Temple
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.) 85 Auditorium Bldg
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert 6557 Ingleside Avenne
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 525 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.

BEEBE Agnes Leist 509 Kimball Hall

BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005) 303 Kimball Hall

BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.) Northwestern University School of Music

BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist) 6119 Greenwood Ave.

BISPHAM David 44 W. 44th St., New York

BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg. Drake School of Music

BOLLMAN Mande Fenton Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.

BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York) Care Haensel and Jones

BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 6819) Kimball Hall

BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8620) 4822 Madison Ave.

BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium) Cosmopolitan School of Music

BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor) 1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.

BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269 Northwestern Uni. School of Music

BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3886) (Harry Culbertson, Manager)

BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio) Ohio Wesleyan School of Music

BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth) 7022 Vernon Av.

BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041) 727 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.) Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau

BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183) 520 Fine Arts Building

Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass. 413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.

BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 6486) 612 Fine Arts Building

CASE Harriet Auditorium Bldg.

CHENEY Mary (New York) 600 Carnegie Hall

CHILSON-OHRMAN Luella, (Soprano) 4603 Sheridan Road

CLARK Charles W. (Paris) 12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.

CLARK Dr. Frederick 83 Auditorium Building

CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831) Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)

CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1162 Sherwood Music School

CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone) Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11

CLIPPINGER D. A. 410 Kimball Hall

CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano) University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.

CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher) 721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495

COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho) Boise Conservatory of Music

COOK John Loring (Tenor) 300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 6156)

COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913) 4117 W. Harrison St.

CORLEW Mabel (Contralto) 4202 Prairie Ave, (Phone Harrison 973)

COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France) 6 rne Edmond Abont

CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009) 508 E. 46th Place

CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor) 234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)

DAHLSTROM Margaret 3242 Clifton Ave.

DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique 30 Rue Marbeuf. Champs Elysees, Paris

DE BERNYZ Bertrand (Studios) 58 W. 72nd, New York

DE SALES Regina (Paris, France) 40rne de Villejnst (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)

DeYOUNG Richard B. American Conservatory

DEVRIES Herman 618-628 Fine Arts Building

DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478) 815 S. Harvey Avenue. Oak Park. Ill.

DUFAU Jennie (Colorature Soprano) Chicago Grand Opera Co.

DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310 710 South Central Park Avenue

FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio) H. B. Turpin, Manager

FARNUM Mrs. Frank 3369 Warren Ave.

FICHTNER Lndwig Carl (Basso-Cantante) 149 Tremont St., Boston

FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Harrison 3895) 63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 408)

FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg 6906 Ontario St. (Contralto)

FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York) Studio 110 Carnegie Hall

FRISBIE Constance (Soprano) 5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)

GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782) 318 North Kenilworth Av,, Oak Park.

GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886) 3436 Flourney St.

GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone) 413 Kimball Hall

GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone) 1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.

GREGORY Heathe (Phone Kenwood 53) 616 E. 49th Street

GRIFFITH Milton B. (Sonth Bend. Ind. Conservatory) Chicago Address, 622 Kimball Hall

GROW Ethel (Phone North 2636) 1002 Dearborn Av,

GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art) 623 Fine Arts Bldg

HADLEY Grant (Tenor) Suite 73 Auditorium Building

HAIGHT Irma (Los Angeles) The Miraflores—1420 Flower St.

HALL William John (St. Louis) Mnsical Art Building

HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497) 423 Fine Arts Bldg.

HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher) 72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack (Phone Ravenswood 325) 6057 Winthrop Av.

HARRIS Milon R. 403 Kimball Hall

HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1406) care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.) Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)

HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Building

HERDIEN Mahel Sharp 6132 Kenmore Ave.

HEUCHLING Mathilde 712 Fine Arts Building

HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923) Chicago Musical College

HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano) 1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)

HINKLE Florence (Soprano) 294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)

HINSHAW William Wade (New York) Metropolitan Opera Company

HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003) 6th Floor, Kimball Hall

HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson) 304 Kimball Hall

HOLT GeorgeNelson 509 S. Wabash Ave.

HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano) 3800 Broadway, New York

HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737, 6836 Washington Blvd.

HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544) Auditorium Bldg.

Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland) Tudor Mansions, 3616 Pine Grove Av.

HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante) South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.

HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880 608 Fine Arts Building

HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund Alliance, Ohio

HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267) 601 Kimball Hall

IREDALE Bertha Smart (Phone Englewood 888?) 357 W. 63rd St.

JOHNS Ethelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131) 6463 Kimhark Av.

JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 6104) 4937 Michigan Ave.

KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619) 4433 Racine Avenne

KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201) 523 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)

KIMBELL Grant (Tenor) 6418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831

KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music

LA BERGE Charles (Baritone) American Conservatory

LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774) 1376 East 64th Street

LASH De Witt Dnrgin (Phone Harrison 5365) 420 Fine Arts Bldg

LAYFIELD Mahel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082) 7111 Normal Av.

LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880) 6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1

LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335) 4460 Berkeley Av.

LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto) 1311 E. 63rd St.

LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola 3814 Ellis Avenue

LUND Rene S. (Baritone) 2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6602)

LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J) 1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.

LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder) Drake School of Music

MacBURNEY Thomas 609 Fine Arts Building

MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060) 3422 Fulton Street

McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439) 3620 Parnell Av.

MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E. 616 Fine Arts Bldg.

MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France) 27 rue Boislevant

MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 661) 2459 Jackson Boul.

MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402) 6266 Berteau Av.

MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.) 209 Wesley Av.

MILLER Christine 1003 Heberton Ave., Pittshnrg, Pa.

MILLER Herbert 716 Fine Arts Bldg

MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn) 1. W. 34th St., New York

MILLER John B. (Tenor) Chicago Musical College

MOSHER L. Drew 137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.

MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone) 1166 Belmon Ave

MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles) 446 W. 40th Place

MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.

MULREY Mahel V.—Soprano—Pianist 47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.

MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4677 300 Athenaeum Bldg.

MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano) 4902 Friendship Av., Pittsbnrgh, Pa.

MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano) 5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)

MURRISON Harry R. Alliance, Ohio.

NARELLE Marie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall

NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122) 1215 E. 63rd Street

NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano Plymouth, Ind.

NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199) 237 North Howard Av., Austin

NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York) 330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbns)

NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5508) 4137 Drexel Blvd.

OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute) 303 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 5919)

OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147) 2112 Washington Blvd.

PANGBOURNE Annette (Phone Harrison 2313) 519 Kimball Hall

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England) Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Reg S

PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto) Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.

PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.) Toledo Musical College

PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246) 4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contralto) Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.) Wiuona School of Music

PROTHEROE Daniel 510 Fine Arts Bldg.

RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bluilding

RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782) 1738 Humboldt Boulevard

RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor) Barre Plains, Mass.

RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513 413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av

REED Esta Asher (Soprano) Abroad for a season

REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9166) 6627 Indiana Av.

REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg) 202 Nixon Building

RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.

RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall 6318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa

ROBBINS Edith Lucile (11th and R Sts.) University School of Music, Lincoln Neb.

ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting) 1372 E. 52nd St.

ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877) 7206 Stewart Ave.

RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto) Principal Liederheim, Auburndale, Mass.

RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265) 719 Fine Arts Bldg.

RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448) 3100 Lexington St.

SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing 201 Clarendon St., Boston

SCHWARTZ Cora (soprano) 401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.

SCHUSTER Katherine 71 Auditorium Bldg.

SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York) Wolfsohn Bureau

SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 469) 408 Kimball Hall.

SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner) St. James Bldg., New York

SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano) 63 Auditorium Bldg.

SHELP Dr. H. Wm. 726 Fine Arts Bldg.

SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor) 516 Kimball Hall

SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano) 4055 Michigan Av.

SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano) 6623 St. Lawrence Av.

SMIDT Mable Corlew (Phone Anstin 12717) 5943 Ohio St.

SMITH Lyla S. (Phone Albany 10069) Studio 3200 Logan Boul.

SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173) 626 Madison St., Gary, Ind.

SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano) Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio

SPOONER Philip (New York) 205 W. 57th St.

STEELE Mary Hinman 603 Kimball Hall

STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh) Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.

STONE Frank (Tenor) 304 Kimball Hall

STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48) 4439 Calumet Av.

STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 65 Auditorium Building

STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 6912) 6106 Kimbark Av.

STEVENSON Lucille 4438 Berkeley Avenue

STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923) 1134 E. 47th St.

STULTS Walter A. (Evanston) Northwestern University School of Music

TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L. Lewis Institute, Phone West 793

THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano) Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.

THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082) 620 Fine Arts Building

TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3766 Bush Temple Conservatory

TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor) 813 La Salle Av.

TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949) 404 Kimball Hall

VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799) 6611 Woodlawn Av.

WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380) 428 Fine Arts Building

WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958) 1325 E. 64th St.

WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Oak Park 4397) 206 S. Lombard Av., Oak Park.

WATSON Ruth Swing 1226 E. 62nd St.

WEAVER Iva Bigelow Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.

WEBSTER Frank B. 719 Kimball Hall

WEGENER Mme. Justine Bush Temple Conservatory

WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone) 61 Auditorium Bldg.

WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 5046) Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal

WHEELER Beatrice Chicago Grand Opera Co.

WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 1 E 34th St., New York

WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 1667) 728 Fine Arts Bldg.

WILCOX John C. (Teacher) Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo

WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio) 516 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS Dr. Carver (Samuel B. Garton) Auditorinm Bldg

WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey 406 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS H. Evan Akron, Ohio

WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway 6107 Woodlawn Av.

WYNN Bessie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall

WYCOFF Eva Emmet 502 W. 149rd. New York

YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York) Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair, N. J.

ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778) (1140 E. 44th St)

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Every Music Lover

should read the

Pacific Coast Musician

Published in Los Angeles, the Mecca of Prominent Musical Organizations, Artists and Composers during the

Summer of 1915

When among other events Los Angeles will have the Biennial Convention of National Federation of Music Clubs; production of America's $10,000 Prize Opera and German Saengerfest.

This magazine will help in planning your visit, giving you information on musical matters. This is the fastest growing musical journal in the world, containing absolutely new music, vocal and instrumental, by California Composers, in each issue, and worth many times the price of its yearly subscription

$1.50 per Year

Your friends will enjoy this unique, newsy and valuable musical journal.

Pacific Coast Musician
BLANCHARD HALL

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic
(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

ESTHER PLUMB

CHICAGO, AMERICA

NOVEMBER 21, 1913.

RUTH ALTA
ROGERS
PIANIST

If desired, Recital Programs will be opened with explanatory talks on the compositions to be played.

MANAGEMENT
CHARLES E. WATT 522 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Voices Made Beautiful

Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00 Lessons by correspondence.

Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

Now Ready. Second Edition Cloth, 192pp. $1.00 Postage 8c
THE RECENT REVOLUTION IN ORGAN BUILDING
By George Laing Miller, F. R. C. O., Eng.
Shows how mechanism and tone production have completely changed. Many illustrations, biographies and portraits of inventors. Specifications and views of keyboards of notable organs in England, France and U. S., including Unit organs and the new Liverpool Cathedral.
May be had from all Book and Music Sellers
The trade supplied by Lyon & Healy, A. C. McClurg & Co., Ditson, Schirmer, Gray, Presser, Baker & Taylor, Fischer, Nordheimer, Novello & Co., Ltd., or THE CHARLES FRANCIS PRESS 32B, 13th Street, New York.

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

Languages
The Berlitz School of Languages
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

Bergey
CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

CHICAGO, NOVEMBER 21, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS
United States, per year, postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser and Herbert Bailey
Business Representatives

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

Finger and Wrist Studies
Of "Scales, Intervals & Chords."
Grades I to V
By JAMES L. LA FLEUR
A Practical and Scientific System of Studying Harmony While Developing the Technic of the Piano

Contents: Diagram of the Major and Minor Scales with exercises to develop the weak fingers. Perfect, Major, Minor, Augmented and Diminished intervals. Chords of the 7th and 9th, Chords of the seventh on the leading tone. Diminished 7ths, Secondary 7ths, Mixed chords and inversions of each chord. The Chords and Intervals are written in every key and the formation of each Interval and Chord thoroughly explained.

Exercises to train the thumb to pass under the fingers in scale passages and exercises to develop the fingers for scale playing.

This is the only book published that combines harmony with piano technic.

Price $1.50, usual discount.
For Sale by
Charles W. Homeyer & Co., 332 Boylston St.
And all leading music dealers. BOSTON, MASS.

All the Leading Artists
Are Featuring
Palmer John Clark's
New Song
Someday, Sometime
Published in four keys

Low in Eb	Med. low in F	Med. high in G	High in Ab

For Sale Everywhere
GAMBLE HINGED MUSIC CO.
CHICAGO

Harmony and Counterpoint, by Mail if Desired
Critic and Special Writer Musical Mss. Edited
LESTER S. BUTLER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Boston and Worcester Critic and Correspondent of Music News. Steinert Hall, Boston, Mass.
Day Building, Worcester, Mass.

Compositions and Arrangements

A Sigh (medium voice)	.50—27
Dear Girl with the Dreamy Eyes	.50—27
Twilight Hour	.30—17
Missionary Call (mixed quartet)	.05
Brotherhood Hymn (male quartet)	.06
The Darkey's Lullaby (male quartet)	.15
Inner Voice Waltz (Piano) J. W. Black	.30—17

All the compositions here listed are musically melodious. Obtained of the advertiser or at music stores.

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock
A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original.
The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:
"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."
For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cent's Postpaid.

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT Sec.

DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

Music News

Vol. 5 Chicago, November 21, 1913. No. 47.

Editorial

WOMEN MUSICIANS

According to the report in a daily paper of Chicago, the American Academy and National Institute of Arts and Letters (otherwise "the Immortals"), considered Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler for membership, but decided that she was not available, "for," said one of the members, "the selection of members to the academy is based upon universal recognition of superior accomplishment in a certain line of artistic or literary endeavor. Thus far, it appears, there are no American women who can successfully boast of such prestige."

Now, it would be perfectly easy to mention a good many women composers whose work will rank with that of many of the men now safely in the "Immortal" fold, and as for pianists—will any sane person claim that Mrs. Zeisler is less important than Ernest Schelling, who on Friday was elected to membership?

In variety of achievement and in universality of prestige, Mrs. Zeisler is infinitely superior to Mr. Schelling, in the opinion of this writer at least, and this opinion is shared by many people.

———♯♯♯———

MUSIC FOR THE MASSES

Last week some one wrote a letter to the Tribune calling upon philanthropists to provide free music of the highest class for the public of Chicago, citing as parallel examples of what should be done the fact that the Art Institute is free on certain days and that a great public library is maintained by the municipality.

Free band concerts, especially such as those given on the lake front last summer, are a step in this direction—though the music provided is not of really high grade throughout, and such concerts as those now being presented at certain civic centers, at Fullerton Hall and at Sinai Temple, also go a long way toward solving the question of music for the masses, in spite of the fact that they are not absolutely free.

These things should grow and multiply, however, until it becomes an actual fact that good music—even such music as that provided by our Symphony Orchestra—will become available to all the people, freely.

In times past when such movements have been carried forward to any extent, the burden has fallen on the musicians themselves—many an artist and many an organization have, at personal cost, given of their store of music. Such giving as this must of necessity be spasmodic and sporadic. Real benefits will accrue when such concerts are arranged either by men of wealth who take this way of distributing their goods, or, better still, by the municipality itself; but, in either case the musician himself should be paid his full value for his work. He should no more be asked to give his services for nothing than the halls or printing or any other incidentals of concert giving should be expected without payment.

———♯♯♯———

CLARENCE S. FUNK

To those who know Clarence S. Funk personally, his complete vindication was a foregone conclusion.

Mr. Funk is a very modest man and has but a limited publicity in spite of the tremendously important positions he holds, but in the very few circles in which he is known intimately (and the editor of Music News is proud to know him in one of these circles), no one could ever for one moment have entertained any idea but that the charges against him were purest fabrication.

No court decision was necessary to make this opinion perfectly solid.

DECOMPOSITION

The London Musical Times has an interesting editorial on "The Practice of Decomposition," called forth by the reviewing of some ultra-modern piano pieces by a nameless (here) composer.

After describing the paucity of invention and the idiocy of construction which characterizes the make-up of these pieces, the News refers to this sort of writing as "Decomposition," as opposed to the word composition, and further adds that such practice gives absolute color and authority to the expression "what a rotten piece"!

———♯♯♯———

A SUGGESTION

Since there is such a rage among the prime donne of the various opera companies to appear publicly in freak costumes (and incidentally to call up the newspaper offices to "please notice), why does not one of them adopt a Monna Vanna costume for the street?

We charge nothing whatever for this valuable suggestion.

Buchhalter. — Music News incorrectly stated last week that Mr. Simon Buchhalter had played piano solos at a recital given in Kimball Hall recently. Mr. Isadore Buchhalter, an artist pupil of Mr. Simon Buchhalter, was announced to make an appearance, but on account of illness he did not do so, the place being substituted by Mrs. White of Gary, who was the accompanist of the occasion and who played, on request, a group of her own piano solo compositions.

———♯♯♯———

Gannon—Owing to the number of engagements already booked for Rose Lutiger Gannon through her manager, Gertrude V. O'Hanlon, the popular contralto has been unable to accept the spring tour with the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra. Albert Borroff, basso, who was also approached for the tour, had to decline owing to his numerous concert engagements.

———♯♯♯———

Melba-Kubelik—The Melba-Kubelik concert at the Auditorium on Sunday afternoon was attended by a very large audience, and to meet the popular demand for tickets, another concert has been arranged for the same place on Sunday afternoon, January 25.

Valparaiso Music College

Department of

Valparaiso University

Second Largest University in the United States

VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President

OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER

SOLO VIOLINIST

Welsh International Festival

MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE

SOPRANO

Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils

5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN

PIANIST

8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE

CONTRALTO

Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL

TEACHER OF SINGING

STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON

BASSO-CANTANTE

Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency

416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496

Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers

VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION

METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE

Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL

The Art of Singing

81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday

Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD VIOLINIST LOEBER TEACHER RECITALS Musicales

3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA Contralto WAIT

Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

Music in Chicago

CHICAGO GRAND OPERA

The revelation of the repertoire for the first week of the Chicago Opera Company indicates that General Director Cleofonte Campanini is inclined to liberality in taste and has an eye for imposing effects in processional. Wagnerites have some satisfaction the first week, the old and new Italian school inherents are respected; the modern French has a voice and opera in the vernacular, dealing with an American subject by an American composer climaxes the first week.

"La Tosca," with Mary Garden and Vanni Marcoux as its stars, starts sensation significantly and should awaken the season with real sparkle. It has been some time since Chicago has heard Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," so its representation as the second opera, could not be unwelcomed, particularly as it has a very strong cast. It will be attractively staged, with entirely new settings, and have its lovely ballet, "The Dance of the Hours," gracefully represented. Carolina White will impersonate the title role and have as a companion in art, Julia Claussen, in the role of the blind mother, Cieca. A most potential personage in the cast will undoubtedly be Titta Ruffo, in a very important dramatic delineation, the sort of part particularly adapted to his great histrionic power.

The notable novelty of the week will be Massenet's lyrical comedy, "Don Quichotte," the name part of this opera created by Vanni Marcoux, and will be invested by him and he will have a sympathetic companion in art, in Mary Garden, as the lovely Dulcienna. Hector Dufranne should be particularly happy as Sancho Panza.

Thursday afternoon, "Mme. Butterfly" will be given at a special price Thanksgiving matinee. In the evening, Wagner's "Die Walkure" will be given, with Charles Dalmores, Jane Osborn-Hannah, Julia Claussen, Clarence Whitehill and Henri Scott in heroic roles. Friday night the company will visit Milwaukee. On Saturday afternoon they will make an impressive revival of "Aida," with the new Polish soprano, Rosa Raisa, as "Aida," and Cyrene Van Gordon, the new American contralto, will make her debut as Amneris. Saturday night will end the labors of the week, with a representation of the picturesque American opera, "Natoma."

♮ ♮ ♮

Amadeo Bassi

The appearance of Amadeo Bassi, as the leading tenor, the opening night of the Chicago grand opera season at the Auditorium, in "La Tosca," will undoubtedly be welcomed by many opera-goers in the city. The first two seasons of the Chicago company he was a very popular and active figure, giving the roles of standard opera a new warmth and vitality, through his impassioned utterance. Happily, he was cast for the role of Dick Johnson, in "The Girl of the Golden West," one of his first creations in this association, and he made it so strong and so poetic, giving it an air of Americanism quite unusual, so that it really surpassed in the life-giving elements of the portraiture that of Enrico Caruso, who was a guest artist here in the same part. The second season of his stay, he created the role of Gennaro in "The Jewels of the Madonna," making it a profoundly pathetic portraiture, and giving its song unusual passion and brilliancy.

♯ ♯ ♯

EDWARD CLARKE'S PUPILS

Among the professional singers studying with Edward Clarke this season is Ruth Gottlieb Von Nicholay. Mrs. Von Nicholay possesses a soprano voice of exceptionally sweet quality and good range. She is soloist at the University Congregational church and within the past few weeks has sung at a reception at the John Marshall Law School; for the forestry department of the Chicago Women's Club, and for the Hyde Park Travel Club.

Mr. John D. Barker, soloist of the First Baptist church, is also studying with Mr. Clarke. Mr. Barker appeared before the Playgoers' Club Tuesday evening, November 11.

♯ ♯ ♯

Williams.—Day Williams gave a 'cello recital as the fifth of the faculty series concerts at Northwestern University School of Music at Evanston, last evening.

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today

Before You Forget It

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

BALLMANN CONCERTS

Lincoln Turner Hall was packed to the doors on Sunday, November 16, by an enthusiastic audience eager to hear more of the splendid music furnished by Martin Ballmann with his orchestra of excellent musicians. This was the fourth concert of the series that is to be given, every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, for twenty weeks. The program, a miscellaneous one ranging from the good classics down to the popular tunes of the day, was very well played throughout and thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

E. F. Hunnemann, concertmeister of the orchestra, was the soloist of the afternoon and was heard in the violin numbers, "Meditation" from "Thais" by Massenet, and "Zapateado" by Sarasate. Mr. Hunnemann possesses an instrument from which he draws a beautiful tone, and with his admirable and fluent technic he proves to be a fine solo player. This was his second appearance as soloist in these concerts, and that he is well liked by the crowds at this north side hall was proved by the loud applause that called him back with an encore.

An interesting part of the afternoon's program was the singing of the Damenchor Lyra of Chicago, and Damenchor Almira of Forest Park, combined, making a total of eighty ladies' voices under the direction of H. A. Rehberg. They were heard in three numbers. The first two, in German and unaccompanied, were most excellently rendered. However, in their singing of the "On the Beautiful Blue Danube" by Strauss, accompanied by the orchestra, they displayed their best powers as a chorus in that their attacks and enunciation, as well as good, solid tone volume, was handled with utmost ease and the number was so well given that it had to be repeated. Mr. Rehberg proved himself to be a most capable as well as gracious conductor.

Taken as a whole, Mr. Ballmann must be given great credit for arranging such splendid programs and presenting them to the masses on the north side. H. M. D.

———♯♯♯———

ANNA GROFF-BRYANT

Anna Groff-Bryant left Friday, November 14, on her regular fall trip north, where she goes twice a year to supervise the vocal department of St. Agatha's Conservatory at St. Paul and to St. Joseph Academy of Green Bay, Wisconsin. On Tuesday, November 18, she will give the first of a series of lectures and talks at Lombard College, Galesburg, Ill. She will be assisted by Mrs. Lillian Flieschman-McKinny, lyric soprano and artist pupil of Mrs. Groff-Bryant, who will give a song program of lyric, sympathetic and dramatic songs.

MISS BROWNELL'S CLASS CONCERT

Miss Edna Brownell, a west side teacher with a very extensive clientele, gave her Annual Pupils' Recital at Stiles Hall, West Twenty-second street, on Wednesday evening last, and, as usual, had a capacity audience and received unstinted approval from all who were present.

It is impossible to list the entire program, but the character of the work is shown in the fact that good salon pieces and "Etudes" were used from many writers, among others, Mendelssohn, Lerman, Waldteufel, Parlow, Grieg, Wachs, Lange, Krogman, Lichner, Moszkowski and Beethoven. Much good ensemble work was shown as well as fine solo attainment.

Miss Brownell is a teacher whose motto is "Perfection is the aim of every true artist," and she certainly has instilled into the minds of her pupils the idea that carefulness, clarity and definite readings are vastly more important than speed or brilliant display.

The work throughout the evening was of excellent quality and each member of the very large class may feel that he or she was a factor in making the affair a great success.

Effa Ellis Perfield
Keyboard Harmony
Melody Building and
Teaching System

Mean, Rapid, Definite Reasoning, Based on the TRUTH Brief and Simple. Write about

Special Modulation Course

EFFA ELLIS

204-5 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

———♯♯♯———

MILON HARRIS

The music for Sunday, the 16th, at California Avenue Congregational Church was: "Comes at Times a Stillness" (Galbraith), "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go" (Harker), solo by Miss Ruby Saaf; "Thou Art O God" (Brown), ladies' choir, thirty voices; "Nearer My God to Thee" (Hanscom), male choir, twenty-five voices, soprano obligato, Miss Saaf; "My Heavenly Home" (Hawley), duet, Mr. Charles Alden, baritone, and Miss Ruby Saaf, soprano, students of Mr. Harris are the soloists. Mr. Alden sings a program Friday night, November 21, for the Town and Country Club. Mr. Alden has a beautiful voice and sings with excellent taste and finish.

MISS WESTERVELT'S RECITAL

In spite of the fact that Josef Hofmann was playing next door at The Studebaker, and that Melba-Kubelik were entertaining thousands at The Auditorium, the recital of Louise St. John Westervelt, in which she was assisted by Helen Lawrence, pianiste, and Arthur Granquist, accompanist at The Fine Arts Theater, on Sunday afternoon, was attended by a splendid audience.

This audience—friendly from the beginning—warmed up to great enthusiasm during the progress of the concert, and besides giving every number a full meed of approval, insisted on two repetitions of songs in the case of Miss Westervelt, and asked for final encores from both artists.

Miss Lawrence was heard only in her second group, which was composed entirely of Liszt, and which she played with great virtuosity and also a commendable amount of style and finish.

Miss Westervelt opened the program with a fine group by Brahms which was not heard by this writer and for her second number gave a group by Debussy which was far more excellent in the finish accorded by the singer and accompanist than the value of the works themselves would seem to warrant.

Debussy, in his serious songs, can only whine in one mood, and in his gay songs he has but one type of accompaniment. Also, his serious texts are always vague to the limit and his gay ones are usually too risque as to text for miscellaneous translating.

For this one listener then, the chief charm of the program lay in the last group and here there was indeed much of beauty as well as abounding variety.

Schindler's "Enchanted Castle," a legato song of some power, was sung with beautifully sustained tone. Saar's "Happy Bird," a piquant creation, joyous, light-hearted and effective, was tossed off by Miss Westervelt with remarkable abandon, as was also Henschel's "Spring," a number in which the trills especially were delightfully done.

Lee's "A Song of Pain" is a lugubrious study—very obvious in its bid for emotionalism—but nevertheless quite different from other songs and, on Sunday, wholly successful in its appeal—though it must be said that this appeal rested in Miss Westervelt's treatment rather than in the song itself.

"Golden Eyes," a song by Eleanor Everest Freer, was a distinct revelation and a potent joy. Not long, but admirable in its adaptation of melody line to poetic text, it suits the voice to perfection and has a grace and charm altogether delightful.

The accompaniments of Arthur Granquist were models of good taste and refined musical judgment. C. E. W.

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studeba ker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
410 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production | Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. | 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - NEWMAN Baritone
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires-makes not mars-the soloist enabling him to bring out his best. 246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
Management Alma Voedisch. 3836 Wilton Av., Chicago

THE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Interesting in the extreme was the concert of last week, which was given a complete "American" cast in honor of the presence in the city of members of the American Academy and National Institute of Arts and Letters, several of the numbers of the program being conducted by their authors, members of the academy.

This gave Chicagoans one of those rare opportunities enjoyed for seeing and hearing in an intimate sense some of the composers of the eastern cities—for of such is the roster of the academy largely—and certainly the warmth of the greeting and the sincerity of the indorsement given their work was such as to assure them that we of the west like them and their work and that we are keenly alive to anything tending to strengthen the idea of "American Art for Americans."

The first two numbers of the program were conducted by Mr. Stock, these being "Prelude" (Natoma) Herbert, and "A Northern Ballad," by Parker. Both were full of significance and both were played admirably.

EDITH THOMPSON

♮ ♮ ♮

George W. Chadwick of Boston came forward next as the director for his "Dramatic Overture to Melpomene," and this proved to be a remarkably fine work—full of color and with one climax which will not soon be forgotten by any one who heard it on Saturday night.

Mr. Chadwick is reserved and precise in his conducting, but he certainly knows his field and easily induces the orchestra to give of its best.

Edgar Stillman Kelley (of Oxford, Ohio, by common report, but programed as from New York) was represented on the program by his "Defeat of Macbeth," a piece of "program music" of wonderful potency and extremely vivid coloring. He directed with dramatic intensity and succeeded in pointing his themes and accenting his thoughts, through the medium of the orchestra, in an altogether remarkable way.

The quatrains of "Omar Khayyam" have been treated variously in music—the famous songs of Lisa Lehmann being the best known—but, neither these nor the very elaborate setting provided by Bantock have caught the real spirit of these verses as has Arthur Foote in his "Four Character Pieces," which he conducted at this concert.

Mr. Foote is a polished musician and he is refined to the point of elegance in his conducting. The "Four Pieces" have no tremendous amount of dramatic fire in them, but they are perfectly exquisite in construction, and they fit the chosen texts most beautifully.

Mr. Foote was given a genuine ovation by the Saturday evening audience, the majority of whom, while knowing his work and his reputation intimately, had perhaps never seen him before.

The last orchestral selection was the "Festival March and Hymn to Liberty" by Stock, conducted, of course, by him. This work has been heard in Chicago a goodly number of times and it always impresses as one in which the workmanship is good, if sometimes overdone; it is, however, a great splash of color and as such is always enjoyed by the audience, while the final portion, as directed by Mr. Stock, is nothing short of inspirational.

All this novelty and fine art combined to make a splendid program and to provide the necessary relief for so much orchestral brilliance a pianist was provided in the person of Miss Edith Thompson of Boston, who chose as the meduim of her introduction to these concerts the wonderful D minor pianoforte "Concerto" by MacDowell, a work which has everything in it which a great concert piece should have

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

BEN O. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg

MARY ANN KAUFMAN
SOPRANO
Edgewater 8519 4433 Raci ...v., CHICAGO, ILL.

for purposes of display, and which is yet so admirable also from the real musical standpoint as to cause it to stand almost alone of its class.

Miss Thompson is a remarkable pianist—broad and virile in the widest acceptance of those terms, she yet has grace and feminine charm in abundance.

This writer first heard this "Concerto" something over twenty years ago, at the hands of Carreno, at the Old Exposition summer night concerts. The impression gained at that time has never been equaled since until Miss Thompson was heard in the same work and, as a matter of fact, the readings of the two players were remarkably alike.

The extreme breadth of the first movement—a breadth which easily leads into too much forcing, was managed unusually well, and the grace and piquancy of the second movement were accented in altogether admirable style.

Both these factors recur in the last movement, and throughout this section Miss Thompson maintained a dignity and a breadth wholly in place, and at the close she rose to a climax which is rarely equaled by any pianist.

For encore she played the "Scotch Poem" with beautiful cantabile and a virtuosity of arpeggio quite unparalleled.

Altogether Miss Thompson is a pianist who has so many admirable points and whose readings are so infused with authority that the wish to hear her in recital is a strong one—and that recital should naturally be one containing very much of MacDowell, who was her teacher for many years, and whom she interprets so sympathetically.

The orchestra concerts for this week have the following program:

Overture, "Carnival" ..... Braunfels
Symphony, "Bocklin" ..... Huber
Intermission
Impromptu—Caprice for Harp ..... Pierne
From Suite No. 3, Opus 55 ..... Tschaikowsky
Elegie—Scherzo
Theme and Variations
Finale—Polonaise

C. E. W.

♯♯♯

AMATEUR CLUB CONCERT

This unfortunate listener had supposed that he had already suffered all possible things at the hands of Debussy, Cyril Scott and others of that ilk—but this was before he had heard the works of these exotics as translated by Mr. Luigi Gulli, a pianist who appeared last Monday afternoon before the Amateur Club.

An abundance of facility and the maximum of tastefulness will go a long way toward mitigating the horrors of the Debussy piano pieces, but Mr. Gulli has neither of these.

The whole interminable list he played was all just alike and all deadly dull—one of the pieces, it is remembered, was "Water Wagtail" by Scott, which might just as reasonably have been "Two Shakes of a Lamb's Tail" for any definite meaning it contained.

Schumann in his "Etudes Symphoniques" fared but little better at the hands of Mr. Gulli, for it too was played on a plane of monotony difficult to imagine, its redeeming quality being the fact that never at any time was the tone forced. Chopin closed the list of offerings by the pianist, but this writer did not remain to hear the group.

Under these circumstances the burden of charming the audience, a wonderfully fine one, by the way, fell upon the shoulders of Miss Lucille Stevenson, the alternate artist, who, truth to tell, has quite enough finish and style for two and who was enthusiastically received at this time.

A group of Rachmaninoff and Gretchaninoff songs was unusual, and, of course, more or less abstruse. It did not go over the heads of the intelligent amateurs, however, and was found to be most interesting.

For a second group Miss Stevenson sang La Forge's "To a Violet" and MacDowell's "Slumber Song" with exquisite finish, was very impressive in the Homer "Stormy Evening" and quite made the sensation of the afternoon by her breezy singing of Rummel's "Ecstasy." The piano accompaniments played by Eleanor Scheib were models of excellence.

On next Monday afternoon, November 24, the Amateur Club will present at the Studebaker Theater the Flonzaley Quartet. They will play Quartet in C Minor ((Beethoven), "Sonata a tre" for violins and 'cello (Leclair) and the Quartet in C Major by Dvorak.

C. E. W.

♯♯♯

Little Theater—Children form a large percentage of the audiences that are appreciating an "Evening With Columbine" so warmly at the Little Theater. One small lady of eleven was heard to remark as she left the theater after the Saturday matinee: "No, I didn't like it—I loved it. I don't want it explained!"

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
3534 Lake St. Available for Church Position

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
13 We Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
5th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

CHARLES LaBergé Baritone
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Edna Reiffert SEVERINGHAUS
Mezzo Soprano - Teacher of Voice
63 Auditorium Building

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4365

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

MAE Doelling Pianist Teacher
4141 N. Hermitage Av

PARSIFAL

Miss Henriette Weber is certainly unique in the work she is now doing at Fullerton Hall on Sunday evenings, and her presentation of "Parsifal" on last Sunday was thoroughly attractive and of immense educational value as well. She speaks admirably, and her explanations of the opera were convincing. Her piano playing is good from every standpoint, and in excerpts from the opera she was joined in authentic readings by Fritz Itte, violinist, and Carl Klammsteiner, 'cellist, two artists whose services in such a venture are beyond telling.

In the "Good Friday Spell" a cabinet organ was added, with only medium success, and the bells, while absolutely necessary to the scene, were yet distinctly out of tune with the instruments.

The great Kundry curse scene was given, with Miss Ethel Grow in the part of Kundry, and this was indeed a climax to the evening's efforts.

Miss Grow has splendid presence and an absolute sincerity of style which fit her admirably for dramatic work of big import, and her voice is so remarkable an organ that the very trying Kundry music, with its difficult intonations and its abnormal range, is still entirely within her powers.

Her lower tones were richly sonorous, her middle voice velvety in its smoothness, and her high tones were clarionlike in brilliancy of effect.

The mood of the scene was splendidly depicted, and as the enunciation and inflection were at all times extremely well done, she succeeded in holding the audience absolutely in her grasp during the entire scene, which, it will be recalled, is one of almost interminable length.

The authority and the skill with which this work was done were such as easily to mark Miss Grow as fitted for operatic venture of the most exalted description.

C. E. W.

SIMON BUCHHALTER

Simon Buchhalter, one of Chicago's most distinguished pianists and teachers, is located at 424 Fine Arts Building, where he may be reached by appointment and where he holds his classes.

Mr. Buchhalter recently came to Chicago, and it speaks well for his art that in the brief period he has become a recognized factor in the musical life of this city.

One of his many concert engagements is his recital at the Studebaker Theater, December 21, under the direction of F. Wight Neumann, and on that occasion he will play one of his characteristic programs that have made him so well known throughout this country. He will offer a few novelties of resident musicians.

"GEMUNDER" VIOLIN AROUND THE WORLD

Fifty thousand miles, through four grand divisions of the earth, through all the five zones, and through every variety of climate, with sharp and quick changes from dry to moist, and from hot to cold—these alone, without giving any thought to the playing qualities, were a severe test to the constructive stability of a violin.

Not many violins would stand such a test and come out intact.

This is the record made by the "Gemunder" model of 1905, used by Nicoline Zedeler on her tour around the world with Sousa's Band two years ago. Played both indoors and outdoors, its tone was amply satisfactory and fulfilled all requirements, which is noteworthy because it was played against some eighty brass, woodwind and percussion instruments. — (Musical Advance.)

MAC BURNEY STUDIOS

The next recital given under the auspices of the MacBurney Studios will be presented by Constance Frisbie, soprano, assisted by William Lester, accompanist, and will consist of songs by Liza Lehmann. The program will be as follows:

If Thou Wilt Be the Falling Dew
Roses After Rain
Irish Lovesong
The Cuckoo (from "More Daisies")
You and I
Bird Songs—
  The Woodpigeon
  The Starling
  The Yellowhammer
  The Wren
  The Owl
From "The Vicar of Wakefield"—
  Beautiful Land of Nod
  The Passion Flower
  Speedwell
  It Was a Lover and His Lass
  There Are Birds in the Valley

THE KREISLER RECITAL

Program for the recital to be given by Fritz Kreisler, at Orchestra Hall, on next Sunday afternoon, reads as follows:

Suite, E major ..... Bach
  Prelude—Gavotte—Menuetto I and II—Gigue, Accompanied Grave ..... Friedeman-Bach
Sarabande and Allegretto ..... Corelli
Allegretto ..... Porpora
La Precieuse ..... L. Couperin
La Chasse ..... J. B. Cortier
Fugue ..... Tartini
Melodie ..... Gluck
Romance, A major ..... Schumann
Moment Musical ..... Schubert-Kreisler
Rondo, G major ..... Mozart
Canzonetta Indienne ..... Dvorak-Kriesler
Three Caprices ..... Paganini
  B major—B minor—A minor

Kilby—Lemuel Kilby, basso, was the assisting artist at the Epiphany Church Organ Concert given by Dr. Hemington on Monday evening of this week, this being the one hundred and ninetieth of the series there by this splendid organist.

HEATHE GREGORY

Heathe Gregory, bass-baritone, will make his first reappearance in Chicago, after a seven years' absence, at the Sunday evening concert at Sinai Temple on November 23.

He will recite, with organ accompaniment, a novelty, still in manuscript, entitled "Angelus Domini." The words are by Adele Sargent of the English department of Syracuse University, and the music by Harry Leonard Vibbard, a well known organist, and also a member of the Syracuse University faculty. The composition has been dedicated to Mr. Gregory and this will mark its initial performance.

Heathe Gregory, while but thirty-three, has sung professionally for over twenty years, having been recognized as one of the three leading boy sopranos of the country when at fourteen he was engaged as soloist at Old Trinity, New York, under the direction of Dr. Messiter. Previous to that he had held the soprano solo position at the Church of the Advent, Boston, under S. B. Whitney.

When sixteen, his voice changed, and in less than a year it dropped from soprano with a three-octave range extending to the F above high C, to a bass with a low C to high F, or two and one-half octaves, allowing him to do both bass and baritone roles in opera and oratorio.

In addition to holding solo positions in the leading churches in New York, Brooklyn, Pittsburg and Syracuse, Mr. Gregory was fortunate to be the youngest singer ever engaged by the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York for a leading role, having made his debut as Vulcan in Gounod's "Philemon et Baucis" when but twenty-two years of age, the other parts being sung by Marcel Journet, bass, as Jupiter; Camille Seygard, soprano, as Baucis, and Salignac, tenor, as Philemon.

Among the artists with whom Mr. Gregory has appeared, either in concert or in joint recital, are Mmes. Schumann-Heink, Sembrich, Nordica, Suzanne Adams, Fritzi Scheff, Emma Nevada; Messrs. Edouard de Reszke, Van Rooy, Journet, Pablo Casals, Riccardo Martin.

In addition to receiving invaluable coaching at the hands of many of the leading artists of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Mr. Gregory has had for vocal masters J. Jerome Hayes of New York, Henry Russell of London, Giorgio Sulli of Florence and Duvernoy of Paris.

Mr. Gregory has had the honor to sing privately in London for his majesty King Edward VII.; the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Duchess of Marlborough, Duchess of Manchester, Mrs. John Mackay, Mrs. Frank Mackay, Lady Lister-Kaye; and in New York and Newport for Mrs. Astor, Countess Annie Leary, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Senator Hausbrough, Lord and Lady Pauncefote, Henry Flagler, and many others.

On December 6 he will give a recital at the Fortnightly Club for Mrs. Theodore Sheldon of Bellevue place, when she presents her daughter to society. In addition to this, Mr. Gregory has been so fortunate as to secure five other private engagements.

Thomas N. MacBurney
Baritone — Voice Production — Song Recitals
Three years assistant to King Clark
508-609 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago — Phone Harrison 6880

North Shore School of Music
Broadway and Leland Ave.
The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul
ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)
CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar
TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

APOLLO CLUB IN ELIJAH

After the magnificent performance of "Elijah," given last year by the Apollo Club and with the proof lately afforded by "The Creation" performance that the singers are this year also in remarkably fine shape, there was no surprise at the fact that "Elijah" as given on Monday evening should have been a tremendous success.

But, with all the prestige of the past and all the confidence of the present, it could not have been foreseen entirely how wholly admirable this performance was to be from the purely choral standpoint.

Such absolute quality in mass tone and such perfection of detail as were presented were wonderful to hear, and, while the quantity and power of the tone were at times almost overwhelming, it yet was true that this great ensemble was as pliable and flexible as a single voice almost and it obeyed the indications of the Wild baton in a way to insure joy to the listener in every number.

No less delightful than the glowing mass tone were the pianissimo effects and the daintiness of light and shade effects always ready to come to the front on demand.

Everybody knows the big chorus numbers and everybody knows that massive choral effect is well alternated with dramatic outbursts and moments of supreme tenderness in the magnificent Mendelssohn score.

To say, therefore, that the Apollo Club sang every chorus number ideally is to say it all and it is equivalent also to naming this club as without a superior—if indeed with a peer—in this country.

The organ—long an abomination and for the past year a positive disgrace to the Auditorium in the fact that it has been allowed so to deteriorate—at this concert assumed the role of a balky mule and insisted upon a continuous braying, which was only stopped (after ruining one of the tenor solos) by the complete disconnecting of the whole arrangement. Mr. Nelson is of invaluable aid to the chorus numbers when properly supplied with instrument, but the Apollo Club should utterly taboo the organ at the Auditorium in future concerts unless it is properly and thoroughly repaired.

The orchestra, as in "The Creation," was again admirable.

The choir of sixteen professional singers was a great delight and Master Edwin Wolf in the trying solos of the Youth was a perfect joy—absolutely impeccable as to pitch—and the trio, Mrs. Herdien, Mrs. Gannon and Miss Allen, sang the "Lift Thine Eyes" superbly.

"Elijah" belongs to the bass soloist so emphatically that the exponent of this part must be a great artist in order to make the performance a success. Such indeed was Herbert Witherspoon, who gave a dramatically temperamental reading to the part which has been excelled but seldom.

True, Mr. Witherspoon does not sing as once he did, and much fault may be found as to his tonal production, but this does not change the fact that he is still a great artist.

Music News, however, does dissent from the general chorus, which claims for him beauty of pronunciation of text. It is very true that he always has the spirit of the sentence in mind and invariably brings it to the front, but in his pronunciation of individual words he is decidedly slovenly.

Miss Hinkle, suffering from a cold, was yet delightful throughout her score and in "Hear Ye, Israel" she was convincing to the last degree

The contralto score in "Elijah" is a comparatively small one and not absolutely grateful throughout. However, Miss Rosalie Wirthlin, to whom this task was assigned, made of it everything that was possible. The "Woe Unto Them" aria was sung with distinction and in "O Rest in the Lord" Miss Wirthlin rose to a climax of tonal beauty and religious fervor, which, absolutely suited to the text, proved her to be an oratorio singer of the greatest worth and one who may be depended upon to fulfil any like obligation in splendid style.

ROSALIE WIRTHLIN

The dramatic music assigned "The Queen" was sung with fire and vigor and proved the contralto's power to dominate orchestra and chorus absolutely when this is a text requirement.

Mr. William Wheeler, whose limitations in "The Creation" were noted as those pertaining to lack of authority and style, was found in "Elijah" to possess a good voice for such a solo as "Then Shall the Righteous" but was again found deficient in all things demanding authority and vigor.

He lacks very much in sense of rhythm, a fault which makes him inadequate in small ensemble and which, on Monday, marred the beautiful quartet number near the close of the oratorio just as it marred the trios in "The Creation" and also, he has but little power to sustain a climax in his solo numbers.

These are faults of inexperience, evidently, and will be modified by time, probably before he comes again as a singer with the Apollo Club. C. E. W.

NORTH SIDE TURNER HALL

One admirable quality in the management of the North Side Turner Hall concerts is the invariable promptness with which they begin. Keep it up, gentlemen, even if it does catch the unlucky scribe who strolls in confidently to find that he is hearing the tail-end of the "Coronation March" of Meyerbeer, when he expected to hear its first note.

Mr. Boeppler is to be doubly congratulated on Sunday's concert. His forces were in much more responsive mood and easily followed his interpretative desire. By the time they had reached a very comprehensive arrangement of the "Faust" melodies there was an ensemble of delightful repose and elasticity. The airs which have stood a long test of time were given with a beautiful feeling for their impulse, and were listened to with an attention that made the passing moments notable.

The orchestra gave Mrs. Rose Lutiger Gannon a capital support and she gave a fine report of her splendid abilities in the "Blind Woman's Song" from "Gioconda." The voice was opulent and yet well controlled, and the dramatic content of the aria placed well in the foreground. For an encore to Miss Grove's deft accompaniment, she gave a brilliant "Spring" song of Foersters's. ALBERT COTSWORTH.

CONCERT GIVEN UNDER DIFFICULTIES

On last Monday, which will be remembered as the day of "The Big Snow" in Cleveland for many years, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra was scheduled for a concert under the direction of Mrs. Hughes in the Ohio city.

Most of the men of the Orchestra reached the city but their instruments were buried in the snow drifts enroute and so an impromptu concert of some sort became necessary to appease the demands of the ticket holders.

Amato was on hand with a piano accompanist and Miss Edith Thompson of Boston had arrived in Cleveland the day before in order to have a rehearsal with the

DELMA-HEIDE
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris
MAESTO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

ISAAC VAN GROVE
ACCOMPANIST AND COACH
716 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

Herbert E. Hyde
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
Studio 521 Kimball Hall, Tues. and Fri. Res. 6611 Woodlawn Av.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

JESSIE PIANISTE KING
Studio 416 -9 E. Van Buren Street

orchestra in Cleveland for her forthcoming appearance with them on last Saturday night.

Mrs. Hughes therefore came to Miss Thompson with a proposition to play a piano recital, alternate with songs by Amato, which at first it seemed impossible to accept because of a lack of concert clothes.

However, Mrs. Hughes set her wits to work and in a surprisingly short time she had evolved a proper costume and Miss Thompson was enabled to go on and play a recital to the intense delight of an audience which appreciated the offered treat all the more because of the fact that it was so entirely unexpected.

CHRISTINE MILLER IN CHICAGO

Miss Miller gave the following program at the Francis W. Parker School last Friday evening, with Miss Susie Ford accompanying:

My Heart Ever Faithful ..... Bach
Green Bushes ..... Somerset Folk Song
Where the Bee Sucks (Shakespeare) ..... De Arne
Bergere Legere (18th Century) ..... Bergerette
Jeunes Fillettes (18th Century) ..... Bergerette
Er der herrlichste von allen ..... Schumann
Nachtigall ..... Brahms
Der Schmied ..... Brahms
Widmung ..... Schumann
Fruhlingsnacht ..... Schumann
He Shall Feed His Flock ..... Handel
Gae to Sleep ..... Fisher
The Sea (Wordsworth) ..... Grant-Schaefer
Dedicated to Miss Miller
A Valentine ..... McMillan
Written for and dedicated to Miss Miller
A Birthday (Rosetti) ..... Whiting
The Children's Prayer
Bei'm Schneewetter
Schlecht' Wetter ..... Max Reger
Waldeinsamkeit

MRS. WILLIAMS' STUDIO

A song recital will be given at the Studio of Mrs. Stacey Williams in Kimball Hall on Wednesday evening, November 26, by Miss Julie Manierre. The program will be as follows:

Aria, "L' Enfant Prodigue" ..... Debussy
Madrigale ..... Vincent D' Indy
Romance ..... Debussy
Italienischeslied ..... Hugo Wolf
Nachtgang ..... Richard Strauss
Recitative and Aria, di Lia ..... Debussy
Across the Hills ..... Rummel
A Birthday ..... Woodman
Spirit Flower ..... Campbell-Tipton
We Two Together ..... Kernochan
Mifanwy ..... Forster
Will o' the Wisp ..... Spross
Aria, "Idomeneus" ..... Mozart

ALBERT LINDQUEST AT CARPENTER CHAPEL

Albert Lindquest had no occasion for disappointment in audience or reception when he gave his recital at Carpenter Chapel on the 11th instant in the course presented by Chicago Theological Seminary. He was in excellent voice and ran the gamut of the songs he had chosen with beautiful tonal quality and admirable sense of interpretation. Mr. Phelps Cowan was an excellent accompanist and seconded the vocalist reliably. ALBERT COTSWORTH.

Stern.—Mrs. Edith Kramer Stern, soprano, will appear in a musicale to be given by the Fortnightly Club on Saturday evening, in the Red Room of the Hotel La Salle.

A. G. O. SERVICE AT ST. JAMES

A press of engagements and the pressure on the pages of this week's "News" prevents the comprehensive report of a fine service arranged by Mr. John W. Norton, organist and choirmaster of St. James' Episcopal Church on Sunday afternoon. I heard Dr. Francis Hemington do two movements of the Karg-Elert Sonata. The andante is an illuminative bit of writing, strikingly original and altogether admirable. So, too, are the closing strophes of the final movements. In between is over-elaboration of a theme to its very shreds and patches, and to everlasting weariness by the way the teeth of the musical dog shake the little rat of a theme. Dr. Hemington did all any man could with it, and he was splendidly poised all through the number His repose and authority are ever admirable.

The canticles were Tours', and the "Nunc Dimittis" is a perfect part writing, much of it unaccompanied. The choir did it with a good sense of its intrinsic merit, and I left the building with the fine harmonies of the "Gloria" ringing in my ears. Regretfully were missed the numbers to be played by Miss Hodge and Mr. Belknap. Fine congregation present.

ALBERT COTSWORTH.

KNOX CONSERVATORY

The musical season opened with a violin recital by Henry H. Busse, a member of the Conservatory faculty. He was assisted by three of his colleagues, James Mac C. Weddell, pianist, and Ernest B. Chamberlain, baritone.

On October 23, Miss Josephine M. Mizer, dramatic soprano, another member of the Knox faculty, gave an interesting program of modern songs, assisted by William F. Bentley, accompanist.

The first number of the artists' course was given by the Zoellner quartet on the 28th of October. The evening was one of pleasure.

LEAVITT STREET CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Following is the postludial recital to be given by Miss Alice Deal next Sunday night after the evening service:

Entree du Cortege ..... Dubois
An Autumn Sketch ..... Brewer
Prelude, B minor ..... Bach
Communion in G ..... Batiste
Fanfare d' Orgue ..... Shelley

Chicago Piano College.—A concert will be given on Tuesday evening, November 25, at Kimball Hall, when the following pupils will appear in a diversified and very fine program of piano numbers — Donna Clough, Agnes Davidson, Elizabeth W. Leitch, Ada Marie McCarty, Frieda Friedman, Fanchon Watt, Edna Brownell, Bessie M. McAllister, Irene Greider, Frances E. Hanson, Verall D. Wright, Helen M. Browne, Elsie M. Gaumond and Ariel E. Maxwell.

Hess.—Mr. Hans Hess has inaugurated an Ensemble Class at the American Conservatory in which his great experience and fine artistry are available for violinists and pianists as well as for 'cellists.

"Modern Methods of Voice Training" vs. "That of Old Italian Masters"

By PROF. B. DE BERNYZ

Progress is the god at whose shrine every art lover worships. But imaginery progress, or progress based upon fancy is not the substantial thing which we seek; for the reason that we desire to add something to the history of vocal art and hand something of vital import down to posterity.

The statement occurring in an article entitled "Modern Methods in Voice Training" in the Century Opera Weekly, of October 16, 1913, that it has been the custom for many centuries to "guess" at the correct way of producing tone, is rather a sweeping statement. Do the historical records of the masters and their knowledge of the vocal art, and the results obtained in the past ages justify the statement that they were content with guessing at the technic of an art which they had mastered according to the standards of their time?

PROF. BERNARD DE BERNYZ

Lives there a man in this twentieth century who has undeniable statistics of indisputable data upon which to base the statement that such masters as Porpora, who became, as early as 1719, a member of the faculty of the Conservatory of San Onofrio, Italy, and who is considered and treated by standard authority as the greatest singing teacher that ever lived, and whose pupils, Farinelli, Caffarelli, Mingotti, Uberti, Tosi, and other famous singers, bear witness to his perfect technical training, had not a reasoning basis upon which to work?

Add to this greatest of all teachers Bordogni, Lablache, Lamperti, Garcia, Stockhausen, Stoltzenberg, Orgeni and similar masters of the vocal art, who have to their credit genuine stars in the field of art. Is it to be assumed that the vocal success obtained by these artists was the result of guesswork?

It is not consistent with any manner of good judgment to be guilty of the assumption that men with a breadth of intellect equal to any of these masters would grope blindly on for the period of a lifetime, guessing at the fundaments and the basic principles underlying the thing of paramount importance in their lives?

The apparent failure of their pupils to grasp a thorough understanding of the reasons for certain things upon which the foundation of their vocal art rested, was not an infallible indication that the master himself had not mastered and fully comprehended these fundamental principles.

Manuel Garcia has been held up as the pioneer of scientific teaching of singing. He was, but he taught singing, not surgery. Sir Charles Santley in his "Art of Singing" says:

"I was a pupil of his (Garcia) in 1858 and a friend of his while he lived, and in all the conversations I had with him I never heard him say a word about larynx or pharynx, glottis or any other organ used in the production and emission of the voice. He was perfectly acquainted with their functions, but he used his knowledge for his own direction, not to parade it before his pupils."

Thus it is seen that those who had really mastered the art of singing, and in connection with it the science as well, neither felt under the necessity of prating of their superior learning, nor of challenging other and lesser lights in the vocal firmament. The supreme love for their cherished art and the desire to maintain the most exalted standards, coupled with the fear of being misunderstood and misinterpreted, and their seemingly inexplicable methods being misconstrued, precluded the possibility, from their viewpoint, of going more into the profundity of tone technic.

To attack the old Italian singing (Masters) knowledge of anatomy and physiology of the voice, Garcia included, requires unsurpassed courage or unbelievable temerity. In support of which statement we beg to submit the following excerpt from standard authority:

About 1825 Garcia undertook work in a military hospital and became interested in the study of medicine, which led him into special investigations of the vocal organs. His medical researches enabled him to apply scientific principles to the training of the voice, and to base his system on a thorough knowledge of the physiological laws governing voice production, both natural and artificial.

In 1840 he sent to the French Academy a valuable treatise entitled "Memoire sur

BONCI
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York
Knabe Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER
CONTRALTO
Personal Address, 1003 Heberton St., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Management Haensel & Jones, Aeolian Hall, New York

MARIE NARELLE AUSTRALIAN SOPRANO
Management SUTORIUS
ABBIE S. FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall, Sole Representative
No. 1 West 34th St.

MR. & MRS JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS
Address 330 West 58th St.
NEW YORK CITY

PIANIST BACHAUS
Management Loudon Charlton
BALDWIN PIANO USED

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address—
Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER
AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av.
NEW YORK

BISPHAM
All communications to
Private Address 44 West 44th St.
NEW YORK

ROSALIE WIRTHLIN
CONTRALTO
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 WEST 34th STREET NEW YORK

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5169

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL Phone Harrison 5919

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

Katherine Howard Ward
Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist
917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. DeYoung Baritone
TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

HEATHE GREGORY
BASS-BARITONE
Recitals Concert Oratorio
616 East 49th Street

HANS HESS 'CELLIST
American Conservatory Telephone Lincoln 7917

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

la Voix Humaine," for which he received many congratulations, and which, it is said, may be called the foundation of all similar investigations since.

Seven years later he was appointed professor of singing at the Paris Conversatory, and published the same year a second work, "Traite Complet de l' art du Chant," which was subsequently translated into German, Italian and French.

In 1854 he invented the laryngoscope and this won for him the honorary degree of doctor of medicine from the University of Konigsberg. The king of England conferred upon him the honorary commandership of the Royal Victoria Order; the German Emperor conferred upon him the Great Gold Medal of Science, which only four other scientists had received. These facts speak for themselves and prove that the old Italian masters understood fully the anatomy and physiology of the voice.

The three most prominent kinds of interference referred to in the article of October 16, are but three of many kinds, and to tell the pupil of these interferences is but to confuse the ambitious aspirant.

Interference is caused, of course, by lack of proper breath control and lack of relaxation of the muscles of the entire physique. The singer raises his head in the exact fashion of a rooster, when taking a high note, or he shrugs up the shoulders, stands on tiptoe, spreads the fingers and distorts the body generally. This is all the result of the absence of perfect breath control. It is vastly more important to aid the pupil in overcoming these faults than to classify the kinds of interference.

As to the elimination of low and middle tones as a beginning, this, on its face, is at variance with nature and the natural speaking laws. The fact that the middle tones are employed in speaking renders it less difficult to use these tones for the purpose of vocal practice in the beginning.

Dr. Fillerbrown in "Resonance in Singing and Speaking" says, "The singing and speaking tones are identical, produced by the same organs in the same way, and developed by the same training."

To commence with a high "C" or other extremely high notes, is to put the pupil under the neeessity of straining before he makes his first tone. There is no avenue of escape from this result. Fling some one who has never been in a body of water into deep water, he will flounder and come to grief. Throw the same individual upon the ground and he is perfectly at home—in his natural element. The same principle applies to the above proposition.

Start the pupil in a range where his speaking voice has been accustomed to play and he encounters no diffieulty in reaching his tones. From the middle range the voice develops a higher and lower range. The middle range serves as a foundation from which we work both ways. In this way I extend the range of the human voice until there seems to be no limit. For instance, I, a barytone, reach with perfect ease "E" above high "C" with tenor robusto quality, and "B" below low "C" with basso profundo quality. Many of my pupils sing three octaves and more with perfect ease. I don't pronounce these facts extraordinary. Why, vocal history teaches us that about two and three hundred years ago, during the period of Mozart and especially in the time when Porpora, Farinelli, etc., were living, many singing masters could do the same and more, and if the author of "Modern Methods in Voice Training" says that such is not the case and is eontrary in his opinion, it is an evident fact that his knowledge of vocal history is anything but deeply founded.

It, apparently, is quite incomprehensible that the Italian people need the application of a method any different from that of other nationalities, as contended by the author of the article "Modern Methods in Voice Training." Unless, perhaps the Italian anatomy be constructed along other and more vocally-inclined lines than other anatomies. This we have never known to be advocated by standard authority, or otherwise.

The Italian language employs the same number of vowels as other languages, and upon what does the author of the artiele referred to base the rare statement that Italian singers are more exempt from straining their vocal organs than those of other nationalities? Do not our Italian artists suffer from throat affections and contribute largely toward the support of throat specialists? What other inference is to be drawn than that they are subject to the same faults as other singers? It seems that we here arrive at a hair-splitting discrimination.

It is quite beyond the pale of the average comprehension to understand how it is possible for an individual to discern by the flare of a match placed in front of an open mouth more of the vocal mechanism, and to classify the voice—soprano, contralto, etc.,—than by hearing the voice, determining its quality and possibilities, as is contended by the above author.

The quality of the voice does not depend upon the throat alone, but also upon the resonance chambers, the shape of the throat, the shape of the soft and the hard palate and the condition of the lungs. Every physician will tell you that it is farcical to attempt to classify the voice by observing the throat with the naked eye.

It seems a perfectly orderly question to inquire how one is to connect the tone with air which he has previously permitted to escape through the nostrils, as stated in "Modern Methods in Voice Training"? Common judgment would suggest that the instant air makes exit through the nostrils all control is forever lost. The air over which we have not perfect control is unavailable for tone production, and proper pure tone is only air eorrectly directed.

It oceurs to me that in order to work reformation or to revolutionize tone production, it will be compulsory that we pursue a eourse widely different from that suggested in "Modern Methods in Voiee Training," appearing in the "Century Opera Weekly" of October 16, 1913.

———♯♯♯———

Scionti.—Silvio Seionti, pianist, will give a piano recital at Louisville, Ky., on November 25 and play throughout Kansas and Nebraska during the next month—later he makes a trip through South Dakota, Kansas and Texas and in January has extensive bookings in Mississippi and Alabama.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

San Francisco Sierra News:

"A musician of wonderful power."

The Elderly Person

If it were not criticism repeating itself, after the manner of history, there might be some distress at the manner in which Mr. Benson's presentation of Shakespeare is belabored unanimously by the daily press. The comments have angered some patrons, annoyed others, perplexed just as many, and scared away the majority of the persons who waited "to see what the papers had to say." But when did critics ever agree on Shakespeare's many sided characters and as to how they should be portrayed? Have there not been tomes written about "Hamlet," whether he was really insane or only feigned insanity to disguise his plans. "Richard Third," was he a blood-thirsty villain of melodrama or a deep schemer? Was Macbeth a coward at heart or did his conscience make him one? What was Iago's purpose in arousing Othello's jealousy? How should Rosalind wear her doublet and hose? With a swagger or timidly? How rough should Petruchio be in his pretended harshness? These and numberless other points have been battled over royally and it seems are just as much unsettled now as when the Elderly Person used to take sides in the debating clubs which prevailed in his school days. Strange to say, we really thought that we settled them then. Mr. Benson seems to have offended chiefly and most seriously by his "Benedick" in "Much Ado about Nothing," the initial play presented. But the fault is only the old line of argument once more in a new dress. His conception differed from standards formed either by observing some actor who made the right impression, or else from an ideal imbued from much reading of the play and comment thereon. This unfortunate first estimate of the reviewers "put him in bad" as the boys on Halsted street say, and stinging criticism followed. Dampened interest also ensued, despite the modified judgments given later on, which have finally grown to be decidedly approving, now that the mischief is done and the feast spoiled.

It would seem as if the reviewers had hardly been true to their trust. No matter how radically Mr. Benson might differ from preconceived standards, he was entitled not only to a fair hearing but to a full one before such sharp and damaging reports were put forth. He came with credentials that could not be manufactured and with an assured standing that excluded any suggestion that he could be a charlatan. Furthermore, stress was laid upon the excellencies of his presentation of Shakespeare as a whole rather than his exploitation of himself or any member of his troupe. To apply to him the measure of Booth or Irving was hardly equitable.

The Elderly Person has seen the players in but one play. It was "Richard Second," seen for the first time. It was so stirring and stimulating that the years dropped away magically, and he found himself young again and impulsively following the pageantry and splendid pomp and circumstance of kings and princes. And the running music of the text itself, to say nothing of the beautiful English spoken. It quivered with the inexpressible charm of endless melody. It rose and fell with swelling modulations of harmony. It vibrated with passion, it melted with tenderness, it stormed with anger and it floated with gentleness. It bubbled with laughter and it hurt with pain. It swept along tumultuously and it rippled along like a brook. It had the frosts of winter and the sunlight of summer. It appealed to heroism, to patriotism, to loyalty and devotion and it couched rebuke and impatience and fear and cowardice. It was a vibrating shower of beauty and it saturated a receptive soul to repletion with new richness.

Miladi assured the Elderly Person over and over again that he was behaving like a boy, but her endeavor was futile. The remark that he had also been demonstrative a few nights previous, and attracted attention didn't work any reform either. That indiscretion seems perfectly justifiable, for it consisted in stuffing his handkerchief into his mouth to smother the laughter that would well up when the orchestra played at Schoenberg's "Five Little Pieces."

In one of the intermissions of the play an actor acquaintance slipped into a vacant seat nearby to voice his satisfaction at the performance. It was his judgment that he had seldom seen a play in which the atmosphere fairly radiated and made the times and places to really glow with recreation. He voiced the secret of the enjoyment. Mr. Benson has the movement unmolested by the clutter of over elaborate settings. The play's the thing. At times only hangings form the background for scenes. While these may leave something to the imagination, it does not distress as does the waste of time, and the break of all connections of the incidents in the more ornate setting. Neither are they so bald and barren as were the old "back drops," as they used to call them, which represented just as readily and easily "a street in London" as "a field near Canterbury." And there was music with a meaning going on all the time. The scenes unfolded, the personages lived, and struggled, and stormed and fretted and schemed and failed and passed away like an animated picture. And the weaving colors wound in and out and the breathed or spoken words crowded ever more and more musically, until the final curtain fell and shut out the sun shining on a London street and upon the bier of a murdered king with his conqueror placing his own sword upon the silent breast, reverently uncovering his head, and kneeling, as he promised himself and his subjects that he would strive to reign nobly. It was all glorious romance and appealing imagery. It fixed itself in the memory firmly and the Elderly Person felt that it would come back again and again to relieve in pleasant moment. It was as complete as were those wonderful chrysanthemum blooms at the Flower Show. Great heads of snowy white they were, which hung over with the weight of many petals. Each seemed a solid ball of untouched snow, until privileged hands caressed them and felt their living softness and luciousness. And deep down in every heart of them, if the eye looked closely, could be seen a deep glow of lovely color, delicate yellow or pink, which made them pulsate anew because of the hidden beauty. In some such way the Shakespeare of the Benson players glowed and vibrated with warmth throughout the scenes depicted.

The Elderly Person looked about him, as he often does at such times, and wondered where the numberless students of music were. Mr. Watt's recent editorial anent the lack of general culture among students was a much needed comment. Here is opportunity of a rare sort for young people fitting themselves for a profession that can only be successful if vitalized by imagination. It is our unfortunate custom not to take the theater seriously. We ask it for amusement and relaxation rather than for larger views and surveys. Too many students miss this sort of opportunities and find time to follow the lead of others whose inclination is toward the superficial. Perhaps a young woman is fitting herself to be a good church singer, or teacher by hearing the various musical comedies, but it is open to discussion if it is time well spent. Shakespeare usually spells ruin to managers and is carefully avoided unless reenforced by a star of much magnitude. But if all Mr. Benson's doing of the historical plays are on a par with the "Richard

STEINDEL
ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Violinist Brokaw Power-Meyer Conservatory WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

COLLINS J. Basso-Cantante
EUDORA MOODY SOPRANO
BROCK
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

Grant Tenor KIMBELL
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg.

AGNES LEIST-BEEBE ORATORIO SONG RECITAL PUPILS
SOPRANO
509 Kimball Hall and 3985 Drexel Boulevard

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

Second," which so set the Elderly blood in motion, they are something to enthrall any broad mind and healthy body and give him a tingle that he won't forget for a long time. Unless youthful blood is less sensitive than heretofore, it ought to feel that thrill more than once. To test this statement the Elderly Person is going again and perhaps again.

To revert once more to our text, there is a humorous side to the attitude taken by the critics. ' A man and his wife had the courage to send a note to one paper, worded somewhat like this: "We do not like the way your Mr. Blank writes up the Avon Players." The note was printed without comment, but elsewhere a little stab at the idea of the players being written "up" instead of "down," was indulged in. At such times there is no possible chance for a change of base. What man is there among them who having made a mistake in print will confess the error of his ways? The rather will he shut his one eye still closer and following the slender path seen in the narrowed vision be the more sure that because he does not see them, there are no other roads leading towards the same goal. THE ELDERLY PERSON.

NEWMAN TRAVEL TALK

"Paris," especially its art, its life and its fashions, will be the subject of E. M. Newman's second "Traveltalk" at Orchestra Hall next Wednesday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon, November 26, 28 and 29. So many things of interest, in the French capital, have hitherto been overlooked by travel-lecturers, that Mr. Newman is enabled to present entirely new phases of life in that deservedly popular city. His new color views and motion pictures will bring vividly before his fellow-travelers the wonderful squares, parks and boulevards, with their gay cafes and cabarets—so unalterably associated with the "City of Pleasure." But in contrast to the Montmartre, the "real Latin Quarter," will be visited—its artists and models struggling for recognition, in an environment unique in all the world. Then the art galleries, including the Louvre and its treasures will be reproduced, and those places of historical interest, every foot of which recalls some vital incident, will be revealed in full detail. In the suburbs, Robinson and its tree restaurants; Versailles and Fontainebleau—their wonderful palaces and gardens—were the objects of Mr. Newman's cameras. Returning to the city, Mr. Newman will take up the commercial side—the department stores and the shops of the world's leading designers of garments for women, showing the mannequins wearing a magnificent array of the latest styles, down to the minute. There will be something to appeal to everyone, and it is to this quality of universal appeal that Paris owes its remarkable popularity and the fact that it is the favorite subject of all travel-lectures. The city is always new—always startling—and never fatiguing.

♮ ♮ ♮

Bargman.—Miss Sylvia Bargman gives a half hour piano recital at the Howard Theater every Sunday morning as a preliminary to the series of lectures being given there.

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Friday, November 21

Orchestra Hall, 2:15, Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

New First Congregational Church, 8:15. Gaul's "Holy City;" united choirs and soloists. Auditorium Recital Hall, 8:15. Faculty concert, Cosmopolitan School of Music.

Garfield Boulevard M. E. Church, 8:15. Choir concert.

Saturday, November 22

Kimball Hall, 3:30. American Conservatory concert.

Auditorium Recital Hall, 3. Cosmopolitan School concert.

Sunday, November 23

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30. Piano Recital, Allen Spencer.

Studebaker Theater, 3:30. Kneisel Quartet.

Howard, 3:00. Violin program. Pupils of Max Fischel.

Orchestra Hall, 3:30, Violin recital. Fritz Kreisler.

North Side Turner Hall, 3:00. William Boeppler Orchestra. Rene Lund, soloist.

Lincoln Turner Hall, 3:00, Martin Ballmann Orchestra.

Little Theater 8:15, Baroness von Rottenthal.

Sinai Temple, 8:15. Orchestra concert. Heathe Gregory, soloist.

Fullerton Hall, 8:00, lecture-recital, "Hansel & Gretel."

Monday, November 24

The Auditorium, 8:15, "La Tosca."

Tuesday, November 25

The Auditorium, 8:15, "Gioconda."

Austin Baptist Church, 8:15. Class concert.

Kimball Hall, 8:15. Chicago Piano College, concert.

First M. E. Church, Oak Park, 8:15, song recital, Charles W. Clark.

Wednesday, November 26

The Auditorium, 8:15, "Don Quichotte."

Thursday, November 27

Orchestra Hall, 2:15. Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

The Auditorium, 2:15, "Mme. Butterfly."

Memorial Church of Christ, 8:15, concert.

The Auditorium, 8:15, "Walkuere."

Friday, November 28

Orchestra Hall, 2:15, Symphony Orchestra.

Saturday, November 29

The Auditorium, 2:15, "Aida."

Orchestra Hall, 8:15, Symphony Orchestra.

The Auditorium, 8:15. "Natoma."

♯ ♯ ♯

Effa Ellis.—Effa Ellis Perfield spent Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in Chicago at the Auditorium Hotel and was busy with examinations and interviews every hour of her stay. Her recent trip to the East was successful throughout and was the means of introducing her method to many teachers and in many studios.

♯ ♯ ♯

Haight.—Miss Irma Haight, soprano, is spending the winter at Los Angeles. Her address is the Miraflors, 1420 Frower street.

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

AT THE BOSTON OPERA HOUSE

The fifth season of the Boston Opera company will be ushered in at the Boston Opera House on Monday night, November 24, the initial offering being "The Jewels of the Madonna."

With its spectacular scenes, its series of brilliant pictures of Neapolitan life, its melodious score, and a cast which enlists almost the entire strength of the Italian section of the organization, its choice for the premiere seems a most happy one.

♮ ♮ ♮

With the Music Schools

Samuel Rosen, of 17 Lawrence Park, Roxbury, and Ignace Nowicki, of Bronx, New York City, were tied in the competition yesterday afternoon (November 10), at the New England Conservatory of Music for the Sears prize in violin playing. This prize, which has been offered for the first time this season by Richard Sears of Boston, consists of $25 in gold. Eight members of the Conservatory's violin course entered the composition. The judges, Messrs. Joseph Adamowski, George W. Chadwick and Wallace Goodrich, were agreed that the playing of Rosen and Nowicki was so essentially on a par that the prize must be divided between them. Both prize winners are members of the Conservatory orchestra.

George Proctor, of the New England Conservatory faculty, was soloist in a concert by the Conservatory Orchestra given in Jordan Hall Friday evening, November 14. Wallace Goodrich, dean of the faculty, conducted. The pianoforte soli were Chopin's "Berceuse" and, to the great interest of the audience, the Tschaikowsky-Pabst waltz from the ballet music of "Eugen Onegin."

Mr. Goodrich conducted the orchestra through the overture to Mozart's "Magic Flute;" Rimsky-Korsakoff's pianoforte Concerto in C sharp minor; Theme and Variations from Beethoven's Septet, Op. 20, and Schumann's Symphony in D minor, No. 4, Op. 120.

The recital on Saturday afternoon, November 15, gave opportunity for public appearance to several students who have not previously been heard in Recital Hall. It includes two ensemble numbers, a scherzo from Beethoven's Pianoforte trio in E flat major, Op. 1, No. 1, by Isabel Clark, of Portland, Ore.; Samuel Diamond, Malden, and Ora Larthard, Malden; and the Presto non assai, from Brahms' Pianoforte Trio in C minor, Op. 101, executed by Carolyn Tagen, Dorchester; Ignace Nowicki, New York City, and Miss Larthard. The soloists were Elsie Fulton, Malden; Henry Kelly, Allston; Esther Wegarth, Lynn; Eva R. Semple, West Somerville, Mary J. Frederickson, Roxbury, and Mary A. Noyes, Vinalhaven, Me.

♮ ♮ ♮

The recital in Huntington Chambers Hall Saturday afternoon, November 15, opened with an exhibition by thirty members from the first year children's classes. These pupils have had nine lessons and their progress in music study will be of interest and value to parents and others who have the education of children in their charge. Solo pieces were played by Dorothea Hile, Elmer A. Rietzel and Spencer Brugh. An ensemble class presented the "Hungarian" by Keler-Bela. The recital closed with the Paderewski Concerto in A minor, played by Miss Anne Hathaway Gulick and Mr. Carl Faelten. Miss Gulick is the accomplished daughter of Professor Charles Burton Gulick of Harvard University.

Miss Ethel Gardner, class of 1910, Faelten pianoforte school, has been appointed to take charge of the normal piano department in the State Normal and Industrial College at Greensboro, N. C. Since graduation, Miss Gardner has taught at the Faelten School, and more recently has had a very successful class of piano pupils at her home town, Bryan, Ohio. She will enter upon her new duties immediately.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Salmon's Recital

The Boston debut concert of Miss Bessie Talbot Salmon, took place in Jordan Hall, Monday night, November 10.

She was assisted by Miss Alice MacDowell, pianist, and J. Angus Winter was her accompanist.

The stage was tastefully decorated with palms, and at frequent intervals during the evening beautiful floral testimonies bore their message of encouragement to the program givers.

Miss Talbot has recently returned from European study. Her teacher abroad in stage deportment was May Mansfield (I believe recently married), and she studied singing with Oscar Seagle and other well-known instructors.

That she has ideals of the right sort, a glance at the program below will surely attest. With more experience, and riper years, a certain graciousness of manner will become more positive and enlist the warmer sympathies of her audience.

Versatility of mood, too, and songs displaying less of the upper reaches of the voice may profitably be ventured.

Interpretation, by and by, will be less of the student and more of the artist, and so more spontaneous and unrestrained.

Miss MacDowell played interestingly but sometimes leaped from one phrase to another too rapidly. The Chopin "Nocturne," pleased the most.

Mr. Winter acquitted himself with credit.

♮ ♮ ♮

Notes

Miss Bessie Talbot Salmon has been chosen soprano in the quartet of the Melrose Congregational Church.

Mr. E. Cutler, Jr., is the director and the Sunday vesper programs include such works as "The Redemption," given November 16, and others, sometimes with orchestra assistance.

Her concert engagements for this month and December are: November 6, Providence Art Club; November 13, Walden Musical Club; November 18, Chromatic Club; November 19, Newton Highlands concert, November 20, Auburndale; December 1, West Newton Club; December 10, Lewiston, Me.; December 11, Portland, Me.; December 16, Douglas of Revolution.

Uriah Sumter Richards, basso profundo, assisted by Wesley I. Howard, violinist, and Miss Theresa E. Stubbs, accompanist, give a song recital in Steinert Hall, Tuesday night, November 25, at 8:15.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Sunday Concerts

An orchestra, made up of Symphony players, in Mozart's "Magic Flute" overture, furnished a delightful prelude on Sunday afternoon, November 9, to as gracious, refined, limpid, delicate and rippling singing as it ever becomes one's privilege to hear. It was the concert given by Frieda Hempel, of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, and the conductor and piano accompanist was Otto Urack. The audience was quick to grasp the significance of such artistic work and responded with every demonstration of pleasure.

On the same afternoon in the vast auditorium of the Mechanics Building, 300 instrumentalists, conducted by Emil Mollenhauer, gave a grand orchestra concert that must be considered as unique. It was distinguished even more by the excellence of the performance itself than by the mere largeness of the undertaking. Through an admirable control of his forces Mr. Mollenhauer gave clear expression to his interpretative faculties. Naturally, such works as Wagner's prelude to "Lohengrin" and Tschaikowsky's Overture "Solenelle" (1812) were overpoweringly effective, and the extra brass band and the bells in the latter number contributed tones that were not alone inspiring but even more than that, even stunning.

The assisting artist was Mr. Earl Cartwright, whose large resonant tones in the Bizet "Toreador's Song" and other solos resounded through the building.

♮ ♮ ♮

The American Guild of Organists Recital

The New Old South Church in Copley Plaza, as many familiar with Boston will recall, is one of the pieces of beauty in a

TITTA RUFFO'S master
LELIO CASINI, recommends
HAMILTON
HOPKINS
(Casini's Assistant for 4 Years in Milan)
710 Fine Arts Building
CHICAGO

Florence Austin

Montreal Symphony Orchestra

October 19, 1913

PRESS CLIPPINGS FROM MONTREAL, CANADA

"The soloist of the first concert, Miss Florence Austin, violinist-virtuoso, was given an ovation. With what talent and what art she made her instrument sing! Accomplished artist, Miss Austin merits the very greatest praise for the artistic manner in which she interprets the works of the great masters." . . . . La Patrie, Monday, October 20, 1913. (Translation.)

"We come now to congratulate the soloist, Miss Florence Austin, violinist of very great talent. She played ravishingly and her magnificent performance literally captivated us." . . . La Presse, Monday, October 20, 1913. (Translation.)

"Miss Florence Austin, the first American to win the first prize of the Royal Conservatory of Liege, Belgium, chose the Wieniawski Concerto in D Minor for her violin solo. She played the entire concerto and her technic was splendid, and the whole effect very pleasing." . . . . Daily Star, Monday, October 20, 1913.

"The soloist was Miss Florence Austin, and she rendered Wieniawski's Concerto in D Minor entire. She showed that she possesses wonderful breadth of tone and her rendition of the finale was especially admirable. Throughout Miss Austin displayed wonderful technic." . . . . . The Gazette, October 20, 1913.

"Miss Florence Austin, the violin soloist, showed by the performance of Wieniawski's Concerto in D Minor as also in a number of lighter pieces that she is an artist. She bows well, possesses a good technic and especially in the slower movements is mistress of an intensely luscious and melodiously legato tone. She was recalled several times, and had to give the inevitable encores."—The Daily Mail, October 20, 1913.

Anna Groff - Bryant

Studios of Vocal Art

Ethel Bell Reeves Assistant

606 Fine Arts Building Chicago, Ill.

Phone Wabash 1051

city already famed for its architecture. This church was filled with an attentive but somewhat disappointed audience on Thursday evening, November 13, to listen to an organ recital given by Mr. John Hermann Loud, F. A. G. O.

♮ ♮ ♮

Piano Recital by Ernst Perabo

On his sixty-eighth birthday, Mr. Ernst Perabo, assisted by Mr. Frederick Mahr, violinist, gave a piano recital that musically was refreshing. An audience of invited guests assembled at the Chickering warerooms to listen to a program built on lines that are going out of fashion. Nothing of the ultra school of composition found place at this time, and it became a delight to listen to music of another century when touch and interpretation were so well in accord with the spirit of Bach and Handel. From infancy Mr. Perabo has been a student of the classic style, and all the delicacy and gentle refinement of the man himself tinted his playing of this old music with an elegance, charm and delicate flavor. The audience was wholly in sympathy with the player and his fine warmth of expression, his clear, ringing tone, and masterful way of blending color values, especially in his fugue playing. What has been said respecting Mr. Perabo may also apply to his excellent assisting artist. The program was as follows:

Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue.....Bach
Sonata, violin and piano, Op. 25.....Verhey
Prelude in C, Fugue in A minor (Bk. 1, W-T Clavichord).....Bach
Transcription, "And He Shall Feed His Flock".....Handel
Violin Concerto, A minor.....Bach

♮ ♮ ♮

Service Lists at the Advent and at Trinity

Several noteworthy items were sung at the Church of the Advent on Sunday, November 9, namely, Rheinberger's "Communion, in A Major;" Rheinberger's "Save Me, O Lord;" "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis, in E," Parker, and "O That I Knew Where I Might Find Him" (men's voices) Whelpley.

The music at Trinity on the same day included Te Deum and Benecitus, in E, Garrett; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, in B Flat, Stainer, and "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling-place," Brahms. At the evensong organ recital, Mr. Ernest Mitchell played "Toccata, in F," Bach; "Pastoral," Foote, and "Chorale, in B Minor," Franck.

S. H. L.

♮ ♮ ♮

Paulist Choristers—The Paulist Choristers, 75 boys and 50 men, Father William J. Finn, musical director, will give a concert Sunday afternoon, November 30, at The Studebaker, under the management of F .Wight Neumann. Master Edward Donovan, senior solo soprano of the famous Grace Church, New York City, will be the boy soloist participating in the program of the Choristers.

♮ ♮ ♮

Minneapolis Orchestra.—On last Friday at the young people's concert of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Mr. Emil Oberhoffer presented a program of "Music from the North," including Norway, Sweden and Finland. Future "National" programs will be concerned with music of Russia, Bohemia, Poland, Hungary, France, Germany and America.

LOS ANGELES

The People's Orchestra last Sunday afternoon gave a program of much interest. Miss Blanche Ruby was the soprano soloist and gave good satisfaction in the rendition of the "Shadow Dance," from Meyerbeer's "Dinorah." She possesses a voice of sweetness and flexibility. Roland's "Love I Have Wandered" was sung as an encore with orchestra. The interest was centered in our local composer's work, "The Light That Failed," in a fine symphonic representation by Mr. Charles E. Pemberton, who portrayed in telling tonal effects the great story by Kipling. The work had a hearing by the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra last year. The audience demanded Mr. Pemberton's appearance on the stage to receive their plaudits of intense appreciation.

Cherubini's overture to "Medea," and Rossini's overture to "Semiramide," and La Combe's "Spring Serenade," were the other selections well interpreted under the baton of Conductor Lebegott.

The American Guild of Organists of Southern California gave their eleventh public service recital, at Temple B'nai B'rith, in connection with a heavy Jewish service, which was rendered by a quartet composed of Mrs. Celia Davidson, soprano; Miss Kie Julie Christin, contralto; Mr. G. Haydn Jones, tenor, and Mr. Edwin House, baritone, in which they gave splendid solo work and concerted part singing in Hebrew and English texts.

Mr. Earnest Douglass, organ soloist, and Erskine H. Mead, the organist of the temple, were heard to excellent advantage. Julius Kranz, violinist; W. H. Mead, flutist, and Mrs. Elsa Von Grofe Menasco, 'cellist, were most effective in a concerted number, orchestrated.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mme. Frances Alda, from the Metropolitan Opera Company, opened the second series of the Behymer Philharmonic course and sang to a good audience, winning their hearty applause from first to last.

♮ ♮ ♮

DES MOINES, IA.

To Sidney Silber fell the lot of launching the Des Moines concert season in a masterly piano recital the middle of October. Mr. Silber played a most pretentious program and played it well. This was his first recital here in several seasons, although he was heard as soloist with both the Chicago Symphony and the Minneapolis Symphony orchestras during previous festival programs. Having then established himself as an excellent pianist and a thorough musician. Mr. Silber was greeted by an enthusiastic audience upon his return engagement and, further, added many new admirers to his list. His recital was the first of Dr M. L. Bartlett's "All Star Course," the next offering being the Melba-Kubelik combination early in January.

Recent concert givers on the Drake University music course, managed by Dean Holmes Cowper, were Maggie Teyte and Pasquale Amato, each of whom appeared locally for the first time, and it may be added, with immediate success.

The Des Moines Musical Association has filed articles of incorporation and will promote Sunday afternoon concerts throughout the winter for the purpose of furnishing good music at popular prices to all who may desire to attend. The two programs heard thus far have been exceedingly well patronized and the supporters of the movement are most optimistic regarding the future of the project. Mrs. F. D. Harst, president, has many excellent things in store for the coming months, and with her generous support from many influential sources there is little doubt as to the immense popularity which the movement will produce.

George Frederick Ogden addressed the Chauncey Depew Club at its recent annual guest day upon "The Development and Progress of American Music." Mr. Ogden will repeat this illustrated lecture before several study clubs during the season.

MINNEAPOLIS

This has been a most strenuous week for the music lovers of Minneapolis. November 5, with Pasquale Amato, a baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, opened a series of artist recitals in the First Baptist Church. The critics were unstinting in their praise of his work.

Next, on November 6, the Thursday Musicale presented Mme. Theodora Sturkow-Ryder in a piano recital. Mrs. Ryder has a rare faculty of winning her audiences, and before the program was half over, all were in love with her, both for herself and her music. Apropos of the splendid editorial on American Composers in the last issue of Music News, it was especially interesting to note that Mrs. Ryder opened her program with the "D Minor Prelude and Fugue" of Arthur Foote, and his "Etude" for the left hand. Following a most informing description of the composer, his works, and the technical interests involved, she played "The Deserted Sands" and "The Spinning Girls of Carantec" of Rhene-Baton. They were heard with far more interest than could otherwise have been shown. Mrs. Ryder closed with her brilliant transcription of the Schubert March, Op. 40.

Two such concerts in one week are more than Minneapolis is wont to dream of, but in addition came the two splendid orchestra concerts, the symphony concert Friday evening, November 7, and the weekly popular concert Sunday afternoon, November 9.

The program Friday evening included the exquisite second symphony of Brahms, Spohr's "Overture to Jessonda," "Finlandia" of Sibelius, and Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole," a violin concerto. Richard Czerwonky, the concertmeister of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra was soloist. Although he is always received well wherever he plays, Mr. Czerwonky can have no more enthusiastic audience than in Minneapolis. Audiences here are not noted for unbridled enthusiasm, but so marked was the response evoked by his superb rendition of the concerto that he was prevailed upon to play extra the Huba "Butterfly" and a Gavotte of Gossec.

The most interesting feature of the Sunday concert was a group of three Swedish Dances by Tor Aulin—their first hearing in America. They are most unusual in rhythm, and are worthy of popularity.

M. J. W.

People & Events

ESTHER PLUMB'S BUSY SEASON

Esther May Plumb is a singer of such remarkable gifts vocally and with such a fine personality also that wherever she is heard she at once captivates her audience completely and re-engagements with her are taken quite as a matter of course.

Her voice is one of glowing quality and her technical equipment is very full and complete, while interpretatively she has few equals anywhere.

The dramatic style of songs is wholly within her grasp and no aria for the contralto voice is beyond her range or powers of interpretation, while in German lieder, French chanson and English text songs she is equally at home, and has an extraordinarily varied and comprehensive repertoire.

Oratorio also is a field to which she is peculiarly adapted, and her successes here have been many and emphatic.

In Chicago Miss Plumb is valued very highly both as a concert singer and in church work, in which latter field she is preeminently successful.

Miss Plumb opened her recital season at Talledega, Florida, very brilliantly, on November 14, and on the seventeenth repeated her success at Laurel, Miss.

Today she is singing at Greenville, Texas, and on the twenty-fifth has an important engagement at Louisville, Ky. Other dates of the immediate future are: December 1, Fairbury, Neb.; December 5, Salina, Kans.; December 18, Cleveland, Ohio, and December 22, Lima, Ohio.

Her season is booked very heavily throughout the winter.

Russell.—A pupils' recital is to be given tomorrow afternoon at the Russell School of Music at 75th Street and Vincennes Avenue.

MARIE EDWARDS

Following is the comment of the Jacksonville (Ill.) Courier on the playing of Marie Edwards, when she appeared in that city last week in joint recital with Cornelius Van Vliet, 'cellist.

Miss Edwards appeared here two years ago with Francis Macmillen and has since that time been engaged largely in concert work. She has but recently returned from a series of recital engagements along the Pacific coast. She possesses a wonderful technic, together with the highest appreciation for such essentials of piano playing as balance and shading. Her numbers of the program gave her ample opportunity to display her ability in all kinds of pianistic efforts. Especially did she reveal a tremendous brilliancy in rapid passage work, such numbers from "Faschingsschwank," "Aus Wien" and the "Concert Etude" from MacDowell being played with all the ease and skill of the matured artist. Her accompanying work was marked by a delightful sympathy for the soloist, which was greatly appreciated by the audience. (Advertisement.)

MME. KOELLING STILL ILL

Mme. Helene Koelling, whose song recital at the Illinois Theater announced for last Sunday was postponed, is still ill in New York City and no date has as yet been assigned for her Chicago appearance.

DEATH OF MME. MARCHESI

Mme. Mathilde Marchesi, the famous vocal teacher of Paris, died in London on Tuesday of this week at the age of eighty-seven.

Hadley.—The regular semi-monthly students recital was given November 18. These recitals are becoming very popular with the students. The next will be given December 2. Preparations are now under way for an oratorio recital in the near future to be given by the artist pupils.

4
GREAT AUSTRALIAN TOURS

DAVID BISPHAM — Opening at Sidney May 31, 1913
MADAME LILLIAN NORDICA — Opening at Sydney July 26, 1913
MISCHA ELMAN — Opening at Sydney June, 1914
MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK — Opening at Sydney June, 1915

Under Exclusive Management and Personal Direction of
Frederic Shipman
American Address 3835 Flournoy St., Chicago
Australian Address Hotel Australia, Sydney

Ethel Altemus
PIANIST
New York Address 665 Lexington Av.
Personal Representative FREDERICK CLARK
83 Auditorium Building, Chicago

PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATIONS OF TEACHING

Mr. Hamilton Hopkins will give a series of Saturday evening programs at his studios, 710 Fine Arts building, for the purpose of displaying the work of some of his pupils and explaining to visitors the methods by which their successes are attained.

On Saturday evening, November 27, at 8:30, Mr. Hopkins will present Mrs. Hopkins in the "Mad Scene" from "Lucia," and other numbers before an audience of sopranos, including both pupils and teachers in Chicago.

Mrs. Hopkins has a remarkable voice, which is the product of the Hopkins method of training, and which has been most favorably commented upon by one of Chicago's most severe critics.

On the following Saturday evening a similar demonstration will be made of the work of Leon Wysoli, a tenor, for the especial benefit of tenors, and the next week sopranos are again invited to hear Miss Eloise Peckenpaugh in "Ah fors e Lui" from "Traviata" and other standard arias, the object again being to show what may be accomplished by the methods of Mr. Hopkins, who is a pupil of Casini, the teacher of Titta Ruffo. Application for cards may be made by letter.

———♯♯♯———

Cosmopolitan School of Music.—A pupils' concert will be given at the Auditorium Recital Hall tomorrow afternoon at 3.

COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The following program will be given at the Auditorium Recital Hall this (Friday) evening:

Sonata for Piano and Violin, A major..... Mozart
Allegro Molto
Andante
Presto
Miss Schada and Mr. Esser

Knowest Thou the Land ..... Liszt
Mrs. Bracken

Fantasie, Op. 49.....Chopin
Miss Schada

Im Herbst ..... Franz
La Seperazione .....Sgambati
Le Savior ..... Georges
Mrs. Bracken

Sonata for Piano and Violin ..... Brahms
Vivace Ma non troppo
Adagio
Allegro Molto Moderato
Miss Schada and Mr. Esser

———♯♯♯———

Nevin.—George B. Nevin's very successful Christmas cantata, "The Adoration," has been sung in about three thousand American churches. Among the many prominent choirs which have used this beautiful narration of the Christmas story, being the well known Grace Episcopal church of New York City and the Baptist Temple, with its choir of 100 voices, of Philadelphia, Pa. It will, no doubt be found on many programs this season.

———♯♯♯———

American Conservatory.—Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson and Mr. Karleton Hackett will give their "Don Quichotte" and "Monna Vanna" program at Kimball Hall tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

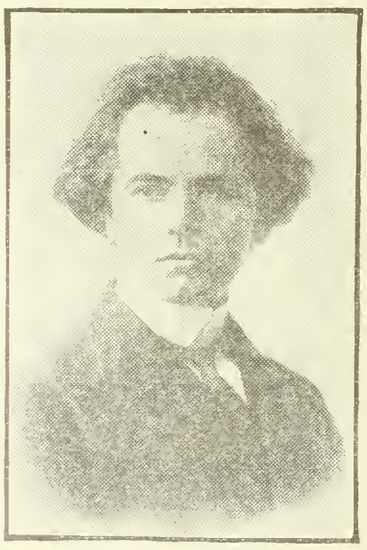
ALBERT SPALDING WINS NEW TRIUMPH IN HOLLAND

Albert Spalding astonished the musical world last year when he made his phenomenal tour through Scandinavia, Holland and Russia. His success was so extraordinary that in nearly every city where the American violinist played, he was reengaged for the tour this autumn. The following press notice, just received, tells of Spalding's new triumphs in Holland:

Less than a year ago the American violinist, Albert Spalding, presented himself to the Hague public, and immediately gained their admiration. His elegant playing based on an elegantly developed technic, left no doubt in one's mind that although one always felt his power of virtuosity, actually today, this power seems greater than ever. Spalding also demonstrated last evening, that he need fear no difficulties whatsoever. Whether it was a modern or classic master he had to present, it all sounded as easy as child's play to him. Spalding's programme was in the first part, devoted to Tartini and Bach. In the "Trille du Diable" one is more impressed by the virtuosity, especially in regard to the trills, as they were supposed to have been played when the devil appeared to Tartini in his dreams, Spalding trilled up and down, so that it became a sheer delight. Not only in the trills, however, but in what came before or after them. It was what one could safely call spotless playing. Neither the perfection of technic nor the tonal beauty were in the least neglected, no matter what the difficulties. The suite of Bach was played in a masterly way and this was an entirely different problem for the artist, especially as regards interpretation. In this regard, Spalding revealed himself in a very favorable light. The full measure of his great violin talent, we were allowed to enjoy after the intermission, when he gave a few lighter pieces in the very best style. Two of his own compositions were far from uninteresting. The first, Musical Period II, a fine mood picture of rather melancholy character, and the second, a Scherzo Giocoso, here and there very original in harmony, with highly dangerous but well placed double stopping. Finally, the Wagner-Wilhelmj Preislied from "Die Meistersingers," and his own arrangement of Paganini's "La Campanella," which Spalding seems evidently not to have found difficult enough in the original. Double harmonies flew out of the violin as if they were a couple of little whistling birds. Encores were of course demanded, to which Spalding gracefully responded. A great deal of the success is merited by the accompanist, Mr. Andre Benoist, who did his share of the work with fine discretion and understanding.

—Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant.

(Advertisement)



Jan Kubelik

Writes as follows of the

Mason & Hamlin

Mason & Hamlin Co.,
Gentlemen: It is with the utmost pleasure that I contemplate my tour in this country with your wonderful piano for an accompanying instrument. Its remarkable tone qualities will prove most satisfying to me and most pleasing to my audience.
Sincerely yours,

Jan Kubelik

Mason & Hamlin Pianos on exhibition and sale only at store of

Wabash and Jackson Cable Piano Company CHICAGO

———♯♯♯———

American Composers' Concert—The report of the American Composers' Concert, given in Orchestra Hall on Tuesday evening is unavoidably delayed until our issue of next week.

———♯♯♯———

Lund.—Mr. Rene Lund will be soloist on next Sunday afternoon at the Boeppler Orchestra concert at the Northside Turner Hall.

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK AND FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH ENJOY TELLING AMUSING EXPERIENCES

Not long ago, during the latter part of October, Madame Schumann-Heink, her party and Frederick Preston Search with his accompanist were together upon the same Pullman car en route from Boise, Idaho, to points in Oregon. Of course the artists inquired with interest into the recent concerts which each had given, and many were the amusing anecdotes which they told of their travels during the last few weeks.

Mr. Search never fails to create great excitement when he steps off of a train in any small place, with his beloved 'cello, "Eloise" under his arm, and interesting are the remarks which he often may happen to overhear. At one place in Idaho, huge placards had been placed around the town by the local concert manager, announcing the concert and at the bottom of the poster appeared: "Have you ever seen a 'cello? Then you cannot afford to miss hearing one." When Mr. Search saw this he seriously contemplated placing his 'cello on exhibition in a window of one of the stores down the street.

It always happens that in the hotels the travelers, bell-boys and clerks are very desirous to know: "What show are you with?" or "What circuit are you on?" Madame Schumann-Heink told of how the evening before, while in the dressing room at the hotel in Boise, one of the waitresses came up to her and inquired: "Say, what troupe do you belong to?" "What kind of a show are you on, anyhow?" "How do you make it pay?" "Ain't you goin' to give no matinee?"

Sometimes in their wild rush across the continent to fill engagements the artists have difficulty in making good train connections. At one big jump in North Dakota last season, Mr. Search was horrified to find that the train, which would bring him into Valley City in time for the concert that evening, was about nine hours late. There was no time to be lost in finding another way to reach that destination. He hired a powerful touring car, and with his accompanist, Mr. Walter Chapman, and a chauffeur, they made a wild rush of thirty-five miles across the country in order to catch a fast express on the other railroad, the Northern Pacific. But a small breakdown delayed them for a short time and they came into the station only a few minutes after the express had left. However a mixed train, which proved to be a freight with one passenger coach annexed, arrived about one hour later and the 'cellist and his accompanist got aboard with somewhat dejected spirits, but nevertheless happy hearts, knowing that unless there was a breakdown or wreck there was a very fair chance for them to reach their destination after all. The only serious drawback about this remarkable freight which they now were on was that they had to "don their evening gowns" on the rear platform of the coach and the winter evening was anything but warm.

Nevertheless they arrived in Valley City at 8:15, and positively were serenely seated upon the stage and smiling most

PROF. BERTRAND DE BERNYZ
VOICE SPECIALIST
also concerts and oratorios in Carnegie Hall & Aeolian Hall.
First teacher of Frieda Hempel, Metropolitan opera star, acknowledged by New York music critics as only successful rival of Mmes. Patti, Melba and Sembrich, also teacher of many other eminent concert and operatic artists. Special course in TONE PRODUCTION, INTERPRETATION and OPERATIC ENSEMBLE. Special features: OPERA-PERFORMANCES in NEW YORK THEATERS.
Information, 58 W. 72nd St., New York City, "The Adrian"

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY MURRISON MABEL
Bass-Baritone
Oratorio
Concert
JOINT-RECITALS
Pianist
Accompanist
Alliance Ohio

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker
TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN
ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
4596 OAKENWALD AV.
Phone Drexel 3987

Ida Mae Cameron

LYRIC SOPRANO

Assisting LUDWIG SCHMIDT

STUDEBAKER THEATER

Sunday, December 7th

3:30 p. m.

Direction F. WIGHT NEUMANN

Elsa F. Holinger

Announces her first appearance in a

SONG RECITAL

at the

FINE ARTS THEATER

MICHIGAN AV.

Assisted by

MAE DOELLING, Pianiste

Dr. Carl Bertschinger

Composer and Accompanist

Monday Evening, Dec. 1, 1913, 8:15

Direction of JOS. A. SCHWICKERATH

Chicago Concert Trio

ALBERT E. FOX, Piano — WILLIAM HOFMAN, Violin

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER, Soprano

Management Charles E. Watt — Kimball Hall, Chicago

DR. FREDERICK CLARK

PUPILS — BARITONE

AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO

Helene Koelling

Prima Donna Soprano

Montreal Grand Opera Co.

graciously as they commenced their first number at 8:30, the concert having been delayed only fifteen minutes. Such are sometimes the trials and tribulations of the concert artists en route.

WARRINGTON THEATER

"The Grain of Dust" is a play from David Graham Phillip's best book. It is being played at the Warrington this week. James K. Hackett played "The Grain of Dust" for two years, including engagements at the Blackstone and Illinois theaters, Chicago. Frederick Norman, a rising young member of a large New York firm of corporation lawyers, engaged to marry Josephine Burroughs, a society girl, gives rise to scandal by evidencing his love for Dorothy Hallowell, one of the firm's stenographers. Dorothy is "a grain of dust" that has gotten into his eye and is causing great inflammation. As Norman refuses to give up Dorothy, Josephine breaks the engagement, and her father, Isaac Burroughs, declares he will ruin Norman. Criticized by his firm, which is threatened with loss of business through the scandal, Norman resigns. From this groundwork the author of the book and play has constructed a strong, stirring play.

Mr. McGovern will be seen in Mr. Hackett's former part, Norman, and Miss Hayward as Dorothy, with the entire company provided with parts suitable to their talents. Director Livingstone is making a very handsome production of this play worthy of the original Hackett settings.

Thanksgiving week will be devoted to a New England rural comedy, "Our New Minister."

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER

A new extract from Minneapolis Journal reads as follows:

"Theodora Sturkow-Ryder, the pianist, gave yesterday afternoon the third of the excellent programs provided by the Thursday Musical Club. The talented artist who appeared with the Symphony orchestra some time ago, had built for herself a recital program that fitted her individuality as interpreter and performer. The Arthur Foote Suite in D minor, offered capital opportunities for the scholarly and powerful technic. In the F minor Fantasie by Mendelssohn, she had a fine sense for its grace of outline and poetic spirit. The Rhene-Baton sketches were played 'con amore,' the latter twice, in response to enthusiastic demands. The closing numbers impromptu in F minor, and the March, Op. 40, by Schubert, the latter in a beautiful arrangement by Mme. Sturkow-Ryder herself, who did full justice to the fanciful spirit of both. Many times recalled, the charming artist responded with an encore of graceful construction. (Advertisement.)

Fischel.—Mr. Max Fischel will present Gertrude C. Bates, Adamae Parsons, Alfred Goldman, Carl Brelos and Herbert Kirschner in a violin program at Howard Theater on Sunday afternoon, November 23, at 3 o'clock.

French.—Miss Melba Mae French leaves Chicago on November 24 for a five weeks' concert tour through Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

RECENT PRESS NOTICES OF ESTHER PLUMB

The following are selected from splendid list of notices given Miss Plumb:

The Messiah

On previous occasions our city has been very fortunate in the soloists who were secured for the oratorio, but this year's quartet surpassed all those of former years. Esther Plumb, the contralto, has a beautiful deep rich voice and sang her parts, not only with the skill that comes of natural ability and training, but with that indescribable quality called "feeling," which brings appreciation from those untaught in things musical as well as from the most learned musician.—Decorah (Iowa) Republic.

The lovers of fine art in music were given a rare treat last night at the opera house in the splendid program rendered by Miss Esther Plumb. Seldom, if ever, is a city of this size favored with a performance of its quality by an artist whose musical ability ranks her with the most eminent of the coming great American vocalists, and the occasion will long be a most pleasant memory to those who were fortunate enough to hear her delightful interpretation of the best there is in musical art.—Roque River Courier, Grants Pass, Ore.

Esther May Plumb Given an Ovation

Esther May Plumb, whose singing has made her famous, and Emil Liebling, Chicago's eminent pianist and teacher, were greeted by a large audience at the Burtis Friday night. The great contralto was in excellent voice and each number was a musical gem.—Davenport (Iowa) Democrat.

In Music Hall Miss Esther Plumb gave a song recital before a large and exceedingly appreciative audience. A program that contained many representative selections from classic and modern literature served to display the young artist's talents and attainments fully. She possesses a contralto voice of unusual natural richness and warmth.—Chicago Daily Tribune. (Advertisement.)

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH ON THE PACIFIC COAST

Frederick Preston Search is reveling amidst the flowers and sunshine of California, where he reports the most glorious weather and splendid audiences in attendance on his recitals. His address will be Los Angeles, care of the Gamut Club, until December 15, when he comes east through Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma. His success in the west has been so great and his recalls and new engagements have been so numerous that the all-conquering young 'cellist must return after the holidays for another Pacific Coast trip, playing then through Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, and the Dakotas. His engagements take him this year to every western state. This season he is to play in over one hundred cities.

The Piano Pedals By MRS. A. M. VIRGIL, Clear, Concise, Melodious, Results Unequaled. Price $1.00. Sale unparalleled. Address Dept. C. The Virgil Piano School Co. 42 West 76th St., New York

CHRISTMAS MUSIC

The Oliver Ditson Company has issued "The Night of the Star," a Christmas cycle of four numbers (quartet and solos), by Margaret Ruthven Lang. It will be much used. "Octavo Anthems" by the same company are: "Arise, Shine; For Thy Light is Come," Charles Fonteyn Manney; "Angels From the Realms of Glory," W. H. Neidlinger; "Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning," Eduardo Marzo; "Cradled in a Manger," P. A. Schnecker; "The Light Hath Shined Upon Us," H. Clough-Leighter; "There Dwelt in Old Judea" (Men's Voices) (Hans Lichter Arr.), William H. Griggs; "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," Horatio W. Parker; "The Blessed Lullaby," George B. Nevin; "Sing, O Heavens," B. F. Gilbert; "Hark, the Hosts of Heaven Are Singing," P. A. Schnecker; "Joy to the World," T. D. Williams; "Sing, O Heavens," H. J. Storer; "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night," Christopher Marks; "Arise, Shine; For Thy Light is Come," George A. Burdett; "Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning," Charles Fonteyn Manney; "Rejoice, Ye Righteous," H. Clough-Leighter; "We Have Seen His Star" (Men's Voices) (G. B. Nevin, Arr.), Caleb Simper; "Arise, Shine; For Thy Light is Come" (Men's Voices), C. Francis Lloyd; "Brightest and Best," N. Irving Hyatt; "Hark! Through the Silent Night," William Reed; "There Were Shepherds," H. Alexander Matthews; "How Beautiful Are the Feet," H. J. Storer; "Hark! What Mean Those Holy Voices?" N. Irving Hyatt; "The Angel Gabriel," Frederick Stevenson; "What Mean Those Holy Voices?" P. A. Schnecker; "O Lovely Voices of the Sky," Oliver King; "Sing, O Heavens," Adolf Frey; "Break Forth Into Joy," William R. Spence; "The New-Born King," Eduardo Marzo; "O Faithful Shepherds," J. C. Macy; "The Song of the Angels," Louis R. Dressler; "And the Angel Said Unto Them," William R. Spence; "Jesus Christ is Born Today," Frank H. Brackett; "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," George B. Nevin; "Angels From the Realms of Glory" (Women's Voices), P. A. Schnecker; "Hark, the Glad Sound!" William Reed; "Break Forth Into Joy," Russel King Miller; "Arise, Shine; Thy Light is Come (J. H. Rogers, Arr.), Saint-Saens, Camille; "Christians, Awake! Salute the Happy Morn," Adolf Frey; "Behold, I Bring You Good Tidings," Herbert W. Wareing; "The Message of Peace," Louis R. Dressler; "O Sing Ye Angel Voices," Samuel Richards Gaines; "Hark, the Glad Sound! the Saviour Comes," Eduardo Marzo; "I Sing the Birth," George B. Nevin; "Bright and Joyful is the Morn," W. Berwald; "Come and Worship," Richard Henry Warren; "Hark! What Mean Those Holy Voices?" (Women's Voices) W. Berwald.

NEW YORK NOTES

Mme. Marie Narelle, whose brief indisposition—a touch of Grip—made it necessary for her to cancel several engagements of importance, will make a short tour with the Russian Symphony Orchestra, beginning November 20. She will sing with the Brooklyn Apoll. Club in December and also at Miss Mylott's Aeolian Hall concert in March. These are only a few of her coming dates.

Bachaus at Aeolian Hall, November 19, and at the Hippodrome in a monster concert on November 30, is a bright spot for the bored reviewer in the near future.

There have been concerts by Hattie Scholder-Edlin, pianist, and Mrs. Lillian Birmingham, contralto. They were fairly well attended in Aeolian Hall.

Our own William C. Carl plays the organ with the People's Symphony early in December. It will be a delight to hear him again. His ability to get the most out of the Carnegie Hall organ is astonishing, and I am looking forward to this treat with anticipations of pleasure.

To my regret the concert of Miss Helene Koelling was put off until later in the season. The charming soprano has an attack of bronchitis.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nichols will be heard in Saratoga Springs in January.

The Von Ende School is giving a series of interesting musicales throughout the season. Its attractive director Mr. Herwegh Von Ende knows the art of making an entertaining program, and all in all the musical banquet has passed the stage of hors d' oeuvre. A. S. F.

CAVE THOMPSON

Following is the program of the piano recital given by Cave Thompson, blind pianist of Chicago, at Milton College (Wis.) last week:

Prelude and Fugue in E minor, Op. 35..Mendelssohn
Es war einmal, Op. 71.....Grieg
In the Troika, Op. 37.....Tschaikowsky
In the Convent.....Borodine
Etude in E major.....Chopin
Scherzo in C sharp minor.....Chopin
Sonata Tragica .....MacDowell
Largo Maestoso—Allegro Risoluto
Allegro Molto Vivace
Largo con Maesta
Allegro Eroica
Romance in G flat.....Schuett
Rococo, Op. 17.....Schuett
Elegie in F minor.....Raff
Fantasie—Polonaise .....Raff

CHARLES W. CLARK IN OAK PARK

Mr. Charles W. Clark will give a song recital at the First M. E. Church in Oak Park on Tuesday evening, November 25, under the auspices of the Asbury Bible Class, George L. Tenney, president.

Boise. — Cowen's "Rose Maiden" was given by the Music Department of the Boise High School at the Pinney Theater on November 12.

NEWMAN TRAVELOGS

The sale of single tickets for Mr. E. M. Newman's annual series of traveltalks is announced to begin next Monday. For many good reasons large cities have always been more popular than other subjects, and so for this season Mr. Newman has chosen for portrayal the most fascinating of the great capitals of Europe. Striving especially to show new phases of life, and objects of interest which have never before been seen in travel-lectures, he will first guide his hearers through London, with its crowded thoroughfares, historical reminders, militant suffragettes, and interesting types of humanity. He will next show Paris, the capital of the world of pleasure, with its art, its gay life and its wonderful fashions, and Rome, whose imposing ruins are in striking contrast to the modern sections, with their new buildings, and Saturday matinees, beginning Vatican and its treasures will be an important feature. In the fourth subject the charm of two of Italy's most delightful cities, Florence and Venice, will be revealed, where the masterpieces of the world's greatest artists vie in interest with magnificent medieval palaces in delightful surroundings. The fifth and last subject will be devoted to Vienna, the city beautiful, which has outstripped all its rivals in its progress toward the ideal in modern city-building. Wide streets, parks, promenades, and public playgrounds make of it a model for the future.

Throughout the entire course against a delightful background of history and art, Mr. Newman will portray, in new color views and motion pictures, the present-day life with its types and customs, modern, yet reflecting the glory of ancient days.

The traveltalks will be given on successive Wednesday evenings, Friday evenings, and Saturday matinees, beginning with "London Today," November 19, 21, 22.

Bush Temple Conservatory. — A very successful concert was given last evening at the Recital Hall of the Bush Temple Conservatory by Mr. Joe Wynne, a piano pupil of Mr. Harold Von Mickwitz and Mr. Earle Eldred, a violin pupil of Guy Woodard.

Andrews.—Mr. J. Warren Andrews was responsible for "A Pleasant Sunday Afternoon" at the Church of the Divine Paternity in New York when, besides excellent organ solos by Mr. Andrews there were numbers by Estelle Harris and John Barnes Wells.

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
304 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 7931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

MILTON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL. CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

IN BRIEFER FORM

Butler—Hanna Butler has been engaged to appear Sunday, November 30, in recital in Des Moines, Ia.

♮ ♮ ♮

Henry.—Mr. Harold Henry has returned from a successful concert trip in Michigan and Ohio. His next recital will be in Grand Rapids, on November 28.

♮ ♮ ♮

Matteson — Hannah Matteson, pianiste, and Mrs. Huldah Beers, contralto, gave a program, under the auspices of the Mothers' Club of Norwood Park, at the Reformed Church, on Tuesday evening.

♮ ♮ ♮

Clarke—Edward Clarke, baritone, and Rachel Steinman Clarke, violinist, will be the soloists with the Marion Symphony Orchestra at Marion, Ind., on Friday, November 21.

♮ ♮ ♮

Von Ende School—The violin, piano and singing departments of the Von Ende School of Music in New York gave a recital on last Friday evening when an excellent program was presented.

♮ ♮ ♮

Thanksgiving Concert — A Thanksgiving concert will be given at the Memorial Church of Christ on Oakwood boulevard on Thursday evening, November 27. The artists will be Miss Lillian MacLeish, soprano; Day Williams, 'cello, and Kurt Wanieck, piano.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mount Pleasant.—A recital was given by the department of music of the Central State Normal School last Friday morning. Those taking part were Mabelle Wright, Alberta Park, Ethel Well, F. C. Cowdrey and William E. Rauch.

♮ ♮ ♮

Indianapolis Conservatory. — At the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music on last Tuesday evening an exceptionally fine program was given by Gaylord Yost, violinist; Wesley Howard, tenor, and Daniel Jones, pianist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Dubois—Music News, like every other music journal of the country, was misled into announcing two weeks ago the death of the noted organist, Theodore Dubois, in Paris. It transpires, however, that he is not dead, having escaped from an automobile accident with but slight injuries.

♮ ♮ ♮

Iredale.—Miss Florence Gray, pupil of Bertha Smart Iredale, sang at the South Park Presbyterian Church, the evening of October 14. Miss Gray is a very pleasing singer and was fully appreciated by her audience. Miss Marie Easterly accompanied Miss Gray.

♮ ♮ ♮

Johnson—Mr. Karleton Hackett will give a lecture on the two most important novelties of the Chicago opera season, "Monna Vanna" by Fevrier, "Don Quixote" by Massenet, before the Lake View Musical Club, Monday, November 17. Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto, will give the musical illustrations.

Leeds.—At the Leeds, England, music festival, last week, the novelties given were "Falstaff" Symphonic Study by Sir Edward Elgar, Basil Harwood's choral work "On a May Morning," and "The Mystic Trumpeter" for baritone solo, chorus and orchestra by Hamilton Harty.

♮ ♮ ♮

Riheldaffer — Grace Hall Riheldaffer, Pittsburgh soprano, sang last week at points in Virginia and South Carolina. Her present tour includes appearances in Atlanta, Savannah, Ga.; Columbia, S. C.; Montgomery, Ala.; Houston, Tex., and Columbia, Miss.

♮ ♮ ♮

Sherman Park.—On last Sunday afternoon a fine concert was given in which the participants were Rudolph Reuter, Mary Highsmith and Sylvia Bargman. On next Sunday the program will be given by Sig. Antonio Frosolono and his Illinois Theater Orchestra.

♮ ♮ ♮

Vilim.—Mark Vilim, of the Vilim American Violin School in Kimball Hall, has been appointed organist at the Riverside Presbyterian Church. Mr. Howard Garrett has long been director of music at this church and Mr. Joseph Vilim is frequently engaged to play violin solos.

♮ ♮ ♮

Hall.—William John Hall gave a pupils' recital at the Musical Art Building in St. Louis on last Saturday evening, those appearing being Miss Voelcker, Miss Hillenkoetter, Mr. Newsum, Miss Mehr, Miss Yanyon, Mr. Parker, Mrs. Krutsch, Mr. Moir, Miss Fabian, Mr. Starck and Miss Doorley.

♮ ♮ ♮

Hartman—Miss Lucy Hartman sang at the music festival at the New First Congregational Church, last evening, and appears there tonight in "The Holy City." On December 1 she is soloist at the Hemington organ recital at the Church of the Epiphany, and on December 5 sings in a concert before the Congregational Club.

♮ ♮ ♮

Scionti Pupils.—Silvio Scionti of the American Conservatory of Music has an unusual number of pupils who are gaining great success in various parts of the country, among them may be mentioned Miss Clara Hinsdelle, who is filling with success a position at the Warrensburg (Mo.) College, Mr. Earle Swiney of the piano department at Ellensburg (Wash.) College, Miss Mary Murphy at the Clinton (Iowa) School of Music, Miss Mabel Nelson, head of the piano department at Bodfor's School in Davenport, Iowa, and Miss Helen Bartholomew, now at the Rockford (Ill.) College as a member of the faculty.

♮ ♮ ♮

Hofmann—Joseph Hofmann appeared before a large audience at the Studebaker Theater on Sunday afternoon, a very large per cent of professional pianists of Chicago being present. A line of comment in one of the daily papers is characteristic and appropriate. It reads: "Hofmann is great in small things and small in great ones."

Musicians' Club—The Musicians' Club of New York has entered on a new era in its career. Last Monday night, at the largest meeting of the board of governors ever held, Walter Damrosch was elected president and accepted the office, stating that he will give to the club his very best efforts. The election of Mr. Damrosch was greeted with enthusiastic applause, and all predicted that under his leadership the club will very soon reach two thousand members. A publicity bureau was created, with Tali Esen Morgan as its manager. Mr. Morgan founded the club and his return to active work is favorably commented upon by all the members. He is to begin, through his department, a most active campaign for new members, and to get those who have resigned to return. The initiation fee of five dollars ... for the present been suspended, and among the other radical changes that will take place will be the removal of the club to a large house, which will give all club features and advantages. From every indication the Musicians' Club is going to grow in members, in power and influence.

♯ ♯ ♯

Festival Chorus—Upwards of seven hundred voices are already enrolled in the New York Festival Chorus, which is to give five oratorio performances at the New York Hippodrome, under the management of R. E. Johnston. The concerts will be given under the leadership of Tali Esen Morgan, and will number not less than twelve hundred (1,200) voices. The chorus is divided into four branches, the New York chorus meeting every Wednesday night at the Church of the Strangers, Fifty-seventh street and Eighth avenue. The Harlem branch at the New York Presbyterian Church, One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street and Seventh avenue. The Brooklyn singers meet in Tollner Hall, Bedford and Putnam avenues, every Saturday night, but beginning in December, the chorus will meet on Monday evenings. The Newark branch meets in Lauter Hall, 591 Broad street. The first performance will be the "Messiah," on Sunday evening, January 25, to be followed by other works on the last Sunday night of each month.

SIOUX CITY, IOWA

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Heizer of Sioux City, Iowa, are adding to the long list of their annual musical treats by giving two fine programs before the music section of the Woman's club.

The first, presented Wednesday afternoon, November 5, at the Public Library Auditorium, was devoted to the explanation and demonstration of orchestra instruments and their developments. Possibilities and tonal qualities of each orchestra instrument was shown by performance, first individually and then collectively in four classes, string, woodwind, brass and percussion.

The program was entirely unique in character and prepared the club for an appreciation of the fine orchestral concert to be given by the Heizer Music School orchestra at the same place Thursday evening, November 25.

♯ ♯ ♯

Barron.—Mr. Robert Louis Barron, young Chicago violinist, is touring through the West.

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers

Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on

KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

MYRTLE Elvyn RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Kimball Piano Used
Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Concert Direction M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av. New York

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
"A Ladder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys .50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice .50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO Phone Austin 12717 CONCEPTS ORATORIO RECITALS 5943 OHIO STREET
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT

WILLIAM HINSHAW
BARITONE
Of the Metropolitan Opera Company Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

Iva Bigelow Weaver SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work. May Mansfield PARIS STUDIOS: 27 rue Boisleveu Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory 207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.
A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Aak for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
WITH R. E. JOHNSTON OF NEW YORK SEASON 1912-1913

H. W. OWENS VOCAL DIRECTOR
WESTERN CONSERVATORY
Voice Teacher Coaching
PHONE CENTRAL 7804

Beatrice Wheeler CONTRALTO
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

TO RENT—Time in Studio; 84 Auditorium Bldg. Apply any morning.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

FOR RENT—Studio seventh floor Fine Arts Bldg., Mondays and Thursdays; $15 per month. Address I. Music News.

HARMONY and composition by mail. Raymond Robinson, organist and choirmaster of Central Church, Boston. Address 6 Newbury st., Boston, Mass.

TO RENT—Unusually large Studio equipped with Grand and Upright piano, electric lights and fan. Reception room with telephone in connection. Tuesdays and Fridays from 3 o'clock on; 516 Kimball Hall.

GEORGE W. MUNRO

Voice Specialist

Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.

Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.

Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.

Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

Wm. Clare Hall

Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Hazel Dell Neff

SOPRANO

PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN

PIANIST TEACHER

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and

4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.

COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing

Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin

Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN

SOPRANO

Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital

429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

Music in America

ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN

Much has been said and written about Hill Auditorium, the magnificent gift to the University of Michigan by one of her loyal sons, the Honorable Arthur Hill. People generally realize that this wonderful structure is not only filling an important function in the life of the university, but also in the life of the community as a whole, and undoubtedly it is furnishing an opportunity for people, throughout the state and elsewhere, to come in more vital contact with the real life of the university, for it is now possible for great events to be conducted therein, which can be attended by thousands, and there is no doubt but as time goes on, many new uses will be found for it.

Not only has the structure brought credit to its distinguished donor, but its success reflects credit upon the Board of Regents, also all who have been instrumental in carrying out the wishes of Mr. Hill, since it is not only complete in itself, but it is adaptable for so many uses. One particular phase of its construction and use centers in the installation of Frieze memorial organ. Those who are familiar with the history of this great organ will recall that it was first set up at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893 by the Farrand and Votey Company of Detroit. At that time, it represented the "last word" in organ construction. It was one of the few really great organs which employed the electric action.

During the fair it was heard by millions, and was played upon by many of the world's greatest organists. Naturally, it attracted a great deal of attention.

At the close of the fair, it was secured by the University Musical Society, and presented to the University of Michigan, and was installed in University Hall, where for nearly twenty years it remained, and was heard by thousands of students, alumni and visitors. It must be stated, however, that in the cramped and limited quarters which were available in University Hall, the organ was never displayed to the best advantage; and then, too, during the twenty years that it remained there, great strides were made in the science of organ construction, so that this famous organ, which once represented the acme of organ construction, could no longer be considered strictly up to date.

With the construction of Hill Auditorium, the Board of Regents came to the front and instructed the architect, in preparing the plans, to provide suitable quarters for the reconstruction and installation of this fine instrument. The contract for conducting this work was given to the Hutchin's Organ Company of Boston, one of the most reliable firms of organ builders in the world.

At a cost of many thousands of dollars, the organ has been brought to a position similar to that which it occupied twenty years ago, namely: it represents the highest perfection of organ construction. Throughout its reconstruction, conservative lines have been followed. Professor Stanley, to whom all plans and specifications were first submitted, believed that it was wiser to omit superfluous frills and to limit the improvements very largely to the substantial phases of organ construction.

The instrument, as it stands today, consists of 4,300 pipes, 70 stops and 38 couplers. There are six separate divisions or organs: Solo, echo, great, swell, choir and pedal. These are played from four keyboards and a pedalboard. All of the pedal, and a portion of the great organ are enclosed in double swell boxes (new on this organ), which greatly increases the expressive efficiency of the instrument. The action is electric-pneumatic, with a movable console, communicating with the main organ by a cable one hundred and twenty-five feet in length. This cable is made up of bundles of small wires, which, if placed end to end would extend from Ann Arbor to Chelsea and return. Enough wire was used in the construction of the organ to construct a continuous line to Detroit and return. The number of stops and connections possible would probably run into the billions.

The most important part of the organ, so far as the public is concerned, is the splendid quality of tone of the "voicing of the pipes." This part of the organ work, as well as all phases of its reconstruction, was done by men who are the most expert in this branch of work in this country. The full organ tone and the quality of the individual stops, separately or in combination, represent a standard attained by few other organs. There is mellowness in the flutes when it is desired, delicacy in the strings, strength and dignity in the diapasons and brilliant fortissimo in the reeds.

A beautiful set of chimes, together with four stops of varying character, are located in a room above the roof, near the large block "M" on the border of the oval sky-light. A cable, two hundred eighty-five feet in length, connects this division of the organ with the console on the stage.

With this splendid instrument available, arrangements have been made for offering the students of the School of Music, the university and the general public, an opportunity to hear it played at frequent intervals. Mr. Earl Vincent Moore, head of the organ department of the University School of Music, will give a series of twilight recitals, which will be absolutely free to the public. Programs of wide variety and of great interest will be rendered by Mr. Moore, who ranks as one of the great young organists of this country. Bi-weekly recitals will be given at 4:15 o'clock on the following dates, before the Christmas holidays. After that time further announcement will be made:

Tuesday, November 18.
Tuesday, December 2.
Tuesday, December 16.

There is no doubt but that an opportunity to hear so splendid an instrument in the hands of so brilliant an organist under such favorable conditions will be welcomed by all who are able to attend.

MABEL
Riegelman

Lyric Soprano

Chicago Grand Opera Company

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Stewart 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Palmer Christian
Concert Organist - Pupils - Coach - Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music.
Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone Austin 23973
5704 Washington Boulevard Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av
Phone Normal 1406

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS, PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

MEXICO, MISSOURI

Mexico, Mo., November 5.—Maud Powell, the distinguished violinist, opened the Hardin College Artist Course with a recital in the Hardin College auditorium last Monday night. She was enthusiastically received by a fair-sized and very appreciative audience. Much has been said about Maud Powell, but hardly enough. Her art is wonderful and her artistic gifts are enforced by her strong personality.

The program chosen gave Madame Powell many opportunities for displaying her rare gifts. The Coleridge-Taylor concerto was a fine opening number. The second movement in particular was of intense beauty in its melodious tenderness. The Strauss Sonata in E Flat Major, of which Madame Powell played the first movement, is very interesting and makes great demands on both pianist and violinist. The group that followed contains numbers of particular charm. The crystal-clear Chopin Waltz in D Flat, which followed after the Hungarian Dance and Beethoven Minuet, was repeated after warm applause. The festive Polonaise, D Major, by Wieniawski, was given by Madame Powell with great power and temperament. The closing number, Hubay's "Scenes de la Csarda," was greatly appreciated.

Madame Powell was most ably assisted by Francis Moore, the young American pianist. He showed himself an excellent accompanist and played a group of three piano solos with great skill and sympathy. Mr. Moore gave as encore "La Filcuse," by Raff.

H. G.

ERIE, PA.

There surely will be no dearth of recitals for Erie this year, as, in addition to the series of artists' recitals, under the direction of Mrs. Eva McCoy, and the Apollo Club concerts, there has been announced a series of three evening recitals at the Hotel Lawrence, the first of which will be given by the titled baritone, Franz Egenieff, on Friday evening, November 7. The other two recitals will be given by Vera Barstow, violinist, and Myrtle Elvyn, pianist, their appearances to be in the order named. Truly Erie is looking up musically, and if these events are patronized as well as the Alda and Kohler recitals, Erie's position as a musical city will be assured.

♮ ♮ ♮

The writer had the pleasure of hearing again Friml's delightful opera, "The Firefly," with Emma Trentini in the leading role. It is the consensus of opinion that no more charming light opera has ever been staged than this popular vehicle of our foremost comic opera star, and all of Friml's succeeding works will be awaited with great interest.

♮ ♮ ♮

Owing to the illness of Paderewski, his recital scheduled here for October 27 has been canceled. As yet no new date has been set for his appearance in Erie, but it is expected that we will hear the famous pianist before the last of November.

ALBERT H. DOWLING, JR.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The record-breaking year has opened auspiciously in Pittsburgh, but from former experiences it is very doubtful as to whether it will have such a propitious ending.

The season opened with a recital last week by Rebecca Davidson, pianist, and Katharine McGonnell, violinist, both local artists.

Pianists, major and minor, are taking courage and thought with their programs. They are daring, as though by common impulse, to forswear the conventional pieces in the conventional arrangement. Miss Davidson was no exception to this and did so with her program last week. Her numbers were such as the most dutiful of concerts-goers do not often hear on their rounds of recitals.

First for the unhackneyed music stood Schumann's Sonata in F sharp minor, and Miss Davidson was quite secure in it. This sonata is not the fittest vessel to contain Schumann's romantic temperament and rhapsodic voice. It does not leave the listener to reflect upon the grace of the musing little song, with its blossoms of ornament, that serves for a slow movement and upon the touches of light and playful fancy in the Scherzo. How much more of feeling, imagination and of resulting musical beauty were in them, where Schumann was relatively free from prescribed lengths and established forms, than there were in the Allegro and the Finale, which had perforce to be longer, more exact, more substantial. However, Miss Davidson played this sonata with an admirable sense of rhythm and with a quick susceptibility to variety of voice and account. We have seldom heard a young pianist whom it was so good to listen to. Her ability to become absorbed in her subject to the extent of self-obliteration were strongly marked—especially in her rendition of the Brahms rhapsody, in a group of the second part.

Miss McGonnell's selection of the Lalo "Symphony Espagnol" for her opening number seemed a hazardous bit of ambition, but her admirable handling of the exceedingly difficult composition reflected great credit upon this young artist, both from a technical as well as a genuinely musical viewpoint. However, she was not her happiest at the beginning, the first allegro of the "Symphony," showing traces of nervousness, but she more than redeemed herself in the following Andante.

Her agility was also proven by her playing of the rondo movement which she played with dash and temperament. Miss Reahard played most sympathetic piano accompaniments. Miss McGonnell is still very young and she certainly has the material in her to ripen to distinguished artistry. Her playing is distinctly legitimate and she has a fine sincerity and simplicity which marks her work throughout.

Miss McGonnell was also heard in a group of solos arranged by Kreisler,—"Grave," by Bach; "Sicilienne and Rigaudon," by Francoeur, and "Variations on a theme by Corelli," by Tartini.

Miss Davidson's group in the second part was composed of Brahms' Rhapsody,

G Minor; "Impromptu," by Chopin; "Jeux d'Eau," by Ravel, and "Polonaise," by Liszt. The program closed by "Suite" by Goldmark, for violin and piano.

As no recital is now complete without flowers, let it be recorded that these young women were not neglected in this respect.

Following this was the concert at Carnegie Music Hall by Grace Hall Riheldaffer, soprano, Arthur Middleton, basso, Sol Marcosson, violinist, and Dorothy Drew Marcosson, pianist, for the benefit of the United Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

The program was one that would meet the approval of a general benefit audience. With the exception of "Ecstasy," from the song cycle, "First Love," by Eberhart-Genet, which had its first performance, "Ballade," by Sinding, and Kreisler's "Tambourin Chinois," the program was made up of well known numbers—numbers which have appeared on programs here time and time again.

"Ecstasy" won a place for itself with the audience at once. To the most exquisite verse of Mrs. Nelle Richmond Eberhart it is wrought with a sound musicianship and written with a style quite personal and new.

The work of Mrs. Riheldaffer, who sang this song is too well known for enumeration. Her opening number, "Wie nahte mir der Schlummer," from "Der Freischutz" by Weber, was admirably sung. She sang it dramatically, and with abundant color. Her greatest effect was produced in the songs by Cadman, Arne and Eberhart-Genet.

Mr. Marcosson is a splendid violinist. His Wieniawski Polonaise in B Major was brilliant and exquisitely played with wonderful pyrotechnic skill. In his playing of the "Preislied" by Wagner, and "Caprice Viennois," his soulful interpretation of melody stamped him as an artist. The Ballade by Sinding, heard here for the first time, was an exceptionally beautiful number and was played with a wealth of tonal beauty and technical finish. The brilliant "Tambourin Chinois" by Kreisler was also heard here for the first time. It proved to be characteristic and a very interesting number. Mrs. Marcosson's contribution to the program, besides playing excellent accompaniments, was a group of three piano numbers which were played with light brilliance and sensitive discernment. She showed herself to be a technically finished and splendid pianist.

Arthur Middleton is not a stranger to Pittsburgh, having appeared here in oratorio. His voice is a true basso of wide range, a fine natural quality, and good volume. Moreover, it is not unwieldy, as is so often the case with voices of this type. On the whole it is a well handled voice, and Mr. Middleton can produce some beautiful pianissimo effects, an accomplishment none too frequently encountered among bassos. He sang the aria from "Le Caid" by Thomas and songs by Homer, Hullah, Molloy and Hammond, and as an encore "Looking Glass River" by Carpenter. Mrs. Riheldaffer also responded to an encore—her choice being "Ave Marie," by Gounod. Mrs. Riheldaffer's accompaniments were splendidly played by T. Carl Whitmer.

ELLA L. MILLS
PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

JOHN R. RANKL
Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING
RECITAL
Phone Harrison 6880

JENNY DUFAU
SOPRANO
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

SOFIA STEPHALI
COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 Accompanist
608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George
Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Jennie F. W. Johnson
Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Preiser Violin School
STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director Phone Austin 4043

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS
OSCAR SEAGLE
17 Avenue Mozart
Paris (France)
BARITONE
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER In Paris all Summer 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK
DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS
FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London

WHITEHILL
BARITONE
Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO 520 Fine Arts Bldg Phone Drexel 8183

Esther Plumb
CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3245
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson
Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

MR. TENOR MRS. DRAMATIC READER
Karl Buren Stein
JOINT RECITALS
55 Auditorium Bldg.
TEACHERS of SINGING ELOCUTION ACTING

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN
American Conservatory Kimball Hall

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

DanielProtheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO The Miraflores, 1420 Flower St.
Los Angeles, Cal.

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

HarrietCase SOPRANO
COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STONE
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Coming Musical Events

November 21—In Carnegie Music Hall, the Pittsburgh Male Chorus and Tuesday Musical Club Choral, James Stephen Martin, director.

November 25—Fritz Kreisler gives second in the series of Ellis concerts at Carnegie Music Hall.

November 28—Franz Egenieff, baritone, gives concert in Carnegie Music Hall, under Pittsburgh Art Society auspices.

December 8—Concert by the Mendelssohn Male Choir, when the Philadelphia Orchestra, Leopold Stokovski, conductor, appears in Carnegie Music Hall.

December 15—Joseph Hofmann, pianist, gives second concert in Hotel Schenley series, at the Hotel Schenley.

January 16—Concert by the Flonzaley Quartet, under Art Society of Pittsburgh auspices, at Carnegie Music Hall.

January 28—Boston Symphony Orchestra, Carnegie Music Hall last in series of Ellis concerts. CATHARINE ELSTON.

BOISE, IDAHO

Madame Schumann-Heink was greeted in this city on the date of her recital last week by an enthusiastic audience. This artist has long been a favorite in Boise from the days when the women's club was pleased to entertain her in reception and is always heartily received. The program began with a series from Wagner which elicited the admiration of the audience, but as the clear tender words from the first song in English, a hymn from Bach, died away, the applause was emphatic. Schumann-Heink responded graciously to many encores, and her pianist, Mrs. Katherine Hoffman, and violinist, Miss Nina Fletcher, also shared in the appreciation of the concert.

The Boise Choral Society, a large, democratic singing class, meeting in the High School Auditorium, and under the direction of the High School musical instructor, Arthur Wesbrook, has begun practice for "The Messiah," which it is planning to present at the Christmas tide.

Paderewski is booked to appear in this city the evening of January 7.

PEARL TYLER.

Kneisel—The first concert of a series of three by the Kneisel Quartet will take place next Sunday afternoon, November 23, at The Studebaker, under the management of F. Wight Neumann. The program will contain Mozart Quartet F Major, No. 9 (Breitkopf & Haertel Edition), Chadwick Quartet D Minor, No. 5, and the Beethoven Quartet F Minor, Op. 95.

Craven.—Mr. Carl Craven, assisted by a reader, appeared at Carey, Ill., in a very successful concert on the 15th. Today Mr. Craven sings at the banquet of the Woman's Party at the Hotel La Salle, and next Tuesday evening he appears in "The Prodigal Son" at St. Paul's Church, Orchard street and Fullerton Parkway.

St. Peters.—A special musical service will be held at St. Peters on Sunday evening under direction of Mr. Herbert Hyde, when Maunder's "Song of Thanksgiving" will be presented by the chorus with Gilbert Moss, Thorsten Ahlberg and D. B. C. Middleton as soloists.

DENVER

Both local symphony orchestras have made their initial bid for popularity and each had a visiting artist as the added attraction. At the Broadway Theater the Cavallo-Burke organization played a magnificent program to a crowded house. The consensus of opinion is that Cavallo has a stronger force under the baton, than he ever has had before. Amato made connection in time for the concert and only that. He had to give his program without rehearsal, but the experience of the director was here in evidence, as there was no noticeable lack of sympathy or collaboration evidenced at all. Meeting a popular demand, Amato sang the much used "Prologue" from "Pagliacci," but his song groups were the most artistic of his work. At the Auditorium the Philharmonics later made their bow. In so large a building, so unsuited to this class of work, it is probable that they will give even a better account of themselves when they are heard in the Broadway, a much more compact house. The echo of this large building made the brass predominate, and the work of the strings was often covered as a result. The arrangement of the tympani probably had much to do with this, as they were immediately behind the first violins. It certainly gives the public an opportunity to see how much work a tympani player has to do, however. The artist in this instance was Harold Bauer. In the Massenet suite our local 'cellist, Mr. Fred Housely, played the Elegy beautifully and he was called to repeat that portion of the suite. Horace Tureman, the director of the Philharmonics, is a close reader of the score, and takes few liberties in tempos or interpretation.

With the opening of our new theater, which should have happened long ago had one of the leading booking companies of the country carried to completion their plans, we shall have additional music in the form of orchestras. At present the Orpheus orchestra is always one of the attractions of that comfortable house and the leader, Oswald Richter, certainly knows how to program. Solos by individual members of the orchestra have become quite the thing and always draw marked signs of appreciation.

The Sisters of Loretto are presenting a series of musical attractions and will present several quite interesting programs.

A minstrel performance, given by Shriners for Shriners and their friends, will be presented on the night of the tenth in the beautiful theater of the local Shrine bodies. Many of our favorite male singers are billed for various songs and other stunts and some surprises are promised.

HALL.

St. Paul's—On Sunday afternoon, November 23, Mr. John Allen Richardson will present a program of special music at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Dorchester avenue and Fiftieth street, at 4:30. The program will include "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis" (Mann), "The Wilderness" (Goss), and "O Clap Your Hands" (Stainer) by the choir. Mr. William Clifford will sing "How Many Hired Servants" from Sullivan's "Prodigal Son," and Robert Rea will sing "Hear Ye Israel" from "Elijah."

LOS ANGELES

The concert following the two Verdi "Requium Mass" performances, drew a very good audience, but not an overflow, as in the former. Mr. Morton F. Mason, organist at Pasadena, had his "Symphonic Overture" presented as the opening number. It is in classic form in D minor. It is well constructed. Melody abounds throughout with ample distribution in orchestral assignment to lend variety and color and character to the work as an orchestral ensemble. Concertmeister Mr. Julius Bierlich gave a masterly performance in Max Bruch's violin concerto, and was encored, and repeated the last part.

Mr. Arthur Babcock, a late arrival from Boston, gave, in baritone key, the "Aria" from Delibes' "Lakme," in a pleasing voice and clearness of delivery. He was recalled and sang the page's song from Verdi's "Falstaff," in Italian. The "Lakme" aria was given in French. Just why the foreign text is employed before an English speaking audience is unexplainable; even a poor translation would give the auditor greater enjoyment—or, is it to seem foreign in culture? After several well-rendered numbers, the orchestra gave "Overture" to "Mignon," by Thomas, as the closing selection.

Under the management of Mr. Charles Farwell Edson, the People's Orchestra gave an out-of-city engagement at Pasadena, and a number of other nearby towns will hear them during the season.

Mme. Frances Alda, with Frank LaForge as pianist, and Casini as 'cellist, appeared November 4. Leoncavallo, composer and conductor, will be here next month and present several of his operas with the Western Metropolitan Opera Company, opening November 24.

The "Beggar Student," by Millocker, is on this week and enjoyed. Next week the "Mascot," and closing week Wallace's "Maritana," by the Tivoli Opera Company, with a good cast and orchestra. Mr. Hans Linne, conductor.

A musical festival by the Jewish talent will be given December 4, under Cantor J. Weinstock's direction.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean de Chauvendt have returned from an extended tour in Europe in study and hearing the best in music. They will resume their teaching again in the "City of the Angels."

It was my pleasure to attend and hear two operas of the French and Russian class at the home of Mr. de Zelinski, who did the piano work with fine interpretation. The first was "Il Re Di Lahore," by Massenet, given in French; the second was "Le Prisonnier Du Caucase," by Cesar Cui. The works were very nicely introduced by Mr. de Zelinski in a full historical sketch of the operas, and the solos were rendered by Mrs. Louise Marie Bitter, soprano; Miss Mercedes Ciesielska, soprano, and Mrs. Florence Gilbert Bloser, mezzo soprano; also, duet numbers. The singing was done in operatic style from memory and some dramatic action. The musicale was a high grade performance and very much enjoyed by an appreciative audience. Such programs are truly educational, with the verbal explanations, even when rendered in a foreign tongue.

S. W. MOUNTZ.
446 W. Fortieth Place.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 66 Rue de Seine
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1536 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan Schools, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 6171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 6232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4788) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 375
EMANUEL N. B. (auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO [illegible] Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

HARPSICHORD

PELTON-JONES Frances (New York) 3 W. 92nd St.

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boislevant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir), 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
DRIGGS and LE MESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3836 Flonrnoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE J. S. (Lecture Recitals) 62 W. 45, New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 44 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (8th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone Drexel 3987) 4956 Oakenwald Av.
DEAL Alice R. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 624 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer) St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 6402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo 3534 Lake Ave.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2866) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (St. Louis) 4417 a LaClede Av., Phone Forest 4763-R
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 7242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra, Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie (Res., Phone Midway 1692) American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
ALTEMUS Ethel (Philadelphia) 1526 Spruce Street
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Elia C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Stewart 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Appleton, Wis.)
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5085) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUCHHALTER Simon 424 Fine Arts Building
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenn
BURNHAM Thnel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tonr
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenne
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorinn (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Enrope
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.
DOELLING Mae (Concert Pianist) 4141 N. Hermitage Av.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence [illegible]ldg Auditorium B

ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio
ERST Stephen Adolph 1653 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season. 2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Stndio, 1627 High St.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032) 874 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music.
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7046) 426 Fine Arts Building
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HUNT Emily Parsons (Phone Highland Park 120) 520 Fine Arts Bldg. (Mon. and Thurs. P. M.)
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music) 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9206)
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Editb Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KING Jessie (Studios) 419-59 E. Van Buren Street
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LEVY Heniot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
MATTESON Hannah (Accompanist) Edison Park, Ill.
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Lonis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich,
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (School of Piano Playing) 410 Fenton Bldg., Jamestown, N. Y.
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 416 W. 61st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 367 W. 63rd St.
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8388) 1921 Wolfram St.
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
POTTER Grace Stewart Bush Temple Conservatory
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4716 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 6715) 6828 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lilian Mary 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THAL Della (620 Addison St.) 610 Fine Arts Building
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn) 55 Auditorium
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservato
WALLACE Evangeline 622 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano College
WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str. 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1616 Maller's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Colo (2226 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Louisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 820 Fine Arts Bldg.
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8166) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 626 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 622 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers 236 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2131) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

GILDEMEISTER Louise M. (Phone Graceland 2166) 718 Fine Arts Bldg., Sat. afternoons
McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1871) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clara Osborne Reed, Dir.) 609 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 61 Auditorium Bldg
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianoforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
INTERNATIONAL College of Music 54 Auditorium Bldg.
KNOX Conservatory of Music Wm. F. Bentley, Dir., Galesburg, Ill.
KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir.) 309 Kimball Hall.
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OAK PARK CONS. Music and Dramatic Art Warrington Bldg.
OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development 613 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 66 Auditorium Bldg.
TOLEDO Musical College Toledo, Ohio
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W 76th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1516 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art. 23 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 89th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.
ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A. (North Shore School of Music) 4666 Evanston Av. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815) Studio, 726 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Wabash 1260 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Irving 22273) 4820 Kimball Av.
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COX Mary A. (Phone Hyde Park 3562) American Conservatory
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.) North Shore School of Music
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco 1549 Octavia St.
FISCHEL Max I. 610 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolbursti) 106 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KITCHIN Joseph 6416 Jackson Av.
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nusshaum School of Music) 4664 Grand Boul.
MUSIN Ovide (Virtuoso) 61 West 76th St., New York
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York,
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 530 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Villim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Alhin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall.
VAN AIKEN Hal G. Soloist and Principal, Violin Dept., So. Bend (Ind.) Conservatory
WOODARD Guy Bush Temple
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.) 85 Auditorium Bldg
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert 6557 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 625 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.

BEEBE Agnes Leist 509 Kimball Hall
BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005) 503 Kimball Hall
BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.) Northwestern University School of Music
BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist) 6119 Greenwood Ave.
BISPHAM David 44 W. 44th St., New York
BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg. Drake School of Music
BOLLMAN Maude Fenion Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.
BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York) Care Haensel and Jones
BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 6819) Kimball Hall
BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8620) 4822 Madison Ave.
BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium) Cosmopolitan School of Music
BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor) 1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.
BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2259 Northwestern Uni. School of Music
BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3886) (Harry Culbertson, Manager)
BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio) Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3521 Wentworth) 7022 Vernon Av.
BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041) 727 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schntz (Meadville, Pa.) Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau
BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183) 520 Fine Arts Building
Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass. 413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.
BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5485) 612 Fine Arts Building
CASE Harriet Auditorium Bldg.
CHENEY Mary (New York) 500 Carnegie Hall
CLARK Charles W. (Paris) 12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.
CLARK Dr. Frederick 63 Auditorium Building
CLARKE Edw. 513 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831) Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)
CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152 Sherwood Music School
CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone) Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11
CLIPPINGER D. A. 410 Kimball Hall
CONANT Alice Widney (Seprano) University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.
CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher) 721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495
COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho) Boise Conservatory of Mnsic
COOK John Loring (Tenor) 300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 6158)
COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913) 4117 W. Harrison St.
CORLEW Mahel (Contralto) 4202 Prairie Ave, (Phone Harrison 973)
COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France) 5 rue Edmond About
CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009) 508 E. 46th Place
CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor) 234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)
DAHLSTROM Margaret 3242 Clifton Ave.
DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique 30 Rue Marbeuf, Champs Elysees, Paris
DE BERNYZ Bertrand (Studios) 58 W. 72nd, New York
DE SALES Regina (Paris, France) 40 rue de Villejnst (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)
DeYOUNG Richard B. American Conservatory
DEVRIES Herman 618-628 Fine Arts Bnilding
DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478) 815 S. Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.
DUFAU Jennie (Colorature Soprano) Chicago Grand Opera Co.
DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310 710 South Central Park Avenue
FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio) H. B. Turpin, Manager
FARNUM Mrs. Frank 3359 Warren Ave.
FICHTNER Lndwig Carl (Basso-Cantante) 149 Tremont St., Boston
FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Harrison 3895) 63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 408)
FREEMAN Ida Belle, 715 Fine Arts Bldg 5905 Ontario St. (Contralto)
FRIDENBERG Abble L. (New York) Studio 110 Carnegie Hall
FRISBIE Constance (Soprano) 6142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)
GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782) 318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.
GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886) 3435 Flournoy St.
GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone) 413 Kimball Hall
GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone) 1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.
GREGORY Heathe (Phone Kenwood 53) 616 E. 49th Street
GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory) Chicago Address, 622 Kimball Hall
GROW Ethel (Phone North 2635) 1002 Dearborn Av,
GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art) 623 Fine Arts Bldg
HADLEY Grant (Tenor) Suite 73 Auditorium Building
HAIGHT Irma (Los Angeles) The Miraflores—1420 Flower St.
HALL William John (St. Louis) Mnsical Art Building
HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497) 423 Fine Arts Bldg.
HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher) 72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.
HAMILTON Jessie Mack (Phone Ravenswood 325) 6057 Winthrop Av.
HARRIS Milon R. 403 Kimball Hall
HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1405) care of Music News
HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.) Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1757)
HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880) 509 Fine Arts Building
HERDIEN Mahel Sharp 5132 Kenmore Ave.
HEUCHLING Mathilde 712 Fine Arts Building
HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923) Chicago Musical College
HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano) 1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)
HINKLE Florence (Soprano) 294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)
HINSHAW William Wade (New York) Metropolitan Opera Company
HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003) 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
HOFKINS Hamilton 710 Fine Arts Bldg.
HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson) 304 Kimball Hall
HOLT GeorgeNelson 509 S. Wabash Ave.
HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano) 3800 Broadway, New York
HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737) 5835 Washington Blvd.
HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544) Auditorium Bldg.
Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland) Tudor Mansions, 3515 Pine Grove Av.
HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante) South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.
HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880 608 Fine Arts Building
HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund Alliance, Ohio
HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4257) 601 Kimball Hall
IREDALE Bertha Smart (Phone Englewood 8880) 357 W. 53rd St.
JOHNS Ethelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131) 6463 Kimbark Av.
JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104) 4937 Michigan Ave.
KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8519) 4433 Racine Avenne
KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201) 523 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)
KIMBELL Grant (Tenor) 5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831
KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
LA BERGE Charles (Baritone) American Conservatory
LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 8774) 1376 East 54th Street
LASH De Witt Dnrgin (Phone Harrison 6365) 420 Fine Arts Bldg
LAYFIELD Mabel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082) 7111 Normal Av.
LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880) 6450 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1
LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335) 4460 Berkeley Av.
LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto) 1311 E. 53rd St.
LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Caroia 3814 Ellis Avenue
LUND Rene S. (Baritone) 2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6802)
LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J) 1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.
LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder) Drake School of Music
MacBURNEY Thomas 609 Fine Arts Building
MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060) 3422 Fulton Street
McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439) 3620 Farnell Av.
MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E. 515 Fine Arts Bldg.
MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France) 27 rue Boislevant
MARCUSSON Grace Brnne (Phone West 681) 2459 Jackson Boul.
MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402) 5256 Berteau Av.
MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.) 209 Wesley Av.
MILLER Christine 1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.
MILLER Herbert 715 Fine Arts Bldg
MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn) 1, W. 34th St., New York
MILLER John B. (Tenor) Chicago Musical College
MOSHER L. Drew 137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.
MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone) 1155 Belmon Ave
MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles) 446 W. 40th Place
MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.
MULREY Mahel V.—Soprano—Planist 47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.
MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4577 300 Athenaeum Bldg.
MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano) 4902 Friendship, Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.
MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano) 5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)
MURRISON Harry R. Alliance, Ohio.
NARELLE Marie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122) 1215 E. 53rd Street
NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano Plymouth, Ind.
NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Anstin 11199) 237 North Howard Av., Austin Sta.
NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York) 930 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)
NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5508) 4137 Drexel Blvd.
OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute) 303 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 5919)
OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147) 2112 Washington Blvd.
PANGBOURNE Annette (Phone Harrison 2313) 519 Kimball Hall
PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England) Care L. G. Sharpe, 51 Reg S
PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto) Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.
PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.) Toledo Musical College
PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3245) 4173 Lake Av.
POTTER Mildred (Contralto) Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,
PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.) Winona School of Music
PROTHEROE Daniel 610 Fine Arts Bldg.
RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bnilding
RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 5782) 1738 Hnmholdt Boulevard
RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor) Barre Plains, Mass.
RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513 413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av
REED Esta Asher (Soprano) Abroad for a season
REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165) 5627 Indiana Av.
REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg) 202 Nixon Building
RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.
RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall 8318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa
ROBBINS Edith Lucile (11th and R sts.) University School of Music, Lincoln Neb.
ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting) 1372 E. 52nd St.
ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877) 7206 Stewart Ave.
RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto) Principal Liederhelm, Anburndale, Mass.
RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265) 719 Fine Arts Bldg.
RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448) 3100 Lexington St.
SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing 201 Clarendon St., Boston
SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano) 401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.
Schwickerath Jos. A. (Mnsical Director 54 Auditorium Bldg. (Tel. Lincoln 4521)
SCHUSTER Katherine 71 Auditorium Bldg.
SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York) Wolfsohn Bureau
SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 459) 408 Kimball Hall.
SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner) St. James Bldg., New York
SEVERINGHAUS Edna Reiffert (Soprano) 63 Anditorium Bldg.
SHELP Dr. H. Wm. 725 Fine Arts Bldg.
SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor) 516 Kimball Hall
SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano) 4053 Michigan Av.
SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano) 6523 St. Lawrence Av.
SMIDT Mahle Corlew (Phone Anstin 12717) 5943 Ohio St.
SMITH Lyla S. (Phone Albany 10059) Studio 3200 Logan Boul.
SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173) 526 Madison St., Gary, Ind.
SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano) Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio
SPOONER Philip (New York) 205 W. 57th St.
STEELE Mary Hinman 603 Kimball Hall
STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh) Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.
STONE Frank (Tenor) 304 Kimball Hall
STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48) 4439 Calumet Av.
STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building
STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 5912) 6106 Kimbark Av.
STEVENSON Lucille 4438 Berkeley Avenue
STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923) 1134 E. 47th St.
STULTS Walter A. (Evanston) Northwestern University School of Mnsic
TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L. Lewis Institute, Phone West 793
THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano) Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.
THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082) 520 Fine Arts Building
TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3765 Bush Temple Conservatory
TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor) 813 La Salle Av.
TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949) 404 Kimball Hall
VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799) 5611 Woodlawn Av.
WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380) 428 Fine Arts Building
WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2968) 1325 E. 64th St.
WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Austin 23973) 5704 Washington Boulevard
WATSON Ruth Swing 1225 E. 62nd St.
WEAVER Iva Bigelow Mack Block, Milwankee Wis.
WEBSTER Frank B. 719 Kimball Hall
WEGENER Mme. Jnstine Rnsh Temple Conservatory
WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone) 51 Auditorium Bldg.
WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 5945) Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal
WHEELER Beatrice Chicago Grand Opera Co.
WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bnreau 1 E. 34th St., New York
WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 1687) 728 Fine Arts Bldg.
WILCOX John C. (Teacher) Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo
WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio) 515 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS Dr. Carver (Samuel B. Garton) Auditorinm Bldg
WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey 406 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS H. Evan Akron, Ohio
WIRTHLIN Rosalie (Wolfsohn) 1 W. 34th St., New York
WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway 5107 Woodlawn Av.
WYNN Bessie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
WYCOFF Eva Emmet 500 W. 143rd, New York
YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York) Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair
ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778) (1140 E. 44th St.)

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

A Master-Model of the Royal

A TREMENDOUS MONEY-SAVING in the reduced initial cost of each unit in your equipment and in the number of machines used.

One standard model for every purpose, with all the special advantages of several typewriters concentrated in one MASTER-MODEL of the ROYAL.

ROYAL TYPEWRITER COMPANY
58 East Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.
Branches and Agencies the World Over.

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

AMEDEO BASSI

As Edgardo in Lucia di Lammermoor

CHICAGO, AMERICA

NOVEMBER 28, 1913.

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic

(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport. Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY

Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean

Evanston, Illinois

Bergey

CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL

Voice Piano

430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Phone Harrison 1595

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

CHICAGO, NOVEMBER 28, 1913.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS

United States, per year, postpaid $2.00

Foreign, per year, postpaid 3.00

Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser and Herbert Bailey
Business Representatives

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

Harmony and Counterpoint, by Mail if Desired
Critic and Special Writer Musical Mss. Edited

LESTER S. BUTLER

TEACHER OF SINGING

Boston and Worcester Critic and Correspondent of Music News. Steinert Hall, Boston, Mass. Day Building, Worcester, Mass.

Compositions and Arrangements

A Sigh (medium voice)	.50	27
Dear Girl with the Dreamy Eyes	.50	27
Twilight Hour	.30	17
Missionary Call (mixed quartet)	.05
Brotherhood Hymn (male quartet)	.06
The Darkey's Lullaby (male quartet)	.15
Inner Voice Waltz (Piano) J. W. Black	.30	17

All the compositions here listed are musically melodious. Obtained of the advertiser or at music stores.

Voices Made Beautiful

Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00. Lessons by correspondence.

Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

Languages

The Berlitz School of Languages.

Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance

Telephone Harrison 392

All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence

400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

The Musicians' Piano Tuner

Rudolph W. Lingenberg

Concert and Studio Work a Specialty

639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

Concert and Choir Bureau

HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director

(In Summy's Music Store)

64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

Chicago Piano College

(Piano-Musicianship)

Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors

Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians

by Horace D. Hitchcock

A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original. The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:

"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."

For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York

Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cent's Postpaid.

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY

522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO

A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request. Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT Sec

DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

Music News

Vol. 5 Chicago, November 28, 1913. No. 48.

Editorial

AN INTERVIEW

Music News is glad to give its editorial page today to an interview with Mlle. Cecile Chaminade, written by Mr. Hugo Goodwin.

This interview shows very clearly the opinion held of the ultra-moderns by Mlle. Chaminade and it also makes the devotion of many people to the works of this school appear in the light of an affectation, though we are always ready to admit the entire right of all mankind to choose his preference even though, as has been said before, "there is no accounting for tastes."

A Visit to Madame Chaminade

"Boarding one of the queer little steam trains at the Gare de Nord, I settled myself for a lovely ride through the charming country-side of Paris. Soon the engine gave the clear, high-pitched whistle so familiar to European travelers, and without jolt or jar our train steamed out of the station.

"Before long we reached the real country, blazing with the colors of the June flowers and verdure. Trim little villages flitted past us—donkey carts, busy peasants, children playing—all bespeaking the contentment and prosperity of the thrifty people.

"Whenever the train stopped passengers would lean out and chat with anyone standing near, jesting and laughing.

"At length we arrived at the little town, Le Vesinet, after about a forty-minute ride.

"At the little depot I was directed along a beautiful shady lane, bordered with chestnut trees in full bloom, which I followed, passing on my way a merry group of children who, in running past me, apologized for their fancied rudeness. At the Boulevard de Midi I turned, and a short walk brought me to the gate I was seeking. After standing there for a moment, puzzling over an apparatus for sounding the bell, I seized the handle and pulled it. No result. Nothing daunted, I pushed it, then swung it and tried twisting it—all to no avail. However, my perplexity was ended by a trim little maid that came running down the path, bubbling over with apologies because the bell did not work, saying that Madame had but just returned from the Midi, and had not as yet had it repaired.

"The house stands well back from the road, completely surrounded by a beautiful garden, and French-like, by a high wall, with a fir hedge inside. Along the flower-bordered path we went, the practical maid explaining that although this was very beautiful, her real pride was in the garden back of the house, where vegetables grew.

"The house was white, long-windowed, and wide-halled. I felt keenly, while waiting to be announced, the honor that had been bestowed on me by Madame, and not a little excited at the prospect of the interview in a strange tongue.

"However, I was promptly at my ease when presented to Madame Chaminade. The first impression I received was that of great intellectuality and wonderful charm of manner. Our conversation opened, strangely enough, with woodcraft, though perhaps the view from her drawing-room windows suggested this—waving birches, thick-leaved chestnuts, and sombre evergreens, with patches of velvet sward between—the wind sighing through all.

"Next we spoke of her visit to America, and I was greatly surprised to learn that there are some two hundred 'Chaminade' clubs in our country. It is her great delight to follow the ups and downs of these, and to advise as to programs and entertainments. She says that as she grows older she grows lonelier, so many of her old friends that used to live near her at Le Vesinet have either died or moved away, and these other interests mean much to her.

"Soon we spoke of music, and rather carefully I broached the subject of so-called 'Modern Music.' I was utterly unprepared for the feeling with which she replied. 'Ugly—insincere' were her expressions. She said that she considered it cowardice on the part of all real musicians, and criminal on the part of those that teach, not to be frank and say that the criterion for judging music must be that of beauty, sincerity and good taste, which would at once brand as unworthy the major portion of the work of the extremists. I questioned her regarding Debussy, as the high-priest of this movement, and she answered that she considered some of his early works to be of value, but that his present-day writings were largely ugly and inartistic.

"'Pelleas and Melisande,' she said, reminded her of a mosaic without design. To be sure, there were beautiful stones here and there, but as a whole it was formless and jumbled. One felt on hearing as though one would eventually get somewhere, but in the end—nothing but unsatisfactory vagueness.

"She kept insisting that everything be judged on its merits—if it be found good, say so, if it be wanting, say so, boldly. Above all, was decried the shame of the teachers that now-a-days so often teach cacophony because it happens to be the vogue.

"I then told of attending a concert where Debussy played some of his new preludes. The audience was perfectly apathetic until Debussy came on, bowing condescendingly, during tumultuous applause, and sat down at the piano, reminding me of a modern Old Man of the Sea, on the shoulders of the public. The noises he brought forth from the piano made me wince—handfuls of racket, exaggerated pianissimos, ever-fed fortes, horrible runs, awful shakes—till, the nightmare over, the sheep-like adorers would cry, 'Bis, Bis,' and off he would go on another cacophonic debauch. A little Frenchman next me kept clinching his fists and muttering under the breath 'Il est fou—c'est horrible—affreux' Then, after the ordeal by piano was over, the bulk of the audience lapsed into apathy, nor could they see any beauty in anything but the music of their idol.

"Madame said that she could match my story with one of her own. She had often been importuned by her friends to play some Debussy for them, but had always refused. At last, determined to see whether they really liked it or not, she told them that she would play some of his music for them on her pianola. Meantime she obtained a roll of the music, unrolled it, carefully cut it from the bobbin, then repasted it on, backwards and upside down. When her friends came, she played it for them, calling it a London Fog, or something of the kind. They went into raptures—she sighed—but really, she said, it sounded somewhat better that way than it had originally.

"Her one theme to which she always returned was, be sincere—don't be like the King and Courtiers in Anderson's Fairy Tale, and pretend to see beauty because others, whom you believe to be sincere, are pretending the same thing.

"From this our talk drifted to other relative topics, Madame telling with keen relish of the chagrin of a picture dealer, an enthusiast over Modernity, who sent a picture to his daughter, and, on visiting her later, found in hung in a conspicuous place—upside down—where scores of people had seen it and gushed over it, not one of them knowing that it was not right-side up.

"All too swiftly the afternoon passed, and as I took my leave Madame herself conducted me to the door, wished me a pleasant voyage, asked me to write to her, and hoped I would soon return again to France.

"My last glimpse of her was on her portal, framed by the spotless white of the doorway, where, with fine courtesy, she stood to nod me a final adieu, as I passed out of the gate and headed back toward Paris."

———♯♯♯———

NATIVE ART

Such concerts as that of last Tuesday, in Orchestra Hall, are but a part of a very general discussion of American art in the concert room and in the music newspaper.

Music News desires to view this question from all sides and to do all that is possible to further the interests of American composers. We therefore reprint here an editorial which appeared in the Chicago Inter Ocean (November 20) and follow it with some contributed comment:

Native American Music

Tuesday night was one which should be marked with a red letter in the calendar of those who hope or strive for the development of American art. There is no doubt that artistically this young nation is progressing, despite the croaking heard from critics who expect to find upon a continent whose rescue from savagery only began 400 years ago the same standards that prevail in civilizations that reach back thousands of years.

In pictorial art we have done very well. In literature we have done exceedingly well. In sculpture we have also done well. In other arts we have made considerable progress. True, in none of these have we produced many professors of the very first rank, although our literature boasts a number of really great names, and in painting, sculpture and architecture we have produced some of the best of our own times. But the average has been good and there is more than hope that America will produce geniuses fit to rank with the famous of all time.

In music, however, we have until recently depended almost entirely upon Europe. We have imported our compositions and our performers, and the best claim we have had to being called musical lay in our appreciation of good foreign music.

Last Tuesday night in Chicago proved that we have passed the merely receptive state and are becoming creative. Under the direction of Glenn Dillard Gunn and with the assistance of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra there was rendered a program entirely made up of American music, and, better still, more than one-half of it was Chicago music.

Four composers' works were presented. MacDowell's, of course, was one, for his is the greatest name in American music. But MacDowell is dead. His message has been conveyed. It is to the living that we must look for furtber development, and the concert proved that in the living, right here is Chicago, we have excellent matcrial.

The first part of the concert was devoted to the work of three Chicago composers, Messrs. Delamarter, Colburn and Sowersby. Mr. Delamarter's contribution, an "Overture to a Fantastic Comedy," was a good piece of work. Mr. Colburn's symphonic poem was acceptable and Mr. Sowerby's violin concerto was a wonderful bit of precocity, the composer being only 18 years old.

These things mean much, and when to them is added the fact that the two soloists, Mr. Felber, the violinist, and Miss Doelling, were both native Americans and young, and the further fact that these performers are both artists of rare attainments, we have concrete evidence that America is progressing in music, both creatively and interpretatively.

November 21, 1913.

It is not so very many years back that little came from the pen of Mr. Gunn in defense of American musical art. He must have had his interest awakened from some source, which, if forgotten, matters little. To champion our musical art and artists is not only praiseworthy, but necessary, if we are to stand on an equal footing with other nations. But, after all, are not the best champions those who give us the product of their brains? MacDowell, Converse, Chadwick, Parker, Mmes. Beach, Hecksher, Freer (we recognize no distinction of sex in art) are the real champions of our music, for they, and others, give us our art, and those among them who, added to this, have shown the deepest colleague-spirit from the start, added to the work they have done, are the ones to whom we should turn, ever, with gratitude, and among them no one has been a more assiduous worker than E. E. Freer.

Cozad.—Members of the piano class of Louise Cozad gave a recital at her studios. 302 Kimball Hall on Monday evening. Those taking part were Emma Wetzel, Irma Hosier, Amber Gonzalez, Helen Knight, Mrs. Strauch, Verne Marsh and Erma Wilson. A program of Schubert, Beethoven, Rubinstein, Grieg, Chaminade, Rachmaninoff, MacDowell and others, was played.

———♯♯♯———

Brander.—Mr. Julius Brander, violinist, who has just joined the faculty of the International College of Music in The Auditorium building, will appear in the Faculty concert, to be given by that institution on December 4.

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
Studio 521 Kimball Hall, Tues. and Fri. Res. 6611 Woodlawn Av.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

JESSIE KING
PIANISTE
Studio 416, 59 E. Van Buren Street

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
3534 Lake St. Available for Church Position

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
13 We Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

BEN O. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

Seven Days of Music

Reviewed by Charles E. Watt

The last week before opera is a busy time for the concert reviewer, for every recital giver and every school tries at that time to get in just one more concert before the big rush.

The Tuesday morning concert, November 18, at the Blackstone, introduced Miss Florence Hinkle and Mr. Chris Anderson in a comprehensive song program which was successfully carried out.

♮ ♮ ♮

The New First Congregational

Gaul's "Holy City" is unquestionably one of the most musical works ever presented by choral bodies in churches, etc., and it has been sung so much that the public has learned to know it intimately and to love it as a tried and true friend.

It has indeed many effective moments and these have never been brought out better in the hearing of this writer than on Friday evening, when the work was given in festival form at the new First Congregational Church, under the direction of H. Augustine Smith, when his united chorus of 135 singers appeared to extremely great advantage.

It was possible to hear only the latter part of the work, but the "Holy, Holy" chorus was done with great refinement, as also the obligato in "List the Cherubic Host," while "Great and Marvelous" was made thoroughly convincing. "Let the Heavens Rejoice" seemed to be keyed too high for the children and occasioned some stridency of tone.

The soloists could not have been better selected. Mable Corlew-Smidt in "These Are They," was superb. Seldom indeed has this telling song been so well done and Miss Lucy Hartman in "Then Shall the King," displayed power, suavity and temperament in such equal proportions as to be thoroughly convincing, and the two singers together gave "They Shall Hunger No More" admirably.

Mr. Grant Kimbell sang "To the Lord" with clear tone, musical phrasing and sincerity of text enunciation, and Dr. William C. Williams exhibited ample authority and breadth of style in the number in which he alternated with chorus.

The regular church quartet sang "The Fining Pot" so well as to win a genuine ovation. Mr. Smith conducted with splendid authority throughout and the new organ afforded Albert Cotsworth many moments of effect, his accompaniments being well modulated throughout.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Orchestra Concert

Significant indeed was the Huber "Symphony" No. 2, E Minor, played on Saturday evening by The Chicago Symphony Orchestra, this furnishing one of the few opportunities to hear anything of the Swiss school of music, one indeed which has but few representatives of any grade, but which has in Huber a world-great figure.

The various movements of this symphony are very fine in individual treatment, and the total picture presented by them is multi-colored and many toned. The "Finale" especially—made up of nine "Variations" to a theme—each one inspired by one of the famous paintings of Bocklin, is wonderful indeed, and few individual numbers of any school can be mentioned which are so exquisitely beautiful as "Variation Six," which was inspired by "The Hermit Fiddling before an Image of the Madonna," and which takes the form of a duet between organ and violin.

Other numbers of the program included colorful works by Braunfels and Tschaikowsky, besides a rather barren "Caprice" for harp solo by Pierne.

♮ ♮ ♮

Sunday Concerts

It is said on good authority that the larger concerts in Chicago on Sunday afternoon and evening were attended by more than ten thousand people and even this does not include many church "special services" and smaller recitals of one kind or another.

This is certainly a very gratifying state of affairs and one which proves that Chicago is surely much devoted to good music, for all of the music presented on Sunday was of high grade.

Leaving Spencer, Kreisler, The Kneisels and various other great factors to others, this writer spent the afternoon at St. Paul's Church, and had the pleasure of hearing Mr. John Allen Richardson's Choir in an excellent program.

The anthems were "O, Clap Your Hands," by Stainer—a work of dignity and breadth with a fine trio for soprano, tenor and bass, and with a splendid fugal development in the last phrases—and "The Wilderness and the Solitary Place," by Sir John Goss, another distinctly English anthem with massive choral passages, and an extremely beautiful tenor solo.

Mr. William Clifford did the tenor work in this with great skill and an abiding tonal charm, while the soprano solos were sung by Robert Rea, a remarkably effective boy soprano, who also sung Mendelssohn's "Hear Ye, Israel," in a way to prove that he has remarkable musical intuition as well as fine voice, and also to prove that his training has been very good.

Mr. Clifford was heard also in "How Many Hired Servants," from Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Prodigal Son," and still further deepened the good impression of his work, and showed again that he is a singer whose every appearance marks an advance in vocal art and who may safely be depended upon to reach the very highest places in the field of church singing.

Mr. Richardson played all the accompaniments with great authority and conducted the service numbers with entire conviction. The "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis" were by Mann and they were not only well chosen, but also were sung with a devotion to the religious as well as the musical aspects, which made them entirely convincing.

Beautiful tenor solos abounded in these numbers, as well as in the anthems, and Mr. Clifford had unusual opportunities all through the afternoon to display his abilities.

Among the hymns—all sung splendidly—was "America," which was a genuine inspiration, and both the opening and closing organ numbers were of much value.

Iva Bigelow Weaver
SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work.
May Mansfield
PARIS STUDIOS: 27 rue Boisleveu Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER
VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory
207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.
A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Aak for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN
AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
Care WHITE, SMITH AND CO., BOSTON SEASON 1912-1913

H. W. OWENS
VOCAL DIRECTOR
WESTERN CONSERVATORY
Voice Teacher Coaching
PHONE CENTRAL 7804

Beatrice Wheeler
CONTRALTO
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

Valparaiso Music College
Department of
Valparaiso University
Second Largest University in the United States
VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh International Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD VIOLINIST LOEBER TEACHER RECITALS Musicales
3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA Contralto WAIT
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

ROBERT REA
Soprano Soloist at St. Paul's.

Sinai Temple Concert

More and more do the Sinai Temple concerts grow in popularity, and more and more are they adding to the prestige and the reputation of Arthur Dunham, who has not only proved himself an orchestral leader of keen insight and great power, but who, in his solo each Sunday night proves himself anew to be one of the most delightful artists in Chicago.

He played the "Offertoire in D" by Batiste last Sunday night and was rewarded by such a burst of enthusiasm as very rarely falls to the lot of any organist.

The orchestra played "Der Frieschutz" (Weber), the C Major No. 1 "Symphony" (Beethoven), with pleasing interpretation and excellent tonal effects, and in "Cosatschogue" by Dargomijsky disclosed a novelty of rich color, while the "Three Dances" from "The Bartered Bride" (Smetana) were also as novel as pleasing.

Mr. Heathe Gregory read a new poem of Irene Sargent, set to music by Harry Leonard Vibbard, this being played on the organ. Mr. Gregory made the mistake of standing in the organ loft instead of on the platform and the organ was played much too loud, therefore the effectiveness of the reading was not so great as it might have been, but the audience was so pleased nevertheless that an encore was insisted upon, Mr. Gregory giving the "Slumber Song" from Gounod's "Philemon and Baucis."

For his second appearance Mr. Gregory chose a group of songs in English text and he proved himself a splendid singer and one with great experience and fine style to back him.

Fisher's "Falstaff's Song" proved to be a bravoura song of strong color and was sung very tellingly by Mr. Gregory, "Myself When Young" (Lehmann), is a great favorite with this singer, and is sung by him with an authority entirely unusual, and "Sacrament," a new song by MacDermid, which is graceful, temperamental and altogether suited to the voice line, was made so effective that an encore was necessary. For this Mr Gregory chose "L'Adeau Matin" by Pessard, and sang it with superlative style and finish.

This singer has an amazing voice, for although slight of stature and youthful in appearance he has very great breadth and power throughout his extended range, and his lower scale is especially extended and includes resonant tones of remarkable depth, which might well be envied by any basso.

Musically this singer is abundantly blessed and temperamentally he is unusual. With these gifts he combines style and finish in a remarkable degree and his interpretations are varied and original. Well known in many parts of the country Mr. Gregory is just beginning his Chicago career and it is very easy to predict for him here an abundant success.

Cecil Fanning in Evanston

On Tuesday evening the great attractions downtown were abandoned in favor of the song recital given by Cecil Fanning at the Music Hall of the Northwestern University School of Music in Evanston, and here indeed was pure delight found.

Mr. Fanning is almost sui generis in

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

his class of recital for, not only does he sing beautifully, but he is also such an interpreter as one rarely hears and one of his evenings is so charming an occasion as to stand out very distinctly as a peculiarly bright spot in any season of concert going.

Mr. Fanning has been abroad for a year and has won remarkable commendation in some of the most critical musical centers in the world. It was therefore with an added zest that he was heard on Tuesday evening and inced his voice was found to have grown and broadened very perceptibly during the past year, while, if such a thing be possible, there was an even added finish to all his work, and a still keener edge to the humor he knows so well how to apply.

His program was a marvel of excellence in arrangement and it contained very much of unique interest and value, besides that necessary quota of old favorites which every audience insists upon hearing from Mr. Fanning.

Some very carefully selected and admirably contrasted numbers by Beethoven and Schubert gave a distinctly classic tinge to the first part and Rachmaninoff in "Morning" and "Oh Thou Billowy Harvest-Field" provided opportunity for bravoura and breadth according to the most modern of lines and Eugen Haile in "Teufelslied" provided both novelty and splendid vocal and dramatic values.

Also in this part of the program Mr. Fanning presented "Der Flieger" and "Moonlight" by Hubert Pataky, a young Hungarian now resident in Berlin, whose works have been much sung by Mr. Fanning and who is in many respects a marvelously gifted genius.

As encore at the close of this group, Mr. Fanning sang "Wohin" by Schubert, a number in which he is superb.

The next group consisted of "Folk Songs" and it was indeed a novel and charming treat. After pleasing intensely with the Pradher "Bouton de Rose," the singer took up "Le Cycle du Vin" with such spirit and so amplified its text with facial expression and apt gesture that he had his audience convulsed with laughter, even though the words were French.

"Dame Durden" (Old English), arranged by Ferrari, and "No! John" (Old English), arranged by Cecil Sharp, provided such an opportunity for humorous characterization that Mr. Fanning was enabled to sweep the audience off its feet, figuratively, and he was compelled to add two encores, besides repeating the program numbers. His first added number was a negro song by Fay Templeton, which he said would probably be ranked as an American folk song later and "The Keys of Heaven," a number in which Mr. Fanning is without any adequate competition.

Clara Butt and her husband gave the number here as a duet, but the two of them together were utterly unable to invest the song with half the charm given it by Mr. Fanning.

The last group opened with "I Had a Dove," a beautifully sustained song by Carl Busch, and which was made delightful in the suavity and the legato with which Mr. Fanning was able to invest it, the same thing being true of Ellen Wright's "A Dream," one of the final encore selections.

Pietro Yon's "The Fool of Thule" proved to be a dramatic splash and Sidney Homer's "The Last Leaf" was a piece of character painting with musical coloring which was splendid throughout but which in its final phrases rose to positive virtuosity of breadth and power.

Harriet Ware's "Mammy's Song" was written for Mr. Fanning and it is sung by him with a finish and a completion of the dramatic aspect which cannot be excelled by any one. Every audience delights in it and every one gives Mr. Fanning an ovation whenever he sings it. Another encore number was the Loewe "Erl King" and this proved to be one of the very strong points of the entire recital.

Mr. Fanning has studied this composition to a finish and is able to put into it a dramatic intensity and an amount of color which is rarely heard either in the Schubert or the Loewe setting of the text.

Mr. Fanning held his Evanston audience in the hollow of his hand throughout the evening and not only charmed them continually with the beauty of his vocalism but also was able to play upon their emotions at will, evoking laughter one moment and moving to tears at the next. The whole gamut of emotions is within the Fanning grasp and no interpretative or musical difficulty is beyond his easy solution.

As always, Mr. Fanning was seconded and reinforced in the most remarkable way by H. B. Turpin, who is not only an accompanist with but few peers, but who also is a co-interpreter of each program in a most satisfactory way.

Effa Ellis Perfield
Keyboard Harmony
Melody Building and
Teaching System
Mean, Rapid, Definite Reasoning, Based on the TRUTH Brief and Simple. Write about Special Modulation Course
EFFA ELLIS
204-5 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

The Bach Choral Society

Mr. John W. Norton, who has evolved a thoroughly satisfactory choral body from the raw material available on the West Side, in three years, on Wednesday evening presented these singers, "The Bach Choral Society," in a remarkably effective musical program at the Y. M. C. A. Association Hall, a place, by the way, which might be very much improved for concert purposes.

The program was divided into two parts, the first of which consisted of "Bide with Us" and "Ave Verum" by Bach and the second part devoted to "Song of Miriam" by Schubert, these affording remarkably effective contrast to each other.

The Bach numbers were given with great sincerity of purpose, great virility of chorus tone and a goodly amount of light and shade from the chorus, while the three soloists, Jennie F. W. Johnson, Grant Kimbell and Luther J. Williams, alto, tenor and bass, each added solo numbers of value and beauty. Miss Johnson is sincere and earnest to the last degree in all oratorio and is especially suited to Bach, while Mr. Kimbell also proved at this time that he is a singer to whom the most serious and abstruse problems present only solvable difficulties and who can also invest this sort of work with full authority.

In the "Song of Miriam" Mrs. Mabel Sharp Herdien found opportunity for graceful singing and some dramatic work. She was, however, somewhat hampered by the fact that both chorus and orchestra were too loud in those portions (of very frequent occurrence) where the soprano solo serves as obligato to choral effect.

The Symphony Orchestra played a Schubert "Symphony" movement with great charm and Mr. Norton conducted throughout with skill and finish.

♮ ♮ ♮

Sherwood Music School

On Thursday evening the Sherwood School presented Herbert Kirschner, Mathilda Heuchling, Georgia Kober, Genevra Johnstone-Bishop, G. Magnus Schutz and Paul Van Katwijek in Concert at Assembly Hall, the last named teacher appearing in duo with Miss Kober and as joint accompanist with Walter Keller.

Mr. Kirschner was heard only in the concluding movement of the Saint-Saens B Minor violin "Concerto," but showed good poise, style and technical equipment for his task.

Miss Heuchling sang Van Der Stucken's "O Come with Me in the Summer Night" and "Des Kraut Vergessenheit" (Hildach) with distinguished style and to the great delight of the audience.

Her voice came out excellently in these numbers and all matters pertaining to musicianship and style were taken care of in minute detail — especially fine is the pronunciation of German text by Miss Heuchling.

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studeba ker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - NEWMAN
Baritone
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires -makes not mars-the soloist, enabling him to bring out his best. 1246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
Management Alma Voedisch. 3836 Wilton Av., Chicago

She sang also two songs by Mr. Van Katwijek, which left the impression that this composer knows a great deal about piano writing and not quite so much about the voice; for the songs, while possessing splendid piano accompaniments, were not exactly suited to Miss Heuchling's voice. Mr. Van Katwijek displayed skill and brilliance in playing the accompaniments.

Miss Heuchling was received with marked favor in her two first numbers and at the close of her group was given much applause and many flowers.

Miss Kober, scintillant as to style and brilliant in interpretations as always, played a Liszt "Nocturne" (No. 2) and the well-known "Etude in D Flat" with fine tonal quality and absolute rhythmic and dynamic command—was satisfactory in the "Valse Caprice" by Cyril Scott, this being a number much more definite and clear both harmonically and rhythmically than most of the works by this English imitator of Debussy and closed her group with the "Gavotte and Musette" by d'Albert which, being a wonderfully effective composition in itself, became, plus the Kober vim and technic, a piece of virtuosity difficult to overestimate in value.

The remaining numbers of the concert were not heard by this writer.

♮ ♮ ♮

Men's Fall Festival Chorus

Few musical factors of the life of Chicago have so sincere a purpose or make so emphatic an appeal as does the work of the Men's Fall Festival Chorus which, under the baton of Edward Clissold, attains each year an ever higher and greater success.

On Thursday evening at Orchestra Hall these singers were in their best form and presented a program, well selected, excellently contrasted and interesting throughout.

The "Hallelujah" from Messiah was done in surprisingly large style and many other excellent works were given, this writer hearing, however, only "John Peel" (Old English), "The Parting" (Dregert) and "Love's Old, Sweet Song." The first of these was sung with great steadiness and suavity, the volume of tone being both round and even. The second seemed to lie too high for the first tenors; at any rate they did not sustain their higher phrases well while the last was an object lesson in neat shading and clear enunciation of text as well as abounding throughout with the finest sort of musical values.

Some remarkable hymn singing by chorus and congregation was heard, this easily proving Mr. Clissold to be a choral and congregational conductor with but few rivals and the "Maple Quartet" was heard with much pleasure in "The Cuckoo" (Fittig) and "Comin' thro' the Rye" (Root) as well as three light encores.

The quartet is composed of four young matrons of Morgan Park and the work of Thursday was such as to warrant the assumption that they will certainly be able to fill a large place in their chosen field.

Mr. Edgar Nelson played two organ numbers, only the last of which was heard, this being "Im Volkston," an erratic composition by Grieg which involves elaborate registration, virtuoso pedal manipulation and a general excellence of technic as well as an abounding musicianship. All these things Mr. Nelson brought to its reading and he again proved himself very easily one of the very best concert organists in Chicago.

This distinguished harp soloist, Mrs. Helena Stone Torgerson, appeared twice on the program and was greeted at each appearance with most enthusiastic applause. Mrs. Torgerson plays the harp in an altogether superior way, for, besides possessing transcendent technic for the instrument, she is a thorough musician and has also abundant good taste in interpretation.

"Consolation" (No. 6), Liszt, and "Elegie" by Hasselmans, constituted her first group and proved her entire musicianship to such satisfaction that many recalls resulted. For a second group she gave "Reverie," "Butterfly" and "Concert Waltz" of her own composition, and proved not only a graceful gift for writing, but still added technical ability for her instrument.

(Continued on page 23)

Ida Mae Cameron
LYRIC SOPRANO
Assisting LUDWIG SCHMIDT
STUDEBAKER THEATER
Sunday, December 7th
3:30 p. m.
Direction F. WIGHT NEUMANN

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR
420 Fine Arts Bldg
LASH

Music in Chicago

JOINT SONG RECITAL

Esther Muenstermann, contralto, and Hugh Anderson, basso cantante, assisted by Leroy Wetzel, accompanist, and R. E. Patterson Kline, reader, appeared at the Warren Avenue Congregational Church Thursday evening, November 20, in a joint song recital. They gave to a very appreciative audience a program arranged with excellent taste and filled with numbers that gave each performer a chance to use his powers to the best advantage and so give real pleasure throughout to the lovers of good singing that were in attendance. Miss Muenstermann, who possesses a voice of the rich contralto quality and of exceptional range, was heard in two groups of songs by various composers and the "Habanera" by Bizet. She went through with her share of the program showing fine interpretative powers and with a thoroughly convincing manner. Added to this is an engaging stage presence which makes her very much admired as a concert singer. Mr. Anderson's voice was in fine condition and as always it was a real musical treat to hear him and especially was this true of his delivery of the Handel Aria "Honor and Arms." In his groups of songs he displayed his powers to best advantage. He is so convincing in what he does that one cannot fail to get some good from every number he sings. Miss Muenstermann and Mr. Anderson were heard in three duets, opening and closing the program with numbers chosen to be most effective in their places on the program.

It was indeed a pleasure to hear Mr. Kline in his group of readings which consisted of short poems and stories told in a way that received loud approval from the audience. Mr. Wetzel, who was called on short notice to fill the place of the accompanist announced, appeared under difficulties in that he had rehearsed very little with the singers. However, Mr. Wetzel is so capable in his work as an accompanist that lack of rehearsing was apparent only in a few of the numbers on the program.

H. M. B.

NORTH SIDE TURNER HALL

On Sunday afternoon last the soloists of the orchestra concert at the North Side Turner Hall were highly satisfactory.

The orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. William Boeppler, did splendid work. Mr. Rene S. Lund sang the "Pilgrim's Song," Tschaikowsky. He was in fine voice, a big, resonant tone filling the hall in a most unusual way. He was heartily received and for encore gave "Morning Hymn" by Henschel. Miss Alice R. Deal supplied the accompaniment for the encore in a sympathetic manner.

Miss Mae Doelling played the MacDowell "Concerto" in D Minor, first movement, and the large and critical audience assured her of their hearty approval and enjoyment. She, also, was recalled until she gave another number.

M. K. W.

ALLEN SPENCER'S RECITAL

In an unusually attractive and well-selected program, Mr. Spencer, at his recital in the Fine Arts Theater, on Sunday afternoon, did some of the best playing that has ever been heard from him in Chicago, and pleased a large and discriminating audience. Mr. Spencer was in fine form, and everything that he did was authoritative He was particularly happy in the seldom heard "Allegro" from Bach's "Toccata in G Major," and the "Gigue" from the Ninth Suite of Handel. The "Prelude," "Fugue" and "Variations," by Cesar Franck, transposed from the organ score by Harold Bauer, which if memory is correct has been played only once before in Chicago, and that a numbers of years ago by Bauer, proved a work of great beauty, and was given in a most effective way by Mr. Spencer. It was followed by three "Preludes" from the second book of "Preludes" by Debussy. Of these the last, "Fireworks," made an instantaneous hit with the audience. It must be confessed that after the somewhat forced strangeness of these numbers the beautiful melody and perfect form of the Schubert "Impromptu," Op. 142, No. 3, came as a welcome relief, and Mr. Spencer's playing of this now seldom heard number elicited some of the most prolonged and spontaneous applause of the afternoon. It was followed by Ganz's "Bauerntanz," and this by Cyril Scott's "Autumn Idyll," a really lovely thing of decided originality. Mr. Spencer might have dispensed with Moszkowski's "Autumn," as well as with the Verdi-Liszt "Ernani Paraphrase," but both the "Waldesrauschen" and "Gnomenreigen" by Liszt were delightfully given. In all that he did Mr. Spencer again showed himself to be a musician of unusual intelligence and progressiveness. He was recalled repeadedly after each group, but refused to give an extra number until the end of the program, when he played Heller's "Cradle Song."

O. N.

CALVARY EPISCOPAL CHOIR

Calvary Episcopal Choir gave one of its fine musical services Sunday evening, November 16, and had as special soloist Grant Kimbell, who sang most effectively the setting of the ninety-first psalm by MacDermid.

The choir rendered the Magnificat in F by Wood, the Nunc Dimittis by Whitney and the anthem "Ye Shall Go Out with Joy" by Barnby, in which Mrs. Gertrude McKinlay sang in her usual fine voice the solo parts.

Elbert Ripley, choirmaster and organist, played Brewer's 'Autumn Sketch" and Calkin's "Harvest Thanksgiving March" in an artistic manner.

Kimbell—Grant Kimbell was tenor soloist with the Paulist Choristers at Quincy, Ill., on November 22, and sang in Maunder's "Song of Thanksgiving," at Christ Episcopal Church on November 23.

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4366

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

MAE Doelling Pianist Teacher
4141 N. Hermitage Av

MR. LUTTON SINGS BEFORE THE ARCHE CLUB

Mr. Charles E. Lutton is a young artist who not only possesses fine voice and good musical style, but who also is an exceptionally versatile singer and interpreter.

His voice, rich and full on songs of broad intent, is equally amenable to the requirements of gentler moods and while he has seriousness of purpose always and appreciates, the task of interpretating a strongly virile song to the utmost, he yet has also an abounding sense of humor and can therefore deliver songs of humorous intent with an unction which is impossible to most singers.

The Arche Club engages the best young artists available and gives them an appearance before an audience which is a joy to behold. But the time limit is very sharp and in one brief group the artist must make his entire impression and reap his reward.

To plan this group therefore so that it will be absolutely vital and will at the same time carry swift conviction is the task before the artist and in Mr. Lutton's case it was accomplished with perfect conviction.

Grant Schaefer's "Song of Saul" (dedicated to Mr. Lutton) made a splendidly brilliant opening number, Sinding's "Light" afforded opportunity for intensity of mood, the "Floral Dance" by Moss was engagingly light and jovial, while "Supposin'" by Trevelsa provided Mr. Lutton one of those facetious moments he knows so well how to employ to the utmost advantage and this impression he was able to deepen by his excellent reading of "Zummerzetshire," which he gave as an encore.

Mr. Lutton was in excellent voice and sang with great style and finish, being materially assisted by Miss Clare Livingston, his accompanist. C. E. W.

A BERGEY PUPIL

Miss Martha Meier of the Bergey Chicago Opera School played the following program of German compositions before the Book Club of Bryn Mawr Wednesday afternoon:

Scherzo ..... Mendelssohn
Fugue ..... Bach
Solffeggio ..... Bach
Menuetto ..... Schubert
Spinnerlied ..... Bendel

Chicago Concert Quartet—Miss Mary Ann Kaufman, soprano; Mrs. Permelia Gale, contralto; Mr. Grant Kimbell, tenor, and Mr. Frank M. Dunford, bass, are to appear at Association Auditorium on Wednesday evening, January 21, 1914, in a program to be given jointly by them and the Chicago Choral Society.

PAULIST CHORISTERS

The Paulist Choristers, 75 boys and 50 men, Father William J. Finn, C. S. P., musical director, will give a concert next Sunday afternoon, November 30, at the Studebaker, under the direction of F. Wight Neumann. Master Edgar Donovan, senior solo soprano of Grace Church, New York, and George F. O'Connell, tenor, will be the assisting artists. The choristers will also sing to the accompaniment of the Paul Schoessling string quartet. The program is as follows:

Emmitte Spiritum Tumm.....Fr. Josef Shuetky
Quis Est Homo.....Josef Rheinberger
Eia Mater Fons Amoris.....Josef Rheinberger
Missa Solemnis in C.....J. Lewis Browne
(This mass is dedicated to Father Finn, and is performed for the first time at this concert.)
(a) Kyria, Gloria; (b) Credo; (c) Sanctus, Benedictus, Agnus Dei.
Soloist, Mr. Thomas McGranahan, senior tenor of Choristers
With Verdure Clad, "Creation".....Haydn
Agnus Dei (Lamb of God).....Bizet
Master Edgar Donovan
Tenebrae Factae Sunt.....Michael Haydn
Carol: Who is This Child.....Young
Questioners, Masters Howard and Francis Tobin
Sanctus from the Messe de Ste. Cecile.....Gounod
Soloist, Mr. McGranahan
Ave Verum .....J. S. Bach
Quando Corpus Morietur.....Josef Rheinberger
Recitative and Aria "O Loss of Light".....Handel
Mr. George F. O'Connell
Fair the Dawn Appears (From "Paradise Lost").....Therodore Dubois
By many requests:
"Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes..Old English
Mr. O'Connell and Choristers
The De'il's Awa'.....Delamarter
Jeunes Fillettes.....Weckerlin
Master Donovan
Jerusalem from "Gallia".....Gounod
Soloist, Master Donovan
Miss Mary Anderson, Accompanist

CHARLES W. CLARK RECITAL

Mr. Charles W. Clark, assisted by Lulu Jones Downing and Gordon Campbell, will appear at Fine Arts Theater on Sunday afternoon, November 30, at 3:30, in the following program:

PROGRAM

Air de Cadmus et Hermione.....Lulli
Air de Caron.....Lulli
Laisse en paix le dieu dis Combats.....Gretry
Die Mainacht
Wie hist du meine Konigen
Minnelied
Non Ewiger Liebe
Verrath
.....Brahms
L'invitation aux Voyage.....Duparc
Extase .....Duparc
Clare de Lune
Les Roses d'Ispahan
Automne
.....Faure
Pilgrimage .....Arthur Dunham
Uncle Rome.....Sidney Homer
Scorned Love .....Kurt Schindler
This Fairest One of All the Stars.....Kurt Schindler
Fool's Soliloquy.....Campbell-Tipton
Apparitions
A Vision Beautiful (Mss.)
June
"Think No More, Lad" (Mss.)
Jones Downing
(From "A Shropshire Lad" (Housman)

THE FROSOLONO QUARTET

For the civic center concert at Sherman Park, Sunday afternoon, November 23, was chosen Signor Antonio Frosolono and his Illinois Theater Quartet, assisted by Paul van Katwijk, pianist. The fine weather brought forth a very large crowd to the pavilion where this series of concerts are held. The program given by Signor Frosolono and his assistants was of much breadth and worth and arranged in a manner which proved very delightful to the audience. The quartet in E flat by Mozart opened the program and was followed by the "Sonata" in E minor by M. Enrico Bossi, in an interpretation which did infinite credit to the musicianship of its players, Signor Frosolono and Mr. van Katwijk. In a group of numbers for the strings, the ensemble of this splendid quartet was heard to best advantage. Closing the program, the quartet had the assistance of Mr. van Katwijk at the piano in the "Marche Militaire" by Schubert. It was indeed a splendid choice for the pianist of the afternoon. His playing is marked by a faultless and resourceful technic and the ease with which he plays makes him most promising as a concert pianist. Our wish is that more free concerts such as this can be arranged for the masses in the outlying districts.

H. M. B.

MISS HOLINGER'S RECITAL

The following program will be given at Fine Arts Theater on Monday, December 1, by Elsa F. Holinger, soprano, assisted by Mae Doelling, pianist, and Dr. Carl Bertchinger, accompanist:

"Schoen Gretlein".....Alexander von Fielitz
A cycle of seven songs
Modern French Songs—
"LaCloche" .....C. Saint-Saens
"Bonjour Suzon".....Leo Delibes
"Hai-luli" .....Arthur Coquard
Piano—
Ballade in A flat, opus 47.....Chopin
Valse in A flat, opus 42.....Chopin
Manuscript Songs .....Dr. Carl Bertschinger
Dedicated to Elsa F. Holinger
Poems by Martin Drescher
"Die Haide"
"Bettelleut'"
"Jenseits der Berge"
(The composer at the piano)
Three Lyrics .....Daniel Protheroe
"Ah, Love, But a Day"
"I Send My Heart Up to Thee"
"The Year's at the Spring"
Piano—
Concert Etude in D flat.....Liszt
"Spinning Song" from the "Flying Dutchman" .....Wagner-Liszt
Modern German Songs—
"Viel Traueme" .....Chrisian Sinding
"Verborgenheit" .....Hugo Wolf
"Wiegenlied" .....Johannes Brahms
Aria—
"Vissi d'Arte" ("La Tosca").....Giacomo Puccini
"Elsa's Traum" ("Lohengrin").....Richard Wagner

Clark—Mr. Charles W. Clark, the eminent American baritone, will give his first Chicago recital at the Fine Arts Theater Sunday afternoon, November 30.

During the present month Mr. Clark has been averaging four recitals per week and everywhere has had unqualified success. The critics say that never before in Mr. Clark's singing life has his voice shown such marvelous tone qualities. His first Chicago appearance this year bids fair to be one of the artistic events of the season.

Thomas N. MacBurney
Baritone — Voice Production — Song Recitals
Three years assistant to King Clark
608-609 Fine Arts Bldg. Chicago — Phone Harrison 6880

North Shore School of Music
Broadway and Leland Ave.
The Ideal School for Resident and Out of Town Pupils.

WILLIAM A. WHITE, President. Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, William A. White, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC AND THEORY, William A. White. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul
ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)
CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar
TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868

BLISS FACULTY IN CONCERT

On Wednesday afternoon, November 19, at the Oak Park Club, members of the faculty of the Bliss School of Music were heard in a splendidly arranged program, under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary. A large and appreciative audience was in attendance, and that they were very much delighted was proven by the large amount of applause following each number. Those of the faculty taking part were Beatrice Henry, Anna Marion Thompson and Winifried Cline, pianists; George Bass and David Jacobs, violinists; Permelia Gale, voice; Day Williams, 'cello; Ethel Robinson, reader, and Ruth Simmons, accompanist.

That Day Williams was on the program for several numbers proved to be one of the leading pleasures of the afternoon. He seemed to be in extra fine form on this occasion and he played his numbers with an abandon, yet at the same time he was sure and drew forth beautiful tones such as are seldom heard.

Permelia Gale was heard in the heavy aria, "Don Fatale," by Verdi, and as she possesses ample powers in her personality and beautiful contralto voice, the interpretation of the old aria was a delight, indeed, to her interested hearers. Mrs. Gale closed the program with a group of songs by Schneider, Lie, Moir and Tschaikowsky, displaying in these that which is always hers—the warmth and richness of tone which is so satisfying to the real lover of music.

Special mention must be made of the violin playing of George Bass. As a member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra Mr. Bass has been kept from solo playing to a certain extent, and therefore lovers of good violin playing have missed hearing a performer who possesses an instrument that pours forth tone of excellent quality; so added to his asset, his excellent musicianship, he reveals a wealth of tonal beauty and technical finish. Especially was this true in his playing of the "Rondo Capriccioso" by Saint-Saens. H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

Messiah.—The Apollo Musical Club announces two performances of Handel's "Messiah" during the Christmas holidays. The first to be Monday night, December 29, at Orchestra Hall, and the second Friday night, January 2, at the Auditorium Theater.

———♯♯♯———

Easter—Miss Margurite Easter has engaged Mme. Teresa Carreno to appear at her morning musicale at the Blackstone Tuesday, December 16, at 11 o'clock.

♮ ♮ ♮

———♯♯♯———

Willett.—Sidnie Smith Cooley, a pupil of William A. Willett, assisted by Elmer Johnson, pianist, gave a program at Kimball Hall on Wednesday evening.

FESTIVAL CONCERTS

The dedicatory organ and choral festival held at the New First Congregational Church, Ashland and Washington boulevards, on Thursday evening, November 20, drew out an audience that almost taxed the seating capacity of the large old church. The new First Church organ, a Hook and Hastings instrument, built some forty years ago, has just undergone extensive repairs, so in view of this fact Harrison M. Wild was the organist chosen to dedicate this fine old instrument as it now stands. Mr. Wild opened the program with the "Sonata" Opus 22, by Dudey Buck, and at various times during the evening he was heard in groups of numbers by miscellaneous composers. Mr. Wild again proved what a splendid master of the organ he is and the audience greeted him with rapturous applause. The Treble Clef Choir of forty voices, with Mable Corlew Smidt, soprano, and Alice Munson, pianist, under the direction of H. Augustine Smith, gave the cantata "Hesperus," by Brewer, and the church quartet was heard in "God So Loved the World," by Woodman, and "The Woods and Every Sweet Smelling Tree," by West. Very seldom, indeed, is heard such finished singing as that done by these organized choirs. Mrs. Smidt, who has at her command a soprano voice of excellent quality, power and range, closed the program by singing the "Agnus Dei" by Bizet. In this number she had the assistance of Mrs. Roscoe King, pianist; Mr. Roscoe King, violinist, and Albert Cotsworth, organist. H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

BLACKSTONE MUSICALE

The musicale given at the Blackstone Saturday evening by Lorraine Decker Campbell and Mildred Henderson was of unusual interest to artists, as the program was given entirely to the work of an American composer, Eleanor Everest Freer.

The piano numbers, "Andante" and "Rondo," combine the classic and modern form in a most interesting way, and impress one as having a fullness not often expressed in piano works. The songs are of singular beauty both as to text and melody. Mrs. Freer has an individuality as distinctive as Brahms or Schubert, and quite as lovely. The "I Have Done, Put by the Lute," "To a Dreamer," "You" and "Portuguese Sonnet No. 39," showing a versatility in composition which belongs alone to the truly great ones.

Mrs. Campbell's voice is a dramatic soprano possessed of a wonderful sweetness of tone, and the audience gave proof of their pleasure not only of her work as an artist, but also of the songs, by demanding many repetitions.

Excellent accompaniments were played by Mrs. Mildred Henderson.

A GOOD CHOIR CONCERT

A program of much beauty and worth was that given by the choir of the Garfield Boulevard M. E. Church, on Friday evening, November 21. Their work on this occasion deserves special mention and much praise, because of the fact that it is strictly a volunteer choir made up of twenty-five voices, and is under the efficient direction of Mable H. McDuffee, the organist. That the people near this church appreciate what Miss McDuffee has accomplished with this choir is proved by the fact that a very large audience was in attendance. The program was made up of solos, duets, quartets, anthems by the choir as a whole and organ selections. The numbers were of good grade, showed much careful rehearsing and were delivered in good style. There are several good voices in this choir and are deserving of special mention. Lillian Norris, Mrs. McClellan, Mrs. Kleyensteuber, sopranos; Grace Donnelly, contralto, and Forest Miller, bass, were all heard to good advantage. Great credit is due Miss McDuffee for making this concert possible and her organ numbers of the evening brought her forth as an organist of high attainments, and her playing was indeed a delight to her many admirers. H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

RECITAL BY WILLIAM W. HINSHAW

One of the most interesting of all the announcements for the first half of the current season is the song recital which is to be given in Chicago by William Wade Hinshaw on Sunday, December 7.

First of all, Mr. Hinshaw is a great personal favorite here and there are thousands of admirers of his personality and his art who will welcome this opportunity to hear him after a rather long absence from the local concert stage.

But also—Mr. Hinshaw is an artist of world reputation and his attainments with the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York and elsewhere have been such as to make him a figure of very great interest to the public at large everywhere.

His splendid voice and fine histrionic ability are such as to have advanced him with unusual rapidity on the operatic stage. He has made successes in the following remarkable list of operas: "Parsifal," "Die Meistersinger," "Lohengrin," "Tannhauser," "Die Gotterdammerung," "Das Rheingold," "Germania," "Aida," "Monna Vanna," "Lobestanz" and "Cyrano."

———♯♯♯———

Christ Episcopal Church—At Christ Episcopal Church, Woodlawn, on Sunday evening, under direction of Mason Slade, Maunder's "Song of Thanksgiving" was sung by the chorus and the following list of soloists: Masters Raymond Allison, Gordon Wolff, Ritchie Tredwill and Montell Meeks and Messrs. Grant Kimbell, John Dryborrough, Claude Baldwin and Roger Tuttle.

SAINT PETER'S CHURCH

A special musical service was held at St. Peter's Church, on Sunday evening, November 23. Mr. Herbert Hyde, organist and director, has under his direction a boys' and men's choir of sixty voices, and that they have excellent training was easily distinguished in the manner they interpret their numbers, especially was this true on Sunday night in the giving of Maunder's "Song of Thanksgiving." Their work in this number was marked by splendid attack, enunciation and even flow of tone volume. Gilbert Moss, the soprano, did some extra fine work in his solos, as did Thorsten Ahlberg, tenor. The bass, D. B. C. Middleton, was suffering from a very bad cold and his singing was hardly discernible to those in the middle of the church. However, the chorus numbers were so well sung that the work as a whole was very much enjoyed. Mr. Hyde deserves special praise for the excellent results he obtains from his choir, and anyone is sure to hear good singing by attending any service at this church.

H. M. B.

Mixer.—Charles Mitchell Mixer, violinist, played before the Norwood Park Woman's Club on Tuesday, November 25, and at the Jewish Woman's Club on the 26th.

DELMA-HEIDE
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris
MAESTO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

DR. FREDERICK CLARK
PUPILS BARITONE
83 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

CONCERT OF AMERICAN MUSIC

An audience of goodly proportions, interested and appreciative, attended the concert at Orchestra Hall on the 18th inst. The sponsor for the occasion was Mr. Glenn Dillard Gunn, who also conducted. The foundation force was the Chicago Orchestra in a diminished form, the absence of the principal in most of the sections being evidenced. The other factors emphasized were Miss Mae Doelling, who played the MacDowell piano concerto stunningly, and Mr. Herman Felber Jr., who gave an excellent account of himself in young Mr. Sowerby's elaborate and involved violin concerto.

It was Miss Doelling's night and she readily carried things before her. Easy and sincere, confident but not assuming, eager and dashing in her youthful verve she realized her great opportunity, seized it with a splendid courage and faith in her powers and scored a success which the audience offered her with intense enthusiasm. There went out to her the heartiest cordiality and recognition of her gifts and an acceptance that had thorough enjoyment in it. The orchestra was fresh from a fine conception and presentation of the same work at the previous week's regular concerts and supported her with an accompaniment that was an inspiration. Her technic was ample for the varied demands, power, dexterity, fleetness and a lovely tone always abundant. The "Scherzo" particularly glowed and scintillated with brilliant flashes. Persistent applause secured a repetition of the movement. Much might be written of the state of affairs which has so long delayed the appearance of a local artist of really superb gifts and attainments, with this particular orchestra.

MAE DOELLING

Next in importance was the violin concerto by Leo Sowerby, a young musician of about nineteen. When he came out with Mr. Felber to acknowledge the plaudits there was a gasp of surprise and delight at the youthfulness of the two, and such applause as might turn the heads of wiser men. The composer thinks and expresses himself in the modern idiom. He follows the Debssy manner of working with tiny two or three note themes. These are of apparently savage origin, having a tincture of mournful monotony, which lends them well to the endless weaving indulged in. It was as if pages of "Pelleas" were re-written. The wonderful creative gift belongs to the young man. He has much to say and says it confidently. And public performance will show him how all of his ideas are not of equal value. Thus he will edit himself more surely and drastically. Just now there is an overflow which drowns out the more vital portions of his work. Mr. Felber played the concerto remarkably and against the odds of a mystified accompaniment, and unusual conditions prevailing many times when the soloist was either hurried or restrained by the conductor's beat.

Mr. George Colburn's contribution, "Spring's Conquest," was of unequal merit. In fact much of the time it was conquested by the forces which are difficult for spring to overcome. There were many muddy and misty moments. But the composition by reason of little rehearsal was really just played by the men, it could not be said to be interpreted by them. Therefore judgment is suspended.

Mr. DeLamarter's "Overture" was unfortunately not heard by this writer.

The "Woodland Suite" of MacDowell closed the concert. It was given a perfunctory performance and lent but little value to the evening. ALBERT COTSWORTH.

EDITH ADELAIDE KIEN

Miss Kien has been engaged as pianist in the Hinshaw Concert Company. A program was given at the Englewood Christian Church last night, Thanksgiving night, by Mr. Marvin Hinshaw. Miss Kien, pianist and accompanist for Mr. Hinshaw. Helen Axe Brown, soprano; Gertrude Consuelo Bates, violinist, and Pauline Stenger Germann.

Miss Kien, who is also pianist and soprano of the Lake Side Concert Company, met with success in both concerts on the thirteenth and fourteenth instant, one at the Congregational Church on Adams and Throop, and the Ravenswood Church, Hermitage and Montrose.

KNEISEL QUARTET

The rare moment in the opening concert of the Kneisel Quartet was furnished in the "Andantino" in the D Minor Quartet of George W. Chadwick. There was nothing to presage it, although the preceding "Allegro" was developed along splendid lines and finished with a real elegance of musical diction. But nothing so rarely melodious and smoothly flowing in tenderness has been heard by fortunate ears for many moons. It is a simple abandon to spontaneous musical impulse, and the melodies play and weave and develop themselves. There is little evidence of labor; it is cantabile untouched. And the interpretation met and matched the music. An almost ethereal charm surrounding the floating harmonies.

Some exquisite Mozart playing opened the concert. ALBERT COTSWORTH.

STEIN CONSERVATORY

The first of the year's recitals was given by pupils of Mr. and Mrs. Stein, Mr. Hrusa and Mr. Erst, in the Auditorium Recital Hall, last Monday evening. The conservatory gives a series of pupils' recitals every season, and every student is given the advantage of public appearance so necessary to his training as a singer. The one on Monday evening was varied and interesting and the large audience present was enthusiastic over the splendid work. The program opened by a well balanced well trained double quartet of especially good voices, who gave the tuneful "Nightingale and Rose" in a pleasing manner. The piano numbers were all well done. Merion Falkenback and Anna Svikhart showed fine talent. Hazel Palmer played the "Witch Dance" with fine technic and spirit, and Anna Weske presented a group in skillful and artistic style. Joseph Belsan played with fine tone and gave the "Legende" in a thoroughly enjoyable manner. Among the new singers introduced were Arthur Thoms, Marie Dressler and Arthur Schwerin, who acquitted themselves creditably and showed good voices and good talent. The solos by Cora Beier and Blanche Reincke were given delightfully, both singing with unusual beauty and freedom of tone. Leo Farmer has developed a good tenor voice and sang his solo most acceptably. The two readers, who were practically beginners, surprised the audience by their work. Chrisune Deuel gave the "Gimlet and Corkscrew" duologue with naturalness, spirit and intelligence, and Estelle Robson gave a fine realistic impersonation in her monologue.

The sketch, "A Christmas Chime," by Margaret Cameron, given by Ruth Dahly, Harold Houghton, Marguerite and Adelbert Sheffield, was splendidly given. We have learned to expect natural, spirited action from Mrs. Stein's pupils, and we always get it. The lines were spoken with the real thought and feeling and the stage action was well worked out.

But the climax of the evening was the singing of Mr. Ralph Brainard, a former pupil of Mr. and Mrs. Stein, who left here in quartet work three years ago and has steadily advanced in his profession until he is leading tenor with the DeKoven Opera Company. He leaves this week to join the company in New York and will sing "Robin Hood" the coming season. His fine physique, his big, beautiful dramatic tenor voice and his musical ability make his singing a delight, and he received an ovation from those who heard him Monday evening. "Songs of Araby" showed the lyric qualities, and the aria from "I Pagliacci" the dramatic in his voice. He was obliged to respond to an encore and gave "Memories" in a most artistic manner.

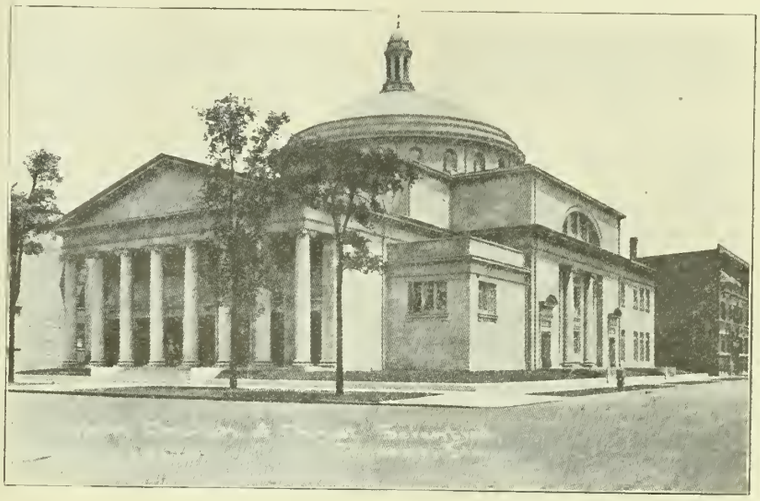
Altogether the recital was a great success and showed the fine work the Stein Conservatory is doing. E. B.

———♯♯♯———

Henrich—The choir of the First Christian Church at Columbia, Mo., under the direction of Frank Parker, gave an entire program of compositions by Chris. W. Henrich, on last Sunday evening. Mr. Henrich is organist of the First Presbyterian Church in Detroit.

A Fine Dedicatory Service

The Eighth Christian Science Church at Forty-fourth street and Michigan avenue was formally dedicated on last Sunday, and three times during the day, morning, afternoon and evening, the place was thronged by a capacity audience which listened with avidity to the program presented.



EIGHTH CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

In the morning and evening the soloist was Mr. Lloyd Simonson, and in the afternoon Mrs. Sibyl Sammis MacDermid, a great favorite in all churches, and particularly well liked here, delighted the audience with her fine art and her excellent taste.

Mr. Simonson sang at both morning and evening service, "My New Name," a splendidly written song by James MacDermid, and one which showed his resources to good advantage besides being wonderfully appropriate to the occasion

Because of the fact that there is but little display about the music in the Christian Science churches and also because simplicity is the keynote of everything that is done—the general public has gained a rather wrong impression of what may really be heard in these churches.

As a matter of fact, every one of the churches in Chicago possesses a magnificent organ, and the selection of organist is made always with a view to an artist who can provide music of the very best quality.

Also, while there is no quartet and the soloist is invariably limited to one song, each service it yet is true that the soloist is invariably chosen from among the best available singers of the city and the song he gives is always chosen for its good musical qualities, partly, and it is expected always that it will be done in faultless style.

It is, therefore the case that while one does not hear a long program of music in the Christian Science Church, he yet is sure to hear something of superlative merit.

But, better than this, is the fact that the music must always be absolutely appropriate to the subject of the day in this church and no hap-hazard selection of songs is ever permitted.

It is too often true in other churches that there is no unity of thought as between the choir and the pulpit, and one factor preaches exaltation while the other sings of desolation. But, in the Christian Science Church there is always absolutely parallel thought and the solo number is, as a matter of course, along the same line of thought as that set down for the readers and the congregation.

Some of this is well brought out in an article by Edward C. Moore in the Chicago Daily Journal of July 25th, the chief part of his interesting talk being devoted to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, which had its beginnings at Kimball Hall sixteen years ago, and which is now in a

FRANK VAN DUSEN

Elsa F. Holinger
Announces her first appearance in a
SONG RECITAL
at the
FINE ARTS THEATER
MICHIGAN AV.
Assisted by
MAE DOELLING, Pianiste
Dr. Carl Bertschinger
Composer and Accompanist
Monday Evening, Dec. 1, 1913, 8:15
Direction of JOS. A. SCHWICKERATH

Anna Groff - Bryant
Studios of Vocal Art
Ethel Bell Reeves Assistant
606 Fine Arts Building Chicago, Ill.
Phone Wabash 1051

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5166

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL Phone Harrison 5919

ROSALIE WIRTHLIN
CONTRALTO
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 WEST 34th STREET NEW YORK

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Helene Koelling

Prima Donna
SOPRANO

Montreal Grand Opera Co.

most beautiful building on Drexel boulevard, where Eric DeLamarter is organist.

The Eighth Church was an off-shoot from the First, and was founded in 1907, the building being opened at the present location in 1911. The formal dedication took place on last Sunday after the last dollar of indebtedness had been paid, this being the custom of the Christian Science Church.

Merely a simple dedicatory address, read in a simple and sincere way by J. E. Fellers; and the usual service. That was all, but there was underneath the whole service an intensity and a purposefulness which bespoke the entire devotion and pleasure of the congregation and this found very special vent in the hymn singing, which was truly inspired.

The organ is a Hook & Hastings, four manual, and with a most elaborate equipment of combinations. The solo stops are of great variety and truthfulness and the echo organ contains some effects of ethereal beauty. There is a most elaborate chime also, and all these resources were used by Mr. Frank Van Dusen, the organist, to the very fullest extent of their possibilities.

On Sunday Mr. Van Dusen played the Dubois "Hosannah" for voluntary, the Johnson "Eveningsong" for offertory, and "Finale" from the G Minor "Sonata" by Piutti for "Postlude," in all these displaying remarkable technical abilities, perfect knowledge of registrations and an abiding style and finish.

Mr. Van Dusen, a teacher in the American Conservatory, was long a pupil of Wilhelm Middelschulte, and during his residence abroad studied also with Guilmant. He has been organist at the Eighth Church for a year and a half, and has gained the entire admiration of that congregation.

Mr. Hall was the first organist of this church—the solo singers, before Mr. Simonson having been George L. Hamlin and Chris Anderson. C. E. W.

WESTERN CONSERVATORY

A large and very appreciative audience gathered in Athenaeum Hall on Monday evening, November 24, to hear the long but interesting program offered by the pupils of H. W. Owens, head of the voice department in Western Conservatory. The program was made up with the intention to show the breadth of the work being done by this large class of pupils, because there was heard the heavy arias as well as lighter numbers of much worth. Twenty-one different pupils were allowed one number each on the program, hardly giving any one of them a chance to show their powers to best advantage. However, there were several excellent voices heard and those deserving of special mention are Augusta Collson, Lillian Landwer, Margaret Watts Owens, sopranos, and Stella Brown, contralto. Throughout the program all showed the results of splendid training, but above all there appeared that prime factor so essential for success, sincerity of purpose. H. M. B.

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Friday, November 28

Orchestra Hall, 2:15, Symphony Orchestra.

Douglas Park Auditorium, 8:15, Myrtle Elvyn and Alexander Zukowsky.

Saturday, November 29

The Auditorium, 2:15, "Aida."

Kimball Hall, 3:30, Concert, Mae Doelling and Arthur Slack.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15, Symphony Orchestra.

The Auditorium, 8:15, "Natoma."

Sunday, November 30

Turner Hall, 3:00, William Boeppler Orchestra Concert.

Lincoln Turner Hall, 3:00, Martin Bollmann Orchestra, Concert.

Orchestra Hall, 3:30, Harry Weisbach, Violin Recital.

The Auditorium, 3:00, Campanini concert.

Studebaker Theater, 3:30, Paulist Choristers.

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30, Charles W. Clark, Song Recital.

Fullerton Hall, 8:00, Lecture Recital, "Lohengrin."

Little Theater, 8:30, Baroness von Rottenthal.

Sinai Temple, 8:15, Orchestra concert. Soloist, Carolyn Cone.

Monday, December 1

Fine Arts Theater, 8:15, Elsa Holinger and Mae Doelling.

Auditorium, 8:15, "Rigoletto."

Tuesday, December 2

Orchestra Hall, 8:15, Chicago Musical College, Concert.

Auditorium, 8:15, "Samson and Delilah."

Wednesday, December 3

Evanston Woman's Club, 10:30 a. m., Julia Claussen, Song Recital.

Auditorium, 8:15, opera.

Thursday, December 4

Orchestra Hall Foyer, 3:00, Chicago Chamber Music Society, Concert.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15, Marshall Field Choral Society.

Auditorium, 8:15, opera.

Friday, December 5

Orchestra Hall, 2:15, Symphony Orchestra.

CLARK IN OAK PARK

Charles W. Clark sang before a capacity audience at the First M. E. Church on Tuesday evening and scored a resounding success. In the opinion of competent critics he has never given a finer recital in this vicinity. Accompaniments were played by Gordon Campbell. The audience was representative of the best social and church circles in Oak Park and was a distinct compliment to George L. Tenney, under whose management the concert was given. A detailed review will be given in Music News next week.

Heizer—Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Heizer presented an orchestral program before the Sioux City Woman's Club, on November 20, assisted by Fay Hanchette, Frances Fribourg and the Golterman 'Cello Quartet

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

San Francisco Sierra News:

"A musician of wonderful power."

AMATEUR MUSICAL CLUB

The four hundred and twenty-seventh concert will be given in assembly room at the Fine Arts building on Monday, December 1, at 2:30 p. m. Program arranged by Mrs. Emerson H. Brush, Miss Mary Cameron; assisting artist, Mr. James Hamilton, tenor. Accompanists, Miss Hazel Everingham, Miss Tina Mae Haines.

The program will be:

Heimliche Aufforderung.....Strauss
As in a Rose Jar.....Cadman
Her Love Song.....Mary Turner Salter
Miss Naomi Nazor

Deep River.....Coleridge-Taylor
Polanaise in D Major.....Wieniawski
Miss Mabel E. Woodworth

Immer leiser wird mein Schlummer.....Brahms
Vor Sonnenaufgang.....Oscar Meyer
Bisesa's Songs.....Foote
Constancy.....Foote
Miss Anna C. Braun

Prelude and Fugue in E Minor.....Bach-Chevillard
Miss Priscilla Carver

Dreamland.....Louis Victor Saar
"Fairest of Roses" from St. John's Eve.....Cowen
Miss Nazor and Mr. Hamilton

♯ ♯ ♯

Von Rottenthal — Baroness Von Rottenthal will give a series of decorative and classic dances at the Chicago Little Theater on the evenings of Sunday, November 23; Monday, November 24; Sunday, November 30, and Monday, December 1. Her only public performances hitherto have been with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, though she has appeared in public at Newport, Washington, Boston, New York, Paris, Munich, Vienna and other important cities in this country and on the continent of Europe. Her programs at the Little Theater have been selected with particular reference to the intimate attendance of that playhouse and will include many dances that have never been given before, and will not be repeated in public. When the baroness appeared with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra this summer there was almost violent disagreement between the critics as to the merits or demerits of her dancing, extremes of praise and blame being meted out to her in almost equal measure. Through the performances at the Little Theater the public will have the opportunity of forming their own opinion on the style of dancing and the personality that have given rise to so much controversy.

♯ ♯ ♯

Nichols—Mr. and Mrs. John W. Nichols report an increasing demand for dates this season. They have been engaged for a Debussy recital in January, at the Skidmore School of Arts, Saratoga Springs, N. Y. Mr. Nichols will also sing there in Saint-Saens "Christmas Oratorio," which is to be given December 19.

OPENING OF THE OPERA SEASON

CHARLES E. WATT

Not with great hurrah of any sort, such as marked the opening of our first season of grand opera, but calmly, sedately, and in a manner so dignified as to be entirely in keeping with our attainments in the past few years, the season of opera was opened at the Auditorium on Monday night with a performance of "La Tosca" that might well serve as a model of excellence for any opera house in the world.

Scenically and sartorially the opera was everything that could be asked and as to the factors which presented the beautiful Puccini score, it would be difficult to imagine improvement.

The orchestra, under the brilliant baton of Cleofonte Campanini, furnished a groundwork of solid beauty and ever recurring brilliance; the explanatory "asides," the characteristic "motifs," all the glow and color which Puccini regarded as essential background, were there in full power and constantly recurring effectiveness.

The chorus, in its few moments of appearance in the first act, proved that this factor is to be an unusually good one this year and the management of stage, lights, etc., was perfect.

As to the cast—it was difficult to choose at once between the super-excellence of Mary Garden as "Tosca" or Amadeo Bassi as "Mario." Both were perfect.

Bassi, a supreme favorite of the first two years of our company, was sadly missed last year, and his return was welcomed on Monday night in no uncertain terms of enthusiasm—in fact, to him fell the honor of the only encore demand—and it was so persistent that the singing of the last act aria the second time could not be avoided.

Suave of voice—brilliant in action, charming as to deportment—Bassi is ideal in such a part as that of Monday and it is possible to grow very enthusiastic in anticipation of the joys he will provide throughout the season.

Mary Garden was superb as usual and sang better if possible than ever before. Certainly her "Vissi d'Arte" was an inspiration.

The part of "Tosca" is not a pretty one and Miss Garden spares neither herself nor her audience any of its bald ugliness—in fact, she, in a few places, overdoes it.

As to Marcoux, perhaps there was an over-expectation in his case. Surely we have had brutal and hideous "Scarpias" before, and since we were led to expect the unusual from him it is possible that we asked too much. At any rate, his efforts did not arouse any wonderful enthusiasm, not half as much as those of Bassi.

BERNHARD ULRICH
Business Manager, Chicago Grand Opera Company.

Doubtless other parts and other scores will show the sensational part of his possibilities.

His voice in "Tosca" impressed as big and commanding, but not wonderfully beautiful.

♮ ♮ ♮

All the other parts were most carefully and successfully taken. Nicholay is ideal in "Angelotti"; Trevisan, Venturini, Fossetta and Preisch are all adequate and Minnie Egener does the little "Shepherd's Song" delightfully.

The audience was, of course, capacity for the Auditorium, and that it was "brilliant" to the extreme also goes without saying.

♮ ♮ ♮

Second Night of the Opera

The chronicler for Music News is not of that weary band which finds "Hamlet,"

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Brokaw Violinist
Power-Meyer Conservatory
WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

COLLINS J. Basso-Cantante BROCK
EUDORA MOODY SOPRANO
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delawere, Ohio

Grant Tenor KIMBELL
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

AGNES LEIST-BEEBE ORATORIO SONG RECITAL PUPILS
SOPRANO
509 Kimball Hall and 3985 Drexel Boulevard

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

CLEOFONTE CAMPANINI
General Director, Chicago Grand Opera Company.

"Gicconda" and others of the same ilk so distressingly old-fashioned as scarcely to be worthy of contempt. As a matter of fact, "Gicconda" on Tuesday night was found to be thrilling.

Of course its story is absurd, as is the way with the older Italian opera and equally true is it that its subject matter is simply unspeakable from any polite or moral standpoint. But it glows with such a wealth of color and provides such a riot of opportunity for melodramatic effort on the part of the actor-singers, that it is constantly interesting.

On Tuesday night it was put on in magnificent style and aroused at least twice the enthusiasm apparent on the opening night.

The famous ballet "Dance of the Hours" was particularly well done, and the chorus massing, scenic manipulation and lighting effects were all quite perfect.

The chorus sang gloriously. Indeed, the mass of tone and the shading to which it seems so readily amenable were far in advance of any other season.

The principals could scarcely have been improved upon. As the "Spy," Titto Ruffo had the smallest opportunity of any role he has essayed in Chicago, but he was true to the part in action and voluminous and artistic as to tonal production, and of course, reaped whirlwind applause.

Julia Claussen was magnificent as "Laura"—vocally great and histrionically equal even to Ruffo.

Carolina White sang opposite both Ruffo and Claussen in many duets and larger ensembles, and carried away equal applause. The part of "La Gioconda" is not the most grateful ever sung here by Mme. White, but she did it with great style and finish.

Thoroughly interesting was the first appearance of Aristodemo Giorgini for the season, who sang the part of Enzo so admirably as to prove beyond any doubt that he will be one of the favorite tenors of the season. Always true in intonation and free in delivery his voice is thoroughly attractive, and in "Ciel e Mar" he gave an exposition of pure singing which was not excelled at any point of this noteworthy performance.

Henri Scott gave a resonant performance of Alvise, making the part properly sinister and upholding its vocal demands well.

Ruby Heyl as "The Blind Woman" placed to her credit an impersonation which was characteristically distinct and wholly convincing, while her singing was astonishingly near the mark set by her better known colleagues. Nicolay, Preisch and Venturini completed a satisfactory cast.

On Wednesday evening "Don Quichotte" was given its premier, too late for current review. Advance announcements will be found in another column.

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

MAHLER'S SYMPHONY, NO. 5, C SHARP MINOR, SUPERBLY GIVEN

A notable performance of Mahler's great "C Sharp Minor Symphony" was heard at the public rehearsal of the Boston Symphony Orchestra Friday afternoon, November 21. So admirably did the players acquit themselves that Dr. Muck himself joined in the applause.

♮ ♮ ♮

Personal Mention

The Flonzaley Quartet will begin a series of three concerts, L. H. Mudgett, Symphony Hall, manager, December 4, in Jordan Hall. Thursday nights, January 29, and March 12, are the other dates.

Quartet in D minor, opus posth., Schubert; Suite for Violin and 'Cello (new), Moor; Quartet in D major, opus 64, No. 5, Haydn.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Milton Education Society is directing two concerts, to be given in the Town Hall of that town:

On January 20, a concert by Jean Gerardy, 'cellist, and Mme. Yolande Mero, pianist.

On March 26, a choral concert by a chorus of 100 voices. Goring Thomas' "Swan and Skylark," part songs by Schumann, Rheinberger, MacFarland and others. The names of the solo singers will be announced later.

The Kneisel Quartet's second concert will be given in Steinert Hall Tuesday night, December 2.

♮ ♮ ♮

About Singers of the Boston Opera Company

The opening week of the Boston Opera Company, besides presenting a well balanced repertoire of unusual interest, will bring forward a number of important new singers. The opening night, with its brilliant performance of "The Jewels of the Madonna," will afford opportunity for Mme. Margherita D'Alvarez and M. Mario Ancona to make their Boston debut, and will re-introduce Mr. Ferrari-Fontana.

Mme. D'Alvarez was born in Peru but received her training in Brussels, where, after her graduation from the conservatoire, she was appointed concert singer to King Leopold. Her great operatic triumphs have been won at the Opera in Paris, at Covent Garden in London, and at La Scala in Milan. Although she will sing "Carmela" on the opening night in Boston, her real debut will come when she sings Dalila in "Samson et Dalila," which will be presented very soon.

Mario Ancona, baritone, will make his debut as a member of the Boston Opera Company, but he has been heard here before, as long ago as 1894, when he sang Escamillo to Mme. Calve's Carmen. His last season in America was with Hammerstein's Manhattan Company.

"Faust," on Wednesday night, will be the occasion of the debut of two singers—Lucien Muratore, tenor, and Paole Ludikar, basso. M. Muratore is the most prominent tenor of the Paris Opera and has the distinction of having created a long list of roles in operas of Massenet, Saint-Saens, Strauss and Debussy. His most important task here will be the creation of the role of Paolo in Zandonai's "Francesca da Rimini," which will have its premiere later in the season. Before that he will be heard as Prinzivalle in "Monna Vanna," a role which he himself created.

Paolo Ludikar is a Bohemian whose first operatic successes were won in Germany. For the past three seasons he has been singing in Italy and South America, where he has met with constant triumphs. The Italian critics acclaim him as an unusual combination of a wonderful voice, rare artistic taste and admirable versatility. He will be heard twice during the opening week, as Mephistopheles in "Faust" and as Koenig Marke in "Tristan und Isolde."

Friday night's performance of "Tosca" will present Mary Garden as Tosca, and Vanni Marcoux as Scarpia. Boston will not soon forget the realistic version of some of the scenes of this opera that were given by these same principals last year. The Cavaradossi will be Giovanni Martinelli. Mr. Martinelli, who is still very young, did not discover that he had an unusual voice until he was serving his army team, when it was discovered for him by the bandmaster under whom he played the clarinet. On completing his service he began a course of training, and immediately upon his debut was acclaimed as one of the world's great tenors. He comes to Boston fresh from recent triumphs in Philadelphia.

♮ ♮ ♮

An Annual Meeting and a Wedding

The annual meeting of the trustees of the New England Conservatory of Music was held yesterday afternoon (November 20) at the conservatory. President Eben D. Jordan presided. Those in attendance included Hon. George B. Cortelyou, who came on from New York to be present; George D. Burrage, Samuel Carr, Frederick S. Converse, Clement S. Houghton, Frank Wood, William P. Blake, Walter H. Langshaw, John B. Willis, Dr. Albert E. Winship, Percy J. Barrell, president of the Alumni Association; George W. Chadwick, director, and Ralph L. Flanders, manager.

Reports of the director, treasurer and manager were read and officers and trustees were elected or re-elected for the ensuing year.

The re-elected officers are: Eben D. Jordan, president; Arthur F. Estabrook, Frank Wood and George B. Cortelyou, vice presidents; William A. L. Bazeley, treasurer. These, together with George W. Chadwick, director; Ralph L. Flanders, manager; Frederick S. Converse, Edward S. Dodge, Frederick P. Fish and Samuel Carr, constitute the executive committee.

A trustee newly elected for four years is George W. Brown. Trustees re-elected for the same period are: Jacob P. Bates, William Sturgis Bigelow, M. D.; George D. Burrage, Samuel Carr, George O. G. Coale, Frederick S. Converse, Edward S. Dodge, Ralph E. Forbes, Herbert Lyman, James E. Rothwell, Charles G. Saunders, Charles Warren. To represent the alumni association, Percy Jewett Burrell was re-elected for one year.

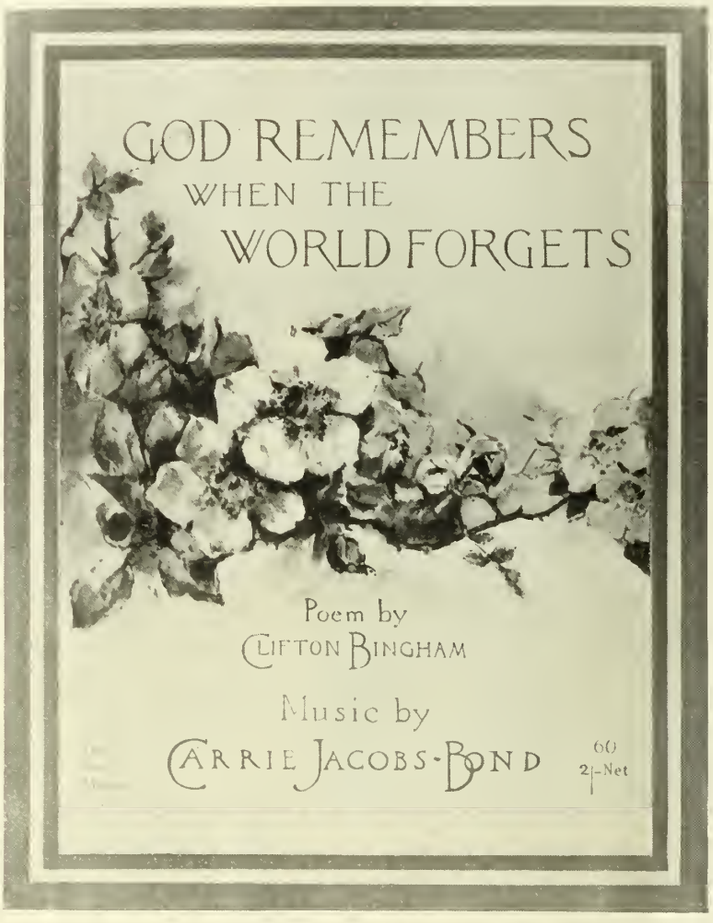
♮ ♮ ♮

A wedding of great interest to New England Conservatory of Music people was that of Miss Julia Swisher, of Sigourney, Iowa, a member of the class of 1913, and Vaughn Hamilton of the faculty, which took place Wednesday afternoon, November 19, at the Brookline residence of Ralph L. Flanders, manager of the conservatory. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Fritz Baldwin of Harvard Congregational Church, Brookline. Miss Marion Flanders was flower girl, and the groom was attended by Morris Ricker of Boston. The bride was given away by Mr. Flanders. The bridal procession entered to the strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march, played by Miss Ella C. Nord of Jamestown, N. Y., a classmate of the bride. A reception and luncheon followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton left on their wedding journey.

Mrs. Hamilton was graduated from the New England Conservatory last June, having been a pupil in pianoforte under Charles F. Denee. Mr. Hamilton entered the conservatory from Bangor, Me. He was a violin pupil of Felix Winternitz and Anton Witek, Boston, and in Paris of Berthelier of the conservatoire. Besides teaching at the New England Conservatory, he serves as concertmaster of the Conservatory Orchestra.

Gannon—Rose Lutiger Gannon was unable to accept a date to appear in the "Messiah" in Houghton, Mich., on account of many bookings which were secured through the management of Gertrude V. O'Hanlon. Miss O'Hanlon also has made arrangements for a joint recital of Clara Williams, soprano, and Edna Gunnar Peterson, pianist, in Cleveland, for February 15.

TITTA RUFFO'S master
LELIO CASINI, recommends
HAMILTON
HOPKINS
(Casini's Assistant for 4 Years in Milan)
710 Fine Arts Building
CHICAGO



Carrie Jacobs-Bond's Newest Song

Published in

High—Medium—Low

Keys

Sold by Dealers Everywhere

Poem by Clifton Bingham

How many gardens in this world of ours
Hold blossoms that have never come to flowers?
A sudden wind comes coldly by—
The rose tree bids its fairest bud good-bye.

How many ships of ours go out to sea
In search of havens that shall tranquil be?
The storms of fate their fairest hopes o'er set,
And there is naught to do except forget.

How many wear a smile upon their face
Although their hearts may hold an empty place?
None know the heights nor depths of their regrets,
But God remembers when the world forgets.

(Copyright C. J. Bond, 1913)

Being used by many of America's Foremost Concert Singers

CARRIE JACOBS-BOND

Music in New York

By ABBIE STEPHENS FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall

NEW YORK SECTION

Dear Readers of Music News:—How delightful it is to sit at the feet of a really remarkable pianist—an artist of parts who brings with him so much of modesty and the effacement of the ego, that personal vanity which we often style self-consciousness.

Such a one is Wilhelm Bachaus, returned to New York after many foreign successes—returned with the selfsame amiability and gentleness of demeanor and freedom from eccentricities of pose and gesture which marked him as one apart when he made his debut in New York in 1911.

Bachaus, armed with the authority and modest self-confidence of what his adorers regard as a heaven-sent genius; affluent of grace and simplicity allied to an indescribable magnetism all his own, all individual, made his second debut in New York in Aeolian Hall on the afternoon of November 19, before a large audience whose enthusiasm anticipated the entrance of the artist and whose greeting left none in doubt as to the knowledge this fine and representatively musical assemblage possessed of the young pianist's consummate and compelling art.

When the pianist sat down before the keyboard of the luscious-toned organ-like Baldwin Grand, his auditors settled down with audible sighs of content to what they intuitively knew would be an afternoon of keen and complete enjoyment, even delight—delight which began with the broad, classic rendition of the opening number, the Saint-Saens arrangement of Bach's "Twenty-ninth Cantata," whose fine, almost religious fervor the pianist felt, and in feeling disclosed to those so raptly and attentively giving heed to his message.

It is no exaggeration to state that Mr. Bachaus' performance of the Beethoven "Sonata," opus 111, C minor, one of the superb achievements of the great deaf composer, has not been equaled by that of any pianist of the first rank I have been privileged to hear within the last decade.

Authority and a profound understanding of the composer's intentions and meanings characterized the interpretation of this broadly outlined and magnificently eloquent composition. Indeed, in this opus and the Schubert "Wanderer" fantasie which followed, the pianist showed how enormously he has developed upon every side since his first visit here.

The firm, crisp yet fluid touch which was so admirably conspicuous when Bachaus played the "Emperor" concerto of Beethoven and the Brahms "Concerto" in 1911 in the Metropolis, is his in perhaps even greater plentitude than before.

Bachaus never pushes the tone, neither pounds he nor thumps. His technical and dynamic effects are legitimate and satisfying. His musical tact is infinite and provides the intellectual environment which makes his technic like the steel hand in the velvet glove, never obtrusive though always present; the articulated skeleton around which his musical structures synthetize themselves.

The Beethoven "Sonata" was delightfully developed in all its parts. Naturally: since as a propagandist of Beethoven, Bachaus figures conspicuously in the world's vision. This opus has not, it seems to me, been played here before with such an intellectual grasp, such remarkable divining of the spiritual impulse of its creator. Virile energy and superb technical force were evident. Withal there was a surprising temperamental ardor as exhilarating as unusual. There was sentiment, too, that fastidiously declined to overstep the boundary line of mawkish sentimentality.

The first movement had chastity and continence of execution, as well as an abounding warmth. Its passion overflowed into the variations, crowning and diversifying this masterpiece of balanced contrapuntal workmanship.

It was no small pleasure for lovers of Beethoven to be afforded so rare and refined an entertainment, one providing a standard which might make for ideal traditions, supplying a model not alone for the ambitious apprentice to the divine art, but pregnant of hints for those already laurel-crowned and acclaimed of the world. For the great artist, unconscious of his divine talents though he may be, is the supreme pedagogue. His illustrations provide examples to be acquired as well as admired and considered.

Schubert's elaborate and complicated arrangement of his famous song, "Der Wanderer," which is rightly entitled a fantasie and which demands a finely matured sense of rhythm superadded to the artist's general pianistic equipment, served to show the versatility and the catholicity of the pianist's endowments.

The melody upon which the gigantic composition rests might itself have been a vocal

BONCI
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR
SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York
Knabe Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER
CONTRALTO
Personal Address, 1003 Heberton St., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Management Haensel & Jones, Aeolian Hall, New York

MARIE NARELLE AUSTRALIAN SOPRANO
Management SUTORIUS
ABBIE S. FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall, Sole Representative
No. 1 West 34th St.

MR. & MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS
Address 330 West 58th St.
NEW YORK CITY

PIANIST BACHAUS
Management Loudon Charlton
BALDWIN PIANO USED

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address
Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER
AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av.
NEW YORK

BISPHAM
All communications to
Private Address 44 West 44th St.
NEW YORK

declamation, as Bachaus played it, for it sang under his caressing digits its melancholy lament. It is no mean achievement to raise the theme, whose music is but a setting for words of pessimistic longing and frustration, to so conspicuous a position in the picture that the harmonic embroideries and over-elaborations provide an arabesqued and richly eventuated bordure for the haunting theme.

Thematic material is not always regarded from an angle of just proportion, and its development usually comes to grief even at the hands of the most brilliant examples of piano virtuosity because the soloist has had no intellectual revelations; perhaps also no feeling for the fin fleur of vocal elocution: hence it is impossible for him to announce his song-theme with emphasis and the proper declamatory style. Also his motive, if not obliterated as poetry, is at least half obscured by its inadequate setting forth.

As regards Bachaus' feeling for declamatory saliency and balance, his performance of Schubert's brilliant opus left no doubt in the minds of his admirers of his adequacy for the perfect accomplishment of his difficult task.

His audience was so overcome that it shrieked its bravos and tokens of approval.

Bachaus played Chopin after this brilliant bravura, and he really plays Chopin.

The generous group of Chopin numbers started with the waltz, opus 34, in A flat. Now this is a dignified dance, absolved of any relation to modern terpsichorean orgies and entirely unrelated to that other Chopin waltz which seems to be the jubilation of a Moenad whirling round in a complete circle. There was a burst of applause after this exquisitely treated waltz, as there was after each succeeding Chopin number.

The "Nocturne," opus 55, No. 2, in E flat, so familiar to local audiences, shimmered with new and lovely light and color. Like the other Chopin number, its contrasts were delicately indicated.

The perfection of the eventuation of the "Polonaise" in A major brought a hint of Vladimir de Pachmann, and the "Scherzo" in C sharp minor will not leave my memory. It haunts me with the perfection of its daintily chiseled minutiae and detail.

The three mazurkas were ravishing. We shall not hear them excelled in this generation, for de Pachmann, it is to be feared, will not again venture across the pond; and the three etudes were examples for vain imitation, so precious was their handling.

The "Twelfth Rhapsody" of Liszt proved a glowing, glittering, corruscating finale to a program of such interesting variety and stimulating contrasts.

The ending of the recital with the Liszt "Rhapsody" was an inspiration as well as a revelation, though the controversialist and the ultra-modern may protest at the introduction of a Liszt number as an intrusion of the old-fashioned. The audience, however, as a whole appeared to approve; possibly because Bachaus made the work interesting beyond what the concert-goer usually expects. His crisp, impeccable technic, satiny touch and sufficing emphasis clarified the work and disclosed beauties in its various parts hitherto not made quite so salient and distinct.

At the close of the concert the insatiable encore enthusiasts demanded their pound of flesh. It was considerably after 5 p. m. when the youngest idol of the piano enthusiasts made his escape and sped away in an automobile to catch the train for Boston.

The season of Thanksgiving being so near at hand, one involuntarily includes the presence of Mr. Bachaus in this country as one of the blessings for which to be grateful.

♮ ♮ ♮

An opus by Max Reger, dedicated to Josef Stransky and played for the first time in New York by the Philharmonic Orchestra on the evening of November 20, and cheerfully announced by its title "Ballet Suite," gave great pleasure to the fine audience which adorned parquet, parterre and galleries. Its themes, some of them gracious and winning, some of the lightest, were made important by the composer's contrapuntal treatment of them, according to their kind.

The augmented orchestra of last week whose almost spectacular and thrilling setting forth of Strauss' "Ein Heldenleben" and the "Festspiel Prelude," was the week's musical event, had diminished to the usual size and numbers.

What delicious music for a Harlequinade this Reger work with its six suites offers. Why the Russian dancers have not swooped down upon it and made it their own seems strange, indeed, for it would lend itself enchantingly to such usage, and it is not beyond suspicion that in his mind's eye the composer visualized the stirring pantomime his music indicates.

The "Valse d' Amour" scored an immediate hit, and Mr. Stransky, yielding to the insistence of his usually staid auditors, accorded them the pleasure of a second hearing of this ingratiating and captivating movement.

The entire suite is graceful and melodically insinuating, music with a lilt, and only lightly draped with what the non-musical regard as a sublimated kind of cacophony. Yet it is very modern in treatment. Reger belongs to the extremist of the left, only he does not go to the pace of a Schoenberg, for example.

Now with a genius for the apposite, Mr. Stransky opened his program with the overture to Mozart's "Nozze di Figaro," a scintillating, merry thing, sometimes riotous in the contrasts it affords with, we will say, a labored Berlioz suite in long drawn out monotonous movements. It was riotously played almost, and with a brio and sparkle that provided no mean preparation for the delightful Reger "Ballet" music.

The Bruch "Concerto for Violin" provided a rather conventional vehicle for the soloist, Leopold Kramer, the concertmaster of the orchestra. Mr. Kramer's musicianship is of the variety the Germans call "solid" (accent very much upon the ultimate) and stands him in good stead. He appears to be a zealous student of the classics, for his technic, if somewhat precise, proved sufficient. The orchestra seconded his efforts with commendable skill. Indeed, the orchestra upon this occasion did itself epecially proud. Its work in the Reger number was unexpectedly perfect. The choirs were at one, the incidental solos were little gems close set in an ambitious and complete study of Reger's opus.

And after the intermission came Tschaikowsky's Fourth (subtle, insinuating, furtively lamenting) Symphony, beloved as are his matchless works by the audience which throngs to these concerts, especially when the name Tschaikowsky is the magnet.

ABBIE STEPHENS FRIDENBERG.

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY
Bass-Baritone
Oratorio
Concert
MURRISON
JOINT-RECITALS
MABEL
Pianist
Accompanist
Alliance Ohio

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

HELENA STONE

Torgerson

CONCERT HARPIST

Teacher of Harp and Harmony

1442 Carmen Avenue.

Telephone Ravenswood 3726

Mrs. Torgerson is a harpist of broad experience. She has been a member of several well-known organizations, having toured with the Steindel Concert company and during the illness of Mr. Edmund Schnecker, substituted for him in the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Believing that the music most played on the harp, is not representative of the best literature for the instrument, Mrs. Torgerson has made an exhaustive study of harp music and for the past three years has been at work on a graded catalogue of harp music, both solo and ensemble, which will be published by Lyon & Healy, in the near future.

Mrs. Torgerson has an interesting class of young women, among whom are several from Grand Rapids, Mich.

Mrs. Torgerson is not only a clever harpist, but is noted for her numerous compositions, a group of which she played with much charm and individuality.—The Musical Leader.

A charming group was Helena Stone Torgerson's four compositions for harp, each of which was artistically played; notable also was this composer's work for harp and violin, which she gave with Miss Woodworth.—The Musical Leader.

Miss Stone gave a brilliant and musicianly performance.—Chicago Tribune.

Miss Stone plays masterfully. In addition to her artistic ability she is fortunate in having a winning personality which makes friends for her in the audience at once.—Detroit Free Press.

With regard to the harp as a solo instrument it must be said that Miss Stone has the ability to arrange and execute on her instrument, compositions which are generally believed to be beyond the range of harp literature and much credit and appreciation are due her for her efforts in enlarging the repertoire of what traditionally was an orchestral instrument.—Grand Rapids Herald.

IN BRIEFER FORM

Normal Park—On Sunday evening, November 30, a fine special program will be given at the Normal Park Baptist Church, under the direction of Charles W. Leigh.

♮ ♮ ♮

Frisbie.—Miss Constance Frisbie gave a song program at Indiana Harbor on November 17, assisted by William Lester. On the 30th Miss Frisbie will sing at Medinah Temple in Chicago.

♮ ♮ ♮

Hinshaw—William Wade Hinshaw, the distinguished Metropolitan Opera Company baritone, will be the guest of honor at a reception given early in December at the Hinshaw School of Music, Kimball Hall.

♮ ♮ ♮

Kimbell.—Grant Kimbell appeared with the Paulist Choristers under the direction of Father Finn at Quincy, Ill., November 22, and November 23 he sang Maunder's "Song of Thanksgiving" at Christ Episcopal Church.

♮ ♮ ♮

Germania Club—At the Germania Club last Saturday evening a concert was given by Mary Ann Kaufman and Franz Wagner, Miss Grace Grove playing accompaniments for Mr. Wagner and Mr. Edgar Nelson for Miss Kaufman.

♮ ♮ ♮

Williams.—The 'cello program given by Day Williams at the Northwestern University School of Music in Evanston on November 20 included some small pieces, the "Concerto" in D major, by Haydn, and the "Sonata," Op. 8, by Von Dohnanyi.

♮ ♮ ♮

North-Fram—Mrs. Dorothea North, soprano, and Arthur Fram, pianist, left on the 18th to fulfill a western tour. Among the early bookings are: Billings, Mont., November 24; Butte, Mont., November 27, and Great Falls, Mont., December 1.

♮ ♮ ♮

Ruth.—Georg Schumann's "Ruth" will be sung by the Oratorio Society of New York on December 5, under direction of Louis Koemmenich, with the following list of soloists: Florence Hinkle, Mildred Potter, Putnam, Griswold and T. Foster Why.

♮ ♮ ♮

Emanuel. — Harrison Emanuel, young Chicago violinist, pupil of Frank P. Mandy, is on a concert trip and will play in the following cities shortly: Springfield, Peoria, Quincy, Ill.; Louisville, Ky.; Princeton and Decatur, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo.

♮ ♮ ♮

American Conservatory.—A program of music by old masters will be given by the American Conservatory, Saturday afternoon, December 6, at Kimball Hall. Miss Jennie Johnson, contralto; Miss Renzina Teninga, organist, and Miss Ruth Ray, violinist, will furnish the program.

♮ ♮ ♮

Highsmith.—Miss Mary E. Highsmith sang at Civic Center Association concert at Sherman Park on November 16, Glen Ellyn, 25; Milwaukee, 26, and will sing at Woodlawn Woman's Club on December 2 and in the artists' course at Hardin College, Mexico, Mo., on December 3.

Marie Kryl.—The Kryl Trio, consisting of Bohumir Kryl, cornetist, Marie Kryl, pianist, and Josephine Kryl, violinist, left Saturday night for an extended tour through the west and south. Marie Kryl is a distinguished pupil of Heniot Levy of the American Conservatory.

♮ ♮ ♮

Normal Park—The "Holy City" will be given at Auburn Park M. E. Church, Mr. Porter directing, on December 1; Normal Park Baptist, December 12, Mr. C. W. Leigh conducting; Bethany Union Church, December 16, W. G. Smith directing. The chorus will be a mass one, consisting of eighty-five voices.

"Representative Women"

By

LOIS OLDHAM HENRICI

—

Introduction,

"Awakened Womanhood"

By

Ada M. Kassimer

—

A Worthy Gift Book—A Library Requisite—A Volume of Woman's Work, Wisdom, Usefulness and Actual Accomplishments in the World's Progress.

An Art Craft Book.

Postpaid $1.10—160 pages—fully illustrated.

—

Order from the Publishers

The Crafters

920 Oak; Kansas City, Missouri

The Piano Pedals By MRS. A. M. VIRGIL, Clear, Concise, Melodious, Results Unequaled. Price $1.00. Sale unparalleled. Address Dept. C. The Virgil Piano School Co. 42 West 76th St., New York

SEVEN DAYS OF MUSIC

(Continued from page 8)

Cosmopolitan School Concert

On Friday evening the Cosmopolitan School of Music offered a splendid program by Mrs. W. S. Bracken, contralto; Marie Schada, pianist; Franz Esser, violinist, and Mrs. Charles Orchard, accompanist, at the Auditorium Recital Hall.

It was possible to hear but two numbers of this program, but these two were of a kind to mark the whole evening as one of extraordinary worth.

MRS. W. S. BRACKEN

The "Sonata" in A Major (Mozart) was played by Miss Schada and Mr. Esser with a refinement which would be impossible for most players and at the same time they showed a breadth of technic which would cover much more exactly demands. The dainty swiftness of the piano playing in the last movement was particularly delightful.

MRS. CHARLES ORCHARD

Mrs. Bracken, a singer who has a nobility of style equaled by few singers, and whose musicianship is a kind to serve as an ideal for all young singers, was heard only in Liszt's great composition, "Knowest Thou the Land," which requires dramatic perception, transcendent technic and abounding temperamental gifts—all of which qualities were brought to its interpretation in full degree by Mrs. Bracken.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Frisbie in Song Recital

Miss Constance Frisbie gave a program of Liza Lehmann songs at the MacBurney Studios on Monday night, and charmed her audience completely no less because of the unique and very pleasing program than through the fact that her voice is a beautiful one and her style is always very pleasing.

Careful enunciation of text is one of her chief assets and an intimate finish is applied to each song interpreted by her so that a program becomes, under her skillful touch, an absolute joy and when devoted to one composer, as in this case, is a true and careful statement of the virtues and graces inherent in the writing.

Liza Lehmann writes delightful short songs—she knows the human heart, she knows nature and she knows all the phases of sentiment—all these she puts in her songs in truly admirable style and withal she conserves always a vocal line which is a joy to the singer and a delight to the audience.

At this time the opening group (not heard) was made up of sentimental songs mostly, "You and I" being particularly grateful.

The second group comprised the five "Bird Songs" and this was truly a delight. Every one knows how exquisitely Mme. Lehmann has caught the bird spirit and the fantasy she has so deftly worked into both vocal score and accompaniment of these songs and to say that they were admirably translated by Miss Frisbie is to express it mildly—they were indeed a genuine delight.

In the last group, "Beautiful Land of Nod" was softly legato, "The Passion Flower" rose to a fine climax, "Speedwell" was charmingly simple, "At the Making of the Hay" was exhilaratingly bravoura on a small scale, and two songs from "Vicar of Wakefield" rounded out a program of splendid choice. The last one, "There Are Birds in the Valley," proved Miss Frisbie to have poise, much voice and very great finish along coloratura lines.

CONGRATULATIONS

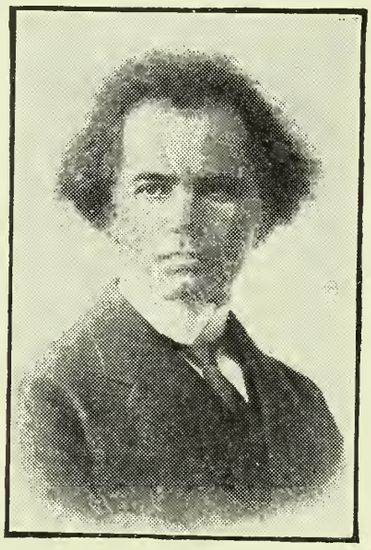
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Borroff are receiving the congratulations of their numerous friends in the music world on the birth of a son, who made his advent on Thursday of last week.

♯ ♯ ♯

Morgan—Tali Esen Morgan has reopened his offices in New York City. He has secured an entire suite at the Hotel Gerard, 123 West Forty-fourth street, and is moving in this week. From these offices Mr. Morgan will conduct all his work as national superintendent of the National Association of Organists, and also as the head of the Publicity Bureau and chairman of the Membership Committee of the Musicians' Club of New York. His telephone number is Bryant 1847.

♯ ♯ ♯

Florida—At the Florida State College for Women a song recital was given last Monday evening by Isabel W. Sparkes, soprano, assisted by Sara Mead Webb, pianist.



Jan Kubelik

Writes as follows of the

Mason & Hamlin

CHICAGO

Mason & Hamlin Co.,

Gentlemen: It is with the utmost pleasure that I contemplate my tour in this country with your wonderful piano for an accompanying instrument. Its remarkable tone qualities will prove most satisfying to me and most pleasing to my audience.

Sincerely yours,

Jan Kubelik

Mason & Hamlin Pianos on exhibition and sale only at store of

Wabash and Jackson Cable Piano Company CHICAGO

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
304 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 7931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO. ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusiv Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

People & Events

THE CHICAGO PIANO COLLEGE

Announces a studio recital by Harmon H. Watt, at the college lecture room, fourth floor Kimball Hall, on Saturday, November 29, at 2 o'clock. The program:

Fantaisie Opus 49 F Minor.....Chopin
Nocturne Opus 9 No. 2 (Left hand alone).....
.....Scriabine
Two Little Poems Opus 32.....MacDowell
The Eagle
The Brook
Melody in F.....Edmund Reupert
Polka de Salon Opus 9 No. 2.....Tschaikowsky
Isoldes Love-Death.....Wagner-Liszt
(Tristan and Isolde)

MARTHA S. STEELE

Martha S. Steele, Pittsburgh contralto, appeared before the College Club of Pittsburgh, Friday afternoon, November 18, singing Cadman's difficult "Three Songs to Odysseus" with beautiful tone and fine interpretation of the different moods. She excelled, perhaps, in the dramatic "Calypso" song. Mr. Cadman and Mrs. Eberhart were guests of honor at the occasion and heartily complimented the singer for her artistic work. Mrs. Steele is singing in Cleveland this week, and appears in concert December 5 in the Rittenhouse Ball Room, Pittsburgh.

Little Theater—Though not nearly so many misconceptions prevail in relation to the Chicago Little Theater as were current last season (a fact probably due to the general popularity of an "Evening with Columbine," which brought more of the public to the Little Theater than all last season's plays combined) yet there still seems to be in the minds of many an idea that membership and attendance at the Little Theater is only by invitation. Such a conception is entirely erroneous. Just like every other theater, the Chicago Little Theater is open to the general public at every performance and its membership is open to all who are interested in the art of the theater and its development in Chicago. Some people (who probably have never been to the Little Theater) imagine that it is a refuge for high-brows and faddists. If such people would attend one of its performances they would discover that their mistake had been costing them amusement and pleasure for over a year.

Neumann—Mr. Ludwig Schmidt, the young violinist, will make his first appearance in this country at the Studebaker Sunday afternoon, December 7, under the direction of F. Wight Neumann, in a recital, assisted by Miss Ida May Cameron, lyric soprano.

Freund.—The Artist Trio, of which Mr. Edward Freund is the violinist, will play at the Woman's building of the University in Madison, Wis., on the 18th.

Sturkow-Ryder—Mme. Theodora Sturkow-Ryder will be soloist in Cleveland, Ohio, on December 4, playing with the "Singers Club."

HAROLD HENRY IN TOLEDO

When Harold Henry, the Chicago pianist, appeared in recital last Wednesday, he was greeted by an enthusiastic audience of music lovers. With the opening bars of the tremendous Bach-Busoni "Prelude and Fugue," Mr. Henry proclaimed himself a master of the instrument, and sustained the interest of the audience throughout a program which in its entirety was scholarly, effective and unhackneyed. Mr. Henry's playing is characterized by great intellectuality without sacrificing the emotional features of the compositions. His splendid technic was shown to best advantage in the classic group and in the realistic etude, "The Wind." The Keltic "Sonata" by MacDowell was played with broad musicianship, displaying the rugged style of America's greatest composer, while the Chopin, Schumann and Wagner-Liszt numbers were given with deep poetical feeling. Mr. Henry was recalled after each group and at the end of the program, and responded graciously with encores.—Lewis Daniels, in Toledo Times, November 16, 1913.

(Advertisement)

FLORENCE HODGE

Following are a few testimonials selected from the attractive new circular sent out by Florence Hodge, organist:

Miss Hodge handles the large instrument with power and effect. The program was one that showed to advantage her versatility and ability.—The Journal, Montgomery, Ala.

It is with greatest pleasure that I endorse Miss Florence Hodge's work. She is one of the most competent of organists, thoroughly equipped, and ready with the entire church and concert literature. She is an artist.—Harrison M. Wild.

I am personally acquainted with Miss Florence Hodge, and consider her a remarkably capable organist. She possesses excellent technic and taste, and exceptional temperament for organ playing. It gives me genuine pleasure to testify to these unusual qualities of musicianship.—Clarence Eddy.

(Advertisement)

CONCERT ANNOUNCEMENTS

(Under this heading Music News will hereafter print advertisements of Concerts at the rate of 20c a line, minimum, 5 lines.)

THE MESSIAH will be sung at the Church of the Covenant, Belden avenue and Halsted street, on Monday evening, December 8, under direction of J. B. Trowbridge, with Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano; Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto; Henry A. Backmeyer, tenor; Gustaf Holmquist, bass, and a chorus of eighty voices. Admission free. (By ticket until 8:10.) Tickets at Gamble Hinged Co. and Central Y. M. C. A., La Salle street.

JOHN R. RANKL Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building Phone Harrison 6880

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

Julius BRANDER
VIOLINIST TEACHER
54 Auditorium Bldg. Home Phone Edgewater 2755

SOFIA STEPHALI

Following is some newspaper comment on the work of Mme. Sofia Stephali:

A series of concert lectures are being given at Hare's Hall. Mme. Sofia Stephali is the lecturer and singer. The first concert was given last evening. In addition to being a finished and pleasing singer, she discourses intelligently on music. Following the lecture, Mme. Stephali sang a number of selections. She has a mezzo-soprano voice of great beauty and power, and it is seldom that the people of Altoona have the opportunity to hear one of her calibre.—The Altoona (Pa.) Mirror.

An appreciative audience of Altoona's music-loving people gathered last night to hear Sofia Stephali in her first concert-lecture. It was a genuine pleasure to hear her well modulated voice as she discoursed on the "Influence of Music." She has a pleasing manner and her lecture demonstrated that she is a woman of much culture and refinement. Following the lecture, which was warmly received and made a deep impression, Mme. Stephali gave a program of songs of great variety, certain of which gave ample opportunity and scope to the singer's remarkable range. Those who attended the concert-lecture pronounced it an intellectual and vocal treat.—Morning Tribune, Altoona, Pa.

A large audience greeted Mme. Sofia Stephali last evening at a concert lecture. It proved a very pleasing as well as instructive entertainment.—The Farmer, Bridgeport, Conn.

Mme. Sofia Stephali, the noted prima donna, addressed a good sized audience last evening, in her concert-lecture. "The Influence of Music" was ably dealt with and treated in a highly interesting manner.—Burlington (Vt.) News.

The concert-lecture of Mme. Sofia Stephali were greatly enjoyed. She advanced a number of excellent means for the betterment of mankind, in her very pleasing manner. The songs with which she ilustrated her lecture were received with enthusiasm. Yesterday afternoon the selections were again appropriate and much enjoyed. The concert and lecture last night was equally well received. The last lecture was on "Music and Life," and was perhaps the most interesting of the three.—The State, Columbia, S. C.

Despite wet weather, many people attended the very excellent concerts and lectures on musical subjects given by Sofia Stephali. She showed a very wide knowledge of her subjects. The musical numbers were exceptionally fine.—Chester (Pa.) Times.

(Advertisement.)

ORGAN COMPOSITION PRIZE

Hillgreen & Lane, of Alliance, O., offer to the American Guild of Organists $100 as a prize to be awarded by the Guild for the best organ composition. The competition is open to all American composers. Either of the following forms may be used:

1. (a) Andantino or Allegretto, 48 to 64 measures;
   (b) Allegro (climax ff), 36 to 48 measures;
   (c) Andantino (repeat), but varied in harmonization and figuration, 48 to 64 measures. A short Coda is permissible. If compound time is used, the number of measures may be reduced.
2. (a) Andante or Adagio, 36 to 48 measures;
   (b) Piu Mosso or quasi Allegro, 36 to 48 measures (climax ff);
   (c) Andante or Adagio (repeat), 36 to 48 measures, but varied in harmonization and figuration. A short Coda is permissible.

Manuscript with the penname on it, and the same pen name on the outside of an envelope containing the real name and address, must be sent by or before March 15, 1914, to John Hyatt Brewer, No. 88 South Oxford street, Brooklyn, N. Y. The committee of judges for the American Guild of Organists: John Hyatt Brewer, chairman; William C. Carl, Clarence Dickinson. Manuscripts must be legibly written. The prize composition shall become the property of the Guild. Composers desiring the return of their manuscripts must enclose stamps.

Thompson—Cave Thompson, blind pianist, will appear under the auspices of the Chicago Woodlawn Club, on February 3.

MILON R. HARRIS

Mr. Harris is soloist and director the fifth year in succession for the Washington County (Salem, Ind.) Teachers' Association, Friday and Saturday of this week. The sessions run from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. each day and Mr. Harris has two periods each day. The Oglesby (Ill.) Choral Club of 75 voices, under his direction, will give its first concert December 8.

Willett—William A. Willett appeared in concert at Manteno, Ill., on November 11, and has booked a two weeks' recital tour in the Southwest during February. Elizabeth Peterson, a pupil of Mr. Willett, has been engaged as soloist at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Kankakee.

MUSIC TEACHERS' NATIONAL ASSOCIATION MEETING

The meeting of the M. T. N. A. will be held in Cincinnati on December 29, 30 and 31, and January 1, at the Cincinnati College of Music. Detailed programs will be printed in Music News later. Information can be obtained from A. J. Gantvoort, College of Music, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Ballmann—The Harmonic Singing Society will assist at the Ballmann concert at Lincoln Turner Hall on Sunday afternoon at 3.

White.—Mr. William Alfred White has decided to concentrate all his teaching at the Lyceum Arts Conservatory, 522 Fine Arts Building.

PROF. BERTRAND DE BERNYZ
VOICE SPECIALIST
also concerts and oratorios in Carnegie Hall & Aeolian Hall.
First teacher of Frieda Hempel, Metropolitan opera star, acknowledged by New York music critics as only successful rival of Mmes. Patti Melba and Sembrich, also teacher of many other eminent concert and operatic artists. Special course in TONE PRODUCTION, INTERPRETATION and OPERATIC ENSEMBLE. Special features: OPERA-PERFORMANCES in NEW YORK THEATERS; Information, 58 W. 72nd St., New York City, "The Adrian"

Wm. Alfred White
522 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Practical Theory

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers
Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on
KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

MYRTLE Elvyn
RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Kimball Piano Used
Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Concert Direction M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av. New York

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
"A Lodder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys .50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice .50
Beotitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS
Phone Austin 12717
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT
5943 OHIO STREET

WILLIAM HINSHAW
BARITONE
Of the Metropolitan Opera Company
Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

TO RENT—Time in Studio; 84 Auditorium Bldg. Apply any morning.

TO RENT—Kimball Hall Studio; Tuesday, and Wednesday and Saturday a. m. Address Music News.

FOR RENT—Studio seventh floor Fine Arts Bldg., Mondays and Thursdays; $15 per month. Address I. Music News.

HARMONY and composition by mail. Raymond Robinson, organist and choirmaster of Central Church, Boston. Address 6 Newbury st., Boston, Mass.

TO RENT—Unusually large Studio equipped with Grand and Upright piano, electric lights and fan. Reception room with telephone in connection. Tuesdays and Fridays from 3 o'clock on; 516 Kimball Hall.

GEORGE W. MUNRO

Voice Specialist

Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.

Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.

Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.

Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

Wm. Clare Hall

Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Hazel Dell Neff

SOPRANO

PLYMOUTH INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN

PIANIST TEACHER

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and

4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.

COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing

Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin

Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN

SOPRANO

Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital

429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

Music in America

LOS ANGELES

So many high grade programs have been presented the past week space will not permit a full report of each, but the Woman's Orchestra opening of the twenty-second season with their new conductor, Mr. Henry Schoenefeld, who proved highly efficient as an interpreter and batonist. The program was a popular one, a pleasing prelude to three greater efforts which will be held in the Auditorium. The ensemble contains near fifty lady artists of good attainments. They have had but one other conductor, but now have splendid expectancy under their new leader, to whom the work is not in any way new, as his experience in leading and composition for the orchestra is of long-time experience. Several of his own compositions for strings were upon the program and were favorites at once. The Kretchmar "Coronation March" "Folkunger," Nicolai overture to "Merry Wives of Windsor," opened the program and Chopin's Polonaise "Militaire," and Scharwenka's "Polish Dance," and Handel's "Largo," were the closing numbers.

The soloist of the occasion was a marvel of genius and skill in piano playing, by Miss Marjorie Nichols, a twelve or thirteen-year-old girl who showed the freedom of an old timer in the Mendelssohn "G Minor Concerto," with orchestra, and a group of selections of classic order in solo. Great promise is before the young lady.

Miss Bessie Fuhrer, the first violinist of the orchestra, played the Handel "Largo" solo in true style. Carreno-Macmillen, Sibyl-Sammis MacDermid, and George Schoenefeld, will appear as soloists in the forthcoming concerts.

The People's Orchestra Sunday had another success in performance and a splendid appreciative audience. The chorus appeared in the "Tales of Hoffman," barcarolle, to good effect.

The introduction of Herman Franz Arnold, 76 years of age, who first wrote down the music of "Dixie," as played by the author, Dan Emmett, gave a talk on how it happened, after which he conducted the orchestra in the ever-popular melody. The baton showed a training that was not by any means forgotten. The unannounced number afforded much pleasure in an historical as well as musical change in a very good program.

Mr. Vernon Spencer, a pianist of virtuoso attainments, gave with the orchestra Rubinstein's "Concerto in D Minor." His playing was masterly and was encored most enthusiastically, to which he responded.

The greatest local event of the week was the reorganized Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra and the introduction of Herr Adolph Tandler, the new conductor. Both orchestra and leader made good in every line. The combination is superb, about seventy players. Many are new to the body of the former number and the excellence of the playing shows the efficiency of artists and the training master.

Mr. Tandler conducted the entire program from memory. The same program was repeated in concert as given in rehearsal on Friday afternoon.

The distinction of giving the "Scenes Historique" suite, by Sibelius, the first time in America, was a point full of interest. The work was well received and promises success as a descriptive piece of scenes and character of the day in the history of the people. The Beethoven's "Consecration of the House," Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," and the Wagner prelude to the "Meistersinger," were well interpreted, and the orchestra is pronounced a success and will receive a liberal support by the music lovers of the city.

November 17 The Orpheus Club presented a program of interest. The club is enlarged to about seventy men. The general ensemble will improve with the work of the season's practice. Mr. Joseph P. Dupuy, the originator and continuous director, has done much for the young men in the club. Mr. Will Garroway, the accompanist, gave a group of three piano solos in a real pianistic fashion, one being a "Nocturne" of his own. He also contributed a male chorus number, "Mother o' Mine," which was sung with fine effect by the club. "Thanatopsis" by Joseph Mosenthal, words by William Cullen Bryant, was the heaviest work and tested the ability and endurance of the voices.

A pleasant surprise in the boy 'cellist, Master Alfred Wallenstein, who seemed so able in the technic of the soulful instrument, gave "Symphoniques" by Boellman, "Wiegenlied" by Hauser, and a "Mazurka" by Popper, and several encore numbers. His playing merited the enthusiastic applause given. The concerts to follow in the season will show still better art and interpretation.

One of the most enjoyable concerts was given by the Woman's club (The Lyric) with 100 in the ensemble. For delicate and refined delivery, good quality of voice, light and shade, color and expression, they are fine. In good delivery of the text and precision of attack, they are models to pattern after. Mr. Ralph R. Laughlin was the tenor soloist for the club, and in his solos and concerted numbers he was an artistic success. He has a pleasant voice, good delivery of text and interpretation of the spirit of the text in tone and color to give much pleasure to his auditors. The program was a list of gem selections throughout. Loepke's "Two Roses," Charles H. Demorest's "Dew Drops," Schindler's "Tuscany" Folk Song, "The Dove," and Bussett's "Capri" were all repeated in encore. Mr. Laughlin gave as solos Adams' "Hindu Love Song" and Hermann's "Three Comrades," and responded to an encore.

Mr. Poulin, the director, deserves credit for the excellent presentation.

Mme. Schumann-Heink has crowded houses as usual for her fine programs, mostly German.

S. W. MOUNTZ.

446 West Fortieth Place.

WORCESTER, MASS.

The first Ellis concert of the series of 1913-1914 was given in Mechanics' Hall Tuesday evening, November 4, Mr. Paderewski at the piano. The audience was a large one and the work of the great pianist of much distinction. The Chopin "Polonaise," Op. 53, and the encore following Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody," the "Military Polonaise," by Chopin, were given readings of magnificent breadth of conception and a tremendously vivid portrayal.

The second concert of this course will bring the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Dr. Muck, conductor, and Miss Florence Hinkle, soprano, the soloist, to Mechanics Hall, Tuesday night, December 9.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Concerts of the Steinert Series

The second concert of the Steinert series was given in Mechanics' Hall, Sunday night, November 9, by Miss Inez Barbour, soprano; Mme. Nevada Van Der Veer (Mrs. Reed Miller), contralto; Mr. Evan Williams, tenor; Reginald Werrenrath, baritone, and Charles A. Baker, accompanist. The features of the concert were the singing of Mr. Williams and the presentation of Liza Lehmann's "In a Persian Garden" by the quartet. The impression made by a first hearing of Miss Barbour and Mrs. Reed Miller (Mme. Nevada Van Der Veer) was decidedly favorable to both.

Mr. Williams received an ovation upon his appearance and Mr. Werrenrath was warmly applauded, and encores were the rule throughout the evening.

The next concert in this series will be given November 23, by Mme. Johanna Gadski, soprano; Miss Marie Caslova, violinist; George Harris, Jr., tenor; Edwin Schneider, accompanist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Boston Opera Company Concert Series

The first concert by the Boston Opera Company, under the direction of Frederick Lamb, a local teacher of singing, was given in Mechanics' Hall, Tuesday night, November 11, by Elizabeth Amsden, soprano; Cara Sapin, contralto; Vincenzo Tanlongo, tenor; Rodolfo Fornari, baritone; Jose Mardones, basso.

The program was made up of excerpts from operas by Gounod, Saint-Saens, Tosti, Offenbach, Ponchielli, and groups of songs and ballads. The concert ended with the "Prison Scene" from Faust, with Mme. Amsden, Messrs. Tanlongo, Mardones the singers. There was a fair audience present and the applause was frequent and sustained. At best concerts presenting this type of music with piano accompaniment and without scenery or action, although on this occasion the stage decorations furnished by a local firm were pleasing and tasteful, is lacking too much in variety, and is apt to become tedious. And the program givers, too, usually vocalize with a preponderance of tone and little coloring or expression. This is what may be said of the concert here reviewed. The singers with characteristic energy filled the hall with sound and at the close of each appearance their efforts were echoed from the audience by a clapping of hands. Encores were given, thus adding to a program of 13 numbers, so that the audience was released after more than two hours of listening.

Fabio Rimini played the piano vigorously as accompanist.

The first Worcester appearance of the Lina Cavalieri and her company will take place at the second concert of this series, Monday, December 1.

♮ ♮ ♮

Notes

An interesting program of music was given in the Unitarian Church, Marlboro, Wednesday, November 5, by Faith Morse, assisted by Miss Charlotte Elliott and Mrs. Harriett MacConnell Dietz. A fair-sized and appreciative audience was present.

Monday night, November 10, Miss Evelyn Blair, soprano, and Mr. Earl William Smith, at the pianola, gave a pianola concert in the music room of Steinert & Sons. The report speaks well of the work of both.

The following newspaper clipping is at hand:

"David Nyvall, Jr., who has had charge of the piano instruction at Hill's Piano School, and Miss Watson, the assistant instructor, have severed their connection with the concern. Miss Watson returned to her home in Erie, Pa., last evening.

"Mr. Nyvall will continue to teach in Jamestown, and is now planning to lay the foundation for the establishment of a large school of music. Temporarily, Mr. Nyvall has a studio in the parsonage of the First Mission Church, in which he holds the position as choirmaster."

LESTER S. BUTLER.

———♯♯♯———

Pittsburgh—Mr. John W. Nichols has just been engaged to sing the tenor part in "The Messiah," to be given under direction of the Mozart Club in Pittsburgh, on December 26.

SAINT PAUL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The musical season in St. Paul was brilliantly ushered in on Wednesday evening, November 5, by the Symphony Orchestra's first concert of its eighth year of existence. As usual, the immense auditorium was almost completely filled, from the high priced boxes, occupied by the city's elite, to the cheap seats up in the second balcony, where nine-tenths of all the music students in the city took advantage of hearing a splendid program, by one of the best orchestras in the country.

The orchestra is finer this year than ever before. Under Walter Henry Rothwell's direction, after a fortnight's daily rehearsal, a magnificent performance of Beethoven's Eighth Symphony was given. Liszt's Symphonic Poem, "The Preludes," and a "Festival March and Hymn to Liberty" by Hugo Kaun, completed the orchestral numbers.

The assisting artist was a former St. Paul man, Putnam Griswold, who at one time sang in the chorus of St. John's Episcopal Church. He has a rich and powerful voice, well suited to a large auditorium, carrying well above the orchestra. His enunciation was particularly good. His selections were from Handel (Aria from "Alexander's Feast"), Berlioz (Serenade from "Faust"), Schubert (A Group in "Tartarus"), and Schumann's ever popular "Two Grenadiers," which, however, was less effective in English than it would have been, if sung in German. G. H. F.

———♯♯♯———

Brooklyn—Mr. Chester H. Beebe gave an organ recital at the Janes M. E. Church, in Brooklyn on last Saturday evening.

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
4596 OAKENWALD AV.
Phone Drexel 3987

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Stewart 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing, Recitals, Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Palmer Christian
Concert Organist - Pupils - Coach - Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music.
Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone Austin 23973
5704 Washington Boulevard
Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av
Phone Normal 1406

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS
PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

CHARLESTON, W. VA.

If one may judge from the attractions already presented this season at the Burlew, matters theatrical are decidedly in our favor. Thus far, with Henrietta Crosman, in "Tongues of Men;" Louis Mann, in "The Children of Today;" John Drew, in "The Will" and "The Tyranny of Tears;" a competent company, headed by Lottie Kendall, Sylvia Jason, Henri La Batiste and Al. Rauh (a Parkersburg, W. Va., boy), in "The Red Rose;" and Joseph Sheehan and associates (including special orchestra under Theodore Sterns), in an English version of Massenet's "Salome," and all within the last two weeks, is almost undreamed of. There is a great deal of activity along this line just now. The Plaza, a little vaudeville theater of the "three shows daily" type, on Keith time, erected about a year ago, seems to be thriving well, and announcement has been made of plans to build one, seating 1,200, and under Orpheum management. A company has also leased the Armory, and is fitting it up for skating, vaudeville, etc., with a view to bringing big and special features during the winter.

♮ ♮ ♮

Another item of interest which deserves mention was the concert given at the Y. M. C. A. (Stephenson Auditorium), by "Two Old Confederates," assisted by "The Old Southern (Polk Miller) Quartet," on Friday evening, November 7. These two old soldiers, Col. Tom Booker and Capt. Tony Miller, regaled the audience with "befo' de wa'" song and story, to the accompaniment of banjo and male quartet, and violin obligato, to the extent of making everybody forget the bad weather and whatever other worries of greater or less moment might be theirs. A laudable attainment in any case. J. H. FRANCIS.

♯ ♯ ♯

CINCINNATI, OHIO

The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra opened their season at Emery Auditorium on Friday, the 14th, and Saturday evening evening, the 15th, with a Wagner program. The audiences were very large and enthusiastic. Dr. Kimball was received with hearty applause.

The first concert of the Orpheus Club will take place on December 1, with Christine Miller, contralto, as soloist. The club is much larger in membership this year and has been doing some strenuous rehearsing under their able director, Edwin Glover.

Miss Florence Teal, soprano, has been chosen soloist of the First Presbyterian church. Miss Teal is one of the leading sopranos of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Donna Sander Goodbread, concert pianist, assisted in a program on Wednesday evening, November 12, at Cable Hall, Cincinnati; Miss Louie Webber, Miss Florence Teal, Messrs. A. G. Cornelius, E. A. Prentice, H. Comstock, H. Schatz and Ed Deitermeier, members of the vocal school of Mr. L. Drew Mosher. The program was made up of beautiful songs and arias which the audience enthusiastically enjoyed. Mrs. Goodbread made her initial appearance before the audiences of Cincinnati on this occasion. Her first group of piano numbers consisting of Gavotte, Op. 84 (Schutt), Romance, Op. 28 (Schumann), and Minuet (Boccherini-Joseffy), played with great warmth and delicate shading and finish. In particular was the Romance by Schumann appealing to her audience, because of the great breath and soulfulness in which she played it. Mrs. Goodbread's big number of the evening was the Chopin Ballade, Op. 23, which she played with wonderful technic and power. Her tone was broad and masterful, and her scale passage clear and rhythmic. With it all she displayed wonderful musicianship, testifying years of study, and the experiences of the concert platform. She received an ovation at the close of her numbers, the audience refusing to dismiss her without several encores to which she graciously responded. Mrs. Goodbread is a native of the state of Ohio, and the wife of ex-Congressman Harry L. Goodbread.

L. DREW MOSHER.

♯ ♯ ♯

CLEVELAND, OHIO

The first of the Sunday night concerts at the Hippodrome, October 26, attracted an immense audience. The combination of two artists, such as Melba and Kubelik, proved to be a great success. They were assisted by Mr. Edmund Burke. Mr. Gabriel Sapierre was at the piano.

The Russian Symphony Orchestra, Modest Altschuler, conductor, on November 9, had the misfortune to appear when Cleveland was paralyzed by the worst blizzard in its history. Although the house was practically sold out, very few were able to attend. Bernard Altschuler, brother of the conductor, made a hit with his 'cello solos.

Mrs. Lucille Stevenson of Chicago, and a great favorite in Cleveland, gave a song recital before the Fortnightly Club, Tuesday afternoon, November 4.

The blizzard mentioned above changed the first symphony concert of the season into a very enjoyable informal recital. The train bringing the Chicago Symphony Orchestra to the city was stalled in the snow at Edgewater Park, two miles from the station. The men walked in, but their baggage was not delivered in time to give the concert. Pasquale Amato, the soloist, had arrived, and gave his arias and a group of songs with the assistance of Mrs. Felix Hughes at the piano. Miss Edith Thompson, pianist, of Boston, who happened to be in the city, played a group of MacDowell's compositions, and the Schulz-Evler arabesques on the Blue Danube waltz. Mr. Tramonti, the harpist of the orchestra, gave a group of solos.

The concert was greatly enjoyed by the five hundred who braved the storm.

The Municipal Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Christian Timner, is giving a series of successful concerts at the Hippodrome on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Roy Jewell Crocker gave an organ recital November 18, at the Wade Park Methodist Church, under the auspices of the Northern Ohio Chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

Walter C. Howell, voice teacher and bass soloist, who has been prominent in musical affairs, many years, died on November 10, after a very brief illness.

♯ ♯ ♯

Pettibone.—Miss Charlotte Pettibone played a piano recital at the Frances Willard Hospital on November 13.

WICHITA, KAN.

The work of the Musicians' Club has been going on steadily and the new officers for the ensuing year are: Frank A. Power, chairman; Otto L. Fischer, secretary; Lucius Ades, treasurer, and an executive committee of the above, together with Mrs. Ades, Mrs. Jetta Campbell-Stanley, Reno B. Meyers, Rafael Navas, T. L. Krebs and Ralph Brokaw. The program committee has outlined a series of evenings for the monthly meetings, in which a round table and topics on current events take a principal place. The program for this month's meeting, November 8, will enlist the services of Minnie Ferguson Owens, soprano; Lucius Ades, tenor, and Reno B. Meyers, pianist.

The task of drawing up the list of accredited teachers of music in Wichita is also one of the important works assigned to this club by the board of education, and will be completed this month. Those not already accepted for credit will be called before a committee selected from the club and either examined or requested to submit credentials and preparation for approval. This committee consists of Miss Jessie L. Clark of the city schools; Frank A. Power, president of the Power-Meyer Conservatory; Theodore Lindberg, president Wichita College of Music, and Lucius Ades. Students of the high school are required to report the teacher with whom they study at the time of the enrollment in the school, and this list has to date reached the hundred mark. The grade schools are likewise recognizing the credit system and allowing students to select music as a credit study in place of some of the minor branches taught. While it entails a big work for the Musicians' Club, especially the committee on crediting teachers, it is nevertheless a great recognition for music.

A symphony orchestra is being organized here. Iris Pendleton has the work in charge and has secured some of the most prominent ladies as patronesses, and many influential business men as backers.

The Hypthia Club launched this season's work with a program last month given at the home of Mrs. Mary Sankey, by pupils of the Power-Meyer Conservatory.

On October 23, Otto L. Fischer, pianist, of the Wichita College of Music, gave the following excellent program at Philharmony Hall:

Sonata, Op. 5 ..... Brahms
Twelve Studies, Op. 25 ..... Chopin
Tannhauser Overture ..... Wagner-Liszt

He was assisted by Harry Evans, baritone, who sang two songs, "Three for Jack" and "Sands o'Dee."

The oratorio artists, Agnes Kimball, soprano; Elsie Baker, contralto; Reed Miller, tenor, and Frederick Wheeler, baritone, gave a splendid program at the Crawford Theater, opening the Wichita Chorus subscription series, October 21. It was really one of the finest programs of its kind ever heard here, the ensemble especially being unusually fine. If all the offering on this series lines up as well as this first one (and judging from the excellent list they will), Wichita will have a most magnificent musical treat this season. The next number is Charles W. Clark, baritone, and Francis Macmillen, violinist, in joint recital November 11.

ELLA L. MILLS
PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

Ethel Altemus
PIANIST
New York Address 665 Lexington Av.
Personal Representative
FREDERICK CLARK
83 Auditorium Building, Chicago

JENNY DUFAU
SOPRANO
Chicago Grand
Opera Co.

SOFIA
STEPHALI
COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

MARGARET
SOPRANO
Phone Harrison 6880
LESTER
608 FINE ARTS BUILDING
WILLIAM
COMPOSER
Accompanist

Louise George
Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Jennie F. W. Johnson
Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Preiser Violin School
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director
Phone Austin 4043
STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.

CONCERTS
RECITALS
ORATORIOS
OSCAR SEAGLE
BARITONE
17 Avenue Mozart
Paris (France)
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER
In Paris all Summer
119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR DRAMATIC
SOPRANO
RECITALS
CONCERTS
HAZZARD-PEOCOCK
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London
FRANCE
ENGLAND
GERMANY

WHITEHILL
BARITONE
Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO
520 Fine Arts Bldg
Phone Drexel 8183

Esther Plumb
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson
CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3246
Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago, Ill

WALTER DIEDERICH
TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

MR.
TENOR
MRS.
DRAMATIC READER
Karl Buren Stein
JOINT RECITALS
55 Auditorium Bldg.
TEACHERS of
SINGING
ELOCUTION
ACTING

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN American Conservatory Kimball Hall

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

Daniel Protheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO The Miraflores, 1420 Flower St.
Los Angeles, Cal.

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
ABROAD FOR SEASON

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

Harriet Case SOPRANO
COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STONE
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

The Eighth District Federation of Women's Clubs held their big annual meeting at Sedgwick, Kansas, last week, and as a final program the following was offered, same being furnished by Wichita musicians:

Piano—
"Nachtstucke" ..... Schumann
"Scherzo" ..... Chopin
Mrs. Ralph Brokaw, Wichita
Reading—"An Independent Pair"—
Mrs. Charlotte Whitney-Barrett, Wichita
Violin—
"Nocturne in E flat" ..... Chopin-Sarasate
Minuet ..... Beethoven
Mr. Ralph Brokaw, Wichita
Soprano—
"Vilia" (from the "Merry Widow") ..... Franz Lehar
"Thou Brilliant Bird" ..... Felicien David
Mrs. Earl Blake, Wichita
Reading ..... Selected
Mrs. Charlotte Whitney-Barrett
Violin—
Romance ..... Wieniawski
Obertass Mazurka ..... Wieniakski
Mr. Ralph Brokaw, Wichita

Miss Mable Capron, pianist, left this week for three months' study in New York City.

The Wichita Symphony Orchestra, just organized, has announced Maud Powell, violinist, as soloist for one of their concerts later in the season.

Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance" was given at the Crawford, October 14, by local talent.

♯♯♯

CHARLESTON, W. VA.

The Kanawha Musical Society opened its season last Monday evening with the Russian Symphony Orchestra, Modest Altschuler, conductor. The new Armory amply held the crowd, and if the enthusiasm with which each member was received is worth anything as a guide, the program was to its liking.

The "March Slav" of Tschaikowsky was perhaps the one in which the orchestra seemed at home. The strong dynamic display and changeful rhythm seeming peculiarly to appeal to them. The 'cello solo "Pas Pied," by Gillet, played by Bernard Altschuler, was also well accompanied. I should think Mr. Altschuler would have been glad to excuse them from "assiting" in his first number, "Andante Cantabile," by Chopin.

The celeste solo was a decided novelty to us—charming to say the least. Especially fitting, as the exponent of Tschaikowsky's "Dance of the Fairy Dolls." Some of the other numbers were marred by the blaring of the brass (trombones principally), and the thunderings of the drums.

Overture, Tannhauser ..... Wagner
Symphony No. 6, in B minor, "Pathetique" ..... Tschaikowsky
Adagio, M minor, 4-4
Allegro non troppo, B minor 4-4
Allegro con grazia, D major, 5-4
Allegro, molto vivace, G major, 4-4 (12/8)
Finale, Adagio lamentoso, B minor, 3-4
March Slav ..... Tschaikowsky
Praeludium ..... Jaernfeldt
The Marionettes ..... Glazunoff
Dance of the Fairy Dolls ..... Tschaikowsky
Celeste solo
Andante Cantabile ..... Chopin
Swan Song ..... Saint-Saens
Pas Pied ..... Gillet
'Cello Solos—Bernard Altschuler
Overture "1812" ..... Tschaikowsky
(Commemorating Napoleon's Retreat from Moscow)

Another program of interest the past week was that offered by the "White's Musical Review," at the Stephenson Auditorium (Y. M. C. A.) This was the first in the lyceum course of the Baraca-Philathea Societies of the Baptist Temple, and was advertised as "A Costume Carnival." It was all of that, and, at the same time, musically worthy. Miss Fowler's readings and Miss Vedder's contralto solos seemed to hit the mark most with the audience, and the closing number, "A Dream of the Past," in which Miss Fowler took the principal part, was very pretty, indeed. The soft-light effects, the dream of days of long ago, and the old songs, harmonized (if we could but add a bass part to ladies' quartets) made a delightful goodnight scene.

J. HENRY FRANCIS

♯♯♯

LOS ANGELES

The past week has presented many things of interest to music lovers. The Tivoli Opera Company closed their season with a good performance of Andrau's "Mascot."

A piano recital at the Gamut Club by Mr. Julian Pascal, a pianist of a high grade of virtuosity, gave a full evening program of the best classics. Six of Chopin's masterpieces; Beethoven's "Sonata" in "A Flat"; Hensel's "If I Were a Bird," and "Romance" and "April," of his own, from "Tropical Scenes." The free improvisation demonstrated much native genius for composition.

A new "Los Angeles Ladies Quartet" made their public debut in Blanchard Hall. The sopranos are Mrs. Louise Marie Bitter and Hulda Besch; contraltos are Mrs. Merlin Belle McKee and Mrs. Laura Johnson Sondea.

The assisting artist was Mrs. Weber of Boulder, Colorado, who has a voice of fine placement and quality.

The blending of voices can be very much improved by practice and a uniformity in vocal method. They will tour this part of the state and the initial work bespeaks a coming success.

The People's Orchestra presented two new works in last Sunday's program, an "Indian Suite," in four movements, for orchestra, by Hans S. Linne, who was conductor of orchestra of the Tivoli Company, but will take up his residence here. The "Suite" is one of excellence; Indian melodic themes are introduced and orchestrated with strong and telling effects, and throughout sustaining that wild and native character of the aborigines. It merits another hearing. The other work was a setting of music by Mr. Charles Farwell Edson, manager of the orchestra, to Mrs. Sharlot M. Hall's prose poem, "The Race Mother," which he read to a fitting and expressive orchestral basic color effect, very greatly enhancing the character of the poem. Mr. Edson's voice is well registered in depth of compass and breadth to express native soul thought of the poetic sentiment. Herbert's "Habanera" and "Dagger Dance," from "Natoma," and Weber's "Jubel" overture were well played by the orchestra.

In the song recital by Isobel Carol, we had a treat of superior excellence. She possesses a voice of clear quality and placement, and an exactness of rendition well nigh faultless. Her English diction was clear and distinct and in the five good classic old English songs much pleasure was drawn to the artist in the opening of the excellent program.

Mrs. Norma Rockhold-Robbins, as mezzo soprano, sang two of Mrs. H. H. A. Beach's compositions, and an aria from Delibe's "Samson and Delilah." They were received with hearty applause. Such excellence merited as good a house as the best, but it was primarily local talent.

The Symphony opens this week. Harold Bauer, pianist, Saturday matinee; Schumann-Heink the 18th; Lyric Club, 100 ladies, the 19th, with many local programs of merit. S. W. MOUNTZ.

446 West Fortieth place.

HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT

Frieda Hempel's beautiful concert of November 4 marked the official opening of the musical season. Miss Hempel was brought to Hartford by Mr. W. F. A. Engel, whose selection of artists is always certain to please.

Miss Marion Williams, after three years' earnest work in Chicago, made her debut November 1 at Center Church auditorium. She had the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. John Hammond of New York, whose work was an artistic delight, while Mrs. Williams proved equal to all demands her program made, possessing a good tone and musical feeling.

Boston Symphony, November 26, assisted by Sylivian Noach, violinist, will give the first of a series.

Philharmonic Orchestra, of which Robert H. Prutting is conductor, gave the opening concert November 20, an all Wagnerian program. This means the fifteenth season for the popular organists.

Miss Hildegard Brandegree, violinist, will be soloist of the Meriden Philharmonic Orchestra November 16.

Hartford School of Music and Hartford Conservatory report splendid enrollments for this season of the year.

Mary Billings Greene, professional pupil of Theodore Van Yorx, sang the soprano role in Dudley Buck's "Triumph of David" at the Fourth Church, October 29, under direction of Ralph L. Baldwin.

Miss Edith Oab gave the first of informal musicals November 20, presenting Mrs. Lindholm and John Kidney.

The Hartford Musical Club will present Miss Julia Culp January 20. Sedgewith and Casey will manage the concert.

Unusual interest is shown by music lovers in the selection of the Sterling artist.

Evan Williams, as soloist for the Choral Club's opening concert, under direction of Ralph L. Baldwin. The club will also have assistance of Hans Konward, 'cellist of New York.

Nina Bolmar, soprano, opened a busy season with concert at Mt. Clemens, Mich., October 22. Other bookings are Cincinnati, Ohio; Piqua, Ohio; Sidney, Ohio; Springfield, Ohio; Cleveland, Ohio, and St. Louis, two engagements.

The Asylum Hill Church Choir, under Edward F. Laubin's direction, rendered the harvest cantata, "Thanks Be to God," Clough-Leighter, November 2.

Clara Bull will open the artists' series in January under Loudon Charlton's direction. This series will bring forth a wonderful collection of artists and is worthy of splendid patronage. N. B.

GARY, INDIANA

Monday evening in the new Baptist Church auditorium at Gary, the Orpheus Club gave the first concert of its second season.

The club consists of twenty-four active members and has a list of thirty-six sustaining members that evidence the now thoroughly established condition of the club.

When Jennie F. W. Johnson of Chicago was soloist her work again proved to be most artistic. She was heard first in the Gluck "I Have Lost My Eurydice" given with excellent taste, and responded to an encore with an Old Breton Folk Song. Her second group included Schumann's "Soldier's Bride," Grieg's "Solvieg's Cradle Song," Brahms' "Sapphic Ode," Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me," closing with a splendid reading of Henschel's "Morning Hymn." In her last group she substituted for her programmed number a composition by Mrs. Webster, titled, "Life."

Mrs. Webster, as Miss Johnson's accompanist, did good work. Others in her last group were Homer's "Dearest," the dainty Clutsam "Croon Song," Hammond's "Recompense" and lastly, Clough-Leighters' "My Lover He Comes."

Miss Johnson is so well and favorably known in Chicago that further comment is superfluous, other than that she has so genuine a personality and such convincing artistry that the impression she made was a permanent one.

The Orpheus Club did its numbers in good style and with finish. They opened the program with "In Absence," Buck, "I Long for Thee" of Hartzell's, and "Sons of Battle," Ford. Huhn's "Invictus" and the rollicking "Gypsy John" of Clay's were done with splendid spirit and telling effect.

For the second concert, March 2, 1914, Helen Axe Brown, soprano, is announced as soloist, and after her very successful appearance in September at the Musical Club opening reception it augurs well for the success of the next concert.

ST. PAUL, MINN.

The second evening concert by the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra attracted a large audience.

The appearance of Mme. Rothwell-Wolff, wife of the conductor, contributed especial interest to the event, and she received quite an ovation. Mrs. Rothwell spent a part of last summer in Paris studying with Jean De Reszke, and her first number, scene and aria, "Ritorna Vincitor," from Verdi's "Aida," was a distinct surprise. Her voice is beautifully rich and full and she sang with fine dramatic expression. "Vissi d'arte" from Puccini's "La Tosca" was given as an encore. The "Salome" aria from Massenet's "Herodiade" was the second number, followed by Marguerite's "Air de Bijoux," from "Faust," as an encore.

The principal number on the program was Dvorak's last symphony, "From the New World." The "Largo" of the second movement was beautiful and the last movement was especially well played. The ballet music from Goldmark's "The Queen of Sheba" and Weber's "Jubilee" Overture constituted the program.

The second popular concert by the orchestra was made doubly interesting by the appearance of Miss Alma Peterson, St. Paul's popular soprano, who was the soloist.

The orchestra was heard in a splendid program, which opened with Wagner's March from "Tannhauser," followed by the lovely "Dream" music from Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel."

Miss Alma Peterson, who possesses a beautiful voice, sang with splendid effect and in a most artistic manner Mimi's aria from Puccini's "La Boheme." She delighted the audience with her singing of "Welcome, Sweet Spring," from Cadman's "Spring Cycle," and the "Birthday Song" of Woodman.

Kaun's "Festival March and Hymn to Liberty," and Gounod's "Meditation upon the First Prelude of J. S. Bach" then followed. The playing of Grieg's "Last Spring," for strings alone, was indeed beautiful, and brought the orchestra to its feet to acknowledge with Mr. Rothwell the applause accorded them. Elgar's "Night Song" proved a welcome number and the program concluded with Heuberger's waltz from "Der Opennball."

♮ ♮ ♮

The active members' section of the Schubert Club presented a program Saturday afternoon, a most interesting analysis of Dvorak's "New World Symphony" being given by Mrs. W. H. Kindy. Orchestral color was brought out in the "Four Hand Piano Arrangement" played by Mrs. Kindy and Miss Ina Grange. Esther Jones-Guyer gave a group of songs with Miss Lima Obrien as accompanist.

♮ ♮ ♮

St. Paul has much to look forward to in the recital course which Miss Lima Obrien will give and which Josef Hofmann is to open, followed by Alma Gluck, Mischa Elman and Schumann-Heink.

Great interest is being manifest in the coming of Melba and Kubelik in joint recital, under the auspices of the St. Paul Symphony Orchestra Association, Monday evening. M. W.

Katherine Howard Ward
Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist
917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

HEATHE GREGORY
BASS-BARITONE
Recitals Concert Oratorio
616 East 49th Street

HANS HESS 'CELLIST
American Conservatory Telephone Lincoln 7917

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

MUSIC IN PHILADELPHIA

By ST. CLARE KNODLE

On Wednesday evening of the second week of opera, the Chicago-Philadelphia Grand Opera Company repeated the performance of "Tosca," which on the opening night, was marred by the breaking of the furniture under the weight of Venturini, as he fell under the violence of Scarpia. The performance was flawless, and much credit must be given to Miss Garden for her fine work, for she not only acted in her usual style of excellence, but sang the part very effectively. The cast was the same as on the opening night, with Vanni Marcoux as Scarpia, and Martinelli as Cavaradossi, and again under the direction of Mr. Campanini. On Thursday evening the favorite double combination of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" were given. The performance of "Cavalleria" was good, as are all the performances, and special mention must be made of Zeppilli as "Santuzza," but as the inimitable Ruffo was to follow in the character of Tonio in "Pagliacci," most of the interest of the evening was naturally reserved for him. From the first note of the "Prologue" until the last note in the score, the audience was held as if by magic, in the wonderful art of the great baritone. The applause at the conclusion of the "Prologue" lasted at least ten minutes, and Ruffo was compelled to repeat. The remaining members of the cast were as follows: Jane Osborn-Hannah, "Nedda;" Amedeo Bassi, "Canio;" Armand Crabbe, "Silvio;" Emilio Venturini, "Beppe," and under the direction of Mr. Sturani. Bassi made a fine impression in his impersonation of "Canio," as did also Mme. Osborn-Hannah as "Nedda," but the art of Ruffo overshadowed everything else.

On Saturday afternoon "Don Quichotte," by Massenet, was given its first performance in America, with Marcoux in the title role, and with Mary Garden as "La Belle Dulcinea." The opera was first produced in Monte Carlo in 1910, and it was also given in the same year in Paris with Marcoux, who has since sung the part one hundred and fifty times. The story is the same as the famous novel, "Don Quixote." The character of Don Quichotte is so very different from that of Scarpia that it is hard to believe the part is being enacted by the same man. As a singer Marcoux's voice lacks the richness and warmth of tone which one might desire, but his acting is remarkable and his unusual height makes the character "Don Quichotte" more ludicrous than in the hands of a shorter figure. Hector Dufranne appeared in the part of "Sancho," the faithful friend and servant, and by his short and rotund appearance added greatly to the comedy. Mary Garden again proved conclusively that she can sing, and throughout the performance exhibited a voice of sweetness and great technic that many singers would be proud of. The performance is to be given again on Wednesday evening of this week.

On Saturday evening "Natoma," Victor Herbert's opera, was given in English to an audience that filled the house. Zeppilli again added to her laurels in the title role of "Natoma," the Indian maiden, and deserves much credit for her pronunciation of the English language; indeed, it was far superior to that often heard from the lips of our own countrymen. George Hamlin as "Lieutenant Merrill," and Henri Scott as "Don Francisco," of course sang in very good English, as we might expect, but Crabbe and Dufranne at times forgot that they were supposed to be Americans. Others in the cast were Constantin Nicolay as "Kagama," Frank Preisch as "Jose Castro" the half-breed, Rosina Galli the dancer as "Chiquita," Minnie Egener and Desire Defrere. Marcel Charlier conducted. The performance was a good one and delighted the audience. Mr. Herbert was present at the performance and was called before the curtain at the end of the second act, amid much enthusiasm. The remaining performances for this the last week of the first series, consists in "La Gioconda," with Ruffo, Carolina White, Claussen, Heyl, Scott, Bassi, Venturini, Fossetta and Frank Preisch, on Monday evening. On Wednesday evening "Don Quichotte" will be repeated with the original cast, and on Thursday the first performance in America of "Cristoforo Colombo" by Alberto Franchetti will be given with Titta Ruffo in the title role and with Mmes. Raisa and Heyl and MM. Bassi, Huberdeau, Federici, Scott, Venturini, Nicolay, Warnery, Errolle in the cast, and under the direction of Mr. Cleofonte Campanini. Mme. Raisa will make her debut upon this occasion.

♯♯♯

PHOENIX, ARIZONA

The opening of the musical season by Claude Gotthelf, director of the piano department, and William C. Mills, of the vocal department of the Arizona School of Music, was most auspicious.

Mr. Gotthelf is one of the best pianists that has been heard in Phoenix. In all his playing there is warmth and richness of tone coloring, a depth and highness of conception, which is so satisfying to the real lover of music, and showed himself to be an artist of distinct individuality.

Mr. Mills has at his command a lyric tenor voice of a full and manly quality, which he uses with great skill.

♯♯♯

Goodwin.—Mr. Hugo Goodwin has just played an organ recital on the fine organ belonging to the city, in Atlanta.

THE EISTEDDFOD OF THE KYMRY

WILLIAM AP MADOC—ARTICLE II.

Since the appearance of the first article on the Eisteddfod in Music News October 10, it was gratifying to discover an English historian of note, Mr. J. N. Larned, author of "A History of England," published by the Houghton-Mifflin Company, using the proper name "Kymry," and not "Welsh" when referring to the Brythonic branch of the Kelts that passed over from Gallia to the British Islands. Mr. Larned says: "The other (branch) called Brythonic gave the name Britain to the larger island, and the descendants of that branch are the Welsh, or Kymry (also spelled Cymry) as they are named in their own tongue."

A temptation hard to resist is that of referring to the great Eisteddfodan of past ages. But we will confine ourselves to the Royal Eisteddfod called for by the patristic Prince Gruffydd Ap Nicolas, in the ancient and beautiful city of Carmarthen, South Wales, in the fifteenth century, because that Eisteddfod created a new epoch in the history of Kymric literature, especially in connection with the establishing an official order of the alliterative twenty-four metres.

Among the many bards who were present in answer to the royal call, it was found that the poetic and metrical master from Tregeingl, North Wales, Dafydd Ab Edmwnt, had come among them, who stated that he was present "to receive instruction from those who would give it, and to give instruction to those who would take it." Prince Gruffydd Ap Nicolas welcomed his Bardic guests with a dinner, and at the close of it he asked the Bards a question, "What is the main purpose of our national custom, the Eisteddfod?" He looked around to see who would rise to reply. The prince noticed in particular the visitor from the north of Wales, and said, "Thou little man in the grey coat, I would that a reply should be made by you," and Dafydd Ab Edmwnt said, "To remember the past, to consider the present, and to judge the future"—a triad that will remain forever in the literature of the Kymric people as a guiding thought and an inspiration. That is what every worthy Eisteddfod has been throughout many centuries. It is an organization to cultivate reverence for the past, to stimulate action and service in the present, and to inspire hope for the future. It is not because this national festival is "old" that we love it, but because it is today a "living power" in the hearts of the people. It was Bishop Ridgeway that said: "The test of an institution today is not its antiquity, but its vitality."

The great Royal Eisteddfod of Carmarthen proved to be a "vital spark of heavenly flame" to Kymric poetry in the alliterative odes that have added so much to the quality and volume of the same. This "little man in the grey coat," the most brilliant literary star of his time, was in his zenith in 1450, and it was he that won the Bardic Silver Chair at the Carmarthen festival.

Dafydd Ab Edmwnt triumphed over all

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

Herbert E. Hyde
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg

in the discussion that resulted in the adoption of the twenty-four alliterative metres that have remained until this day as the supreme test in the production of poetic thought and mastery of systematic versification, so as to deserve not only the monetary prizes, but the Bardic chair of the "Supreme Gorsedd." It can be safely asserted that no such a system of metre-forms, scientifically arranged, can be found in the literature of any other nation.

During the last two hundred years the Bards, who have produced prized-awdlau (alliterative odes) and have won the coveted honor of the "Bardic Chair," would form a formidable army. To be able to write even a fair Englyn—the first of the metres—is no easy task. Often a tempting prize is offered for the "best Englyn" on a given subject, and almost invariably the one that receives the prize is unmercifully picked at in the Kymric newspapers. Many able writers have failed under the most favorable conditions to produce a perfect Englyn, though there are hundreds of such that are exquisite in form, and in thought. Here is a masterful Englyn and an eloquently descriptive one, selected out of a poem to the suspension bridge that spans the Menai Straits that separates Carnarvonshire and Anglesey, written by one of the ablest of the alliterative poets, Dewi Wyn o Eifon:

"Dan o agwedd benigamp;—ucheled
Ei cholofn gadarngamp!
Dros for-gainc drws o fawrgamp—
Deu-ddwbl ydyw 'n gwbl dan gamp!"

A free translation of the same would read as follows, minus the alliteration:

"Lo a span of resplendant formation;
Wondrously high and strong are its columns!
It stands o'er the sea-stream as a magnificent door-way;
Altogether it is a doubly artistic triumph!"

The late master of alliteration, the Rev. John Emlyn Jones, whose Bardic name was "Ioan Emlyn," succeeded in composing a number of very beautiful English Englynion to "The Harp on the Willow"—referring to a period of sorrow in Kymric history, which was considered a non-productive spell in poetic literature. We quote one of them—it is an invocation:

Wake, sweet harp! why warp in woe,— why linger,
Why languish in sorrow!
Why let rough and bluff wind blow
Thy wailings on the willow!

These national and local Eisteddfodan have been the means of unifying the people of Wales more than any other institution. The clergy and laity of all religious denominations meet on its platform on common ground. No sectarian spirit nor politics dare show their ugly heads on this day of song, wit and speech. Finally, it must be admitted that the alliterative poetry, along with the metres common to all, have been the means of developing the language, enriching the literature, cultivating the people in general, and strengthening national patriotism.

———ΞΞΞ———

Gregory—Mr. Heathe Gregory has been engaged for six appearances with the South Bend Symphony Orchestra, the first of which was at Michigan City on Tuesday evening of this week.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 66 Rue de Seine
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 6171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
SIMMONS Ruth (Oak Park, Ill.) 622 N. Kenilworth Av. (Tel. O. P. 5249
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4786) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

CLEARY Mary Hester 54 Auditorinm Building
PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 65 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 375
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Charles J. Vi g Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

HARPSICHORD

PELTON-JONES Frances (New York) 3 W. 92nd St.

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boislevant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir). 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
CHICAGO Musical—Dramatic Bureau 55 Auditorium Building
DRIGGS and LEMESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GARTON Samuel B. (Phone Randolph 1188) 445 Peoples Gas Bld'g.
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av.
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Flournoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE J. S. (Lecture Recitals) 62 W. 45. New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Saoramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 44 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (5th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5764) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone Drexel 3987) 4956 Oakebwald Av.
DEAL Alice R. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6218) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 524 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6607) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo 534 Lake Ave.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2866) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (St. Louis) 4417 a LaClede Av., Phone Forest 4763-R
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie (Res. Phone Midway 1692) American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 63th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.
ZEUCH Wm. E. (Phone Harrison 7664) 812 FineArts Building

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1384 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
ALTEMUS Ettel (New York) 655 Lexington Avenue
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Stewart 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Appleton, Wis.) Voecks' Building
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5066) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUCHHALTER Simon 424 Fine Arts Building
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1162 N. Ashland Avenu
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenue
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorium (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3856 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.
DOELLING Mae (Concert Pianist) 4141 N. Hermitage Av.

EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 623 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio
ERST Stephen Adolph 1553 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season. 2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032) 874 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music.
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045) 426 Fine Arts Building
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HUNT Emily Parsons (Phone Highland Park 120) 520 Fine Arts Bldg. (Mon. and Thurs. P. M.)
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music) 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9206)
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KING Jessie (Studio) 419-59 E. Van Buren Street
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
MATTESON Hannah (Accompanist) Edison Park, Ill.
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Louis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (Uuiversity School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (School of Piano Playing) 410 Fenton Bldg., Jamestown, N. Y.
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 61st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St.
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolffam St.
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
POTTER Grace Stewart Bush Temple Conservatory
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715) 5828 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lilian Mary 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ellen V. (512 Kimball Hall)
SPENCER 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771 Allen (Pianist-Teacher)
SCHWEIKHER American Conservatory Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THAL Della (620 Addison St.) 610 Fine Arts Building
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn) 55 Auditorium
VON KATWIJK Paul (Phone North 2694) 1225 Dearborn Avenue
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservato
WALLACE Evangeline 522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano College
WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str. 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1516 Maller's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Col'o (2226 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Lonisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 820 Fine Arts Bldg.
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8195) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 67 F. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers 235 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2131) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

GILDEMEISTER Louise M. (Phone Graceland 2166) 718 Fine Arts Bldg., Sat. afternoons
McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1871) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Ar Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 509 South Wahash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 61 Auditorium Bldg
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
INTERNATIONAL College of Music 54 Auditorium Bldg.
KNOX Conservatory of Music Wm. F. Bentley, Dir., Galesburg, Ill.
KROEGER School of Music (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir.) 309 Kimball Hall.
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 55 Auditorium Bldg.
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W 76th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1516 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art. 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 89th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.
ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A.) 522 Fine Arts Bldg. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815) Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Wahash 1260 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg
BRANDER Julius (Phone Edgewater 2755) International School of Music, 54 Auditorium
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Irving 22273) 4-20 Kimball Av.
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COX Mary A. (Phone Hyde Park 3562) American Conservatory
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.) North Shore School of Music
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
EVANS Clarence B. (San Francisco 1549 Octavia St.
FISCHEL Max I. 610 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 106 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Helzer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3633 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of Music) 4654 Grand Boul.
MUSIN Ovide (Virtuoso) 51 West 76th St., New York
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York,
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 530 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Villm, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Alhin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall.
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BACHMAN Ella (1304 N. Hoyne Av.) 85 Auditorium Bldg
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert 6557 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 625 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.

BEEBE Agnes Leist
509 Kimball Hall

BELL Ada Louise (Phone Northb 1005)
303 Kimball Hall

BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.)
Northwestern University School of Music

BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist)
5119 Greenwood Ave.

BISPHAM David
44 W. 44th St., New York

BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg.
Drake School of Music

BOLLMAN Maude Fenlon
Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.

BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York)
Care Haensel and Jones

BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 5819)
Kimball Hall

BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520)
4822 Madison Ave.

BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium)
Cosmopolitan School of Music

BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor)
1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.

BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2259
Northwestern Uni. School of Music

BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3886)
(Harry Culbertson, Manager)

BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio)
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music

BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth)
7022 Vernon Av.

BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041)
727 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.)
Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau

BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone)
509 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183)
520 Fine Arts Building

Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass.
413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.

BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5485)
512 Fine Arts Building

CASE Harriet
Auditorium Bldg.

CHENEY Mary (New York)
600 Carnegie Hall

CLARK Charles W. (Paris)
12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.

CLARK Dr. Frederick
83 Auditorium Building

CLARKE Edw. 513 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831)
Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)

CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1162
Sherwood Music School

CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone)
Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11

CLIPPINGER D. A.
410 Kimball Hall

CONANT Alice Widney (Soprano)
University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.

CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher)
721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495

COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho)
Boise Conservatory of Music

COOK John Loring (Tenor)
300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 5158)

COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913)
4117 W. Harrison St.

CORLEW Mabel (Contralto)
4202 Prairie Ave, (Phone Harrison 973)

COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France)
5 rue Edmond About

CRAMER Alice Lone (Phone Drexel 7009)
508 E. 46th Place

CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor)
234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 6373)

DAHLSTROM Margaret
3242 Clifton Ave.

DEEMING Inez Taylor (Evanston, Ill.)
2736 Woodbine Avenue

DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique
30 Rue Marbeuf, Champs Elysees, Paris

DE BERNYZ Bertrand (Studios)
58 W. 72nd, New York

DE SALES Regina (Paris, France)
40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)

DeYOUNG Richard B.
American Conservatory

DEVRIES Herman
618-628 Fine Arts Building

DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478)
815 S. Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

DUFAU Jennie (Colorature Soprano)
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310
710 South Central Park Avenue

FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio)
H. B. Turpin, Manager

FARNUM Mrs. Frank
3359 Warren Ave.

FICHTNER Lndwig Carl (Basso-Cantante)
149 Tremont St., Boston

FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Harrison 3895)
63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 408)

FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg
5906 Ontario St. (Contralto)

FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York)
Studio 110 Carnegie Hall

FRISBIE Constance (Soprano)
5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)

GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782)
318 Nortb Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.

GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886)
3435 Flournoy St.

GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone)
413 Kimball Hall

GILLESPIE B. B. (Baritone)
1413 O. St., Lincoln, Neb.

GREGORY Heatbe (Phone Kenwood 53)
516 E. 49th Street

GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory)
Chicago Address, 622 Kimball Hall

GROW Ethel (Phone North 2685)
1002 Dearborn Av,

GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art)
523 Fine Arts Bldg

HADLEY Grant (Tenor)
Suite 73 Anditorium Building

HAIGHT Irma (Los Angeles)
The Miraflores—1420 Flower St.

HALL William John (St. Louis)
Mnsical Art Building

HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497)
423 Fine Arts Bldg.

HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher)
72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack (Phone Ravenswood 325)
5057 Wintbrop Av.

HARRIS Milon R.
403 Kimball Hall

HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1406)
care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.)
Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)

HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

HERDIEN Mabel Sharp
5132 Kenmore Ave.

HEUCHLING Matbilde
712 Fine Arts Building

HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923)
Chicago Musical College

HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano)
1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)

HINKLE Florence (Soprano)
294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)

HINSHAW William Wade (New York)
Metropolitan Opera Company

HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003)
6th Floor, Kimball Hall

HOFKINS Hamilton
716 Fine Arts Bldg.

HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson)
304 Kimball Hall

HOLT George Nelson
609 S. Wabash Ave.

HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano)
3800 Broadway, New York

HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737)
5836 Washington Blvd.

HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544)
Auditorium Bldg.

Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8658 Graceland)
Tudor Mansions, 3615 Pine Grove Av.

HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante)
South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.

HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880
608 Fine Arts Building

HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund
Alliance, Ohio

HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4257)
601 Kimball Hall

IREDALE Bertha Smart (Phone Englewood 8887)
357 W. 63rd St.

JOHNS Ethele Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131)
6463 Kimbark Av.

JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104)
4937 Michigan Ave.

JONES A. H. (Tenor)
509 Kimball Hall

KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619)
4433 Racine Avenue

KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201)
523 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)

KIMBELL Grant (Tenor)
5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831

KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

LA BERGE Charles (Baritone)
American Conservatory

LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774)
1375 East 54th Street

LASH De Witt Dnrgin (Phone Harrison 6365)
420 Fine Arts Bldg

LAYFIELD Mabel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082)
7111 Normal Av.

LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880)
6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1

LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335)
4450 Berkeley Av.

LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto)
1311 E. 63rd St.

LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola
3814 Ellis Avenue

LUND Rene S. (Baritone)
2463 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6802)

LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J)
1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.

LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder)
Drake School of Music

MacBURNEY Thomas
509 Fine Arts Building

MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060)
3422 Fulton Street

McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439)
3620 Parnell Av.

MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E.
616 Fine Arts Bldg.

MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France)
27 rue Boissievant

MARCUSSON Grace Brnne (Phone West 561)
2459 Jackson Boul.

MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402)
5256 Berteau Av.

MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.)
209 Wesley Av.

MILLER Christine
1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

MILLER Herbert
716 Fine Arts Bldg

MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn)
1. W. 34th St., New York

MILLER John B. (Tenor)
Chicago Musical College

MOSHER L. Drew
137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.

MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone)
1155 Belmon Ave

MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles)
445 W. 40th Place

MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.

MULREY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist
47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.

MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4577
300 Athenaeum Bldg.

MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano)
4902 Friendship, Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.

MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano)
5000 Dorchester Av., (Phone Kenwood 4042)

MURRISON Harry R.
Alliance, Ohio.

NARELLE Marie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122)
1215 E. 63rd Street

NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano
Plymouth, Ind.

NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199)
237 North Howard Av., Austin

NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York)
330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)

NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5508)
4137 Drexel Blvd.

OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institnte)
303 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 5919)

OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147)
2112 Washington Blvd.

PANGBOURNE Annette (Phone Harrison 2313)
519 Kimball Hall

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England)
Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Reg S

PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto)
Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.

PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.)
Toledo Musical College

PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246)
4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contralto)
Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.)
Winona School of Music

PROTHEROE Daniel
610 Fine Arts Bldg.

RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Bluilding

RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782)
1738 Humboldt Boulevard

RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor)
Barre Plains, Mass.

RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513
413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av

REED Esta Asher (Soprano)
Abroad for a season

REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165)
5627 Indiana Av.

REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg)
202 Nixon Building

RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.

RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall
5318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa

ROBBINS Edith Lucile (11th and R Sts.)
University School of Music, Lincoln Neb.

ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting)
1372 E. 52nd St.

ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877)
7205 Stewart Ave.

RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto)
Principal Liederheim, Auburndale, Mass.

RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265)
719 Fine Arts Bldg.

RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448)
3100 Lexington St.

SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing
201 Clarendon St., Boston

SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano)
401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.

Schwickerath Jos. A. (Musical Director)
54 Auditorium Bldg. (Tel. Lincoln 4521)

SCHUSTER Katherine
71 Auditorium Bldg.

SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York)
Wolfsohn Bureau

SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 459)
408 Kimball Hall.

SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner)
St. James Bldg., New York

SHELP Dr. H. Wm.
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor)
516 Kimball Hall

SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano)
4065 Michigan Av.

SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano)
6523 St. Lawrence Av.

SMIDT Mable Corlew (Phone Austin 12717)
5943 Ohio St.

SMITH Lyla S. (Phone Albany 10059)
Studio 3200 Logan Boul.

SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173)
626 Madison St., Gary, Ind.

SPECK Anstn Belle (Lyric Soprano)
Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio

SPOONER Philip (New York)
205 W. 57th St.

STEELE Mary Hinman
503 Kimball Hall

STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh)
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.

STONE Frank (Tenor)
304 Kimball Hall

STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48)
4439 Calumet Av.

STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977)
55 Auditorium Building

STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 5912)
6106 Kimbark Av.

STEVENSON Lucille
4438 Berkeley Avenue

STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923)
1134 E. 47th St.

STULTS Walter A. (Evanston)
Northwestern University School of Music

TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L.
Lewis Institute, Phone West 793

THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano)
Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.

THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082)
620 Fine Arts Building

TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3765
Bush Temple Conservatory

TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor)
813 La Salle Av.

TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949)
404 Kimball Hall

VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799)
6611 Woodlawn Av.

WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380)
428 Fine Arts Building

WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2968)
1325 E. 64th St.

WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Austin 23973)
5704 Washington Boulevard

WATSON Kuth Swing
1225 E. 62nd St.

WEAVER Iva Bigelow
Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.

WEBSTER Frank B.
719 Kimball Hall

WEGENER Mme. Justine
Bush Temple Conservatory

WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone)
61 Auditorium Bldg.

WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 6646)
Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal

WHEELER Beatrice
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 E 34th St., New York

WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 16
728 Fine Arts Bldg.

WILCOX John C. (Teacher)
Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo

WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio)
515 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS Dr. Carver
(Samuel B. Garton) Auditorium Bldg

WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey
406 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS H. Evan
Akron, Ohio

WIRTHLIN Rosalie (Wolfsohn)
1 W. 34th St., New York

WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway
6107 Woodlawn Av.

WYNN Bessie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

WYCOFF Eva Emmet
500 W. 143rd, New York

YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York)
Res. Stndio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair

ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778)
(1140 E. 44th St)

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

The Seventh Season of the Red Cross Christmas Seal

The 1913 Red Cross Seal

Order Now

A universal emblem of Sympathy, Generosity, Encouragement and Good Cheer which for six years has in the main supported the Anti-Tuberculosis Movement in the United States. The seal is now a permanent institution.

May "EVERYBODY" get the habit and use the Red Cross Christmas Seal on all Christmas mail and packages.

The Chicago Tuberculosis Institute is at present spending most of its energies along the following lines:

1. Traveling Educational Tuberuclosis Exhibit.
2. Campaign for medical examination and supervision of employes.
3. Study Circle for physicians and nurses.
4. Publication of literature.
5. Courses of stereopticon lectures.

This work was supported largely by the Red Cross Seal, of which there were over 2,000,000 sold in Illinois in 1912 and nearly 40,000,000 were sold throughout the United States.

Can we not make it two and one-half million in Illinois in 1913?

Will you kindly let us know by return mail if you will organize the committees and conduct the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals in your town this year?

Sincerely yours,

Otis Building, Madison and La Salle Streets — Superintendent.

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

CLARENCE WHITEHILL

Chicago Grand Opera Company

CHICAGO, AMERICA

DECEMBER 5, 1913.

THE
Master - Model
OF THE
Royal Standard Typewriter
$75---No Extras

19 Exclusive Features Found in no other Standard Typewriter

Combines all the advantages of several models in one

MASTER-MODEL!

Royal Typewriter Co., Inc., 364 Broadway, N. Y.
58 E. Monroe St., Chicago, Ill.
Branch Offices and Agencies the World Over

All the Leading Artists
Are Featuring
Palmer John Clark's
New Song
Someday, Sometime
Published in four keys

Low in Eb Med. low in F Med. high in G High in Ab

For Sale Everywhere

GAMBLE HINGED MUSIC CO.
CHICAGO

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

Bergey
CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

CHICAGO, DECEMBER 5, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS
United States, per year, postpaid..... $2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser and Herbert Bailey
Business Representatives

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield-Boulet
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Kies' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

Harmony and Counterpoint, by Mail if Desired
Critic and Special Writer Musical Mss. Edited
LESTER S. BUTLER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Boston and Worcester Critic and Correspondent of Music News. Steinert Hall, Boston, Mass.
Day Building, Worcester, Mass.

Compositions and Arrangements

A Sigh (medium voice)	.50—27
Dear Girl with the Dreamy Eyes	.50—27
Twilight Hour	.30—17
Missionary Call (mixed quartet)	.05
Brotherhood Hymn (male quartet)	.06
The Darkey's Lullaby (male quartet)	.15
Inner Voice Waltz (Piano) J. W. Block	.30—17

All the compositions here listed are musically melodious. Obtained of the advertiser or at music stores.

Voices Made Beautiful
Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00. Lessons by correspondence.

Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

Languages
The Berlitz School of Languages.
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock

A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original. The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:

"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."

For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cent's Postpaid.

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT Sec

DEPT. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

Music News

Vol. 5 Chicago, December 5, 1913. No. 49

AMERICAN ARTISTS IN THE CHICAGO GRAND OPERA COMPANY

Music News is pleased to present today a group of pictures of the American artists of the Chicago Grand Opera Company—a goodly band.

Chicago is proud of her opera company—proud of the splendid Italian and French singers, of the distinguished Swedish woman who belongs to the company, and of the intelligent Germans who also honor us.

But we are especially proud of the fact that so many Americans have proven their ability to hold positions in the front rank of opera, and to these artists we do special honor.

Not only have American voices been found ideal for opera, but the American mind has been proven also of a caliber to deal most intelligently with the histrionic problems of the operatic stage and our own artists have long since accustomed us to expect from them fine singing and excellent characterizations.

(Continued on page 22)

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
Studio 521 Kimball Hall, Tues. and Fri. Res. 6611 Woodlawn Av.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

JESSIE KING
PIANISTE
Studio 416, 59 E. Van Buren Street

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
3534 Lake St. Available for Church Position

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

BEN Q. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

Herbert E. Hyde
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg

Music in Chicago

THANKSGIVING CONCERT

A Thanksgiving concert of the most pronounced worth was given at the Memorial Church of Christ, by Lillian MacLeish, soprano; Day Williams, 'cello; Kurt Wanieck, pianist, and Grace Grove, accompanist.

Miss MacLeish is a young singer, a pupil of Mary Peck Thomson, and a distinct credit to her teacher.

Her voice is rich and warm and her interpretations are very decidedly intelligent and sympathetic.

Her German text songs, including numbers by Franz, Schumann and Reingold, were sung in thoroughly convincing manner, and her English songs delighted in the extreme. Whelpley, Foster, MacFayden and Bemberg were represented, the "Nymphs and Fauns" by the latter proving Miss MacLeish to have great facility and abundant style.

LILLIAN MACLEISH

Mr. Williams, a 'cellist with no superiors, played standard pieces by Popper, Bach, Sibelius, Herbert and Boccherini. All were filled with warmth of tone and artistry of manipulation, the Boccherini "Rondo" pleasing immensely because of its fleet joyousness, and the Bach being done with great fidelity and power.

Mr. Wanieck created a genuine sensation with his brilliant playing of studies by MacDowell and Liszt and the "Eleventh Rhapsodie" by the latter, numbers in which he was positively scintillant, while in the D'Albert "Scherzo" he displayed great lightness, and in the Grieg "Nocturne" showed a tone of wonderful beauty.

DAY WILLIAMS

Mr. Wanieck and Mr. Williams played also the Grieg "Sonata" opus 36, for piano and violin, and proved themselves anew to be artists of the first calibre. Each artist was most graciously received and heartily applauded, and each gave one encore, Mr. Wanieck playing a "Cradle Song" by Heller, Mr. Williams the "Traumerei" by Richard Strauss, and Miss MacLeish offering "Sunbeams" by Ronald. It would be difficult to conceive of more sympathetic or colorful accompaniments than those provided by Miss Grove. C. E. W.

KURT WANIECK

THE HINSHAW CONCERT COMPANY

Marvin Hinshaw's discreet choice of soloists, and well planned program, served to draw an audience of music lovers that completely filled the Englewood Christian Church auditorium, Thanksgiving evening.

In addition to Mr. Hinshaw, himself, it will be seen by the following list of musicians, that they are all artists whose excellent work of several seasons has given them a reputation quite demanding respect: Helen Axe Brown, soprano; Edith Adeline Kien, pianiste; Gertrude C. Bates, violiniste, and Pauline S. Germann, reader. As to the selection of the numbers presented, that too was most wise, with Drdla, Kreisler, Lalo, Liszt, Rachmaninoff, Rubinstein, Massenet, Henschel, Schubert and Sarasate on the program.

Only a part of the numbers were heard by the writer. Mr. Hinshaw, with his beautiful baritone voice, was given a near-ovation by the appreciative audience, and one well merited. "His Song of Thanksgiving" (Allitsen), was certainly a perfect bit of vocal reading.

Miss Brown has a dramatic soprano voice, which when used with the superior intelligence she possesses, makes for a combination quite irresistible.

The wholly charming Schubert, "Who Is Sylvia," took on added beauty at her hands, and was heartily applauded by the discriminating hearers. Her second number of the first group was "Melisande of the Wood," Goetz, a request. In the aria, "Chere Nuit," Bachelet, Miss Brown displayed a surprising amount of technical facility, and an exquisite tonal beauty.

Miss Pauline Germann is an extremely young reader with a degree of genuine ability. Her presentation of the monolog, "A Charming Young Widow," held the sustained interest of the audience, while for an encore she showed the rare good taste of giving a very brief, and at once a most breezy skit.

Miss Kien played with the fine style and the brilliant technic which she has so often proven herself to possess in abundant measure, and Miss Bates, quite as usual, captivated her audience. F. D B.

COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

On Wednesday evening Miss Lucia May Smith, a pupil of the Cosmopolitan School of Music, assisted by Agnes Bodholdt, pianist, gave the following program:

Good Morning ..... Grieg
With a Water Lily ..... Grieg
Wiegenlied ..... Schubert
Verborgenheit ..... Wolf
Er ist's ..... Wolf

Miss Smith

Papillon, Op. 2 ..... Schumann

Miss Bodholdt

A Dissonance ..... Borodine
Before My Window ..... Rachmaninoff
Little Fish's Song ..... Arensky

Miss Smith

Tarantella, "Venezia e Nepoli" ..... Liszt

Miss Bodholdt

Plaints of Love ..... Chaminade
Wishes ..... Chaminade
The Lake ..... Salter
Ecstasy ..... Rummel

Miss Smith

A program by pupils of the ensemble class will be given at Auditorium Recital Hall on Monday evening, December 8.

LOHENGRIN

The Lecture-Recital of "Lohengrin" at Fullerton Hall on Sunday night was not quite up to the mark set by "Parsifal." The story was not told so coherently nor was the reason of the opera disclosed so well.

However, Miss Weber again demonstrated her valuable points as a speaker and pianist, while the players of strings were also thoroughly good—especially well done was the "Prelude" to the first act in which Mr. Fritz Itte, the first violinist, had a few moments of genuine opportunity for artistry, which he certainly employed to their fullest valuation.

Miss Louise St. John Westervelt sang three of the Elsa excerpts and did them with an abundance of style and finish. The "Dream" was wholly admirable and was given in a way to emphasize its dramatic points as well as those purely vocal.

Her "Welcome" was in direct contrast as to style and was a piece of exhilaration entirely in keeping with text and at the same time in admirable contrast to the "Dream."

English text, of course, is used in these illustrative evenings, and this was managed by Miss Westervelt in a wholly attractive and authentic way.

So successful have these "evenings" been the past five weeks, it has been decided to extend them indefinitely. On next Sunday evening the opera exploited will be "Don Giovanni" and Dr. William Carver Williams will appear as the soloist.

Chamber Music—A series of three chamber music concerts was inaugurated at the North Shore School of Music last evening by the North Shore String Quartet. Mary Ann Kaufman being the assisting soloist.

NOTES FROM THE ILLINOIS COLLEGE OF MUSIC

An excellent concert was given at the Western Avenue M. E. Church on Thanksgiving night by the Illinois College of Music, 2831 Washington boulevard. The first part of the program was given up to the little folks, numbers being very well given by Grace Behan and Helen Rusch on the piano, Franklin Paul and Gladys Welge on the violin, followed by readings by Mabel Peterson, and orchestra numbers by the college juvenile orchestra. The latter part of the program was given by Emma Sollitt-Sherman, whose interpretation of the two groups of songs was so good as to warrant special mention, as was the piano work of Theo Bird. Readings were given by Miss Ida Moore of the faculty, and a trio of two violins and piano played by Marian Allers, Fred Johansen and Robert Couffer was given with taste.

The college has given a recital every Friday evening during the month of November, all of which were given by pupils whose work showed excellent training. The last program was given last Friday evening at the college, the following pupils giving the program: Adolph Kraus, Arline Newell, Mary Jones, Roberta Brashear, Beulah Berkowitz, Walter Heinekamp. Closing numbers were given by Miss Theo Bird, member of the faculty.

Last Saturday the Pupils' Recital Club of the Illinois College of Music gave their bi-weekly program. The following pupils played: Alice Wallford, Irene Stein, Lawrence Schweig, Roland Stetler, Grace Behan, Helen Neff, Beulah Bassett.

Von Ende.—At the Von Ende School of Music in New York a concert will be given tomorrow evening by Vita Witek, pianist, and Anton Witek, violinist.

Iva Bigelow Weaver
SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work.
May Mansfield
PARIS STUDIOS: 27 rue Boisleveu Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER
VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory
207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.
A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Aak for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN
AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
Care WHITE, SMITH AND CO., BOSTON SEASON 1912-1913

H. W. OWENS
VOCAL DIRECTOR
WESTERN CONSERVATORY
Voice Teacher Coaching
PHONE CENTRAL 7804

Beatrice Wheeler
CONTRALTO
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

Valparaiso Music College

Department of

Valparaiso University

Second Largest University in the United States

VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President

OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER

SOLO VIOLINIST

Welsh International Festival

MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE

SOPRANO

Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils

5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN

PIANIST

8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE

CONTRALTO

Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL

TEACHER OF SINGING

STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON

BASSO-CANTANTE

Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency

416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496

Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers

VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION

METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE

Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL

The Art of Singing

81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday

Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD VIOLINIST LOEBER TEACHER RECITALS Musicales

3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA Contralto WAIT

Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

ELVYN AND ZUKOWSKY

Miss Myrtle Elvyn played at the Douglas Park Auditorium on last Friday evening and gave an exposition of her art which certainly places her in the very front rank of pianists.

The progress of this pianist has been steady and certain, and now there is no longer any need of saying "the young pianist" or "the coming pianist"—it is "Myrtle Elvyn, the pianist."

MYRTLE ELVYN

Her strength, breadth of style and endurance are wonderful, and in fact entitle her to comparison with Carreno, whom she resembles very much in her bravoura readings.

She also has abounding finesse, and therefore it is possible to shade her playing from the finest filigree effects to orchestral breadth and vigor, and throughout the entire range she is musical always, tasteful to the extreme in all she does, and artistic through and through.

Her Chopin group consisted of "Barcarolle," "Nocturne" (G) and "Polonaise" in A flat. All of these were played with decision and abundant color. The "Nocturne" was properly legato and the "Polonaise" was a piece of virtuosity which could be excelled by no pianist. In "Hark, Hark, the Lark" (Schubert-Liszt) there was an exuberance and a joy which could come only from buoyant youth, but youth which has attained success and poise, and in the "Erlkoenig" by the same masters she gave a reading not before equaled. Each voice was brought out as distinctly as a Schumann-Heink could have done it with the vocal text and this was backed up with an accompaniment which could not have been excelled by the most adept professional in that line.

Other Liszt numbers formed a concluding group. The Strauss "Fledermaus Paraphrase," of astounding difficulty, was played easily, and among the encores was "Butterfly Etude" of Chopin and "Prophet Bird" by Schumann. Miss Elvyn was given a genuine ovation by the splendid audience.

Alternate with the pianist was another artist, very popular in the environment and wholly fine also as a violinist, Mr. Alexander Zukowsky, who reaped as great a popular approval as did Miss Elvyn and who played his numbers superbly.

Sarasate's "Andalouse" and "Dance Tzigane" (Nachez) were played with great glitter and certainty, while a Mozart "Menuett" was given with a lusciousness of tonal quality and a daintiness of reading which will be matched but seldom.

Other numbers were by Bach and Wieniawski.

The combination of Miss Elvyn and Mr. Zukowsky was ideal for such a concert as this, and the Lawndale Club, under whose auspices it was given, is to be sincerely congratulated on a resounding success.

ALEXANDER ZUKOWSKY

NEUMANN ANNOUNCEMENTS

Ludwig Schmidt, Chicago violinist, will make his first appearance in Chicago next Sunday afternoon, December 7, at the Studebaker under the management of F. Wight Neumann. Mr. Schmidt will have the assistance of Ida Mae Cameron, lyric soprano. The program complete is as follows:

Concerto, Op. 64 ..... Mendelssohn
Andante, Allegretto non Troppo. Allegro molto vivace

Legende ..... Wieniawski
Spanish Dance No. 3 ..... Sarasate
Humoreske ..... Dvorak

A Little Pink Rose ..... Carrie Jacobs-Bond
Love Has Eyes ..... Sir Henry Bishop
Song of the Chimes ..... Lola C. Worrell
The Star ..... James Rogers
A Pastoral ..... Veracini

Miss Cameron

Concerto No. 4 ..... Vieuxtemps
Andante. Adagio religioso. Allegro

Auftraege ..... Schumann
Oh, si les fleurs avaient des yeux ..... Massenet
Chassant dans nos Forets ..... Weckerlin
Chere nuit ..... A. Bachelet

Miss Cameron

Menuett ..... Beethoven
Ave Maria ..... Schubert-Wilhelmj
Obertass ..... Wieniawski

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

THE PAULIST CHORISTERS

In spite of the extremely inclement weather of Sunday afternoon, the 30th of November, a large and very enthusiastic audience attended the concert by the Paulist Choristers, under the direction of Father Finn. Very much of their work was of an agreeable order indeed. Their releases and diminuendos are good, but in the Mass, as well as in other numbers, many of the attacks were uncertain, and hence not effective. In the first number, sung unaccompanied, the choir fell in pitch from the key of B to B flat,—in the fifth number from the key of E to nearly D, and in the eighth number from G flat to F. Of course, keeping true to pitch in unaccompanied work is an extremely difficult thing to do, and many high grade professional organizations of all adults frequently fail in the same way.

The ninth number was a very well executed vocal fugue, and all the parts were well sustained, and very easy to follow, in spite of the intricacies of the score. This easiness was owing to the good rendition given by the choir.

The visiting soloist, Master Edgar Donovan, of Grace Episcopal Church of New York, was very well received, and obliged to respond with three encores to his first number of "With Verdure Clad." A false start in the beginning of this was to be regretted. Repeatedly some one member of the choir beat time on his music, which was distracting to numbers on the main floor, where it was very evident.

The "Missa Solemnis in C," a new composition by J. Lewis Browne, was given a very good rendition in several numbers. The work is an interesting one in strict four-voiced writing, and the accompaniment, with a couple of very brief exceptions, is a duplicate of the voice parts. The "Credo" was not sung. The entire mass gave plain evidence that it had not been particularly well prepared by the choir, this being particularly noticeable in the bad attacks in the "Gloria," and in the "Benedictus" the three lower voice parts were omitted, only the soprano part being used; this was ineffective, while it would have been a good number, had all the parts been used. One of the violins played badly out of tune, (probably owing to the weather) in the second number.

The choir is well balanced, usually, and some of the voices are very good. Altogether it was a very enjoyable concert, one that the audience seemed to appreciate, both choir and soloists, all of whom had to respond to encores, lengthening an already long program very much.

W. A. WHITE.

———♯♯♯———

American Conservatory.—A program of compositions by old masters will be given tomorrow afternoon by Jennie F. W. Johnson, Renzina Teninga and Ruth Ray.

MAX FISCHEL'S PUPILS

The Howard Theater contained a large audience Sunday afternoon, attracted there by the promise of excellent violin playing from the senior pupils of the Fischel class, Carl Brelos, Adamae Parsons, Gertrude C. Bates, Alfred Goldman and Herbert Kirchner appearing.

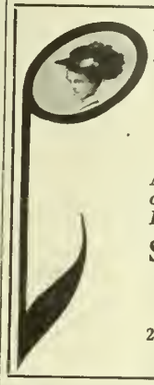
All of these have been heard at other times, and each one is a fine exponent of the splendid Fischel method. On Sunday the numbers included great works by Vieuxtemps, Wieniawski, Lalo, Bruch and Saint-Saens, and the entire program was a fine success.

This writer heard but two numbers, Gertrude Bates in the Lalo "Symphonie Espagnole" and Marjorie Dodge-Warner, the assisting artist, in the great aria from "Louise."

Miss Bates has poise, style and finish in addition to solidity of technic and great intelligence in the interpretation of violin works. Her tone in the slow movement was full and warm, and in the "Rondo" it was brilliant.

Mrs. Warner, who is a Protheroe pupil, is a young soprano who is rapidly assuming a splendid position among the better known and much liked local sopranos. She has a voice of most appealing sweetness, and at the same time dignity and style in the broadest sense. Her singing was very much appreciated.

C. E. W.



Effa Ellis Perfield
Keyboard Harmony
Melody Building and
Teaching System

Mean, Rapid, Definite Reasoning, Based on the TRUTH Brief and Simple. Write about

Special Modulation Course

EFFA ELLIS

204-5 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

———♯♯♯———

Brander.—Mr. Julius Brander played a violin recital at the Swedish M. E. Church on Thanksgiving Day at a few hours' notice. Among his numbers were "Cavatina" (Raff), "Serenade" (Drdla), "Traumerei" (Schumann), "Mazurka" (Wieniawski), and "Humoreske" by Dvorak.

———♯♯♯———

Schubert Club.—The Schubert Club, Mrs. Wilbur Fitch, director, gave a program at Bethany Union Church under the auspices of the Men's League last Sunday night. Mrs. Fitch also appearing as soloist.

THE PRODIGAL SON

Joseph A. Schwickerath, choirmaster of the St. Paul's Church at Fullerton Parkway, chose the Vincent setting of "The Prodigal Son," instead of the much read Sullivan one, Tuesday evening, November 25. Most interesting indeed did the change prove to lovers of oratorio.

St. Paul's has a well organized choir of perhaps a hundred and fifty voices, taken at rough estimate by one of the audience. From these singers, the director has been able to realize big results of the highly desirable kind. Particularly noticeable is their maintenance of fine ensemble. The assistance of Carl J. S. Weiss (son of the regular organist of the church) at the organ was a valuable one to the director. Mr. Weiss not only shows splendid training, but the genuine gift of the greater musician.

Follows the soloists: Mrs. C. A. Feildcamp, soprano; Mrs. G. C. Ickes, contralto; Carl Craven, tenor; Burton Thatcher, baritone. Though there was comparatively little for the soprano to do, Mrs. Feildcamp made the most of her readings. More was given the contralto, who sang to advantage on this occasion, and was in excellent voice. Mr. Carl Craven was not in his usual good form owing to a severe cold, which, however, he sang over with much success. There is always that appealing, and extremely beautiful tone quality in Mr. Craven's voice, and here again it was shown to fine advantage in his numerous solo parts and in his duet with Mr. Thatcher.

Mr. Burton Thatcher, it is safe to say, never sang better in his life. There is that comfortable authority in his singing, that smoothness of tone, in short the unmistakable artistry in his work, which invariably will interest even the most unversed in music lore.

Altogether, Mr. Schwickerath is to be congratulated upon his evening's success, which includes with his own, that of his choir, soloists and accompanist.

F. D. B.

———♯♯♯———

Emery.—Mrs. Lucella Clark Emery, now teaching at Long Beach, Cal., gave a recital with her pupils at "Ocean View Studio" on last Friday evening, the program being of the same high standard so well known to her Chicago clientele. She was assisted by Bessie Abbott Howland, a remarkably fine soprano who has large classes in Los Angeles and Long Beach, and who at this time sang with great success.

———♯♯♯———

Reckzeh.—Mr. Carl Reckzeh was director of the orchestra at the Chicago Musical College concert at Orchestra Hall on Tuesday evening and created a fine impression in the Prelude to "Hansel and Gretel" (Humperdinck), and the "Scherzo" from the Second Symphony, by Brune.

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studebaker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - NEWMAN
Baritone
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires—makes not mars—the soloist, enabling him to bring out his best. 1246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
Management Alma Voedisch, 3836 Wilton Ave., Chicago

HAMILTON HOPKINS STUDIO

Mr. Hamilton Hopkins, whose success in Chicago has been a remarkable one and who has very pronounced ideas as to vocal production, based upon his study with Casini, the master of Titta Ruffo, gave a practical illustration of his work at his studio, 710 Fine Arts Building, on last Saturday night, when his pupils, Mrs. Hopkins and Miss Eloise Peckenpaugh, both of whom are sopranos, appeared in a short program. Miss Peckenpaugh sang first a florid aria, in which she displayed great facility and much vocal skill, and, to prove also her fine legato and good breath control, she further contributed "I Hear You Calling Me" (Marshall).

Mrs. Hopkins sang the great aria from "Aida" to show her control in the dramatic style; "Ah fors e lui" from "Traviata," as an exposition of her colorature powers (taking an E above high C at the close); and, to show also simplicity of style, the "Old Folks at Home."

Whatever discussion there may be as to the merits of the Hopkins system, and these are things which concern this reviewer not at all, it must be stated most emphatically that the exposition of song as given by Mrs. Hopkins and Miss Peckenpaugh was thoroughly astonishing, and very especially so in the case of Mrs. Hopkins, who has a voice of marvelous range and wonderful power.

In the case of both singers the tone has the appearance of being absolutely free: there is no strain whatever, and it is so managed that undoubtedly it would be thrown out in a large auditorium in the way that is demanded for grand opera or for other work of the greatest dimensions.

Mrs. Hopkins also has remarkable facility. She not only sings very high notes but she produces them with great skill and shades them with remarkable effect. Every sort of fiature is wholly within her grasp and her brilliancy is such as will be encountered but seldom.

Every part of her scale seems to be produced with equal facility, and her abundant power is perfectly available for low, middle or high tones. As an exposition of results the "evening" at the Hopkins studio was a decided success. Other such evenings are to be given on succeeding Saturdays.

C. E. W.

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The North Shore School of Music, which has just finished the first quarter of its school year, reports a rapidly growing enrollment, and a substantial increase over last year. The development has been especially gratifying in the piano, violin and theory departments, due to the growth of regular course work. The receipts for the first term for tuition show an increase of more than eighty per cent over the same period of time last year.

Beard.—Mr. William Beard, basso, will sing in "The Messiah" with the Oberlin Musical Union at Oberlin, Ohio, December 16. Other appearances of the month being: 5th, La Salle Hotel, Chicago; 7th, Oak Park; 11th, Fine Arts building, Chicago; 20th, lecture-recital on German songs in Chicago.

FOURTH ANNUAL CONCERT

The C. A. O. class of the Austin Baptist Church, in its fourth annual concert, on Tuesday evening, November 25, brought forth and presented a program of much interest and worth in which were heard Grace Stewart Potter, pianist; Charlotte Hussey, reader; Ethel Geistweit Benedict, soprano, and Gustaf Holmquist, bass. That the evening's entertainment was much enjoyed by the large audience that nearly filled the church was proven by the fact that after almost every number was added an encore. Miss Potter showed excellent taste in the choice of her numbers for this program. Her playing of groups of numbers by Schuett and Leschetizky showed the many phases of her equipment, which include a most graceful stage presence, a fluent technic, unusual surety and accuracy, and a compelling force throughout.

Miss Hussey was very warmly received by the audience, and her readings proved to be one of the treats of the evening. She possesses all the qualities necessary for the making of a splendid reader, and on this occasion her ability to sway the audience to the plane of the piece was very noticeable. She makes a splendid appearance, has a good voice and a strong delivery. We hope to hear more from Miss Hussey.

Mrs. Benedict, who has at her command a soprano voice of the lyric quality, was heard in two groups of numbers that gave the chance, and which she took advantage of, to show all her many powers as a singer of fine attainments. Mr. Holmquist, who is always a delight on any program, was no less so on this occasion. His singing of 'Rolling in Foaming Billows," with organ accompaniment, was indeed a fine rendition to this fine old number. A group of songs was sung with much charm, but in the closing number of the program was Mr. Holmquist heard to best advantage. His excellent bass voice rang out with tones such as are seldom heard in this, his highest achievement of the evening, Handel's "O Ruddier Than the Cherry."

H. M. B.

MABEL CORLEW-SMIDT

Mrs. Mabel Corlew-Smidt recently appeared in a joint recital with Richard Czerwonky, the violinist, at South Bend, Ind., Max Wald of Chicago, accompanist. The South Bend Tribune commented as follows: "Mrs. Smidt won the sympathy of the entire audience from her first song, and responded to several encores. Her work was particularly enjoyable in that she had songs to sing rather than a voice to display. She possesses a lovely voice of rarely sympathetic quality, to which are added a stage presence of unusual graciousness and ease. Her songs were admirably chosen to display the warm tones and richness of her voice. This was particularly true of 'The Flower in the Crannied Wall' by Mason, and 'Thought Fancies' by Herbert Jones."

Mrs. Smidt also appeared in a joint recital with Mr. Archibald, baritone of New York and Carolyn Cone, pianist, at the home of Mrs. E. E. Brush, Elmhurst, Ill.

On December 2, Mrs. Smidt appeared at the Rogers Park Woman's Club, Miss Lillian Cooper, accompanist.—(advertisement)

CHARLES W. CLARK AND MRS. JONES DOWNING AT FINE ARTS

This reviewer was a regular Pharisee on Sunday afternoon and gave thanks that he was not as other men who had to try and cover three or four concerts. When he saw his fellow craftsmen coming in breathlessly and dropping into a back seat for a few minutes, the humor of the situation was intensified. Mr. Clark's program was so atmospheric and cumulative in its scope and execution that no one could gain any sort of an impression of its superb effect from a hasty inspection. Rarely is such an offering placed before hearers so ready for it. For the audience itself was no less remarkable than the program. Turn which way one might, he encountered the faces of those in the front ranks of each form of artistic endeavor. And how they did rise to each wave of the sweeping tide of musical splendor.

There is no standard to gauge such an afternoon. It became an event. Mr. Clark sings as he did twenty years ago, save that the years have added their influence in growth and expansion. But it is no small compliment to him to find unspoiled and untouched the spontaneity and eager temperamental force after years should have brought sophistication and disillusion. The voice is still opulent in its richness and unsounded depths of volume. And it is even more obedient to the demands which control the interpretative intention. There is no moment of anything like hesitation as to the motive or message of each song, and the voice never fails to accent or decorate the mind's desire. Under such inspiration the Brahms songs became liquid in their elastic flow, the modern French songs revelations of finesse, and the English songs alive with vigor or graceful with refinement. One felt as if he had never before heard the Homer "Uncle Rome," and that the flow of Duparc's "Invitation for a Voyage" obtained its flavor from the sea itself. Arthur Dunham's "Pilgrimage" was a bit of rapt exaltation, and the Schindler songs fairly glowed with tonal loveliness.

The brilliant numbers preceding made a setting that tested as well as proved the merits of the songs of Lulu Jones Downing. The last twenty minutes of the recital were a sort of cap sheaf of excellence. With Mrs. Downing herself at the piano to play the accompaniments as simply no one else can play them, Mr. Clark threw himself unstintedly into their elusive but always fascinating charm.

The phrases melted into the loveliest rhythm and the quaint texts came easily and simply over the musical utterance. "June" was so sympathetically done that it had to be repeated, and the "Think No More, Lad" met a similar experience. This last is a new song worked out in Mrs. Downing's original way, and is deft and clever. The "Vision Beautiful" is new also, a lovely melodious thing, wistful and appealing in its vague outlines, and a distinct step upward for the composer, who has already earned and held a welcome place.

Mr. Gordon Campbell played for Mr. Clark, well poised, alert, resourceful and supplying many moments of beautiful color.

ALBERT COTSWORTH.

MISS HOLINGER'S RECITAL

Miss Elsa F. Holinger, daughter of the Swiss Consul to Chicago, gave a song recital at Fine Arts Theater on Monday evening, and pleased a capacity audience to the utmost.

This pleasure was manifested in unusual cordiality of all kinds, including the presentation of masses of flowers. Miss Holinger has a soprano voice of warm tone and considerable range and power and her instruction has evidently been along the lines which have developed ease and freedom of production and an exact manipulation of all mechanical resources.

The program was chosen most carefully and besides affording many opportunities for the display of the best points of Miss Holinger's voice and art it provided a wealth of variety and musical value.

A Von Fielitz "Cycle" and a group of modern French songs opened the program admirably, the next group being one of manuscript songs by Dr. Carl Bertschinger, who supplied excellent accompaniments.

These songs have much depth and color: they will be heard a second time with pleasure.

The German text songs by Sinding, Wolf and Brahms proved many kinds of excellence in the young artist, not the least of which was her German text pronunciation; also admirably in evidence in "Elsa's Dream" ("Lohengrin"), while the Italian of the "Vissi d'Arte" was also fine.

A group of the Protheroe songs have never been better done here, and besides reflecting credit on Miss Holinger, they proved the inherent worth and effectiveness of the songs themselves in no uncertain way. This effectiveness was much enhanced by the accompaniments of Miss Mae Doelling, which were positively ideal.

Throughout (excepting in the Bertschinger songs) Miss Doelling played for Miss Holinger, and she certainly proved her entire fitness for such task by a constant display of piano musicianship.

Also Miss Doelling played some Chopin and Liszt solos and created a genuine sensation by the brilliance of her technic, the wonderful accuracy and clarity of her readings and the very unusual and wholly delightful shading and coloring she was able to infuse.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

HINSHAW CONSERVATORY PUPIL SECURES NOTABLE ENGAGEMENT

Miss Grace Darlington has just been engaged by the Western Extravaganza Company, a department of the Western Vaudeville Association, to appear as prima donna in one of the musical tabloids to be presented in the best theaters throughout the country.

Mr. Hamilton Coleman, the general producer for the association, considers Miss Darlington a "real find," as she not only possesses an extraordinary voice, but is also very charming and beautiful to look upon.

———♯♯♯———

Church concert.—Miss Al Meda Wadhams, pianist, and Mrs. Lily Wadhams Moline, organist, will give a joint recital at the Wesley M. E. Church on Thursday evening, December 11.

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
9th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4365

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

MAE Doelling Pianist Teacher
4141 N. Hermitage Av

DRAMATIC CLASS ENTERTAINS

The first evening performance of the dramatic class conducted by John T. Prince at the University School of Music in Lincoln, Neb., filled the Temple Theaater with a friendly and highly entertained crowd last evening. The usual canons of dramatic criticism do not apply, of course, to the work of the students. It is perfectly proper to write it all down as promising and interesting and conscientious and all that sort of thing. Very often the appreciation of the audience became extremely audible, some time following one of the little breaks that always come in amateur performances and often in appreciation of really clever work. One of the treats of the evening was the appearance of Mr. Prince as Captain Williams in the third act of "Paid in Full." This was strictly a professional appearance and was enjoyed as such. The cast in this act was as follows:

Captain Williams.....Mr. Prince
Sato, his Japanese valet.....Marshall Harding
Jimsy Smith.....William Aldrich
Emma Brooks.....Georgia Hall

The performance concluded with the first and third acts of the well-known Clyde Fitch comedy, "Girls," with the following cast:

Kate West.....Hazel Ritchey
Violet Landsdowne.....Beula Wait
Lucille Purcelle.....Florence Daniels
Lamela Gordon.....Georgia Hall
The janitor.....A. D. Bonner
A messenger.....Marshall Harding
Edgar Holt.....William Aldrich

Between the two parts of the program Miss Helen McAllister read "A Woman in a Shoe Shop" with fine spirit. She was also billed to read "A Sisterly Scheme" between the acts of "Girls."

THE MAC BURNEY RECEPTION

The annual Thanksgiving dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. MacBurney to the host of pupils of the MacBurney studios took place on Thursday evening, November 28, at the Euntz-Remmler restaurant. It was a happy and enthusiastic crowd that centered at the well-filled tables and passed one of the most enjoyable evenings of the season. A program of toasts and songs was carried on till the late hours, when the assembly disbanded, heralding Mr. and Mrs. MacBurney as most royal entertainers.

JOHN LORING COOK

Pupils of Mr. Cook will give a concert at Wurlitzer Hall, 329 South Wabash avenue, Friday evening, December 5. Miss Corinne Simpson is the assisting artist. Among the promising singers studying with Mr. Cook this year may be mentioned Miss Frances Brook of Minnesota.

Silber.—Mr. Sidney Silber will shortly appear in a piano recital at Seward, Neb.

AMATEUR MUSICAL CLUB

On Monday afternoon, December 1, the assembly room in the Fine Arts Building held a happy and enthusiastic crowd, as is always the case at the splendid concerts arranged and given by members of the Amateur Club. On this occasion a most excellent program was arranged and given by Miss Naomi Nazor, soprano, who made a fine appearance and gave a splendid account of herself vocally in a group of songs by Strauss, Cadman and Salter. Miss Mabel Woodworth played with excellent charm and effect the numbers, "Deep River" by Coleridge-Taylor, and the "Polonaise in D Major" by Wieniawski. Miss Anna Braun, who has at her complete command a contralto voice of beauty and much power, sang a group of songs by Brahms, Oscar Meyer and Foote. Miss Priscilla Carver was chosen as the pianist of the afternoon and her playing of the Bach-Chevillard "Prelude" and "Fugue" in E minor was up to the same high artistic standard that Miss Carver always carries her playing. The program was closed with two splendidly sung duets by Miss Nazor and Mr. James Hamilton, tenor. The accompanists of the afternoon were Miss Hazel Everingham and Miss Tina Mae Haines.

H. M. B.

WILLETT STUDIOS

On account of the illness of Sidnie Smith Cooley, who was announced to sing at the Willett Studios on last Wednesday evening, her place was taken by Miss Sybel L. Pollard and Miss Annette Pangbourne, two artist pupils of the Willett class.

Miss Pollard sang "Rose in the Bud" (Forster), "Summer Longings" (Foote), "A Bowl of Roses" (Clark), "My True Love Hath My Heart" (Foote), "Shoogy-Shoo" (Ambrose), "Snow Flakes" (Cowan), "April Rain" (Woodman) and "Come to the Garden" (Salter), and Miss Pangbourne was heard in a Franz group comprising "The Water Lily," "Lassie with the Lips So Rosy," "In the Woods," "The Pine Tree," and "The Messenger."

Both young ladies sang with much style and finish, each number being done in convincingly fine style, and Miss Pangbourne showed very especial adaptability to the works of Robert Franz.

Mr. Elmer Johnson played two groups of piano solos in his usual brilliant and finished style, and the large audience assembled in Kimball Hall endorsed the entire evening without reserve.

North Shore.—The North Shore School of Music gave a recital on Monday evening when Ruth Rudolph, a pupil of Gail Martin-Haake, was introduced in splendid program including numbers by Bach, Beethoven, Schumann, Henselt and Chaminade; appearing also in a two-piano number with her teacher.

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Friday, December 5

Orchestra Hall, 2:15. Symphony Orchestra.

Kimball Hall, 8:15. Pupils' recital; C. A. Hutter.

Saturday, December 6

Chicago Piano College, 2:00. Children's concert.

Kimball Hall, 3:30. American Conservatory; Old Masters Program.

Auditorium, 2:00. "Jewels of the Madonna."

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Symphony Orchestra.

Auditorium, 8:00. "Carmen."

Sunday, December 7

North Side Turner Hall, 3:00. Boeppler Orchestra.

Lincoln Turner Hall, 3:00. Ballmann Orchestra.

Fine Arts Theater, 3:00. William Wade Hinshaw song recital.

Studebaker Theater, 3:30. Violin and song recital. Ludwig Schmidt and Ida May Cameron.

Orchestra Hall, 3:30. Paderewski in piano recital.

The Auditorium, 3:00 and 8:00. Pavlowa.

Fullerton Hall, 8:00. Opera lecture-recital; Dr. W. Carver Williams, soloist.

Monday, December 8

Auditorium Recital Hall, 8:15. Cosmopolitan School. Ensemble program.

Auditorium, 8:00. "La Boheme."

Tuesday, December 9

Auditorium, 8:00. "Le Ranz des Vaches."

Wednesday, December 10

Auditorium, 8:00. Opera.

Thursday, December 11

Auditorium, 2:00. "Mme. Butterfly."

Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A., 8:15. Recital, pupils of Dr. Wm. Shelp.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Mendelssohn Club.

Auditorium, 8:15. Opera.

PADEREWSKI RECITAL

Wessels and Voegeli announce Ignace Paderewski in piano recital at Orchestra Hall on Sunday afternoon, December 7, in the following program:

Prelude and Fugue in A minor.....Bach-Liszt
Sonata in E major, Opus 109.....Beethoven
Vivace, ma non troppo, sempre legato—Adagio espressivo—Tempo I—Adagio espressivo—Tempo I.
Prestissimo
Andante molto cantabile ed espressivo. Tema con variazione
Carneval.....Schumann
Preambule — Pierrot — Arlequin — Valse noble —Eusebius — Florestan — Coquette—Replique —Sphinxes — Papillons — Lettres dansantes (A. S. C. H.—S. C. H. A.)—Chiarina—Chopin—Estrella—Reconnaissance—Pantalon et Colombine—Valse Allemande — Paganini — Aveu — Promenade — Pause — Marche des "Davidsbundler" contre les Philistins.
Nocturne, E major, Opus 62
Mazurka, B minor.....Chopin
Sonata, B flat minor
Grave—Doppio Movimento—Agitato.
Scherzo
Marche funebre—Presto
Two Etudes.....Liszt
Waldesrauschen
La Campanella

Thomas N. MacBurney
Baritone
Voice Production
Three years assistant to King Clark
Song Recitals
508-609 Fine Arts Bldg. Chicago
Phone Harrison 6880

MRS. ZARING'S RECITAL

Mrs. Irene Belden Zaring gave the first of the season's pupils recitals at the residence studio, 4451 North Winchester avenue, Ravenswood, on Friday afternoon, November 28.

She was assisted by Miss Jessie Miller, soprano, of the Belden Avenue Baptist Church Quartet, and also of the recently organized "Chaminade Trio."

The following program was given:

"Peasant Dance" ..... Lynes
Doradel Morse
"Four Melodies" ..... Gurlitt
Lon Arney
"Gracefulness" ..... Gurlitt
"Miniature Waltz" ..... Mrs. Adams
Martha Weaver
"The Little Dancer" ..... Lynes
Bessie Carkhuff
"March of Tin Soldiers" ..... Gurlitt
"The Gentle Maiden" ..... Gurlitt
Iola Lanterer
"In the Woodland Swing" ..... Krogmann
"By Lo! Dolly" ..... Orth
Katharine McIntosh
"Dancing the Minuet" ..... Lemont
Harriet Clark
"The Rocking Horse" ..... Gurlitt
"Bee and Clover" ..... Geibel
Narcissa Fiske
"Valse Lente" ..... Friml
Lucille Legardine
"Serenade" ..... Schubert
Helen Stoeckert
Vocal Solo, "Summer" ..... Chaminade
Miss Miller
"Return of the Gondoliers" ..... Hern
Alice Mrosek
"Rowing Song" ..... Dutton
"Chant du Matin" ..... Devaux
Alma Ishmael
"Sextet" from "Lucia" ..... Donizetti-Tonelli
Adelaide McIntosh
"Rhodora" ..... Devaux
"Scherzino" ..... Dennee
Grace Herrick
"Evening Star" ("Tannhauser") ..... Wagner-Tonelli
Dolly Arney
"Mazurka" ..... Lichner
"Canzonetta" ..... Hollaender
"Gavotte," B flat ..... Handel
Helen Sparks
"March Fantastique" ..... Wilson G. Smith
Florence Miller
"Scarf Dance" ..... Chaminade
Esther Frost
"Norwegian Bridal Procession" ..... Grieg
Eleanore Villmow
"Hovering Butterflies" ..... Mrs. Gaynor
Laura Epple
"In the Merry Month of May" ..... Merkel
Helen Renry
"Nocturne" ..... Leschetizky
Otto Fearis
"Chaconne" ..... Durand
"Mazurka" ..... Borowski
Abbie Sawyer
Vocal Solos—
"Happy Song" ..... Del Riego
"Snowflakes" ..... Cowen
"The Merry Brown Thrush" ..... Buck
Miss Miller
"The Brook" ..... Karganoff
"The Syhil" ..... Schytte
"Minuet," in G ..... Beethoven
Robert Snyder (seven years old)
"Allegro" from "Faschingschwanck aus Wien" ..... Schumann
Edith Tomkins

Thal—Miss Dorothy Herman, a pupil of Miss Della Thal, was soloist last Sunday afternoon at the Zukowsky orchestral concert at the Hebrew Institute. She played, very successfully, the Grieg "Sonata," and for encore gave the "Gavotte" by Sapellnikof.

Buchhalter.—Simon Buchhalter, pianist, and Rudolph Engberg, baritone, will give a joint recital Sunday afternoon, December 21, at the Studebaker, under the management of F Wight Neumann.

MARIE STAPLETON MURRAY

Marie Stapleton Murray, soprano, who rounds out a busy half season with a Chicago recital, December 12, assists the Indianapolis Symphony at the regular concert of December 14, at Indianapolis. Her

MARIE STAPLETON MURRAY

Cleveland recital will be on December 15 and she will sing in Saint-Saens' "Christmas Oratorio" at the Skidmore School of Arts, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., December 19.

AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

The American Conservatory on Saturday afternoon, November 29, presented Miss May Doelling, pianist, and Mr. Arthur Slack, baritone, in joint recital to the many patrons of these weekly musical events held in Kimball Hall.

Miss Doelling, who is always a welcome addition and delight on any program, played, as always, with best of style and finish, and even seemed to surpass much of her former playing on this occasion. Her first appearance on the program gave her ample opportunities to display her high attainments as a pianist, for she was heard in the historic variations by Raff. This interesting number seems to possess nearly all styles of playing known to the pianistic art. In the Chopin group Miss Doelling was most admired, and her playing of these numbers was nigh faultless and should be an inspiration and example for the many students of piano present.

Mr. Slack, fortunate in possessing a baritone voice of the clear, ringing quality and much power, sang with good style and excellent breath control a group of numbers in German, an aria by Verdi and a group of songs in English. His interpretations of these numbers were most sincere and carried true inspiration. Mr. Slack had the advantage of splendid accompaniments played by Laurel E. Yeamans. H. M. B.

WILLIAM ALFRED WHITE

Mr. White, who is now teaching practical theory in the Lyceum Arts Conservatory, Fine Arts Building, is regarded as one of the foremost theorists of America, as the review of his harmonic part writing in Musical America of New York City, will show:

"Throughout the book one finds ideas that show a wideawake and live attitude on the part of the author; he has studied the works of the standard authors on the subject and his complete acquaintance with them has enabled him to devise the system which he advances. . . .

"It is all highly interesting and filled with new bits of suggestive reasoning that cannot fail to be helpful to the ambitious student. Those who have been brought up on Richter and Prout may rail at the novel presentation of the subject on the ground that what has been accepted for years back must be worth while and should be accepted today. American composition, however, is taking on proportions at the present time that indicate the establishment of a distinctive American school, and toward this there can be nothing more desirable than an active and up-to-date line of thought on the part of the American theorist who figures largely in shaping the destiny of the American creative product."

RENE S. LUND

Rene S. Lund has been engaged to sing the following group of three songs before the Austin Orchestra Club Tuesday evening, December 6:

A Vision ..... Daniel Protheroe
The Days of Long Ago ..... Chester B. Searle
Wandering Knight's Song ..... Horatio Parker
Alice R. Deal will be accompanist.

Stein—Mr. Ralph Brainard left last week for New York to join the De Koven Opera Company, with which he will sing Robin Hood and other leading tenor roles. In the same company will be Charles F. Cooke, who will sing Friar Tuck. Miss Glendora Barnes is meeting with success as soloist with the Cerny Concert Company on its western trip. Miss Cora Beier sang before the Forum at the City Club last Sunday. Miss Blanch Reincke was soloist at the special musical service of the Humboldt Baptist Church recently and Miss Marguerite Haas and Mr. Arthur Thoms at the Oak Park M. E. Church.

Miss Bess Marion Anderson was the reader at the annual festival of the Illinois Danes and Miss Maude Garnant has been chosen reader with the Imperial Concert Company, which is filling engagements along the North Shore. These are all pupils of the Stein Studios.

Chicago Piano College—The Chicago Piano College gave a concert of piano music at Kimball Hall on Tuesday evening, when a number of advanced pupils appeared in a splendidly chosen program. Many of the pianists have already arrived at the young artist stage and all of them played with discernment and effect.

Kober.—The pupils of Miss Georgia Kober, president of the Sherwood Music School, will give a recital Monday evening, December 22, in Wurlitzer's Hall.

ARISTODEMO

Giorgini

TENOR

Chicago Grand Opera Company

Sig. Giorgini has appeared in Opera in Spain, Russia, Paris, London, Milan, Parma, Naples and Rome. He has been decorated by the Emperor of Russia, the King of Spain, and the King of Italy.

A partial list of his repertoire reads as follows:

Don Pasquale
Pesca di Perle
L'Elisir d'Amore
Favorita
Tosca
Rigoletto
Barber of Seville
Lucia de Lammermoor
La Gioconda
Traviata
Linda De Chamouni
La Boheme
and
La Sonnambula

AT THE OPERA

CHARLES E. WATT

WEDNESDAY EVENING

Massenet's opera, "Don Quichotte," new to Chicago, was sung on Wednesday evening to a somewhat puzzled and decidedly reserved audience.

The part of the Don is a psychological study which would have delighted the heart of Henry Irving and even he could scarcely have improved upon Marcoux in the matter of a grotesque impersonation.

As a matter of fact so outre was this figure that—being continually on the stage throughout a long evening, the audience became more or less weary of it.

With but few of the usual concomitants of a grand opera, with only one woman's part and with no tenor at all, Massenet has drawn a subdued picture along somewhat impressionistic lines with very few definite "songs," and yet a continual flow of beauty from the Orchestra and a great deal of colorful descriptive matter from the singers.

Real students of music as well as admirers of fine art in acting will revel in further performances of this work, and the public at large may also adopt it, though that remains, as yet, to be seen.

Vanni Marcoux again proclaimed himself a fine artist and Mary Garden, in the modified "Carmen-like" part of Dulcinee was as correct in character drawing as always and much more melodious of voice than sometimes.

Dufranne, however, was the one great star of the performance. His conception of "Sancho" was perfect and his singing was masterful.

Egener, Warrum, Warnery, Venturini, Nicolay, Meyer and Daddi each added a characteristic bit of character sketching.

The production as a whole was nothing less than gorgeous and the direction of Campanini was masterful.

♮ ♮ ♮

Thanksgiving Matinee

At the Thursday matinee "Mme. Butterfly" was given with Alice Zeppilli in the name part, one she has sung here before, and with Margaret Keyes assuming Suzuki for the first time in Chicago.

Here is a singer of the most absolute charm from the purely musical standpoint and with an intelligence which covers every requirement of solo and ensemble effort. She is growing in stage-craft also, and each interpretation grows stronger and more definite. The music of "Suzuki" was sung by her with a suavity and power seldom given it before and her action was good at all times.

Bassi, who during the first years of our opera was a tremendous favorite in "Pinkerton" repeated at this time his former triumphs and gave his audience an exposition of pure song coupled with most intelligent action. Francisco Federici was a good "Sharpless," and the other parts were taken by Daddi. Scott, Trevisan and Defrere.

Die Walkuere

Thanksgiving night found a goodly audience at The Auditorium, and also there was a genuine—if not too demonstrative, approval of the splendid reading given the most popular of the Wagner scores.

Jane Osborn-Hannah and Charles Dalmores repeated the parts of Sieglinde and Siegmund in the same satisfactory way which was made so popular in both cases last year, and Julia Claussen, as "Brunnhilde," again proved herself to be an incomparable artist, and one that Chicago delights to honor.

Margaret Keyes, in "Fricka" had one of the greatest opportunities that have yet fallen to her in Chicago and she made much of it. Following Schumann-Heink in the part she appears small as to stature—, but in voice she was absolutely adequate and gave a splendid exposition of the possibilities of the part.

Clarence Whitehill as Wotan has been praised so much that nothing remains to be said, but that he sang and acted the part just as he did last year, and Henri Scott repeated the same interpretation of Hunding. Chorus, orchestra and scenic investiture were at the highest point of excellence.

♮ ♮ ♮

Aida

At the Saturday matinee "Aida" was brought out and served as introduction for two new singers, both of whom made immediate success. These were Rosa Raisa, who sang the part of "Aida," and Cyrena Van Gordon as Amneris.

Mme. Raisa has a voice of great brilliancy and her histrionic ability is ample for so exacting a part as "Aida," while Mme. Van Gordon, though successful in her part, did not, in her singing, cause any one to forget her handsome predecessor, Eleanore de Cisneros.

Bassi as Radames pretty nearly dominated the entire performance, and he was indeed a wonderful picture and sang delightfully. Scott, Polese and Venturini sang the parts already familiar to this public from them and Mabel Riegelman again delighted with her beautiful singing of the number allotted to The Priestess. This was the first time her voice had been heard except as one of the Valkyr maidens, and the audience was greedy to hear more of it.

♮ ♮ ♮

Natoma

On Saturday evening an "event" was scheduled in the fact that "Natoma" was given under the baton of the composer, Mr. Victor Herbert, who was received with great acclaim and who, in his curtain speech at the end of the second act, made a fine impression and was awarded an ovation.

Jane Osborn Hannah was successful in her first Chicago appearance as Barbara, and Alice Zeppilli made friends for her playing of "Natoma."

As a matter of fact, Miss Mary Garden, who created this part, made so profound an impression in it that no one else could hope for great popularity, and Miss Zeppilli was content to give a mild imitation of Miss Garden in dress, manner and posturing.

In the latter effort she fell far short of Miss Garden, however, for the latter knows exactly how still an Indian can stand or sit; how impenetrable may be the facial mask assumed, and these are details which Miss Zeppilli cannot even remotely understand. However, she did the Dagger Dance acceptably, and her singing throughout was extremely pleasing.

The other parts were all played as before, and the excellencies and shortcomings were the same as have often been noted.

The dance by Rosini Galli was a great popular success, and the scenic investiture of the opera could not well have been improved upon. The orchestra, under the guiding hand of Mr. Herbert, was superb, but the chorus fell short of perfection in several instances.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Sunday Concert

A Wagner concert, with Campanini and Winternitz conducting, was a potent enough attraction for Sunday afternoon to draw a large audience in spite of the stormy weather, and this audience was given a complete treat.

The orchestral numbers were magnificently read under the Campanini baton, and each vocalist re-established himself in general favor. Owing to a multiplicity of engagements, this writer heard but the last half of this program, opening with the "Ride of the Valkyries" and closing with the overture to "Rienzi."

Mme. Marta Dorda, a soprano with broad vocal style and much sincerity of manner, sang "Ewig bin Ich" (Siegfried) and "Dich Theure Halle," to much appreciation, especially from her colleagues of the opera company, and with Mr. Clarence Whitehill gave a resounding interpretation of a long scene from "The Flying Dutchman."

Mr. Whitehill sang "The Evening Star" so superbly that the audience would not cease applause until he had repeated it, and Mr. Charles Dalmores gave a brilliant reading of "The Holy Grail" from "Lohengrin."

♮ ♮ ♮

Rigoletto

On Monday evening "Rigoletto" was put on for the purpose of allowing Chicagoans another opportunity of seeing and hearing Ruffo in his wonderful reading of the name part, and this proved to be a remarkable event.

The glory of tone so amazingly shown in former performances of this opera were again in full evidence, and the great baritone held the capacity audience in the hollow of his hand and played upon the musical susceptibilities to such effect that one ovation followed another throughout the evening.

Alice Zeppilli, who sang Gilda, was brilliant at times but was, for some reason, so nervous that she forgot her lines (in "Rigoletto!") several times, and also she failed repeatedly to hold up her usual vocal standard.

Aristodemo Giorgini made a thoroughly attractive Duke, both in action and song, and the famous quartet, completed by Margaret Keyes as Maddalena, was a vocal joy.

Miss Keyes impressed most favorably in this part last season and she has added materially to its impressiveness.

Huberdeau, Berat, Nicolay, Fossetta, Venturini, Trevisan and Egener sang their usual parts and fulfilled all the possibilities. Perosio conducted.

♮ ♮ ♮

Samson and Delilah

First of all in a consideration of the performance of the Saint-Saens opera-oratorio, "Samson and Delilah," credit must be given to orchestra and chorus, for these two factors, under the Charlier baton, were of remarkable beauty and effectiveness.

The orchestral score welled up in continual waves of beauty and color and provided an always-beautiful undercurrent for the stage action.

The chorus has never excelled its achievements of Tuesday evening. In fact, no opera is remembered in which they were equaled. This is a most satisfactory state of affairs and it provides a backbone to the opera which is beyond valuation.

Hector Dufranne was wonderfully suave when occasion demanded, and at other moments, powerfully dramatic as the High Priest and Crabbe, who, as Abimilech, met an untimely and lamentable end in the first act at the hands of Samson, was good in his single solo.

Huberdeau made an impressive picture and sang admirably as an old Hebrew, while Venturini, Defrere and Fossetta supplied small bits convincingly, and Galli led her forces to a resounding ballet success.

Charles Dalmores repeated the "Samson" reading which has been so much praised in the past, and Julia Claussen, appearing as Delilah once more, proved the fact that in her the company has secured a star of the very greatest magnitude. Indeed, her successes so far this season have been on a par with those of any member of the company who might be mentioned—man or woman.

As Delilah she disclosed a new facet to her histrionic art, and she displayed it most convincingly; in the vocal score she was absolutely remarkable. No one who heard "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," for instance, will ever forget the suavity and the intensity with which it was rendered.

♮ ♮ ♮

Other Operas

"Girl of the Golden West" was repeated on Wednesday too late for current review, and "Christopher Columbus" had its premiere on Thursday.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening will bring "Jewels of the Madonna" and "Carmen" (in English), and next week begins with "La Boheme." "Parsifal" is scheduled for December 28.

♯ ♯ ♯

Ballmann—Mme. Else Harthan-Arendt, soprano, will be the soloist next Sunday afternoon at the Lincoln Turner Hall concert, given by the Ballmann Orchestra, under direction of Martin Ballmann.

JULIA

CLAUSSEN

CONTRALTO

Chicago Grand Opera Company

Claussen in "La Gioconda"

The second act was much more interesting, for which one must give the composer some credit and the singers more. There are at least three good tunes—for so may the artificial melodies of Ponchielli be defined. Mr. Ruffo had the first, the relatively famous "Pescator" aria, which he delivered with splendid effect, concluding it with a resounding A flat. The audience was disposed to demand a repetition. Then came the tenor aria, "Cielo e mar," which Caruso sings better than anything else in his repertory. Mr. Giorgini has an attractive lyric voice and he sang the number acceptably.

Mme. Claussen and Mme. White then appeared to assume responsibility for the remaining tune. It occupied their combined efforts for many minutes and resulted in as fine an example of pure vocal display as the season is likely to offer. At the conclusion the Swedish mezzo-soprano had made herself the undisputed star of the performance.

Last season her achievements in Wagnerian opera made a profound impression. Her voice was then recognized as one of the greatest of its kind. However, Italian melody, even of this artificial type, is more grateful material for the voice than the musically more significant talent of Wagner ever devised. In fact, the barrenness of Ponchielli's tune serves to center the attention of the listener upon the art of the singer exclusively. To listen thus to Mme. Claussen is sufficiently exciting to sustain the interest of the most jaded operagoer. Her voice is magnificent in power, enormous in range, glorious in the rich, vibrant warmth of its color.—The Chicago Tribune.

The Laura of Julia Claussen was particularly admirable and more nearly approached the vocal standard set by Mr. Ruffo than that of any other member of the cast. She is blessed with a contralto of rare flexibility and power, combined with unusual range as she proved by an excellent performance of Bruenhilde last season. In the solo "Stella del Marinar" and the final trio of parting "Sulle tue mani" her voice rang clear and true.—Evening Telegraph, Philadelphia.

Julia Claussen, the Swedish contralto, who scored a memorable success here in several Wagnerian operas last season, sang the part of Laura superbly.—Evening Bulletin, Philadelphia.

RUTH ALTA
ROGERS
PIANIST
If desired, Recital Programs will be opened with explanatory talks on the compositions to be played.
MANAGEMENT
CHARLES E. WATT 522 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Anna Groff - Bryant
Studios of Vocal Art
Ethel Bell Reeves Assistant
606 Fine Arts Building Chicago, Ill.
Phone Wabash 1051

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 6198

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL Phone Harrison 5919

ROSALIE WIRTHLIN
CONTRALTO
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 WEST 34th STREET NEW YORK

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Helene Koelling
Prima Donna
SOPRANO
Montreal Grand Opera Co.

Theaters

"GREEN STOCKINGS" AT THE WARRINGTON

This week's play at the Warrington in Oak Park is a comedy of the side-splitting sort, with a laugh in every line—"Green Stockings," in three acts, by A. W. E. Mason.

The story deals principally with the Farraday family, whose daughters are the belles of their immediate social set. It has long been an English custom that the elder sisters shall always wear green stockings at the weddings of their sisters, if the marrying ones be younger than they. When the piece opens, Miss Celia Farraday has already been called upon on two different occasions to don the emerald-hued coverings, and as another younger sister is about to announce her engagement, a family council is held.

The elder Farradays figure that it will be a disgrace for their daughter to wear the green stockings the third time without having any prospect in sight of getting married. They decide the younger daughter must defer her wedding until Celia has some hopes of becoming engaged.

Celia does not like the arrangement and she hates to feel that she is the cause of holding her sister back, so she announces that she has become engaged to a certain Colonel Smith. Colonel Smith, in her mind, is a mythical character, and to cover up the fact that he is not at her side, she says he is away with his regiment. Little does she imagine that there is a Colonel Smith in real life and that he is the commander of the very regiment she has chosen for her supposed fiance!

Every member of the stock company will be seen in this play and all provided with good comedy parts.

For the week of December 8 arrangements have been made to offer "Lavender and Old Lace," dramatization from Myrtle Reed's popular book of the same name.

CHICAGO LITTLE THEATER

"Womenkind: Three Aspects," replaced "An Evening with Columine" at the Chicago Little Theater, on the fourth floor of the Fine Arts Building, on Tuesday evening, December 3. The new bill comprises "Womenkind," by W. W. Gibson, with which the Chicago Little Theater opened its first season last year; Alice Brown's "Joint Owners in Spain," a racy and truly typical American comedy which has been described as the American "Workhouse Ward." It is the first native-born play that Maurice Browne has produced at his miniature playhouse and merits a worthy line of successes. The bill will close with Stanley Houghton's comedy, "Fifth Commandment," produced now for the first time in America, though it has been played frequently and with much success in England. "Womenkind" program will be given for three weeks only and will be followed on Friday, December 26, by "Christmastide," which is described as an old tale done in story and mind for those of all the ages. The description is tendered to arouse curiosity, and it is rumored that this holiday bill of the Chicago Little Theater will be a very striking and unusual nature with some very remarkable scenic effects.

NEWMAN TRAVELTALK

Combining in one Traveltalk, a comprehensive portrayal of two of the most delightful cities in Italy, Mr. E. M. Newman's fourth subject for this season will be "Florence and Venice." It will be presented next Wednesday evening, Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, December 10, 12 and 13, at Orchestra Hall.

In Florence, where art is the gospel of daily life, memories of Dante, Savonarola, Machiavelli and other gifted Florentines, are at every corner, making the tour a continuous succession of vital historical and literary reminders and magnificent objects d'art.

The second half of the Traveltalk will be devoted to a ramble through Venice, another stronghold of things artistic. In delightful gondolas Mr. Newman will conduct his audiences up and down the romantic canals, stopping here and there for a close inspection of the most interesting ones, and to hear the legends attached to each.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH

M. P. Clutterbuck, who has under his direction one of the best chorus choirs in the city, at Grace M. E. Church, corner of LaSalle avenue and Locust street, sang Gaul's beautiful harvest cantata, "Ruth," on Sunday evening, November 30. The church held a crowd of very satisfying proportions, which was no more than the choir deserved, for their rendition of the Gaul work was of high character, singing with a deep religious feeling and excellent expression, bringing some of the chorus numbers up to a rousing and brilliant climax. Added to the regular choir's splendid singing was the application of such well known Chicago talent as Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano; Jennie F. W. Johnson and Mrs. Charles B. Ayers, contraltos, and Lemuel W. Kilby, baritone, who carried the solo parts to a point of most artistic finish.

Miss Maude F. Manley, the organist, was in full sympathy of all the numbers and proved, as always, an organist of high attainments.

H. M. B.

"MESSIAH" AT HOUGHTON

At Houghton, Mich., "The Messiah" will be sung this (Friday) evening, with the following list of soloists: Jane Osborn-Hannah, Permelia Gale, Alfred Quesnel and Arthur Middleton.

Sherwood School.—The pupils of Miss Keller, Miss Marley, Miss Peterson and Miss Hurley of the Sherwood Music School will give a recital Monday evening, December 15, in Wurlitzer's Hall.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

San Francisco Sierra News:

"A musician of wonderful power."

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

THE PADEREWSKI RECITAL

As was to be supposed, every seat and all the standing room was occupied on Sunday afternoon when Paderewski gave his second piano recital. We shall not attempt to go into detailed account of the individual numbers on the program, but rather sum up our impressions. In his greatest moments this master-artist is supreme and incomparable and several times in the course of the program he was at his best. Unfortunately, he is unable to sustain himself at the high level which he occasionally attains, and sinks back to a banal amateurishness that is disappointing, painful and annoying. These extremes were evidenced by the Beethoven "Moonlight" and Chopin "A Flat Ballade," as marking less significant and less praiseworthy playing, while transcendent beauty of touch and interpretation were matchless in Schumann's "Des Abends," Chopin's "B Major Nocturne" and Schubert-Liszt "Erl King." The playing of Chopin's "A Flat Polonaise" and Liszt's "Sixth Rhapsody" were nowise extraordinary. Playing that is so unequal; now coarse and brutal, then impulsive, again careless, then exquisite—a whole category of virtues and vices—is not a good object lesson for students, and, unless one is hypnotized, affords but a small amount of unalloyed pleasure to the listener. There was much interest and enthusiasm throughout the performance.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Opening of the Opera Season

The "Jewels of the Madonna" drew a capacity house on Monday night fitly to inaugurate the Boston season of grand opera. Familiar numbers were enthusiastically received, and the few tidbits that redeem an otherwise commonplace work can be regarded as sufficient compensation. The opera received an excellent performance, the principals and other artists being commended frankly and heartily. Socially, the evening was a success! The orchestra was well balanced and supported the voices without overshadowing them.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Maquarre Sextet Concert

An evening that must long remain as distinctively enjoyable was afforded by the artistically interpreted program given on Tuesday evening by the Maquarre Sextet. This organization consists of a string quintet and flute. Mr. Alfred deVoto was the assisting artist at the piano. He plays in the best of taste and with perfect technic. The honors of the evening went to Mr. Maquarre for his virtuoso flute playing.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Longy Club Concert

Just as the Maquarre concert was a rare treat, its sequel, quite as rare and unique, might be found in the Chamber Music Concert for Wind Instruments, given by the Longy Club, on Thanksgiving night, at Jordan Hall. The evening was devoted to compositions by representative American composers. For this reason, the program is reproduced:

Quintet in E Flat (Op. 18) for oboe, clarinet, horn, bassoon and piano.....Arne Oldberg
(A composition full of romantic ideas and seemingly conceived from a pianistic standpoint.)

At Twilight .....Howard Brockway
(Of gloomy character)

An Idyl of Murmuring Water (Allegro) for two flutes, two oboes, two clarinets, two horns and two bassoons .....Howard Brockway
(Very fine! Occasionally the water became decidedly turbulent)

Pastorale (Op. 8) for violin, clarinet and piano.....D. Gregory Mason
(An interesting number in spite of a few dreary places)

Serenade for two flutes, two oboes (with English horn interchangeable), two clarinets, two horns and two bassoons .....Arthur Bird
(Music that claimed much from the listener; but, nevertheless, whose four movements were enjoyable throughout.)

The Longy Club, like the Maquarre Sextet, is composed of Symphony players, and the fact that each is an artist on his particular instrument guarantees the excellence of all pertaining to the performance. The assisting artist of the evening was Mr. J. Theodowicz, violin; Mr. Alfred deVoto, pianist. The next program takes place January 22, 1914.

S. H. L.

♮ ♮ ♮

Tosca at the Opera

Friday night, November 28, "Tosca," Puccini's undesirable work, was performed with Mary Garden as "Tosca"; Vanni Marcoux, "Scarpia," and Giovanni Martinelli, who made his debut, and created a most favorable impression of his singing and histrionic ability as "Cavaradossi."

The story of Tosca is not one for public portrayal. It deals with uncontrolled lust and passion in unmitigated bestial way. If read at all, it should be in the company of the most pure-thoughted, where the atmosphere would be antagonistic to the sordid air of the brutish work.

When one has grasped the possible situations in the low-minded tale, and it is said that these were faithfully reproduced at the recent performance, enough has been said, and space given to the matter. The musocal director was Roberto Moronzoni.

♮ ♮ ♮

Tristan and Isolde

This Wagner opera was given its first production this season, Saturday afternoon, at the Opera House, with Mmes. Matzenauer (Isolde), Niessen-Stone (Brangaene), debut; Mm. Ferrari-Fontana (Tristan), Ludikar, Koenig Marke, Weil, Kurwenol, the principals.

The work was supposed to be sung in German, but French and Italian were also used. The great tongue, the one that should be used in opera when given in the United States before an American audience, English, was conspicuous by its absence.

These were moments of dreary, tediousness, when Wagner was groping for the right way to express his theories. Moments when one felt the impossibilities of the situation; that especially when Tristan, mortally wounded by a sword-thrust, takes longer in dying than could possibly be imagined, should one use the violence of exertion, in acting and singing, as was done at this performance.

It is such features which composers seem to accentuate in their scores that make sensible folk uninterested in opera. They do not depict life in a common-sense way, but, instead, create farcical situations where tragedy is called for. But the faults of the architect cannot rightfully be laid upon the builder; neither may the characters in a music-drama be blamed if these are untruthfully drawn by the composer. Their portrayal is the business of the cast and whatever is done to make the picture as conceived by the creator the clearest and most vivid, is the highest in efficiency and art.

Taking this view, the work of each of the principals mentioned was well performed. There were periods of intense fervor, as in the lover's great duet of statuesque posing, when Tristan and Isolde first met, effective pantomime of Brangaene and Kurwenal; splendid scenic effects and masterful orchestral control. The chorus, when it had opportunity, sang well, and the death of Isolde was a memorable scene.

The musical director was Andre Caplet.

L. S. B.

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Violinist Brokaw Power-Meyer Conservatory
WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Hanna Butler
SOPRANO Concert Oratorio Recital
Pupils Accepted 512 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

COLLINS J. Basso-Cantante EUDORA MOODY SOPRANO BROCK
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

Grant Tenor KIMBELL
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

AGNES LEIST-BEEBE ORATORIO SONG RECITAL PUPILS
SOPRANO
509 Kimball Hall and 3985 Drexel Boulevard

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

With Music Schools

"Premieres" are promised for a dramatic recital to be given by the dramatic department of the New England Conservatory of Music, in Jordan Hall, under the direction of Clayton D. Gilbert, Friday and Saturday evenings, December 5 and 6.

"The Vampire Cat," a legend of Old Japan, arranged as a pantomime by Mr. Gilbert, with music composed by Charles P. Scott, and dances under direction of Miss Bertha Draper King, will have its first performance on any stage. "Le Passant," a one-act operetta, the text by Francois Coppee, music by E. Paladilhe, and translation by Mrs. Ella Mahr, with music under the direction of Minnie Stratton-Watson, a work originally produced at L'Opera Comique, Paris, will have its first performance in English on any stage. "Tilda's New Hat," a study of character in one scene, by George Paston, will be given for the first time in this country. By special permission of Arnold Daly, Mr. Gilbert's pupils will give "The Monkey's Paw," a story in three scenes by W. W. Jacobs, dramatized by Louis N. Parker. These works have been selected not only because of their novelty, but because they admirably illustrate the principles of acting, pantomime, gesture and impersonation are taught in the conservatory's dramatic department.

♮ ♮ ♮

A pupils' recital at the New England Conservatory of Music, on Saturday afternoon, November 22, had for an interesting concluding number Cesar Franck's Pianoforte Trio in F sharp major. This was played in good form by Gertrude Kelley of Fitchburg; Ignace Nowicki of New York, who was one of the winners of the Sears prize in violin playing, and Adolph Vogel, Jr., of West Orange, N. J. Another ensemble number which was well received was the "Andante" from Mozart's Pianoforte Trio in E major, in which the performers were Alita D. Eames of Seattle, Ignace Nowicki and Ora Larthard of Malden. The soloists were Gertrude Matthews, Waltham; Florence Griesmer, Wilkesbarre, Pa.; Eva S. Mortensen, Dorchester; Ina Stanley, Kezar Falls, Me.; Marjorie Holmes, Newton.

♮ ♮ ♮

The next Faelten piano school recital will be Saturday afternoon, December 6. The solo players will be Weaver Adams, Dorothy Clark, Thelma Cooper, Grace Bassnett, Marjorie Stephens and Alberta Sanford. Evelyn Merrow, assisted by Carl Faelten and others, will play the A major "Concerto" by Mozart. A class of pupils who had their first lesson in October will give an exhibition, and there will be the usual ensemble playing.

♯ ♯ ♯

Robinson.—Miss Carol Robinson, assistant to Fanny Bloomfield Zeisler, and herself a pianist of much prestige, was the accompanist at the Weisbach recital on last Sunday afternoon at Orchestra Hall, and proved herself to be absolutely without superior in the skill with which she accompanied and supplemented the soloist.

HELENA BINGHAM'S SONG CALENDAR FOR OCTOBER

September 4, Frankfort, Ind.—Rock Him to Sleep, The Red Parasol (MS.), The Balloon Man, Miss Lyravine Votaw.

September 21, Oscaloosa, Iowa—Sunset and Evening Star, Miss Helena Bingham.

October 3, Cedar Falls, Iowa—A Ladder of Clover Bloom (new), It Is Not Raining Rain to Me, Miss Harriet Case.

October 3, Cedar Falls, Iowa—Songs from The Balloon Man, Miss Helena Bingham.

October 6, Fort Dodge, Iowa—It Is Not Raining Rain to Me, Her Literary Taste, Sunset and Evening Star (by request), Miss Helena Bingham.

October 10, Onawa, Iowa—Recital of songs and stories, Miss Helena Bingham.

October 20, Clinton Iowa,—To You, Ma'y Jane (MSS.), Mme. Sofia Stephali.

October 24, Chicago, Ill.—A Ladder of Clover Bloom (new), Mrs. Meta Whitesell.

October 27, Pomeroy, Iowa—To You, Ma'y Jane (MSS.), Mme. Sofia Stephali.

October 29, Dana, Ill.—A Ladder of Clover Bloom (new), Her Literary Taste, Mrs. Ida Jackson Foster.

♯ ♯ ♯

MELBA MAE FRENCH

Miss Melba Mae French is fulfilling a concert trip with the following itinerary:

Monday, November 24, La Crosse, Ind.
Tuesday, November 25, Mishawaka, Ind.
Wednesday, November 26, Three Rivers, Mich.
Thursday, November 27, Richland, Mich.
Friday, November 28, Battle Creek, Mich.
Saturday, November 29, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Monday, December 1, Muskegon, Mich.
Tuesday, December 2, Schoolcraft, Mich.
Wednesday, December 3, Jackson, Mich.
Thursday, December 4, Groverhill, O.
Friday, December 5, Tontogany, O.
Saturday, December 6, Gibsonburg, O.
Monday, December 8, Elmore, O.
Tuesday, December 9, Chicago Junction, O.
Wednesday, December 10, Butler, O.
Thursday, December 11, Coshocton, O.
Friday, December 12, Strasburg, O.
Saturday, December 13, Newark, O.
Monday, December 15, W. Jefferson, O.
Tuesday, December 16, Marion, O.
Wednesday, December 17, LaRue, O.
Thursday, December 18, Rushsylvania, O.
Friday, December 19, Spencerville, O.
Saturday, December 20, Sidney, Ind.

♯ ♯ ♯

Freer—One of the most notable pupils of the late Mathilde Marchesi was Eleanor Everest Freer, who, in a school of sixty pupils, was chosen to be the exponent of the classic song. No wonder, with inherited talent, years of the best study, that she should give us a song-literature to outlive us all. Mrs. Freer began her studies at the Marchesi School at the time when Mmes. Nevada, Calve, Melba, Eames and others were leaving, thus hearing and meeting singers of world-wide reputation, and herself singing and being accompanied by Massenet, Godard, Widor, Bemberg, Liszt and other composers.

The Elderly Person

If he has any control of his thoughts at the time, The Elderly Person approaches the Art Institute as a sort of sacred precinct or shrine. And he is apt to say to himself, if he does not speak it aloud, that the building and what it contains and what it stands for is the greatest thing in Chicago. And that is not forgetting other good and valuable considerations. Once upon a time, in a smaller community, a group of people who were interested in a church which had stood in its place for a long time and had ministered to many generations, were deploring the lack of attendance upon its services of the men who had always aided in its maintenance. The question was hazarded: "What would happen if the building should burn down?" Quick as a flash a lady answered, "The men we are talking about would rebuild it at once and build it even better than it is now." In a few years the surmise became a fact, and the answer of the lady was justified by the speedy actions following. In some such way that square sturdy building on the lake front guarded by those big Kemyss lions fills a place in so many Chicago hearts, that should disaster befall it, men would vie with each other to be first aids to the injured. Those who insisted on its present location builded even better than they knew. Its convenience is one of its greatest blessings. It lovers can visit it often and find what they need in the way of restoration and refreshment in its quiet corridors. Therefore, when The Elderly Person finds himself in the new world which each open door recalls, he is apt to liken himself to Sancho Panza, when, out of a full heart which needed what it was about to receive, he called down blessings on the man who invented sleep.

Quite fittingly the recent gatherings of the "Immortals," as the members of the Institute of Arts and Letters are dubbed, were held in Fullerton Hall, and one afternoon those who sought entrance to Blackstone Hall found themselves shut out by the rich folds of Persian rugs, and were told that the feast for the present day gods would be served there. The Elderly Person, knowing that he would not be among those present, found himself smiling at the location selected for dress suits and patent leathers. For if Blackstone Hall is rich in one thing more than the other, after you have mentioned the two gentlemen on horseback, it is in its replicas of church portals with sculptured bishops and saints for decoration, and for numberless sarcophagi and tombs. There are so many kings and queens and knights and ladies with their toes turned up that the environs are not exactly hilarious. There is one old fellow, with no clothes on to speak of, save a loin cloth, who is hopelessly thin, and one wonders why his emancipation is so carefully copied. The Egyptians were in the habit of introducing a skeleton at each feast. So the Elderly Person figured it out that this old fellow would answer the purpose and keep our present gallery of gods from becoming too rampantly happy over their cups. This banquet came early in the proceedings when the appetites were fresh. Later on, from much entertaining, the Immortals were sadly harried, not by the skeleton at the feast, but by the skeleton of the approaching feast. For in his closing comment Mr. Brander Matthews reminded his confreres that they were due at the Cliff Dwellers at 1 o'clock, and it was now that hour, "and," he added fervently, "I hope sincerely that it is the very last of the hospitality we shall have to accept from this all too hospitable city. It is exhausting and destructive to such habits of economy and restraint as are forced upon men of letters in their daily life."

It was exhilarating to slip into the meeting on that last Saturday morning. There was a great crowd, and The Elderly Person was late. A fringe stood in the little lobby and gazed down at and strained their ears to hear Meredith Nicholson while he read his paper about the problem novel. A young man in a seat at the very foot of the aisle abandoned it, and came up the stairs. Scarce knowing what he did in his desire to get nearer, the Elderly Person sped down and took the vacated place, as quietly as celerity would allow. When he had time to seek covertly at where he was, he found that he had had the temerity to insert himself right into the nest of the Immortals themselves. It was a cause for trembling. Gathering further courage he encountered the calm face and friendly nod of Mr. Stock and so felt safe, and a little complacent that his boldness had not mischanced. For all about were the men who are making history in the best things of life in this country, and there was unquestioned inspiration just to see them and hear them talk.

Mr. Nicholson (he of "The Thousand Candles"), who looks like an active business man, finished his fine paper and took his seat with the others on the platform. Professor Lounsberry had been before Mr. Nicholson, and so had Augustus Thomas, the playwright, answering the compliment which came to him in the bestowal of the medal given each year to some man distinguishing himself particularly in creative work. Then came Mr. George W. Chadwick in a paper packed full of sterling worth. He is very eastern, even down to his "idears," as he calls them, but he has a jolly sense of humor. Then Mr. Robert Underwood Johnson read a portion of the paper of John Burroughs. Mr. Johnson is a courtly southern gentleman, and did everything with deliberation. This made him just the man for Burroughs' clear-cut meaty sentences. A lot of us were busily saturating ourselves with the spiritual substance offered when the fleshly reminder of luncheon engagement made Immortal Chairman Matthews tap Immortal Johnson on the shoulder and (figuratively) tell him to "cut it out," and the public doings were over. That is, except as such things never die, but fit themselves into the inner consciousness and make the men and women so touched and influenced, bigger and stronger.

The present exhibit of American artists is a series of brilliant galleries so arranged that the pictures have space to speak freely. At least one gains that sense of spaciousness by reason of the added rooms now available and put into service. Pictures are like people, they need elbow room to show off well. The assemblage on the afternoon of the opening, however, found but little of the commodity, for everybody and her cousin from out of town was there with the proverbial best bib and tucker. A cursory visit brought to view so many lovely things that the impression was formed that the collection thus brought together was one of the best offered in recent years and that the cubists and futurists were thoroughly routed and ignored. One can laugh good naturedly as a rule at the dissatisfaction apt to be expressed over the way the prizes are placed. The criticism is always to be expected and would be there no matter who supplied the authority. But this year one really does wonder somewhat at the motives which gave value to the "Repose" of Arthur B. Carles and secured for it the N. W. Harris prize. To elderly eyes it was a hideous distortion of a necessary factor in all healthy lives. Such a generous anatomical display should create havoc in the good Methodist soul of the prize giver. If we are any or all of us as repulsive when we are in a state of repose as this representation then we are a sorry lot. If an artist must paint such things to secure applause what chance is there for such men as Ernie Carlsen with his clear vision of a great episode, which he calls "O ye of little faith?" This is a lofty conception, not entirely realized, of Christ walking upon the water. It is brim full of imagination. So too, is "The Nightingale" of Mary L. Macomber, a composition quite out of the usual.

To paraphrase Paul Dunbar "Nothin's Right but Dreaming" in a picture gallery. One wants so much the scenes which take him out of his present and which put him where the fields and hills and valleys and waters glow and shine and breathe deeply The picture poets have sent their visions in plenty and the dreamers will have happy moments before Mary Low's "Dogwood in Bloom," Bruce Crane's adorable "Gray Fields," Kenyon Cox's "Moonrise Vision," Granville-Smith's "In the Surf," Page's "On the Quay," Redfield's "Village," Ryder's two beautiful convases, Van Boskerck's Adirondack book, and, best of all, Muendel's "Road to Darien." These and a dozen others are the meat and drink for those who haunt the Art Institute for the elixir of life—inspiration.

———♯♯♯———

Gregory.—Mr. Heathe Gregory will sing at a reception to Mrs. Harry Selfridge at the Anna Morgan Studios tomorrow afternoon. On Sunday, the 7th, he will give a recital for Mrs. Theodore Sheldon at the coming-out party of her daughter, Miss Helen, at the Fortnightly Club rooms. Mr. William E. Zeuch will be accompanist.

People & Events

MRS. BOND'S NEW SONG

The splendid advertisement of the Carrie Jacobs-Bond "God Remembers When the World Forgets," as it appeared in Music News last week, has created such a flood of inquiry that Music News readers will be glad to have this word of detail as to the song.

It was produced last July, and immediately made such a success that there was an unprecedented demand, and to date there have been sold more than seventy-five thousand copies.

This is not astonishing, in view of the immense popularity of all of the Carrie Jacobs-Bond songs and the fact that singers everywhere were eagerly awaiting a new work from her facile pen.

It is not likely that any single song ever published in America has had a more beautiful production than "God Remembers." The title page shows a drift of wild roses (the original painted by Mrs. Bond herself), and the coloring of this sketch is superb.

Typographically throughout the song is perfect and is a great credit to the publishers, the Bond Shop.

The offices of this company have been removed recently from the Fine Arts Building to 726 South Michigan avenue, where commodious and artistic quarters have been provided.

Mrs. Bond has just left for her winter home in California, where she will spend most of the winter.

———♯♯♯———

Haake—A series of Sunday afternoon musicales will be given at the Northwestern University Settlement under the direction of Charles J. Haake. These concerts will be for the benefit of the pupils and friends of the Conservatory of Music of the Settlement, this being under the direction of the University. At the first program, given last Sunday, the program was furnished by Mrs. Upjohn, Miss Doris Trafford, Mr. David Jacobs and Mr. Leon Iltis.

———♯♯♯———

Hadley.—Grant Hadley gave a recital on Wednesday, November 19, before the Country Club at Hammond, and Thanksgiving day at Ravenswood Y. M. C. A. The students' regular recital was given December 2, at the school.

TITTA RUFFO'S master
LELIO CASINI, recommends
HAMILTON
HOPKINS
(Casini's Assistant for 4 Years in Milan)
710 Fine Arts Building
CHICAGO

RECITAL IN OAK PARK

On Tuesday evening, November 25, the First Methodist Church of Oak Park was crowded with the elite and society people of Oak Park to hear the song recital of Charles W. Clark. The ushers were ladies, all in full evening dress, and the majority of the ladies and gentlemen in the large auditorium were also in full evening costume, making a beautiful and inspiring sight to greet the artist of the evening.

Mr. Clark was in fine voice and mood, and gave his five groups of songs in inimitable fashion. The beauty of voice and vocalization remains in his grasp from the lowest to the highest tone, and his high voice gave some very fine illustrations of powerful, rich tones, as well as many passages that were soft as a whisper, but yet as clear as a bell.

CHARLES W. CLARK and GORDON CAMPBELL

In the Schubert group Mr. Clark rose to a very high dramatic outburst in "Der Doppelganger," and in "Erlkonig" his representation, through voice and quality, of the various personages of the poem was truly noteworthy. The writer has never heard a better interpretation of Sidney Homer's "Uncle Rome," where the boisterous call of the "Ol' Marster" was contrasted with the almost echo effect when Ol' Marster calls the darkey home. In "How's My Boy?" the effect was most effectively dramatic.

The group of French songs towards the latter part of the program allowed some very effective sustained tones of a depth and warmth that went straight to the heart. In fact, from beginning to end, the program sustained a high degree of interest, and consistent musicianly and vocal qualities of a very superior kind.

Mr. Clark had to respond to several encores, one at the end of the first group of songs, two at the end of the second, two at the end of the third, and three at the end of the last group. His phrasing was at all times a splendid example of real musical and oratorical values that were noted by many excellent local singers who were present.

This important event cannot be passed without a word about the accompanist, Mr. Gordon Campbell. Mr. Campbell played the entire program from memory in a masterful manner, and many of the accompaniments are more difficult than solos for the instrument. The oneness of artistic accord between the singer and the accompanist was notably fine.

This concert is one of a series of three planned for by the Asbury Bible class of the church, and such enterprise seems most commendable, for it brings to the immediate locality artists of national reputation, and makes the church a center for culture and refinement. W. A. WHITE.

———♯♯♯———

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER PRAISES MARTHA S. STEELE'S VOICE AND SINGING

Martha S. Steele, the Pittsburgh contralto, spent several days in Cleveland last week engaged in musical work. She sang at several affairs, and on Sabbath day in the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, of which Mr. Rockefeller is a member. On Monday afternoon Mrs. Steele was the guest of Mr. John D. Rockefeller at his residence and on an automobile tour of the country surrounding Cleveland. Mr. Rockefeller was profuse in his praise of Mrs. Steele's voice and singing, and expressed a wish to hear and meet her again. While in Cleveland Mrs. Steele was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gay Donaldson, formerly of Pittsburgh. On December 5, Mrs. Steele will sing at the Rittenhouse, and during the first of January will appear in Johnstown at the Mendelssohn Conservatory of Music, and the latter part of the month in Erie, Pa.

———♯♯♯———

MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

Miss Mary Lindsay-Oliver of the Tri-Cities, has been playing and singing a great deal this season and has also had much success with her artist pupils; Alice Quinlan and Carl Spence, soprano and tenor, having made especially fine reputations and being much praised by the local press.

Miss Oliver appeared as pianist with the Shildkert Orchestra at Rock Island recently with much success, one of the many fine notices reading as follows:

"It was not because Miss Oliver is a local woman that she was mentioned by many as the artist of the evening. Her numbers, Schumann's "Prelude" and "Romanze," with her own composition, "Nocturne," and the "Erl King," Schubert-Liszt, were beautifully given. She was so heartily applauded that it was necessary for her to respond to an encore. She has a charming stage presence and her complete understanding of her chosen instrument and her ability as a pianist was plainly manifested in her playing last evening.

The program was a decided treat to everyone, the only regret of the evening being that more did not avail themselves of the opportunity to hear truly good music rightly played.—The Evening Mail.

(Advertisement.)

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH IN IDAHO

Frederick Preston Search has just completed a most remarkable tour through Idaho, on his way to the Pacific coast. That mountain state has gone wild over his matchless 'celo playing. Over a dozen recitals were given in representative cities and all are clamoring for return dates. At Boise he opened the annual artists' course with a monster audience. At Pocatello he has played his fifth program within eight months, and that a city where he had no previous acquaintance. From mining camp to state university comes only one story: he is capturing his audiences as has been done by no 'cellist who before him has appeared in this country.

Of his personal appearance, the chairman of the Art Leagues of the state of Idaho says:

Since Mr. Search's appearance in Pocatello the writer has examined the portraits of the world's musicians, and in not one other face is found the intentness shown in the physiognony of Frederick Preston Search."

Mrs. C. Douglass Smith, critic for the Pocatello Daily Tribune, writes:

Once again in the flight of time Pocatello has had a musical treat; and fortune has indeed been kind to us in sending us for an evening (fifth time during the year) that couplet of artists, Frederick Preston Search, the master violoncellist, and his talented accompanist, Walter Chapman. . . What shall we say of their playing together and singly It seems that the vocabulary of a musical expert might well be exhausted in an effort to describe the beauty of tone, wonderful technic, shading, expression, and entire mastery of their respective instruments. Surely no artist is so doubly blest as is Mr. Search, in that he himself is so great a genius, but that he also possesses such a rare accompanist as Mr. Chapman. . . . Music lovers who failed to be in attendance last night surely missed one of the greatest musical events it has ever been the good fortune of the people of Pocatello to hear.

At Idaho Falls Frederick Preston Search was presented by all the federated clubs of the city, suported by the Chamber of Commerce, with most distinguished social, artistic and financial success. The Idaho Register reports:

The recital last evening by Frederick Preston Search, 'cello soloist, assisted by Walter Chapman, his accompanist, was an artistic success. The large audience was most responsive and the musicians were delighted with the expressed appreciation, giving a fuller program because of it. The music-loving public realized it was a rare privilege to hear these artists. Mr. Search proved himself a master of his instrument and delighted his hearers with his beauty of tone and marvelous technic. In Mr. Chapman he is supported by a concert pianist of exceptional merit. The program opened with a group of three short numbers for the 'cello, "The Swan" by Saint-Saens, "Andante Religioso" by Becker, and Cadman's "From the Land of the Sky-Blue Water," followed by a Bach "Gavotte" and Sinding's "Serenade" for the piano. Then came the big number of the evening, the Dvorak "Concerto" for 'cello. This immortal composition is essentially classic, but the audience was thrilled by its beauty and the wonderful mastery displayed by the performer. Mr. Chapman delighted the audience with the beautiful Liszt "Lieberstraume" and a lovely Chopin "Etude." Mr. Search gave a very dainty number of his own composition, entitled the "Butterfly Waltz," followed by the always beautiful and satisfying "Traumerei" and Schubert's "Serenade." The concluding number was the first movement of a concerto by Popper, recently deceased, and acknowledged to be the most popular composer for the 'cello. The audience dispersed, gratified and conscious of having heard an artist of the highest rank.

So it goes, wherever Frederick Preston Search appears. As one distinguished critic says, "The American 'cellist has arrived." (Advertisement.)

NEWMAN IN ROME

Although hundreds of years have passed since Rome was the capital of the world, figuratively all roads still lead there. Mr. E. M. Newman's third Traveltalk at Orchestra Hall, on Wednesday evening, Friday evening and Saturday afternoon, December 3, 5 and 6, will disclose the countless attractions which lure thousands upon thousands of tourists each season, and then weave such an irresistible charm around them that they return again and again. The modern portion of the city—remarkably improved and developed in recent years—will be found no whit less interesting than the ancient, with its majestic ruins and crumbling reminders of the glory of the city during the time of the Caesars. The Forum, where new wonders are being daily brought to light by the excavations of antiquaries; the Palatine and Capitol Hills, and impressive spots outside the city walls along the Appian Way, and in the suburbs of Tivoli and Frascati, afforded Mr. Newman many opportunities for pictures of singular artistic excellence. Mr. Newman will show glimpses of St. Peter's and others of the hundreds of churches within the limits of the city, while the pictures—both still and motion—which he took in the Vatican, will reveal some of the world's best known paintings and sculptural masterpieces. Here a motion picture of the Pope will be an unusual feature.

No city in Europe contains such a variety of interesting types of humanity, and Mr. Newman's photographs emphasize the charm of these modern Romans.

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER

The following comment is from the Minneapolis Tribune of November 7:

Although the season is yet young, members of the Thursday Musical Club have already had the privilege of enjoying two artists' recitals, the second of which took the form of a piano recital by Mme. Sturkow-Ryder, yesterday afternoon. The First Baptist Church was filled with an audience, whose pleasant expectation of hearing again the talented pianist was made a delightful reality before the first number was over. When Mme. Sturkow-Ryder was heard with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, she won scores of warm friends, and her appearance of yesterday added many new admirers. Not only is the pianist an artist in the fullest sense, but she is so fortunate as to possess a charming personality, which by its frank friendliness at once puts performer and audience in the closest sympathy.

So well established is Mme. Sturkow-Ryder as an artist, that it remains for the reviewer but to readmire the exquisite delicacy of her touch, her colorful interpretation, the brilliancy of her technic, and the entire absence of effort, which marks the master in any line.

The program was most interesting, containing several novelties, without which Mme. Sturkow-Ryder seldom builds a program. Two of these, by Rhene-Baton, so delighted the audience that an enthusiastic repetition was demanded. It is difficult to accord to any number more praise than its fellows—the brilliancy of the Saint-Saens "Etude," the charm of the Arensky, the fine musical intelligence shown in the interpretation of Arthur Foote's "Prelude and Fugue," and his unusual and difficult etude for the left hand alone; the Meudelssohn "Fantasie" and the Schubert numbers, the "Impromptu in F Minor," and Mme. Sturkow-Ryder's masterly transcription of the march, opus 40, were each polished gems that afforded the musical connoisseur the keenest pleasure. (Advertisement.)

American Conservatory—Advanced pupils of Messrs. Kurt Wanieck, Frank Van Dusen, Edward Clarke, Charles LaBerge and Herbert Butler will give a recital at Kimball Hall Saturday afternoon, December 13.

William Wade

HINSHAW

Three Years Baritone of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company

Some Recent Press Comments:

Mr. Hinshaw as the King ("Aida") was admirable, both in the dignity of his impersonation and the excellence of his singing, and one of its most notable excellences lies in the clearness and intelligibility of his diction.—Richard Aldrich in New York Times.

Mr. Hinshaw, appearing in the part of Jesus in Sir Edward Elgar's "Apostles," presented by the Apollo Club, sang most effectively and with much refinement and marked dignity of style, especially in the declamation of the Beatitudes.—Chicago Tribune.

William Hinshaw, the baritone, deserves first mention, not alone because of the difficult and prominent part assigned him, but because of his thoroughly satisfactory way of singing. Nature has given Mr. Hinshaw a big voice of pleasing quality; a voice which diligent study has trained to obey every demand. A quick and unerring perception of what is musically right, a warm temperament and a loyal regard for the intentions of the composer make him that rare specimen—a singer who is likewise a musician. —Milwaukee Sentinel.

William Hinshaw was the real feature of the symphony concert yesterday afternoon. Overflowing with life, he awakened everyone in the large audience to hearty applause, which became boundless enthusiasm after the Toreador song from "Carmen." Mr. Hinshaw is mighty in stature and forceful in personality and an audience is almost in his power before his magnificent baritone voice is heard.—Denver Republican.

Already with his single appearance in Graz (Austria) alone—which marked his European debut—William Hinshaw, of the New York Metropolitan Opera House, created a brilliant impression which was still further enhanced by his vivid, original interpretation and his rich voice. His Wotan, ("Die Walkuere") vocally and dramatically, was among the finest operatic events of the season.—Grazer Volksblatt.

William Hinshaw, who sang the role of Gunther, ("Die Goetterdammerung") well deserved the sincere admiration of the musicians present, as much for the thoroughness of his musical knowledge as through the majesty of his presence, which rose toweringly above the rest of his colleagues.—Grazer Tagepost.

Mr. Hinshaw sang the Wanderer ("Siegfried") with well modulated, refined and manly voice, that was, nevertheless, capable of great climacteric power when occasion demanded.—Grazer Tageblatt.

North Shore School of Music
Broadway and Leland Ave.
Regular Courses, Certificates, Diplomas and Degrees.

Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. THEORY, Charles J. Haake. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul
ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated) TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868
CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

SUNDAY AFTERNOON CONCERT

In spite of the dismal wet weather on Sunday afternoon, November 30, a large crowd of music-lovers flocked to North Side Turner Hall to hear and see Boeppler, his orchestra and soloists in one of their best concerts of the season. This splendid and well balanced orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Boeppler, is giving to the patrons of these concerts music of high order, unique in variety and extra well rendered. Considering the environment, it did one good to notice the splendid attention given each number and the outburst of applause which followed. Especially was this noticeable during and after the rendition of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony."

The soloists of the afternoon included two members of the orchestra, Franz Wagner, 'cello, and A. J. Prochaska, clarinet, who were heard in solo parts of the number "Under the Linden Tree" by Massenet.

The principal soloist of the afternoon was the charming soprano, Else Harthan Arendt, who made a most graceful and elegant appearance. She sang "Dich theure Halle" from "Tannhauser," accompanied in most excellent style by the orchestra. Her voice rang out with glorious tone and volume in this big number, and she threw herself into the character of the piece with such abandon that an ovation was created which called her back to the platform with two encores. These numbers were in the German folk song style and were written by her father, Mr. Harthan. It would indeed be hard to find a more capable singer than Mrs. Arendt proved to be on this occasion. In her encores she had most excellent support from the piano, which was played by the regular accompanist of these concerts, Miss Grace Grove. H. M. B.

BONCI THIRD AMERICAN TOUR SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York Knabe Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER
CONTRALTO
Personal Address, 1003 Heberton St., Pittsburgh, Pa. Management Haensel & Jones, Aeolian Hall, New York

MARIE NARELLE AUSTRALIAN SOPRANO
Management SUTORIUS
ABBIE S. FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall, Sole Representative No. 1 West 34th St.

MR. & MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS Address 330 West 58th St. NEW YORK CITY

PIANIST BACHAUS
Management Loudon Charlton
BALDWIN PIANO USED

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address — Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av. NEW YORK

BISPHAM All communications to
Private Address 44 West 44th St. NEW YORK

NEWS OF THE N. A. O.

The New York members of the National Association of Organists gathered in goodly numbers at the Hotel Gerard on Monday evening, November 17, for their first "get-together dinner" of the season. Dr. J. Christopher Marks presided, and in his opening remarks said that the National Association was now growing rapidly and very soon every organist in the land would be a number. T. Tertius Noble, organist of St. Thomas Church, was called upon for a speech, and during his remarks said that he was glad to be at this dinner, proud that he was a member of the N. A. O., that was doing so much in bringing into one fraternal organization all organists, no matter what their positions in the musical world might be. There was no room for pride nor conceit in this profession, for there is always "a better man." He gave a very humorous account of his experiences playing a "melodeon" at St. Thomas' Church, while the new organ was being installed. In closing, he hoped that every organist in this country would recognize the value of being a member of the association, and pledged himself to work for its interests.

Gottfried Federlien, secretary of the American Guild of Organists, was the next speaker. He said that he had been a member of the N. A. O. since the first meeting seven years ago. There was absolutely no conflict between the guild and this organization. He spoke very emphatically against the practice of giving free organ recitals, saying that neither the organist nor his instrument will ever be considered seriously until this free service is done away with. Violinists, pianists, singers and other musicians are not giving any free recitals. He was glad that these dinners are to be held every month; it is the only way of bringing the members of the profession together.

Herbert S. Sammond read an excellent paper on "How Can the Young Organist Become a Proficient Choirmaster." He gave many valuable suggestions, and the paper was heartily applauded. F. W. Riesberg of the Musical Courier spoke on the work of the association. Dr. James Pearce of Yonkers and several others made brief remarks. It was decided to hold the next dinner at the same place on Tuesday evening, December 9. A change was made in the night, in order to meet the desires of those who could never attend on a Monday night. It is likely that the following dinner will be on Wednesday night.

———###———

Messiah.—The Apollo Musical Club will give two performance of Handel's "Messiah" during the Christmas holidays, Monday, December 29, and Friday, January 2. Two solo artists engaged for both concerts are Arthur Middleton, bass, and Reed Miller, tenor.

CADMAN IN SOUTH BEND

South Bend heard, and met socially, and thoroughly liked, a most noted man last week—Charles Wakefield Cadman. He made three appearances first an informal talk on the subject nearest his heart, Indian music, before the Woman's Literary Club on Thursday night, illustrated by his own characteristic piano playing; in a public concert, the second in the artist concert course of the South Bend Conservatory at the Oliver Theater on Friday evening, and before the several hundred students of St. Mary's Academy, Notre Dame, on Saturday afternoon, and was given an informal reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton B. Griffith on Saturday evening. . The program for the Oliver concert and the one at St. Mary's were exactly the same and included the assistance of Milton B. Griffith, tenor, vocally illustrating his compositions and by Hal G. Van Aiken, violinist, and Hans Roeder, 'cellist, in his new trio in D major, which is yet in MS., played here for the first time in its history. Mr. Cadman was received with great enthusiasm everywhere and made many new friends. In fact, to just meet Mr. Cadman is to like him. To learn to really know him makes one wax warm and glow with enthusiasm over his wonderful talent and personality. The following was the program presented in the public concerts:

PART ONE

(Miscellaneous)

Trio in D major (from MS. first time in South Bend)
Allegro moderato
Andante cantabile (Romance)
Vivace energico
Mr. Hal Van Aiken, violin; Mr. Hans Roeder, 'cello; Mr. Cadman at the piano

Songs—
I Found Him on the Mesa
At Dawning
Call Me No More
Mr. Griffith

Piano numbers—
Melody in G flat
The Pompadour's Fan

PART TWO

The "Indian Music-talk"

The Old Man's Love Song (Omaha tribal song) ..... Farwell

Examples of primitive music used as an analogy:
The Omaha Tribal Prayer (Sung in Indian)
A Gregorian Chant of the Seventh Century (in Latin)
An Ancient Egyptian Chant (in Arabic vocables)

A demonstration of involved rhythms of two Omaha songs showing the use of opposite tempi maintained by Indians.

Some Harmonized Songs—
Her Shadow (Ojibway) ..... Frederick Burton
In the Forest (Ojibway) ..... Frederick Burton
Blanket Song or Lover's Wooing... Carlos Troyer

Exhibition of native musical instruments and some flageolet songs played on this instrument by Mr. Cadman

Idealized Songs—
Far Off I Hear a Lover's Flute (Omaha)
From the Land of the Sky-blue Water (Omaha)

Piano Numbers—
The Chattering Squaw (Cree Humoresque)..... Loomis
Beside the Niobrara (Omaha)

Songs—
The White Dawn is Stealing (Iroquois)
The Moon Drops Low (Omaha)

Note.—All the songs and piano music are by Mr. Cadman unless otherwise designated.

———♯♯♯———

Burdick—Miss Marie Andrews, contralto, pupil of Miss Sara Burdick, substituted at two services at the Pilgrim Congregational church, November 23, and also Thanksgiving day services.

ANNA GROFF-BRYANT AND SOMETHING ABOUT HER PUPILS

A cablegram received from Berlin announces the engagement of Miss Edythe Van Styke Gibson to sing coloratura roles in grand opera, Berlin, Germany, for the season of 1913-1914. It will be remembered that Miss Gibson has been heard in many of the musical programs of the Anna Groff-Bryant Institute, during the five years that she was a pupil of that school, and a private pupil of Mrs. Groff-Bryant. After her graduation she was elected assisting teacher of the institute. The opera craze took her abroad to study the opera and the languages in Paris and Berlin, which has resulted in the recent operatic engagement.

Mrs. Lillian Fleckman-McKinny, lyric soprano, is meeting with the usual success that her artistic worth merits. She is the possessor of a pure lyric type of voice with a phenomenal range and the prima donna high E and G fame. Her voice is brilliant, sweet, flexible and with a distinct dramatic value seldom heard in a lyric voice. Musicians who have heard her sing have compared her voice and art to that of Tetrazzini, and her singing of "Elsa Traum" equaled that of a dramatic soprano.

Mrs. McKinny will give a song-program for the auxiliary of the Birchwood Country Club, Evanston, on December 3.

On November 18 she gave a song program before the student body of Lombard College, where she was forced to respond to several encores, which were followed with prolonged applause.

JENNY DUFAU

In "Lucia" at Philadelphia:

"The whole opera was a testimony to the abundant ability of the company in a general way, and to the splendid vocal endowments of Jenny Dufau in a particular way. This soprano sang the woes of Lucia with wondrous charm, and more clearly than ever before demonstrated her capability for a role that requires the exercise of the highest talents in the singer-actress. Her voice was a dominant factor in the beautifully sung sextet; and her work as she simulated madness in the next scene, was rapturously applauded. In all her scenes she appeared a most gracious woman, and hers was a real triumph which must surely add to the good will a Philadelphia audience has always manifested toward her as an artiste.—The Philadelphia Record. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

Eddy—Mrs. Clarence Eddy, the distinguished dramatic contralto, will give a program of French, German and English songs under the auspices of the Walter Spry Music School, Saturday afternoon, December 6, at 2:30 o'clock, in Suite 825, Fine Arts Building. Mrs. Eddy will have the assistance of Mr. Spry, Mr. Krauss and Mr. Klammsteiner, who will be heard in the Beethoven Trio.

———♯♯♯———

Stein—Miss Cora Beier, pupil of Karl Buren Stein, sang at the Forum Club last Sunday afternoon, and was given a very rousing reception. Her lyric soprano voice is one of beauty and it shows very excellent training.

PROF. BERTRAND DE BERNYZ
VOICE SPECIALIST
also concerts and oratorios in Carnegie Hall & Aeolian Hall.
First teacher of Frieda Hempel, Metropolitan opera star, acknowledged by New York music critics as only successful rival of Mmes. Patti, Melba and Sembrich, also teacher of many other eminent concert and operatic artists. Special course in TONE PRODUCTION, INTERPRETATION and OPERATIC ENSEMBLE. Special features: OPERA-PERFORMANCES in NEW YORK THEATERS.
Information, 58 W. 72nd St., New York City, "The Adrian"

Wm. Alfred White
522 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Practical Theory

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY MURRISON MABEL
Bass-Baritone Pianist
Oratorio Accompanist
Concert
JOINT-RECITALS
Alliance Ohio

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD Director

BY
E. E. FREER
A Carol
(Song, in Two Keys)
A Christmas Carol
(Quartet for Mixed Voices)
Obtainable at
Clayton F. Summy Co.'s
64 E. Van Buren St. Chicago, Ill.
Recommended For All Churches.

HENRY FOOTE PERRIN
DIRECTOR OF MUSIC
In Europe Season 1913-14 79 Goethe St., Berlin, W.

DELMA-HEIDE
MAESTRO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

JOHN R. RANKL Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building Phone Harrison 6880

ELLA C. BIGELOW
TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE
AKRON, OHIO

Julius BRANDER
VIOLINIST TEACHER
54 Auditorium Bldg. Home Phone Edgewater 2755

AMERICAN ARTISTS IN THE CHICAGO GRAND OPERA COMPANY

(Continued from page 3)

Throughout the season, the American singers are scheduled for important roles, and naturally, they dominate in the Saturday evening performances, when opera in English is being given. The list of operas announced for this series and the casts are of such variety and excellence that no one can doubt but that they will furnish a complete and convincing test of the value of opera in the vernacular.

The American singers in the Chicago Opera Company are not, however, limited to English text singing, for without exception they are among the most accomplished of linguists, and their appearances in German, French and Italian operas are on a par with that of their colleagues of other births.

———♯♯♯———

Faust—When Gounod's "Faust" was first produced, the European critics did not like it, and a New York journalist declared there was only one melody in the whole opera. The London critics went to Paris and wrote scoffing accounts of it to their papers. There was one conspicuous exception—H. Chorley. He recognized its possibilities, but the managers and publishers were guided by the adverse verdict of the others. Finally Chorley persuaded Tom Chappell to venture as much as forty pounds on the opera. He bought the English rights and made a fortune. As for Chorley, he made for the opera, when first produced in London, an English version, which has been in use at Covent Garden for half a century.—The Nation.

———♯♯♯———

Fitch.—Mrs. Wilbur Fitch has been soloist on two fine programs, during the last two weeks. The first at a birthday memorial in honor of the late John H. Vanderpoel, of the Art institute. Mrs. Fitch's songs were well chosen for the occasion, they were "Harmony," Del Riego; "Birth of Morn," Leoni, and "A Perfect Day," Bond.

———♯♯♯———

McGranahan—Mr. Thomas McGranahan, Chicago tenor, sang at Ashland, Wis., on Monday; Plymouth, Ind., Tuesday, and will be at Springfield, Ill., this (Friday) evening.

4
GREAT AUSTRALIAN TOURS

DAVID BISPHAM Opening at Sidney May 31, 1913
MADAME LILLIAN NORDICA Opening at Sydney July 26, 1913
MISCHA ELMAN Opening at Sydney June, 1914
MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK Opening at Sydney June, 1915

Under Exclusive Management and Personal Direction of
Frederic Shipman
American Address 3835 Flournoy St., Chicago
Australian Address Hotel Australia, Sydney

MUSICAL MATTERS

J. S. VAN CLEVE

New York is now fully awake musically, and it is simply bewildering. Not a day passes but some friend asks me eagerly "Did you hear So-and-So's recital yesterday?" or "Are you coming to the symphony concert this evening?" I am like Richard Blackmore's quaint, delicious hero, John Ridd, who said: "I answered, I do not know, sir; an expression which has always been a favorite of mine, as it is so often needed." So, I say, there are some thousand or more first rate hotels in New York, and I do not doubt that the Ritz, Carleton, the St. Regis, the Hotel Astor, the Waldorf, the Plaza and all the rest have excellent table d'hote dinners, but one a day for me is enough. The churches do not reach their high-tide till Christmas, but there is excellent music, new and old, great and small, sung by singers, good, better and best, to be heard every Lord's day; and so Sunday to a weary musician is not so much a day of rest as a field-day.

A remarkable recital was lately given at the Aeolian Hall, our present sacred place for concerts of the recital and medium-big sort, by Miss Florence Hinkle. This lady is the soprano at the West End Collegiate Church, and is an absolutely American product, a fact of which she and we all are justly proud. Her voice is a pure, brilliant high soprano, and her art is in so advanced a state that I feel it necessary to pour a cup of ice water upon my enthusiasm lest I should become extravagant. I venture the assertion, however, that she will be a world-famous singer, unless all present indications fail. Her voice is of sufficient volume, is of pure timbre, has been brought to an even scale, and her breath control is so perfect that steady tones, exquisite nuances, and sustained phrasings are constant with her. One of her most conspicuous merits I find to be enunciation very near to the point of perfection. During the entire program (lasting an hour and a half) I did not miss more than a half dozen words, and I did not need to strain my attention, or use any guesswork, either. There are three things which in my opinion are never to be tolerated in singers, and the slightest example of them is a defect to be mentioned and blamed. These three things are first singing off key; second, forcing the upper third of the scale; and third, blurring the words. Of these three demerits it is not easy to select the most heinous. Of course, singing sharp or flat is the fly in the ointment which maketh the whole pot stink (Observe! These words are King Solomon's, as found in the King James version). The second is distressing to such a degree that we nearly always squirm when undergoing the discharge of altitudinous fortissimos; and as to the last, nothing more cools and depresses the poetic impression of a song than the catching of only a word now and again. I go still further and maintain that a singer must make us know just what the poet has said, down to the minutest consonant. This is difficult, but is imperative.

In my long experience as a trainer of

The Piano Pedals By MRS. A. M. VIRGIL, Clear, Concise, Melodious, Results Unequaled. Price $1.00. Sale unparalleled. Address Dept. C.
The Virgil Piano School Co. 42 West 76th St., New York

voices, I have found more difficulty in securing real enunciation than any other one of the dozen or more essentials of good vocal art.

The Scottish poet Robert Burns made a famous poem upon a lady at church who was displaying with poignant vanity a new and gaily decorated bonnet, on the topmost feather of which a healthy louse was disporting itself, and he said: "Ah, wad some power the giftie gie us, To see ourselves as ithers see us," and I paraphrase the couplet thus:

"O, were the wisdom ever near us
To hear ourselves as others hear us."

In my long experience as a voice trainer, I have often been compelled to bring my pupils to the vexation-point by repeating after them the exact thing which I heard them say. Not seldom did they think I was quizzing them, and that was when I was especially attentive and sincere. I offer this challenge to the readers of the Music News. Try any song you like on some listener and ask to have the entire sentence of the poetry repeated to you, and if oftener than once in ten times it can be done with a sentence of six or more words, I will give you a year's tuition free of charge.

Miss Hinkle sang a program ranging from Haendel to the latest American music, and in Italian, German, French and English, and in each language her enunciation was nearly of equal excellence.

The Musicians' Club has been taking on a most vivid and brilliant life of late, and what with banquets attended by nearly two hundred guests, the regular Sunday night ten o'clock concerts, and a newly inaugurated series of monthly chamber music concerts, illustrated lectures and composer's concerts, to say nothing of the social use of the beautiful rooms for chatting, reading and rehearsing, there is a life about it which is quite unique.

I have been a member of all manner of musical, literary and social clubs, and am so still, but I can not parallel this new Musicians' Club of Greater New York. There is a movement on foot to obtain a large and exclusive club-house, and all enterprising musicians, whether pianists, organists, singers, orchestral artists, composers, or earnest lovers of the art, can do nothing better, either for self or for art, than to associate themselves, either as city or out-of-town members, with this club, which is an earnest effort to unify in fraternal relations and mutual helpfulness the various devotees of our supremely beautiful art.

At the first banquet of the season Mr. Walter Damrosch made a clever little speech, and excellent musical numbers were given by Dr. Frederick Martin, Dan Beddoe, Mrs. Florence Otis, Miss Volava pianiste, and others of excellent caliber.

———♯♯♯———

Miller.—John B. Miller will be the soloist with the Boeppler Orchestra at North Side Turner Hall on Sunday afternoon.

MR. SILBER PLAYS IN LINCOLN

Following is some comment of the Lincoln press on the very successful piano recital given by Sidney Silber recently:

Many persons attending the piano recital given at the Temple Monday evening by Sidney Silber declared that it was a triumph even over former brilliant recitals given by this artist. However that might be, last night's recital provided a perfect evening's enjoyment for the large assemblage of music lovers gathered to hear it.

. . . . . .

Sidney Silber gave a brilliant piano recital last night at the Temple theater before a large and enthusiastic audience. The program was long and taxing but in response to recalls the pianist consented to add three extra numbers, one at the close of the beautiful group of poetic Chopin numbers, when the Chopin etude in A flat, known as the "harp study," was played, and two for the double encore after the last number. These latter were Dvorak's "Humoresque," which ended in an improvisation by Mr. Silber of the "Suwanee River" theme, and an etude by Juon.

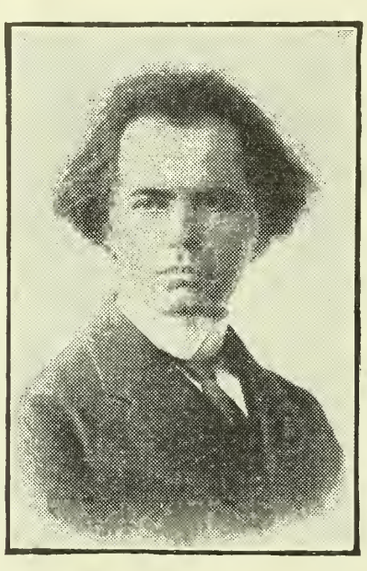
Following Mr Silber's usual arrangement of programs, the heaviest number, the MacDowell "Sonata Tragica," came first. Then followed the Chopin group, and some novelties of the poetic order, and closed with the brilliant technic of the Glazounoff-Blumenfeld "Concert Waltz." The most important of the novelties, "A Story of Love," by Erich J. Wolff, as interpreted by Mr. Silber, became romance personified. The concert was most satisfying throughout and brought added laurels to the performer. (Advertisement.)

MME. GERVILLE REACHE'S TRIUMPH IN CANADA

"The season began a week ago, but the real opening night was last night, when Gerville Reache appeared in the part of Delilah." Thus writes the critic of the Montreal Presse. All his colleagues voice the same opinion of the great contralto's success. "Every box and every seat was filled," the Gazette states, adding: "One cannot realize how much of last night's success was due to the ability of the interpreter until one begins to analyze the performance. To Mme. Gerville Reache naturally falls the greatest share of praise." "There was absolutely no flaw in Mme. Gerville Reache's portrayal of Delilah. . . One would have to delve into one's vocabulary of laudatory adjectives only to find that they would not suffice. —Daily Mail.

"Mme. Gerville Reache, with her rich, warm tone and her splendid artistry, left nothing to be desired, and in her scene as the triumphant courtesan reached the heights. . . . Besides being the possessor of a contralto voice of organ-like fullness and mellowness, she is a great actress."—Herald.

(Advertisement.)



Jan Kubelik

Writes as follows of the

Mason & Hamlin

Mason & Hamlin Co.,
Gentlemen: It is with the utmost pleasure that I contemplate my tour in this country with your wonderful piano for an accompanying instrument. Its remarkable tone qualities will prove most satisfying to me and most pleasing to my audience.
Sincerely yours,

Jan Kubelik

Mason & Hamlin Pianos on exhibition and sale only at store of

Wabash and Jackson Cable Piano Company CHICAGO

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
304 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 7931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 11139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

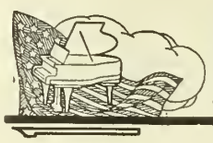
HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
309 KIMBALL HALL Teacher of Singing
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON



Music in America

YREKA, CALIFORNIA

Frederick Preston Search, after most distinguished success in the northwest, is now in California, playing to great audiences at Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and other cities in that land of musical appreciation. Particularly interesting to him is his recovery of several cities in northern California and southern Oregon which had been lost in his last year's itinerary by an enforced cancellation of dates in order to get to Los Angeles on time for his famous recital in the Temple Auditorium before an audience of over 4,000. The failure of a postmaster to properly forward certain important letters had resulted in the double booking of the third week in last December. Mr. Behymer had announced the 'cellist for a great convention recital in Los Angeles, and, with no word of this, another manager had packed the same week with seven recitals in that many different cities, a thousand miles to the north. All four of these cities, thus necessarily canceled, not by the soloist's fault, but through the inexcusable carelessness of an entrusted postmaster, have now been redated. Yreka, California, and Klamath Falls, Oregon, completing the list with concerts given in these cities last week.

It is difficult for eastern people to realize the virility and musical interest of some of these smaller places in the far west, the small towns there often putting to shame many cities of the east. Yreka is a splendid example of this extraordinary pride and enterprise. Here is a city of only 3,000 inhabitants, but big enough to recently telegraph Schumann-Heink an offer of $1,500 for a date. As Schumann-Heink could not come, Frederick Preston Search was secured for the same date. Under the efficient management of Miss Josephine Colby, the musical genius and Civic Club leader of this progressive place, the 'cello recital was promoted to magnificent success. With the evening came the ranchers from fifty miles around, the town being full of arriving automobiles with their loads of hungry music-lovers. The soloist, who had been wondering what he had been sent to that little town for, looked on with amazement at the people assembling from long distances and crowding to the opera house. The audience proved one of the most enjoyable and appreciative on his entire trip. Miss Colby, who has presented many eminent musicians in this interesting place, and is herself a most capable critic, in reporting this concert writes:

"Frederick Preston Search is undoubtedly the greatest artist who ever played in Yreka. From the first masterful stroke of his bow in the Dvorak 'Concerto' to the last soft vanishing note of MacDowell's 'Wild Rose' he delighted his audience. The variety of tone at Mr. Search's command is wonderful; his greatness, however, lies in his power of interpretation. He may well be compared to Harold Bauer in the tremendous sweep of his conception and the vigor of his execution; while in the balance and clarity of his interpretation he recalls the exquisite playing of Kreisler." This high success is to the credit not only of visiting artist, but also, preeminently to the honor of this worthy community center which, under capable leadership, responds so generously in musical appreciation. All honor to big little Yreka. We expect to report the larger city appearances next week.

KALAMAZOO, MICH.

A recital-reception was given by the Kalamazoo Musical Society on last Monday evening, the program being as follows:

Ritorna Vincitor from "Aida".....Verdi
Mildred Hanson-Hostetter
Valse Caprice in B Flat.....Chaminade
Miss Frances Leavens
Air Des Roses from "Damnation of Faust".....Berlioz
Dormiro sol from "Don Carlo".....Verdi
Harper C. Maybee
Caprice Espagnol.....Moszkowski
H. Glenn Henderson
Ah, Love but a Day.....Beach
Dearest.....Homer
The Birthday.....Woodman
Mildred Hanson-Hostetter
In der Nacht.....Schumann
Miss Margaret B. Cobb
La ci darem la mano from "Don Giovanni".....Mozart
La dove Prende from "Magic Flute".....Mozart
Mr. and Mrs. Harper C. Maybee
H. Glenn Henderson, Accompanist

UPLAND, INDIANA

Following is the program which was given by Miss Elsie MacGregor on the handsome new pipe organ installed in the Methodist Church at Upland, Indiana. Taylor University is located at Upland, and consequently many of the students and professors were present.

The organ was built by the Barkhoff Company of Basic City, Va.

Fifth Sonata
Allegro Appassionato. Adagio. Scherzo
Recitativo, Choral and Fugue ..... Guilmant
Evensong ..... Johnston
Humoreske ..... Dvorak
Toccata and Fugue, D minor.....Bach
Menuett ..... Beethoven
Adoration .....Borowski
Allegro assai vivace, Sonata No. 1..... Mendelssohn

Hutter.—Mr. C. A. Hutter will present the following list of pupils in a recital at Kimball Hall this evening. Hattie Feldman, Harry Quinn, Mr. Carroll, Helen Hawkins, Raymond Barker, Margaret Hargarten, Mrs. D. J. May, Charles Sinclair, Mr. Long, Patricia Kelley, John Goldthwaite, John McIntyre, Kathryn Kees, James Kane, May McFarland, Waldo McCabe and Mrs. Widman. Estella Byrd will accompany.

Lutton.—Mr. Charles E. Lutton sang at the annual banquet of the Evanston branch of the Chicago Medical Society recently. "The Song of Saul," by Grant-Schaeffer (inscribed to Mr. Lutton) was especially well received, Mr. Grant-Schaefer appearing as accompanist. Other numbers were by Homer, Hughes, Speaks, Trevelsa, Peel and Newton.

Miss Winifred Lamb, pianiste, will be heard in recital Sunday, December 14, at 3:30, at the Fine Arts Theater.

NEW HAVEN, CONNECTICUT

The twentieth season of the New Haven Symphony Orchestra commenced the winter's course Tuesday evening, November 4. Professor Horatio Parker took up his baton as director after a year's absence in Europe.

The symphony played was the A minor of Saint-Saens. The orchestra was most successful in bringing out the beautiful characteristics of this French work, which for the greater part are dainty and elegant. A novelty, played for the first time in America, was the beautiful tone-poem by Delius. It did not meet with a generous reception, owing to its complexity.

Mr. Herbert Witherspoon was the soloist.

Under the auspices of the Dorscht Lodge Beethoven's "Fidelio" was given on Sunday evening, the 23rd, in the Grand Opera House, by New York soloists, augmented by a chorus of New Haven singers. Mr. Walter Goldie was conductor, while Mr. Louis Bower was the stage manager. Miss Minna Langenhahn assumed the title role and gave to the music dramatic force, which the opera demands. It will be remembered that Teresa Tietjens was considered to be the best "Fidelio" of her time.

The orchestra, sixty in number, did splendid work, especially in the "Third Symphony," which so many are familiar with, having been played so often by the best orchestras. It is a pity that "Fidelio" is not in the modern theater's programs, as the greater part of the opera is intensely interesting. The opera was well staged and sung.

Friday, November 28, Walter Damrosch, with his orchestra, will play at the Hyperion Theater. Gadski will be the soloist. A strictly Wagner program will be performed. Excerpts from six of his best opera dramas will form a most interesting program which will please the many music-lovers who will probably fill the theater.

MADAME TEALDI.

♯ ♯ ♯

COLUMBUS, OHIO

The Columbus Woman's Music Club presented Mr. Adolph Foerster, composer, last Tuesday, when his works were interpreted by a number of Columbus artists. The program follows:

Exaltation ..... Foerster
Miss Rathbun
L' Eslave ..... Eduard Lalo
Outre tes yeux bleu ..... Massenet
Der Spielman ..... Hildach
Der Traum (Hansel und Gretel) ..... Humperdinck
Mrs. Hatch
Homage to Rubinstein ..... Foerster
Exultation, Op. 37, No. 1 ..... Foerster
Mrs. Ruth
Unfathomable Sea ..... Foerster
Calm Be Thy Sleep ..... Foerster
Mrs. Aler
Love's Litany
Those Eyes of Thine
Unceasing Love
Ave Maria
..... Foerster
Mrs. Parnell
Mrs. Mills, organ; Mr. Foerster, piano; Miss Cockins, violin
Suite, Op. 46, Prelude—Intermezzo Waltz ..... Foerster
Miss Schmidt
Novelette, Op. 36 ..... Foerster
Mrs. Combs
Fulfillment ..... Wilson G. Smith
Welcome Sweet Wind ..... Cadman
The Star ..... James H. Rogers
Tomorrow ..... Henschel
Mrs. Hatch

ERIE, PENNSYLVANIA

The past week has been a very busy one for musical Erie. On Tuesday night Mrs. Edwin Brevillier presented one of her most talented pupils, Isabel Hunt, in a very interesting song recital. Miss Hunt's program consisted of songs by Brahms, Grieg, Rubinstein, Blumenthal, Reichardt, Becker, Dowling, Thayer and Haynes, and was in every number received with great enthusiasm. Miss Hunt has a lovely mezzo-soprano voice and, combined with a keen intelligence and unusually clear enunciation, she is bound to make herself known to the musical world at large within a very short time.

♮ ♮ ♮

On Thanksgiving night Erie was treated to about the poorest bit of "grand opera" that has been heard here within the writer's memory. Advance notices announced "Grand opera singers from the Boston Opera House," but it is very doubtful if any of this aggregation of singers ever sang in the Boston Opera House—unless in the chorus. The least said about the whole performance the better, and the one bright feature of the evening was the singing of one Mme. Di Gabbi in an otherwise very inferior performance of "Cavalleria Rusticana." A concert program was given before the opera, but we will kindly draw the curtain over the singing of the quartet from "Rigoletto," the sextet from "Lucia," and other selections from the operas.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Woman's Club presented Miss Sue Harvard, soprano, of Pittsburgh, as the leading feature of a very delightful program preceding their annual ball in Masonic Hall on Friday evening, November 28. Miss Harvard was heard for the first time in Erie. She will be warmly welcomed upon her return. Mrs. James Neeld, a local violinist, contributed to the program several interesting numbers, and Miss Lois Berst, who is the director of the Woman's Club Chorus, was a very efficient accompanist.

♯ ♯ ♯

Wildman-Osborn—Mrs. Sarah Wildman-Osborn, organist of the North Shore Congregational Church for the last six and a half years, has been granted a leave of absence for several months. Mr. Walter Spry will be the substitute organist.

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers
Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on
KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

MYRTLE Elvyn
RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Kimball Piano Used
Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Concert Direction M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av. New York

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
"A Ladder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys 50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice 50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO Phone Austin 12717
CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT
5943 OHIO STREET

WILLIAM HINSHAW
Of the Metropolitan Opera Company
BARITONE
Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

TO RENT—Time in Studio; 84 Auditorium Bldg. Apply any morning.

HARMONY and composition by mail. Raymond Robinson, organist and choirmaster of Central Church, Boston. Address 6 Newbury st., Boston, Mass.

TO RENT—Unusually large Studio equipped with Grand and Upright piano, electric lights and fan. Reception room with telephone in connection. Tuesdays and Fridays from 3 o'clock on; 516 Kimball Hall.

GEORGE W. MUNRO

Voice Specialist

Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.

Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.

Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.

Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

Chicago Concert Trio

ALBERT E. FOX, Piano WILLIAM HOFMAN, Violin
MARJORIE DODGE WARNER Soprano
Management Charles E. Watt Kimball Hall, Chicago

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

Wm. Clare Hall

Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Hazel Dell Neff

PLYMOUTH SOPRANO - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN

PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street. RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.

COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Helnemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN

SOPRANO
Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital
429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

LOS ANGELES

A highly meritorious program by the faculty of the Egan Music and Dramatic School was given last week. The Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra of fifty of its members took an important part not only in the overture of "Waltarlied" by Herr Tandler, the director, but in concerto for piano, 'cello and violin, and also musical dramatic readings and vocal solos.

The piano work of Grieg's "Concerto in A Minor" by Brahm Van Den Berg was marvelous in execution and interpretation and elicited vociferous applause. "Das Hexenlied," reading by Mr. Egan, with the orchestral setting by Schilling, is a classic in its line. The closing with Guilmant's "Pastorale and Finale" to "Fifth Symphony," by orchestra and organ, which was played by Mr. Charles H. Demorest. The vocal, violin, piano and 'cello solos were in keeping with the special numbers mentioned in grade and artistic rendition.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Western Metropolitan Opera Company opened its season of two or three weeks, presenting Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," with Carmen Melis in the name role, in which she captured the entire audience. Luca Botti, in the part of "Pinkerton," shared equally with honors of the leading part. The orchestra chorus and staging is equal to the best operatic work put on the boards in the best cities of musical taste and complete requirement.

In the double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" was another great evening of operatic pleasure. The author of the last, Ruggiero Leoncavallo, conducted with the skill of a master at the baton and brought out the beauty of his composition. The "Prologue" given by Montesanto was as fine a rendition as we are able to hear by anyone. The appreciation of his art and charming voice demanded a repetition. He was none the less effective in the part of "Silvio" in the opera.

Pietro Schiavazza as tenor in "Rusticana" is worthy of special mention. His is a lyric tenor with a pleasant quality of voice.

Lucia Crestani as "Santuzza" carried her part most effectively. "Alfio," by A. Modisto, displayed a voice character and vitality in the bass register, who also effectively sang "Tonio" in "Pagliacci" with Maria Mosciska as "Nedda" and Chiodo, tenor, as "Canio" in the same opera.

Their first performances surely bespeak a good patronage from those who appreciate good performances.

♮ ♮ ♮

The popular program of the People's Orchestra was most happily received, all of good order and so well played that they would give pleasure in any list of the best music. They comprised "Poet and Peasant," Chopin's "Funeral Marche," "Artist's Life" by Strauss, "Lucia Sextet," "Miserere," with Miss Mabel Clark, soprano, and Mr. Joseph Dupuy in the characters of "Leonora" and "Manrico;" also closing with Herold's "Zampa" overture.

♮ ♮ ♮

Some very commendable programs have been given by our best high schools. The Choral Club presented, with fifty voices, Arthur S. Sullivan's "The Prodigal Son." It is well to acquaint the youthful students with works of such musical merit, yet it is a question if unprepared voices in tone production and breath control, to say nothing of the state of the youthful mind to grasp the depth of dramatic content and feeling, as embodied in that grade of text. They are to be commended for their mastery of the tune, rhythm and harmony, but it could hardly be expected that an effective rendition could be given by vocal and mental unpreparedness due to youth and lack of individual training. Lighter and happier lines of study would be more fitting. The experiment may suggest the proper selections. Miss Verna C. Blythe, director, is to be congratulated for the very arduous work in preparation, with the assistance of Miss Mary E. Haynes, the accompanist.

The miscellaneous program in the Manual Arts High School, conducted by Miss Mary Esta Groves, with a good part musical numbers, using the High School Orchestra, and physical and dramatic presentations, gave an opportunity for a varied line of talent.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Frieda Peycke and Mrs. Beatrice Hubbell-Plummer gave an entertainment of exquisite pleasure in a program of pianologues, in which Miss Peycke excels in humorous recitation with unique expressive accompaniment. They are clever and of much interest and would incite a happy delight with child nature. They seem to give much pleasure to older people as well.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Linne will make their home here, and he is engaged in writing an opera. His orchestral work, latcly performed here, indicates a good preparation for such a composition as opera.

S. W. MOUNTZ.

♯♯♯

ZANESVILLE, OHIO

A very appreciative audience greeted the director and teachers of the Zanesville School of Music last evening. Each number, from the wonderful Rubinstein "Concerto in E Major," for two pianos, to the close of the program, was thoroughly given and appreciated. Every requisite for the accomplished musician was in evidence throughout the entire program. Temperament, technical strength and velocity, wonderful power of memory and beauty of tone could well be said of each performer.

The program was as follows:

Concerto E major, two pianos (A. Rubinstein); moderato, andante con moto, allegro—Mr. Buckmeyer and Miss Porter.

"In Native Worth" (Haydn)—Mr. Whitcomb, tenor; Mr. Spencer at the piano.

Piano solo, Mazurka Caprice—Wollenhaupt, Op. 28—Miss Martha Spence.

Violin solo, "Thais," Meditation (Massenet); Serenade A major (Drdla)—Mr. Buckmeyer; Miss Mary Patterson at the piano.

Piano solo, "Fruhlingsrauchen" (Christian Sinding); "Le Sylvains" (Chaminade)—Mr. Buckmeyer.

Largo (Handel)—Mr. Whitcomb, tenor; Mr. Spencer, piano; Mr. Buckmeyer, violin obligato.

MINNEAPOLIS

A goodly number of chamber music enthusiasts assembled last Wednesday evening, after a month of anticipation, for the 'cello recital of Cornelius Van Vliet. The program claimed interest from the start. It was an historical series, including a solo sonata of N. Porpora of the early eighteenth century, two morceaux of Mozart and Gossec, the sonata in A major of Beethoven, two solos from the Dutch composers Schravesande and Jeral, and the Strauss F major sonata.

Both the Beethoven and the Strauss sonatas are scored for 'cello and piano; the difficult piano part was adequately played by Mrs. Louise P. Albee of this city. The Beethoven, tried and true, opened the program and was enough in itself to have made attendance at the recital worth one's while. It is poetry from start to finish, and Mr. Van Vliet showed himself again a poet in its interpretation. The Strauss sonata, though less well known, was most enthusiastically received. Though many times recalled after each group, Mr. Van Vliet responded with an encore only at the end of the program, giving then a charming transcription of MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose."

♮ ♮ ♮

Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra

The concert this week will go down in the annals of the orchestra as "Hinton day." Arthur Hinton, the noted English composer, was present to hear the first performance in America of his "C Minor Symphony." He may well be pleased with the cordial reception both he and the symphony received from the Minneapolis audience. The symphony is modern in many of its effects, and like all new things ought not to be judged at first hearing. It was played first under the baton of Sir Charles Stanford in London in 1905.

The soloist of the evening was Katherine Goodson (Mrs. Arthur Hinton in private life). She was heard in the Paderewski brilliant "A Minor Concerto." "What a whirlwind she is," was a chance remark overheard, and indeed she was. But she showed herself in another mood—that of great poetic reflection—in the Chopin "Romance," played as her second encore. Katherine Goodson is a pianist of first rank and a true artist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Georgia Kober, the well known Chicago pianist, made a most successful appearance at the Sunday popular concert, November 16, in the "A Minor Concerto" of Grieg. The concerto, though built on classic lines, is full of both rich and delicate Norwegian themes. It is less brilliant than the majority of concertos, but the orchestral accompaniment is so well written and so effective that it has gained much deserved popularity and is always welcomed on popular programs. M. J. W.

♯ ♯ ♯

MUSIC IN PHILADELPHIA

It was an affectionate farewell that Philadelphia opera lovers paid to Titta Ruffo yesterday afternoon, when the great baritone impersonated Christopher Columbus in the Franchetti work, for the second time this week. The performance given on November 20 was the first production of the work in America, and it makes a pleasing addition to the repertoire of the Chicago-Philadelphia Company. It may be justly said that Ruffo does not have the opportunity in this work to display his powers as he does in some other roles assigned to him, but it cannot be denied that he makes a wonderful impression on his hearers, as he lives the life of the great explorer in the several phases of his existence, as shown in the opera. The performance of "Christoforo Colombo" also marked the debut of Miss Rosa Raisa, who represented Queen Isabella, and who seemed to please the large audience, though it must be confessed that her work is as yet rather immature. Amadeo Bassi made an extremely earnest Don Fernan Guevra, although his voice is very light. The remaining members of the cast representing the other characters of the well known story of the discovery of the new world were all well taken by the regular members of the company. The orchestration is very beautiful throughout the entire work, and has a strong leaning toward Richard Wagner; in fact the second act, showing the deck of the "Santa Maria" is very similar in effect to "Tristan." The scenic effect of the golden shore of the new land is beautifully done, and a fine finale to the second act is occasioned by this scene on the deck of the "Santa Maria," where but a few moments previous the crew were driven to mutiny, all are now on their knees in prayer. In the last act the discoverer is seen near the tomb of his beloved queen, and finally, crazed by grief, expires on the steps of the catafalque.

WALTER ST. CLARE KNODLE.

WORCESTER, MASS.

Tuesday night, the 18th, the Worcester Oratorio Society began its seventeenth season with a concert in Pilgrim Church. The following artists, Mme. Marie Sundelius, soprano; Benjamin E. Berry, tenor, and Gwilym Miles, baritone; Miss Stella L. Marek, violinist; Mrs. J. Vernon Butler, pianist; Charles H. Grout, organist, and a chorus of 170 selected voices, J. Vernon Butler, conductor, giving the program.

Mr. Miles sang in the musical festivals of 1898, 1899 and 1900, and his return to Worcester as a soloist was an event in its musical history.

After an opening chorus, "Magnificat" by Bach, and "Honor and Arms," Handel, were sung by Mr. Miles; "Summer I Depart," Goring Thomas, by Berry; Mendelssohn's "Jerusalem," and the "Ave Maria," Bach-Gounod, with violin obligato by Miss Marek and piano and organ accompaniment by Mme. Sundelius.

Weber's "Jubilee Cantata" was given its first performance in Worcester at this time, the soloist being Mme. Sundelius, Mr. Berry and Mr. Miles.

Friedrich Kind, author of the libretto, "Der Freischutz," wrote the original words of this work, but at this performance an English translation by Rev. J. Troutbeck, from the second text by Amadeus Wendt, was used. The work consists of short choruses, recitatives and arias for tenor, soprano, bass; a duet for soprano and a quartet. Miss Ethel Jones, contralto, assisted in the quartet.

"The beauty was well brought out, the historical dignity of the work, its melodiousness, its unusual recitatives and arias were treated with intelligence."—From the Worcester Telegram.

There were other solos by the artists

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHILLIPS COWAN ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
4596 OAKENWALD AV.
Phone Drexel 3987

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Englewood 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Palmer Christian
Concert Organist - Pupils - Coach - Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music.
Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone Austin 23973
5704 Washington Boulevard Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av
Phone Normal 1406

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS, PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

which met with generous applause and the violin playing by Miss Marek was especially noticed as she made her first appearance in such distinguished company that night.

Mr. Grout and Mrs. Butler can always be depended upon for musicianly work and Mr. Butler is popular, in the best sense, with his chorus, and has done a whole lot for the musical interest of Worcester.

"The Messiah" will have its annual production by this society, in Mechanics' Hall, the night of December 26. This will be the fourteenth yearly presentation of this work. It will be given by a chorus of 250, the Boston Festival Orchestra, and prominent soloists. This will be the forty-third concert of this society.

♮ ♮ ♮

The First Concert of the Worcester Mechanics' Association

The first concert of the Worcester County Mechanics' Association was given in Mechanics' Hall, Monday night, November 17, by the Teele Band of Boston, with Gertrude Hope the soloist. There was much interest shown by a fair sized audience in both the soloist and the band. The program was interesting and varied.

The next entertainment in this course will be December 15, when Dr. Charles H. Tyndall will lecture on "Ether Waves."

♮ ♮ ♮

Musical Forum

Monday night, November 17, the Musical Forum met in the studio of the writer and elected all the officers for the ensuing year except the president, the nomination committee, W. C. Steere, W. Lawrance Cook, W. G. Ingalls, not having been able to see candidates for this important office. The vice-president is W. Lawrence Cook; secretary and treasurer, Lester S. Butler. The outlook and program committee, W. Lawrence Cook and Miss Alice C. Heaphy. These two will choose a third. The membership committee is chairman, Charles H. Grout, and Walter W. Farmer, and Walter G. Ingalls are the other members.

This club is organized for the purpose of discussing matters important to musicians, and is conducted on lines similar to the clubs of physicians and lawyers. It has advocated payment for missed lessons, credit toward graduation for work done by pupils of the high schools, discussed a professional code of ethics, and stands for united effort to prevent the constant and unfair competition of those who make teaching a means of securing a little extra money without being thoroughly prepared for the work.

The club has met with considerable success, but it needs stronger support than it is getting, and a plan is being considered which will enable musicians anywhere to become affiliated with the club and so be a power toward putting the music profession on a basis of dignity and importance such as is enjoyed by the other liberal professions.

Any musician interested may secure detailed information by consulting the secretary.

♮ ♮ ♮

Two Lectures on the Opera

Tuesday afternoon, the 18th, the writer spoke before the Music Study Class of the Worcester Woman's Club, in the hall of the Renaissance suite of the Club House, on Mozart and his operas. He was assisted by Mrs. Smith, chairman of the class, who illustrated the music of "The Marriage of Figaro," "Don Giovanni," "The Magic Flute," with Victrola records, and Mrs. Hartley, who played the minuet, composed by Mozart when five years old, an Andante Cantabile, from the D minor string quartet, and a minuet from "Don Giovanni."

The lecturer sketched the life of the composer and told briefly the stories of the three operas mentioned.

Friday night, the 21st, Mr. Hubbard, from the Boston Opera House, gave a lecture on "The Jewels of the Madonna" (Wolf-Ferrari), to representative music-lovers, in the studio of Mrs. Carolyn King Hunt, under whose direction the address was given.

Mr. Hubbard was assisted by Mr. Baxter who played excerpts from the opera, while the speaker recited the words of the song.

♮ ♮ ♮

With the Teachers

Miss Alice C. Heaphy will give a pupils' recital in her studio, Day building, December 3.

Mrs. May S. Ruggles will present Phyllis Dearborn in a recital of songs, at her Worcester studio, Day Building, December 4.

♮ ♮ ♮

Concert in Framingham, Mass.

The first concert of the Framingham Choral Society will be given Wednesday night, December 10. Four short works will be heard and the society will be assisted by players from the Boston Symphony Orchestra, a soprano and a baritone soloist.

F. W. Wodell, conductor of the People's Choral Union, Boston, is the dircetor of this choral society.

♮ ♮ ♮

A School's Activities

The Music Club formed by the pupils of the Hultman-McQuaid School of Music will have its first meeting Friday evening, December 5, at the school, when plans for the coming year will be made. There will be a talk on Schumann by Miss Olive Johnson, and piano selections by Miss Phyllis Lations and Rudolph Fagerstrom, assistant piano teachers of the school. Violin solos will be given by Miss Hazel Dann, assistant violin teacher, and Daniel Hult, pupil of Robert Morosini, will entertain with vocal selections. The clul will hold its meetings the first Friday of each month.

Paul Hultman, director of the school has recently been elected a member of the Rotary Club to look after the musical interests of the city of Worcester on behalf of the club.

Miss Beatrice Fitzwater has been added to its faculty as teacher of expression, taking the place of Miss Signe Widell. Miss Fitzwater is a graduate of the Greeley School of Elocution and Dramatic Art of Boston, and is widely known as a reader and pianist. Mr. Hultman and Miss Fitzwater will be heard in a recital on Saturday evening, November 29, in Pythian Hall, Day building.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

BOISE, IDAHO

The first concert in Boise under the idea of neighborhood acquaintance was given the first of this month, when Elias Blum, musical director of the Whitman Conservatory of Music, gave an evening of song, assisted by Miss Lila Crosby at the piano. Mr. Blum is a member of the faculty of the conservatory of Whitman College at Walla Walla, Wash., and believes that musical interests would be greatly benefited by a union of cities after the policy of commercial clubs of a territory forming a federation. He says that where musical activity is awakened all share in the harvest.

The women's Columbian Club was the hostess of the evening and the concert was held in the attractive auditorium. The program was of classical selection and was artistically rendered by Mr. Blum, who has a melodious voice highly cultured. Miss Crosby is a student of the conservatory, but plays with the skill of a finely organized temperament. The audience was pleased with Mr. Blum's idea of acquaintance and his visit.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Kellogg Haines Singing Party appeared at the Pinney Theater on the evening of November 18, under the auspices of the Boise Lecture Course, before a well-filled and appreciative house. The program consisted of selections from operas, a group of songs of the 60's given in costume, and the farcical operetta, "Lovely Galatea." The quartet work, in which the real music of the voices and the heart was revealed, received a warm response from the audience.

———♯♯♯———

HAMMOND, IND.

Mr. Grant Hadley, tenor, and Miss Al Meda Wadhams, gave a piano and song recital last Wednesday afternoon at the Hammond Country Club, Hammond, Ind.

For the first group Mr. Hadley sang "Let Me Love Thee," Arditi; "Zueignung," Strauss, and "Love Song," Lehman, which he interpreted in a masterly manner. But his greatest effect was achieved in the cycle "Idylls of the South Sea," by Cadman, which contains four songs, "Love Song," "Ghost Song," "Canoe Song" and "Death Song."

Miss Wadhams played a prelude of a Whiting "Etude de Concert," by Lily Wadhams-Moline, and "Concert Etude in F Sharp" by MacDowell. She responded to an encore, playing a composition dedicated to her, "Etude de Style" (Music Box) by Lily Moline. Her second group was composed of Chopin: "Nocturne," F Sharp, "Valse," E Minor" and "Ballade" in G Minor. These were played with artistic finish, displaying tone and interpretative qualities of the highest order. A Mazurka of Chopin's was added as an encore.

As an accompanist, Miss Wadhams gave sympathy and support in accordance with her usual high standard.

———♯♯♯———

Rappold—Mme. Marie Rappold, soprano will come to Chicago Sunday afternoon December 14, at the Studebaker, for a song recital, under the management of F. Wight Neumann.

ELLA L. MILLS — PIANIST — American Conservatory and 117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

Ethel Altemus — PIANIST — New York Address 665 Lexington Av. — Personal Representative FREDERICK CLARK 83 Auditorium Building, Chicago

JENNY DUFAU — SOPRANO — Chicago Grand Opera Co.

SOFIA STEPHALI — COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO — CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS — Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912 — Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM — SOPRANO — COMPOSER — Phone Harrison 6880 — Accompanist — 608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George — Children's Harmony — Chicago Piano College

Jennie F. W. Johnson — Contralto — American Conservatory and 4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Preiser Violin School — STUDIOS 530 N. Pine Av., Austin 5407 S. Halsted St. and 2831 Washington Boul. — ALBERT LEO PREISER Director — Phone Austin 4043

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS — OSCAR SEAGLE — 17 Avenue Mozart Paris (France) — BARITONE — American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Manogement LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM — PIANIST AND TEACHER — In Paris all Summer — 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK — DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS — FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY — Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London

WHITEHILL — BARITONE — Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

LOUISE BURTON — SOPRANO — 520 Fine Arts Bldg — Phone Drexel 8188

Esther Plumb — CONTRALTO — 4173 Lake Avenue — Phone Oakland 3246 — Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson — Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago.

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR — TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL — 608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

MR. TENOR MRS. DRAMATIC READER — Karl Buren Stein — JOINT RECITALS — 55 Auditorium Bldg. — TEACHERS of SINGING ELOCUTION ACTING

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN American Conservatory Kimball Hall

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

DanielProtheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO The Miraflores, 1420 Flower St.
Los Angeles, Cal.

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
14-16 W. Lake Street, Chicago

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

HarrietCase SOPRANO
COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STONE
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

COLUMBIA, MISSOURI

Christian College has announced its concert course for the season. Madame Dimitrieff, the Russian soprano, is to be heard in recital December 2; Jacques Thibaud, the French violinist, in recital on January 13; on May 1 there is to be a concert by the soloists with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, and on the next day a matinee and evening concert by the orchestra itself.

On November 4 the second of the faculty recitals was given at Christian College by Cady Kenney, pianist, and Alvin L. Barton, violinist. The program opened with the first movement of the Edward Schuett suite for violin and piano. Mr. Kenney contributed three groups, broad in scope, ranging from the early Frenchman, Rameau, to the ultra-modern Debussy and Cyril Scott, with Gluck, Chopin, Beethoven, Liszt and Saint-Saens representing the intervening period of time. To each of these composers he brought sympathetic insight and fine interpretation. Mr. Barton played two groups, of which the "Daemmerung" of Natrowski and "Berceuse" of Nesvera proved the most pleasing.

Miss Frances Oldfield, soprano and head of the vocal department at Stephens College, assisted by Miss Nelle C. Hudson, pianist, gave the third faculty concert of that fine school on the 17th, presenting an aria from Gounod's "Queen of Sheba;" Isadore Luckstone's "Doll's Calendar," cycle of twelve songs; Rachmaninoff's "O Thou Billowy Harvest Field;" two songs by Widor, and Rummel's "Ecstasy." Miss Hudson played the Beethoven opus 22 sonata and a group of Chopin numbers.

Charles W. Clark appeared in recital here on the 12th, as the first of the six Phi Mu Alpha concert series artists. He gave a fine program—three Gretry songs, four by Schubert, four by Sidney Homer, four by Faure, two by Kurt Schindler, and three manuscript songs by Frances Wyman. Mr. Clark sings the French songs beautifully, but carries the French style into the German and English songs so that they did not quite "get across." The Wyman songs and the "Scorned Love" and "Fairest One of All the Stars" by Kurt Schindler proved very interesting, and one would like to hear them again. Mr. Clark is to be congratulated upon having such an accompanist as Gordon Campbell. He won much approval from the musical elect here by his fine playing.

Frank Parker, director of the music at the First Christian Church, gave the first of a series of seven special musical services Sunday night, the 9th. The program consisted of compositions of Chris W. Henrich, the organist of the First Presbyterian Church, Detroit, Mich. The anthems, "Pleasant Are Thy Courts," "Close of the Sabbath," "Into the Silent Land," "Crossing the Bar" and "Lead Kindly Light," and the baritone solo "Alleluia" were given. The soloists were the Misses Irene Cook and Winifred Limerick, sopranos; Blanche Wanamaker, mezzo-soprano; E. G. Spargo, bass, and Frank Parker, baritone. F. P.

———###———

Miller.—Mr. Reed Miller, tenor, will give a recital in New York City on December 3.

WOODSTOCK, ILL.

While not wishing to be understood as clamoring for recognition and distinguished attention in the column of your music makers, still I may report that there has been something doing in the concert field at this highest point of land in the proud state of Illinois. My "Juvenile Choir," twenty-four strong, spoke to a large audience at the Presbyterian Church last Monday evening in terms of Alexander Mathews' cantata, "The Life Everlasting." They accorded it a dignified introduction in Mendelssohn's effective duet for two sopranos, "In His Hand Are All the Corners of the Earth."

With one notable exception the solo numbers of the cantata were taken by members of the choir, if for no other reason than that of developing internal resources, giving courage and confidence and reducing the self-consciousness which is so productive of evil consequences to the novitiate.

It is fair to say that in this case there was no disaster to the successful discourse of the cantata's fluent solo numbers, and the choruses were prompt, pointed and delightfully sonorous.

The solo soprano on this occasion was Mrs. L. A. Torrens of the Cosmopolitan Music School, Chicago, who also sang the favorite song from Charpentier's "Louise," in reposeful poise, and with tone distinguished by absolute sweetness and glow, but not in the least by spasmodic seizures in the most exacting passages. Her chosen numbers from that opera was "Depuis le jour," and responding to a universal encore she gave C. B. Hawley's "Noon and Night," accompanied in both songs by Mr. Dwight Hoy, who is the pianist of this choir.

Only they who sing know how largely dependent the soloist is upon the sustainment of the friend at the keys. "The keys" in this instance gave the coveted support and completeness to the beauty of the soloist's measures.

He also gave a very spirited rendition of Grieg's "Prayer and Temple Dance" from Olaf Trygvasson, with the favorite Godard "Venitienne" as a recall number.

The choir sang "A Night in May" to close, the leader playing all organ accompaniments and Mr. Hoy those of the piano.

Sitting behind some column in the old church sat the director, Dr. Maxon, of the Harvard choir, and as a result of what he saw and heard, our choir has been honored with an invitation to visit his church in the Onward Sister City, and repeat the program.

This was some praise and if the walking remains good we are going (twelve-mile hike). Sincerely yours, FIDELIA B. HAMILTON.

———###———

Hinshaw—William Wade Hinshaw, for three years baritone of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, will make his reappearance in Chicago, after an absence of about six years, in song recital at the Fine Arts Theater, at 3 o'clock, Sunday, December 7, presenting a program composed of German songs, with Edgar A. Nelson at the piano.

INDIANAPOLIS

(Delayed Correspondence)

Cecil Fanning, baritone, and H. B. Turpin, accompanist, gave the first artist recital for the matinee musicale, November 5, at Hollenbeck Hall. A representative audience was present to greet the young singer, he having sung here before. The program follows: Three Schubert songs, "Du bist die Ruhe," "Wohin?" "Am Feierabend;" "Der Erlkoenig" (Loewe), "Der Flieger" (Hubert Pataky), "Teufelslied" (Eugen Haile), "Morning" (Rachmaninoff), "O Thou Billowy Harvest Field" (Rachmaninoff), "Bonton de Rose" (Old French), "Le Cycle du Vin" (Old French), 'Dame Durden" (Old English), "No, John" (Old English), "Ballad L' Africaine" (Meyerbeer), "The Last Leaf" (Sidney Homer), "She Is Far from the Land" (Frank Lambert), and "Smuggler's Song" (Marshall Kernochan). Mr. Fanning is, unquestionably, an artist in every sense of the word. He has a voice of unusual beauty and uses it with an ease which is extremely agreeable. He has marked dramatic ability, which adds greatly to the interpretation of his programs, and it is needless to say he was most enthusiastically received. Mr. Turpin supplied artistic accompaniments and also added much to the program with his explanatory remarks regarding the various numbers.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Indianapolis Orchestra, Alexander Ernestinoff, conductor, gave the second concert, November 9, at the Murat. Mr. John Hoffman, tenor, was the soloist. The program included: Overture "Hansel and Gretel" (Humperdinck), "Finlandia" (Sibelius), three dances from "Henry VIII." (German), "Lohengrin's Origin" from "Lohengrin" (Wagner), "Indian Suite" (MacDowell), "The Last Slumber of the Virgin" (Massenet), and "The Bamboula" (Coleridge-Taylor). Mr. Hoffman was so well liked that he was obliged to add several extra numbers, and the orchestra played with excellent finish. Those who are interested in the growth of musical Indianapolis look upon these concerts with much satisfaction. Not only are they well attended, but the orchestra shows steady improvement

♮ ♮ ♮

The first of the Ona B. Talbot subscribed concerts was given at the Murat, November 10. The Russian Symphony Orchestra, which was booked to appear, was snowbound in Cleveland and failed to arrive. However, Margarete Matzenauer of the Metropolitan Opera Company, together with Ward Stephens, composer-pianist, gave a delightful program. Mme. Matzenauer sang several arias and a number of French, German and English songs, two of the latter being composed by Mr. Stephens. Mme. Matzenauer was greatly enjoyed, and especially so in the "Introduction" and "Love Death" from "Tristan and Isolde." The audience was very large and fashionable and the success was very much deserved.

♮ ♮ ♮

On November 16 the subscribers of the Ona B. Talbot concerts were given a complimentary concert by the Russian Symphony Orchestra, which was to have appeared here with Mme. Matzenauer, November 10. The program was: "Symphony Pathetique" (Tschaikowsky), "Isle of Love" (Glazounow), "Cappriccio Espagnole" (Rimsky-Korsakoff), "Enchanted Lake" (Laidoff), "Praeludiam" (Jaernfelt), "Dance of the Fairy Dolls" (Tschaikowsky), and fantasie "Romeo and Juliet" (Tschaikowsky). Modest Altschuler, the conductor, understands his orchestra and is evidently in perfect sympathy with his men, otherwise the effects which they produce would be less perfect. One is first attracted by the beautiful tone of the string section and their unfailing accuracy and smoothness of ensemble. The playing of the entire orchestra reflects the master hand at the conductor's stand. The writer has never heard a stronger interpretation of the Tschaikowsky symphony. The success of the orchestra and its conductor was a genuine triumph, and we shall be glad to hear them again.

♮ ♮ ♮

The first concert of the Musikverein was given November 17. The program follows: Overture "Phrede" (Massenet); two numbers for male chorus, "Des Muller's Tochterlein" and "Die Muhle im Thale" (Wesseler); "Nordische Weisen," for string orchestra (Grieg), and "Requiem" (Verdi). The soloists for the "Requiem" were Mrs. Leo M. Rappaport, soprano; Miss Frieda Klink, contralto; Mr. Walker, tenor, and Frank N. Taylor, bass, who all acquitted themselves with distinction. Mr. Ernestinoff conducted and deserves credit for the success of the concert.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mrs. Arthur G. Monninger, pianist, assisted by Ferdinand Schaefer, violinist, of the College of Musical Art, gave a recital at the college November 17. This was Mrs. Monninger's "homecoming recital," she having recently returned from Berlin after a period of study with Martin Krause. The following program was given: "Carnaval Mignon" (Schuett), "Concerto E Minor," for violin (Vivaldi), "Variations on the Name 'Abegg'" (Schumann), "Vecchio Minuetto" (Sgambati), "Deux Arabesques" (Debussy), "Moto Perpetuo" (Sauer), "Romanze G Major" (Beethoven), "Orientale" (Cui), "Liebesfreud" (Kreisler), "Nocturne" (Chopin), "Barcarolle" (Chopin), and "Tarantella" (Liszt). Mrs. Monninger played with finish and displayed a beautiful tone and excellent technic. Mr. Schaefer was in fine form and his technic and good musicianship were displayed to advantage.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Indianapolis Conservatory gave a faculty recital at Hollenbeck Hall, November 18. Mr. Daniel Jones, pianist; Gaylord Yost, violinist, and Wesley Howard, tenor, gave the program, which was made up of the following: "Sonate," opus 27, No. 2 (Beethoven;) "Where'er You Walk" from "Semele" (Handel); variations and fugue on the Welsh hymn "Bryn Calfaria" (Daniel Jones), "Wander Fantasia" (Schubert), "Meditation" (Glazounow), "Capriccietto" (Haydn), "Fabular" (Charles H. Gabriel, Jr.), "The Bee" (Pavel Bytovetzski), "Consolation and Polonaise" (Liszt). Mr. Jones strengthened the excellent impression which he made at his debut recital some time ago. He gave all of his numbers with a technical finish and mastery, and his variations on the Welsh hymn shows that he has also mastered the technic of composition. Mr. Howard was in good voice and gave a very fine interpretation of the Handel number. Mr. Yost, who has always been known for bringing out new and worthy works for the violin, played in his usual artistic manner. At this time a new composition by the talented composer-pianist, Charles H. Gabriel, Jr., was played by Mr. Yost, and the number made a most favorable impression, eliciting much applause.

♮ ♮ ♮

The first concert of the Maennerchor was given November 21. Madam Corinne Rider-Kelsey, soprano; Miss Alma Beck, contralto, and Claude Cunningham, baritone, were the soloists. The Maennerchor sang "Im Wald" (Franz Leu), "Schoen Rortraut" (Velt) and "Elsien von Caub" (Filke) in a most finished manner. Mme. Rider-Kelsey gave "Der Gaertner" (Kahn), "Shouggie Thou My Bairnie" (Henschel), "A Song of Sunshine" (Thomas), "A Venetian Song" (Bemberg), and "A Birthday Song." This was her seventh consecutive appearance here and she sang with wonderful beauty of tone and repose of manner. Miss Beck gave "Morgen Hymn" and "Zigeuner Staendchen" (Henschel), "Waldeinsamkeit" (Reger), and "Fallih, Fallah" (Van der Stucken). She was heard to fine advantage. The mixed chorus and soloists gave "Erlkoenig's Tochter" (Gade). There was a freshness of spirit throughout the work which added much to the pleasure of the evening. Mr. Rudolph Heyne, the director, has certainly raised the chorus to a high standard.

♮ ♮ ♮

Unusual interest is being created here by the paintings of Johann Berthelsen, who is head of the vocal department of the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music. Mr. Berthelsen's specialty is snow scenes, and several of his paintings are now on exhibition at the H. Lieber art store.

Hutter—C. A. Hutter announces a pupils' concert in Kimball Hall on December 5.

Katherine Howard Ward
Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist
917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

HEATHE GREGORY
BASS-BARITONE
Recitals Concert Oratorio
616 East 49th Street

HANS HESS 'CELLIST
American Conservatory Telephone Lincoln 7917

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

Music Abroad

DRESDEN, GERMANY
(Delayed)

Leon Rains in his song recital displayed no new features, neither as regarding program making nor as to increased interpretative powers. His real field is the opera, yet he has with wonderful intelligence and insight entered into the style of song. Rains delights in programs of variety of style. Only once, while giving a whole program exclusively of Strauss songs in a recherche choice, he gave me full satisfaction artistically. Prof. Rains had strong applause.

Marie Alberti on the same evening gave a Schumann song evening, the musicianly result of which was even more remarkable. Previous to her attempts in presenting but one author at a time, the singer used to devote her powers to the dramatic style of ballad singing. All the more surprised we therefore were to notice that she also in the presentation of musical lyrics—represented by the German Lied—attains to great heights. In conjunction with her first rate partner at the piano, Rudolf Zwintscher, Fraulein Alberti succeeded in creating the true atmosphere of romance, dreaming and longing, suggestive of the muse of Robert Schumann.

Luise Ottermann in her song evening considered various composers, the latter part of her program being devoted to Dresden authors, such as Reinhold Becker, Felix Draeseke and B. Roth. With Becker's songs she achieved a genuine success. Draeseke's posthumous songs were given with that intensity of feeling, depth of conception and subjective power and conviction that characterize the singer's interpretations. Fraulein Ottermann also added songs by the English composer, Albert Mallinson, one of which was redemanded. Frau Dr. Tangel Strik did the accompaniments exquisitely.

The Petersburg String Quartet (Grigorowitch, Kranz, Bakaleimkoff and Butkewitch) was greeted with enthusiasm. Glazounow, Op. 64, Handel and Gliere were on their program. As well known this union fully rivals the Bohemians and the Brussels Quartets. The Russians delight in fulness of tone, a perfect ensemble and spirituality. The Glazounow quartet had great success, yet it is not deep. Handel's Passacaglia for two violins is a virtuoso piece, which was played with utmost elegance and spirit by the artists Kranz and Bakaleinikoff. The Russian singer Kobelatzky-Illyna owns a deep mezzo-soprano, bearing the signs of wear and tear. She sang Gretschaninoff, Tschaikowsky and Rachmaninoff. Miss Gladys Seward did the accompaniments in a finished style.

The American pianists, Rose and Ottilie Sutro, highly distinguished themselves in selections on two pianos by Alg. Ashton Pierre Maurice, Op. 19 (M. S.); Rich. Roessler Sonata, Op. 22, and "Silhouettes" by Arensky. The three first authors' works were new here. They found immense recognition by public and press. The artists had a well-filled hall. Their ensemble playing is deserving of great praise. The fine work by Roessler was excellently rendered. Arensky's Op. 23 is a charming composition. Three encores were kindly granted.

A novelty, "Coeur As," was presented at the Court opera with no great success. The author, E. Kueneke, attempts to display some comedy style, though he does not own the requisites for light music. The overture was the best part of the work, which fails to fasten the interest of the hearers. It was built up upon the remnants of Scribe's text "Damenkrieg," which is altogether antiquated. The cast was first rate, with Minnie Nast von Frenskell and Grete Barby in the female roles and a number of exquisite singers, Soot, Rudier, a. o., in the male parts. It was, as Hans von Bulow used to say, a "fiasco d'estime."

Reinhold Becker's works were given a hearing in the Salon Zuleger, achieving, as usual, full recognition by the press. Fraulein Juanita Brockman played the Second Violin Concerto, the singers Victor Port and Stamschulte interpreted songs, some in manuscript. They are full of mood and feeling.

Coinciding with this concert occurred Professor Berte Roth's Wagner celebration. The well-known pianist is said to have enthused his hearers by his beautiful presentation of some Wagner transcriptions, in which he excelled. This fine musician in another concert played some novelty compositions of his own (three pieces for violin and piano, "Elegy," "Arabeske" and "Dreaming"), in conjunction with Julia Stummer, the violinist.

Roth's newest work will find universal favor and recognition. The pieces are replete with feeling, mood and expression and are sure of success on the concert platforms.

At Frau Rappoldi-Kahrer's we witnessed a most interesting musicale. In the program took part Miss Honoria Traill of London, a former pupil of the famous pianist, as well as present pupil of Mrs. Rappoldi. Miss Traill gave a virtuoso reading of a study for the left hand alone by Scriabine, as well as of MacDowell's "Hexentanz" (Witches' Dance). The young students distinguished themselves in the interpretation of Liszt's "Hexameron" and Second Rhapsody (with a brilliant "Cadenza" of Laura Rappoldi recognized by the author), also in selections from Schubert, etc. The names of the pupils are Herr Sigurdson— a prominent musician— and the ladies Huebner and two sisters Eiben. All of them were very good exponents of their exquisite teacher's method.

A. INGMAN.

Dresden, Franklinstrasse 20, November 5, 1913.

———###———

(Delayed Correspondence)

DRESDEN

The first philharmonic concert boasted of soloists as Elena Gerhardt and Bronislaw Hubermann, the former winning her audience immediately by her supreme art. She sang three arias exquisitely, with accompaniment by Mrs. Arthur Nikisch, from Marcello, Gluck and Durants, as well as a number of songs. Hubermann proved to be a fine violinist. His Mozart and Paganini selections were well nigh perfect, but the Beethoven concerto was not as yet quite perfected.

A young, highly gifted violinist, Miss Evelyn Starr of America, appeared with striking success in a concert, devoted exclusively to compositions of Serge von Youferoff, a Russian musician, who directed his orchestral works in person. Miss Starr, a pupil of Auer's, was a thorough surprise. Very young (apparently in her earliest "teens"), she should be proclaimed as an artist possessing a remarkable technic, soul, temperament, and a most beautiful tone. As for the compositions, they reveal but little, scarcely any originality. They are, however, pleasing and full of reminiscences of well-known authors' works. Frau Bender-Schafer interpreted songs which were perhaps the most valuable of the selections. They reveal mood and national color.

The People's Singing Academy gave an "a cappella" folksong evening, which counts among the greatest musical enjoyments of the season. To Johan Reichert belongs the credit of having trained this body of singers—the biggest choral union of Dresden. The soloist was the American violinist, Frank Gittelson, who greatly distinguished himself as a virtuoso and a musician. He played Bach's "Ciaconna" and Brahms-Joachim's "Dances." Gittelson is a pupil of Flesch and is sure of a brilliant

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

DR. FREDERICK CLARK
VOCAL INSTRUCTION BARITONE
83 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

future. If reports are true he will tour the States next year.

The other violinists, Sascha Culbertson and Jascha Heifetz, the latter the most wonderful child prodigy ever heard in Dresden, also played. Culbertson is still a remarkable virtuoso, less so as a chamber music player, in which latter quality he introduced himself here this year. Heifetz is a real genius, really the very best in his profession. Among his hearers were Dresden's greatest musical lights, such as Emil Sauer, Joh. Lauterbach, etc.

Recitals were given by Helga Petri, singer; the Petri Quartet Union; by Raoul Koezalsky, the unique Chopin poet; by Susanne Mittasch, singer; by Lisa and Sven Scholander, and many more.

Max Pauer delighted a big audience. He played Brahms, Schubert (A major impromptu in G flat major), which is a decided improvement in tone quality.

At the "Ladies' Club" Frau and Herr Nuessle sang duets and solos with great success from Brahmes, Pfitzer, Roth, etc.

In the Royal "Schauspielhaus" (Theater), Karl Hauptmann's fantastic new fairy tale drama had its initial hearing on October 17. This is entitled "Die armseligen Besenbinder" (The Poor Birch-Broom Makers), and treats scenes from the life of the poorest outcasts of Silesian peasants. The play is a wonderful mixture of dream and reality, lacking structure, but full of poetry and fantastic visions. It is impressive beyond description and had an artistic success with the chosen few. Karl Hauptmann is the eldest brother of Gerhart Hauptmann, with whom he has fantasy and suggestive power in common. Paul Juon wrote the music to this fairy tale drama, which music is replete with deep sympathetic understanding of the work's fragile, poetical content, such as is for instance the introductory picture where we hear the soft, weird strains which "Death," the fiddler, plays, while the "nightwinds come and go upon the meadow grass" all over the plains. The final scene is the same dream-picture imbued with a grandeur and a fantastic imaginative lift such as is only rarely experienced.

Lila von Erdody and Anita Burkhard are two new comers on the concert stage. They were well received. The one is a singer and the other a pianist.

Gertrud Matthaes and Vera v. Zedtwitz—violinist and pianist—played a Mozart sinfonie concertante in conjunction with Th. Bauer, violinist. Other works interpreted by Fraulein Matthaes were the Tschaikowsky concerto and a Sonate by Bach, in which latter she distinguished herself.

The American singer, Alice Perraux Williams, scored a big success with her song recital. Of American and French extraction, she combines these racial characteristics to utmost advantage. She has a splendid voice of warm timbre; possesses a finished technic and plenty of artistic temperament.

Paul Otto Mockel and Fritz Rotschild, pianist and violinist, introduced some very interesting compositions of Cyril Scott (apparently a devotee of the Debussy school), whose works claim far more than usual attention.

A. INGMAN.

Dresden, Franklinstrasse 20, October 26.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright. (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 55 Rue de Seine
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 606 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 51st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorinm Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 5171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
SIMMONS Ruth (Oak Park, Ill.) 522 N. Kenilworth Av. (Tel. O. P. 5249)
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4788) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 54 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

CLEARY Mary Hester 54 Auditorinm Building
PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorinm Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Fosler Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3843 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 376
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Charles E. Nixon, Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

HARPSICHORD

PELTON-JONES Frances (New York) 3 W. 92nd St.

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boisievant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir), 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
DRIGGS and LE MESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrnde V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bnreau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arhuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Flonrnoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WARREN Fannie Edmiston 304 S. Wabash Av. (Tel. Harrison 1831)
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE J. S. (Lecture Recitals) 52 W. 45, New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 44 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone Drexel 3937) 4956 Oakenwald Av.
DEAL Alice R. 715 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 8210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 524 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
DUPONT-HANSEN George (Phone Humboldt 6507) Danish Ev-Luth. Trinity Church
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo 2534 Lake Ave.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2866) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (St. Louis) 4417 a LaClede Av., Phone Forest 4763-R
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lntheran) 5348 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mahel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie (Res. Phone Midway 1692) American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4783) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WEISS Carl J. S. (Phone Graceland 5323) 1601 Cullom Avenue
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.
ZEUCH Wm. E. (Phone Harrison 7664) 812 FineArts Building

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
ALTEMUS Ethel (New York) 655 Lexington Avenue
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Puplis) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 35 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Englewood 2519) 5415 Sangamon Street.
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Appleton, Wis.) Voecks' Building
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5065) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUCHHALTER Simon 424 Fine Arts Building
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenn
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rne de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenne
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorinn (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3855 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.
DOELLING Mae (Concert Pianist) 4141 N. Hermitage Av.

EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland Ohio
ERST Stephen Adolph 1553 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season. 2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis. Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032) 874 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music.
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045) 426 Fine Arts Building
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HUNT Emily Parsons (Phone Highland Park 120) 520 Fine Arts Bldg. (Mon. and Thurs. P. M.)
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music) 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9205)
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KING Jessie (Studio.) 413-59 E. Van Buren Street
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
MATTESON Hannah (Accompanist) Edison Park, Ill.
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Lonis F., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparalso, Ind.) (Univer sity School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (School of Piano Playing) 410 Fenton Bldg., Jamestown, N. Y.
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 51st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolfram St.
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
POTTER Grace Stewart Bush Temple Conservatory
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5529
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715) 5828 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lilian Mary 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THAL Della (520 Addison St.) 510 Fine Arts Building
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn) 55 Auditorium
VAN KATWIJK Paul (Phone North 2594) 1225 Dearborn Avenue
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservato
WALLACE Evangeline 522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano College
WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Gny Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str. 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1516 Maller's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Col'o (2225 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Louisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 726 S. Michigan Avenue
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8195) 508 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro., New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 5119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 54 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers 235 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2131) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

GILDEMEISTER Lonise M. (Phone Graceland 2155) 718 Fine Arts Bldg., Sat. afternoons
McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1871) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Ar Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 509 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 61 Auditorium Bldg
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-5 Old Brandels Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 5th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
INTERNATIONAL College of Music 54 Auditorium Bldg.
KNOX Conservatory of Music Wm. F. Bentley, Dir., Galesburg, Ill.
KROEGER school of Music (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music) 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir.) 309 Kimball Hall.
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 55 Auditorium Bldg.
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W 76th St., New York.
VILIM American Violin School 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1516 Maliers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art. 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 69th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.
ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A.) 522 Fine Arts Bldg. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Lonis (Phone North 815) Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Wabash 1250 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg
BRANDER Julius (Phone Edgewater 2755) International School of Music, 54 Auditorium
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Irving 22273) 4820 Kimball Av.
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COX Mary A. (Phone Hyde Park 3552) American Conservatory
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.) North Shore School of Music
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
FISCHEL Max I. 510 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 106 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of usic) 4654 Grand Boul.
MUSIN Ovide (Virtuoso) 5 West 76th St., New York
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York,
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 530 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Vilim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall.
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinsbaw Conservatory 605 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert 6557 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 625 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.

BEEBE Agnes Leist
509 Kimball Hall

BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1006)
303 Kimball Hall

BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.)
Northwestern University School of Music

BENEDICT Ethel Geistweit (Phone Austin 5273)
128 N. Lotus Av. (Soprano, Accompanist)

BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist)
5119 Greenwood Ave.

BISPHAM David
44 W. 44th St., New York

BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg.
Drake School of Music

BOLLMAN Maude Fenion
Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.

BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York)
Care Haensel and Jones

BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 5819)
Kimball Hall

BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520)
4822 Madison Ave.

BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium)
Cosmopolitan School of Music

BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor)
1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.

BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269
Northwestern Uni. School of Music

BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3886)
(Harry Culbertson, Manager)

BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio)
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music

BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth)
7022 Vernon Av.

BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041)
727 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.)
Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau

BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone)
509 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183)
520 Fine Arts Building

Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass.
413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.

BUTLER Hanna (Phone Harrison 5485)
512 Fine Arts Building

CASE Harriet
Auditorium Bldg.

CHENEY Mary (New York)
500 Carnegie Hall

CLARK Charles W. (Paris)
12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.

CLARK Dr. Frederick
83 Auditorium Building

CLARKE Edw. 513 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831)
Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)

CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152
Sherwood Music School

CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone)
Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11

CLIPPINGER D. A.
410 Kimball Hall

CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher)
721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495

COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho)
Boise Conservatory of Music

COOK John Loring (Tenor)
300 Steinway Hall. (Pbone Harrison 6158)

COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913)
4117 W. Harrison St.

CORLEW Mabel (Contralto)
4202 Prairie Ave. (Phone Harrison 973)

COUDERT Philippe (Paris, France)
6 rue Edmond Ahout

CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009)
508 E. 46th Place

CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor)
234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)

DAHLSTROM Margaret
3242 Clifton Ave.

DEEMING Inez Taylor (Evanston, Ill.)
2738 Woodbine Avenue

DEEMING Inez Taylor (Phone Harrison 6457)
2738 Woodbine Avenue, Evanston, Ill.

DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Puhlique
30 Rue Marheuf. Champs Elysees, Paris

DE BERNYZ Bertrand (Studios)
58 W. 72nd. New York

DE SALES Regina (Paris, France)
40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)

DeYOUNG Richard B.
American Conservatory

DEVRIES Herman
518-528 Fine Arts Building

DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478)
816 S. Harvey Avenue. Oak Park, Ill.

DUFAU Jennie (Coloratore Soprano)
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310
710 South Central Park Avenue

FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio)
H. B. Turpin, Manager

FARNUM Mrs. Frank
3359 Warren Ave.

FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante)
149 Tremont St., Boston

FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Harrison 3895)
63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 408)

FREEMAN Ada Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg
5906 Ontario St. (Contralto)

FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York)
Studio 110 Carnegie Hall

FRISBIE Constance (Soprano)
5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)

GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782)
318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.

GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886)
3435 Flournoy St.

GANNON Rose Lutiger
715 Kimball Hall

GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone)
413 Kimball Hall

GREGORY Heathe (Phone Kenwood 53)
516 E. 49th Street

GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory)
Chicago Address, 522 Kimball Hall

GROW Ethel (Phone North 2835)
1002 Dearborn Av,

GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art)
523 Fine Arts Bldg

HADLEY Grant (Tenor)
Suite 73 Auditorium Building

HAIGHT Irma (Los Angeles)
The Miraflores—1439 Flower St.

HALL William John (St. Louis)
Musical Art Building

HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497)
423 Fine Arts Bldg.

HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher)
72 Barth Block, Denver. Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack (Phone Ravenswood 325)
5057 Winthrop Av.

HARRIS Milon R.
403 Kimball Hall

HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1405)
care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.)
Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)

HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 5880)
609 Fine Arts Building

HERDIEN Mabel Sharp
5132 Kenmore Ave.

HEUCHLING Mathilde
712 Fine Arts Building

HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923)
Chicago Musical College

HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano)
1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)

HINKLE Florence (Soprano)
294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)

HINSHAW William Wade (New York)
Metropolitan Opera Company

HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003)
6th Floor, Kimball Hall

HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culhertson)
304 Kimball Hall

HOLT George Nelson
509 S. Wahash Ave.

HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544)
Auditorium Bldg.

HOPKINS Hamilton
710 Fine Arts Bldg.

HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano)
3800 Broadway, New York

HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737)
5836 Washington Blvd.

Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland)
Tudor Mansions, 3515 Pine Grove Av.

HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante)
South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.

HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880
608 Fine Arts Building

HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund
Alliance, Ohio

HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267)
501 Kimball Hall

IRÉDALE Bertha Smart (Phone Englewood 8887)
357 W. 63rd St.

JOHNS Ethelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131)
6463 Kimbark Av.

JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104)
4937 Michigan Ave.

JONES A. H. (Tenor)
509 Kimball Hall

KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8519)
4433 Racine Avenue

KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201)
523 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)

KIMBELL Grant (Tenor)
5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831

KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

LA BERGE Charles (Baritone)
American Conservatory

LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 8774)
1375 East 54th Street

LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 5365)
420 Fine Arts Bldg

LAYFIELD Mabel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082)
7111 Normal Av.

LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880)
6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1

LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335)
4460 Berkeley Av.

LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto)
1311 E. 53rd St.

LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola
3814 Ellis Avenue

LUND Rene S. (Baritone)
2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 5602)

LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J)
1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.

LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder)
Drake School of Music

MacBURNEY Thomas
608 Fine Arts Building

MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060)
3422 Fulton Street

McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439)
3620 Parnell Av.

MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E.
616 Fine Arts Bldg.

MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France)
27 rue Boisievant

MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 581)
2459 Jackson Boul.

MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402)
5255 Berteau Av.

MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.)
209 Wesley Av.

MILLER Christine
1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

MILLER Herbert
716 Fine Arts Bldg

MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn)
1. W. 34th St., New York

MILLER John B. (Tenor)
Chicago Musical College

MOSHER L. Drew
137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.

MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone)
1155 Belmon Ave

MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles)
448 W. 40th Place

MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.

MULRFY Mahel V.—Soprano—Pianist
47 Wyoe Way, Winthrop, Mass.

MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4577
300 Athenaeum Bldg.

MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano)
4902 Friendship, Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.

MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano)
5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)

MURRISON Harry K.
Alliance, Ohio.

NARELLE Marie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122)
1215 E. 53rd Street

NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano
Plymouth, Ind.

NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199)
237 North Howard Av., Austin Sta.

NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York)
330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)

NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5508)
4137 Drexel Blvd.

OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute)
303 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 5919)

OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147)
2112 Washington Blvd.

PANGBOURNE Annette (Phone Harrison 2313)
519 Kimball Hall

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England)
Care L. G. Sharpe, 51 Reg S

PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto)
Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.

PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.)
Toledo Musical College

PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3245)
4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contralto)
Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.)
Winona School of Music

PROTHEROE Daniel
510 Fine Arts Bldg.

RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 8880)
609 Fine Arts Building

RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 5782)
1738 Humboldt Boulevard

RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor)
Barre Plains, Mass.

RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513
413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av

REED Esta Asher (Soprano)
14 West Lake Street

REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9166)
6627 Indiana Av.

REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg)
202 Nixon Building

RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.

RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall
6318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa

ROBBINS Edith Lucile (11th and R Sts.)
University School of Music, Lincoln Neb.

ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting)
1372 E. 62nd St.

ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877)
7205 Stewart Ave.

RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto)
Principal Liederheim, Auburndale, Mass.

RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265)
719 Fine Arts Bldg.

RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448)
3100 Lexington St.

SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing
201 Clarendon St., Boston

SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano)
401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.

Schwickerath Jos. A. (Musical Director)
54 Auditorium Bldg. (Tel. Lincoln 4521)

SCHUSTER Katherine
71 Auditorium Bldg.

SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York)
Wolfsohn Bureau

SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 469)
408 Kimball Hall.

SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner)
St. James Bldg., New York

SHELP Dr. H. Wm.
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor)
516 Kimball Hall

SLACK Arthur R (Phone Evanston 4705)
1823 Wesley Avenue, Evanston, Ill.

SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano)
4053 Michigan Av.

SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano)
6523 St. Lawrence Av.

SMIDT Mable Corlew (Phone Austin 12717)
5943 Ohio St.

SMITH Lyla S. (Phone Albany 10059)
Studio 3200 Logan Boul.

SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173)
625 Madison St., Gary, Ind.

SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano)
Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio

SPOONER Philip (New York)
205 W. 57th St.

STEELE Mary Hinman
503 Kimball Hall

STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh)
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.

STONE Frank (Tenor)
304 Kimball Hall

STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48)
4439 Calumet Av.

STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977)
55 Auditorium Building

STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 5912)
6106 Kimhark Av.

STEVENSON Lucille
4438 Berkeley Avenue

STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923)
1134 E. 47th St.

STULTS Walter A. (Evanston)
Northwestern University School of Music

TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L.
Lewis Institute, Phone West 793

THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano)
Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.

THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082)
620 Fine Arts Building

TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3765
Bush Temple Conservatory

TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor)
813 La Salle Av.

TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949)
404 Kimball Hall

VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799)
6511 Woodlawn Av.

WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380)
428 Fine Arts Building

WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958)
1325 E. 64th St.

WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Austin 23973)
5764 Washington Boulevard

WATSON Ruth Swing
1226 E. 52nd St.

WEAVER Iva Bigelow
Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.

WEBSTER Frank B.
719 Kimball Hall

WEGENER Mme. Justine
Bush Temple Conservatory

WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone)
61 Auditorium Bldg.

WESTERVELT Louise St. John (Phone North 1408)
Columbia School of Music

WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 8046)
Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal

WHEELER Beatrice
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 E 34th St., New York

WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 16
728 Fine Arts Bldg.

WILCOX John C. (Teacher)
Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo

WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio)
516 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS Dr. Carver
Auditorium Bldg

WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey
405 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS H. Evan
Akron, Ohio

WIRTHLIN Rosalie (Wolfsohn)
1 W. 34th St., New York

WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway
6107 Woodlawn Av.

WYNN Bessie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

WYCOFF Eva Emmet
500 W. 143rd, New York

YOUNG Walter S. (901 Carnegie Hall, New York)
Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair

ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778)
(1140 E. 44th St.)

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Subscribe for

Music News

Music News of this issue will reach many people who are not subscribers—many of them in fact will see it for the first time. To such we offer the explanation that we are making a special

Promotive Campaign

and are sending sample copy ONCE to very many people who do not often read music papers. We invite all such to become

Subscribers

The cost of the paper is only two dollars a year—which is only four cents a week, and for that sum we will bring to your home

Every Week in the Year

full and adequate announcement and review of the concert and opera situation of the country.

A Premium of One Dollar's worth of Sheet Music given to each new subscriber and each renewal

Send Your Subscription Today Before You Forget It

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.
PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for
Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

What Is Your Vocation?

The Chiropractic field is open to you

The Science of Today and Tomorrow

CHIROPRACTIC

offers you exceptional opportunities and gives you a profession that is recognized as the one great truth of the day, based on facts, not theory, teaches you to remove the cause of disease, thus eliminating the effect. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy.

Thousands of Chiropractors are Benefiting Humanity Today. Learn a Profession that Is a Ten Fold Pleasure

School Announcement and Other Information Furnished on Request

ADDRESS

The Palmer School of Chiropractic
(Chiropractic Fountain Head)

828 Brady St. Davenport, Iowa

TOP OF THE HILL

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

CAROLINA WHITE

America's Greatest Dramatic Soprano as "Salome" in Herodiade

CHICAGO, AMERICA

DECEMBER 12, 1913.

All the Leading Artists
Are Featuring
Palmer John Clark's
New Song
Someday, Sometime
Published in four keys
Low in Eb | Med. low in F | Med. high in G | High in Ab
For Sale Everywhere
GAMBLE HINGED MUSIC CO.
CHICAGO

Finger and Wrist Studies
Of "Scales, Intervals & Chords."
Grades I to V
By JAMES L. LA FLEUR
A Practical and Scientific System of Studying Harmony While Developing the Technic of the Piano

Contents: Diagram of the Major and Minor Scales with exercises to develop the weak fingers. Perfect, Major, Minor, Augmented and Diminished intervals. Chords of the 7th and 9th, Chords of the seventh on the leading tone. Diminished 7ths, Secondary 7ths, Mixed chords and inversions of each chord. The Chords and Intervals are written in every key and the formation of each Interval and Chord thoroughly explained.

Exercises to train the thumb to pass under the fingers in scale passages and exercises to develop the fingers for scale playing.

This is the only book published that combines harmony with piano technic.

Price $1.50, usual discount.
For Sale by
Charles W. Homeyer & Co., 332 Boylston St.
And all leading music dealers. BOSTON, MASS.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

Bergey
CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

CHICAGO, DECEMBER 12, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS
United States, per year, postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser and Herbert Bailey
Business Representatives

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield-Boulet
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

Harmony and Counterpoint, by Mail if Desired
Critic and Special Writer Musical Mss. Edited
LESTER S. BUTLER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Boston and Worcester Critic and Correspondent of Music News. Steinert Hall, Boston, Mass.
Day Building, Worcester, Mass.

Compositions and Arrangements

A Sigh (medium voice)	.50	27
Dear Girl with the Dreamy Eyes	.50	27
Twilight Hour	.30	17
Missionary Call (mixed quartet)	.05
Brotherhood Hymn (male quartet)	.06
The Darkey's Lullaby (male quartet)	.15
Inner Voice Waltz (Piano) J. W. Black	.30	17

All the compositions here listed are musically melodious. Obtained of the advertiser or at music stores.

Voices Made Beautiful
Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00. Lessons by correspondence.
Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

Languages | The Berlitz School of Languages,
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock
A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original. The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:
"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."
For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cent's Postpaid.

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT Sec

Now Ready. Second Edition Cloth, 192pp. $1.00 Postage 8c
THE RECENT REVOLUTION IN ORGAN BUILDING
By George Laing Miller, F. R. C. O., Eng.
Shows how mechanism and tone production have completely changed. Many illustrations, biographies and portraits of inventors. Specifications and views of keyboards of notable organs in England, France and U. S., including Unit organs and the new Liverpool Cathedral.
May be had from all Book and Music Sellers
The trade supplied by Lyon & Healy, A. C. McClurg & Co., Ditson, Schirmer, Gray, Presser, Baker & Taylor, Fischer, Nordheimer, Novello & Co., Ltd., or THE CHARLES FRANCIS PRESS 328, 13th Street, New York.

Book VI of Graded Studies
For the Piano
Compiled
By Mrs. Crosby Adams
is now available. This book contains a wealth of good material.

Writings by the older masters largely predominate. The preparation of polyphonic playing is interestingly presented through a number of the simpler selections of that nature by Handel. The book contains many other fine examples of writing by the old masters and which adapt themselves fittingly to the grade of difficulty involved in this series.

The contents of Book VI are largely supplemental to Books IV and V, except that greater demands are made for musical interpretation. It is indeed a unique volume, one that teachers will thoroughly appreciate.

Price uniform with the other books ($1.00) subject to sheet music discount.

Clayton F. Summy Co.
Publishers
64 E. Van Buren St. Chicago, Ill.

Music News

Vol. 5 Chicago, December 12, 1913. No. 50

Editorial

VARIED REPERTOIRE

Cleofonte Campanini is to be emphatically congratulated on the great variety and extent of the repertoire offered so far at The Opera.

The works already given and those announced for the next few days are: "Tosca," "La Gioconda," "Don Quichotte," "Mme. Butterfly," "Die Walkuere," "Aida," "Natoma," "Rigoletto," "Samson and Delilah," "Girl of the Golden West," "Christopher Columbus," "Jewels of the Madonna," "Carmen," "La Boheme," "Le Ranz des Vaches," "Herodiade," "Faust," "Barber of Seville," "Fedora," "Don Giovanni," "Zingari," "Pagliacci" and "Parsifal."

This certainly is a list of which any manager might be proud and not only so but the productions have been, for the most part, very fine, and the list of soloists already advanced, a notable one.

Not only is this true, but also there is already much more promised, and under rehearsal—many artists are still to arrive and show us their best parts—and altogether the season promises to be one of the utmost brilliancy.

Attendance has been large also and everything put together seems to augur even this early in the season that this year will far exceed the others both in achievement and reward.

———♯♯♯———

THE M. T. N. A.

The meeting of the M. T. N. A. at Cincinnati, Ohio, December 29 to January 1, will be one of much importance. The events as now scheduled will be as follows:

MONDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 29

General reception.

TUESDAY FORENOON, DECEMBER 30

Address of welcome, Arnold J. Gantvoort, Cincinnati.

"Civic Music in New York," Arthur Farwell, New York.

"Social Betterment Through Music," Mrs. Adolph Klein, Cincinnati.

"Music School Settlements," Mrs. Howard Mansfield, New York.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, DECEMBER 30

"The Trend of Modern Composition," Edgar Stillman Kelley, New York.

Harmony conference, led by H. D. Sleeper, Smith College, on "Teaching Harmony in View of Modern Tendencies," with papers by Louis V. Saar, Cincinnati; T. C. Witmer, Minneapolis; A. E. Heacox, Oberlin, and the chairman.

Voice conference, led by J. L. Erb, Chicago, on "Voice Teaching Viewed from Two Aspects of Method—Physiology vs. Psychology, the Individual vs. the Small Group," with papers by L. A. Russell, New York, and others.

TUESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 30

Recital.

WEDNESDAY FORENOON, DECEMBER 31

"Early History of Public School Music" (Master's Thesis, Columbia University), Frances Dickey, Kent, O.

"History of Music in Cincinnati," F. E. Tunison, Cincinnati.

"Illustrations of Early Netherland Music," A. J. Gantvoort, Cincinnati.

"The Nature of Aesthetic Pleasure, a Study in the Value of Music," Charles H. Farnsworth, New York (President's address).

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, DECEMBER 31

Annual business meeting.

The Question of Musical Editing—"Theoretic Aspects," Waldo S. Pratt, Hartford, Conn.; "Practical Aspects," W. J. Baltzell, Boston.

Piano conference, led by Allen Spencer, Chicago, on "The American Pianist, His Future and His Needs," with papers by Walter Spry, Chicago, and others.

Public school conference, led by Osbourne McConathy, Northwestern University, on "The Work and Position of the Music Supervisor," with papers by Karl W. Gehrkens, Oberlin, and others.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 31

Recital.

THURSDAY FORNOON, JANUARY 1

"Some Measurements of Musical Ability" (experience in Pitch-Discrimination, Perception of Consonance, Tonal Imagery, Tonal Memory, Sense of Rhythm), Carl E. Seashore, State University of Iowa.

"The Conducting of Examinations"—"In England," Douglas Powell, Cincinnati; "In France," Johannes Miersch, Cincinnati.

THURSDAY FORENOON, JANUARY 1

Reports on the movement by State Associations for Examinations as a Basis for Professional Recognition—Ohio, C. E. Davis (Columbus), L. B. Dana (Warren); Michigan, H. A. Milliken (Bay City); Minnesota, Willard Patton (St. Paul); Missouri, T. Quarles (Ithaca, N. Y.); New York, J. A. Hallam (Saratoga Springs).

"Co-operation Among Music Associations," C. H. Farnsworth, New York.

Annual meeting of the International Musical Society, Waldo S. Pratt, president (open to members of the M. T. N. A.).

Full official program will be issued later.

AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

The next Saturday afternoon recital of the American Conservatory, after tomorrow, will be January 10. With the new year a number of interesting musical events will take place in which some of the leading artists of the conservatory will participate. Among those who will appear might be mentioned Adolf Weidig, Herbert Butler, Robert Ambrosius, Heniot Levy, Silvio Scionti, John T. Read, Mrs. Herbert Butler, Jennie Johnson, Marie Zendt, Susan Drought and others. Eric Delamarter will deliver a series of lectures on the "Art Song."

Mrs. Louise Hattstaedt-Winter will be much in demand for song recitals and concerts from present indications. Mrs. Winter appears under the exclusive management of Fannie E. Warren.

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
Studio 521 Kimball Hall, Tues. and Fri. Res. 6611 Woodlawn Av.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

JESSIE KING
PIANISTE
Studio 416, 59 E. Van Buren Street

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
3534 Lake St. Available for Church Position

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

BEN O. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

Herbert E. Hyde
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg

Music in Chicago

INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC

The first faculty concert of the new International College of Music, under the direction of Emma Clark-Mottl was very successfully given at the Auditorium Recital Hall on Thursday evening, before a large and thoroughly appreciative audience.

Mrs. Mottl, Mr. Ralph Kraum and Mr. Ludwig Corell (piano, clarinet, 'cello) gave a thoroughly artistic reading of the "Trio" B Flat Major, by Beethoven, and Helen Beelman and Herman Braun Jr., were equally effective and successful with the

EMMA CLARK-MOTTL

"Sonata" (piano and violin) in G Minor by Grieg; Mr. Corell also played a 'cello solo.

Mrs. Eleanore Capps-Hostler, soprano, was in unusually good voice and sang the "Tosca" aria with much style and finish, and was thoroughly pleasing in "An Autumn Bacchanal" by Lola Carrier Worrell. "When Roses Bloom" (Rechardt) and MacDermid's new song, "Sacrament," the audience demanding also an encore.

Mr. Herbert M. Bailey, a newcomer to this field, is the possessor of a splendid baritone voice as well as of good presence and fine concert style. His voice is resonant and dramatic in the bigger things and in a "Lullaby" by Elizabeth R. Schoreck (a Chicago composer) it was full of pathos and the song was given with such fine musical feeling that the audience was eager for an encore and also desired greatly to have Mrs. Schoreck appear on the stage.

Mr. Bailey sang "Invictus" (Huhn) and "The Sparks Fly Through the Smithy Door" (Gounod) with spirit—the last being a splendid climax to a group which had contained further the very beautiful "Allah" by Chadwick.

Miss Mary Hester Cleary, a reader who has very promptly captured all hearts wherever she has appeared in Chicago, was delightful in a "Pianologue" and various other appearances, winning most enthusiastic recalls, and Helen de Laubenfels gave some interpretative dances neatly, though the place was illy suited to the effort.

Julius Brander, a young violinist, who has a big circle of friends in Chicago and who will be a great addition to the college, rounded out the program by playing a Wieniawski "Polonaise" with glittering technic and a thoroughly fine musical display. He has style and temperament and every audience grows enthusiastic over his work.

Accompaniments were played by Emelinda Makeel and Helen Beelman.

C. E. W.

MARSHALL FIELD CHORAL SOCIETY

The Marshall Field Choral Society under the expert and alert baton of Thomas A. Pape, has long since established itself as one of the worthy ensembles of Chicago, and the concerts are always attended numerously and applauded vigorously.

On last Thursday evening a part song program was given, only a few numbers of which were heard, these, however, showing that the club is in excellent condition, the bass section being particularly fine and sonorous.

The best of the songs heard was "Here Lies a Pretty Baby," by H. Arnold Smith, a touching little song, done exquisitely by these singers.

Mr. Armand Crabbe was the assisting soloist and doubtless he deserved the rapturous applause which greeted him, even though his singing gave absolutely no pleasure to this one listener.

This, however, was not his fault, but was because of the fact that through some misadvertence a piano was used which was so out of tune that the singer would have been more than justified in having refused utterly to fulfill his engagement. Nothing like it has ever before been heard in Orchestra Hall.

C. E. W.

MRS. SCOFIELD'S RECITAL

Mrs. W. C. Scofield presented a number of her pupils in song program at Kimball Hall on last Wednesday evening, drawing, as usual, a capacity audience.

The work of this teacher is always marked by sincerity and true musical feeling and the results, as judged by the hearing of a few numbers on Wednesday evening, were again thoroughly satisfactory, there being in evidence both ease of production and great care in the proper reading of the songs chosen for the program.

WILLIAM WADE HINSHAW IN RECITAL

The large audience present at the Fine Arts Theater on last Sunday afternoon was attracted partly by the fame which Mr. William Wade Hinshaw has attained in the East, and especially in view of his triumphs at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, but also the audience contained very many who have known this singer intimately during his residence in Chicago and who were present on Sunday to extend a welcome to him on the occasion of his first appearance here in a number of years.

And the welcome was a right royal one.

WILLIAM WADE HINSHAW

Appreciation of the program and the art with which it was given were in continual evidence and the enthusiasm throughout was pronounced.

Mr. Hinshaw elected to give a program devoted exclusively to German text songs and this in itself imposed a severe test on his powers, for magnificent as was the list he presented, there are yet very many in every audience who would fail to appreciate this fact to the full.

However, in the case of Mr. Hinshaw there was every justification for giving such a program. For not only is his German pronunciation perfect, but also he has a serious and an exact appreciation of the German attitude toward life and nature as expressed in the poems used and he also is wholly adept in the translation of Teutonic musical thought.

The songs were distinctly serious for the most part, and were given with a corresponding dignity and breadth, but also, there were many dramatic flashes and occasional plays of wit and light fancy, all of which moods were deftly presented to the audience.

The Schumann group, sung with much fervor, included "Ins Freie," "Die Huttle," "Ihre Stimme," and "Der Knab mit der Wunderhorn," while Schubert, given with a different touch and spirit, was represented by "Der Atlas," "Die Taubenpost," "Der Doppelganger," and "An Schwager Kronos." The third of these was particularly effective in the dramatically strong reading given by Mr. Hinshaw.

Brahms, curiously enough, supplied some of the lighter moments of the recital in his "Standchen" and "Tambourliedchen," while "Auf dem Kirchoff" and "Wie bist du meine Konigin" were among the most poetic offerings of the afternoon.

The composer, Hugo Bruckler, who is unknown in our concert rooms in spite of the fact that he was born in 1845 and died in 1871, was introduced in four thoroughly fine songs, which proved so colorful and so "diffcrent" from the usual German lied that it is a wonder we have not had them often before. These were "Am Wilden Klippenstande," "Lind Duftig Halt die Maiennacht," "Verrath," and "Hell Schmetternd Ruft die Lerche," these supplying one of the most grateful opportunities of the afternoon for Mr. Hinshaw.

The program closed with a well chosen group of Jensen.

Mr. Hinshaw's voice is very powerful, in fact so powerful that a recital by him in the Auditorium would be more effective than one in Fine Arts Theater. He has however, great control of his powers and is able to shade the voice to text requirements in very convincing way.

His dramatic power is very pronounced and his ability to build a rousing climax is an amazing one.

As said before his enunciation of German text is wonderfully exact and effective.

Accompaniments of the most superior order were furnished by Edgar Nelson.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

BESS LEONE BRADFORD

The brilliant pianist, Bess Leone Bradford, who is a graduate of Chicago Musical College, being in that institution a pupil of Rudolph Ganz for three years, has just returned from three seasons abroad studying with Thuel Burnham in Paris and Malwine Bree of Vienna and achieving the best of success in concerts. Miss Bradford is teaching at 716 Fine Arts Building and will soon go on a concert trip to southern Illinois.

ARGANGELI CONCERT

The following program will be given by the Arcangeli pupils at the Fine Arts Theater on December 14:

"Non e ver" ..... Mattei
Signor G. Viviano (first appearance)

"My Dear" ..... Hall
Miss Esther Becker (first appearance)

From opera "Simon Bocconegra," aria for bass.... ..... Verdi
Mr. W. F. Berry (first appearance)

From opera "Ernani," aria for baritone .....Verdi
Mr. Oliver Mellum

"To be Sung on the Water" ..... Schubert
Miss Norma Ranton

From opera "Faust," "Dio Possente," romanza for baritone ..... Gounod
Mr. M. Mele

"Elegie" ..... Massenet
Miss Florence Mellum

From opera "Don Carlos," romanza for bass, Verdi
Mr. Roy Johnson

From opera "Il Trovatore," "Stride la Vampa".... ..... Verdi
Miss Grace De Camp

From opera "La Gioconda," romanza for tenor.... ..... Ponchielli
Mr. Antonio Lombardo

From opera "Salvator Rosa," aria for bass..... ..... Gomez
Mr. E. Concialdi

"Rosemonde" ..... Chaminade
Miss Eloise Roach

Duo from opera "Tosca" ..... Puccini
Miss Gladys Easter, Mr. Henry Thorpe

Prologue to opera "Pagliacci" ..... Leoncavallo
Signor Arcangeli

From opera "Carmen," aria "Micaela" ..... Bizet
Miss Celia Glaser

From opera "Samson and Delilah" "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" .....Saint-Saens
Miss Fredericka Wehrman

From opera "Masked Ball," aria for soprano, Verdi
Miss Eva Coffey

Duo from opera "Carmen" ..... Bizet
Miss Glaser, Mr. Thorpe

From opera, "Faust," "Jewel Song" ..... Gounod
Mrs. Ruby Leffingwell

Aria from opera "Louise" ..... Charpentier
Miss Ruth Melba Stein

Aria from opera "Aida" ..... Verdi
Miss Madeline Lutkins

From opera "Don Carlos," "O Don Fatale," Verdi
Miss Margaret Quinn

Duo from opera "Madame Butterfly" ..... Puccini
Miss Easter, Mr. Thorpe

Iva Bigelow Weaver
SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work.
May Mansfield
PARIS STUDIOS: 27 Rue Boislevent Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory
207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.
A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Ask for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals. Recitals of His Compositions. Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
Care WHITE, SMITH AND CO., BOSTON SEASON 1912-1913

H. W. OWENS VOCAL DIRECTOR
WESTERN CONSERVATORY
Voice Teacher Coaching
PHONE CENTRAL 7804

Valparaiso Music College

Department of

Valparaiso University

Second Largest University in the United States

VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President

OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER

SOLO VIOLINIST

Welsh International Festival

MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE

SOPRANO

Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils

5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN

PIANIST

8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE

CONTRALTO

Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL

TEACHER OF SINGING

STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON

BASSO-CANTANTE

Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency

416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496

Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers

VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION

METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE

Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL

The Art of Singing

81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday

Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER

VIOLINIST TEACHER

RECITALS

Musicales

3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT

Contralto

Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The North Shore School of Music is to be congratulated on the initial success in its newest artistic venture. We refer to the excellent concert of chamber music compositions, presented under its direction, at St. Simon's Hall, on Thursday evening, December 4. The artists on the occasion were the North Shore String Quartet, composed of George Dasch, first violin; Hjalmar Rabe, second violin; Otto Roehrborn, viola, and Carl Brueckner, violoncello, together with the assistance of Mary Ann Kaufman, soprano. The quartet is directly associated with the school. The concert given Thursday night of last week was the first of a series of three to be given during the season.

Following is the program as given:

Quartet, Opus 18, No. 1, F major.....Beethoven
Allegro con brio
Adagio—Affetuoso ed appasionata
Scherzo—Allegro molto
Finale—Allegro

The Quartet

Das Veilchen (The Violet).....Mozart
Das Wandern (Wandering).....Schubert
"Aus meinen grossen Schmerzen".....Franz
("From My Soul's Great Longing")
Traeume (Dreams).....Wagner

Miss Kaufman

Terzetto, for two Violins and Viola.....Dvorak

Messrs. Dasch, Rabe and Rochrborn

A Spirit Flower.....Campbell-Tipton
The Silver Ring.....Chaminade
"The Lark Now Leaves His Wat'ry Nest"....Parker
Quartet (Two Movements).....Grieg
Romanza
Tarantelle

The Quartet

NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC STRING QUARTET

The quartet, from both an individual and the ensemble point of view, showed itself thoroughly capable in its work. The rapid movements of the Beethoven were read with much vivacity and dash, and the Adagio with veneration for its musical contents. In the Terzetto, by Dvorak, played by Messrs. Dasch, Roehrborn and Rabe, the last movement, with its unusual rhythms, was given an incisive reading. A Romanza and Tarantelle by Grieg closed the program. The Tarantelle was played in brilliant style and evoked much applause.

Mary Ann Kaufman, who is an artist always worth hearing, was at her best. Her German songs were given with depth, sincerity and most finished vocal art. In her second group, Miss Kaufman was delightful. In her singing of "The Lark Now Leaves His Wat'ry Nest," she infuses in her interpretation a spirit of real nature and out of "door-ness" that suggests some things of Bryant and Wordsworth we used to read. This number was encored.

The audience, while not big, showed its thorough appreciation in generous applause of the several numbers.

THE PADEREWSKI RECITAL

To be perfectly fair with Paderewski, the Chicago audience of last Sunday, one which filled the Orchestra Hall to overflowing, did not find his playing so much deterioriated as could have been expected from the very outspoken criticisms which have come from Boston and New York.

Truth to tell, there is still much of the individual charm of the many years ago and the artist is still very careful to prepare striking stage pictures and to make his every appearance a dramatic event.

His playing is remarkably uneven. In some of the things he played on Sunday, a perfectly well known and hackneyed program, by the way, he produced tones of luscious beauty and effects of much grace. At other times he pounded beyond all limit and broke every rule of beautiful piano playing. He was, however, cheered to the echo and the audience asked, and received, many encore numbers at the close of the regular program.

———♯♯♯———

Wheaton, Ill.—A Thanksgiving Song Service was given at the Baptist Church on Sunday evening under the direction of Nora L. Olin. The Wheaton "Progressive" said editorially: "The singing of the choir under direction of Miss Olin was of very high order. There was real delight and uplift in listening to such singing."

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

MME. CLAUSSEN AT EVANSTON

Mme. Julia Claussen was the artist that brought forth a large crowd to the Woman's Club in Evanston, on Wednesday morning, December 3. Rachel Busey Kinsolving, who has the direction of these Matinee Musicales, is indeed bringing an array of artists of the highest type before the music lovers of Evanston. With the action, singing and inspiration of the opera, "Samson and Delilah," at the Chicago Auditorium, not yet twelve hours' old, Mme. Claussen chose to open her morning's program with the ever delightful aria from the same opera, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice." That she brought this number up to the artistic heights of which only she is capable was easily discernible from the enthusiastic applause which called her to the platform again and again. Then followed a group of songs, "Molnet," Sjogren, "Efteraarsstormen," Grieg and "Jahrlang Mocht Jeh so Dich halten," Sjogren, in which the splendid art of the concert singer appeared, as was the case in the following groups: "Feldeinsamkeit," Brahms; "Saphische Ode," Brahms, and "Lenz," Hildach, the last named number having to be repeated.

The numbers closing the program were "Heimkehr," "Befreit" and "Heimliche Aufforderung," all by Strauss, and were sung with all her abounding temperament and beauty of voice. All her splendid vocal material, persuasive personality and the sparkle and charm of her features, which make her so admirably fit for operatic work, seems also to be ever at her command in the concert room. H. M. B.

BUCHHALTER AND ENGBERG

Simon Buchhalter, pianist, and Rudolph Engberg, baritone, will be heard in a joint recital Sunday afternoon, December 21, at 3:30, at The Studebaker, under the management of F. Wight Neumann. The program is as follows:

Sonata, C Major ..... Brahms
Allegro, Andante, Scherzo, Allegro Con Fuoco
Mr. Buchhalter

Hear Me Ye Winds and Waves ..... Handel
Wie Bist Du Meine Koenigin ..... Brahms
En Svane ..... Grieg
Med en Vandlilge ..... Grieg
Novembre ..... Tremisot
Le Plongeur ..... Widor
Mr. Engberg

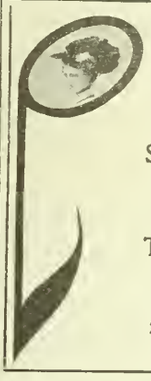
Prelude, D flat, Op. 8 ..... Kreider
Prelude Tristesse, Op. 33 ..... Kramer
Prelude, an Oriental Sketch, op. 33 ..... Kramer
Prelude, D minor ..... Borowski
A Vision, C sharp minor ..... Buchhalter
Hungarian, Op. 39, No. 12 ..... MacDowell
Mr. Buchhalter

Invictus ..... Huhn
May, the Maiden ..... Carpenter
Sad Memories ..... Downing
Serenade ..... Bantock
The Cave ..... Schneider
The Song of Tristram ..... Borowski
Mr. Engberg

Ballad B Minor
Liebestraueme A flat, E flat ..... Liszt
Rakoczy Marche
Mr. Buchhalter

OPERETTA GIVEN

At the West Side Masonic Temple, Oakley Boulevard, near Madison street, on Tuesday evening, December 2, the West Side Co-Educational Club Chorus gave the operetta, "The Egyptian Princess," under the direction of Mrs. G. E. M. Pratt. This chorus, considered by many one of the best in the city, deserves high praise for the excellent work done on this occasion, and that a great amount of time and rehearsing had been spent in getting the operetta ready to deliver, was noticeable by the way the work went from beginning to end. The staging and costumes were a delight to the eye and the singing a treat to the ear. That this club numbers among its members many who possess good solo equipment was proven by the fact that no outside singers were brought in to take the leading parts. Anna C. Braun, a contralto singer, who is gaining much in her favor by her excellent singing, took the part of the "Queen," and the way she carried through her part was one of the delights of the evening. Eleanore Capps Hostler, a soprano, well known in Chicago, carried the part of the "Flower Queen," and her singing and acting was received with much enthusiasm by the audience. Others taking principal parts were Florence Greenburg, Mrs. Helen Hackley, Mrs. Frank J. Burton and Miss Alta Burton. An added pleasure to the entertainment was the beautiful and graceful dancing of Beulah Skallerup and Jeanette Campbell. H. M. B.



EFFA ELLIS
Constructive
Music Book, $1.50
Special Introductory Price
65 Cents
TO TEACHERS ONLY
ADDRESS
Effa Ellis Music School
205 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

MacBurney—A musical festival is being given by the Palmer Park Musical Society, December 12, at the Palmer Park Assembly Hall, Roseland. Besides a chorus of more than one hundred and fifty voices, under the excellent direction of A. R. Simpson, there is an assisting orchestra conducted by Melville Martinson, and two soloists. Miss Minnie Stowell Wallace, a pupil of Thomas MacBurney, is the soprano, and Miss van Haar the contralto.

RECITAL BY MRS. EDDY

On Saturday afternoon, December 6, Mrs. Clarence Eddy gave a song recital at 825 Fine Arts building, assisted by Walter Spry, pianist; Alexander Krauss, violinist; Carl Klammsteiner, 'cellist, and Clarence Eddy, accompanist.

Mrs. Eddy came before her very appreciative audience with that pleasing and winning stage presence which always creates a mutual feeling between herself and hearers. Her voice seemed fully at her command at all times and her songs came forth with intense feeling and convincing delivery. Mrs. Eddy was indeed fortunate in having such splendid accompaniments as was furnished for her singing by Mr. Eddy.

Mr. Spry and Mr. Krauss were heard to good advantage in their numbers and were a most welcome addition to the program which follows:

Trio for Piano, Violin and 'Cello, B flat major ..... Beethoven
Messrs. Spry, Krauss and Klammsteiner

"O ma Lyre Immortelle," (from Sappho) ....Gounod
Mrs. Eddy

Nocturne, Op. 9, No. 2 ..... Chopin
Caprice Viennois ..... Kreisler
Mr. Krauss

"Lungi dal caro bene" ..... Secchi
"Das Kraut Vergessenheit" ..... von Fielitz
"Stil wie die Nacht" ..... Bohm
"Ich liebe dich" ..... Grieg
"Im Herbst" ..... Franz
Mrs. Eddy

Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 1 ..... Chopin
Mazurka, Op. 7, No. 1 ..... Chopin
Mr. Spry

"Out of the Darkness" ..... Guy d'Hardelot
"Will o' the Wisp" ..... Charles G. Spross
"Dearest" ..... Sidney Homer
"Give Me the Sea" ..... R. H. Woodman

H. M. B.

HEATHE GREGORY

Heathe Gregory has been engaged to appear at the charity ball on January 9, singing the "Prologue" from "I Pagliacci," in costume in representation of a famous portrait.

Mr. Gregory appeared last Saturday evening at the Fortnightly Club in recital for Mrs Theodore Sheldon, in the following program:

Falstaff's Song ..... Fisher
"When Love Is Done" ..... Alling
"Couplets de Vulcain" ..... Gounod
(Philemon et Baucis)
"Dichterliebe I, II, III ..... Schumann
"Sacrament" ..... MacDermid
"Invictus" ..... Huhn
"Im Walde" ..... Miersch
"Sehnsucht" ..... Castello
Prologo di Pagliacci ..... Leoncavallo
Mr. William E. Zeuch at the Piano

Gail Martin-Haake.—Miss Louise Haake, pupil of Gail Martin-Haake, will give a program of piano compositions, at the North Shore School of Music, on Monday evening, December 22. She will play works by Bach, Beethoven, MacDowell, Rachmaninoff, Nollet and Godard.

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studeba ker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

WINIFRED TOWNSEND
VIOLINIST Recitals - Concert - Instruction
411 Kimball Hall Phone Belmont 3001

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - Baritone NEWMAN
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires-makes not mars-the soloist, enabling him to bring out his best. 1246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
Management Alma Voedisch. 3836 Wilton Ave., Chicago

MAUD POWELL IN RECITAL

Mme. Maud Powell, acknowledged to be the most distinguished woman violinist before the public, Tuesday afternoon, December 2, played to a capacity house at Leon Mandel Assembly Hall. Not only were all seats taken, but the large stage was filled with music lovers whom it was impossible to accommodate in the body of the house. A great part of this audience was made up of Chicago concert goers, in addition to the University students and faculty members.

The most interesting and beautiful G minor concerto, by Coleridge-Taylor, and dedicated to Mme. Powell, opened the program. Great enthusiasm which Mme. Powell's playing always inspires, prevailed at once, and this intense appreciation continued throughout the afternoon. Her other big work was the ensemble number, E major Sonata (Bach), Adagio; Allegro ma non tanto; Adagio; Allegro; Supplementing the perfect work of Mme. Powell, was that at the piano of Francis Moore, a pianist of very rare attainments, and one of whom it is safe to predict a very great future. Such abundant technique, so exquisite a touch, in short such mastery of the pianistic art is found only among the few chosen ones of the gods.

Remaining numbers on the program were: "Gaze with Pity" (Tenaglia); Rondo (Mozart); "Hungarian Dances" (Brahms); Minuet (Beethoven); Minute Waltz (Chopin-Powell); Caprice Viennois (Kreisler); Hejre Kati (Hubay).

Several encores were played in addition to the above numbers.

The next concert will be given on December 16, by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at 4:15 p. m. F. D. B.

———♯♯♯———

COMPOSITIONS BY OLD MASTERS

The American Conservatory presented a program of compositions by the old masters on Saturday afternoon, December 6, in Kimball Hall, with Jennie Johnson, contralto; Renzina Teninga, organist, and Ruth Ray, violinist, as the interpreters of the fine old melodious compositions chosen for this program. Miss Johnson proved again that her capacities as a singer are unlimited, for she brought out all the meaning and beauty of the interesting numbers, "Ah Rendimi," by Rossi; "Thou Whose Praises Never End," by Bach, and "Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves," by Handel. Miss Teninga was heard at the organ in the numbers "In dulci jubilo," by Bach; a Ciaconna by Pachelbel and a violin fugue by Bach. She proved to be an organist of very much ability and her playing of the violin fugue was an excellent rendition of that beautiful number.

Miss Ray, a violinist, young in years, but playing like a fine violinist of years twice her age, was heard to splendid advantage in the Tartini Sonata in G minor, and a group of numbers by Pugnani, Bach and Francoeur. Her playing aroused tremendous enthusiasm in the large audience present. The program was closed by an excellent rendition of the Handel "Largo" arranged for violin, piano and organ. Herbert Butler and Mrs. Sara L. Beals were the accompanists of the afternoon.

H. M. B.

DRAKE SCHOOL MEN'S GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club of the Drake School of Music, under direction of Charles S. Wengerd, gave a thoroughly satisfactory concert on last Wednesday evening, their own contributions (by Foster and Buck) proving that they have established a good ensemble and attained considerable finish.

A quartet composed of Messrs. De Wolf, Wengerd, Lessenger and Kettering also did some very nice work.

Vocal solos by Harry Lessenger and Grace Dunlap-Woodard were admirable and reflected much credit on the teacher, Mr. Charles S. Wengered, who also delighted the audience with his own singing, his numbers being the "Prologue" from "I Pagliacci," "My Sweet Repose" (Schubert) and his own "The Rainy Day."

The assisting artist was Ralph Michaelis, a young violinist (tcacher in the Drake School) who has fine presence, perfect poise and an abundance of musicianship. His tone is round and warm and his reading of "Liebesfreude" (Kreisler), "Berceuse" (Hetzel) and "Mazurka" by Earl R. Drake, were such as to mark him a splendid musician. The latter number especially is one of very great worth and should be heard on violin programs much more often.

Accompaniments were played by Mr. Wengerd, Mr. Drake, Daisy Koelling-Brown and Margaret Worth-Evans. A large audience was present. C. E. W.

(Continued on page 11)

HeleneKoelling
Prima Donna
SOPRANO
Montreal Grand Opera Co.

ROSALIE WIRTHLIN
CONTRALTO
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 WEST 34th STREET NEW YORK

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

COLLINS J. Basso-Cantante
EUDORA MOODY BROCK
SOPRANO Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

The Elderly Person

The Little Theater is quite one of the real things of Chicago. The Elderly Person finds himself haunting its confines on small provocation. For those who do not know, the statement may be here made that entrance may be obtained when you pay a dollar for your seat. But you will have to search somewhat in the Fine Arts Building before you find the person to take the dollar. The elevator man will tell you that it is on the fifth floor (or is it the sixth?) and then clang the gate behind you and leave you there mystified. That is, until your eyes fall upon a small illuminated sign with a hand pointing vaguely down the long hallway. Pushing ahead along the indicated path your ears are at once deafened with all sorts of noises and you may wonder whether you are in a madhouse corridor or near a menagerie. But the names on the doors are reassuring and you perceive that you are amid the studios and can take notes as well as hear them in passing. Here is a rising young tenor, as yet a long way off from his eminence and requiring much boosting to keep him on the key. Next is a church quartet at work. You can figure out that it is that bane of all choirs, an extra rehearsal, and of Christmas music, judging from the text flung out so viciously. You can be sure, too, that some one at least is planning to get over to the opera, where "Samson and Delilah" is on, and that it is really time to go, by the way the phrases are hammered out. Next is the baritone who has reached the "Toreador Song" stage of his progress, and he shouts the notes forth as if he already wore the red and yellow mantle of Escamillo. The accompanist does not seem to feel that way. There has been a full day of it, no doubt, and there is not much enthuisasm left. Over the transom of one room come the unmistakable tones of a "reader" being coached —horrible sounds they are, too. As you reach the angle of the hallway, half way down the turn, is the welcome sign of the place you are seeking. The Elderly Person was nearly led astray just here, however, because he heard from one studio decided evidences of a string quartet at work on some chamber music. Only the stern promptings of other duties prevented him from breaking in on the enthusiasts. Quartet players are the only real musical enthusiasts, all others being imitations. Self-forgetfulness and surrender to the music itself make them thus, and you can't play chamber music without those essentials.

There isn't anything different in the Little Theater's entrance from that of an ordinary studio. But so soon as you are inside the door intimacy becomes your comrade. Everything is diminutive and elbows itself. The theater proper is a long room, one side of it a sort of foyer on a level stretch the remainder sloping towards the stage. There are just ninety-nine seats and about six of these are in tiny boxes and are gilded chairs in spaces marked off by invisible lines. A wide arch admits to an adjoining tea room. Two columns denote the entrance to the seats on the incline. There is a studied harmony in fittings and draperies. Everything is toned and blended to the last degree. Colors are so soft and undemonstrative as to delight the tone of the esthete who craves harmony as the sum total of beauty. By the same token the man who is replete with red corpuscles loses his joy in the absense of a sense of contrast which is his standard of healthy color-play. The only concession to him is in a bit of wood carving on the tea room wall where the delicate tint of the wall is outlined in the tracery of the scroll work. Very neat and soft voiced attendants show you to your seat, which is not slammed down with a bang and does not creak. You are asked to buy a program, as is the English of it, and when you pay ten cents for this, you find that it is printed upon pliable non-rustling paper and makes no noise in handling. The tea room is where libations are poured to the gods and goddesses of the high-brows, as one irreverent youngster says. There you find the round tables, immaculate as to daintiness of appointment and service. In the center of each table is a very slender vase holding a single rosebud, usually drooping languidly. When he sees these the Elderly Person gets what Miladi calls "the giggles," so he is not allowed to remain long in the sanctuary of the holy of holies. People sit in their seats a spell before the curtain rises. There is no law either written or unwritten which prohibits chatter, but such talking as is done, is done in almost hushed tones. One lady who is of so generous a proportion that she really should buy two seats, laughs and talks audibly. She is of the sort who indulges in many extra curls and combs, and can't have been there often. Suddenly she realizes that she is looked at askance, and sobers down quickly, annihilated.

Imperceptibly the lights are growing dim and there is hurried but easy motion among the attendants and the click of side lights being shut off, and curtains being drawn. An absolute hush ensues. Then the stage curtain is drawn. All is dark for an instant. Then light suffuses itself and we see the interior of a humble cottage as of a mining town, a room at once parlor, living room and kitchen. An old, blind man, feeble, but querulous and exacting, sits fronting the light coming through the open door. His bent but energetic wife goes about her household tasks, or does "tatting" in moments of respite. There is a long talk between them, and their life together for forty years passes in review. Sordid and mean and appalling in its ugliness is his attitude towards this woman who gave her youth and her beauty to him, and might have found uplift and ambition for both, had there been initiative and inspiration from him. Instead of that he taunts her with what he was and might have had, had she not passed his way. There is no resentment from her. Her life has hardened her and she knows only too

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

WILLIAM G. HAY Bass
608 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lake View 3054

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole Management HARRY CULBERTSON

van Vliet The DUTCH 'CELLIST
1416 Dearborn Av.
CHICAGO
Open for Summer Engagement

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4366

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

MAE Doelling Pianist Teacher
4141 N. Hermitage Av

The following Artists of The Chicago Grand Opera Company can be engaged for CONCERTS, RECITALS, "AT HOMES," ETC.

Address: JULIUS DAIBER Auditorium Theater, Chicago

JENNY DUFAU SOPRANO Chicago Grand Opera Co.

Beatrice Wheeler CONTRALTO Chicago Grand Opera Co.

WHITEHILL BARITONE Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

well how he depends upon her and needs her.

There is a mean spirited son of this father who is to bring his bride home that day—the first woman to come into the house, she says, for forty years. All of the children have been sons, and this youngest of them all the only one left. But before he arrives, a girl whom he has wronged and thrown aside comes in dejectedly, bearing her child in her arms. The mother suspects this child's parentage and urges the girl to go elsewhere. Before she is persuaded to do this, the son and his bride are inside the door. Developments follow rapidly. The bride discards her faithless husband, proudly takes the forsaken girl and child under her protection, and leaves the household. The curtain falls upon the father and son inveighing against the faithlessness of all women and scoring them roundly. But while they do it, the woman who has endured much and expects nothing more, pours tea for the old man and urges him to drink it while it is hot, which he does noisily. Then she strikes a match to light the pipe of the surly son. There is no word of thanks and there is no word of complaint. It is life as they find it and have helped make it—mean and worse than commonplace. If the picture were not so pitiably true, even in higher walks, one might resent so hopeless a realism as presented.

This is one phase of "Womenkind" as exemplified by three plays of varying moods. This play was written by W. W. Gibson and is well made. It is acted by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Browne and their talented young followers. The other plays are "Joint Owners in Spain," by Alice Brown and Stanley Houghton's "Fifth Commandment." "Samson" was calling the Elderly Person also, therefore he saw but the one play. He joined in the applause with all his fervor, but no amount of concussion can bring those curtains apart for any bowing and smiling from the players. You have to go to the Auditorium to find that in perfection. So far as is known much of the work done by Mr. Browne's aides is volunteer and for the compensation of experience. It is all done with a singular ease and freshness. There is only one word for the presentations as a whole. They are admirable in the largest sense of the word. As said in the beginning, the Elderly steps often trend towards this inviting place to find therein something of stimulant and pleasure that is not to be found in the ordinary currents where diversion and inspiration supposedly join hands.

* * * * * *

Turning to the other place where true joy is to be found, the Elderly Person takes a chance and recommends to his brothers of the choir loft, a little book which recently fell into his hands. Not all of what it preaches is accepted as finality. That is a reservation to be made of all books, particularly of those which deal with subjects which can never be exhausted. An organ and is possibilities can not yet be considered as completed. But Mr. George L. Miller writes so engagingly of "The Recent Revolution in Organ Building" that in a certain way he has done the unusual thing. He makes frequent allusion to the works of others, but what is most enjoyable is the compactness and brevity of his work. There is nothing discursive. It is all solid food, and for that reason becomes a desirable manual for those who would inform themselves quickly. There are so many drawings of detail that matters which are really serious to the uninformed have a good strong light thrown upon them. There are lucid and well expressed explanations of the primitive means employed first, and how they were integral factors in the present completeness. Mr. Miller naturally believes that the tubular-pneumatic action is a climax, and there are few who will quarrel with his premises. But there be those who yet realize its shortcomings. Mr. Miller's book is illuminative in its generosity of subject and treatment. Particularly for the man away from the centers of things is it valuable. He can learn from this slender little volume so many helpful things that he will bless the man who wrote it.

THE ELDERLY PERSON.

THE RAVENSWOOD MEN'S CHORUS

The concert by The Ravenswood Men's Chorus, on Thursday, the 4th of December, in the Congregational Church of Ravenswood, under the direction of J. S. Fearis, was given to a crowded house, every number of the chorus deservedly meeting with hearty and continued applause. In the attacks, releases, following of the director, quality of tone and expression, the chorus does very superior work, and show that they have been most carefully drilled by the conductor, who directs quietly, and with no exaggerated motions, yet the response and the effectiveness of substantial men's choral work is all there. The pianissimos are fine, and the fortissimos developed a surprising volume from such a small number, yet the tone from the light to the heavy always remains good.

Especial praise should be given to the number, "A Plainsman's Song," probably the most effectively given number on the program.

The accompaniments were played beautifully by Miss Helen M. Browne, who also played a fine solo number, to which she had to respond by an encore, playing the Schubert-Lizst "Serenade."

The solo members of the chorus, Mr. Wallace Tate and Mr. Frank Sanders, sustained their parts with sureness and credit to themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Read were the soloists of the evening.

W. A. WHITE.

———♯♯♯———

De Bernyz.—The M. G. V. Singing Society gave a concert last Sunday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, Hoboken, N. J., under the directorship of Richard Vossley with the Philharmonic Orchestra. The soloists of the evening were Miss Josephine Schwarzwalder and Miss Muriel Marresford, both pupils of Professor B. de Bernyz. Miss Schwarzwalder in her rendition of the "aria" from the opera "Der Freischuetz," displayed a dramatic soprano voice of exceptional quality and great beauty. In the "barcarole" duet Miss Marresford's contralto voice proved to be one of richness and sweetness, and a great career is predicted for these soloists. The audience received them in a very enthusiastic manner. It certainly is a verification of the fact that Professor de Bernyz is a teacher of the first class.

———♯♯♯———

Brown.—Miss Helen Axe Brown, soprano, was soloist at the Chicago Press Club Thursday evening, December 4. Miss Brown has been successfully filling numerous engagements since her recent return from abroad, and has many future ones booked up for the season, among others an appearance at Minneapolis, with the Symphony Orchestra of that city.

Thomas N. MacBurney

Baritone Voice Production Three years assistant to King Clark Song Recitals

608-609 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago Phone Harrison 6880

MUSIC IN CHICAGO

(Continued from page 8)

SMETANA SINGING SOCIETY

It goes without saying that the Smetana Singing Society is a Bohemian organization. Judging from this reviewer's impression, their affairs are regarded also as important social events. At the Sokol Auditorium where their current production was given on the 3rd instant, there was no vacant seat and the most unbounded enthusiasm. In fact, the audience seemed wound up for a night of it. Things were done very deliberately and every song redemanded, so that the first act of the operetta "In the Well," was all but done twice before the curtain fell at nearly 10 o'clock. This was pretty late for a lone scribe so far away from home as Kedzie avenue and Twenty-fourth street. And as there were two acts to follow, he had to forego the joy of seeing the village lads and lassies dancing in the moonlight, and the plight of the foolish but over-confident elderly lover who fell into the well. But Mr. Adolph Erst was conducting with the finest aplomb, and leading an orchestra of Thomas men capitally. Mr. Stephen Erst made a handsome young lover, and has a good, well-placed tenor voice which he used very well. Mrs. Louisa Topinka as Lidunka had a clear, fresh soprano voice, and made a handsome appearance. Miss Emma Starman, barring a tendency to lose the key when far from the orchestra itself, also sang excellently. Rudolph Ingerle as Janek furnished amusement by the wholesale, as well as showing himself able to get a good song over the footlights. Miss Libbie Bartusek danced gracefully to the Herbert "Badinage," which Mr. Erst brought the orchestra through in nice style. Whether it was their combined efforts, no one can say, but the dancing not only brought the house down, but the curtain loosened itself from its upper hold and came down also, enveloping the orchestra men in its folds. It was all very interesting.

ALBERT COTSWORTH.

———♯♯♯———

MUNICIPAL CONCERT

On Tuesday evening a concert was given at the Bernard A. Eckhart Park on Chicago avenue by the Park Orchestra under direction of William Hofman. The following program was presented:

March, "Gate City" ..... Weldon
Orchestra
Overture, "Light Cavalry" ..... Suppe
Orchestra
Song, "Be Faithful" ..... Hall
Misses Lucille Gunther, Helen Schommer, Clara Zblewski and Chorus
"Little Wee-Wees" ..... Gabriel
Children's Chorus
Waltz, "Queen of Hearts" ..... Grimm
Orchestra
Piano Duet, "Qui-Vive Galop" ..... Ganz
Miss Theressa Jacobs and Mr. Wiliam Hofman
Selection, Grand Military Fantasia, "Going to Camp" ..... Beebe
Orchestra
Flute solo, "Through the Air" ..... Damm
Mr. J. Chmielewski
Reverie ..... Roberts
Hungarian Dance ..... Kieserling
Orchestra
Address by Hon. Peter J. O'Brien, West Chicago Park Commissioner
March, "Tannhauser" ..... Wagner
Orchestra

MR. HUTTER'S CLASS CONCERT

Mr. C. A. Hutter presented a list of pupils in song program at Kimball Hall, on last Friday evening, the participants having been named in last Friday's issue of Music News.

This teacher has a great gift for keeping his pupils enthusiastically interested in their work and at a public exhibition of the same there is always present much technical proficiency and also much thoughtfulness as to interpretations.

The program for last Friday was very well selected and included much of worth and interest. Good piano accompaniments were provided by Estella Byrum and variety and effect were supplied through the fact that Mr. Hutter played organ obligatos and accompaniments to many numbers —especially effective was this in the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria" and the Bartlett "Dream."

In so long a program and with so many earnest students it is scarcely fair to speak of individuals—but Master John Goldthwaite, a small boy with a very clear voice, may be mentioned as very popular with the audience, and Waldo McCabe, a young baritone of good presence, also won much applause.

Several trios and quartets attested the fact that Mr. Hutter gives his pupils much ensemble opportunity and all the singers joined at the close in singing the Sullivan "Lost Chord" with much vim and effect.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

DON GIOVANNI

The lecture-concert, with "Don Giovanni" as its subject, at Fullerton Hall, on Sunday evening, employed the usual musical forces there very pleasantly and the music was found especially to the liking of the splendid audience. In "Give Me Thy Hand" Mr. Fritz Itte had a most charming violin solo and the "Village Dance" was also particularly well done by the ensemble.

Dr. William Carver Williams appeared as soloist, singing "I Myself Will Go a-Courting," "The Catalogue" and "Be Not So Hard on Me," songs which belong to the role of "Leporello," so well as to re-create the mood and the scene vividly, and also to prove himself again a fine singer.

Most of the work of the evening was well conceived and well executed, but, according to opera tradition, nearly every one of the numbers was taken at too slow movement.

C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

PAVLOWA AT THE AUDITORIUM

The vast majority of patrons of the Auditorium would vastly prefer a Campanini concert on any Sunday to a Pavlowa exhibition, but there is also a public for the latter and on Sunday, this contingent was out in full force. Unless one is especially interested in dancing as an art, a two-hour program of it becomes monotonous and this is especially true now in view of the absence of Mordkin, who, to many people, was a greater attraction than is Pavlowa.

The Sunday programs contained many solo dances made familiar in the past, with some new ones and also some very brilliant ballet ensembles.

IDA MAE CAMERON AT THE STUDEBAKER

Miss Ida Mae Cameron, lyric soprano, was the alternate artist with Ludwig Schmidt, a young violinist, at the Neumann concert at the Studebaker Theater, on last Sunday, and won many new admirers for her charming personality and vocal style

Miss Cameron has a voice of the most peculiar clarity imaginable—in fact, it is impossible to think that she could deviate in the least from pitch and, no matter how high may be the tone she is singing, she always attacks it with absolute precision and manipulates it with the most consummate skill.

Her musical feeling being so perfect it follows almost inevitably that her interpretations should be clean-cut, and this, as a matter of fact, they certainly are.

Her first group of Sunday, not heard by this writer, comprised compositions by Rogers, Bond, Bishop, Quilter and Verancini, while the second group was more pretentious in that it contained German and French also, two languages in which Miss Cameron is perfectly at home.

Schumann's "Auftrage" was done with well sustained power and a perfect legato, while Chansons by Massenet and Weckerlin disclosed a most engaging lightness and a perfectly sure touch.

"Chere Nuit" by Bachelet suited the singer to perfection and was so well liked by the audience that an encore had to be added.

Mr. Schmidt plays the violin in a rather light way and, in fact, his program of Sunday contained nothing but light works. His tone is musical and his readings accurate though lacking in temperament.

Accompaniments of exquisite outline and beautiful coloring were supplied by Miss Susie Ford.

C. E. W.

Anna Groff - Bryant
Studios of Vocal Art
Ethel Bell Reeves Assistant
606 Fine Arts Building Chicago, Ill.
Phone Wabash 1051

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5188

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL Phone Harrison 5919

CECIL FANNING

MR. FANNING AT THE BLACKSTONE

Mr. Cecil Fanning, with Mr. H. B. Turpin at the piano, appeared at the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone Hotel on Monday morning and scored the most complete success ever attained there.

This is not at all surprising in view of the very charming program and the splendid singing offered by Mr. Fanning.

There were twelve songs scheduled in the list, but, on account of the numerous encore demands the program was considerably more than doubled.

The two songs by Eleanor Everest Freer were most aptly chosen to display Mr. Fanning's voice and his interpretation of them was ideal. Songs of fine import are these and in the Fanning reading they glowed with beauty.

The program in full was as follows:

Introduction and Rondo, Capriccioso.....Saint-Saens
Mr. Sametini

Der Wanderer ..... Schubert
Halt (Die Schoene Muellerin) ..... Schubert
Am Feierabend (Die Schoene Muellerin)....Schubert
Der Elkoenig ..... Loewe
Mr. Fanning

Andante and Finale from Concerto.....Mendelssohn
Mr. Sametini

Folk song
Bouton de Rose ..... Old French
Le Cycle du Vin (Refrains des Jeunes), Old French
Dame Durden .....Old English
No! John! .....Old English
Mr. Fanning

Melody ..... Charles G. Dawes
Liebesfreud ..... Kreisler
Mr. Sametini

The Shepherdess (Alice Meynell).....
..... Eleanor Everest Freer
When Is Life's Youth.....Eleanor Everest Freer
Smuggler's Song (Rudyard Kipling).....
..... Marshall Kernochan
The Last Leaf (Oliver Wendell Holmes).....
..... Sidney Homer
Mr. Fanning

DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

MUSICAL ART SOCIETY

The Chicago Musical Art Society, Eric DeLamarter conductor, will give its first concert of the season Sunday afternoon, December 14, in the Illinois Theater. Mr. Bruno Steindel, 'cellist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, will be the assisting artist.

A very successful season is anticipated, as there is much enthusiasm shown among the members. Quite a few of the former members have expressed a desire to re-enroll and there will no doubt be a fine waiting list, as the active membership is limited. Following is a list of the new officers for this season:

Eric DeLamarter, conductor.
Palmer Christian, assistant conductor.
Dr. Carver Williams, chairman membership committee.
Mary Peck Thompson, secretary.
J. H. Libberton, business manager.
Harriet Martin Snow, treasurer.

The office of the society is in Summy's Music Store, 64 East Van Buren street. Telephone Harrison 5881.

CHICAGO MADRIGAL CLUB CONCERT

The following program will be given December 15, at Fine Arts Theater:

Three Old Bohemian Christmas Carols.....
.....Arranged by Riedel
Hail, All Hail the Glorious Morn
The Angels and the Shepherds
Let All Men Sing God's Praises
These melodies are said to be of "high antiquity," although the century of their origin is unknown. The original words were Bohemian.

Beruhmtes Weinachtslied (Celebrated Christmas Song) .....Sethus Calvisius
Born 1556, died 1617. Cantor of the Thomas School, Leipzig. The composition is for first and second soprano, tenor and first, second and third bass.

Timor et tremor venerunt super me.....
.....Orlando di Lasso (1520-1594)
For soprano, first and second alto, first and second tenor and bass.

Violin—
Sarabande and Tambourin.....Leclair
Air ..... Bach
Variations ..... Tartini-Kreisler

Cherubim Song, No. 7 (From the Church Russian ..... Bortnyansky

When All Alone (Madrigal) S. S. A. T. B.....
..... Converso (1580)

Mary ..... Richardson

Lullaby (Women's Voices).....
Arr. from Dvorak's Humoresque by Gilbert Spross

The Jolly Musician (Men's Voices).....N. V. Wihn

A Franklyn's Dog Leaped Over the Style.....
.....A. C. Mackenzie

Violin—
Hungarian Airs..... Ernst
Weary Wind of the West.....Elgar
My Bonny Lass She Smileth.....Geo. B. Nevin
Dedicated to the Chicago Madrigal Club
Russian and Turk.....
.....H. Ernest Nichol, Mus. Bach. Oxon.

PERMELIA GALE

Mrs. Permelia Gale, solo contralto of the First Congregational Church in Oak Park, has been extremely successful during the season in all of her concert engagements, and has just closed a contract to sing in "The Messiah," with the Evanston Choral Society, under direction of Peter C. Lutkin, on December 18.

Mrs. Gale appeared in "Messiah" at Houghton, Mich., last Friday evening, in conjunction with Mme. Jane Osborn-Hannah, Arthur Middleton and Albert Quesnel, with splendid success, the Houghton Press commenting as follows: "Mrs. Gale, the contralto, coming as she did almost unannounced, might be said to have attained the most distinct personal success of the visiting soloists. Her mellow tone, combined with technic of a high order and a personality most engaging, won the audience and brought the singer a distinct tribute."

NEWMAN LECTURES

E. M. Newman will give the last of his series of traveltalks at Orchestra Hall, Wednesday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon, December 17, 19 and 20, with "Vienna—the City Beautiful" as his subject. The life of the genial, hospitable Viennese will be delightfully set forth. Their innate love of music finds expression in the open air cafes, restaurants, parks, and other gathering-places, all of which Mr. Newman will portray, as a preface to the more serious side of the Austrian capital.

New Year's Eve at 9 o'clock Mr. Newman will repeat his traveltalk, "Paris—Art, Life, Fashion."

COVENANT CHORUS GIVES MESSIAH

On Monday evening, December 8, the Church of the Covenant, at the corner of Halsted street and Belden avenue, was packed to the doors and scores of people were turned away from the rendition of "The Messiah" by the Covenant Chorus under the direction of John Bissell Trowbridge, with Mrs. Ruben Stowell, organist, and Mrs. Charles Davidson, pianist. The soloists chosen for the occasion were those well known oratorio artists of Chicago, Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano; Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto; Henry A. Backemeyer, tenor, and Gustaf Holmquist, basso.

The chorus, made up of eighty voices, is purely amateur, and every singer gives his service willingly for the love of the work. For that very reason they deserve great credit for the success achieved in the reading of the grand old Handel oratorio. The chorus is one well balanced in the different parts and capable of attaining splendid results in even the most difficult of the chorus numbers, as was shown in their singing of the "For Unto Us a Child Is Born." However, their best work was in the "Behold the Lamb of God." In this number their attacks, releases and shading was of the very best and proved that they had spent many tireless hours in rehearsing. Their closing number, the "Hallelujah Chorus," was given with all the spirit, fervor and brilliant climaxes often obtained by the best professional societies. Mrs. Zendt seemed to be in splendid shape for the taking care of her solos, and she sang them in just that style. Especially was the "Rejoice Greatly" given with beauty of voice and carrying true inspiration. She justly deserved the splendid appreciation received from the audience. Miss Johnson gathered many new laurels to her long list of oratorio achievements. Her voice was rich and full of tender, sympathetic feeling during all her numbers, and her excellent rendition of the solo "He Shall Feed His Flock," deserves special mention. Mr. Backemeyer, a newcomer on the oratorio platform, was somewhat embarrassed in his opening number, "Comfort Ye." But in his solo work later in the evening he sang with more sureness and beauty of voice. Mr. Holmquist, always a success in "The Messiah," was no less so on this occasion, and his interpretation of the inspiring bass solos was one of the leading pleasures of the concert. Mr. Trowbridge directed the chorus throughout the evening with authority and deserves great credit for bringing this event through with success.

H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

Hinshaw—Messrs. John and Marvin Hinshaw gave a reception for Mr. and Mrs. William Wade Hinshaw, in the rooms of the Hinshaw Conservatory, on last Friday afternoon, when a throng of people were present to meet the distinguished basso and his wife. A musical program was given, among those appearing being Frederica Gerhardt Downing.

♮ ♮ ♮

Minneapolis Orchestra—William Hinshaw was soloist with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Emil Oberhoffer, conductor, on November 23, and Mme. Johanna Gadski appeared on December 5.

HELENA BINGHAM

Song calendar for November:

November 3, Madison, S. D.: To You, Ma'y Jane, (MSS.) Mme. Sofia Stephali.

November 4, Sioux Falls, S. D.: To You, Ma'y Jane, (MSS.) Mme. Sofia Stephali.

November 5, Streator, Ill.: The Balloon Man, Wake Up! Wake Up! The Swallows; 400 children, directed by Miss Ruby Smith, musical supervisor, Streator, Ill.

November 5, Streator, Ill.; Rock Him to Sleep, How I Love Thee (new), Beatitude; Mrs. Sue Jackson Foster.

November 5, Streator, Ill.: A Japanese Doll's Serenade, Her Literary Taste, A Ladder of Clover Bloom (new), It Is Not Raining Rain to Me; Miss Ferol Onnolee Leggette.

November 5, Chicago: Equality (by request); Miss Lyravine Votaw.

November 7, Chamberlain, S. D.: To You, Ma'y Jane. (MSS.) Mme. Sofia Stephali.

November 8, St. Louis, Mo.: I Cannot Forget You; Miss Eva Nicolson.

November 8, Peoria, Ill.: Equality; Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson.

November 8, Chicago, Ill.: My Baby (recited to music); Mrs. W. A. Evans.

November 20, Mitchell, S. D.: To You, Ma'y Jane; Mme. Sofia Stephali.

November 21, Mitchell, S. D.; Her Literary Taste, I Wisht I Was a King, Rock Him to Sleep; Mme. Sofia Stephali.

November 30, Hannibal, Mo.: Beatitude, Mrs. Sue Jackson Foster; Sunset and Evening Star; Mrs. Sue Jackson Foster, Mrs. Mack Fielder.

———♯♯♯———

Christian—Mr. Palmer Christian gave an organ recital at the First Presbyterian Church in Kankakee on Sunday last.

"MESSIAH" AT ST. PETER'S

The annual performance of "The Messiah" at St. Peter's, under the direction of Herbert E. Hyde, will be given at the church, Belmont avenue, near Broadway, on Wednesday evening, December 17.

HERBERT HYDE

The soloists will be Marie Zendt, Jennie F. W. Johnson, Frank Barnard and Frank Collins.

Mr. Hyde will direct, and the entire churh choir of men and boys will sing the chorus numbers.

———♯♯♯———

Paulist Choristers—The concert given for the benefit of St. Joseph's Hospital will enlist the services of the Paulist Choristers, Father William J. Finn, musical director, and other prominent artists, who will give a program of Christmas carols. This concert will take place at Orchestra Hall, Sunday afternoon, December 21.

Messiah

By the Apollo Musical Club

Of Chicago (300 Singers)

HARRISON M. WILD, Conductor

Monday Night, December 29, Orchestra Hall

Friday Night, Jan. 2, Auditorium Building

SOLOISTS

Mabel Sharp Herdien	Reed Miller	Rose Lutiger Gannon	Arthur Middleton
Soprano	Tenor	Contralto	Bass

EDGAR NELSON, ORGANIST — THE CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Tickets 50c to $2

Now on sale at the Apollo Club Box Office in Lyon & Healy's, Wabash & Adams

CARL D. KINSEY, Secretary

Hector Dufranne

BARITONE

Chicago Grand Opera Company

Has scored great success this season in

Don Quichotte

Natoma

Samson and Delilah

and

Le Ranz des Vaches

Mr. Dufranne's Repertoire contains Sixty Operas

JOHN LORING COOK PUPILS

Mr. John Loring Cook presented several of his advanced pupils in a splendidly chosen list of songs at the Wurlitzer Hall on last Friday evening, assisted by Miss Corinne Simpson, pianist, and Mrs. George Shaw and Miss Winifred Thompkins, accompanists.

The singers were Helen Ireland in "My Love Is Like a Red, Red Rose" (Hastings), and "June Morning" (Willoughby); Maude Wanamaker Low in "Open Secret" (Woodman); Leon Braude in "Leave Me Not" (Mattei); Frances Krook in a Schubert group, and Miss Irene Sage and Emelinda Makeel in several selections each. Only the last two were heard, Miss Sage disclosing a fine, clear soprano in Chaminade's "Summer," and Miss Makeel proving the fact that she has a very good contralto voice in the Thomas aria "My Heart Is Weary."

Such was the excellence of the work of these two young singers as to emphasize emphatically again the fact that Mr. Cook is a thoroughly resourceful and artistic teacher.

C. E. W.

MORGAN PARK

The Euterpean Men's Chorus of Morgan Park, Chicago, under direction of Edward T. Clissold, gave a concert Thursday, December 4, at First Presbyterian Church, Chicago Heights.

The program was filled by Frank M. Bronson, the pianist for the chorus, who presented some organ numbers; Harry J. Dunham, violinist, a member of the chorus, and Mr. Clissold, who presented some songs.

The chorus made a trip to the Glenwood Boys School, Sunday afternoon, December 7, and presented a program with the assistance of Mrs. L. E. Bartlett, reader; Mrs. Franklin B. Clemner, contralto, a member of the Maple Quartet; Mr. Dunham, violinist, and Harry E. Rilley basso.

The first regular concert of the Euterpeans' thirteenth season takes place at Morgan Park M. E. Church Saturday evening, December 13.

Helena Stone Torgerson, harpist, will be the assisting artist.

ST. JAMES' M. E. CHURCH

Program for December 14:

MORNING SERVICE

Organ prelude, "Laudate Domini".....Frysinger
Anthem, "Prepare Ye the Way".....Harker
Soprano solo, "The Annunciation".....Matthews
(The Story of Christmas)
Offertory, "Rock of Ages".....Buck
Organ postlude, "Chorale".....Kernberger

EVENING SERVICE

Organ prelude—
"Mary Seeks Elizabeth" (Luke 1, 40-48).....
"The Quest of the Magi".....Matthews
(The Story of Christmas)
"Bethlehem" .....Malling
Anthem, "Before the Heavens Were Spread Abroad" .....Parker
Anthem, "The Great Day of the Lord Is Near"....
.....Martin
Offertory, "O Come to Me Ye Weary".....Florio
Organ postlude, March in B minor.....Schubert

Kimbell.—Grant Kimbell sang with the Paulist Choristers at Springfield, Ill., December 5, and at Decatur, Ill., December 6.

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Friday, December 12

Orchestra Hall, 2:15. Symphony Orchestra.

Oak Park High School, 8:15. Concert.

Saturday, December 13

The Auditorium, 2:00. "Rigoletto."

Kimball Hall, 3:30. American Conservatory concert.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Symphony Orchestra.

The Auditorium, 8:00. "Faust."

Sunday, December 14

North Side Turner Hall, 3:00.

Lincoln Turner Hall, 3:00.

Illinois Theater, 3:00. Musical Art Society.

Fine Arts Theater, 3:30. Piano recital; Winifred Lamb.

Fine Arts Theater, 8:30. Arcangeli recital.

Fullerton Hall, 8:00. "Parsifal" lecture-concert.

Monday, December 15

Assembly Hall, 2:30. Amateur Club concert.

Fine Arts Theater, 8:15. Madrigal Club.

The Auditorium, 8:00. "Barber of Seville."

Tuesday, December 16

Mandel Hall University, 4:15. Orchestra concert.

The Auditorium, 8:00. "Fedora."

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Chicago Singverein Concert. Marie Zendt and Hugo Kortschak, soloists.

Wednesday, December 17

River Forest Presbyterian Church, 8:15. "The Messiah."

The Auditorium, 8:00. "Samson and Delilah."

Thursday, December 18

The Auditorium, 8:00. "Don Giovanni."

Friday, December 19

Orchestra Hall, 2:30. Symphony Orchestra.

The Auditorium, 8:00. "Zingara" and "Pagliacci."

MRS. WILLIAMS' STUDIO

A studio recital was given on Tuesday evening by Mrs. Stacey Williams, with the following program:

Hands and Lips
Our Little Love Is Newly Born
Gentle Dame Priscilla
You Dear and I
.... R. C. Clarke
Miss Marie McDonagh

Gray Days ..... Noel Johnson
At Dawning ..... Cadman
Mrs. Elizabeth Snyder

Two Danish Folk Songs
Mrs. Olga Hansen

Voi Che Sapete .....Mozart
I Know a Little Rose ..... Warner
J'ai Pleure en Reve.....Hue
Miss Imogen Fox

O Heart of Mine ..... Clough-Leighter
Connais tu le Pays.....Thomas
Miss Addie Mennie

Ouvre Te Yeux Bleus.....Massenet
A Memory ..... Parks
Miss Gayle Alexander

Dana Musical Institute—Recent programs from Warren, Ohio, schedule the following concerts at the Dana Institute: Two pupils' recitals of much value, a concert by the D. M. I. Military Band and a piano recital by Myrtle Elvyn.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREAT 'CELLO SOLOIST

In Home-Land this Season: Fall Months in the West: After Holidays in the East.

Address after October 15th, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles.

San Francisco Sierra News:

"A musician of wonderful power."

AT THE OPERA

CHARLES E. WATT

What a sad state would Chicago be in if it should chance that the critics of the daily press should be bored to death some night at the opera!

This terrible condition was very nearly reached on last Wednesday evening evidently, and the Thursday morning editions of several of the papers should really have been bordered with a heavy line of black in honor of the "dead" "Girl of the Golden West."

Of course the music is sketchy and equally true is it that much of it is a weak imitation of the modern French school. It is also true that a lot of the character drawing is not true to American life, but after admitting all that, it yet remains a fact that there is very much to admire and commend, and in spite of the established taboo, we shall mention a few of these good points and record the fact that to one listener, at least, the opera came most gratefully and the interest was sustained to the final curtain.

First of all, the wonderful orchestration, as pointed out by Sig. Campanini was a continuous joy, and secondly, the scenic investment was always fine and impressive.

Much of the dressing was very realistic, too. Mme. White and Sig. Bassi could not have been improved in this respect and a few of the miners were correctly garbed. The part of Jack Rance, played by Giovanni Polese and very well sung by him, was garbed atrociously.

Carolina White, ideal in girlish parts, has made of Minnie a character study which is easily comparable with that played by Blanche Bates in the drama of the same name as the opera, and in the second act especially, she rose to splendid dramatic climax. Her singing throughout was delightful and served to prove her as in the very best of condition for this year's work and to augur that she will present many joys to the audiences of the next two months.

Bassi, charming in many parts, is peculiarly fine as Dick Johnson, acting with discretion and vigor, and singing always with a full supply of artistry and finish.

Beatrice Wheeler made a wonderfully fine study of the role of Wowkle, singing it in that broadly dramatic style she has already shown Chicago on each appearance here and proving also remarkable versatility in interpretation.

The "Girl" has a very long cast and a very picturesque one, but after the first entrance of each character it grows difficult to keep them separated. Daddi's cunning little style can never be mistaken, and Dufranne dominates all the basses and baritones of such a cast as that of "The Girl," Crabbe also being characteristic. As for the rest, on Wednesday, they combined to make a good picture, and they sang the ensembles excellently. They were Scott, Warnery, Turner, Fossetta, Errolle, Venturini, Preisch, Trevisan, Huberdeau, Nicolay and Defrere.

All forces seemed to be in easy working order, and the chorus was particularly effective, which makes it all the more strange that it should have been thought necessary for the prompter to make himself so conspicuous as he did throughout the performance.

BEATRICE WHEELER

♮ ♮ ♮

Christoforo Columbo

Because a man happens to be a millionaire baron it does not follow irresistibly that he cannot possibly be a good musician, and given the proper conditions, "Christoforo Columbo" certainly proves very attractive.

As matter of fact "Christoforo Columbo" has much that is good, both in music and in dramatic construction.

True, it is a "made-to-order" opera, and found its most effective presentation in Spain at the 400th celebration of the anniversary of the discovery of America. But this fact does not rob it of all value in Chicago some years later, and the presentation was certainly such as to win the approval of the most blase opera-goer.

The opening scenes were a succession of pageants and the second act is certainly set in a most novel and thoroughly effective way. The music makes no remarkable impression of any sort. It is academic for the most part, and yet it is always attractive and very often it rises to eloquent climax. The composer certainly owes a debt of gratitude to Cleofonte Campanini for his painstaking production and artistic direction.

Ruffo has a passably good singing part, and, of course, rose to each opportunity with certainty. His characterization was, however, chiefly remarkable on the dramatic side, and it was indeed a wonderful one. His death scene was such a picture as will but rarely be seen in opera. In this scene he was remarkably well supported by Bassi, who sang throughout the act with the greatest of beauty and whose appearance and action were ideal.

Rosa Raisa made a fine appeal as Queen Isabella, singing with great brilliance and sustaining the dramatic action worthily. The elaborate cast was completed by Huberdeau, Federici, Ruby Heyl, Warnery, Venturini, Scott, Preisch, Nicolay, Fossetta and Errolle.

♮ ♮ ♮

Carmen in English

The second of the performances in English had for its bill, "Carmen," and a splendid audience enjoyed it to the full.

Nobody expects to hear all the words of every song in so large a place as the Auditorium and with so powerful an accompanying body of musicians as that to be found there. But, all the explanatory asides, the recitative, the invective and the plain conversation (of which there is considerable in "Carmen") can be made absolutely understandable with care, and it therefore becomes the proper thing for a reviewer to dwell particularly on this point and to point out those singers who do make themselves intelligible as well as those who do not.

On Saturday evening the foreigners, Defrere, Nicolay and Daddi (all in small parts) were to be particularly commended for their excellence of pronunciation and enunciation of text, George Hamlin, Henri Scott, Mabel Riegelman and Margaret Keyes may again be held up as perfect examples of fine attainment in the matter, and Beatrice Wheeler may also be added to the list of those who know good English and also know how to project it over the footlights.

Alan Turner therefore remains the only principal whose work is deficient in this respect, and it must be stated in all truth that on Saturday night his words were entirely unintelligible, especially in the "Toreador Song," which, however, was so well done vocally that a repetition was demanded by the audience.

George Hamlin, long a fine singer and a poor actor, on Saturday evening reversed the items and gave a surprisingly good interpretation of the difficult "Don Jose" role. As a matter of straight fact, it has very seldom been done any better.

His voice, however, was far from good, and in the big aria of the second act he sang off the key from beginning to end.

Constantin Nicolay and Francesco Daddi joined with Miss Wheeler, Miss Amy Evans (Frasquita) and Miss Keyes (Mercedes) in giving the most satisfactory reading of the tricky ensembles of the second act in memory, much better in fact, than they were done last year, and the card scene, by Miss Wheeler, Miss Evans and Miss Keyes was also superbly done.

Miss Wheeler appeared for the first time in a large part and she at once won her way to extreme favor. She is a "Carmen" entirely different from any other—her dressing of the part is different, much of her acting is different and as for her singing, very seldom indeed has any Carmen approached it in beauty and finish.

She is not a vulgar nor a tempestuous Carmen, in fact she infuses quite a little of sentiment and some gentleness into the part, but she is effective always and continually a musical delight.

MABEL RIEGELMAN

So clearly did she enunciate that no one could ever be at a loss as to what she said, and so definite was her characterization that "Carmen" stood revealed to the audience as but rarely before.

Miss Riegelman, for the first time in her career, sang the part of Michaela and very promptly effaced the memory of most "Michaelas," and established herself as complete mistress of the new role.

Charming to look upon, daintily correct as to action and always alertly ready for her work she also proved that the vocal score of Michaela is one eminently suited to her voice and gave the great third act aria so beautifully as to hold breathless attention and exact tumultuous applause from the very sympathetic audience. In fact, she won an encore demand quite as persistent as that for the "Toreador Song," but the conductor, for some reason, chose to ignore it.

Galli was again very happy in her solo dance and the entire ballet showed to much advantage. The mise-en-scene was well taken care of, costumes were new and bright, and the entire production was thoroughly creditable. Marcel Charlier conducted.

♮ ♮ ♮

La Boheme

One of the most satisfactory performances of "La Boheme" ever given in Chicago was that of Monday evening, and this was due to the happy combination of Giuseppe Sturani in the conductor's chair, with a list of principals on the stage who were all young, attractive and eagerly desirous of doing their best.

Sturani is a remarkable director. Absolutely without any undue strenuosity, he yet holds every musical factor of a performance closely in hand and manipulates all the forces to the best possible ensemble advantage.

The orchestra score under his careful baton glowed with new colors and took on finer tints than it has at many times, and each tricky ensemble of the Puccini work was held to perfect fidelity in presentment.

Rosa Raisa as Mimi looked the part to perfection and was girlishly attractive in her action. The vocal score suits her very much better than does that of "Aida," and her voice therefore took on, at the Monday performance, a sweetness and a charm not before heard.

Mabel Riegelman, as Musetta, repeated the great success attained in the part last year, and in so far as the vocal score is concerned she disclosed the unmistakable fact that she has grown very much in a twelvemonth.

Her second act aria was a gem in conception and rendition, and her part in all the ensembles was flawless. When she appeared before the curtain there was, each time, an added storm of applause which told more eloquently than words of her fast growing popularity with the Chicago public.

GIUSEPPE STURANI

Aristodemo Giorgini made an ideal Rodolfo, acting with discretion and singing the part with reserve and repose. In fact, the charm of the preformance lay in the fact that there was no shouting nor any violent effort on the part of anyone concerned, the whole cast, including chorus and orchestra seemed bent upon a perfect ensemble and the presentation of music in its purest form.

Francesco Federici advanced his Chicago prestige very materially by his quiet dignity of acting and perfect artistry of sing-

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 411

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Brokaw Violinist
Power-Meyer Conservatory
WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
5435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4185 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

AGNES LEIST-BEEBE ORATORIO SONG RECITAL PUPILS
SOPRANO
509 Kimball Hall and 3985 Drexel Boulevard

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

American Conservatory
KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO, ILL. Chicago's Foremost School of Music

Modern Courses Masterfully Taught by 70 eminent artists.
Superior Normal Training School. Diplomas and Degrees.
Unrivaled free advantages.
28th Session begins Thursday, September 11, 1913.
New Catalog mailed free on application.
JOHN J. HATTSTAEDT, Pres't

ing in the part of Schaunard, and Giovanni Polese also did much to beautify the role of Marcello, while at the same time he advanced his own popularity.

Gustav Huberdeau as Colline made a striking figure and most deftly carricd out his part in every one of the many ensembles in which he was concerned. In the fourth act he sang the "Farewell to the Coat" so admirably that the audience would not permit the performance to proceed until the conductor had granted a repetition of the thoroughly grateful number.

♮ ♮ ♮

Le Ranz Des Vaches

The first performance in Chicago of the Kienzl opera, "Le Ranz des Vaches," brought to view another of those glittering productions with tremendous cast and brilliant stage pictures, of which we have already had examples in "Girl of the Golden West," "Jewels of the Madonna" and others. This newer work, however, has quite a different appeal, for while it is undoubtedly a great spectacle, and while it also employs a very large number of singers, it is also an exposition of thoroughly pleasing song and there are a lot of solo opportunities and very little of ensemble cacophony—almost every chorus and most of the smaller ensembles being laid out according to quite simple rules and developed sanely and with constant flow of melody.

It is for this latter reason that it seems safe to predict that the opera will be a popular one here.

If it is not it will be because the subject matter is too depressing. The French revolution is always a harrowing subject with which to deal, and in this opera it has been treated very frankly and all its hideousness is revealed in full measure.

The last act, where the members of the nobility dance the minuet the while they are awaiting execution on the guillotine makes a pretty stage picture, but underneath the airy grace of the dance there is an abiding horror which is very depressing.

Like so many modern operas there are in this one so many men employed that many have but little to do—each is necessary to completion of the picture, however, and on Tuesday each one of the named parts was done with much skill and astonishing finish.

However, no matter how many people were on the stage nor how short might be the passage assigned him, no one was ever in doubt for a moment as to who was who when Dufranne sang. This glorious voice dominates always, wherever it is heard and the accompanying action in any role is also, always absolutely correct.

Charles Dalmores as the too-good-to-be-true hero added another to his list of successful characterizations.

The three women who had parts of consequence were easier to single out and to emphasize than the endless list of men and foremost, of course, is the part of Blanchefleur, which was charmingly played and acted by Marta Dorda, a singer who made her debut in our opera at this time, and who certainly won an immediate success.

Beatrice Wheeler in the brief part of Cleo, was a picture of grace and effective action, and her short vocal score was sung with finish also.

Amy Evans had the very characteristic part of Doris, one which she realized histrionically in worthy measure but in which she was not able to sustain the vocal line convincingly.

Arnold Winternitz conducted with much authority and had the compliment of a very hearty encore demand for the prelude to the second act.

Other Operas

On Wednesday evening "Christoforo Colombo" was repeated, on Thursday "Butterfly" was given in the afternoon and "Herodiade" in the evening.

Tomorrow (Saturday) will bring "Rigoletto" at the matinee performance and "Faust" in the evening.

There will be no Sunday performances and next week will begin with "Barber of Seville" on Monday night.

DE BERNYZ DISCOVERS NEW TENOR

Professor Bertrand de Bernyz, president of the American Opera Society, has recently discovered a tenor, Fritz E. Bliss, and after studying with Professor de Bernyz a short period, he was heard by Mr. Thomas A. Edison in his laboratory, in order that he might render a verdict on the voice and keep a record of the progress of its development. Both Professor Otto King, chief of the Edison musical staff, and Mr. Edison were enthusiastic over the range, power, sweetness and dramatic quality of the voice, which has been but a brief period under the guidance of Professor de Bernyz.

Mr. Bliss sings his low tones like a baritone and reaches D above high C with an ease that might be envied by the leading tenors of the day. He stands more than six feet, making a striking appearance. He is naturally musical and it is the consensus of opinion that in a short time his work will speak for itself. Mr. Bliss is a stone-cutter, and toils at his trade day after day. His discovery is a sample of the work now going on in this branch of the American Opera Society, under the personal supervision of Professor de Bernyz, as president.

CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The orchestral concerts of last Friday and Saturday presented two noveltics, the symphonic poem of "The Sirens," by a modern Russian, Gliere, and a new violin concerto by Norens, a modern German. Both compositions received their first performance in America on these occasions.

The Gliere "Sirens" is modern in treatment, with much of the whole-tone scale, a great mannerism of the French that has no possibility of development, for when once used, it is done, and the remainder is mere repetition. Why modern composers avoid anything that is coherent in melodic outline is hard to determine, but with few exceptions, so it is.

Such compositions are extremely clever, interesting, full of mastery of the orchestral resources, but somehow they seem to have very little to say. Conductor Stock and his forces gave a fine rendition, but fine renditions do not make up for poverty of ideas.

The Norens concerto is also modern, full of bristling technical difficulties, and with splendidly written orchestral setting. It was played by Hugo Kortschak, who is technically adequate to any demands, but it seems sometimes that technical efficiency in this regard causes the obscuration of beauty of cantabile tone and evenness.

The "E Minor Symphony," the fifth, of Tschaikowsky was given a magnificent performance, and it was enthusiastically received. It is still monumental music by a master.

Audiences make distressing breaks sometimes. Such occurred last Saturday when applause came before the final Coda, even though it ends on a chord impossible as a closing cadence.

W. A. WHITE.

AMERICAN VIOLINIST COMPOSER OF SONGS

Gaylord Yost, composer-violinist, of Indianapolis, who has won quite a reputation as a writer for his instrument, recently completed three songs: "My Heart Must Break Some Day," "A Love Note" and "Love's Count," which will be published soon. These songs are said to be of great beauty and originality and while they are distinctly modern in harmonic structure, there is never a sacrifice of melodic outline. Mr. Yost is one of our talented American composers and his violin compositions have been used and endorsed by such artists as Albert Spalding, Efrem Zimbalist, Francis Macmillen, Issay Barmas, Maud Powell, Helen Ware, Louis Persinger, Arthur Hartmann and others.

Paisley—Pupils of Mrs. Paisley's piano Class in Ottawa, Ill., gave a recital on November 21.

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS

The following brief sketch about the famous singing teacher, Mme. Marchesi, by Mrs. Burton, formerly Mary Howe, who created enthusiasm on two continents by the beauty of her voice and charming personality, recently appeared in the Clinton (Mass.) Daily Item, and a copy was sent the writer, who believes the story will be of interest to the readers of Music News. —Ed.

Death of Marchesi

The death of Madame Mathilde Marchesi, in London, marks the passing of the most famous teacher of singing in recent times. She was a woman of remarkable intelligence and executive ability and of a very high degree of musical talent, being thoroughly equipped for the profession in which she succeeded so wonderfully.

After a rather brief but successful career as a singer, Madame Marchesi began teaching at the conservatory in Vienna. I have often heard her speak of her early struggles and poverty before she had won recognition. She was the mother of ten children, all of whom died very young, excepting Stella, wonderfully gifted in poetic talent, who died at the age of eighteen, and Blanche, now a well-known vocal teacher in London.

It was my good fortune to have two years of study under Marchesi in Paris. From her I learned much in regard to style and finish and understanding of vocal effect. Probably no modern teacher has so thoroughly understood what is known as the colorature style of singing and the effective use of the head voice.

In Marchesi's home I had the pleasure of meeting many of the great French composers, such as Massenet, whom I frequently heard sing and accompany his own songs, and Ambroise Thomas. The latter was kind enough to show great interest in my voice and talent, and with him I studied the role of Ophelia, it being his wish that I should appear at the grand opera in Paris, in that role.

Probably Marchesi counted more successful singers among her pupils than any other teacher in the world. She was a clever business woman, and always availed herself of the ablest assistants chosen from the grand opera and the opera comique. Her recommendation and advice were considered of great value.

MARY HOWE BURTON.

♮ ♮ ♮

Lucia di Lammermoor

This favorite opera should have been favored by a capacity house when presented Saturday evening, November 29. Unfortunately a very evenly sung and most meritorious production was greeted by only a handful of people. Evelyn Scotney made a perfect Lucia; Vincenzo Tanlongo (debut) was a satisfactory Sir Eduardo di Ravenswood and won laurels for himself as being a tenor of good qualities. The conductor was Mr. Ralph Lyford, and only praise can be spoken of the work of the orchestra under his command. An especially notable feature of the evening was the superb ensemble in the 'Sextet."

♮ ♮ ♮

At the Boston Opera House

The Boston Opera Company began the third week of the season with the first performance this winter of Puccini's opera "Madama Butterfly," on Monday, December 8, the title role being sung by Lucrezia Bori, who was new in the part here.

The role of Suzuki was sung by Jeska Swartz-Morse, the Pinkerton was Leon Laffitte, and Mario Ancona was a new Sharpless. Elsewhere in the cast were Miss Heliane and MM. Giaccono and Neumarker.

On Wednesday evening occurred the second performance of Fevrier's "Monna Vanna," which will probably be the last until the latter part of the season. The cast was Mary Garden, Lucien Muratore, Vanni Marcoux and Paolo Ludiker.

Friday night will be notable for the season's premiere of Verdi's "Aida." The title role will be sung by Elizabeth Amsden and Amneris will be taken by Margherita D'Alvarez, the new contralto. The event of the evening will be the return of Florencio Constantino, after an absence of nearly two years. He sings Radames on Friday night. Paolo Ludiker sings Ramfis, and Amonasro falls to Mario Ancona. Michele Sampieri sings the King, Myrna Sharlow is a priestess and Lorenzo Fusco the messenger.

The Saturday afternoon performance will be "Thais," presented for the first time this season. Mary Garden will appear as "Thais." The Athanael will be Henry Danges, the new French baritone, who will make his debut in this part. The Nicias will be Vincenze Tanlonge, the young Italian tenor. Elsewhere in the cast will be Mmes. Rienskaja, Heliane and Swartz-Morse and Scotney-White, and MM. Wronski and Garnd. Mr. Strony will be in the conductor's seat.

On Saturday night "The Barber of Seville" will be presented. The Rosina will be Irene Jonani, a charming young American singer, who will make her debut. The Figaro will be Rodolfo Fornari, Luigi Tavecchia will sing Bartele, and others in the cast will be Alfredo Ramella, Jose Mardones, Ernesto Giaccone, Attilio Pulcini and Elvira Leveroni. The conductor will be Arnaldo Schiaveni.

♮ ♮ ♮

With Schools and Teachers

Miss Hedwig Schroeder of the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music gave a pianoforte recital at Jordan Hall December 3. This was the sixth concert of the present conservatory season. Miss Schroeder's programs included the spirited "Seguidilla" by Albeniz, an old French "Gavotte" by an unknown composer of the sixteenth century, Schumann's "Novellete" in D major, and selections from Brahms, Scarlatti, Debussy, Chopin and Liszt. The pianist, who was born in Leipzig, is a daughter of Alwyn Schroeder, the well known 'cellist. She was a pupil of Carl Stasny of the New England Conservatory, Heinrich Gebhard and Mme. Hopekirk. She began teaching at the conservatory in 1912.

Among those securing positions through the agency of Henry C. Lohee, the well known writer and College and Church Choir Bureau manager, Miss Ida I. Wilson has been especially fortunate. The following item from a Lowell, Mass. (her home city) daily, tells the story of some of her engagements:

"The many friends and acquaintances of the well known contralto, Miss Ida Isabelle Wilson, will be glad to learn of her progress and success as a vocal teacher. For the past two years, after leaving the Boston Opera Company, Miss Wilson has been teaching in Nova Scotia as head of the vocal department at Acadia seminary. Seeking further advancement in another week she goes to Cleveland, O., to accept a very flattering offer at Lake Erie Ladies' College. Many have watched with interest this young lady's exceptional talent and the best wishes of her friends go with her."

♮ ♮ ♮

The fifth annual musicale of Beta Chapter, Mu Phi Epsilon, which is composed of women students of the New England Conservatory of Music, was given in Jordan Hall Monday evening, December 1. This sorority, which is active in conservatory affairs, was founded at the Metropolitan College of Music, Cincinnati, November 13, 1913. It has chapters in fifteen well known musical institutions. Beta chapter, which is one of the most flourishing, has for honorary members Cecile Chaminade, Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Louise Homer, Jane Osborn-Hanna, Mme. Cahier, Alice Nielson, Kathleen Parlow, Germaine Schnitzer, Maggie Teyte and Tina Lerner. A chapter honorary member is Grace Bonner Williams. The program of Monday evening included the "Three Idyls from Arcady" by H. Alexander Matthews, sung by Marguerite Neekamp; violin selections from Wagner and Benda by Ada Allen Chadwick; Hasselman's "Priere" and Schnecker's "Mazurka" for the harp, by Lydia White; two works by Popper for the violoncello, played by Ora Larthardi; songs by Thomas, Hahn and Gounod, Alice Davis; Chopin's "Polonaise" in F sharp major, Pearl Talbot. The accompanists were Constance Freeman and Maybelle Day.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Faelten Pianoforte School held one of its interesting and instructive recitals in Huntington Chambers Hall Thursday night, December 11. The senior class took part in ensemble and there were several soloists on the program. Another recital will be given Thursday night, December 18.

♮ ♮ ♮

Recitals and Concerts

Fritz Kreisler played a program of seventeenth and eighteenth century music at Symphony Hall, Sunday afternoon, December 7, representing the composer, Friedmann Bach, son of Sebastian; Couperin and Carter, Frenchmen; Pugnani, Corelli and Tartini, Italians; Gluck, Schumann, Mozart, Kreisler and Paganini.

♮ ♮ ♮

A program of French, German, Swedish and English songs was given before the Lexington, Mass., Outlook Club, Tuesday afternoon, December 2, by Mme. Marie Sundelius, with Mrs. Dudley T. Fitts at the piano.

♮ ♮ ♮

Jordan Hall will be the scene of a piano recital by Harold Henry, Monday afternoon, December 15, at 3 o'clock.

North Shore School of Music
Broadway and Leland Ave.
Regular Courses, Certificates, Diplomas and Degrees.

Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. THEORY, Charles J. Haake. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul
ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated)
TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868
CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

An Interview with Julia Claussen

Musically thinking, the world is inclined to credit Italy and Germany, principally, with the wonderful voices of the opera stage, though America in the latter century has produced so many stars of the first magnitude that recognition is being given us. It is Sweden, however, that has sent forth singers such as have never been surpassed, notably Jenny Lind.

Added to the list of really great artists from Sweden, or any country for that matter, is Mme. Julia Claussen, of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, and one of the few and foremost contraltos of the world. In the brief though illustrious history of this company, there certainly has not appeared a voice of more marvelous beauty, accompanied by such mastery of art as in this instance. Was ever a more powerful, more wonderful trio gathered together in one company than Mary Garden, Mme. Claussen and Titta Ruffo?

As further regards Mme. Claussen's art is not the purpose of this article—one has but to hear. However, an insight into the private life of this singer, and a brief recalling of her career in the making undoubtedly will prove to be interesting to the readers.

Most attractive of all, in a face not beautiful in the generally accepted sense of the word, but expressive to a remarkable degree, are her wonderful dark eyes. Matching in color is her hair, which, contrary to what is supposed to be characteristic of her countrywomen, is not golden. In stature she is tall, strongly built, and well knit, not stout. Also, she has perhaps the most beautiful hands this writer has ever seen.

Mme. Claussen did not come of a musical family. In fact, her predecessors were all from very diverse walks of life. That little Julia would be a singer was realized by all at a very young age, for musically, she was most precocious when other children are learning to repeat their letters. At the age of fifteen, following the above, it is not surprising to know that the child was singing oratorio in Stockholm, the city of her birth. It was here that she also held her first church position. During this time, Mme. Claussen pursued her studies at the Conservatory of Music (Stockholm), where she won all honors. Later she was sent to the Academy of Music at Berlin, and was placed under the tutelage of Professor Frederich.

Later in life, more honors of a different kind, also because of her musical achievements, were heaped upon the singer. Mme. Claussen has been made a member of the Royal Swedish Academy of Music; has been the guest of the King of Wurtemberg, at the Royal Palace, which invitation followed immediately upon her great success at the Royal Opera at Stuttgart, last summer. At the time when he was Crown Prince, the King of Sweden himself entertained Mme. Claussen at the Palace, and invited her to sing duets with him.

Though having all natural gifts of the great artist, Mme. Claussen has risen to the heights by unceasing labor, without which she declares there is no permanent success. "Even with her present engagement with the company," said Mr. Claussen, in speaking for Mme. Claussen, "she works from six to eight hours daily. She has at her instant command seventy opera roles, not to speak of her wonderful recital, repertoire, besides oratorio—indeed the rarest of her art! Madame has been known to learn an entire role in an afternoon—done under pressure, and great necessity, of course—and that was in French, a language not so easy for a Swedish woman, as for some."

"Will you speak of your ideas as regards foreign study for our American girls?" I asked. "Well," returned Mr. Claussen, "that is not easy to discuss, for me, a foreigner. America has perhaps some of the most excellent teachers to be found, and great are the advantages here in her homeland, for the American girl. But she ought to go to Europe—to broaden—don't misunderstand me. You see it is for her to do that, as the Swedish or French woman must go to Germany—for Wagner let us say—and the German singer to, perhaps, Italy, etc. Do you see?

"Oh, yes, America has many great artists—Madame often speaks with pleasure of some of her appearances with them. There is your Mr. Whitehill, a fine artist with a glorious voice, and such a nice American gentleman.

"It is not strange that we are very fond of America—perhaps it is strange that we are leaving our children in this country when we return home next summer," continued the speaker. We shall have them little Americans, educated here in the ways and customs of your people."

Sonja and Bojan, the children in question, are beautiful, healthy youngsters, aged respectively 9 and 11 years. It is the elder, however, that inherits her mother's talent, and already has distinguished herself at the Royal Academy as a pianist of real ability. Like Schumann-Heink, Madame is a most devoted mother. F. B.

Oglesby, Ind.—The closing concert of the Oglesby Choral Society was given on Monday evening to an audience of 700, and was an enthusiastic success. Milon R. Harris is the director of this body of singers and on Monday night he appeared also in tenor solos.

MRS. TORGERSON AT GRAND RAPIDS

The Grand Rapids News comments as follows on the work of Helena Stone Torgerson and other artists:

The artist program given at the St. Cecilia, Friday afternoon, was especially interesting, not only because of the excellence of the musicians, but because of the special interest which attaches to Mrs. Helena Stone Torgerson, harpist of Chicago, formerly of this city, and a former member of the St. Cecilia. Mrs. Torgerson and her associate artists, who were Barbara Wait, contralto; Amy Keith Jones, violinist, and Florence Hodge, pianist and accompanist, all of Chicago, gave a very pleasing program. The opening number was a new composition, a "Sonata" for violin and piano by John Carpenter, in four movements, larghetto, allegro, energico, largo mistico and allegro giocoso. This is a composition of great beauty which at times shows a tendency toward the modern school, but makes melody its basic themes. It is a work which would reveal new beauties with repeated hearings. The sonata was played by Miss Jones and Miss Hodge. Mrs. Torgerson followed with harp numbers. She is not only an artist, but a composer and the group of her own composition, including "Study for Left Hand," "A Butterfly," "By the Brook," "Reverie" and "Concert Waltz" are all valuable and no doubt permanent contributions to harp literature and she has written into her compositions a large measure of the inherent musical quality which is expressed in her playing. Mrs. Torgerson used for this recital a new concert harp which was built especially for her, the bigness and resonance of the tone being very exceptional, as this harp is built on larger scale than is commonly used. In response to an encore Mrs. Torgerson added another delightful number. She received many floral tributes. Miss Barbara Wait sang for the first time in this city. She has a pure contralto voice of wonderful volume and a beautiful quality in the lower and middle part of her range. It is essentially a dramatic voice. She sang the aria "Amour, vein Aider" from "Samson and Delilah" by Saint-Saens and later in the program sang a group, including "Verborgenheit," by Hugo Wolf, "Boat Song," by Harriet Ware and "Blossom Time" by Needham, adding an encore number. Miss Jones, the violinist, played a very interesting group, "American Indian Legend" by Carl Busch, "Serenade Espagnole" by Walter Dellers, "Orientale" by Cesar Cui, and "Zephyr" by Hubay, and she also added an encore number. The program closed with a beautiful ensemble number. The "Agnus Dei" by Bizet was sung by Miss Wait with accompaniment by Miss Hodge at [illegible] piano, Miss Jones violin, and Mrs [illegible] gerson harp, and was superbly do[illegible] vertisement.)

Music in New York

By ABBIE STEPHENS FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall

Thanksgiving just about past and Christmas coming nearer and nearer makes a sort of hiatus in the professional vocations, which reminds me that a great singer (who, by the way, enjoys reading Music News), chatting with me over my very newest teacups and orange pekoe a few afternoons ago, laughingly suggested that people might vary the eternally stereotyped methods of their gift-making by engaging musicians and singers for special occasions and as special gifts. A suggestion which ought appeal to the up-to-date exquisites constantly upon the qui vive for new ideas in self-expression, or eager for a reorientation of their individual social schemes.

"And you know," the singer went on (by the way I might confide to you that it was none other than Australia's leading soprano, Marie Narelle, who suggested the innovation) "the idea is not only a delightful one, but its very novelty would be an appeal for its adoption."

Mme. Narelle is the soul of enthusiasm when she is considering some interesting thought or project, and her eyes began to dance as she unfolded her idea of immediately making a gift—a Christmas gift—of herself and her art upon a near-at-hand occasion, which promises to be a unique function, for the novelties included in its elaborate program.

Which reminds me that Mme. Narelle was the conspicuous feature of the Brooklyn Apollo Club's Christmas concert, and she shone in a bower of beauty, so to speak, when she let that glorious voice of hers float out and fill the great spaces of Brooklyn's opera house, the Academy of Music, on Thursday evening, December 4; for the great stage, where all the celebrated opera stars have queened it, was turned into a blooming garden, a marvel of the genius of the floral decorator, for the queenly soprano from the Antipodes, where nature provides lovely flowers and lovely women to queen it in a poetic setting.

Gowned in white with a tunic of pearls—pearls in profusion—the singer won her audience from the moment she magnetized them by her radiant presence. And when she sang, each auditor felt instinctively that the voice matched the loveliness of the singer. And how she does pour her soul into these vocal bursts. How archly sentimental, yet sanely sentimental, was her rendition of that old aria of Bishop's, "Should He Upbraid?" sung instead of some ambitious, hackneyed, modern aria or showpiece, and by request.

With what exquisite daintiness did she ...est its telling lines; how adroitly reveal ...t and resonance of the enamored co... ...who, in this priceless song, shows ... conquered beauty with power ...loy the instruments of her ...

...ent to her credit is the ... this song with all its poetry made clear, with a voice of mellow charm and freshness and with the persuasive insistence of an intelligent singer who, understanding the sentiment of her song, delivers it with flawless enunciation and logical emphasis.

Mme. Narelle reveled in the classics. She added Papa Haydn to the list, and never "maiden bound her hair with ribands rare," as Mme. Narelle achieved this sometimes difficult process. If Lubin was present in hiding (and this is quite possible in Brooklyn's great auditorium), he bided his time and offered his appreciation in the green room, where many others had gone to lay their tributes at the feet of their favorite.

Applause and flowers were lavished upon the singer for all her numbers, and these included a ravishing little "Lament," sung, not in its native Italian, but in English, an invariable rule at these concerts, where the vernacular is held in high esteem. Three Irish songs, a group including the tumultuously acclaimed "O'Donnell Aboo," went to the hearts of the audience, as did her several encore numbers, including Celeste Heckscher's never-to-be-forgotten "Norse Maiden's Lament."

En passant it may be stated that Mme. Narelle, though in superb voice, rose from a sick bed to sing in Brooklyn. Indeed it was a matter of doubt whether she would be able to appear, and Mme. Stella Barre, the charming young coloratura soprano, stood ready to rush into the breach. Fortunately Mme. Narelle is no weak, indeterminate prima donna, and she made a sacrifice in order not to disappoint this huge assemblage of Brooklyn's fashionables.

♮ ♮ ♮

And speaking of fashionables, something more than a coterie of New York's "swell" set was present on the evening of December 5, in Aeolian Hall, to hear two prominent favorites, Nevada Van der Veer and Reed Miller, vocally discourse.

Fashionable people at the opera may indulge in some small hand-clapping, but at this concert it appeared to be fairly shaken out of its apathy—and why?

Well, everything appeared to be just right and in true harmony.

I had a disturbing headache which made it impossible for me to hear the first half of the concert, though I do not usually plead guilty to late coming and early departing, which is the way, usually, not of a man with a maid, but of the full-fledged "critic" with the often helpless—sometimes hapless—artists.

Mme. Van der Veer was a dream in white and crystal with a silvery fillet binding her hair. Nature has given her comeliness, a gracious air—assets of value in a day when people delight to dispense with the overdignified, singing poseuse.

One feels that here are two gifted people admirably mated in their lives and their art—ideals for the American professional.

Mr. Miller approaches his task with befitting seriousness as well as comprehension.

Both artists were in admirable voice and sang with all the niceties of style and diction, with appropriate mode as well as mood.

We append the well-made program:

1.

Duet—Wohl mir, Jesus ist gefunden.....Bach
Mme. Van der Veer and Mr. Miller

2.

Botschaft ..... Brahms
Immer leiser wird mein Schlummer.....Brahms
Zuei Strausse .....Kaun
Nichts ..... Strauss
Mr. Miller

3.

Radamisto ..... Handel
Il pleure dans mon coeur..... Debussy
Le marriage des Roses.....Franck
Waldseligkeit (First time in America).....Ulmer
Glaube nur.....(First time in America).....Ulmer
Mme. Van der Veer

4.

Wind of the East.....Hardling
In Moonlight..... Elgar
Hail ye tyme of Holiedayes.....Branscombe
Before the Dawn.....Meyer.
Mr. Miller

5.

Voice of the Rain.....McCoy
Blackbirds Song .....Scott
Remembrance ..... MacFarlane
A Sky of Roses.....Salter
Mme. Van der Veer

6.

Duet—A Book of Verses.....Bantock
(Omar Khayyam)
Mme. Van der Veer and Mr. Miller

♮ ♮ ♮

A serious-minded musical wag regards pianism as the field for the aristocrat in music. "Anybody can be a singer," says he, "but to know how to manage the keyboard is something else." Of course I disagree with him, for singing is a science as well as the divine art, and some day, patient reader, I may tell you why. But when all's said and done, we unconsciously consider the pianist as we do the "lily of the field," though in a much different sense, for while he "toils not," in the sense of digging the soil, "neither does he spin;" his strenuousness of apprenticeship is almost a continuous performance. But I'll spare you a learned disquisition. Disquisitions are out of order in the twentieth century. People want their essays, not like their turkey-trotting early, often and all the time, but in very reduced tabloid form.

So breathe again. I shall have not a word about the philosophy of the keyboard; I'll say a word about two very admirable pianists, and you've heard me speak about them before.

Place aux dames! First enter one petite, Mignonne, Mistress Germaine Schnitzer (you see she's married now and promoted from Mlle. to Mme.), who was the bright particular star at the interesting fete musicale given in and of the New York Poliklinik by its auxiliary of devoted society women—philanthropists in petticoats.

if these useful articles of feminine attire are not relegated to the ragbag, who, as Dr. L. Weiss, the noted specialist and president of the Poliklinik, said to me, are adored by their acquaintances and friends for their unselfish devotion to a noble cause.

The function, one of the annual exclusive affairs of this town, came off in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria, with its double tier of glittering boxes.

Mme. Schnitzer, who is in mourning for her mother, looking a slip of a girl in her sombre gown, was, of course, the "star" of the occasion, and bravely she carried off her honors. Her numbers were played brilliantly, as in the Schubert-Taussig "Marche Militaire" and the "Blue Danube Waltz" (Strauss-Schulz-Evler), or with the disarming delicacy and daintiness as in the Schubert-Fischoff "Rosamunde." Also she bravely began her first group with the well known Rachmaninoff "Prelude." But then there is no need for the display of courage when you have the Schnitzer individuality.

This charming artiste will do little professional work this season. She is playing with housekeeping; or, rather, at that branch of domestic science. But next season? That will be another story.

Pianists to the right of me; pianists to the left of me! But that was Sunday night of November 30, when I went down to the Hippodrome and just devoured Bachaus note by note—not in gulps, but with discrimination—and he surely provided a feast. There was the Liszt concerto played with the Nahan Franko Orchestra.

After all, this concerto is in the nature of a test piece for the Beethoven prophet, and surely few pianists may hope to contend with Bachaus in this field. He has Beethoven par coeur et par amour. There's no getting away from that fact, and he does not have to write long explanatory letters of how he prepares his designs at home and feels himself competent to change his plans and decorations and tempi and everything else when he appears in public.

Advisedly I say Bachaus doesn't have to explain. His playing does that for him.

When he plays Liszt's concerto you suddenly discover why Verdi puts a stirring theme into the second act of "Aida." Liszt had it first—inherited it, perhaps, from his Magyar musical forbears. In a word, Bachaus clarifies and analyzes for your delectation the brilliant evolutions of the composer's intricacies. You can count upon his satiny, steely technic for that. Technic? A bewildering technic. Here's where I turn to scripture to aid me. Here's where I would almost exclaim, "O Bachaus, if ever I forget your technic, may my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth," O Bachaus! But what is the use of super-energy in epithets? There is but one Bachaus, and I am his apostle. Can I say more than this excepting to say that he played the Liszt "Campanella" as an encore during the second half of the program? Pen and ink refuse to tell how he interpreted the delicious thing, because a pen is a wooden and steel atom purposely constructed to mock at a poor scribe suddenly bereft of the powers of expression.

When Bachaus comes to Chicago, send in requests for the concerto and the "Campanella," lovely, loveliest alliteration, and then you will know why I balk at saying more. The rest would be, as the Germans cleverly put it, "schwaermerei."

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Horatio Connell, baritone, appeared in recital in Aeolian Hall on the afternoon of November 28, and sang before a large audience of intelligence and discrimination.

An earnest student, gifted with insight, and reverencing his art, he was able to give his audience genuine pleasure, and to prove his thorough acquaintance with the various and varied schools of music from which he drew his program numbers.

He has a true respect for diction and the underlying intellectual values of verse. His resources are not limited, and he is thoroughly at home in his medium of self-expression. His singing of oratorio numbers of Haydn and Bach was broad and satisfying.

His rendition of the Brahms numbers and songs by Hugo Wolf were marked by the note of sincerity. All in all we have reason to be proud of this sterling baritone.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Mary Clute, soprano, had a great success in New Rochelle on the evening of December 4. Her program numbers included Durante's "Danza, danza, fanciulla," "Der Schmied" by Brahms, and Gounod's "Le Printemps." Her arias were two in number, Handel's "O Had I Jubal's Lyre," sung with delightful legato and pearly runs, and the great aria of Astrafiammante "Gli Angui d'Inferno," from the "Magic Flute," sung in the original key and with a few F's in Alt added to those provided by Mozart. This aria, sung with great brio, fire and abandon, elicited the tumultous applause of the evening. Indeed, after the concert several enthusiasts declared her voice as fine as that of Melba.

Miss Clute sang as encores, "The Last Rose of Summer" and Mrs. Heckscher's wonderfully beautiful "Norse Maiden's Lament."

♮ ♮ ♮

Also we are to have the "Rosenkavalier" at the Metropolitan with a greatly increased schedule of prices. What with the bewildering changes of tariff, tax and scarcity of money for life's necessities, it remains to be seen if the multitude will rush at the bait of a Strauss opera at $10 per seat in the parquet.

♯ ♯ ♯

University—A concert was given by the University of Chicago Orchestra, J. Beach Cragun, director, at the Leon Mandel Hall of the University, on December 9.

BONCI THIRD AMERICAN TOUR SEASON 1912-13

"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York — Knabe Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER
CONTRALTO
Personal Address, 1003 Heberton St., Pittsburgh, Pa. — Management Haensel & Jones, Aeolian Hall, New York

MARIE NARELLE AUSTRALIAN SOPRANO
Management SUTORIUS
ABBIE S. FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall, Sole Representative — No. 1 West 34th St.

MR. & MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS — Address 330 West 58th St. — NEW YORK CITY

PIANIST BACHAUS Management Loudon Charlton
BALDWIN PIANO USED

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address—
Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av.
NEW YORK

BISPHAM
All communications to
Private Address 44 West 44th St.
NEW YORK

WILLIAM A. WHITE

I am in receipt of your favor of recent date; also of your new book on "Harmony and Ear Training." I have looked through the book with a great deal of interest and congratulate you upon the many original ideas it contains and upon the excellent manner in which the subject matter is treated. I think you approach the study of harmony from the proper point of view, and as an exegesis of the harmonic fabric it is most certainly illuminating and the most logical work I know of.

Curiously enough, I have been struggling along the same lines that are outlined in your book and have attempted to approach the matter through the ears rather than through the eyes. I think your book will have a tendency to revolutionize the study of harmony and will make an invaluable text book. (Signed) P. C. LUTKIN,

Dean Northwestern University School of Music.

DELMA-HEIDE

MAESTRO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO

30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris

New Organ Music

Federlein, G. H.	Legend	-	60c
Frysinger, J. F.	Traumlied	-	75c
Frysinger, J. F.	Reverie	-	60c
Kinder, Ralph	In Moonlight		50c
Kinder, Ralph	In Springtime		75c
Johnston, E. F.	Evensong	-	60c

Have your name enrolled on our "Organists' Mailing List" and be kept up-to-date.

J. Fischer & Bro., New York 7, 8 & 11 BIBLE HOUSE

T. Francis Hughes

TENOR 75 Auditorium Bldg. Chicago, Ill.

Concert and Choir Bureau

HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director

(In Summy's Music Store)

64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

COMPOSITIONS

CELESTE D. HECKSCHER

ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.

Novello Edition, N. Y.

Chicago Piano College

(Piano-Musicianship)

Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors

Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

GRACE GROVE

ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST

609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Grant Tenor KIMBELL

Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park

Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST

Kimball Hall Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

JOHN R. RANKL Bass-Baritone

PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL

609 Fine Arts Building Phone Harrison 6880

ELLA C. BIGELOW

TEACHER OF PIANOFORTE

AKRON, OHIO

Julius BRANDER

VIOLINIST TEACHER

54 Auditorium Bldg. Home Phone Edgewater 2755

People & Events

ST. PAUL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The third popular concert by the Saint-Paul Symphony Orchestra, Walter Henry Rothwell, conductor, was given Sunday afternoon before an audience which, though somewhat lacking in numbers, expressed an attitude of the greatest appreciation and enthusiasm both toward the conductor and the soloist, who was George Klass, the new second concertmaster.

Mr. Klass' playing revealed a most finished style and beauty of tone, together with a poetic imagination and a wealth of temperament. The playing of the brilliant first movement of Tschaikowsky's "Concerto in D Major," opus 35, was deserving of the greatest praise.

The program opened with Hohman's "March of Homage," followed by Goldmark's ballet music from "The Queen of Sheba," which was brilliantly played. Wagner's "Traume," a beautiful transcription, arranged for orchestra by the late Theodore Thomas, coming next, was beautifully played Jaernefett's "Praeludium" and "Berceuse" proved delightful, and the program concluded with the overture to Rossini's "William Tell."

♮ ♮ ♮

The Symphony Orchestra at the third evening concert had for its assisting soloist Maggie Teyte. The symphony presented was the one in D major, "Without Minuet," No. 46, of Mozart, scored for two flutes, two oboes, two horns, two bassoons, two trumpets, kettledrums and strings, and was received with enthusiasm. The playing of the violins was notably fine and the entire work was admirably played. Miss Teyte was heard to best advantage with the piano, although the "Traume" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" was sung with beautiful effect. This she sang together with a fine selection in place of the "Ave Maria" from Max Bruch's "Das Neuerkrenz," the score of which did not arrive in time. Richard Strauss' "Heimliche Aufforderung" was sung as an encore. The Charpentier aria from "Louise," "Depuis le jour," with the Leoni song "The Birth of the Dawn," sung as an encore, was charming. Tschaikowsky's overture fantasy, "Romeo and Juliet," and Wagner's prelude to "The Mastersingers of Nuremburg," concluded the program. M. W.

♯♯♯

JENNIE F. W. JOHNSON

Engagements filled by Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto, during the month of November:

November 3—Church of the Epiphany.
November 8—Peoria, Ill.
November 10—Afternoon, Amateur Club.
November 10—Evening, Gary, Ind.
November 12—Ripon, Wis.
November 13—Evanston, Ill.
November 17—Lake View Musical Club.
November 19—Bach Choral Society.
November 22—Kimball Hall, Chicago.
Nov. 24—Milwaukee, Wis.
November 30—Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, city.

CECIL FANNING IN LINCOLN, NEB.

Cecil Fanning and H. B. Turpin appeared in Lincoln, on December 1, before a large and enthusiastic audience, the occasion being the third attraction in the artist course of the University School of Music. A more satisfying artistic combination than these superb artists is hardly imaginable. Here we find all the elements which make for a perfect experience, such as a high degree of musicianship and individuality, coupled with superlative interpretative powers. Cecil Fanning possesses the highest average of vocal attainments with not a single disturbing influence. Preserving at all times a simple dignity, with straightforwardness, naturalness and simplicity, he communicates his message in bearing, voice and facial expression; all of which is done with an ease which is something short of phenomenal. In view of these facts he should be accorded rank with the greatest of celebrities.

SIDNEY SILBER.

♯♯♯

FLORENCE HODGE

Miss Florence Hodge gave an organ recital at the First Presbyterian Church in Nashville, Tenn., on November 25, her program being a representative one of works by Thiele, Guilmant, Bach, Bonnet, Piutti, Brewer, Mendelssohn, Lemare, Flagler, Horsman and Wagner. The Nashville banner comments as follows:

Seldom have the people of Nashville had the opportunity of enjoying a rarer treat than on Tuesday night, when Miss Florence Hodge of Chicago rendered a brilliant program on the magnificent pipe organ of the First Presbyterian Church. An audience that completely filled the church was present. That Miss Hodge is an organist of remarkable technical skill and interpretative powers was demonstrated by the manner in which each number was given. She had complete mastery of the great instrument from the opening chord of the beautiful "Chromatic Fantasie" by Thiele, until the last deep tones of Wagner's grand march "Tannhauser" had died away. Each number of the program was a distinctive one, ranging from Brewer's "Autumn Sketch" to the brilliant "Finale from Sonata Op. 22," by Piutti, and "Marche Funebre et Chant Seraphique," by Guilmant.

No number on the program was rendered with finer or more exquisite effect than was Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" and Lemare's "Andantino" was another of the more pleasing pieces. While the entire program was classic to the highest degree, there were no heavy numbers, the whole list being exceedingly artistic and pleasing. The audience manifested appreciation by frequent encores and bursts of spontaneous, though subdued applause. (Advertisement)

♯♯♯

Teachers' Association—The La Salle County Teachers' association gave a fine concert in November, when Helena Bingham and Arthur Frazer of Chicago appeared as well as many local musicians.

The Piano Pedals By MRS. A. M. VIRGIL, Clear, Concise, Melodious, Results Unequaled. Price $1.00. Sale unparalleled. Address Dept. C.
The Virgil Piano School Co. 42 West 76th St., New York

CANTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The Canton (Ohio) Symphony Orchestra gave a highly successful concert Tuesday, November 25, to a fair-sized but thoroughly appreciative audience.

The orchestra, which is entirely volunteer, is under the capable direction of Jean de Backer of Pittsburgh. Herman R. Schmidt is concertmeister. These men, together with those serving at the various instruments or in the management, are doing a great work for Canton in presenting the works of the great masters.

Of the program, the "Andante" from the Fifth Symphony was the most popular. The accompaniments were well done. While it would be unfair to judge the work of this orchestra by the standards of the great professional symphony organizations, it is safe to say that no entirely volunteer orchestra in the United States could have given a better account of itself in so good a program.

The soloist was Myrtle Elvyn, the pianist. Her work exemplifies the best in modern piano playing. Full of musical feeling, yet free from exaggeration sometimes affected by young artists—and many older ones—with a technic adequate but not obtrusive, and withal a goodly picture to look upon, she took her audience by storm.

The next concerts are February 3, Vera Barstow, soloist, and April 13, Marie Rappold, soloist.

HERBERT EDMUND HUTCHINSON.

———♯♯♯———

AT THE WARRINGTON

One of the most famous farce comedies ever produced in the American theater will be presented by the stock company at the Warrington Theater, week of December 15th.

"All the Comforts of Home" was written by that sterling actor and author, William Gillette, author of many successes, and was first produced in Boston, afterwards having long successful runs in New York and Chicago.

The farce is an extremely amusing one and keeps the audience in a convulsion of laughter, the laughter starting in the first minute of the play and keeping up incessantly every moment until the finish of the fourth act.

This comedy is equally as funny as "Charley's Aunt," "Are You a Mason?" and "What Happened to Jones."

Week of December 22 at the request of many of the Warrington patrons, "Graustark" will be repeated. This is a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's romance, which was made by Miss Grace Hayward, the leading lady. It was first produced at the Warrington theater in the season of 1910-11, when it proved to be one of the dramatic successes of the stock company. For the coming production the Warrington cast will fit the efficient roles exceedingly well, and a handsome Warrington production will be built. This should make an ideal Christmas week attraction.

SOFIA STEPHALI AT WATERTOWN

"Mme. Sofia Stephali, the noted speaker and singer, gave a concert-lecture last evening, and delighted a large audience. Her voice is a perfectly-handled soprano of sweet, lasting timbre. She is a lady of much culture. Her songs were of appropriate beauty."—The Washington (Pa).

"Mme. Sofia Stephali delighted a large audience of music lovers last night with the last of a set of fine concert-lectures.

"Yesterday afternoon half of the program was devoted to child songs and a large number of little tots were present to enjoy the concert. In the evening 'Music and Life' was the subject and the illusrative songs were rendered in a most masterful way"—Wheeling (W. Va.)

"There was a large attendance at the first concert-lecture last night given by Sofia Stephali, who sang a finely-arranged program. Her lecture was brief but interesting. Her singing was very pleasing."—The Watertown Standard. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

Amateur Musical Club—The concert of next Monday afternoon at Assembly Hall, will be given by Mrs. John Sidney Burnet, Eleanor W. Scheib, Llora Withers, Irene Stolofsky and Edith Clyde, with Carol Robinson, Edith Shaw Brown and Mme. Hess-Buss as accompanists.

HELEN STANLEY IN MONTREAL

That Helen Stanley is making much success as a member of the Montreal Grand Opera Company is indicated in the following correspondance in one of the Eastern Music Journals:

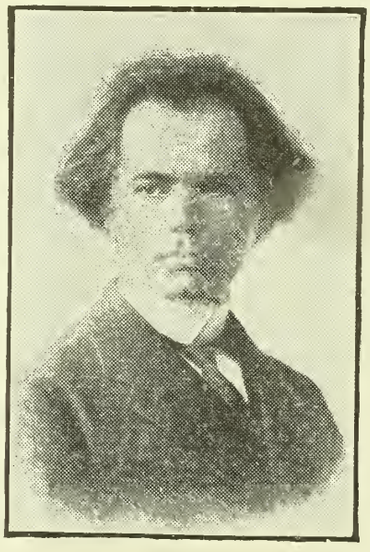
"The unqualified success of the week, however, was 'Thais,' with an absolutely new cast and a new conductor. Here again the achievement was a matter of individual brilliancy rather than of ensemble which at times was ragged. But no such combination as Helen Stanley, of the Chicago Opera, and Edmond Roselli, of the Grand Opera, has been heard here before in the two leading roles. Miss Stanley has one of those rare voices of the ethereal type, pure, effortless, perfectly controlled, apparently incapable of an uncertainty of pitch or impurity of tone; her acting is wholly the result of study and consideration, but it so thoroughly clever that it never seems labored." (Advertisement)

———♯♯♯———

Brown.—Miss Helen Axe Brown, soprano, appeared before the Drama Circle Club at Milwaukee Thursday afternoon, at the Wisconsin Hotel.

♮ ♮ ♮

Marcusson—Grace Brune Marcusson will sing at the concert for the benefit of the Jefferson Park Hospital, to be given at Orchestra Hall on December 15.



Jan Kubelik

Writes as follows of the

Mason & Hamlin

Mason & Hamlin Co.,

Gentlemen: It is with the utmost pleasure that I contemplate my tour in this country with your wonderful piano for an accompanying instrument. Its remarkable tone qualities will prove most satisfying to me and most pleasing to my audience.

Sincerely yours,

Jan Kubelik

Mason & Hamlin Pianos on exhibition and sale only at store of

Wabash and Jackson Cable Piano Company CHICAGO

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
504 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3614 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 7931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL. CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

EVAN WILLIAMS IN SAVANNAH

From the Savannah Morning News we clip the following:

"That Evan Williams knows how to sing no one could question who heard his delightful program. It was a program by no means commonplace, with a range from the classic compositions of Handel and Haydn to the lovely melodies of Schubert and the arias of such modern exponents of the opera as Bizet, Massenet and Puccini. In each group of songs Mr. Williams was thoroughly at home and though one might feel certain types more peculiarly suited to his voice and temperament than others, their variety displayed his versatility, the flexibility of his upper register, and his fine technical handling of the instrument of his voice. Many of his interpretations were boldly original, giving freedom to the artistic rendering of some of the more beautiful numbers.

"It was a triumph to invest Schubert's exquisite old 'Serenade,' so abused by amateurs, with fresh beauty, as he did. Schubert's "Wanderer," too, was charmingly sung, with a fine feeling for its descriptive quality, yet with no loss or cheapening of its rare music. The Schubert group as a whole was perhaps the most agreeable, unless it was the Handel group which preceded it. In response to the applause, after every group, Mr. Williams sang some familiar ballads which are popular favorites and which had been requested. They served to show the lyric quality of his voice in the simpler type of music, as did some of the special numbers on the program. As a last encore he sang 'Annie Laurie.'

"The concluding number was Rodolpho's narrative from 'La Boheme,' quite different in its style from anything else he sang and suggesting new possibilities for his voice. It was admirably given. All the songs were sung in English, evidently a concession to American taste, and Mr. Williams' very perfect enunciation helped wonderfully to atone for the liquid charm of the originals. His method is beyond criticism and could not fail to give pleasure to those trained in musical knowledge, while for the less tutored many of his songs have an intimate personal appeal." — (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

CAROL ROBINSON

Comment upon recital for Winona College, Winona Lake, Indiana:

Miss Robinson gave to the Winona audience conclusive proof of the justness of her reputation as a master of the pianoforte in the series beginning with Reger and ending with the tremendous "Polonaise in E Major" by Liszt. It is as a specially gifted Liszt student that Miss Robinson has won more fame than along any other lines. The brightness and sureness, the absolute purity of her tone work, the strength, poise and conscious mastery, all blended with a gracious personality, produce an interpretation at once original and full of power. The entire program was one of those rare events that are long remembered.—Warsaw (Ind.) Daily Union, November 25, 1913. (Advertisement)

THE GUILMANT MONUMENT

That America will feel a very personal interest in the Guilmant monument at Paris is indicated from the following statement:

The committee in Paris in charge of the funds being raised for the monument to be erected in the memory of the late Alexander Guilmant, has received the sum of francs 4459.90 ($900), as the amount raised in this country through the efforts of the American Committee.

Dr. William C. Carl received the following letter from Mr. Etienne Gaveau, the official treasurer:

"Dear Sir: I wish to thank you personally, both in my name and in the name of the Committee of the Guilmant Monument, for the check which you have handed in. The total amount of the subscriptions now aggregate ten thousand francs, including the sum you have given. Will you kindly transmit our thanks to the American subscribers, and receive, my dear sir, the assurance of our best regards."

Word has been received that the work on the monument is expected to be started this season, and when completed the monument will be placed at the side of the Trocadero, where M. Guilmant played for many years. EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

WILLIAM C. CARL, Chairman.
EDMUND JAQUES, Secretary and Treasurer.

Geo. Whitefield Andrews	Frank T. Miles
David Edgar Crozier	Frederick Maxson
Clarence Dickinson	James H. Rogers
Louis H. Eaton	Edward Rechlin
Charles Galloway	S. Tudor Strang
Edward Kreiser	Carl G. Schmidt
John Hermann Loud	Frederick W. Schlieder
Lawrence J. Munson	George Waring Stebbins
Everette E. Truette

———♯♯♯———

MUSICIANS CLUB IN NEW YORK

On Monday evening, December 8, the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Governors will be held at the club rooms, at 8 o'clock.

On Sunday evening, December 7, the program at the Musicians' Club will consist of songs and duets by Mary Helen Brown, sung by Mme. Buckhaut, soprano, and Frederick Gunther, bass-baritone, with the composer at the piano.

On Wednesday afternoon, December 10, the second of the series of lecture recitals will be given at the Musicians' Club, at 4 o'clock, by Frank Howard Warner, on "Tone Pictures, Ancient and Modern." These lectures are free to members and their guests.

TITTA RUFFO'S master
LELIO CASINI, recommends
HAMILTON HOPKINS
(Casini's Assistant for 4 Years in Milan)
710 Fine Arts Building
CHICAGO

IN BRIEFER FORM

Brown—Last Monday afternoon Miss Helen Axe Brown gave a song recital at the home of Miss Myra Pinney at Valparaiso.

♮ ♮ ♮

Lutton—Charles E. Lutton sang in recital at Rio, Ill., on December 5, and at Adair, Ill., on December 6.

♮ ♮ ♮

Detroit—Abram Ray Tyler gave "A Quiet Hour of Music" at Temple Beth El, Detroit, Mich., last Sunday evening.

♮ ♮ ♮

Lyric Quartet—A concert was given by the Lyric Quartet, at the Tabernacle Baptist Church, on last Friday evening.

♮ ♮ ♮

Sinai Temple—Miss Rose Blumenthal, soprano, was soloist at the Dunham Concert at Sinai Temple, last Sunday evening.

♮ ♮ ♮

Madrigal Club—The Chicago Madrigal Club, D. A. Clippinger, conductor, appeared in concert at Des Plaines on last Thursday evening.

♮ ♮ ♮

Cincinnati Conservatory—The Cincinnati Conservatory gave An Evening of Concertos with Orchestra on December 3, and an Evening of Ensemble Music on December 8.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mandy.—Arthur McClure, a pupil of Frank Mandy, plays a violin solo tonight at the Oak Park High School, his selection being "Souvenir de Amerique," by Vieuxtemps.

♮ ♮ ♮

Dunford.—Frank M. Dunford appeared as bass soloist with the Paulist Choristers under the direction of Father Finn at Springfield, Ill., December 5, and at Decatur, Ill., December 6.

♮ ♮ ♮

Henry—Harold Henry, the Chicago pianist, will give a recital at Jordan Hall in Boston, on the afternoon of December 15, and at Aeolian Hall in New York on the afternoon of December 16.

♮ ♮ ♮

Bergey.—Miss Nelle Bosen, soprano, an artist pupil of Theodore Bergey, appeared as soloist at Orchestra Hall, December 7 and 8, the occasion being the incidental program interpolating "Campus Mouser," the musical comedy being put on for a benefit. Miss Florence Benson assisted her at the piano. Miss Benson is a most talented pupil of Mrs. Theodore Bergey of the Bergey School.

♮ ♮ ♮

Hopkins—Mr. Hamilton Hopkins presented his pupils Herman Arenson and Leo Wysati, both tenors, at his studio, 710 Fine Arts Building, on last Saturday evening, in demonstration of his voice training. Mr. Arenson sang the "Death Scene" from "Othello," and an aria from "Pagliacci"; Mr. Wysati gave "O Prima Vera," a song written for Caruso, and "Questa e Quella" from "Rigoletto," and Mr. Hopkins was heard in the "Prologue" from "Pagliacci." The audience was so much impressed with the demonstration that Mr. Hopkins has consented to repeat it exactly on Friday evening of this week, at 8:15, in his studio.

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Brachen, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

Peoria Musical College 102-104 North Madison Avenue
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment PEORIA, ILLINOIS
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEA ector

Julia Culp Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY Bass-Baritone Oratorio Concert MURRISON MABEL Pianist Accompanist
JOINT-RECITALS Alliance Ohio

PROF. BERTRAND DE BERNYZ
VOICE SPECIALIST
also concerts and oratorios in Carnegie Hall & Aeolian Hall.
First teacher of Frieda Hempel, Metropolitan opera star, acknowledged by New York music critics as only successful rival of Mmes. Patti Melba and Sembrich, also teacher of many other eminent concert and operatic artists. Special course in TONE PRODUCTION, INTERPRETATION and OPERATIC ENSEMBLE. Special features: OPERA PERFORMANCES in NEW YORK THEATERS. Information, 58 W. 72nd St., New York City, "The Adrian"

Wm. Alfred White 522 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Practical Theory

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC MILWAUKEE, WIS.

MYRTLE Elvyn RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Kimball Piano Used Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Concert Direction M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av. New York

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
"A Ladder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys .50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice .50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST 106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS
Phone Austin 12717 5943 OHIO STREET
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT

WILLIAM HINSHAW
BARITONE
Of the Metropolitan Opera Company Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

FOR SALE—Steinway Baby Grand Piano; two years old; perfect condition; mahogany case; $700.00. Call prone North 458, between 9 and 12 a. m..

WANTED—Good accompanist; experienced in chorus work; good salary. Apply to C. A. Hutter, 501 Kimball Hall, any afternoon except Tuesday and Thursday.

TO RENT—Time in Studio; 84 Auditorium Bldg. Apply any morning.

HARMONY and composition by mail. Raymond Robinson, organist and choirmaster of Central Church, Boston. Address 6 Newbury st., Boston, Mass.

TO RENT—Unusually large Studio equipped with Grand and Upright piano, electric lights and fan. Reception room with telephone in connection. Tuesdays and Fridays from 3 o'clock on; 516 Kimball Hall.

GEORGE W. MUNRO

Voice Specialist

Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.

Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.

Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.

Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

Wm. Clare Hall
Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN
SOPRANO
Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital
429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

Music in America

ERIE, PENNSYLVANIA

The Erie Symphony Orchestra made its bow to the public last Sunday afternoon at the Colonial Theater, which was packed to the doors, many being turned away. It seems difficult to realize that we have at last a real symphony orchestra made up of Erie musicians, and such an orchestra as would be a pride to any city in the United States! If there were any doubts as to the artistic quality of the playing of this new organization, they were speedily dispelled as the opening measures of Weber's inspiring "Oberon" overture were heard, for from the very first the orchestra played with an assurance and finish that has seldom been equaled in Erie by any of the older symphony orchestras, and we have heard many, including the Boston, Theodore Thomas, New York, Pittsburgh and St. Paul. The program featured Schubert's B minor Symphony, "The Unfinished," and the playing of this exacting work was a veritable triumph for Mr. Kohler and his able co-workers. The balance of the program comprised an "Egyptian Ballet" by Luigini, which was very fetchingly interpreted, and Elgar's inspiring "Pomp and Circumstance Marches." The orchestra had the assistance of Fritz Goerner, 'cellist, who contributed to the program a "Serenade" of Volkmann, accompanied by the string choir and a group of three short numbers, "Orientale" (Cui), "Scottish Folk Airs" (Lindner), and "Harlequin" (Popper). Mr. Goerner made a very favorable impression and was heartily encored. The Apollo Club, another organization of Erie, which deserves and receives the support of the musicians of the city, was heard to splendid advantage in Sullivan's "Lost Chord," with orchestral accompaniment. To Mr. Franz Kohler, who has made this Erie Symphony Orchestra possible, the music-lovers of Erie offer their thankful appreciation and the wish is universal that this orchestra, which has had such a promising beginning, may ripen into a permanent organization of which any city might be proud. The orchestra is working on the program for their second concert, which will be given sometime in January. It is understood that the B Minor Symphony of Schubert will be repeated. This will be welcome news to the patrons of the first concert, for the memory of the splendid interpretation of this masterpiece is very pleasing. The second concert is being anticipated with great interest.

♮ ♮ ♮

Franz Egeneiff, whose recital at the Lawrence Hotel was postponed last month, on account of illness, will sing in the ball room of this hotel, next Friday evening, December 12. ALBERT H. DOWLING, JR.

———♯♯♯———

Messiah—"The Messiah" will be sung by the Handel Choral Society at the First M. E. Church of River Forest, on December 19, the soloists being Sibyl Sammis MacDermid, Esther Muenstermann, Elias Bredin and Arthur Middleton.

CINCINNATI, OHIO

The second symphony concert given by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, with Dr. Kunwald as conductor, Valso as the soloist, was given at Emery Auditorium, Friday afternoon, December 5, and Saturday evening, December 6. The usual large audience was in attendance and Dr. Kunwald, as always, was well received. As the piano soloist of the duo concerts, he won special applause.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Bert Lyon, baritone, gave a vocal recital at Cable Hall, Thursday evening, December 8. Mr. Lyon is a Cincinnati man and a very talented young musician.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Orpheus Club gave their first concert of the season at Emery Auditorium, Thursday evening, December 4. The club is larger than in former seasons, and their singing shows a marked improvement. They deserve special mention for their wonderful attacks and pianissimo work. The voices seem well blended with a great quality of tone. Mr. Edwin Glover, its capable conductor, deserves great praise in his efficient work with the club. Miss Christine Miller was the contralto soloist and instantly sprang into great favor with the audience. Her voice is beautiful and shows much improvement over her work with the club three years ago. A group of songs by Gustave Mahler showed her splendid musicianship. Miss Miller is one of the foremost contraltos today and is well deserving of the place. The Auditorium on this occasion was well filled, the audience being thoroughly interested throughout the program.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Herbert Schatz, baritone, delighted audiences on two consecutive evenings at the Hyde Park Town Hall entertainment given by the Church of the Divine Redeemer, by his beautiful singing of English songs. The future holds much in store for this young man, and his teacher and friends predict a brilliant career for him.

♮ ♮ ♮

Miss Gertrude Spindler, pupil of Mr. L. Drew Mosher, has just been engaged as understudy to the leading lady of the Iola Company, which opened in Atlantic City Monday, December 8. Miss Spindler has a brilliant soprano voice and was selected for this part over twenty-five other applicants in New York City. Her friends look forward to much success for Miss Spindler.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mrs. L. Drew Mosher, soprano, was the soloist for the Julia Ward Howe Club on Wednesday evening, December 10. Mrs. Mosher rendered a program of old English, German and modern English songs. Mrs. Mosher's beautiful voice has been heard many times in Cincinnati, and on this occasion the songs seemed unusually well adapted to her. She sings with grace and charm that only comes with long experience. L. D. M.

WICHITA, KANSAS

The Musician's club has entered upon its second year and the program as outlined for November, which was postponed until this next week includes a round table discussion and communications to the club, a current event discussion, and a program of concerted numbers in which Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lindberg will present a two-violin number, and a song cycle will be given by Mrs. Jetta Campbell-Stanley, Miss Elsie Randall, Harry Evans and Lucius Ades.

The December program will consist of Carols and other Christmas music, and the club will take up the discussion and formulating of plans for an impartial, nonuartisan publicity bureau to bring further to public attention at home and abroad the professional talent, opportunities and advantages Wichita has to offer to serious music students.

Miss Mabel Whitney, pianist, a pupil of Otto Fischer, gave a fine program at Philharmony Hall, November 6.

She was assisted by a vocal quartet whieh gave a new cycle of nursery rhymes set to music by Haydn Wood.

The Wichita Symphony Orchestra made its initial appearance Sunday, December 7, with Giuseppe Fabrini, pianist, as soloist. Other soloists who have been announced are Mme. Luella Chilson Ohrman, soprano; Maud Powell, violinist, and Mildred Potter, contralto. Iris Pendleton, manager, has been working to secure a guarantee fund and has already enlisted a large number in the project. A regular association has been formed, the membership fee being $5, which allows each member to attend all four of the projected concerts with privilege of inviting two guests to each performance. Inasmuch as the concerts have to be given on Sunday to secure the musicians, and inasmuch as no admission fee is allowable at theaters on Sunday here, this seems to be the only solution of the problem. The general public, not members, can therefore only attend by being invited guests of regular members. It makes an audience of exclusive and limited proportions, which is a questionable feature in summing up the ultimate success of the plan.

The second number of the Wichita chorus concerts was given by Charles W. Clark, baritone, assisted by Leon Sametini, violinist, who substituted for Franeis Macmillen. Mr. Macmillen refused previously to be an "assisting" artist on the program. Madam Sehumann-Heink is to be the next artist on this course, according to the dates, appearing January 7.

It has been definitely announced that Mary Garden would be the star in the Chicago Grand Opera appearance here this season. They will come sometimes in the spring, it being the second visit.

The Kansas State Music Teachers' convention was in session last week at Topeka and Wichita was represented liberally. Further report will appear later.

Miss Nina Holliday, pianist, a pupil of Reno B. Myers, gave a fine program at the Power-Meyer Conservatory, December 3, assisted by Miss Marcia Higginson, soprano.

Miss Hope Hardie, violinist, a pupil of Ralph Brokaw, was soloist at the Conway Springs band concert Thanksgiving night, scoring a big success. She has been reengaged for two more concerts.

The credit system for music in the high school is working out finely, and the authorities are receiving reports from the accredited music teachers from now on every twelve weeks. The committee from the Musicians Club formulated the plan of requiring each teacher desiring enrollment as "accredited" to register as to training, experience, etc., and so far all the well-known professional as well as many of the lesser known have complied. Those whose qualifications are in doubt will undergo an examination before the committee, or their work will not be accepted by the high school.

Leo Bryant, formerly violinist of the Power-Meyer Conservatory is located at Halifax, N. S., where Mrs. Bryant (Jane Morgan) is playing lead roles in the stock company.

The Chicago Ladies' Orchestra was last week the musical attraction on the Methodist Episcopal Church lyceum course.

The "Rose Maid" proved to be a tuneful light opera at the Crawford recently, but "Robin Hood," the old, still stood the test for good light operatic writing, and was finely produced, both musically and in the setting, costuming and general productions.

———♯♯♯———

Clarke—Edward Clarke, the Chicago baritone, will make a short western tour beginning December 8, under the management of Harry Culbertson. He will sing "The Messiah" at Cedar Rapids, Ia., December 16, and at Yankton, S. D., December 12, and give recitals in Fargo, N. D., December 9, and in Valley City, N. D., December 8.

SIOUX CITY, IOWA

The following program was given by the MacDowell Club under direction of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Heizer:

Overture, "Entfuehrung aus dem Serail".....Mozart
Heizer Music School Orchestra

Ase's Death, from "Peer Gynt Suite" .....Grieg
Golterman 'Cello Quintet

Tenth Symphony .....Haydn
Largo, Allegro Spiritoso
Menuetto, Allegro con Spirito
Orchestra

Where'er You Walk .....Handel

Sing, Smile, Slumber .....Gounod
Miss Fay Hanchette (accompanied by orchestra)

Andante from Fifth Symphony ..... Beethoven
Mrs. Ethel J. Booth, Miss Opal Bullard, Miss Doris Struble, Miss Bess Renshaw, Miss Kathleen Webb, Miss Mabel Barclay, Miss Gertrude Trowl, Miss Naomi Martin

March from Athalia ..... Mendelssohn
Orchestra

The Heizer Music School of Sioux City, Iowa, will give their usual annual Beethoven program December 17.

———♯♯♯———

HANNIBAL, MISSOURI

Special service was held Thanksgiving day at Trinity Episcopal Church. Miss Eleanor Davis, organist, gave several beautiful numbers, and Mrs. Sue Jackson Foster, contralto, of Streator, Ill., sang Liddle's "The Lord Is My Shepherd." Mrs. Foster also sang at both services Sunday, in the morning giving "The Beatitudes" by Helena Bingham, and at the evening service singing the duet "Sunset and Evening Star" by Helena Bingham, with Mrs. Mack Fielder.

———♯♯♯———

Edwards—Miss Marie Edwards appeared as accompanist for Leon Sametini, violinist, at a musicale at the Blackstone Hotel Monday morning.

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
IMMANUEL CHURCH
La Grange, Ill.

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Englewood 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Palmer Christian
Concert Organist - Pupils - Coach - Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music.
Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone Austin 23973
5704 Washington Boulevard Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Orotorio Recitol
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av
Phone Normal 1406

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS
PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

SYRACUSE, NEW YORK

The initial concert of this year's Arts Club series was given by Cecil Fanning. The program presented ample opportunity for the display of the artist's skill in various lines. Mr. Fanning's interpretation of some of the classics, like Schubert's "Wanderer," Loewe's "Erlkonig," were full of vigor and spontaniety, extremely interesting, though in some points overdrawn.

In some of the lighter numbers, Mr. Fanning aroused the enthusiasm of many who had apparently accepted the first part of the program with indifference. It is barely possible also that a certain per cent of the members of the Arts Club do not understand all languages equally well, a shortcoming quite common among concert-goers. All such persons would find it difficult to work up much enthusiasm over a story told in a strange tongue. After all the words add considerable interest to a song.

Mr. Fanning was repeatedly recalled and responded most graciously with encores.

The directors of the Arts Club will maintain the high standard by engaging such talent as Mr. Fanning and Mr. H. B. Turpin, his teacher, accompanist and manager.

♮ ♮ ♮

Morning Musicales

The program of the Morning Musicale given entirely by local talent, are an important factor in the musical activities of Syracuse to those who can attend. The programs are given the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month, at 10:45 a. m., an hour when many who would attend are necessarily otherwise engaged.

The following program was recently given in the ball room of the Onondage.

Piano—"Carnival" ..... Schumann
Miss M. Jamie Smith

Contralto—"The Spring Now Has Found Us"..... Saint-Saens
(From "Samson and Delilah")
Mrs. Augusta Sauter Lee

Sonata in F Major.....W. Berwald
Piano, Dr. Wm. Berwald
Violin, Professor Conrad Becker

Soprano—"Se tu niami".....Pergolesi
"Would Thy Faith Were Mine"..... Howard Brockway
"The Nightingale".....Ward Stephens
Mrs. Florence Girton Hartman

Concerto in C Minor.....Saint-Saens
Miss Zillah Halstead
Orchestra accompaniment arranged for second piano
Dr. Adolf Frey

Cantata—"The Fairies' Revel".....W. Berwald
Ladies' Chorus of the Fine Arts College of Syracuse University
Soprano solo by Miss Laura Van Kuran
Dr. Wm. Berwald, conductor
Accompanists, Miss Calthrop, Miss Button

♮ ♮ ♮

The first of the monthly public recitals by the students of the Fine Arts College was given November 12, 3:30 o'clock. These recitals are always well attended by the students and the city folk. The program was as follows:

Organ—Sonata in E Minor.....Ritter
Miss Julia Etta Broughton, Little Falls

Piano—Gnomenreigen .....Liszt
Miss Marie Henriette Fix, Syracuse

Vocal—(a) Trock'ne Blumen .....Schubert
(b) Hark! Hark, the Lark.....Schubert
Miss Mary Adalene Rosengrant, Auburn

Piano—Concerto in C sharp minor..... Xavier Scharwenka
First Movement
Miss Marion Hardy, Syracuse

Violin—Faust Fantasie .....Alard
Mr. Kenneth Wood, Syracuse

Piano—Ballade in A flat.....Chopin
Mr. Claude DeForrest Bauer, Syracuse

Vocal—(a) Die Neugierige .....Schubert
(b) The Nightingale .....Ward-Stephens
Miss Mary Doane Merriam, Syracuse

Piano—Concerto in C minor.....Saint-Saens
Allegro vivace-Andante-Allegro
Miss Zillah Carolyn Halstead, Syracuse

♮ ♮ ♮

Bachaus Recital

We were unable to attend this recital, but because of the importance of the artist, we herewith append a part of what the reporter for one of the local papers said about it:

He was presented by the Morning Musicalc, this being the first of a series of evening concerts, and that more members did not accept the invitation to hear an artist of Bachaus's attainments was a surprise to the officers of the club.

There is no disputing the fact that Bachaus plays with marked intelligence. He lacks the magnetism of many of the younger pianists, but to a very large extent this is discounted by his brilliancy of technic and clear, singing tones. His interpretation of Beethoven is refreshing, and when he came to his group of Chopin studies, prelude, berceuse, waltz and ballad, his work was a marvel of beauty, despite the fact that many music lovers regard this group in a high class recital as hackneyed. His playing of the Scarlatti Allegro and scherzo, no small task, was finished in every detail, and his Strauss serenade was exceedingly graceful. He did the Schubert-Liszt "Soiree de Vienne" with a nicety that delighted the lovers of this work, and his concluding number, the Schubert-Tausig, much played, but always pleasant, was a fine illustration of his brilliancy of performance.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Syracuse Symphony Orchestra gave its second Sunday concert at the Central High School Sunday afternoon. The following interesting program was presented:

Overture—"La Forza del Destino.....Verdi
Aria—"Celeste Aida" .....Verdi
Edward Barrow
(Orcestral Accompaniment)

Romantic Suite—"From the South".....Nicode
"A Legend from La Provence"
"Moorish Dance-song"
"In the Tavern"

Cortege du Serdare, from "Caucasian Sketches".... Ippolitow-Iwanow

Group of Songs for Tenor—
"Ah Love, but a Day".....Protheroe
"Jean" ..... Spross
"The Pauper's Drive".....Homer
"If Thou Wert Blind".....Johnson
"Gloria" .....Buzzi-Peccia
Edward Barrow
(Professor Vibbarad, accompanist)

Three Dances from "Egyptian Ballet Music"..Tuigini

♮ ♮ ♮

The second concert by members of the faculty of The Fine Arts College was given Monday evening, November 10, by Miss Clare Drew, contralto, assisted by Professor Joseph Maerz, pianist, and Professor Ernst Mahr, 'cellist. The entire program was well received by the audience.

Miss Drew began her work as voice teacher in the Fine Arts College last September, and this was her first appearance here in recital. Professor Maerz's playing is always enjoyed, and he seemed to be at his best on this occasion.

LOS ANGELES

The Western Metropolitan Opera Company has had a large share of interest the past week. The performances have been highly satisfactory in orchestra, chorus, staging, solo and dramatic presentations. Carmen Melis in Leoncavallo's "Zaza" was superbly strong and artistic, and Tenora Luda Botta as "Dufresne" charmed with his pleasant voice and strong acting; while Montesanto as a baritone is of first order. Lucia Crestani in "La Tosca" was none the less satisfactory in the title role, with Luca Botta as the painter. Alessandro Modesti made a telling "Scarpia" as chief of police. The minor parts were well sustained in due relationship to the principals. The "Boheme," "Rusticana" and "Zingari" were well produced this week.

An annoying circumstance occurred last night when Leoncavallo's latest, "The Zingari" was to be given. A delay was occasioned, due to a demand to pay the author his royalty due for the performances, and the orchestra score was held up, as well as the performance, until the demand was amicably adjusted. The large audience was not aware of the cause of the delay, but it was taking no small advantage of the management to spring such a business condition with a good house in waiting. Quick work was necessary to save the evening's performance and be fair to the patrons. The opera is well received and, like "Zaza," is full of interesting musical, vocal and dramatic situations.

The conducting of Signor Nini Bellucci is most effective, and the musical success is largely due to his mastery of all the details of the opera.

Leoncavallo in his own opera brings out what he wants with ease and grace as a batonist.

♮ ♮ ♮

The union of the Opera Orchestra with the People's Orchestra, and the use of solo stars, Mme. Maria Mosciska and Mlle. Fanny Anitna, gave a program of superior excellence throughout and drew a good audience on Sunday, at a slight increase in the usual Sunday concert admission rate. The coming Sunday the same combination will present the concert with other soloists.

The Wagner "Tannhauser" overture was never heard to better advantage than brought out by Bellucci.

Hans S. Linne, the new director of the People's Orchestra, will conduct for the first time with our orchestra. "The Messiah" is in rehearsal for Christmas rendition under his baton.

The Woman's Orchestra and Mme. Carreno as pianist will appear December 5 in a fine program, Henry Schoenfeld, director. Mme. Melba and Jan Kubelik for December 9. "Thais," by request, will be given Saturday, matinee, with Melis in title role and Mascal as "Athanael."

♯♯♯

COLUMBIA SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The Columbia School of Music announces the exclusive teaching engagement of Mr. Paul Van Katwijk, Dutch pianist. Mr. Van Katwijk was heard in recital early in the season and was sincerely commended by the discriminating musicians of Chicago. He will be presented in recital later in the season.

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers
Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on
KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

ELLA L. MILLS
PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

Ethel Altemus
PIANIST
New York Address 665 Lexington Av.
Personal Representative
FREDERICK CLARK
83 Auditorium Building, Chicago

SOFIA STEPHALI
COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 Accompanist
608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George
Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Jennie F. W. Johnson
Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Preiser Violin School
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director
Phone Austin 4043
STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.

CONCERTS
RECITALS
ORATORIOS
OSCAR SEAGLE
BARITONE
17 Avenue Mozart
Paris (France)
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER
In Paris all Summer
119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
RECITALS
CONCEPTS
HAZZARD-PEOCOCK
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London
FRANCE
ENGLAND
GERMANY

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO
520 Fine Arts Bldg
Phone Drexel 8183

Esther Plumb
CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3246
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson
Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago.Ill

WALTER DIEDERICH
TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

MR.
TENOR
MRS.
Karl Buren Stein
TEACHERS of SINGING
ELOCUTION
ACTING
DRAMATIC READER JOINT RECITALS 55 Auditorium Bldg.

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN American Conservatory Kimball Ha

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

DanielProtheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO The Miraflores, 1420 Flower St.
Los Angeles, Cal.

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
14-16 W. Lake Street, Chicago

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

HarrietCase SOPRANO
COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STONE
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Music Abroad

DRESDEN

Among pianists new here, Antonio Giorni, quite young as yet, and Theophile Debetriescu created more than ordinary attention. Giorni is, above all, a musician who owns personal traits, suggesting an individuality that finds due expression in his reproduction of works such as Schumann's "Kreisleriana," for instance. A composition of his own won the favor of both public and press. Giorni's technic is quite up to date and his interpretation interesting.

Demetriescu is not as much of a musician, yet his presentations are full of verve, energy and vitality. The program contained several seldom heard selections such as Enesco's "Toccata and Pavane," Busoni's "Tanzstuck and Balletszene," Rud. Ganz's "Marche Fantastique" and Cesar Franck's "Prelude." Enesco's style recalls the Italian mode of writing; the "Pavane" is full of orchestral effects and brilliant tone coloring. Busoni's compositions sparkle with southern life, spirituality and some virtuoso harmonic treatment. The ballet scene suggests the mood of the author's pianoforte concerto, the "Tarantella;" it is replete with temperament and swing. Ganz's fantastic march lacks inspiration; otherwise it favorably adds to the modern new piano literature. The pianist, Demetriescu, is full of storm and stress, and his interpretation of Beethoven, Bach and Chopin did not respond to high demands, as yet. Time will surely make him better suited for these works, after his having attained to maturity.

Adrian Rappoldi and Professor Richard Burmeister, both virtuosi on their instruments (violin and piano) gave a Beethoven sonata evening which displayed their musicianship to great advantage. This new chamber music ensemble being as yet too newly founded to have gained due routine and experience in the line of the chamber music style, nevertheless impressed the hearers favorably by way of their natural interpretation of Beethoven, whose early sonatas, opus 12 and 24, were exquisitely rendered.

Emil Sauer appeared to great advantage as a Chopin interpreter in the "Ressource" concert. He "dreamed" the Chopin E minor concerto, second part, in an inimitable manner, while the third movement was given in a brilliant virtuoso style. Sauer excelled further in solos from Mendelssohn, himself and others, and received well deserved thunderous applause. The singer on the occasion was Mrs. Alice Peraux Williams, an American, who repeated her former success here as a song interpreter of great distinction.

Next day, November 13, Emil Sauer gave his usual pianoforte recital. As usual he had a crowded hall. His program, however, was not composed in a way to do his artistic individuality full justice. Sauer is no Beethoven interpreter par preference; at least the opus 109 sonata is not his style. His other selections, Gluck, Saint-Saens, and Chopin as well as his own works were brilliantly played and he evoked enthusiasm.

A new violinistic star, pupil of Sevcik, Magda Weil, made a highly successful entree in Dresden. She is not only a first-rate virtuoso, but a musician as well whose conception of Bach, for instance, brought her full recognition by press and audience. She played Goldmark's concerto, also Wagner, Saint-Saens and Hubay. The young sympathetic pianist, Sandor Va's, assisted. He introduced a "Polish Suite" by Franz Brzezinski, a composition of more than passing worth.

A Dresden pianist, Emmy Rhode, scored a big success by her pianoforte recital. She owns energy, temperament and fantasy, qualities which enabled her to enter upon works of such truly musicianly content as are the Bach Toccata, Draeseke's big sonata, Op. 6, Reger's "Humoresques" and MacDowell's "Witches' Dance." The singer on the occasion, Angelica Rummel, is her equal artistically. Her choice of songs by Franz, Schubert and Brahms was a recherche one, comprising some seldom heard samples.

At the Ladies' Club concert a Chicago singer Mrs. Kemble-Vogeding appeared to great advantage. She sang the big "Fidelio" aria, and took later the part of Ortrud in the duet with Elsa in the second act of "Lohengrin," thereby repeating the success she achieved with both of these selections in a musicale given by her teacher, Chambersinger Natalie Haenisch last spring. Mrs. Kemble-Vogeding owns a glorious voice of great range. She is studying for the stage and will, after having concluded her singing course, make a remarkable opera singer. A young charming pianist, Miss Nora Minameyer, on the occasion introduced herself as a very successful interpreter of selections from Chopin, Liszt and Schumann. She owns poesy of conception and a fine touch. The lady is perhaps the best Dresden representative of the famous Leschetizky school. Frln. Franziska Mattei shone as a singer. Miss Winder Johnson, the exquisite American reciter, won high recognition for her presentations by Leo Lenz and Otto Ruedel. Mr. Leland A. Cossart at the piano did beautifully.

Ignaz Friedman displayed in his recital his well-known qualities as a Chopin interpreter, he was less admired as a transposer of some old music for the piano (by Rameau, Gluck, and others.

A. INGMAN.

Franklinstrasse 20, November 24, 1913.

———♯♯♯———

BERLIN, GERMANY

Albert Spalding, the eminent American violinist, played the following program at Bechsteinsaal, Berlin, Sunday evening: Sonatas of Schumann and Mozart, and Schubert's "Fantasie." I had the pleasure of witnessing his success. His brilliant execution and exquisite tone pleased the audience and he was recalled again and again. Herr Bos accompanied in an artistic manner. Mr. Spalding is engaged to tour Italy and Russia.

A very successful musicale was given by Mrs. Bernard Goldsmith, Sunday evening. The young violinist, Miss Deutscher, played to a most appreciative audience. She is remarkably talented, has fine technic and shows good schooling. At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served. Many prominent artists have played at Mrs. Goldsmith's musicales.

HENRY FOOTE PERRIN.

"LAVENDER AND OLD LACE" AT THE WARRINGTON

Facility of expression, wise and witty lines, a strong lyrical note and optimism in plenty, with nothing of bitterness, vanity and self-love—these are some of the characteristics of the stories of the late Myrtle Reed, which have had and are having so great a vogue. Chief among these is "Lavender and Old Lace," her greatest success from the selling point of view.

For ten years or more one of the most popular of the lighter American fiction. "Lavender and Old Lace" has now been given to the stage. A dramatization of the story has been made by David G. Fischer, and is being presented by the stock company at the Warrington this week.

"Lavender and Old Lace" contains one of the prettiest love stories imaginable, the romance of Carl Winfield and Ruth Thorne, the young newspaper workers. There is a quaint comedy by Joe and Hepsey and Captain Ball, and there is, of course, the central figure in the story, Miss Ainslie, of whom the reader of the romance has a sweet and haunting memory.

Miss Hayward will play the part of Miss Ainslie, Miss Ann Bert will be seen as Ruth Thorne, with Miss Bushnell as Hepsey and Miss Randolph in the peculiar character of Miss Hathaway.

Mr. Poulter will have a part to his liking in Carl Winfield, with Mr. Welsh as the country 'bus driver. Mr. Finn will play Mr. Ball, and Mr. Kirk will play Mr. Wheeler, the village lawyer.

The stage settings are of the quaint New England type and will be quite elaborate, following out the plans of the original production.

BISPHAM IN CLEVELAND

By WILSON G. SMITH

The popular success of David Bispham at the Hippodrome the past week put a big kink in the fiction that high-brow artistry soars above popular ken. The truth of the matter is that there is a lot of humbug in the proposition that high art is only appreciated and understood by the cultured few.

Let me tell you in the strictest confidence that with most of the so-called cultured few, the matter of alleged appreciation is a mere bluff. The vox populi knows a thing or two and can recognize artistic sincerity and direct emotional appeal quite as quickly and as thoroughly as the mugwumps of highbrowism. Also the idea that artists must cater to a supposed lowbrowism in popular art appreciation is a fallacy. The average mind has its outreaching for better things—an intuitive hankering after personal betterment—and when this vague ideal is given tangible form in sincere artistic interpretation, the eye of appreciation is opened and artistic reciprocity is established.

Cheap humor may amuse us temporarily, but trenchant wit and keen satire set our thinking machinery in motion.

Musically speaking, ragtime may set our feet in motion and tickle our sense of rhythmic impulse, but music with a true emotional appeal, while we may not fully understand it, causes us to wonder what it is all about, and ultimately by repeated hearing we discover that the fault of our non-appreciattion is with us and not with the art work, or its interpreter.—Cleveland Press. (Advertisement.)

ASK THE REASON

HOWARD KIRKPATRICK

Head of the Vocal Department of the University School of Music, Lincoln, Neb.

How many singers stop to consider singing logically? Logic is defined as the art of reasoning, but many times reasoning is not made prominent where the study of singing is being considered.

How many times a week, Mr. Teacher, are you asked "why?" Exercises are outlined and the students accept them as he does death and taxes, they fall on his defenseless head like predestination or foreordination, they run their course like measles and leave the victim red and speckled. But never a why. No, that would be too nearly like looking at a subject logically, but who thinks of studying singing logically?

There ought to be a good and sufficient reason for every vocal exercise studied by a singer, and this reason ought to be made clear to a beginner early in his studies. If through some device I am made to breathe deep when previously I had breathed otherwise; if in order to succeed I am told I must practice this device exactly as directed and not as my fancy dictates, it would be logical to ask the reason. There is a recognized "best way" for playing football, tennis, billiards; even pianists are fairly unanimous that there is a best way. But when it comes to practicing voice, the student charges at it like the famous six hundred, "his to do or die, his not to reason why." Psychology says a movement or impulse must first be conscious before it becomes subconscious, and that there must be many exact repetitions before an act or movement becomes a habit, and that habit governs the major portion of our waking moments. If it were not for habit it would be necessary to learn anew each day all our movements.

How distressing it would be to learn to walk each morning, or to get soaked washing one's face; and worst of all, how embarrassing to master an egg at each breakfast. Habit has made these and a thousand other acts subconscious, so that the mere mention of them sounds like a jest. They have been mastered and trouble us no more. In like manner must the singing habit be mastered, and he who needs must learn the habit of technic each lesson, is far from having solved the reason why. The student who refuses to rise to the emotional level of artistic singing upon entering the studio of his teacher ought to be prodded until he at least asks the reason for this seemingly outrageous request.

From my studio window I can see the co-eds across the way laying plans for future weal or woe. Those who don't believe in the emotional level should watch this blissful drama as it is enacted with few variations day by day. At times it is little more than a gentle crescendo with a passing smile as its climax, but again it is a solo kettledrum roll beginning half a block away rising on the crest of an emotion that leaves the happy pair fairly on tip-toe as he grasps her lily white hand in a "till-death-do-us-part." Moral: Always ask the reason.

AN OPEN LETTER

(From Mr. Clement B. Shaw, formerly of Chicago)

Mr. Shaw, now located in Portland, Ore., but well known here in Chicago for many years as a singer and teacher, spent a few weeks recently visiting friends and attending to business matters. During his brief stay in Chicago Mr. Shaw investigated the new mental method of teaching singing as evolved and taught with success by Mr. Marvin V. Hinshaw, and was so much impressed with the splendid and quick results obtained that upon his return to Portland Mr. Shaw enclosed the following note in a personal letter of congratulation:

To the Public:—It affords me much pleasure to state that I consider Mr. Marvin Hinshaw a singer of excellent voice, of finely worked-out method, a sincere interpreter, and a capable teacher of the art of singing.

CLEMENT B. SHAW.

Portland, Ore., October 14, 1913.

Have you seen the new Musical Journal

Every person interested in Bands or Orchestras should receive

The Army and Navy Musician

Here is a journal that makes its influence felt—one that is valuable to all its readers.

Write for FREE sample copy.

The Army and Navy Musician

ELKHART, IND., U. S. A.

Katherine Howard Ward

Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist

917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

ROY DAVID BROWN

PIANIST

KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. Baritone DeYoung TEACHER of SINGING American Conservatory Kimball Hall

HEATHE GREGORY

BASS-BARITONE

Recitals Concert Oratorio

616 East 49th Street

HANS HESS 'CELLIST

American Conservatory Telephone Lincoln 7917

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt

SOPRANO

Oratorio Concert Song Recital

Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

The Debutante Sayeth

Just hang my cloak up over there. Why, what a razzling vision!
Such robes, the very chic in style, so smart and so Parisian.
I think I like that stunning dress, that one in ivory white,
Good gracious! What's that thing in green? It looks a perfect fright.
What is the plot, I'd like to know,
Well, then, you needn't tell me, Jo.
For Faust and Rigoletto, too,
And Thais, well, they're hardly new,
And then that headgear over there, just like a bird with spreading wings!
Well, anyhow, I'm glad I'm here so long as Garden sings.

That aigrette's great on Mrs. K.—And what a lovely collar!
Those pearls, too, cost some one, I'm sure, his very utmost dollar.
Those diamonds! Well, they're perfect, but they'd never do for me.
I can't go flaring 'round, you know, as if in pageantry.
And this year I am so demure;
To tell the truth, I'm rather poor.
So keeping quiet is my lay
I "stoop to conquer" in this way.
Those feather fans are marvels, how they flutter in the scented air,
I like to see Zeppilli, hasn't White the gorgeous hair!

I'm sorry I put on this frock, maline would suit me better,
I meant to tell you M——— can't come, she wrote a snippy letter.
That's very strange! Who's that with Bob? The strangest, weirdest gown.
The music's lovely; wonder why Miss Blank has such a frown.
Who's on the stage? What funny tights!
Of course, it is the night of nights!
And Tonio is such a dear,
His costume is a little queer.
I think that style's barbaric, wild, it really cannot longer last.
It's grand to be here anyhow, since Ruffo's in the cast.

—The Jingle Man, in Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

DR. FREDERICK CLARK
VOCAL INSTRUCTION BARITONE
33 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

ORGAN COMPOSITION

Times change, and men and manners with them. A hundred years ago organs scarcely existed outside churches and cathedrals. Fifty years ago they began to be made part of the musical furniture of municipal buildings and public halls. Now, in the vigorous twentieth century, advanced theaters, and even up-to-date "movies," look upon the organ as a profitable investment; and their managers find in organ music a welcome offering to their patrons. This is as it should be. A good change is a good thing, to be surpassed by only one other thing, viz., a better change.

But, in the old established quarters, changes always arouse a little trouble. Those who have spent their lives in a certain order cannot help rebelling at what threatens to disintegrate the smoothness of their existence. Hence, the noble army of conservatives. The wider spread of the organ and the popularizing of its literature have not been effected without some heart-burnings here and there. Cries as to the degradation of the "king of instruments" have been loud and manifold. And many musicians have professed to see in this contemporary development the end of the art. No art ends, however, while the people who keep that art going are alive and active; and it is entirely certain that the art of the organ is very far from being defunct.

Far more trouble has been experienced in the matter of new organ music than in the matter of new types of instrument. The classical tone of organ music is a high one. It belongs to the order and genius of Milton's poetry and to the immensity of the Himalayan Mountains. It is, therefore, ill-suited to ultra-modern requirements, and a new race of composers has, perforce, arisen. These innovators have been most bitterly opposed, but not sufficiently to crush them. Rather have they proved to be like those curious plants that grow the better under pressure, for every day that passes sees a fresh phase of strength and energy in their output.

Henry Bethuel Vincent is one of the latest of this new order of organ musicians. He has at his finger ends all that wonderful emanation of man endeavor we call classical art. He knows his Bach. But (as he himself would probably phrase it) he "doesn't give a hoot for music that fails to come out 'humanly' to the people who have to listen to it."

Music has no need to be sonatas and fugues in order to be human. The reverse is the case. Indeed, except when a man is one of heaven's angels in the art of composition, his fugues and sonatas are likely to be as unhuman as a deceased demon.

But if you can't write classical music unless you are inspired to write it, still less can you write good and satisfactory popular music unless you study the purpose for which it is required, which is exactly what Mr. Vincent bears most strenuously in mind. He knows that what music demands in order to be good is that it shall be what it professes to be—that it is honestly and sincerely best value for money offered. The reason why popular songs and ragtime go so well, and why they do so much good, is simply because they fulfill their obligations—more than which a saint cannot do.

Mr. Vincent sets out to be a saint in the matter of the new and popular class of organ music. His experience shows him that there are thousands of people who, loving the organ, love its music in so far as they understand it; that is, in so far as its music is "human" to them.

His experience further shows him that not much of this good and praiseworthy sort of popular music is at hand. Deliberate attempts to write in the popular style generally result only in something common, because the men making the effort lack the true personal qualities for the task.

Mr. Vincent proves that he has these qualities. He is obviously a man of rattling, breezy temperament, with a nature unusually energetic. He can think, and express the result of his thinking. He is a skilled musician who will not be dry; a highly trained artist who refuses to be dull. For instance, he goes about the country showing people (by a combination of voice and fingers) what it is they ought to hear in music, teaching them how to listen—in fact, an art which, believe me, is not known to all good folk. He does this in a rare fashion, but one that obviously cannot be reproduced here.

Two of his epigrams will, however, show his wit, and one of his stories his humor. One epigram is apropos of churches that are too good. "The church that locks its doors for six days in the week is apt to be a bit chilly on the seventh, since taking care of the hereafter means taking care of the here as well." And the other is apropos of certain people we all know, "who read the papers the morning after a concert to see if they enjoyed it." The story I quote has a lovely moral, if only you can find it: "Last fall in the southwest it was a reed organ, one of those affairs that the player can pump like a sewing machine, but also with an auxiliary lever at the side for the use of a separate blower. The janitor, being a public-spirited citizen, agreed to preside over the wind supply. He was about two feet away, and at the end of the first number encouraged me with the assurance that it was 'some tune, 'bo.' After that the entertainment palled on him; in the soft places he stared meditatively and unblinkingly in my face; in the loud ones he turned his back and pumped as though he were on a sinking ship, perspiring profusely and profanely."

Mr. Vincent puts some of this spirit of wit and humor into his music.

As to his educational qualifications and public reputation, these are not small. He was born in Colorado forty years ago. All those years (except the first few) have been filled with various departments of music—studying, teaching, composing, lecturing, directing and generally doing what is useful in the art. As student and performer, Mr. Vincent is more than popular in the states and widely known, moreover, in France and England. As conductor and director, he is located mainly in Erie and Chautauqua. As a composer, he is familiar to thousands of folk through the melodies of the "Prodigal Son" oratorio, the "Esperanza" and Indian Days" operas, and numerous instrumental pieces and songs, one of the latter being the world-famous "There, There, Little Girl, Don't Cry."

Three of his organ pieces (published by J. Fischer & Bro., New York) are to be spoken of here: (1) A minuet, "Tavanay;" (2) a gavotte, "Oralaine," and (3) a scherzo,

"En Route." These certainly contain material to surprise an old-timer. Indeed, they could scarcely have been played on the old stiff-actions of forty years ago.

In spirit this music falls in with a growing tendency for music that does not suggest the graveyard—a tendency which is working for good in many directions, notably such young groups of composers as those which make up the present day English school.

The minuet is swift, light and agile. It bounds over the keyboard with fine verve and animation, catching up the player into unexpected enthusiasm and electrifying his fingers to the performance of feats he did not think possible to him. The opening movement reveals the natural happiness of the music—happiness rare in modern music; sometimes as naive and charming as Haydn, but at the same time as true to modernity as the extremest student could demand. The middle part of the piece has all the elusiveness of coquetterie, with the real tenderness of true sentiment. As for the close, few people will listen to it without jumping.

The chief fault I have to find with this minuet is that it seems over-short. We could do with twice as much, but as the work is bound to be encored wherever it is adequately performed, this question of shortness will automatically right itself.

If the gavotte cannot be spoken of in the same terms as the minuet, it is only because the gavotte itself as a dance is never so animated in spirit. But Vincent's "Oralaine" has the same qualities of ease and attractiveness as his "Tavanay," and even more of grace and spontaneity.

This composition approaches the "Meditation." One feels at times a touch of plaintiveness in its winsome phrases, and altogether it is a composition which, with its delicate charm, will force the player to reveal the inner nature of his musicianship.

The scherzo is a piece of descriptive music, brilliant, almost dashing, but unbrokenly refined, and elegant without weakness. It is all bustle and animation, as the title, "En Route," would lead you to imagine.

Though probably not specifically intended to be played together, or in any set order, these three pieces gain immensely in effect if played en suite in the above order; (1) "Tavanay," (2) "Oralaine," (3) "En Route;" for under such conditions each enhances the others, while the immediate effect of the three works in conjunction is to create a sense of complete satisfaction to the listener.

The works will be more than welcome to the student, while to the experienced performer they will be as a gift from the gods for their finely orchestral qualities, "En Route" in particular asking for all the tonal variety of the modern instrument.

Mr. Vincent's titles, "Tavanay" and "Oralaine," are curious. They probably mean something to him, but something we are not to be told about; and this introduction to some rarely useful music by a rarely interesting musician may be concluded with his reply to his publishers when they asked him what they should say in answer to inquiries as to the meaning of his titles. Said Mr. Vincent (probably with a smile): "Tell them you do not know!"

Birmingham, England. SIDNEY GREW.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4208 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 66 Rue de Seine
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4143) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 61st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 6171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
SIMMONS Ruth (Oak Park, Ill.) 622 N. Kenilworth Av. (Tel. O. P. 5249)
VAN GROVE Isaac (Phone Kenwood 1148) 5232 Prairie Avenue
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4786) 520 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

CLEARY Mary Hester 54 Auditorium Building
PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 66 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 3756)
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Charles G. Vo Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

HARPSICHORD

PELTON-JONES Frances (New York) 3 W. 92nd St.

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boislevant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir.), 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
DRIGGS and LE MESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av.
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Flournoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A. (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE J. S. (Lecture Recitals) 62 W. 45, New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. O. 44 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone La Grange 963-R) Immanuel Church, La Grange, Ill.
DEAL Alice K. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 8210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 624 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
DUNHAM Arthur 1448 E. 54th St.
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer) St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo 534 Lake Ave.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2866) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (St. Louis) 4417 a LaClede Av., Phone Forest 4763-R
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (545 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra, Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie (Res, Phone Midway 1692) American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6614 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WEISS Carl J. S. (Phone Graceland 5323) 1601 Cullom Avenue
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E. Church) 4451 North Winchester Av.
ZEUCH Wm. E. (Phone Harrison 7664) 812 FineArts Building

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
ALTEMUS Ethel (New York) 655 Lexington Avenue
AMSTUTZ Fanny S. Valparaiso, Ind.
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIGELOW Ella C. (Akron, Ohio) 36 S. Maple Street
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Englewood 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRADFORD Bess Leone (Phone Midway 2372) 716 Fine Arts Building
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Appleton, Wis.) Voecks' Building
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5065) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUCHHALTER Simon 424 Fine Arts Building
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1162 N. Ashland Avenue
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill.) 338 N. Ashland Avenue
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 54 Auditorium (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3866 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DANA Lynn B. (Warren, O.) Dana's Musical Institute
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.

DOELLING Mae (Concert Pianist) 4141 N. Hermitage Av.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 623 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland Ohio
ERST Stephen Adolph 1553 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season. 2605 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032) 814 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music.
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045) 426 Fine Arts Building
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HUNT Emily Parsons (Phone Highland Park 120) 520 Fine Arts Bldg. (Mon. and Thurs. P. M.)
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music) 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9205)
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KING Jessie (Studio) 419 59 E. Van Buren Street
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LEVY Heniot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
MATTESON Hannah (Accompanist) Edison Park, Ill.
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Louis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (School of Piano Playing) 410 Fenton Bldg., Jamestown, N. Y.
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 51st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 367 W. 63rd St.
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolfram St.
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
POTTER Grace Stewart Bush Temple Conservatory
RANN Edith V. (Phone Harrison 3766 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715) 5828 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lilian Mary 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THAL Delia (620 Addison St.) 610 Fine Arts Building
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J, Berwyn) 55 Auditorium
VAN KATWIJK Paul (Phone North 2694) 1225 Dearborn Avenue
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservato
WALLACE Evangeline 522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano College
WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str. 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1516 Mailer's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Col'o (2236 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Louisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 726 S. Michigan Avenue
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8195) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 628 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro. New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers 236 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2151) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

GILDEMEISTER Louise M. (Phone Graceland 2166) 718 Fine Arts Bldg. Sat. afternoons
McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1271) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 609 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 61 Auditorium Bldg
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
INTERNATIONAL College of Music 54 Auditorium Bldg.
KNOX Conservatory of Music Wm. F. Bentley, Dir., Galesburg, Ill.
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir) 309 Kimball Hall
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OSTROVSKY Institute. Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 68 Auditorium Bldg
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W 76th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1516 Mailers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 69th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.
ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmou H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A.) 522 Fine Arts Bldg. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815) Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Auton, Phone Wabash 1260 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg
BRANDER Julius (Phone Edgewater 2755) International School of Music, 54 Auditorium
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Irving 22273) 4-20 Kimball Av.
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COX Mary A. (Phone Hyde Park 3562) American Conservatory
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.) North Shore School of Music
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 5352 Rhodes Av.
FISCHEL Max I. 610 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 106 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Brauch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of Music) 4654 Grand Boul.
MUSIN Ovide (Virtuoso) 6 West 76th St., New York
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York,
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 530 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Villm, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
TOWNSEND Winifred 411 Kimball Hall,
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Couservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Bass-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert 6557 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 625 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bence (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.

BEEBE Agnes Leist
509 Kimball Hall

BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005)
303 Kimball Hall

BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.)
Northwestern University School of Music

BENEDICT Ethel Geistweit (Phone Austin 5273)
128 N. Lotus Av. (Soprano, Accompanist)

BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist)
6119 Greenwood Ave.

BISPHAM David
44 W. 44th St., New York

BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg.
Drake School of Music

BOLLMAN Maude Fenlon
Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.

BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York)
Care Haensel and Jones

BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 6819)
Kimball Hall

BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8620)
4822 Madison Ave.

BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium)
Cosmopolitan School of Music

BRAUN Anna C. (Phone Seeley 2780)
2754 Wilcox Avenue

BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor)
1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.

BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269
Northwestern Uni. School of Music

BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3886)
(Harry Culbertson, Manager)

BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio)
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music

BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth)
7022 Vernon Av.

BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041)
727 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schntz (Meadville, Pa.)
Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau

BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone)
609 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8183)
520 Fine Arts Building

Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass.
413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.

CASE Harriet
Auditorium Bldg.

CHENEY Mary (New York)
600 Carnegie Hall

CLARK Charles W. (Paris)
12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.

CLARK Dr. Frederick
83 Auditorium Building

CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831)
Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)

CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152
Sherwood Music School

CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone)
Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11
D. A.

CLIPPINGER 410 Kimball Hall

CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher)
721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495

COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho)
Boise Conservatory of Music

COOK John Loring (Tenor)
900 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 6166)

COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913)
4117 W. Harrison st.

CORLEW Mabel (Contralto)
4202 Prairie Ave. (Phone Harrison 973)

CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009)
508 E. 46th Place

CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor)
234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)

DAHLSTROM Margaret
3242 Clifton Ave.

DEEMING Inez Taylor (Evanston, Ill.)
2738 Woodbine Avenue

DEEMING Inez Taylor (Phone Harrison 6457)
2738 Woodbine Avenue, Evanston, Ill.

DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique
30 Rue Marheuf. Champs Elysees, Paris

DE BERNYZ Bertrand (Studios)
58 W. 72nd. New York

DE SALES Regina (Paris, France)
40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)

DeYOUNG Richard B.
American Conservatory

DEVRIES Herman
618-628 Fine Arts Building

DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478)
816 S. Harvey Avenue. Oak Park, Ill.

DUFAU Jennie (Colorature Soprano)
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310
710 South Central Park Avenue

FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio)
H. B. Turpin, Manager

FARNUM Mrs. Frank
3359 Warren Ave.

FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante)
149 Tremont St., Boston

FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Harrison 3895)
63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 408)

FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg
6906 Ontario St. (Contralto)

FRIDENBERG Ahbie L. (New York)
Studio 110 Carnegie Hall

FRISBIE Constance (Soprano)
6142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)

GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782)
318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.

GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4896)
3435 Flournoy St.

GANNON Rose Lutiger
716 Kimball Hall

GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone)
413 Kimball Hall

GREGORY Heathe (Phone Kenwood 53)
616 E. 49th Street

GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory)
Chicago Address, 622 Kimball Hall

GROW Ethel (Phone North 2635)
1002 Dearborn Av.

GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art)
523 Fine Arts Bldg

HADLEY Grant (Tenor)
Suite 73 Auditorium Building

HAIGHT Irma (Los Angeles)
The Miraflores—1420 Flower St.

HALL William John (St. Louis)
Musical Art Building

HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497)
423 Fine Arts Bldg.

HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher)
72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack (Phone Ravenswood 325)
5057 Winthrop Av.

HARRIS Milon R.
403 Kimball Hall

HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1406)
care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.)
Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)

HAY William G. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

HERDIEN Mabel Sharp
6132 Kenmore Ave.

HEUCHLING Mathilde
712 Fine Arts Building

HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923)
Chicago Musical College

HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano)
1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)

HINKLE Florence (Soprano)
294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)

HINSHAW William Wade (New York)
Metropolitan Opera Company

HINSHAW Marin (Phone Harrison 2003)
6th Floor, Kimball Hall

HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson)
304 Kimball Hall

HOLT GeorgeNelson
509 S. Wabash Ave.

HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544)
Auditorium Bldg.

HOPKINS Hamilton
710 Fine Arts Bldg.

HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano)
3800 Broadway, New York

HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 13737)
6836 Washington Blvd.

Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland)
Tudor Mansions, 3616 Pine Grove Av.

HUGHES T. Francis
75 Auditorium Building

HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante)
South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.

HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880
608 Fine Arts Building

HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund
Alliance, Ohio

HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267)
601 Kimball Hall

IREDALE Bertha Smart (Phone Englewood 8881)
357 W. 63rd St.

JOHNS Etheile Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131)
6463 Kimbark Av.

JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 6104)
4937 Michigan Ave.

JONES A. H. (Tenor)
509 Kimball Hall

KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619)
4433 Racine Avenue

KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201)
523 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)

KIMBELL Grant (Tenor)
6418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831

KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774)
1376 East 64th Street

LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 5365)
420 Fine Arts Bldg

LAYFIELD Mabel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082)
7111 Normal Av.

LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880)
6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1

LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335)
4460 Berkeley Av.

LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto)
1311 E. 63rd St.

LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola
3814 Ellis Avenue

LUND Rene S. (Baritone)
2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6802)

LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J)
1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.

LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder)
Drake School of Music

MacBURNEY Thomas
609 Fine Arts Building

MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060)
3422 Fulton Street

McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439)
3620 Parnell Av.

MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E.
616 Fine Arts Bldg.

MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France)
27 rue Boisievant

MARCUSSON Grace Brnne (Phone West 661)
2459 Jackson Boul.

MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402)
6256 Berteau Av.

MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.)
209 Wesley Av.

MILLER Christine
1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

MILLER Herbert
716 Fine Arts Bldg

MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn)
1 W. 34th St., New York

MILLER John B. (Tenor)
Chicago Musical College

MOSHER L. Drew
137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.

MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone)
1166 Belmon Ave

MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles)
446 W. 40th Place

MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.

MULRFY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist
47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.

MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4577
300 Athenaeum Bldg.

MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano)
4901 Friendship Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.

MURPHY Mrs John Fremont (Soprano)
5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)

MURRISON Harry R.
Alliance, Ohio.

NARELLE Marie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122)
1215 E. 53rd Street

NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano
Plymouth, Ind.

NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199)
237 North Howard Av., Austin

NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York)
330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)

NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5508)
4137 Drexel Blvd.

OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute)
303 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 5919)

OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147)
2112 Washington Blvd.

PANGBOURNE Annette (Phone Harrison 2313)
519 Kimball Hall

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England)
Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Reg S

PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto)
Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.

PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.)
Toledo Musical College

PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3246)
4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contralto)
Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.)
Winona School of Music

PROTHEROE Daniel
610 Fine Arts Bldg.

RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Bluilding

RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782)
1738 Humboldt Boulevard

RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor)
Barre Plains, Mass.

RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513
413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av

REED Esta Asher (Soprano)
14 West Lake Street

REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165)
5627 Indiana Av.

REESE Reese H. (Pittsburg)
202 Nixon Building

RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.)
Westeru Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.

RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall
6318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa

ROBBINS Edith Inclie (11th and R Sts.)
University School of Music, Lincoln Neb.

ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting)
1372 E. 52nd St.

ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877)
7206 Stewart Ave.

RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto)
Principal Liederheim, Auburndale, Mass.

RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 5265)
719 Fine Arts Bldg.

RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448)
3100 Lexington St.

SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing
201 Clarendon St., Boston

SCHWARTZ Cora (Soprano)
401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.

Schwickerath Jos. A. (Musical Director)
54 Auditorium Bldg. (Tel. Lincoln 4521)

SCHUSTER Katherine
71 Auditorium Bldg.

SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York)
Wolfsohn Bureau

SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 469)
408 Kimball Hall.

SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner)
St. James Bldg., New York

SHELP Dr. H. Wm.
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor)
516 Kimball Hall

SLACK Arthur R (Phone Evanston 4706)
1823 Wesley Avenue, Evanston, Ill.

SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano)
4053 Michigan Av.

SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano)
6523 St. Lawrence Av.

SMIDT Mable Corlew (Phone Austin 12717)
6943 Ohio St.

SMITH Lyla L. (Phone Albany 10069)
Studio 3200 Logan Boul.

SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173)
625 Madison St., Gary, Ind

SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano)
Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio

SPOONER Philip (New York)
206 W. 57th St.

STEELE Mary Hinman
603 Kimball Hall

STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh)
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.

STONE Frank (Tenor)
304 Kimball Hall

STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48)
4439 Calumet Av.

STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977)
65 Auditorium Building

STEPHALI Sofia Phone Midway 5912)
6106 Kimbark Av.

STEVENSON Lucille
4438 Berkeley Avenue

STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923)
1134 E. 47th St.

STULTS Walter A. (Evanston)
Northwestern University School of Music

TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L.
Lewis Institute, Phone West 793

THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano)
Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.

THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082)
620 Fine Arts Building

TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3766
Bush Temple Conservatory

TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor)
813 La Salle Av.

TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949)
404 Kimball Hall

VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799)
6611 Woodlawn Av.

WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380)
428 Fine Arts Building

WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958)
1325 E. 64th St.

WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Austin 23973)
5704 Washington Boulevard

WATSON Ruth Swing
1225 E. 52nd St.

WEAVER Iva Bigelow
Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.

WEBSTER Frank B.
719 Kimball Hall

WEGENER Mme. Justine
Bush Temple Conservatory

WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone)
61 Auditorium Bldg.

WESTERVELT Louise St. John (Phone North 1408)
Columbia School of Music

WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 6946)
Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal

WHEELER Beatrice
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 E. 34th St., New York

WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 16
728 Fine Arts Bldg.

WILCOX John C. (Teacher)
Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo

WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio)
516 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS Dr. Carver
Auditorium Bldg

WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey
406 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS H. Evan
Akron Ohio

WIRTHLIN Rosalie (Wolfsohn)
1 W. 34th St., New York

WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway
6107 Woodlawn Av.

WYCOFF Eva Emmet
500 W. 143rd, New York

YOUNG Walter S. (801 Carnegie Hall, New York)
Res. Studio, 9 Frances Pl., Montclair

ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778)
(1140 E. 44th St)

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Every Music Lover

should read the

Pacific Coast Musician

Published in Los Angeles, the Mecca of Prominent Musical Organizations, Artists and Composers during the

Summer of 1915

When among other events Los Angeles will have the Biennial Convention of National Federation of Music Clubs; production of America's $10,000 Prize Opera and German Saengerfest.

This magazine will help in planning your visit, giving you information on musical matters. This is the fastest growing musical journal in the world, containing absolutely new music, vocal and instrumental, by California Composers, in each issue, and worth many times the price of its yearly subscription

$1.50 per Year

Your friends will enjoy this unique, newsy and valuable musical journal.

Pacific Coast Musician
BLANCHARD HALL

Musical Advance

501 Fifth Av., New York

A Musical Monthly which is technical enough to interest the Artist, brilliant enough to amuse the Social World, of a depth which will hold the critic, and broad enough to be popular with all Musical people

For Sale on all news - stands ten cents per copy; one dollar a year.

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News

ALBIN STEINDEL

Soloist with Chicago Symphony Orchestra

CHICAGO, AMERICA

DECEMBER 19, 1913

E. E. FREER

PART SONGS

O World, Be Nobler
Trio for Women's Voices, with Piano Acc.
Listen, Awake!
Trio for Women's Voices
The Wood Pewee
Quartet for Women's Voices
Stanzas on Freedom
Quartet for Men's Voices
For Music
Quartet for Mixed Voices
Phillida and Coridon
Shall I Be Loved as I Grow Old
Lord, When the Sense of Thy Sweet Grace
Be True
Grace for a Child
Unto Us a Son Is Given
A Christmas Carol

OBTAINABLE AT
CLAYTON F. SUMMY & CO.'S
64 E. VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

Chicago Concert Trio

ALBERT E. FOX, Piano WILLIAM HOFMAN, Violin
MARJORIE DODGE WARNER Soprano
Management Charles E. Watt Kimball Hall, Chicago

The Musicians' Piano Tuner

Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY

522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request. Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT Sec

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians

by Horace D. Hitchcock

A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original. The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:

"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."

For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cent's Postpaid.

Voices Made Beautiful

Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00 Lessons by correspondence.

Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

Bergey

CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL

Voice Piano

430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

CHICAGO, DECEMBER 19, 1913

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS
United States, per year, postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser and Herbert Bailey
Business Representatives

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield-Boulet
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

GEORGE W. MUNRO

Voice Specialist

Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.

Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.

Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.

Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

W. Rhys-Herbert's

Sacred Cantatas

"Bethany" "The Nazarene" "Bethlehem" (new)

For 4 solo voices and chorus.

Vocal Score, each cantata - $1.00

The above mentioned cantatas were written to suit the popular taste: they are free from abstruse and perplexing harmonies, always bright, and expressive of various moods They have, moreover, the advantage of being accessible to both small and large choral societies, and can be given with organ or piano only, where no orchestra is available.

Your regular dealer can supply copies. Publisher:

J FISCHER & BRO., New York
7, 8 & 11 "M. N." Bible House

Harmony and Counterpaint, by Mail if Desired
Critic and Special Writer Musical Mss. Edited

LESTER S. BUTLER

TEACHER OF SINGING

Boston and Worcester Critic and Correspondent of Music News. Steinert Hall, Boston, Mass. Day Building, Worcester, Mass.

Compositions and Arrangements

A Sigh (medium voice)	.50—27
Dear Girl with the Dreomy Eyes	.50—27
Twilight Hour	.30—17
Missionary Coll (mixed quartet)	.05
Brotherhood Hymn (male quartet)	.06
The Dorkey's Lulloby (mole quortet)	.15
Inner Voice Waltz (Piono) J. W. Black	.30—17

All the compositions here listed are musically melodious. Obtained of the advertiser or at music stores.

Languages

The Berlitz School of Languages,
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

Music News

Vol. 5 Chicago, December 19, 1913 No. 51.

Editorial

OR, A SPECIAL TRAIN?

A musical journal, published in London, last week contained an editorial in which the statement was made that many critics were being accused of being unduly severe in their comment. In the same article fault was found with the custom of charging the critics a penny or so for their programs at the concerts—it being claimed that though the general public might in all propriety be asked to pay for the programs, yet these should be sent "complimentary" to the critics, who would then probably feel more "amiable."

Can any Chicagoan imagine a Chicago critic paying out actual money for a program of any concert he has to attend?

On the contrary, as things are now progressing, it will soon be necessary to provide many special perquisites for the critics. Recently one of the writers on a daily paper in Chicago told the manager of a suburban concert that he himself could not attend this function and said that he thought the only way to get any of the critics to attend was to "send around an auto and take them all out together."

———♯♯♯———

COURIER SNAPSHOTTING

Leonard Liebling, a clever writer on the New York Musical Courier, was in Chicago for the opening of our opera season and the results of his observation, in the form of a very readable letter, appeared in his paper during the third week of the season and reached Chicago about three full weeks after the opening night.

Mr. Liebling, contrary to some New Yorkers, finds our opera quite passable and in fact he thinks the acoustics of The Auditorium are very nice indeed, while the direction of Cleofonte Campanini also pleases him very much. It annoyed him quite a little, however, to see Mary Garden flourish a perfectly clean knife after the stabbing of Marcoux in "Tosca," his sense of verisimilitude probably requiring that the knife should be shown dripping blood—whose blood would be another question probably.

Aside from the snap-shot judgment of our opera and Opera Company, Mr. Liebling visited a number of schools and studios in Chicago and found those that advertise in The Courier to be "very busy," while others, notably the Cosmopolitan and the Columbia, which do not so advertise, were in a hopeless state of desuetude.

The Sherwood School was found not only to be very busy, but also Miss Kober was shown in such a brilliant mood that she offered a wager to Mr. Liebling, presumably, that she will pay $500.00 to any one who can prove that she ordered verbally or in writing a "handsome" advertisement which is alleged to be appearing in one of "the small music papers of Chicago," in spite of the fact that she has ordered the paper to remove it.

Just to save you the trouble of looking it up, we will here inform you that the offending paper is not Music News—and also, to entirely clear the air we wish to make the statement that there is not a single ad appearing in this paper which is not covered by a perfectly valid contract.

Most of the people met by Mr. Liebling during his short stay in Chicago informed him that the Musical Courier was the only musical paper they ever read and this statement, coupled with the intended slight in the "small music paper" allusion, prompted us to spend some minutes in a little research work, the results of which show us that in the issue of Musical Courier under discussion there were just thirty-five Chicago advertisers, unless a very careful count could have made it possible to omit one or two, while in the issue of Music News for the same week there are more than 360 Chicago advertisements—under contract and in good standing.

It seems quite likely that at least these 360 sometimes read Music News.

Mr. Liebling made another great discovery in Chicago—for instance, he was perfectly amazed to find that the "small music papers" had an "exchange of advertisement" arrangement with Mr. Carl Kinsey of the Apollo Club management, and says, along that line, "they" (the small music papers) induce the Apollo Club to insert advertisements in exchange for advertisements in the house programs of the club.

This, of course, is the most shocking thing that could have been unearthed, but Music News, for one, wants to tell Mr. Liebling that the contract it holds with Mr. Kinsey was made in the Music News office and that its terms were proposed wholly by Mr. Kinsey himself.

As said at the first, the Musical Courier letter is interesting in the extreme—it would be good reading for any Chicagoan and it may show New Yorkers a few things they did not know before—therefore, we say, come again, Mr. Liebling, and of your world-wide wisdom teach us what we are, what we should not be and help us to attain what we should.

———♯♯♯———

BOSTON DOES NOT LIKE MISS GARDEN

The reference to opera in today's letter from Boston in Music News tells very frankly what one good writer thinks of Mary Garden's "Monna Vanna."

In a lecture recently given on "The New heard in song recital on Thursday evening, Hackett before the Amateur Club, he stated that in his opinion the success of "Monna Vanna" would depend absolutely upon whether the principal woman's part was made extremely spiritual (as it is quite possible to make it) or its salacious possibilities should be brought out, in which latter case Mr. Hackett predicted failure for the opera. Our Boston correspondent seems to have a very decided opinion as to which phase Miss Garden emphasized in that city.

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
Studio 521 Kimball Hall, Tues. and Frl. Res. 6611 Woodlawn Av.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

JESSIE
PIANISTE KING
Studio 416, 59 E. Van Buren Street

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
3534 Lake St. Available for Church Position

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

BEN Q.
BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

Herbert E. HydE
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

ELENA
MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg.

Music in Chicago

MUSICAL ART SOCIETY

The first concert for this season by the Musical Art Society was a complete demonstration of the good business management, of the fine direction of the club and of the artistic attainments of the members.

There was only a medium sized audience, but it has been definitely stated that there were no complimentary tickets, and that the actual sale of seats much more than covered the expenses—this certainly being fine management.

Mr. De Lamarter has lost much of the angularity which was in evidence when he first assumed the baton for this society, and has developed into a stage manner which is more compatible with his musical knowledge, which latter indeed is of a kind and quality to have enabled him to work the most delightful artistic results.

ERIC DELAMARTER

The singers are much fewer in numbers than heretofore, but there has been established a remarkably fine ensemble. There is not a single voice which disturbs the beauty of mass tone by undue prominence and every member of the society is so amenable to the De Lamarter intention, that he is able to mold the tone, and to shade it to the most refined and effective uses.

Brilliance was in evidence very occasionally, but for the most part a subdued, absolutely pure quality was shown; one indeed which reminds forcibly of a string quartet at its best as distinguished from the color and bulk of a Symphony Orchestra.

Once one of the sopranos made a false entry, and there were two or three occasions when the sopranos wandered from the key perceptibly, but aside from these two items it would be impossible to find fault.

Not only was the tonal mass of the most exquisite quality and extremely pliable to every intention of nuance and shading, but also the interpretative thought of each number was not only pointed out beautifully by Mr. De Lamarter, but it was also artistically and effectively re-echoed by the singers.

Mr. Palmer Christian played the few necessary accompaniments with much skill and Mr. Bruno Steindel officiated in one number with a 'cello obligato.

Music News did not receive a program in time to print it last week and therefore the extremely interesting list of songs given is here appended.

"Christus Surrexit" ..... Anerio
"Benedictus" ..... Gabrielli
(12 Voices)

"Vere Languores" ..... Lotti
(Men's Voices)

Motette "O beata et gloriosa Trinitas" ..... Palestrina
"Trois Chansons de Charles d'Orleans" ..... Debussy
I Dieu qu'il la fait bon regarder
(Lord, Lovely Hast Thou Made My Dear)
II Yver, vous n'es tes qu'un villain
(Cold Winter, Villain That Thou Art)

"Must I Forever?" ..... Arensky
"Serenade" ..... Arensky
With 'Cello Obligato by Mr. Steindel

"Christmas Song" ..... Herzogenberg
"Sit Down and Sing" ..... Weelkes
(Sopranos and Tenors)

"Beauteous Morn" ..... German
"Water Sprites" ..... Chaffin
(Women's Voices)

Folk Songs of Eastern Europe (by request)—
"For the Czar is Making War" (Dalmatian)
"Heart's Desire" (Ruthenian)
"Give Him a March" (Servian)
"Come Ye Merry Girls and Boys" (Croatian)

♯♯♯

HINSHAW CONSERVATORY GRAND OPERA CHORUS

Mr. John Arno Hinshaw, manager of the Hinshaw Conservatory, has organized a professional grand opera chorus, composed of many of Chicago's best young singers. It is his endeavor also to make a prominent organization of the choral club, not only to study operas, but for the study and presentation of the best oratorios. There is still an opportunity for a few more good singers (all voices). A fine general musical education is open to all members.

Mr. Hinshaw is also organizing an opera company for Chautauqua work, which will include an orchestra, for next summer, and many of the club members will be given an opportunity to join this company.

Applications in person should be made as early as possible.

♯♯♯

Gingrich—Mr. Irving Gingrich, last year a very successful teacher at South Bend Conservatory, is now director of music at Carbon county, in Utah. He has already established a very satisfactory High School Chorus and Orchestra.

♯♯♯

Silber—Mr. Sidney Silber has just been engaged for an appearance with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

THE ORCHESTRA CONCERT

"Dry as dust, empty as air," said a constant attendant at the orchestra concerts to me, after hearing the Brahms "Concerto" as manipulated by Harold Bauer last week with the orchestra. "Played with a shocking disregard to what Brahms really wrote," commented a teacher of authority, a little later.

Technically brilliant as a matter of course—and, truth to tell, successful with the audience, nevertheless.

It was no doubt a mistake to place this number last—for, on Saturday night, the end of the first movement only had been reached at 10 o'clock, and very many people left at that time.

This apathy arose probably from the fact that the Schumann "Symphony" No. 1, B flat, played just before the intermission, was so exquisite—both inherently and in the magnificent reading given by the orchestra—that there was really not room in the musical mind and heart for another great number.

The Bach "Concerto" for string orchestra, which opened the program, was also a work of infinite joy and the playing of the men in these two works has not been excelled at any time this year.

At the concerts of this week the popular young violinist, Albin Steindel, will play the Bruch violin "Concerto;" the "Symphony" will be the suave "Italian" of Mendelssohn, the program in full being as follows:

Symphony No. 4, "Italian," A major, Opus 90.... ..... Mendelssohn
Allegro Vivace
Andante Con Moto
Con Moto Moderato
Saltarello
Concerto for Violin No. 2, D minor, Opus 44..... ..... Bruch
Recitativo—Finale
Intermission
Roumanian Rhapsody No. 2, D major.....Enesco
Symphony, B minor.....Greschaninow
(Two movements)
Andante
Scherzo
Symphonic Poem No. 1, "Le Rouet d'Omphale," Opus 31..... Saint-Saens
Hungarian Dances (17-21).....Brahms-Dvorak

OLD FAVORITES CONCERT

Elizabeth Lay Newman, Ida Belle Freeman, Thomas Pither and Alfred Newman, a quartet of singers long popular in Austin, were engaged for an "Old Favorites" concert at the Presbyterian Church of Austin on last Friday evening and, with Miss Jessie C. Adams as accompanist, gave a fine program of the solo and quartet numbers which they had made very popular in the past. Other artists appearing were Mrs. W. A. Evans, in monologue; Mrs. William T. Todd, soprano; Murray C. Eldredge, baritone; Mrs. J. Rawson Pennington, accompanist; Mrs. Carol Kelley Brooke, composer-accompanist, and The Imperial Saxaphone Quartet.

———♯♯♯———

Woodworth.—Miss Mabel Woodworth, violinist, played at the Florentine Room of the Congress Hotel in a musicale on December 10, appeared at a meeting of the Sigma Alpha Iota Sorority at Auditorium Recital Hall on December 15 and will play before the Elmhurst Woman's Club on December 22. Recently she played at Normal, Ill., in joint concert with Helen Bright Bengel and Edgar Nelson.

MENDELSSOHN CLUB

The concerts of the Mendelssohn Club have ever been, are now, and long may they be unique events in our musical recreation. The club is always sure of a big audience, unbounded applause and enthusiasm and the assurance that they give contented enjoyment. The audience is unswervingly loyal and in its make-up runs the gamut from the very cream of the musical profession to those who are really non-musical. And the purely social side is evidenced in the flutter of gala attire in the boxes, on the floor and in the foyer in that intermission when the singers come up from the caverns below Orchestra Hall and mingle with the promenaders. The reason for this appeal to all sorts and conditions of men is not far to find. The work is purely a labor of love and loyalty on the part of that group of cultured men who make up the active membership. Most of them are hard working professionals and attendance at rehearsals means sacrifice of valuable time and strength. And when the concerts are on there is a splendid giving out of all the powers possessed to exalt the music itself and make its influence potent and appealing. For the thoughtful auditor there is grateful acceptance of this generosity. It is not to be taken as a matter of course nor to be considered in any other but a class by itself. This gratitude sometimes takes an unfortunate form, and I think was evident at the current concert last Thursday. The applause was hearty and genuine for the work of the club, but it was not insistent. The contented ones were not demonstrative, which is a mistake and deprives the performers of their real reward. For that reason the less judicious, in their intention to be cordial to any guest which the club presents, were allowed to bestow more compliment to the guest than the host and exalt some comic songs at the expense of the delicious humor on the limericks of Edward Lear, perfectly expressed in the delicate fancy of Margaret Lang. Mr. Wild and his men caught the moods deftly and in the perfect Mendelssohn way which makes such things bits of perfection. The Elgar songs were marvels of taste and beautiful feeling. The tone was liquid in its purity and elasticity and presented the club in an inspired movement.

But the rare number for the music lover was Goetz's short cantata, "So Still at Evening." The poem is one of those legends that are found only in Germany, and the music is fitted to text with great charm. Mr. Wild realized the poesy of the composition and its romance and imagery fairly blossomed in his interpretation. The club sang it superbly and Miss Leonora Allen, to whom fell the solo interludes, did them with fine spirit and earnestness. Her voice took on the color of the lines and the wondering fear of the fisher boy in an altogether admirable manner. The work of the club throughout was of a nature to assure its well wishers that Mr. Wild and his men retained all their former standards.

Mr. Werrenrath is a conventional drawing room singer of that chestily complacent type, which delivers its songs as though they were royal largesse patronizingly bestowed from the finger tips to a suppliant horde. ALBERT COTSWORTH.

———♯♯♯———

Warner—Marjorie Dodge Warner, soprano, sang, December 6, at LaSalle Hotel; December 12, Woman's Club, Lake Forest; will sing December 29, Presbyterian Church, Oak Park; January 1 and 22 she will be heard in concert with the Chicago Concert Trio.

———♯♯♯———

Layfield.—On Monday, December 15, Francis Arnold gave his lecture, "Interpretation of Nature in Music," at the Arche Club, Mrs. Mabel Layfield, contralto, supplying the musical illustrations.

Iva Bigelow Weaver SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work. May Mansfield PARIS STUDIOS: 27 Rue Boislevent Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory 207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.
A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Ask for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN AMERICAN COMPOSER In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals. Recitals of His Compositions. Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
Care WHITE, SMITH AND CO., BOSTON SEASON 1912-1913

H. W. OWENS VOCAL DIRECTOR
WESTERN CONSERVATORY
Voice Teacher Coaching
PHONE CENTRAL 7804

Valparaiso Music College

Department of

Valparaiso University

Second Largest University in the United States

VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President

OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER

SOLO VIOLINIST

Welsh International Festival

MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE

SOPRANO

Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils

5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN

PIANIST

8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE

CONTRALTO

Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL

TEACHER OF SINGING

STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON

BASSO-CANTANTE

Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency

416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496

Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers

VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION

METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE

Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL

The Art of Singing

81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday

Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 8448

J. EDWARD LOEBER

VIOLINIST TEACHER RECITALS Musicales

3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

BARBARA WAIT

Contralto

Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson

ELSA BLOEDEL WITH BOEPPLER ORCHESTRA

Boeppler, with his orchestra and soloists, achieved a triumph at the sixth concert of the afternoon series on Sunday afternoon, December 14. The program was chosen in honor of Beethoven's birthday, December 16, and only a glance at the program will show that just honor was given. The orchestra men seemed in better condition than ever before; perhaps being enthused with the spirit of the occasion helped bring out the splendid playing of which this well balanced orchestra is capable. Every number heard during the afternoon was worthy to be on a Beethoven program, and the variety was enough to satisfy the tastes of all. The soloists of the afternoon were Miss Elsa Boedel, contralto, of Milwaukee, and Isidore Berger, the concertmaster.

Miss Bloedel has at her command a voice of the rich, resonant and appealing contralto quality, to which it is always a delight to listen. She achieved notable success in her first song, "Ha, Treuloser," by Beethoven. With her strong instinct for the dramatic moment she developed powerful intensity throughout this song, to which she was compelled to add a folk-song from "Youth's Happy Day" by Radecke. It was perhaps in Miss Bloedel's second appearance that she was heard to best advantage. Her singing of Schubert's "Au die Musik" and Schumann's "Du bist wie eine Blume" were most artistic and her graceful acceptance of many beautiful flowers at the close of those numbers added to the resounding applause which brought her to the platform again and again, singing "Spinnerliedchen," a German folk song, and "Strampelchen" by Hildach. The violin solo, "Romance" in F, by Beethoven, was played by Mr. Berger. The program as given is as follows:

Grand March from "Prometheus" ..... Beethoven
Overture—Magic Flute ..... Mozart
Alto Solo—Scena and Aria: "Ha Treuloser" ..... Beethoven
Miss Elsa Bloedel, Milwaukee
Symphony No. 2 in D, First Movement ..... Haydn
Intermission
Overture—Egmont ..... Beethoven
Violin Solo—Romance in F ..... Beethoven
Vocal Solo—
An die Musik ..... Schubert
Du bist wie eine Blume ..... Schubert
Selection—Lohengrin ..... Wagner
Intermission
Invitation to the Dance ..... Weber
Two Hungarian Dances ..... Brahms
Rakoczy March ..... Liszt
Accompanist, Miss Grace Grove

H. M. B.

MISS LAMB'S RECITAL

Miss Winifred Lamb gave the following piano program at the Fine Arts Theater on last Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Columbia School of Music:

Prelude and Fugue ..... Mendelssohn
Sonata, Op. 99 ..... Beethoven
Nocturne
Waltz
Sonata, B flat minor
Doppio Movemento
Scherzo
Funeral March
Finale
..... Chopin
Improvization ..... Reger
"Les soun et les parfums tournent dans l'air du soir" ..... Debussy
Premieres Lueurs du Matin ..... Tschesnokoff
Danse, E major ..... Debussy
Rhapsody ..... Dohnanyi

THIRD PRESBYTERIAN QUARTET

A concert of much interest, worth and beauty was that given by the Third Presbyterian Church Quartet, on Tuesday evening, December 9, in the church, at Ogden and Ashland avenues. This quartet is made up of Lyla L. Smith, soprano; Edna ver Haar, contralto; Charles E. Riddel, tenor, and Charles La Berge, baritone. As a quartet they were only heard in one number, Buck's "Te Deum in E Flat." With an organ accompaniment this number proved to be an excellent piece of singing, showing splendid ensemble and balance of voices. Miss Smith, who possesses a soprano voice of the dramatic type, and which she handles with the utmost ease and confidence, made a happy choice of her numbers and created much enthusiasm by her singing of "Your Eyes," Schneider; "Allah," Chadwick, and "Promise," Chaminade. No less successful was Mrs. ver Haar in her well-chosen group of songs, consisting of "Magical June," Hilton-Turvey; "To You," Speaks; and "Mother's Day," White. Her stage presence is most pleasing and her interpretations were inspiring and full of sincerity. Combining those qualities with a voice full, rich and resonant, she makes an excellent concert singer.

Mr. Riddell delivered his numbers, which were made up of Lehmann, Marshall and Diamond songs in a sure and very convincing manner. Mr. La Berge again proved himself to be a splendid baritone soloist, singing with much authority a group of well-chosen numbers, in which he displayed all his powers to very good advantage.

Miss Caroline Marshall, the organist and accompanist of the evening, played organ numbers by Dubois, Mendelssohn, Kinder and Costa, which bespoke her excellent musicianship and were played with the clearness and finish which characterize her performances. During her accompaniments she was in full sympathy with the singers and proved most efficient at the piano.

H. M. B.

JOHN RANKL IN RECITAL

Mr. John Rankl will give an evening of Hugo Wolf songs at the MacBurney Studios, Monday evening, December 22. The program follows:

Gebet Das Standchen
Auf ein altes Bild
Fussreise
Zur Ruh, zur Ruh!
Nimmersate Liebe
Anakreon's Grab
Der Tambour
Der Musikant
Wie viele Zeit verlor ich
Der Feuerreiter
Lebe wohl
Gesang Weyla's
Wer sich der Einsamkeit ergiebt
Heimweh

Keller.—Mr. Walter Keller, Chicago organist, gave an organ recital at the First Congregational Church in Charles City, on December 11, winning the unqualified approval of this Iowa city. He was assisted by Mrs. Mary Mulfinger-Henke, contralto, director of music at the Charles City College.

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

A CHARMING JOINT RECITAL

Mrs. Lily Wadhams Moline, organist at the Wesley M. E. Church, and a teacher and composer of wide prestige, gave a program of organ numbers at the church on last Friday evening, and was most ably seconded by her sister, Miss Al Meda Wadhams, who played a list of piano works very acceptably.

Miss Wadhams, known as one of the very best of local accompanists, has not been heard frequently in piano recital, but she was found at this time to have musicianship, style and finish in equal proportions, while technically she is also admirably equipped.

She played the brilliant "Prelude" of Whiting with much power, as also the MacDowell "Etude," and in an "Etude de Concert" by Lily Wadhams Moline she was particularly brilliant.

Her Chopin group later contained a "Nocturne," "Valse" and "Ballade," and in these numbers she showed good tonal quality, much finesse in interpretation and a great variety of effects.

Mrs. Moline, although somewhat handicapped by a very stiff-action organ, yet showed very great facility of registrations and alertness of pedal technic. The "Concert Overture" (Hollins), "Pilgrim's Chorus" (Wagner), and "Grand Chorus" by Guilmant, were admirably virtuosic in effect, the Beethoven "Minuet" was deftly played and the "Communion" (Batiste) and "Legend" by MacDowell showed an abundance of poetical gift. Altogether a program which was very much enjoyed and which engendered the wish for more of the same kind.

———♯♯♯———

THE APOLLO CLUB IN "MESSIAH"

One week from next Monday night the Apollo Musical Club of 300 singers will give its first holiday performance of Handel's "Messiah" at Orchestra Hall. The second performance takes place Friday night, January 2, at the Auditorium Theater. This year marks the forty-ninth and fiftieth performance of the "Messiah" in Chicago by the Apollo Club, and the occasion will be particularly marked by using for the first time in the west, a new orchestration of the entire work by Prout, recently published. The soloists for both concerts are: Mabel Sharp Herdien, soprano; Rose Lutiger Gannon, contralto; Reed Miller, tenor, and Arthur Middleton, bass.

———♯♯♯———

Clarke.—Edward Clarke, baritone, gave a recital at the Dakota Conservatory of Music, Fargo, N. D., on last Tuesday evening. His program began with songs of the seventeenth century, and included the "Prologue" from "Pagliacci," a Schubert group, some French songs, a group of English text songs and one of Irish ballads.

MR. HOPKINS' STUDIO RECITAL

Following the very successful studio recital of a week before, Mr. Hamilton Hopkins, by request, gave another program at his studio, 710 Fine Arts Building, on last Friday evening, and again he amply demonstrated that the pupils under his direction are attaining remarkable results.

Mr. Herman Arenson, a robust tenor, with splendid presence, sang the first act aria from "La Boheme" and one from "Othello," as well as the Leoncavallo "Mattinata" and some other smaller things, and completely electrified every one present with the power and brilliancy of his voice and the absolute ease with which it is produced.

Ranging very high, his tone is firm and clear throughout his scale, and he is able to accomplish wonders in the way of shading and climax building.

Along the same line of wonderfully powerful and bravoura tone production Mr. Hopkins himself gave the "Prologue" from "I Pagliacci" and showed, not only that he has a splendid voice, but also that his method is such that he is able to use it to the most telling advantage.

Mrs. Hopkins, by request, repeated some of the numbers she had sung on a previous evening, and was particularly brilliant in the Puccini "Vissi d'Arte," a number which she colors and shades in a most beautiful and effective way.

Miss Eloise Peckenpaugh, another splendid exponent of the Hopkins method, was heard in the great aria from "Traviata," and showed that she, too, is a remarkably resourceful and effective singer, and that in grand opera she should certainly shine.

———♯♯♯———

North Shore School.—At the North Shore School of Music on Monday evening a successful recital was given by Louise Haake, pianist, pupil of Gail Martin-Haake. Miss Haake played a Beethoven "Sonata," the Fifth "Partita" by Bach, a MacDowell group and one made up from Rachmaninoff, Nollet and Godard.

EFFA ELLIS
Constructive
Music Book, $1.50
Special Introductory Price
65 Cents
TO TEACHERS ONLY
ADDRESS
Effa Ellis Music School
205 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

PALMER PARK

On the occasion of the annual concert of the Palmer Park Musical Society, given Thursday and Friday evenings of December 11 and 12, Mrs. Edna Swanson Ver Haar, Miss Minnie Stowell, and Melville Martinson were chosen as soloists. Mrs. Ver Haar sang the contralto solo of "Lord, How Long Wilt Thou Forget Me," Psalm 13, Op. 96, Mendelssohn, and proved herself to be a most capable singer of oratorio. Hers is a contralto voice which may be really dignified by that name, and is one rarely rich and full. Mrs. Ver Haar is reflecting more than passing credit upon her teacher, George Nelson Holt.

Miss Wallace, who is one of the MacBurney pupils, which in itself is usually a guarantee for good work, appeared to advantage in the aria to "As the Hart Pants." She again was highly pleasing in the solo of "Hear My Prayer."

Melville Martinson, the absolutely clever and earnest young violinist who is rapidly making a name for himself as a successful young artist, offered two solos, which were indeed gratifying. His reading of the "Air for G String" (Bach) was repeated upon the insistence of his hearers. Mr. Martinson also acted as concertmeister of the well regulated orchestra of the evening.

Mr. A. R. Simpson, director of the chorus, has accomplished much with the material at his disposal and deserves credit for that. Miss Clara Lucas at the piano supplied very excellent accompaniment.

F. D. B.

———♯♯♯———

"THE HOLY CITY"

The combined choirs of the Auburn Park M. E., Normal Park Baptist and Bethany Union Churches gave Gaul's "Holy City" at the Normal Park Baptist Church, Seventieth street and Stewart avenue, on Friday evening, December 12, to a small but very enthusiastic audience. These combined choirs make up a chorus of about eighty voices and in the rendition of the Gaul work, which is undoubtedly one of the best of the minor oratorios, this chorus showed most careful preparation and their singing with true inspiration, good shading and attack was most marked. Above all there appeared sincerity and a true love for the work. The work was given under the efficient direction of Charles W. Leigh, and Mrs. Angie Belle Battis supplied the best of accompaniments at the organ throughout the evening. The solo voices heard during the rendition were May Lucas Aid and Ethel Gordon, sopranos; Lola Love, contralto; William G. Smith, tenor, and Messrs. Raymond Barker and Evan Loyd, basses. Mrs. Aid deserves special mention for the excellent reading of the leading soprano parts. Her voice is a most pleasing one and she sings with real warmth and sincerity. Mr. Smith possesses a voice of large range and was satisfactory in the tenor parts.

H. M. B.

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studeba ker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production | Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. | 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred Baritone NEWMAN
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires -makes not mars-the soloist, enabling him to bring out his best. 1246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
Management Alma Voedisch. 3836 Wilton Ave., Chicago

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

CHAMBER MUSIC AT THE LITTLE THEATER

The Little Theater lends itself admirably to the performance of Chamber Music and the audience found there on last Sunday evening, though not a very large one, was the most appreciative of such effort that may be found anywhere. It was a perfect joy to see people actually drink in with satisfaction and enjoyment a program of that kind.

True, there is not often an opportunity to hear such players as those of Sunday night in so absolutely fine a program. Alexander Zukowsky is a violinist of the greatest value and charm, and Miss Mae Doelling is a pianist with few equals.

Long established as a soloist of originality, power and finesse, she proved at a song recital recently that she is an accompanist of the finest type, and on Sunday night she showed also that in ensemble music she is without a superior in Chicago

To these two well-known players was added Theodore Du Moulin, a good 'cello player, and the ensemble thus established was a thoroughly well-balanced one.

The playing of the Beethoven "Trio," Op. 1, No. 2, was a piece of the most definite art—the mood was just right, the tonal quality of the piano was exquisite, the violin was masterful—altogether an unusual performance.

After this Miss Doelling played a group of Chopin numbers as a solo, and the Arensky "Trio" was added to close the program. This writer, however, found it possible to hear only the first number, but, as said before, this was of such charm as to be entirely well worth while. C. E. W.

———♯♯♯———

ARGANGELI PUPILS IN CONCERT

The Arcangeli Vocal School of Bel Canto gave a concert at the Fine Arts Theater on last Sunday night and drew a capacity house, and not only so, but enthusiasm was at a high pitch throughout the evening and took the form of many recalls and encores, and the presenting of quantities of flowers.

The program was given according to the list printed in Music News last week, the selections being both interesting, and in many cases, novel.

Arias and scenes were given from "Simon Bocconegra," "Ernani," "Faust," "Don Carlos," "Il Trovatore," "La Gioconda," "Salvator Rosa," "Tosca," "Pagliacci," "Carmen," "Samson and Delilah," "Masked Ball," "Louise," "Aida" and "Madame Butterfly," this being, as may readily be seen, a very unusual and a thoroughly comprehensive list.

Many young singers were heard and a large proportion of them showed the results of much good training. Not all voices, naturally, were of equal value, but each young singer showed that earnestness is one of the assets gained at the Arcangeli studios, each was letter perfect in the songs given and the total amount of good singing and correct style displayed was great.

———♯♯♯———

Eddy.—Clarence Eddy gave an organ recital at the St. John's Church in Pittsburgh on last Wednesday evening.

ENSEMBLE PLAYING AT COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL

At a pupils' recital of the class in ensemble playing of the Cosmopolitan School of Music, Mr. Henry P. Eames, director, on the 8th inst., this much neglected but most enjoyable form of musical diversion received a welcome impetus. In much running about this reviewer has seldom encountered more uniform fitness for the undertaken tasks than became evident as the evening progressed. There were two movements from the matchless Schumann Piano Quintet, the lovely "Andante" from the Sinding Piano Trio, two movements from Mozart's B-flat violin "Sonata," and the rippling first movement from the Beethoven F-major, as well as one from the richly colored 'cello "Sonata" of Grieg.

Abounding throughout was the finest sort of earnestness, sincerity and surrender of self to the claims of the music. There were gradations of excellence, as was to be expected, and the place of honor must be given to the Sinding number. This had many admirable touches to give it distinction. In the string quartet the weak brother is, as usual, the viola. The piano playing was nearly all very good. The enjoyment of the audience was evident and the evening was one of moment to those who love serious music. The names of the pupils taking part in the program were: The Misses Eidam, Meents, Edwards, Ball and Bodholt, and Messrs. La Belle, Sheasby, Smith and Schneiderman. Their ease and deportment were noticeably good. ALBERT COTSWORTH.

———♯♯♯———

AMERICAN CONSERVATORY RECITAL

A most excellent and interesting recital was that given at Kimball Hall, Saturday, December 13, by the advanced piano pupils of Frank Van Dusen and Kurt Wanieck, voice pupils of Edward Clarke and Charles La Berge, and violin pupils of Herbert Butler. Each performer showed good stage presence and splendid training as well as possessing exceptional talent. The program as given:

Faschings Schwank (Carnival Prank).....Schumann
Mr. Earl Blades
Polonaise in C sharp minor.....Chopin
Miss Margaret Hughes
Ended at Last the Strife (Le Cid).....Massenet
Miss Mabel Keig
Ballade, Op. 24.....Grieg
Miss Aletta Tenold
Vocal—
"Bon Jour, Suzon".....Delibes
"Les Berceaux".....Faure
"Song of Sunshine".....Thomas
Miss Eulah Jane Beach
Violin—Rondo Capriccio.....Saint-Saens
Miss Grace M'Bride
Cortigiani, Nil Razza..... Verdi
Mr. Sol. Heller
Variations and Fugue, Op. 11.....Paderewski
Miss Katharine Kittelsby
Duet—"Wie aus des Ferne" (Flying Dutchman).....
..... Wagner
Mrs. Vorhees and Mr. Heller
Rigoletto Paraphrase..... Verdi-Liszt
Miss Viola Kerber
Misses Stapleton and Matuska at the Piano
H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

Beldon.—Miss Ethel Beldon presented her piano and violin pupils in a recital at Wheaton, Ill., on December 6.

(Continued on page 11)

Books and Music

OLIVER DITSON AND COMPANY

Oliver Ditson and Company have sent out some extremely interesting things recently, many of which are thoroughly appropriate for gift purposes.

Foremost along that line, and a book which would make a magnificent Christmas present for any student of music, is the new edition of "Opera Singers" by Gustav Kobbe. This has been brought absolutely "up to date" and is as handsome a book as was ever compiled at the very reasonable price of $2.50. It contains scores of portraits of the famous opera singers in their most famous parts and the explanatory text is well written and very much worth while. A few extracts are here quoted from the prospectus:

Gustav Kobbe's Opera Singers has reached its sixth edition. The book is issued by Oliver Ditson Company, Boston, in an unusually handsome form.

Many changes, however, in the contents make this edition almost a new work. One may note here the whirligig of time in its effect on opera singers. Caruso, who was not in the first edition at all, he being then entirely unknown here, now leads the book with his biography. This is followed by biographies of Geraldine Farrar, Olive Fremstad, Johanna Gadski and Mary Garden; while the biographies of the famous singers of the Maurice Grau regime, which led the book in its earlier editions, are now placed after the pictorial section, into which many new portraits have been introduced. Those artists, who have not quite yet achieved the distinction of biographies in Mr. Kobbe's work, are well represented in the pictures.

Caruso

Although the author disclaims in his foreword any attempt at a critical work, considerable discriminating comment will be found in these cleverly written pages. After very just praise of Caruso's voice and after saying that, to use a colloquial expression, "it has thrills in it, and a thrill is a valuable commodity in a voice," Mr. Kobbe adds: "Lest I should be deemed over-enthusiastic, I hasten to add that there is one detail in this artist's method which I do not commend—a tendency in certain profoundly pathetic passages, as in the 'Pagliacci' aria, to produce a 'weepy' quality of tone."

♮ ♮ ♮

Geraldine Farrar

In the brief opening paragraph of the Geraldine Farrar biography, Mr. Kobbe secures, in a few striking lines, a comprehensive summing up of what this prima donna has accomplished in her still youthful career. He writes: "Geraldine Farrar's home is in Berlin, Germany. Her address is the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. As she was born in Melrose, Mass., she may be described as a Yankee girl with a German home, an American address, and a reputation for vocal charm and personal attractiveness wherever opera is sung."

♮ ♮ ♮

Mary Garden

No great operatic career since Calve's has been due, in Mr. Kobbe's opinion, "so much to the artist's personality as Mary Garden's. Her personality, in fact, is more marked than Calve's. The French prima donna, at the height of her career, had a beautiful voice—sensuous and full of color. Mary Garden's voice, no matter how well trained, would not of itself account for her unique position on the operatic stage. It is her haunting personality, the highly individual touch she gives to everything she does, which, with a voice that suffices, makes her one of the interesting figures in opera today. She is a woman of subtle temperament who sings, and she is an entire exception to the traditional idea of the prima donna with whom voice is the first thing to be considered."

♮ ♮ ♮

Olive Fremstad

A most interesting account is given of Olive Fremstad's life—and a life of almost constant and severe application it has been. Both her mother and father, Swedes who had settled in St. Peter, Minn., were practicing physicians, but, in addition, the father had become an active missionary in the Methodist faith. Through her father's work Olive early in life was given a keen sense of the dramatic and musical. She was taken about by him to religious meetings to play the organ and thus aid him in securing converts; and, of course, she witnessed many emotional scenes on these occasions. At that time she was still so small that pieces of wood had to be fastened to her feet to enable her to reach the organ pedals.

♮ ♮ ♮

Johanna Gadski

In writing of Mme. Gadski, to whose record of progressive achievement the author does full justice, he points out that "it is well to remember that, although she is now esteemed as a Wagnerian singer par excellence, she did not start out with the heavy Wagnerian roles, but in the beginning of her operatic career sang only the so-called lyric parts of classic operas, particularly those of Weber and Mozart, and worked only very gradually into the lighter Wagnerian roles of Elizabeth ('Tannhauser'), Eva ('Meistersinger') and Elsa ('Lohengrin')."

♮ ♮ ♮

Bergerettes By Wekerlin

Another fine gift book is a new edition of the Bergerettes (Romances and Songs of the Eighteenth Century), compiled by J. B. Wekerlin. These dainty works have long been known and very much used, but the present edition is far superior to any older one and besides being fine from the musical standpoint, it is a work of art as regards the printing, coloring, etc.

♮ ♮ ♮

Solos For Christian Science Services

This is a list of twenty-seven solos (printed for high and low voice), selected by Helen Allen Hunt, soloist of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, from the works of Frey, Mendelssohn, Gounod, Abt, Fischer, Young, Sullivan, Bennett and others. Certainly a very useful compilation and one that has been done with much skill.

♮ ♮ ♮

Other Ditson Music

Songs: "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes," William T. Miller; "Auf Wiedersehen," "All My Thoughts Are Serene," "A Song of Joy," "Sweet and Low" and "Two Roses," Nicholas Douty; "On an April Apple Bough," Margaret Ruthven Lang.

Piano: "At the Dance," "Colonial Days," "Come Join the Dance," "In the Apple Boughs," "May Breezes" and "Measured Steps," easy teaching material by Paul Opper; "Little Serenade," "Gavotte of the Sylphs," "A Dream of Summer" and "At the Spring," salon pieces by Gustave Lazarus; "Six Little Tone Sketches," by Carl Wilhelm Kern; "Scherzo Valse," concert piece by Moszkowsky.

♮ ♮ ♮

M. Witmark and Sons

"Christmas Bells Ring Sweet and Clear," lyric by William Gardner, music by Jessie Mae Jewell; "Just You," Ella Wheeler Wilcox, William E. Haesche; "Some Day Thou Shalt Be At Rest," sacred song by Charles B. Blount; "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears," sacred song by Caro Roma; "Turn Thee Unto Me," "In Springtime," "Evening Song" and "Autumn Song," by Hans

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines Teacher, Coach Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School 9th Floor Auditorium. Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole management HARRY CULBERTSON

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4366

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

MAE Doelling Pianist Teacher
4141 N. Hermitage Av

ELSA BLOEDEL
CONTRALTO
Concerts - Oratorio - Recitals
Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee, Wis.

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

The following Artists of The Chicago Grand Opera Company can be engaged for CONCERTS, RECITALS, "AT HOMES," ETC.

Address: JULIUS DAIBER Auditorium Theater, Chicago

JENNY DUFAU SOPRANO Chicago Grand Opera Co.

Beatrice Wheeler CONTRALTO Chicago Grand Opera Co.

WHITEHILL BARITONE Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

well how he depends upon her and needs her.

There is a mean spirited son of this father who is to bring his bride home that day—the first woman to come into the house, she says, for forty years. All of the children have been sons, and this youngest of them all the only one left. But before he arrives, a girl whom he has wronged and thrown aside comes in dejectedly, bearing her child in her arms. The mother suspects this child's parentage and urges the girl to go elsewhere. Before she is persuaded to do this, the son and his bride are inside the door. Developments follow rapidly. The bride discards her faithless husband, proudly takes the forsaken girl and child under her protection, and leaves the household. The curtain falls upon the father and son inveighing against the faithlessness of all women and scoring them roundly. But while they do it, the woman who has endured much and expects nothing more, pours tea for the old man and urges him to drink it while it is hot, which he does noisily. Then she strikes a match to light the pipe of the surly son. There is no word of thanks and there is no word of complaint. It is life as they find it and have helped make it—mean and worse than commonplace. If the picture were not so pitiably true, even in higher walks, one might resent so hopeless a realism as presented.

This is one phase of "Womenkind" as exemplified by three plays of varying moods. This play was written by W. W. Gibson and is well made. It is acted by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Browne and their talented young followers. The other plays are "Joint Owners in Spain," by Alice Brown and Stanley Houghton's "Fifth Commandment." "Samson" was calling the Elderly Person also, therefore he saw but the one play. He joined in the applause with all his fervor, but no amount of concussion can bring those curtains apart for any bowing and smiling from the players. You have to go to the Auditorium to find that in perfection. So far as is known much of the work done by Mr. Browne's aides is volunteer and for the compensation of experience. It is all done with a singular ease and freshness. There is only one word for the presentations as a whole. They are admirable in the largest sense of the word. As said in the beginning, the Elderly steps often trend towards this inviting place to find therein something of stimulant and pleasure that is not to be found in the ordinary currents where diversion and inspiration supposedly join hands.

* * * * * *

Turning to the other place where true joy is to be found, the Elderly Person takes a chance and recommends to his brothers of the choir loft, a little book which recently fell into his hands. Not all of what it preaches is accepted as finality. That is a reservation to be made of all books, particularly of those which deal with subjects which can never be exhausted. An organ and is possibilities can not yet be considered as completed. But Mr. George L. Miller writes so engagingly of "The Recent Revolution in Organ Building" that in a certain way he has done the unusual thing. He makes frequent allusion to the works of others, but what is most enjoyable is the compactness and brevity of his work. There is nothing discursive. It is all solid food, and for that reason becomes a desirable manual for those who would inform themselves quickly. There are so many drawings of detail that matters which are really serious to the uninformed have a good strong light thrown upon them. There are lucid and well expressed explanations of the primitive means employed first, and how they were integral factors in the present completeness. Mr. Miller naturally believes that the tubular-pneumatic action is a climax, and there are few who will quarrel with his premises. But there be those who yet realize its shortcomings. Mr. Miller's book is illuminative in its generosity of subject and treatment. Particularly for the man away from the centers of things is it valuable. He can learn from this slender little volume so many helpful things that he will bless the man who wrote it.

THE ELDERLY PERSON.

THE RAVENSWOOD MEN'S CHORUS

The concert by The Ravenswood Men's Chorus, on Thursday, the 4th of December, in the Congregational Church of Ravenswood, under the direction of J. S. Fearis, was given to a crowded house, every number of the chorus deservedly meeting with hearty and continued applause. In the attacks, releases, following of the director, quality of tone and expression, the chorus does very superior work, and show that they have been most carefully drilled by the conductor, who directs quietly, and with no exaggerated motions, yet the response and the effectiveness of substantial men's choral work is all there. The pianissimos are fine, and the fortissimos developed a surprising volume from such a small number, yet the tone from the light to the heavy always remains good.

Especial praise should be given to the number, "A Plainsman's Song," probably the most effectively given number on the program.

The accompaniments were played beautifully by Miss Helen M. Browne, who also played a fine solo number, to which she had to respond by an encore, playing the Schubert-Lizst "Serenade."

The solo members of the chorus, Mr. Wallace Tate and Mr. Frank Sanders, sustained their parts with sureness and credit to themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Read were the soloists of the evening. W. A. WHITE.

———♯♯♯———

De Bernyz.—The M. G. V. Singing Society gave a concert last Sunday evening in Odd Fellows' Hall, Hoboken, N. J., under the directorship of Richard Vossley with the Philharmonic Orchestra. The soloists of the evening were Miss Josephine Schwarzwalder and Miss Muriel Marresford, both pupils of Professor B. de Bernyz. Miss Schwarzwalder in her rendition of the "aria" from the opera "Der Freischuetz," displayed a dramatic soprano voice of exceptional quality and great beauty. In the "barcarole" duet Miss Marresford's contralto voice proved to be one of richness and sweetness, and a great career is predicted for these soloists. The audience received them in a very enthusiastic manner. It certainly is a verification of the fact that Professor de Bernyz is a teacher of the first class.

———♯♯♯———

Brown.—Miss Helen Axe Brown, soprano, was soloist at the Chicago Press Club Thursday evening, December 4. Miss Brown has been successfully filling numerous engagements since her recent return from abroad, and has many future ones booked up for the season, among others an appearance at Minneapolis, with the Symphony Orchestra of that city.

Thomas N. MacBurney

Baritone Voice Production Song Recitals

Three years assistant to King Clark

608-609 Fine Arts Bldg. Chicago Phone Harrison 6880

MUSIC IN CHICAGO

(Continued from page 8)

SMETANA SINGING SOCIETY

It goes without saying that the Smetana Singing Society is a Bohemian organization. Judging from this reviewer's impression, their affairs are regarded also as important social events. At the Sokol Auditorium where their current production was given on the 3rd instant, there was no vacant seat and the most unbounded enthusiasm. In fact, the audience seemed wound up for a night of it. Things were done very deliberately and every song redemanded, so that the first act of the operetta "In the Well," was all but done twice before the curtain fell at nearly 10 o'clock. This was pretty late for a lone scribe so far away from home as Kedzie avenue and Twenty-fourth street. And as there were two acts to follow, he had to forego the joy of seeing the village lads and lassies dancing in the moonlight, and the plight of the foolish but over-confident elderly lover who fell into the well. But Mr. Adolph Erst was conducting with the finest aplomb, and leading an orchestra of Thomas men capitally. Mr. Stephen Erst made a handsome young lover, and has a good, well-placed tenor voice which he used very well. Mrs. Louisa Topinka as Lidunka had a clear, fresh soprano voice, and made a handsome appearance. Miss Emma Starman, barring a tendency to lose the key when far from the orchestra itself, also sang excellently. Rudolph Ingerle as Janek furnished amusement by the wholesale, as well as showing himself able to get a good song over the footlights. Miss Libbie Bartusek danced gracefully to the Herbert "Badinage," which Mr. Erst brought the orchestra through in nice style. Whether it was their combined efforts, no one can say, but the dancing not only brought the house down, but the curtain loosened itself from its upper hold and came down also, enveloping the orchestra men in its folds. It was all very interesting. ALBERT COTSWORTH.

MUNICIPAL CONCERT

On Tuesday evening a concert was given at the Bernard A. Eckhart Park on Chicago avenue by the Park Orchestra under direction of William Hofman. The following program was presented:

March, "Gate City" ..... Weldon
Orchestra
Overture, "Light Cavalry" ..... Suppe
Orchestra
Song, "Be Faithful" ..... Hall
Misses Lucille Gunther, Helen Schommer, Clara Zblewski and Chorus
"Little Wee-Wees" ..... Gabriel
Children's Chorus
Waltz, "Queen of Hearts" ..... Grimm
Orchestra
Piano Duet, "Qui-Vive Galop" ..... Ganz
Miss Theressa Jacobs and Mr. Wiliam Hofman
Selection, Grand Military Fantasia, "Going to Camp" ..... Beebe
Orchestra
Flute solo, "Through the Air" ..... Damm
Mr. J. Chmielewski
Reverie ..... Roberts
Hungarian Dance ..... Kieserling
Orchestra
Address by Hon. Peter J. O'Brien, West Chicago Park Commissioner
March, "Tannhauser" ..... Wagner
Orchestra

MR. HUTTER'S CLASS CONCERT

Mr. C. A. Hutter presented a list of pupils in song program at Kimball Hall, on last Friday evening, the participants having been named in last Friday's issue of Music News.

This teacher has a great gift for keeping his pupils enthusiastically interested in their work and at a public exhibition of the same there is always present much technical proficiency and also much thoughtfulness as to interpretations.

The program for last Friday was very well selected and included much of worth and interest. Good piano accompaniments were provided by Estella Byrum and variety and effect were supplied through the fact that Mr. Hutter played organ obligatos and accompaniments to many numbers —especially effective was this in the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria" and the Bartlett "Dream."

In so long a program and with so many earnest students it is scarcely fair to speak of individuals—but Master John Goldthwaite, a small boy with a very clear voice, may be mentioned as very popular with the audience, and Waldo McCabe, a young baritone of good presence, also won much applause.

Several trios and quartets attested the fact that Mr. Hutter gives his pupils much ensemble opportunity and all the singers joined at the close in singing the Sullivan "Lost Chord" with much vim and effect.

C. E. W.

DON GIOVANNI

The lecture-concert, with "Don Giovanni" as its subject, at Fullerton Hall, on Sunday evening, employed the usual musical forces there very pleasantly and the music was found especially to the liking of the splendid audience. In "Give Me Thy Hand" Mr. Fritz Itte had a most charming violin solo and the "Village Dance" was also particularly well done by the ensemble.

Dr. William Carver Williams appeared as soloist, singing "I Myself Will Go a-Courting," "The Catalogue" and "Be Not So Hard on Me," songs which belong to the role of "Leporello," so well as to re-create the mood and the scene vividly, and also to prove himself again a fine singer.

Most of the work of the evening was well conceived and well executed, but, according to opera tradition, nearly every one of the numbers was taken at too slow movement. C. E. W.

PAVLOWA AT THE AUDITORIUM

The vast majority of patrons of the Auditorium would vastly prefer a Campanini concert on any Sunday to a Pavlowa exhibition, but there is also a public for the latter and on Sunday, this contingent was out in full force. Unless one is especially interested in dancing as an art, a two-hour program of it becomes monotonous and this is especially true now in view of the absence of Mordkin, who, to many people, was a greater attraction than is Pavlowa.

The Sunday programs contained many solo dances made familiar in the past, with some new ones and also some very brilliant ballet ensembles.

IDA MAE CAMERON AT THE STUDEBAKER

Miss Ida Mac Cameron, lyric soprano, was the alternate artist with Ludwig Schmidt, a young violinist, at the Neumann concert at the Studebaker Theater, on last Sunday, and won many new admirers for her charming personality and vocal style

Miss Cameron has a voice of the most peculiar clarity imaginable—in fact, it is impossible to think that she could deviate in the least from pitch and, no matter how high may be the tone she is singing, she always attacks it with absolute precision and manipulates it with the most consummate skill.

Her musical feeling being so perfect it follows almost inevitably that her interpretations should be clean-cut, and this, as a matter of fact, they certainly are.

Her first group of Sunday, not heard by this writer, comprised compositions by Rogers, Bond, Bishop, Quilter and Verancini, while the second group was more pretentious in that it contained German and French also, two languages in which Miss Cameron is perfectly at home.

Schumann's "Auftrage" was done with well sustained power and a perfect legato, while Chansons by Massenet and Weckerlin disclosed a most engaging lightness and a perfectly sure touch.

"Chere Nuit" by Bachelet suited the singer to perfection and was so well liked by the audience that an encore had to be added.

Mr. Schmidt plays the violin in a rather light way and, in fact, his program of Sunday contained nothing but light works. His tone is musical and his readings accurate though lacking in temperament.

Accompaniments of exquisite outline and beautiful coloring were supplied by Miss Susie Ford. C. E. W.

Anna Groff - Bryant
Studios of Vocal Art
Ethel Bell Reeves Assistant
606 Fine Arts Building Chicago, Ill.
Phone Wabash 1051

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
815 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 6186

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL Phone Harrison 5919

CONCERT AND CHOIR BUREAU

The month of December has been an unusually busy one for the Snow Concert and Choir Bureau, Harriet Martin Snow, director, as will be seen by the following engagements secured:

Beecher C. Burton, tenor, has been engaged as soloist for the festival service at St. James' Episcopal Church, December 21, at 4:00 p. m. Mr. Burton is under the exclusive management of this bureau and is available for concert, recital and oratorio engagements.

Arthur R. Slack, baritone, will be the soloist at the North Shore Baptist church, Sunday morning, December 21. He will sing "Night of Nights" by Van de Water.

Vernon R. Short, tenor, will sing the "New Born King" at the evening service at the North Shore Baptist Church, and immediately after the service will start on a concert tour.

Charlotte Ikert Kimball, contralto, is substituting for Esther May Plumb (who is on a concert tour) for the month of December, at St. James M. E. Church.

L. Edward Carlson, tenor, is singing at the Second Baptist Church for three Sundays.

Alfred A. Kanberg, tenor, is singing at Isaiah Temple.

Hans Dressel, 'cellist, played in the "Chimes of Normandy," given at St. Simon's Parish House on December 9 and 11.

Reinhard Essbach has been engaged as tenor soloist at St. Malachy's church.

Luther J. Williams, bass, has been made the director of the choir at St. Barnabas Church, where he is soloist.

Alma R. Williams, organist, substituted at the University Congregational Church.

Anabelle MacIntyre Dickey, contralto, is on a concert tour in the south.

Harold Henry, pianist, recital in Williamsport, Pa., March 27, 1914.

Gertrude Leonard-Mossler, reader, drawing room engagement at La Grange.

Martha Byrne, soprano, soloist at St. Vincent De Paul Church.

———♯♯♯———

Western State Normal.—The chorus of the Western State Normal School, assisted by Fischer's Orchestra gave "The Messiah" last Wednesday evening, the soloists being Hildred Hanson-Hostetter, Della Sprague, John B. Miller and Arthur Middleton.

———♯♯♯———

"Messiah."—The soloists for the Apollo Club "Messiah" to be given December 29 and January 4, will be Mabel Sharp Herdien, Rose Lutiger Gannon, Reed Miller and Arthur Middleton.

DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

AMATEUR MUSICAL CLUB

The four hundred and twenty-eighth program, arranged by Mrs. Paul Willis and Miss Mae Doelling, was presented before the Amateur Musical Club by Edith Clyde, harp; Llora Withers, voice; Irene Stolofsky, violin; Mrs. John S. Burnet, voice, and Carol Robinson, piano, on Monday afternoon last in the assembly room of the Fine Arts Building. The program contained pleasing variety throughout and proved to be a rare musical treat to the usual attentive and appreciative audience. The program was opened with two numbers for the harp. "Priere" by Hasselmans and "Harpe Eolienne" by Godefroid. Miss Clyde's appearance on any program may well be the cause of much rejoicing, for she possesses a delightful stage presence, and the picture she presents seated at her instrument is most pleasing. With a thorough understanding of her chosen instrument and with splendid temperamental and interpretative equipment she makes a thoroughly satisfactory soloist. The interpretation given the "Liebestod" from "Tristan und Isolde" by Miss Withers was very satisfactory and created much applause.

EDITH CLYDE

Miss Stolofsky came near proving herself a wonder with the violin in playing numbers by Jaksch and Paganini. Mrs. Burnet scored a decided success in a group of very interesting songs. The shining light of the afternoon was the artist pianist. Miss Robinson, who closed the program by playing the Rhapsody in F minor by Dohnanyi, two Etudes by Bortkiewicz and "Bourree Fantasque" by Chabrier. She delivered her piano messages with the highest of intellectual and emotional conception, and proved once again her mastery of the keyboard. The audience manifested true appreciation of her ability and her offerings.

The accompanists of the afternoon were Edith Shaw Brown, Johanna Hess-Burr and Carol Robinson. H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

Highsmith.—Miss Mary Highsmith, soprano, gave a song recital at Hardin College last week, with Henrik Gjerdrum as accompanist. Detailed comment is found in another column of Music News.

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Friday, December 19

Orchestra Hall, 2:30. Symphony Orchestra.

The Auditorium, 8:00. "Zingara" and "Pagliacci."

River Forest M. E. Church. "Messiah."

Saturday, December 20

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Symphony Orchestra.

The Auditorium, 2:00. "Fedora."

The Auditorium, 8:15. "Cricket on the Hearth."

Sunday, December 21

North Side Turner Hall. The Boeppler Orchestra.

Lincoln Turner Hall. The Ballmann Orchestra.

Studebaker Theater, 3:30. Simon Buchhalter and Rudolph Engberg. Joint recital.

Orchestra Hall, 3:30. Paulist Choristers.

Auditorium, 3:00. International Song Concert.

Sinai Temple, 8:15. Orchestra concert. Myrtle Moses, soloist.

Hamlin Park, 3:30. Civic Association concert. Louise St. John, soloist.

Sherman Park, 3:30. Civic Association concert. Choral Club and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Butler.

Monday, December 22

Auditorium, 8:15. "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame."

Tuesday, December 23

Auditorium, 8:00. "Rigoletto."

Wednesday, December 24

Auditorium, 8:00. "Fedora."

Thursday, December 25

Auditorium, 2:00. Hansel & Gretel.

Auditorium, 8:15. "Trovatore."

Friday, December 26

Orchestra Hall, 2:15. Symphony Orchestra.

Auditorium, 8:00. "Thais."

Saturday, December 27

Auditorium, 2:00. "Le Ranz des Vaches."

Auditorium, 8:00. "Cinderella."

———♯♯♯———

Stults—Striking evidence of the ability of Mr. Walter A. Stults as a teacher may be found in the number of his pupils that were this fall engaged in prominent church positions. These columns have already noted the placing of Mr. James Hamilton as tenor under the direction of Tina Mae Haines, at St. James Methodist Church.

In addition, Edith Maldwyn Jones, the Welsh mezzo-contralto, all of whose work has been accomplished under the direction of Mr. Stults, has been engaged to fill the alto position in the Lake Forest Presbyterian Church. The position of tenor in the same church is also filled by one of Mr. Stults' pupils, viz.: Dr. A. V. Coffman, a prominent Evanston dentist, with a beautiful voice that is attracting no little attention.

Other pupils that may be mentioned are Miss Gretchen Hogan and Miss Wilma Whitacre, who are respectively soprano and alto in one of the Evanston Presbyterian churches.

Churches

KENWOOD EVANGELICAL

Christmas music at the Kenwood Evangelical Church (interdenominational), Forty-sixth street and Greenwood avenue, Sunday morning, December 21, 10:30:

Prelude, organ, violin and 'cello,
Andante Religioso ..... Thome
The Shepherd's Christmas Song .....Traditional
(Austrian Folk-song, 1810, arranged by Clarence Dickinson)
Solo—
Christ, the Friend of Children ..... Cornelius
Dr. Williams with violin and 'cello
Anthem—
And There Were Shepherds ..... Foote
Carol—
Let All Men Sing God's Praises .....Traditional (Old Bohemian)
Carol—
A Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin.....Barnby
Postlude, organ, violin and 'cello—
Finale ..... Mendelssohn

The choir consists of Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano; Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto; William Clare Hall, tenor; Dr. Carver Williams, bass; Palmer Christian, organist and director, assisted by Maude Lewis, soprano; Fritz Itte, violinist; Day Williams, 'cellist.

———♯♯♯———

GERMAN BAPTIST, OAK PARK

Morning service, 10:30:

Organ prelude, "Nazareth".....Charles Gounod
Mr. Herbert Krogman
Doxology
Hymn
Choir Anthem, Christmas Cantata ..... Brewer
Male Chorus, "Follow the Star" ..... Wilson
Hymn
Sermon, "In the Beginning Was the Word"
Rev. O. R. Schroeder, pastor
Choir Anthem, The Day Has Dawned .....Trutschel
Hymn
Organ Postlude, "March Triumphale".....Lemmens

Evening service, 7:30:

Organ Prelude, March of Magi ..... Harker
Mr. Herbert Krogman
Choir anthem, "Song of Angels".....Heyfer
Hymn
Choir anthem, Durch die Zeiten .....Batiste
Soprano Solo, Holy Night .....A. Adams
Miss Louise Krause
Hymn
Sermon, And the Word Was Made Flesh
Rev. O. R. Schroeder, pastor
Choir anthem, "Horch! wie es die Nacht durchhalt ..... Abbey
Hymn
Organ Postlude, "Triumphal March" .....Wachs

———♯♯♯———

GARFIELD PARK M. E. CHURCH

The chorus choir of the Garfield Park M. E. Church will render the "Star of the East," Christmas cantata by Fearis, at the Christmas service next Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock, at the church, corner of Kedzie avenue and Walnut street. The soloists will be Mrs. O. G. Sherman, Mrs. E. A. Coutourier, sopranos; Mrs. T. W. Stetler, Miss Lila Braught, Miss Elizabeth Woodrow, contraltos; Messrs. Herbert Carothers, E. O. Crossett, baritones; J. W. Reid, tenor.

C. W. Edwards, director; Marie Edwards, organist.

———♯♯♯———

Sturkow-Ryder.—Mme. Theodora Sturkow-Ryder played a piano recital at Cleveland on December 4 with great success, her audience numbering 2,200 people.

ST. JAMES

Sunday afternoon, December 21, at 4 o'clock the choir of St. James Church, Cass and Huron streets, will sing their monthly festival service. Mr. Beecher C. Burton will be the soloist for the occasion and his numbers include such important offerings as "Great Is the Holy One of Israel," by Case, "Fear Not Ye," by Dudley Buck and Van De Water's "Publican."

The choral numbers to be sung are Steane's a cappella motet "My Soul Truly Waiteth Still Upon God." The Offertory will be "God Came from Teman" by Steggall, and the service list further includes a Deus Miseratur in E flat, by Buck and Stanford's "Magnificat," in E flat. The service will be played by John W. Norton, who will also be heard in the following solo numbers: Prelude and Fuge in E minor (Bach); "Noel Breton," (Queff); "March of the Magi," by Dubois.

———♯♯♯———

MC CABE MEMORIAL

The Chorus Choir of the McCabe Memorial M. E. Church at Fifty-fourth street and Blackstone avenue, will give Manney's "The Manger Throne," a Christmas cantata in four parts, on Sunday evenings, December 21, and 28. Mrs. Margaret Lester, soprano, is the soloist and Mrs. Mary Willing Mengley, organist and director.

———♯♯♯———

Armstrong.—A pupil's recital was given at the W. D. Armstrong School of Music at Alton, Ill., on December 12 and 13.

CALIFORNIA AVENUE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The programs of organ music at this church, to be played on Sunday, December 21, by Myrtle E. Mattison, are as follows:

MORNING SERVICE

Christmas Pastorale .....Merkel
Christmas .....Dethier
March of the Magi Kings.....Dubois
Hallelujah Chorus .....Handel

EVENING SERVICE

Second Offertory on Christmas Hymns.....Guilmant
Christus .....Malling
Pastorale .....Rogers
Variations on Christmas Carol.....Dethier

MUSIC FOR CANTATA PROGRAM

Noel .....Buck
O Holy Night .....Adam
Christmas Offertory .....Grison

At the evening service the chorus choir under the direction of Milon R. Harris, will render the Ashford Cantata, "Promise and Fulfillment," the soloists being Ruby Saaf, Myrtle Taylor, Charles Schelter, Charles Alden and Earle Houghton.

———♯♯♯———

LEAVITT STREET CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Morning, 10:10:

Organ prelude, Hallelujah Chorus ..... Handel
Short Te Deum in D ..... Buck
Anthem, There Were Shepherds ..... Vincent
Anthem, Sing, O Heavens ..... Tours
Organ postlude, And the Glory ..... Handel

Evening, 7:30:

Organ prelude, The Holy Night ..... Buck
Anthem, Sing, O Heavens ..... Maunder
Postludial organ recital—
An Ancient Christmas Carol ..... Dethier
Shepherds in the Field ..... Malling
Offertory on Two Christmas Hymns.....Guilmant
March of the Royal Magi ..... Dubois
Hallelujah Chorus ..... Handel

Alice R. Deal, organist and director.

Messiah

By the Apollo Musical Club

Of Chicago (300 Singers)

HARRISON M. WILD, Conductor

Monday Night, December 29, Orchestra Hall

Friday Night, Jan. 2, Auditorium Building

SOLOISTS

Mabel Sharp Herdien	Reed Miller	Rose Lutiger Gannon	Arthur Middleton
Soprano	Tenor	Contralto	Bass

EDGAR NELSON, ORGANIST — THE CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Tickets 50c to $2

Now on sale at the Apollo Club Box Office in Lyon & Healy's, Wabash & Adams

CARL D. KINSEY, Secretary

ST. IGNATIUS CHURCH

On Sunday evening, December 14, the St. Ignatius Choir gave a grand sacred concert at the church, on Sheridan road near Devon avenue. Stephen A. Erst, the director of this excellent choir, arranged a program that was in perfect harmony with a Sunday evening service and at the same time the numbers were such that the powers of the soloists as well as the choir as a whole, were displayed to a satisfactory degree. Splendid voices make up this choir and the volume of tone they attain fills this beautiful but small church with a resounding and inspiring volume in any work they wish to give. The soloists assisting the choir in this concert were Mary Farrell, soprano; Starry Carol, contralto; Stephen Erst, tenor, and John Schaefer, baritone. These singers all possess excellent solo equipment and their respective numbers were given with deep fervor and ringing with true sincerity. Splendid support from the organ was given by Miss Lillian Cervenka. A reprint of the program is well worth while.

Dixit Dominus ..... Marzo
Chorus and Quartet
"In Thee, O, God, Do I Put My Trust" ..... Spicker
Miss Starry Carol
Praise Ye the Lord ..... Randegger
Miss Mary Farrell and Chorus
"But the Lord Is Mindful" ..... Mendelssohn
Mr. John Schaefer
Magnificat ..... Marzo
Chorus and Quartet
Address ..... Rev. Father D. M. Johnson, S. J.
Gallia ..... Gounod
Miss Mary Farrell and Chorus
O Salutaris ..... Stephen A. Erst
Tantum Ergo ..... Stephen A. Erst
Chorus
Laudate Dominum ..... Marzo
Chorus

H. M. B.

GARFIELD BOULEVARD M. E.

Morning service:

Prelude, Laudate Domini ..... Frysinger
Anthem, Holy Night ..... Lansing
Offertory, Meditation ..... Kinder
Quartet, Brightest and Best ..... Hanscom
Postlude, Hallelujah Chorus ..... Handel

Evening service:

Prelude, Offertory on Two Christmas Hymns ..... Guilmant
Anthem, Joy Fills Our Inmost Hearts Today ..... Berwald
Quartet, The Birthday of a King ..... Neidlinger
Solo, Star of Bethlehem ..... Adams
Mr. Pownd
Sextet, O Quiet Night ..... Neidlinger
Solo, Selected
Mrs. Kleyensteuber
Anthem, Glory to God ..... Buck
Solo, The Virgin's Lullaby ..... Buck
Grace Donnelly
Duet, In Excelsis Gloria ..... Ashford
Mrs. Kleyensteuber, Mr. Granath
Solo, It Came Upon the Midnight Clear ..... West
Lillian de Vere Norris
Postlude, Fanfare ..... Shelley

WILMETTE CONGREGATIONAL

Special music will be given at both services at the Wilmette Congregational church next Sunday by Mrs. Lawrence Clark, soprano, and Mr. E. F. Eilert, baritone. Marie Edwards, organist.

New First Congregational.—At the New First Congregational Church on Sunday evening, December 21, the "Righteous Branch" will be sung with a full equipment of chorus and soloists.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL

Oak Park, next Sunday.

The choir: Mr. Carl D. Kinsey, organist and director; Miss Mary Ann Kaufman, soprano; Mrs. Permelia Gale, contralto; Mr. Grant Kimbell, tenor, and Mr. Frank M. Dunford, bass.

Morning service, 10:30 o'clock:

Anthem—
Sing, O Heavens ..... Barthold Tours
(Ending with "Adeste Fideles" in which the congregation is asked to stand and join Quartet—
Choral Fantasy on Old Christmas Carols ..... Gustav von Holst
Response to Prayer—
Love Come Down at Christmas ..... John C. Borland
Christmas Carols—
Once in Bethlehem of Judah ..... George B. Nevin
Quartet and Children
The Shepherds Left Their Sheep ..... Alfred Hollins
Mrs. Gale and Children
A Christmas Carol ..... Mrs. Crosby Adams
Children
Children's Song—
A Song of Christmas ..... Clarence Dickinson
Miss Kaufman
Offertory Solo—
Hail Ye Tyme of Holie-Dayes ..... Gena Branscombe
Mrs. Gale
Anthem—
Hymn of Peace ..... C. Whitney Coombs
Anthem—
The Light of Earth ..... C. Whitney Coombs
Anthem—
It Came Upon the Midnight Clear ..... W. C. Hammond
Response to Prayer—
Love Came Down at Christmas, John C. Borland
Duet—
The Virgin by the Manger ..... Cesar-Franck
Miss Kaufman and Mrs. Gale
Offertory solo—
The Christ Child ..... C. Whitney Coombs
Mr. Kimbell
Anthem—
Star of the Orient ..... Harry R. Shelley

ST. JAMES' METHODIST

The choir: Miss Naomi Nazor, soprano; Mrs. Charlotte Ikert Kimball, contralto; Mr. James Hamilton, tenor; Mr. Charles F. Champlin, bass; Miss Tina Mae Haines, organist and director. Vested choir of twenty-four voices. Mr. Walfried Singer, harpist, assisting.

MORNING SERVICE, 11 O'CLOCK

Prelude, "Invocation" ..... Ganne
Organ and Harp
Anthem, "Hail the King" ..... H. N. Bartlett
Reponse, Old Breton Melody
Anthem, "Christmas Bells" ..... Stevenson
Carol, "Shepherd's Christmas Song" ..... Austrian Folk Song
Organ and harp, "Kammenoi-Ostrow" ..... Rubinstein
Offertory, "Praise the Lord" ..... Stevenson
Organ Postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus" ("Messiah") ..... Handel

EVENING SERVICE, 7:45

Prelude, "Priere" ..... Dubois
Organ and harp
"The Annunciation" ..... Julius Harrison
Tenor solo, "In the Sixth Month"
Contralto solo, "And Mary Rose"
Soprano solo, "My Soul Doth Magnify"
Soprano and alto duet, "All Generations Praise"
(Christmas Cantata)
"The Vision of the Shepherds" ..... J. S. Camp
(Prince of Peace)
"The King's Gifts" (Bethlehem) ..... Maunder
"Before the Inn at Bethlehem" ..... Maunder
Story of Christmas—
"Sleep Holy Babe" ..... Matthews
"Awake, Put on Thy Strength" ..... Matthews
Postlude, "Allelulia" ..... Loret

Mount Pleasant.—Recitals were given at the Central State Normal School by piano pupils of Miss Wright on December 17 and by vocal pupils of William E. Rauch on the 16th.

ST. PAUL'S UNIVERSALIST

Following is the program of Christmas music to be given Sunday evening, December 21:

Prelude, Pastorale ..... Handel
Quartet, How Lovely Are Thy Messengers ..... Whitney Coombs
Violin solo, Andante ..... Mendelssohn
Trio, Thou Art from First to Last ..... Saint-Saens
(From the Christmas Oratorio)
Soprano solo, Adore and Be Still ..... Gounod
(With violin obligato)

Miss Mary Highsmith, soprano; Miss Barbara Wait, contralto; Mr. Edward Walker, tenor; Mr. Hyde W. Perce, bass; Mr. Bruno Kuehn, violinist; Mrs. W. Middelschulte, organist and director.

CHARLES W. CLARK IN EVANSTON

The recital given by Charles W. Clark at the Evanston Woman's Club on last Tuesday evening was a very distinct success.

The program was admirably chosen and was increased by the addition of encores after each group. Especially striking was the effect produced by the excellent singing of Homer's "How's My Boy" for the conclusion of this song found the audience in breathless sympathy with the sentiment and a moment later brought a flood of approval for the artistic presentment of the song.

The Frances Wyman group was also much admired. This young composer is a resident of Burlington and her songs are being used throughout the country by Mr. Clark.

The program in full was as follows:

Songe enchanteur
De ma Barque legere
Laisse en paix les dieux des combats ..... Gretry

Aufenthalt
Das Fischermaedchen
Der Doppelgaenger
Erlkoenig ..... Schubert

Prospice
Uncle Rome
How's My Boy
The Fiddler of Dooney ..... Sidney Homer

Automne
Claire de Lune
Les Roses d'Ispahan
Les Berceaux ..... Faure

The Fairest One of All the Stars ..... Kurt Schindler
Scorned Love ..... Kurt Schindler

Absent
Reverie
Sun ..... Frances Wyman

"THE CHRIST CHILD" IN OAK PARK

On Sunday afternoon, December 21, at 4:30 o'clock, the choir of the First Methodist Church, Oak Park, will give "The Christ Child" by Hawley.

The choir, Mrs. George L. Tenney, Miss Jessie Lynde Hopkins, Mr. George Lee Tenney, Mr. Frank Hayes Collins and Miss Ruth Simmons, organist, will be assisted by Mabel Corlew Smidt, soprano; Jennie F. Johnston, contralto; Arthur Kraft, tenor, and Dr. William Carver Williams, bass.

Craven.—Carl E. Craven sang at the Round Table Club at the Episcopal Church, Kedzie avenue and West Monroe street, on Monday evening, December 15, his numbers including "Indian Songs" and "Negro Songs."

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREATEST 'CELLIST

In Home-Land this Season; January and after April 1 in the East; February and March in the West.

ENGAGEMENTS NOW BOOKING FOR 1914-1915

Eastern Address, 437 Fifth Avenue, New York

Western Address, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles

Mrs. Minnie F. Howard, State Chairman Art Leagues of Idaho:

"We must call attention to the essential quality of Mr. Search's music: its absolute sincerity and simplicity. It is as simple and convincing and unerring as a Bible story, or the Iliad, or a passage from Shakespeare; and, to the renown of America as a rising nation in the world of art, it will surely live as a national achievement."

AT THE OPERA

CHARLES E. WATT

At the close of this, the fourth week of our opera season, Chicago has come to the conclusion that a general director is in charge, who certainly believes in keeping interest at fever height.

One novelty has followed another throughout the four weeks and in the matter of fine singers we have had such variety and abundance that it is difficult to give all of them their just attention.

♮ ♮ ♮

Popular Priced Matinee

The Thursday matinee of "Butterfly" last week, at popular prices, was a distinct innovation, and proved to be a successful venture. It is to be hoped that other such performances will follow.

The principal parts were taken by Jane Osborn-Hannah, Margaret Keyes, George Hamlin and Francesco Federici, only the latter of whom is new to our public and whose "Sharpless" was musically correct, but as a characterization of an American was hopelessly flat.

The production as a whole was very brilliant and the direction of Sturani disclosed much of value in the orchestral score, which sometimes is not so well developed.

♮ ♮ ♮

Herodiade

"Herodiade," which last year proved to be one of the most brilliant works in the repertoire of the company and which was staged in Chicago superbly on Thursday night, drew a moderate house which was electrified by the wonder of the singing of Julia Claussen and which also found Mme. Carolina White again thoroughly interesting in the part of "Salome."

♮ ♮ ♮

Rigoletto Repeated

Such an audience as that of last Saturday afternoon would be a great credit to any music center of the world, and it certainly was an inspiration to Ruffo, who has seldom excelled his work on that occasion.

Of course the great duet of the second act had to be repeated and it would be quite impossible to tell how many curtain calls there were.

Jenny Dufau not yet having arrived in Chicago, Alice Zeppilli was utilized for the part of "Gilda" and. with Giorgini as the "Duke" and Margaret Keyes as "Maddalena," helped to hold the performance up to a uniformly high grade.

Faust on Saturday Night

The third of the Saturday evening performances in English brought "Faust" to notice and scored one more popular success, for the immense Auditorium was filled to the last seat and there was unbounded enthusiasm.

Gustav Bergman was a pleasant but not very vital "Faust," Henri Scott repeated his former characterization of "Mephistopheles," and Alan Turner was the Valentine.

JENNY DUFAU

Alice Zeppilli made herself quite a newspaper heroine by appearing for the second time in one day and was brilliant in those moments when she could forget the difficulties (for her) of the English language. Margaret Keyes was the "Martha" and helped to make the second act quartet number one of the most beautiful points of the opera.

♮ ♮ ♮

A Gala Performance of "The Barber"

Nothing short of "gala" will adequately characterize the performance of "The Barber of Seville" on Monday evening, when Titta Ruffo appeared as "Figaro" and added one more to the list of remarkable successes with which he must be credited.

Unctuous in humor, alert and adept in characterization and absolutely opulent as to tonal quality and quantity, the "Largo al Factotum" of the first act had to be repeated, of course, and throughout the opera there was constant expression of great approval.

Jennie Dufau made her reappearance as "Rosina" and added perhaps the greatest success of all to the long list already to her credit in Chicago.

Few coloratura voices anywhere can compete with Miss Dufau in facility or range and none can surpass her in artistry. Added to this she has musicianship of the most advanced type and a poise which bespeaks ample experience and constant study.

Her singing of the interpolated "Polonaise" from "Mignon" was so brilliantly successful that an encore had to be granted and for this Miss Dufau chose the Arditi "Il Bacio," which indeed she sang in the most amazingly brilliant way and with a display of finish which is seldom duplicated, even on the Auditorium stage.

Particularly agreeable also was the work of Vittoria Trevisan who as "Doctor Bartolo" had a part which suited him admirably and of which he made the greatest possible use in the exploiting of his fine voice and excellent histrionic ability.

Henri Scott appeared in a most eccentric costume as the Music Master and the cast was completed by Louise Berat, who as "Berta" made a big success with her third act aria.

♮ ♮ ♮

Another Faust

The performance of Tuesday evening was notable in that it brought to view a new and decidedly original "Faust" in the person of Lucien Muratore, who proved himself a fine singer again—the fact having been shown before in Chicago to the small and very apathetic audience which heard the Cavalieri concert last year—and he also proved himself to have a remarkable histrionic power. This latter gift is so great indeed that it enabled him to revivify and make doubly beautiful the entire "Faust" score.

The first thing to be noted and the thing which gave instant gratification was his dressing of the part. We have had so many overdressed, dandified "Fausts," that it was a distinct pleasure to see a manly, sanely dressed one. The costumes, copied from great paintings on the subject, were quite

(Continued on page 17)

Music in New York

By ABBIE STEPHENS FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall

Gentle Readers:

We are in the midst of the musical season which has not been a little enlivened by the legal and verbal complications of Mr. Hammerstein's forthcoming venture operatic, and in English. Forthcoming I say advisedly, because it is fairly certain that though the doughty Impresario may at present be somewhat downed by the adverse verdict of a presiding judge unable to see Oscar's side of the case, he will, as usual bob up serenely with a new and convincing way out of the difficulty.

It is a consummation devoutly to be hoped for. I for one have constantly contended that opera in English is a prime need of the people of the United States, and being a very good thing we cannot have too much of it. I have made this statement before in the columns of Music News, and the proof is at hand.

The Century Theater experiment, notwithstanding too often indifferent presentations of the standard operas, has proven that the masses and perhaps the classes prefer the vernacular. Indeed, it is no longer an experiment, and it can hardly be considered a logical pendant of the Metropolitan Opera House. There is no doubt that Mr. Hammerstein will have something better to offer. One is sure that his auditorium will offer acoustical advantages not to be found within the Century Theater. And as to other details, Oscar provides the element of novelty in his managerial adventurings, and that means a great deal to the public he so thoroughly understands. However, we shall soon be able to read the second chapter.

The concert field is full to overflowing, and the lyceums, halls and miscellaneous auditoriums are garnering the sheaves. There is much that is good, bad or indifferent.

Very good—of the best indeed—have been the concerts where Wilhelm Bachaus has proven himself the stellar magnet.

In the first place Bachaus played the famous Concerto of Beethoven surnamed the "Emperor" at the Liederkranz gala concert on the evening of December 7, in the spacious hall of that well known club.

To describe his playing of this test piece, which practically introduced him to New York in 1911, I am tempted to employ the epithet "thrilling," in order to do justice to a performance of so much beauty and perfection.

The magic Bachaus technic served as always as the foundation of all the resources and countless effects of which he is master. The union of exquisite grace and charm with virile force and energetic action; of temperamental warmth in an irresistible outpouring; of dash, brio and flaming brilliancy was not lacking.

In this number the pianist had a fine orchestral supplement, largely recruited from the ranks of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, ably directed by Arthur Claason.

Mr. Bachaus also played with chaste restraint, yet warmth of poetic sentiment and spontaneity, Liszt's "Waldesrauchen," as one of a group of three numbers; the remaining two being the "Soiree de Vienne" and "Marche Militaire," both by Schubert.

The vigorous, yet refined and searching interpretation of the great bravoura "Marche" completed the subjugation of the ecstatic audience overflowing the hall—much more than a capacity house, and it cheered lustily in bravos, and stamped as well as clapped its approval.

A request for the Liszt "Campanella" as an encore brought that popular cheval de bataille to the front, and it was executed with a feeling for sentiment, and exquisite detail that left nothing to be desired.

Bachaus was a forceful drawing card on the following afternoon, December 8, when he appeared in recital with the violiniste, Kathleen Parlow, in Aeolian Hall, before a great assemblage of those who know, and those who desire to learn.

Remember, dear reader, that Bachaus had appeared the evening before at the Liederkranz; that he had played on the morning of the recital in the Waldorf-Astoria ballroom at that exclusive and strictly society function known as the Bagby musical morning, and then wonder how it was possible for him to win new laurels during a program of taxing length and strenuousness. But there is nothing impossible for this youthful pianistic ANTAEUS. He charmed me anew with the crystalline purity of his tones, and the picturesque and satisfying tints of his color.

Besides the single ensemble number with Miss Parlow, the thoughtfully studied, carefully and convincingly executed Grieg Sonata in C minor, Bachaus played with ravishing delicacy, poetry and utmost refinement, these numbers of Chopin:

BONCI THIRD AMERICAN TOUR SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York Knabe Piano Used

CHRISTINE MILLER CONTRALTO
Personal Address, 1003 Heberton St., Pittsburgh, Pa. Management Haensel & Jones, Aeolian Hall, New York

MARIE NARELLE AUSTRALIAN SOPRANO
Management SUTORIUS
ABBIE S. FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall, Sole Representative No. 1 West 34th St.

MR. & MRS. JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS Address 330 West 58th St. NEW YORK CITY

PIANIST BACHAUS Management Loudon Charlton
BALDWIN PIANO USED

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address—
Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av.
NEW YORK

BISPHAM All communications to
Private Address 44 West 44th St.
NEW YORK

Ballade in A flat
Etudes—Opus 10, No. 3, E major; Opus 10, No. 5, G flat
Polonaise, Opus 53 in A flat

He concluded the program with a group of more brilliant offerings in antithesis:

Soiree de Vienne ..... Schubert-Liszt
I Heard a Streamlet Gushing ..... Schubert-Liszt
Second Hungarian Rhapsody ..... Liszt

these again proving his almost matchless resourcefulness; impeccable passage work; an almost perfect muscular control, enabling him to make his melodies sing steadily against an harmonic background of shifting tints and vari-colored light and shade; surely a supreme manifestation of the technical side of his art, without which the rest is nothing.

The usual scenes were enacted — the crowding of the stage and the insistence upon more. Bachaus, as always, was generous in the matter of encores.

Bachaus has a strenuous season before him. In fact it is impossible for him to fill all the engagements offered him. He will travel as far as the coast, and we shall in all likelihood not hear him until the latter part of February, when he returns to fill many engagements in the east.

♮ ♮ ♮

Also it was pleasant to greet Horatio Connell at the Lieder-kranz concert, and to hear him in a group of carefully-chosen and agreeable songs, which he sang with much taste and skill, winning as a recognition of his voice and talents unstinted applause. His group consisted of the following lieder:

Der Wanderer ..... Schubert
Wohin ..... Schubert
Traum durch die Daemmerung ..... R. Strauss
Heimliche Aufforderung ..... R. Strauss

Mr. Connell was also heard on the baritone solo of Bruch's "Shoen Ellen." Mr. Connell is being recognized as a manly and earnest artist with a conscience as well as intelligence. There can be no doubt of the fine future awaiting his efforts.

♮ ♮ ♮

Apropos of pianists I am in receipt of Mr. Harold Henry's letter and a couple of tickets for his recital of December 14. If the heavens fall not, and the clustering automobiles of the shopping public spare me (and dear reader, it is becoming an artistic feat to side-step these successors of the car of poor, old, effete Juggernaut), I shall be in Aeolian Hall, prepared to be delighted.

To those readers who have sent me letters recently—the letter with the photo was a unique effort, the photo a real Gibson girl—I wish to say that as space permits and my Editor wills, I shall from time to time attempt an answer; ladies first, as usual, not to be the rule of obligation.

♯ ♯ ♯

Fort Smith—At the Bollinger Conservatory of Music, Fort Smith, Ark., Mrs. Florence Mitchell-Schneider presented her pupil, Frieda Louise Deden, in a violin recital last Wednesday evening, Hulda Augusta Deden, pianist, assisting.

♯ ♯ ♯

Minneapolis—The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Emil Oberhoffer, conductor, presented Albert Lindquest as soloist, on December 7, and Gertrude Manning on the 14th. Cornelius Van Vliet will be soloist at the regular concert tonight.

THUEL BURNHAM IN AMERICA

Thuel Burnham, the American pianist, arrives in New York from Europe by the Rotterdam, December 21, to begin his three months' concert tour of America. His western tour, under the management of Harry Culbertson, commences early in January, when he has several orchestral engagements and several engagements with the Kneisel Quartet, and about fifty recitals already booked for him. In March Burnham gives his New York recital under the management of Charles L. Wagner in Aeolian Hall, and on the Sunday following appears with the People's Symphony at Carnegie Hall.

THUEL BURNHAM

♯ ♯ ♯

Gregory.—As a result of Heathe Gregory's engagements since coming to Chicago two months ago, there have been so many calls for him to give lessons in vocal development, diction and stage deportment that he has secured a studio in the Auditorium Building and will be ready to hear voices after the first of the year.

♯ ♯ ♯

Denver.—At the Knight-Campbell Recital Hall in Denver, Miss Frances E. Hall, a teacher of the Effa Ellis Method, presented her pupils in recital on December 6.

AT THE OPERA

(Continued from page 15)

within the normal idea of how "Faust" would have dressed himself and, as said before, a distinct relief from the sissified portrayals shown us at other times.

Throughout, Muratore was always distinct in his interpretation and happy in his vocal reading, and his success was a great one.

The other parts were all taken exactly as many times in the past and there was no perceptible charge in any of the items as affecting scenic investiture or ensemble. Some of the chorus numbers, however, were newly vital, and the orchestra was at all times excellent.

♮ ♮ ♮

Other Bills

Tonight, Leoncavallo, who has been for some time in San Francisco as director, will appear as conductor for his own new "Zingari," in which Mme. Carolina White sings the leading part. Afterward "Pagliacci" will be sung, with Campanini at the conductor's desk and Ruffo again in the lead on the stage.

Saturday will bring "Fedora" with Cavalieri and Muratore in the afternoon and "Cricket on the Hearth" in the evening. Sunday will have a big "International Concert" as the chief attraction, and on Monday evening Mary Garden makes her reappearance in "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame."

♯ ♯ ♯

Little Theater.—The Zukovsky Trio under the leadership of Alexander Zukovsky, will give a series of six chamber concerts at the Chicago Little Theater on Sunday evenings, December 14, January 4, January 18, February 22, March 8, and March 23 at 7:30 p. m. The programs will be of an unusual and exceptionally interesting nature suitable to the setting which the Little Theater affords and the personnel of the trio—Alexander Zukovsky, violin; Mae Doelling, piano; Theodore Du Moulin, 'cello. The Little Theater is a particularly appropriate place for chamber music and all Chicago music lovers should welcome the opportunity of hearing this trio in programs of a very high order at moderate prices.

4
GREAT AUSTRALIAN TOURS

DAVID BISPHAM — Opening at Sidney May 31, 1913
MADAME LILLIAN NORDICA — Opening at Sydney July 26, 1913
MISCHA ELMAN — Opening at Sydney June, 1914
MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK — Opening at Sydney June, 1915

Under Exclusive Management and Personal Direction of
Frederic Shipman
American Address 3835 Flournoy St., Chicago
Australian Address Hotel Australia, Sydney

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

LOCAL CONTRIBUTORS

This issue of Music News, Boston Bureau, contains the first of a series of most interesting and instructive stories about teachers' agencies, written by the well-known manager of one, and the author of a work upon the opera (reference files not being at hand, the name escapes the memory), which is a standard authority upon the subject. [Ed.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Teachers' Agency

Dear Mr. Butler: You have asked me to give you some of my experience in running an agency.

For nearly twenty-five years I have been mixed up in the work of agencies,—concert, teachers, and church choir. To me each branch of the work appears as a separate business, because the conditions with which the agency has to deal are very different; but in all kinds of business, including agencies, the code of ethics used is the most important thing.

Years ago I was given to understand that agencies were things to be avoided,—wicked, unscrupulous, avaricious, conscienceless. I sometimes hear such sentiments expressed even at the present day. Not long ago a clergyman came to my office to look for an organist. He seemed ill at ease, and constantly glanced at the door, apparently to make sure that his line of retreat was open. He timidly stated that he had never before dealt with an agency. "Never heard much good of them I suppose," I ventured. "Well,—no," he admitted with a nervous giggle. "Did it ever occur to you," I said, "that those who succeed through agencies go right about their work and don't make any noise over it, while those who are discontented and have failed, make as much noise as possible, and blame the agency,—and that the agency has nothing to say about it, but must simply keep on with its work." He seemed surprised. "I had never thought of that," he said. "Remember too," I added, "that these failures, who try to throw the blame on agencies, are generally failures in any case, and the agency has simply failed to 'make a silk purse out of a sow's ear.'"

If agencies were not doing good and valuable work they would have ceased to exist long ago. Many of them don't exist long, and it is my conclusion that those are the agencies started by men, or women, whose code of ethics is wrong, who seek the dollar for itself, and do not care how much dirt comes with it. They are to be found in all lines of business, but in agencies they "come to their own" and fizzle out more quickly than in most other lines of occupation,—at least I have observed the brief careers of several, and have traced their downfall to an overwhelming desire to grab the dollar. Any established agent will have some regard to his own reputation, his own ability to do things, and the probable effect on his business and reputation of failure to do what he undertakes. In my own little business it seems sometimes as if the days were passed in trying gently to persuade would-be artists to go on studying, or to give up the idea of music altogether. "But I can't keep on studying unless I can earn some money, and I want to earn it by singing," they will often say. "You cannot get paid unless you have something that somebody is willing to pay for," I reply, "and that time has not yet come for you."

Notwithstanding all this care there are people who get on to my lists and who do not succeed in getting places. I maintain that if I provide them with a reasonable number of opportunities they have no one to blame but themselves.

In these days business of all kinds labors under the burden of suspicion, and perhaps this is a good thing. I think it is. The trusts, the railroads, the manufacturers—who indeed is free from the suspicion of the public. Why should agencies be exempt? Does not everybody think that everybody else's business should be managed differently?

Perhaps the most potent reason why agencies are treated with suspicion is that their stock in trade is information. If it were bricks, which are hard, substantial facts, or indeed any tangible form of merchandise, the fact of "goods of value" would appeal more readily to the average mind. But few people who come to the office of an agency and get some information will scruple to use it for the benefit of a friend, and do not consider themselves or their friends at all bound to pay for that information, unless it is of direct benefit to person number one.

I have often thought that if agencies were to use half the effort to collect unjustifiable commissions, that some of their clients make to avoid paying, they might deserve some of the obloquy which is accorded them. I have in mind the case of a young lady, daughter of a clergyman. I cannot give the case in full. The brief facts are that I advised her of a vacancy for a teacher and she thanked me and accepted my information. Owing to illness in my family I did not write for some days, to the president of the college. This clergyman and the college president turned out to have been college classmates, and the lady got the place on that account. She did not report to me, and when I wrote to her I received an impudent reply saying that I had nothing to do with getting her the place. Eventually I interviewed her father, who acknowledged that they knew nothing of the vacancy until I informed his daughter, but that they did not need my services in that case. While I had not done as much as I would have wished in the case, it was clearly secured through the information I had given, and, as I did not enjoy being flouted by this young girl, and admonished by her father, I fought the thing out during several weeks and eventually got my commission. That young lady and her family have the power to spread any amount of mud on my reputation.

HENRY C. LAHEE.

(To be continued.)

♮ ♮ ♮

"The Vampire Cat" at the N. E. Conservatory

The second performance of "The Vampire Cat," "The Monkey's Paw" and "Tilda's New Hat," by the dramatic department of the New England Conservatory of Music took place on Saturday evening, December 6. The pantomimic legend of old Japan, with which the program was concluded and which here had its first presentation on any stage, has attracted much attention. The pantomime was written by Clayton D. Gilbert, director of the dramatic department. The music, which is a very important part of the production, was written by Charles P. Scott, for the past fifteen years a well-known organist of greater Boston. Mr. Scott was a former pupil of George W. Chadwick, director of the conservatory. He has previously done several comic operas, of which his "Porter House Steak," given by the Cantabirgia Club, is perhaps the most familiar. In working up the music for the "Vampire Cat" Mr. Scott made an extensive study of the Japanese dances, from which he has introduced several motives into the piece. The love motive is modern.

The story of the "Vampire Cat" is based on the ancient Japanese idea that cats and foxes may convey evil spirits to human beings. In the prologue a vast black cat crawls into a room where Sahura, a favorite of the prince of Mizen, is sleeping. Through him a vampire soul is introduced into the body of the sleeper. Thereafter, in the second scene, Sahura successively lures to their destruction the chief physician, counselor and warrior of the prince. The potentate, himself, has evidently been forwarned against her wiles, for he resists her solicitations and in the end suddenly stabs her to death with his handy Kozaka.

The part of Sahura in this pantomime was taken by Marion Feeley, while H. Read Wilkins played the cat. The prince was Harold Stuart; physician, Edmond Morin; counselor, M. S. Kenneally; warrior, John K. Snyder; Sahura's maid, Laura Venable; dancing girls, Marion Gibbey, Marjorie Stickney, Grace Copeland, Esther Goodenow and Marion Begge.

The two other pieces on the program, "Tilda's New Hat" and "The Monkey's Paw," also made a very favorable impression.

The usual Saturday afternoon pupils' recital on December 6 brought out an interesting finale in the first movement of Mendelssohn's pianoforte concerto in G minor, played by Arminda Blanchart, daughter of Ramon Blanchart of the faculty. There was an ensemble number in which Eva Mortenson, Alexander Blackman and William W. Ward took part. Solo numbers were contributed by Marion C.

North Shore School of Music
Broadway and Leland Ave.
Regular Courses, Certificates, Diplomas and Degrees.

Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. THEORY, Charles J. Haake. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul
ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated) TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868
CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

Ellegate, Marjorie C. Schockey, Mae G. Cotton, Ignace Nowicki, Mary A. Holman, Rose M. Leveroni and Beatrice M. Fox.

♮ ♮ ♮

Notes

A men's club has been organized at the New England Conservatory of Music with a view to promoting sociability among the men of the school. About 500 men are connected with the institution as officers, teachers or students, all of whom are eligible to membership in the new club. It is planned for the present to hold monthly meetings, at which talks may be given by speakers from outside the conservatory, in connection with the usual social features of such an evening. The officers of the men's club are: president, Frederick L. Trowbridge; first vice president, F. Otis Drayton; second vice president, C. Ronald Greene; corresponding secretary, C. R. McAllister; recording secretary, A. G. Swift; treasurer, William Bailey; assistant treasurer, William B. Burbank; auditor, Henry Goodrich.

♮ ♮ ♮

First Performances of "Monna Vanna"

The music of "Monna Vanna," which has now been performed twice in Boston, has aroused considerable discussion. Many declare that Fevrier has written without originality and that the opera is dull and uninteresting, and a few, without disputing that there is much resembling Debussy, Charpentier and other French composers, frankly say that the music as a whole is not lacking interest and artistic beauty. Even though Massenet's influence and style can be traced through the entire composition, what does it matter? We are not in sympathy with the part of Monna Vanna as interpreted by a well-known singer and actress, and fortunately the public press did not approve an exhibition more disgusting than elevating. This was the only objectionable feature and one which will be eliminated when a singer is found who can interpret art instead of sensuality. The performance on Saturday night, December 13, won especial approbation. There are many places in the course of the opera that are tuneful, and all is melodious, barring certain shrill combinations of woodwind in the orchestration.

♮ ♮ ♮

The "Barber of Seville"

The rollicking good humor of this most humorous opera never was more infectiously humorous than in the splendid performance on Saturday night, December 13. The comedy was on a high plane throughout, and the principals seemed to enjoy the fun quite as much as the audience. The fun-making itself seemed to be spontaneous and laughter-provoking. An American singer, Mme. Hazel Sanborn, a native of Boston, made her debut at this time in the part of Rosina, and she sang well and acted well. She is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and has studied in Italy during four years. The work of all the principals was most commendable.

♮ ♮ ♮

Organ Recital at Emmanuel Church

Given a spacious building, an organ that is sonorous, an organist who is an artist, a program offering solid musical fare, and a musician is sure to enjoy a treat. All these conditions were fully met at the organ recital given on Thursday evening, December 11, at Emmanuel Church. The building is one of the largest Episcopal churches in Boston, the organ excels in soft registers and fine combinations, while the organist, Mr. W. Lynwood Farnam, a recent comer to Boston. plays with notable artistic finish, refinement and intelligence. His phrasing and registration are superior; his memory and technic impeccable. The audience was large and mostly courteous enough to remain until the end. The program was as follows:

Concerto in C Minor ..... Handel
Choral, Improvisations, Op. 65, Nos. 45, 61 and 51 ..... Karg-Elert
Prelude and Fugue, in F minor ..... Bach
Meditation, in A major ..... Bairstow
"The Repose of the Holy Family" ..... Berlioz
Symphony No. VIII., in B major ..... Widor

S. H. L.

FOUR FINE 'CELLO PROGRAMS

All musicians and lovers of music will be greatly interested in glancing through the following four programs. Not only must an artist develop on the virtuoso side but also much of his success depends upon his ability to arrange his concert numbers in attractive programs. The programs here printed, which were played by Frederick Preston Search in the week of November 28 to December 4, show to some extent the wonderful possibilities in the violoncello literature which the brilliant young American 'cellist has grasped. At these concerts Mr. Search was assisted by his accompanist, Mr. Chapman.

HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM, NORDHOFF, CALIFORNIA

Violoncello Concerto in A Minor....August Klughardt
Piano Soli—
Nocturne in G Major (Op. 31).....Frederic Chopin
Etude in G flat Major (Op. 10, No. 5)..... Frederic Chopin
'Cello Soli—
Romanze in E Minor.....Edward A. MacDowell
From the Land of the Sky-blue Water..... Charles Wakefield Cadman
Reverie of Lake Garda....Frederick Preston Search
Coquette .....Paul Allen
The Night (The Dream).....Bogumil Sykora
The Morning (The Awakening).....Bogumil Sykora
Piano Soli—
Marche Grotesque.....Christian Sinding
Gavotte .....Giovanni Sgambati
'Cello Soli—
Dance of the Elves.....David Popper
Siciliano .....Giovanni Battista Pergolesi
Minuet .....Ludwig von Beethoven
Butterfly Waltz.....Frederick Preston Search
Polonaise Fantastique .....Wilhelm Jeral

HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM, NORDHOFF, CALIFORNIA

Violoncello Concerto in B Minor.....Antonin Dvorak
Allegro
Adagio ma non troppo
Allegro moderato
Piano solo, Liebestraume.....Franz Liszt
Sonata in E flat Major for 'cello alone..... John Sebastian Bach
Prelude (Allegro non troppo)
Sarabande (Largo)
Allemande (Allegro moderato)
'Cello Soli—
Nocturne .....Frederic Francois Chopin
Melody from "Madam Butterfly"..Giacomo Puccini
Butterfly Waltz.....Frederic Preston Search
Piano Soli—
Arabesque .....Claude Debussy
Etude, Op. 25, No. 9....Frederic Francois Chopin
First Movement from 'Cello Concerto in E Minor ..... David Popper

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

Romance .....Adolph Fischer
Reverie of Lake Garda.....Frederick Preston Search
Nocturne .....Chopin-Klengel
Melody from "Madam Butterfly"....Giacomo Puccini
The Night (The Dream).....Bogumil Sykora
The Morning (The Awakening).....Bogumil Sykora
The Butterfly (Scene from a Masked Ball)..... David Popper
Memories of Departed Days.....David Popper
Violoncello Concerto in A Minor....August Klughardt
(In one movement)
At an Old Trysting Place.....MacDowell-Klengel
To a Wild Rose.....MacDowell-Klengel
Romanze in E Minor.....Edward A. MacDowell
Butterfly Waltz.....Frederick Preston Search
Siciliano .....Giovanni Battista Pergolesi
Minuet .....Ludwig van Beethoven
Minuet in D Major.....Frederick Preston Search

POTTER OPERA HOUSE, SANTA BARBARA, CALIFORNIA

Violoncello Concerto in B Minor.....Antonin Dvorak
Allegro
Adagio ma non troppo
Allegro moderato
Piano Soli—
Gavotte in B Minor.....Bach-Saint-Saens
Gavotte in A flat Minor.....Giovanni Sgambati
'Cello Soli—
From the Land of the Sky-blue Water..... Charles Wakefield Cadman
Reverie of Lake Garda....Frederick Preston Search
Butterfly Waltz .....Frederick Preston Search
At an Old Trysting Place.....MacDowell-Klengel
To a Wild Rose.....MacDowell-Klengel
Romanze in E Minor.....Edward A. MacDowell

INTERMISSION

'Cello Soli—
Nocturne .....Frederick Chopin
Siciliano .....Giovanni Battista Pergolesi
Minuet .....Ludwig von Beethoven
The Night (The Dream).....Bogumil Sykora
The Morning (The Awakening).....Bogumil Sykora
The Butterfly .....David Popper
Piano Soli—
Etude, Op. 10, No. 5 (Black Key)..... Frederick Chopin
Etude, Op. 25, No. 9 (Butterfly)..Frederick Chopin
Violoncello Concerto in A Minor....August Klughardt
(In one movement)

———— ♯♯♯ ————

Wadhams—Music News inadvertently did an injustice to Miss Al Meda Wadhams in failing to mention her as the accompanist for the Hutter recital on Friday evening of last week. Another accompanist was announced on the printed program, and the fact that Miss Wadhams was engaged as substitute was not announced. Her work was of the most excellent quality and proved her again to be one of the finest accompanists in Chicago.

The Elderly Person

The most pathetic note in "Rip Van Winkle" is when the old man comes back home after his twenty years' sleep in the Catskills, and, finding his name unknown, he says mournfully: "And are we so soon forgot?" He soon found that he was really not forgotten by those who loved him best. Because of the sadness which followed the speaking of his name, and the mystery of his disappearance, his people checked themselves from uttering it often. Thus he lived only in their memories, and the generation which came after knew naught of him.

The longing for affection and to live in the hearts and lives of others may not always be confessed as the aspiration of the average human being. But by every influence which induces endeavor and suggests accumulation of things regarded as of value, it is the keynote of most lives. The struggle to get ahead is nearly always built on the desire to provide for one's very own, and to preserve them from hardship in the present as well as in a future which always contains possible shadows. When young people marry they are not, as a rule, fully confident what their life motives may be. But with the establishment of the home and the coming of children, the reason for being asserts itself and the ideals these create are the fostered ambitions. Life becomes simple, becomes valuable, becomes inspiring. To live truly, to accumulate wisely, to give personal distinction to associations, are the attractive inducements to make men forget their selfish selves. And, down deep, is the hope, sometimes well defined, sometimes hesitating, that in some way the actuating ideals may leave an impression, where the deeds themselves were inadequate, and so give a value not visible save to those most concerned. To be remembered loyally by our kind—there is no soul indifferent to such destiny, nor yet any man who would count himself worthy of it, however he longed for such. The great boulders and shafts above the mounds in the cemetery are an endeavor to make the passerby understand how those who sleep underneath are unforgotten, and the chiseled name is a constant reminder that the being who had lived was more than a name to those who knew him best.

These thoughts come around regularly at the season of the year when people let down the bars and do not hesitate to show that they value the human affections as the great boon of life. The hearts overflow, the hands and purses are generous and the sentiment that is healthy and stimulating is poured out without stint or measure. If men have no closely binding ties they become "Good Fellows" to those who are shown to be in need of a helping hand and a kind heart. The Elderly Person rather encourages the thoughts to find lodgment and work themselves out as do musical themes. Themes that are really valuable and of moment work themselves out naturally and lead into many by-paths of illustration and suggestion.

Do you recall the scene in Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird," where the children, Mytyl and Tyltyl, in their search for Happiness as visualized in the tinted bird, find themselves threading their way through the soft mists of the Invisible Land. How they went where only innocence and simplicity could hope to find entrance, and that a gentle light guided them and finally dissolved the shadowy spaces and they saw the grandfather and the grandmother fast asleep in front of the cottage whose doorway looked out upon the Elysian fields. And how so soon as the children spoke the grandparents' names, the figures moved and became animate. And when the greetings were passed the old people spoke the names of the little brothers and sisters of the children, who had passed on before, and there was then a scamper of little feet and the shouts of little voices as well. And of the meal together and the joyful communion. And then the moment of quiet when the grandmother in response to a question said that those who dwelt there were roused from their contented slumbers only when their names were spoken aloud by those who still dwelt on the earth. And the dame added reproachfully that it had been a long time since they had been disturbed—not since All Saints' Day when the children had wished aloud for the sweetmeats she had formerly prepared for them. And the children hung down their heads, as we all should have to do. . . . Perhaps there was a sadness back of the failure to speak aloud the names, and the fear that tears would follow. And demonstration of sorrow is a sacred thing and not for the critical eye. But the eye is not unkindly, after all, though we are apt to think so. Usually its owner knows only too well that sorrow and separation spare no creature, and that makes for fellowship. . . . After the children had departed with noisy goodbyes, the dwellers of the other sphere sank into their wonted postures of rest to remain until again their names might be called aloud by those who kept their memories green. And the motive for speaking it need not be lofty. What is most longed for is the sense that, in all that they were once factors "those who are not" may still be thought of as though they were present. When, in that fearsome scene later on the children dreaded to look in the open graves, they took their hands from their faces to find that only blossoming flowers were visible, and so cried out: "There are no dead."

Be sure that the mists between ours and the Hereafter are not barriers to the flight of such words. And that the longing to be remembered aloud is keenest at the time and in the place where those who have gone before once had voice and part. And surely at no time are these wishes warmer than when

"THOU camest, a little helpless thing
That made a woman cry."

THE ELDERLY PERSON.

AMERICAN ARTISTS ARE IN FAVOR IN EUROPE

Charles W. Clark says all countries are alike to well prepared artists, regardless of nationality.

"In regard to the opportunities offered the American artist in Europe," says Mr. Clark, "first of all I believe that art knows no nationality and the artist should be known by his art and not by the country of his birth.

"If the artist knows the language in which he is singing, he will be accepted with open arms in any country, if, of course, he knows and understands that country's particular conditions and requirements. I believe that an artist thoroughly equipped will be received with equal enthusiasm regardless of nationality, and, therefore, in my opinion, the American artist stands the same chance in Europe as does any other artist. Personally, I find it a pleasure to sing to any audience.

"I have often been asked to what people I preferred to sing. That is a difficult question. All have their individual way of showing their appreciation and enthusiasm. In the southern part of France and in Italy, it has, of course, seemed to me that the people are more demonstrative in their appreciation than they are say, in England; but whether that means they are actually more appreciative is a question in my mind. For instance, out in Evanston the other night at my recital there was absolute silence following one of my numbers, but I have seldom felt more appreciation than following that number nor a greater compliment to my ideas of interpretation.

"Frequently I have heard artists say they cared little for demonstration or applause; that if they sang to satisfy themselves they were satisfied and that they never read the criticisms of the papers. I assure you I am happiest when I feel that my audience has felt keenly my ideas of interpretation and I read every one of the criticisms, good, bad and indifferent. Frequently I learn something from them and very often a great deal."

RUTH ALTA
ROGERS
PIANIST
If desired, Recital Programs will be opened with explanatory talks on the compositions to be played.
MANAGEMENT
CHARLES E. WATT 522 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Katherine Howard Ward
Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist
917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

Richard B. DeYoung Baritone
TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

People & Events

'CELLIST TO SPEND CHRISTMAS IN OHIO

Frederick Preston Search is now working eastward from California, through Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma. The success of his wonderful 'cello playing before great audiences on the Pacific coast, has been truly phenomenal. One critic exclaims that his triumphal tour "is developing into the musical sensation of the age." Strong inducements are being made to secure the talented young soloist for one of his matchless recitals in Chicago, but he is evidently holding off until invitation comes for a concerto appearance with the Symphony Orchestra. His re-engagements have been so heavy that he must return to the Pacific coast for a full schedule of recitals in February and March. January and the spring months will be given to the east. He is planning to reach Wyoming, Ohio (Wyoming is a suburb of Cincinnati), for Christmas, at the home of his father, Dr. Preston W. Search, the distinguished educator, author and lecturer. Immediate correspondence may be addressed to the 'cellist at this place of Christmas festivities. Wyoming is planning an ovation for his home-coming, his success being regarded as a community honor.

GIUSEPPE STURANI

The Philadelphia Press commented as follows on the work of Sturani:

Mr. Sturani conducted with fine sympathy, for the vocal score and the orchestra under his capable baton played the overture so well as to gain a hearty round of applause.—Philadelphia Press.

Giuseppe Sturani effected his reappearance in the conductor's chair after an absence of several seasons and he was warmly greeted when he first took his place. He conducted the sprightly overture (Barber of Seville) in a delicious fashion and he kept singers and instrumentalists in complete accord during the many rapid passages, which might have become muddled under less skilful leadership.—Philadelphia Press.

Paulist Choristers.—The Paulist Choristers, Father William J. Finn, musical director, will give a concert at Orchestra Hall next Sunday afternoon, December 21, for the benefit of St. Joseph Hospital. The proceeds of this concert are for the purpose of furnishing the rooms in the new addition of the St. Joseph Hospital now in the course of erection. Christmas carols will be a feature of the program.

♮ ♮ ♮

Roney—Mr. Henry B. Roney, long known as the teacher and manager of "Roney's Boys," and who, with them, has visited every part of the United States, has returned to Chicago for permanent residence, and opened a studio at his home, 558 Wellington avenue. Mr. Roney will make a specialty of coaching and training boys' voices.

ALBIN STEINDEL

Albin Steindel, one of the youngest members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and nephew of Bruno Steindel, the first 'cellist of the organization, is to be the soloist at the concerts of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, at Orchestra Hall, this week, playing the Bruch "Concerto" No. 2, D minor, this afternoon and tomorrow evening.

The following is copied from the Orchestra Hall program:

"Albin Steindel was born in 1893, at Munchen-Gladbach, Germany. He began playing the violin at the age of five years, and at seven years he made his first appearance in Stuttgart, where he played the E major Concerto by Vieuxtemps. A year later he went on a concert tour through Europe with the Steindel Quartet, which consisted of his father and his two brothers—Max and Ferdinand. Mr. Albin Steindel, Sr., conducts a music school in Berlin, where the three Steindel brothers studied under their father's direction. Albin Steindel came to America in 1909. He toured this country with his uncle, Bruno Steindel, the first violoncellist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, and became a member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra this season."

CHRISTMAS COMPOSITIONS BY LUCIEN G. CHAFFIN

The anthem for Christmas, "When Christ Was Born," by Lucien G. Chaffin, has been very favorably received by the church choirs of this country, and it has been given with great success in many churches since its publication by the Maxwell House. It is really a cantata in little, and portrays musically in its twelve pages the entire story of the Nativity from the pastoral scene of the "Watching Shepherds" to the exultant chorus of the "Angels, Glory to God in the Highest."

Mr. Chaffin's cantata, "The Holy Night," which covers musically the same story in chorus, quartet and solo numbers, is another popular number on Christmas programs and will be given many times this season.

MR. BURNHAM'S PLANS

Thuel Burnham, the American pianist, arrives in New York from Paris by the steamship Rotterdam, landing December 21, to begin his three-month concert tour of the United States.

His western tour commences early in January. The justly renowned pianist has many orchestra engagements as well as several engagements with the Kneisel Quartet. In all, more than fifty important engagements have already been booked for him.

In March Mr. Burnham gives his New York recital under the management of Charles Wagner in Aeolian Hall, and on the Sunday following, appears with the People's Symphony at Carnegie Hall.

MAC BURNEY STUDIOS

The next recital to be given at the MacBurney Studios will be an evening devoted to some of the best songs of Hugo Wolf. The program will be given in the Fine Arts Building on the evening of December 22, and will be presented by Mr. John Rankl, bass-baritone, who will be assisted by Mr. William Lester, accompanist.

SONGS OF HUGO WOLF

Gebet
Standchen
Auf ein altes Bild
Fussreise
Zur Ruh', zur Ruh'
Nimmersate Liebe
Anakreons Grab
Der Tambour
Der Musikant
Wie viele zeit verlor ich
Der Feuerreiter
Lebe wohl
Gesang Weyla's
Wer sich der Einsamkeit ergiesst
Heimweh

A. B. Chase piano furnished by the Grosvenor & Lapham Company.

THE WARRINGTON

Commencing next Monday the stock company at the Warrington in Oak Park will present the pronounced romantic success, "Graustark."

This tale of "A Love Behind a Throne," dramatized by Grace Hayward from the book of George Barr McCutcheon, as it appears in play form, is delightfully fascinating and makes "Graustark" a charming country with equally interesting people.

For the holiday week starting Monday, December 29, including the two holiday performances on New Year, the Warrington will offer their first musical play of the season, "Madame Sherry," the renowned musical comedy which has proven one of the greatest drawing cards ever offered in stock. It will be produced at the Warrington with an enlarged cast and beautiful production.

FRANCES PELTON-JONES

Since returning from her western tour, Miss Frances Pelton-Jones, the harpsichordist, has been filling many dates in the east. On November 22 she played at Englewood, N. J.; on December 4 and 5, at Washington, D. C., where she scored a great success both at the Bristol School and the National Park Seminary. On December 10, she appeared at the Metropolitan College of Music, New York (Kate Chittenden, director), and has other dates to follow in the near future.

The educational value of these harpsichord lecture-recitals is making a strong appeal to the best institutions throughout the country.

MASON'S
"Scales-Keys" Booklet
Invaluable to every music student and teacher.
Mail edition 30 cents postpaid (silver).
J. S. COOGAN, Dept. M. N., Paterson, N. J.

COLUMBIA, MO.

Mr. Frank Parker gave the following program at Christian College Auditorium with his pupils on Tuesday, December 16:

Song Cycle, "The Perfect Year".....H. A. Matthews
Spring
Summer
Autumn—Violin obligato, A. L. Barton
Winter
Miss Irene Cook

"Echoes," Three Songs of Parting..Elizabeth Y. Allen
The Sweetest Flower
Echoes
Good-Bye
Miss Mae Dorsey

Sea-Pictures .....Edward Elgar
In Haven
Sabbath Morning at Sea
Where Corals Lie
Miss Ruby McClure

Four Geisha Songs.....Dalhousie Young
Song of the Plum Tree
Song of the Pine Tree and Cherry
Song of the Well Rope
Pillow Song
Miss Winifred Limerick

On Jhelum River—A Kashmiri Love Story.....
.....Amy Woodforde-Finden
Jhelum Boat Song
The Song of the Bride
Will the Red Sun Never Set
Ashoo at Her Lattice
Only a Rose
Kingfisher Blue
Miss Cook and Mr. Parker

###

Detroit—Mme. Eleanor Hazzard Peocock appeared as soloist with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra in their Jackson, Mich., concert, and has sung recently in three recitals. One of these was at the Michigan State Normal College, and the other two in Detroit. The first of these was devoted to a serious program and the second consisted of the children's program, which Mrs. Peocock gives with such unvarying success.

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

T. Francis Hughes
TENOR 75 Auditorium Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Grant KIMBELL
Tenor
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

JOHN R. RANKL Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building Phone Harrison 6880

Julius BRANDER
VIOLINIST TEACHER
54 Auditorium Bldg. Home Phone Edgewater 2755

VARIED MUSICAL PROGRAM AT THE PANAMA PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

It is planned to render the year 1915 a red letter year in the history of the world's music. Through a continuous musical festival to be held at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco in 1915 an effort is being made to unite the musical interests of all nations into a single great expression of the universal art.

The plan is meeting with response from musicians in many parts of the world and it is thoroughly in accord with the purpose of the Exposition to bring the peoples of all nations into friendly accord at the great formal celebration which will commemorate the opening of the Panama Canal.

The musical program promises to be one of the most varied and yet comprehensive ever held. To a singular degree the Exposition should bring together music lovers of all lands.

There will be many features to the musical program which includes musical pageants, orchestral concerts, folk lore concerts, interstate musical conventions, international musical competitions and other absorbing events.

One of the most fascinating of the musical festivals is that anticipated through the 1915 eisteddfod.

The National Eisteddfod of Wales is one of the most interesting musical festivals in the world. Year after year it is held by the Welsh people in the little principality, which has been termed the Celtic fringe, and where the most honored of all Celtic traditions are maintained with the same enthusiasm as in the distant days of the early Britons when the Druids of Wales were the leaders and teachers of European culture.

Rarely is it that the eisteddfod is held outside the limits of Welsh territory, but there have been occasions when an event of national importance has been celebrated in other countries. In 1915 the greatest of all will be held at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

At the 1915 National Eisteddfod the prizes awarded for choral and male competitions will exceed any that have ever been given any previous eisteddfod, either in Wales or elsewhere.

Twenty thousand dollars will be offered for the chief choral competition and $10,000 for the male choir. Other large prizes will be offered for competition in solos, recitations, musical and poetic compositions, all of which are usual features of the eisteddfod.

At a recent eisteddfod held at Pittsburgh there were, perhaps, thirty thousand Welsh people. It is expected that that number will be far exceeded at San Francisco. The prizes are tempting. The event of the Exposition is in itself an inducement to take people from far-off countries to San Francisco to participate with America in her celebration of so great an international event as the completion of the Panama Canal.

The winners of the two chief events in Pittsburgh—the Scranton (Pa.) Choral Union which carried away the chief choral prize and the Rhondda male voice choir, whose members came all the way from South Wales to win the $5,000 male choir prize—will both be at San Francisco in 1915. There will also be various choirs from America and Wales resolved to win some of the worthy laurels.

While the singing competitions are the most important and probably the most attractive in the "Session," which is the meaning of the world eisteddfod and which will last for a week or more, there are other vastly important items in the doings of the national gathering which will be of intense interest to music lovers and to those concerned in the artistic upliftment of a people.

A large prize will be offered for the Bard of the eisteddfod, which is the original institution of the Druidic eisteddfod. Poets are called upon to write an ode upon the great event of the year. The ode is judged by the Gorsedd, which is the executive of the Order of Druids, and the writer of the winning ode is enthroned upon a chair hewn out of solid oak. The chaired bard is the hero of the eisteddfod. There are other lesser bards, crowned and otherwise decorated for minor compositions in music and poetry. It is probable that the subject of the 1915 ode will be the completion of the Panama Canal. In Wales the ode has to be written in Welsh, but it is likely that the 1915 ode may be written either in Welsh or in English, so that the competition may be made as broad as possible.

There will be about a dozen male choirs who will compete for Wales. The Welsh choirs are composed chiefly of colliers, and their enthusiasm enables them to put a deal of money aside to help the fund for the bringing of the party to wherever large prizes and honors are to be gained.

A number of children's choirs are in line to compete for the tempting prizes offered for that particular kind of musical attraction.

Soloists, instrumental and vocal, from all parts of the world are also in preparation for the greatest eisteddfod in history.

With the superabundance of new things that will be offered daily throughout the period of the continuous musical fest at the Exposition, there will no doubt be a demand for the old favorites as well.

To meet this demand it is planned to produce the most popular operas of today and of the past.

In addition to the theaters and halls with which San Francisco is well supplied and apart from the Hall of Festival and the Festival Court in the Exposition, the Exposition management has set aside $1,000,000 for the construction of a great auditorium. Work on this building, which will seat 11,000 persons, has begun.

For the director of the musical features of the Exposition, it is acclaimed in America and Europe, no better man could have been put in charge than Mr. George W. Stewart of Boston, who has been appointed musical director of the greatest music festival in history.

Mr. Stewart earned his fame as conductor of the celebrated Boston Band, which he founded about twenty years ago and which is regarded as one of the first musical organizations in America. The musical director of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition has had considerable experience in enterprises of a similar kind, though not perhaps on so large a scale as the 1915 celebration. He has entered the work with a spirit worthy of the occasion and promises a gathering of musicians and singers such as no precedent can claim. It is planned that massed bands and orchestras will give concerts throughout the Exposition period.

The Piano Pedals By MRS. A. M. VIRGIL, Clear, Concise, Melodious, Results Unequaled. Price $1.00. Sale unparalleled. Address Dept. C. The Virgil Piano School Co. 42 West 76th St., New York

Modern compositions will be played by individual and by massed orchestras, and among the chief orchestral attractions of the year will be the production of the best symphony for which a prize of $10,000 is offered by the New York Philharmonic Society. The prize winning composer has to be an American citizen of Italian birth or extraction.

Other prizes will be offered for similar work as well as for the best rendering of the winning works. Contests for symphony orchestras and brass bands will be conducted at different periods during the year, and winners will give concerts in the Exposition halls, following upon their victories.

♮ ♮ ♮

The fondest traditions of a race of people are best preserved in the folk songs of the "hidden people." Folk songs and folk music express most clearly the attributes and the history of the people and tell in unmistakable language the characteristics of the makers of the nation. It is only rarely that these songs are heard outside the domain of their creation. Folk songs are born of legend and they live and die in the legendry of their birth.

One of the attractions of the great musical festival which will mark the year 1915 in the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco will be the rendering of folk songs and folk music by massed bands from all countries in the world. No more effective plan could have been adopted for the stamping of ancient and almost forgotten music with the mark of the classic than the execution of this idea as conceived by the Exposition musical directors.

For the first time in history the strange fantastic airs of the Tyrol, of the Welsh mountains and of the unknown orient, will be interested amid the grandeur of modern musical masterpieces.

———♯♯♯———

Illinois College.—The following students will take part in the recital and Christmas party given by the Pupils' Recital Club of the Illinois College of Music, 2831 Washington boulevard, next Saturday afternoon, December 20, at 1:30 p. m.: Mildred Liedeck, Roy Casper, Almeda Geshner, Hazel Barrett, Franklin Paul, Cyril Burlingame, Bonnie Donaldson, Olga Velna, Donald Bowey, Pearl Brown, Margaret Harvey, Dorothy Caldwell, Helen Emmons.

———♯♯♯———

Thompson.—Cave Thompson, Chicago blind pianist, has recently completed arrangements whereby he will give a recital in Milwaukee at the end of the winter.

THE SHELP PUPILS' RECITAL

Pupils of Dr. H. William Shelp, assisted by Irene Belden Zaring, pianist, were heard in song recital on Thursday evening, December 11, at the Wilson Avenue Y. M. C. A. Auditorium. The program was of a miscellaneous character and wisely chosen to display the equipment of each individual that appeared, as well as to prove that the Dr. Shelp method is achieving splendid results. Especially was this well brought out by the singing of Miss Nancy Rhode and Mr. Walter Eckstrand, both of whom gave excellent accounts of themselves vocally. Mrs. Gertrude Griffith-Shelp, a singer of high attainments, was on the program for two numbers, a theme and variations by Proch and "Susser Freund, Du Blickest" by Schumann. In the former number Mrs. Shelp displayed a voice of much agility and extraordinary range, but it was in the Schumann number that she was most pleasing. Others deserving of special mention were Roy Garner, Mrs. Zelda Archambault and Mrs. Frank Nichols, all of whom were heard in well chosen and well rendered numbers.

The piano numbers, Chopin's "Polonaise" in C sharp minor and the Liszt arrangement of "Hark! Hark! the Lark," were a delightful feature of the evening, and justly so with a pianist of the type of Mrs. Zaring. On this occasion she displayed an excellent touch, a sure clean technic, and good expression. The recital as a while was a splendid tribute to Dr. Shelp and the good work he is doing.

H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

MR. AND MRS. CLARKE IN MARION

Following is the comment of the Marion, Ind., Tribune on the successful appearance of Rachel Steinman Clarke and Edward Clarke with the Symphony Orchestra.

"Rachel Steinman Clarke of Chicago made her first appearance before a Marion audience, executing the difficult and showy Allegro Vivace from Mendelssohn's violin concerto in a brilliant manner. She displayed a clean finished technic and a velvety tone. Her second group consisted of the Ave Maria (Schubert-Wilhelmj), in which her tone was broad and noble and the Scherzo Tarantelle (Wieniawski), a dazzling piece, bristling with technical difficulties, which she overcame with evident ease.

"Edward Clarke is a singer who needs no introduction to the Marion public. In the famous Prologue to Leoncavallo's 'Pagliacci' his rich sonorous voice was shown at its best and he took advantage of the dramatic possibilities with which the work abounds to give it a masterly rendition—a well deserved ovation greeted his efforts. The three old Irish songs, which formed his closing group, he gave in his happiest vein, with fine voice and in delightful style. Mr. Clark is inimitable in his interpretation of Irish ballads."—(Advertisement.)

FREDERICK SEARCH

Mr. Search played the following violoncello recital at the State Normal School in Los Angeles on December 1:

Romance ..... Adolph Fischer
Reverie of Lake Garda ..... Frederick Preston Search
Nocturne, ... Chopin-Klengel
Melody from "Madam Butterfly" .... Giacomo Puccini
The Night (The Dream) ..... Bogumil Sykora
The Morning (The Awakening) ..... Bogumil Sykora
The Butterfly (Scene from a Masked Ball)..... David Popper

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

Memories of Departed Days ..... David Popper
Violoncello Concerto in A minor, August Klughardt
(In one movement)
At an Old Trysting Place ..... MacDowell-Klengel
To a Wild Rose ..... MacDowell-Klengel
Romanze in E minor ..... Edward A. MacDowell
Butterfly Waltz ..... Frederick Preston Search
Siciliano ..... Giovanno Battista Pergolesi
Minuet ..... Ludwig van Beethoven
Polonaise Fantastique..... Wilhelm Jeral

DELMA-HEIDE
MAESTRO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris

JULIA CLAUSSEN

Three short comments on the art of Mme. Claussen read as follows:

Mme. Claussen is as nearly a counterpart to the famous baritone as the ranks of the mezzo sopranos can boast.—Eric Delamarter in Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Mme. Claussen delivered herself of a stately impersonation of the faithless Laura. An artist of admirable quality, she sang her music in the grand style.—Felix Borowski in Chicago Record-Herald.

Julia Claussen as Laura, presented a vocal interpretation of sterling merit and displayed a voice which for breadth, depth and range, as well as quality, was satisfying. To her are due the vocal laurels of the evening to be distributed among the feminine members of the cast.—Isabelle Lowden in Chicago Daily News.

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
504 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 7931

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

RALPH MICHAELIS
VIOLINIST
Drake School of Music - - - CHICAGO

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
Teacher of Singing
309 KIMBALL HALL
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusive Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

Music in America

INDIANAPOLIS

Daniel Jones, pianist, and Wesley Howard, tenor, two faculty members of the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music, gave a recital at the Herron Art Institute, November 30. The program follows: "Polonaise," E Major (Liszt); "Comfort Ye My People" and "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted" (Handel); "Du bist die Ruh" (Schubert-Liszt); "Consolation" (Liszt); "Venetian Boat Song" and "Spinning Song" (Mendelssohn); "Faith in Spring" and "Wandering" (Schubert), and "Concert Paraphrase" on Tschaikowsky's opera, "Eugene Onegine" (Pabst). Mr. Jones gave a fine account of himself throughout the program and displayed his many good qualities to fine advantage. Mr. Howard sang in a highly artistic manner and delighted the audience with his beautiful voice.

♮ ♮ ♮

Indianapolis opera lovers were given a rare treat on December 5, when the Chicago Opera Company appeared here and gave a fine production of "Die Walkuere" by Wagner. The opportunity of hearing this opera was made possible through the efforts of Ona B. Talbot, who handled the local management. The production was first-class in every respect, the cast being particularly strong. Julia Claussen as "Brunnhilde," proved to be an exceptional artist. Her voice is of an unusually beautiful quality and her acting is finished. Charles Dalmores sang the part of "Siegmund" in a highly satisfactory manner and Minnie Saltzman-Stevens and Margaret Keys as "Sieglinde" and "Frica" respectively, were both absolutely adequate and gave a fine exposition of the possibilities of the parts. Gustav Huberdeau as "Wotan" and Henri Scott as "Hunding," were both in good voice and were greatly enjoyed. Arnold Winternitz conducted in a very efficient way.

♮ ♮ ♮

The People's Chorus, Edward Birge, director, and the Indianapolis Orchestra, united and gave a fine performance of Handel's "Messiah" at the Murat, December 7. The soloists were: Mrs. Leo M. Rappaport, soprano; Wesley Howard, tenor; Mrs. Florence Gavin, contralto, and David Baxter, bass. The theater was completely sold out and standing room was at par. All of the soloists were in good voice and sang their parts very satisfactorily. The chorus did some excellent work and Mr. Birge is to be congratulated upon his fine work as conductor.

♮ ♮ ♮

The College of Musical Art gave a faculty recital at the college, December 8. Leoline Jaquith, pianist; Jessie D. Davis, soprano; Grace Hutchings, pianist; Olive Kiler, violinist; Christian Martens, baritone and Gladys Loucks, pianist, gave the following program: "Cortege Funebre" (Schytte), "Rain in the Garden" (Debussy), "Thrinodia" (Holms), "La Gitana" (Arditi), "Hour of Dreaming" (Hahn), "Scherzo, B Flat Minor" (Chopin), "Concerto Romantique" (Godard), "Five Songs of Sun and Shade" (Coleridge-Taylor), and "Polonaise, E Major" (Liszt). The audience was most enthusiastic and all artists were in good form and presented the program with much artistic finish.

♮ ♮ ♮

One of the most valuable acquisitions to the teaching of voice culture in this city of recent years is Mrs. Elizabeth Walker Sharpe. Possessed of splendid natural ability, an admirable voice and a wide general culture, she is further prepared by residence in Vienna, where she heard the best in that musical center of the old world. There she was associated with her sister, the renowned Mme. Charles Cahier, in her great roles at the Royal Opera, and received from her instruction in the method of the famous Jean DeReszke, with whom Mme. Cahier completed her preparation for the stage. Mrs. Sharpe does not sing in public, but has prepared and given special programs for clubs. During the season she has assisted Ona B. Talbot and been brought in contact with notable musicians who have visited in the city. Mrs. Sharpe's instruction is limited to a few pupils, whose voices are of specially promising quality. G. Y.

♮ ♮ ♮

HARTFORD, CONN.

Victor Wittgenstein, young pianist of note, appears December 12 under auspices of the Comedy Club. He will render compositions of MacDowell, Chopin, Schumann and Debussy.

Harold Webster, the very talented pianist of the Hartford School of Music, is acting as accompanist for David Bispham while on tour through the east.

Robert H. Prutting, conductor Hartford Philharmonic Orchestra, addressed the Woman's Club of Meriden, Conn., on "Richard Strauss, Greatest of All Modern Writers." Mrs. Fothergill, who possesses a lovely lyric soprano, illustrated the lecture by singing Strauss songs.

The recital for the National Association of Organists was furnished by Elsie Dresser, H. E. Bonander and Edward Laubin.

Susan Lord Brandegree, one of the most celebrated 'cellists in New England, gave a concert at the First Baptist Church, November 29. She was ably assisted by Henry E. Bonander, organist.

"Seed Time and Harvest," a cantata by

TITTA RUFFO'S master
LELIO CASINI, recommends
HAMILTON
HOPKINS
(Casini's Assistant for 4 Years in Milan)
710 Fine Arts Building
CHICAGO

John E. West, was given by the Park Congregational Church Choir, November 29. The choir is composed of Miss Ada Segue, Miss Edith Aab, H. L. Maerchlein and S. E. Couch, assisted by Lotta E. Hale, Mrs. Thomas Couch and Thomas Waterman.

The Boston Symphony gave Hartford such a fine concert that they far exceeded the highest expectations of the critical musical people. They return for a second concert in April.

Thibaud, the famous French violinist, and Harold Bauer appear jointly in January.

American String Quartet of Boston, of which Susan Lord Brandegree, 'cellist, of Hartford, is a member, appear at Unity Hall, January 14.

A quintet composed of well-known singers has been formed to tour New England under the name of the "New England Quintet." It consists of Clara Oakes Usher, soprano; Florence Fishe Stamy, contralto; H. P. Stedman, tenor; J. Ralph Stamy, basso, and Wyllis Waterman, pianist. They have issued very attractive announcements and with such thoroughly pleasing artists should be in demand.

The Tempo Quartet sang on Founders Day at Mount Holyoke College.

Much interest is manifested in the engagement of Alexander Saslavsky, violinist, concertmeister and assistant to Walter Damrosch, of the New York Symphony Orchestra, to teach at the Hartford Conservatory of Music.

The Music News may be purchased at the Magazine Shop on Asylum street or by ordering direct to Music News Publishing Company, Kimball Hall, Chicago.

The Musical Club this year is attempting to present all national airs from such countries as are noted most for their inspiring music and noted composers. The club presents Julia Culp January 22, University String Quartet March 17.

The Choral Club, under direction of Ralph L. Baldwin, gave its first concert of the year at Parson Theater, December 4. The club is composed of seventy voices and does splendid work, parts being even and selections especially pleasing. They had the assistance of Hans Kronwald, violin 'cellist, of New York, and Evans Williams, tenor. Edward Laubin played the club's accompaniments in fine style.

Mr. Williams won little short of an ovation with his wonderfully beautiful singing. He possesses what so many of our concert singers lack—intelligence, refined artistic perceptions and beautiful diction—which gives the audience rare enjoyment. This was Hans Kronwald's initial appearance with the club and he made many admirers. He disclosed splendid tone, fine technic, added to much musical feeling.

Charles Gilbert Spross was wonderful support for Mr. Williams and Elmer Hedges for Hans Kronwald. N. B.

———♯♯♯———

Cadman—A reception will be tendered to Charles Wakefield Cadman, well-known as the composer of Indian songs and other successful works, by the members of the Musicians' Club of New York and their friends, at the club rooms, 62 West Forty-fifth street, next Wednesday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock. All musicians, whether members of the club or not, are invited.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Superlatives have been very much the order of the day in all contributions touching on the Minneapolis Orchestra. And such truly have been merited. But what language is left to the critic when the unexpectedly superlative comes, as it did at the last symphony concert, December 5? Surely everyone will agree that no matter how thoroughly he has enjoyed a course of concerts, he must of very necessity put everything else in a different class after hearing a program exclusively Beethovenish and Wagnerian. The grand (in the fullest meaning of that word) Eroica Symphony of Beethoven opened the program, in fact constituted the whole first half, uninterrupted by admission of late comers. And here was the only flaw of the evening. Knowing that some must be unavoidably late, it seems a pity that a shorter number might not have preceded the symphony. Being extremely thankful one was there and Oh so sorry for the unfortunate who was late, took a moment or two of pleasure away. But, to go back to the symphony. Mr. Oberhoffer's interpretation was admirable; he showed the strong virile Beethoven as he was, except for a suggestion of a Tschaikowskian wail produced by an extremely slow tempo of the funeral march. The audience showed great enthusiasm for the whole performance, a sign of the good taste of that particular audience.

The last half of the program embraced only works of Wagner with three solo appearances of Johanna Gadski. M. J. W.

———♯♯♯———

VALPARAISO, IND.

The following program by the Valparaiso Conservatory Orchestra was given on a recent date with very great success. The house was packed full of people and the enthusiasm was intense.

Frederic H. Ingersoll was conductor and Ethel Barbara Dow and Alma DuFord supulied accompaniments.

The following is the program:

Symphony in B minor, (unfinished).....Fr. Schubert
Allegro Moderato; Andante con moto
Serenade for String Orchestra ..... Pierne
Walzer, from "Suite for String Orchestra," Volkman
Hejre Kati, Scene from the Czarda .....Hubay
Bess Arbor
The Danza ..... Chadwick
Io son Titania (from "Mignon") ....Ambrose Thomas
Helen Charlton
Duet for flute and horn, orchestral accompaniment,
..... Titl
Fred Elbel and Fred Vonderschmidt
Peer Gynt Suite ..... Grieg
The Morning.
Ase's Death—for strings
Anita's Dance—for strings
In the Hall of the Mountain King

———♯♯♯———

Stewart—Mr. Cameron Stewart, the English tenor, has been engaged by the Rigoletto Grand Opera Quartet of Chicago. On December 23, Mr. Stewart will sing the tenor solos in "The Rose Maiden," at Brook, Indiana.

Mr. Stewart is director of music at Sacramento Boulevard M. E. Church, Chicago.

———♯♯♯———

Riegelman.—Miss Mabel Riegelman will appear with the Boston Opera company in Boston, on January 27, singing the part of "Gretel" in "Hansel and Gretel," in a German production of the Humperdinck Opera.

THE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC, LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

The third monthly students' recital took place on the evening of the 11th, in the Temple Theater. The following program was rendered:

On the Wings of Song.....Mendelssohn
The Gondolier .....Mendelssohn
Erma Commons
Serenade ..... Henselt
The Music Box.....Felton
Ruth Witte
The Nightingale Has a Lyre of Gold.....Whelpley
Forest Song .....Whelpley
Helen Herold
Prelude, G Minor.....Rachmaninoff
Mabel Johnson
Shepherd's Song .....Haydn
The Wanderer .....Haydn
Beryl Willson
Hark! Hark! the Lark!.....Schubert-Liszt
Moto Perpetuo .....MacDowell
Ella Morrison
Romance from Second Concerto.....Wieniawski
Helen Chase
I Fain Would Outpour My Sorrow.....Hammond
Since You Went Away.....Johnson
Tommy Lad .....Margetson
Olive Bozarth
The Angel .....Rubinstein

Katherine Kimball — Altinas Tullis
Mary Schroeder — Hazel Poland
Clauddie Townsend — Hazel Ritchey
Florinda Young
From the Concert Class of Howard Kirkpatrick

STEINDEL ALBIN Now with Chicago Symphony Orchestra
SOLO VIOLINIST
1325 Birchwood Av. Phone Rogers Park 41

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

MARY E. BINGHAM
PUPILS—VIOLINIST—CONCERT
Res. Studio: 812 Wall St., JOPLIN, MO.

RALPH Violinist Brokaw Power-Meyer Conservatory WICHITA, KAN.

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4418 620 FINE ARTS BLDG.

AGNES LEIST-BEEBE ORATORIO SONG RECITAL PUPILS
SOPRANO
509 Kimball Hall and 3985 Drexel Boulevard

RAMON B. GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

FOR SALE—Steinway Baby Grand Piano; two years old; perfect condition; mahogany case; $700.00. Call prone North 458, between 9 and 12 a. m.

WANTED—Good accompanist; experienced in chorus work; good salary. Apply to C. A. Hutter, 501 Kimball Hall, any afternoon except Tuesday and Thursday.

TO RENT—Time in Studio; 84 Auditorium Bldg. Apply any morning.

HARMONY and composition by mail. Raymond Robinson, organist and choirmaster of Central Church, Boston. Address 6 Newbury st., Boston, Mass.

TO RENT—Unusually large Studio equipped with Grand and Upright piano, electric lights and fan. Reception room with telephone in connection. Tuesdays and Fridays from 3 o'clock on; 516 Kimball Hall.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

HANS HESS 'CELLIST
American Conservatory Telephone Lincoln 7917

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

HEATHE GREGORY
BASS-BARITONE
Recitals Concert Oratorio
616 East 49th Street

Wm. Clare Hall
Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN
SOPRANO
Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital
429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

LOS ANGELES

Under the management of Mr. J. Harold Lichtenstein, an enterprising musical enthusiast, organized an annual Jewish Musical Festival Association. His choice of talent was worthy from a musical and artistic standpoint to encourage a hearty following.

Miss Carolina S. Abrams read George Ade's "An Opera" most effectively.

Mrs. Clara Siegenberg played Liszt's "Liebestraume" and Chopin's "Scherzo" in keeping with the best teaching and presentation.

Miss Celia Davidson, a lyric soprano of splendid training and excellence of voice, sang La Forge's "Wie lieb Ich dich hab," and Chadwick's "The Danza" and "He Loves Me," receiving encores.

Mr. Julius Kranz, a violinist of splendid tone and technic, gave Schubert-Wilhelmj's "Ave Marie" and Sarasate's "Spanish Dance," and on encore delighted his audience with the popular gem, Dvorak's "Humoresque."

Mr. Leo Doucke was the star attraction and was worth the hearing. Young in years, but a touch and interpretation which promise much for the future in pianistic art. His piano numbers were Debussy's "Sarabande" and the "Gnomes' Dance" and "Rigoletto Paraphrase" of Liszt.

All the artists were encored.

The opening address by Rabbi Hecht was a fine endorsement of the movement of the Jewish lovers of music of his society and race.

♮ ♮ ♮

The first of the strong programs of the Woman's Orchestra, with Mmc. Teresa Carreno, solo pianist, was given December 5, under the directorship of Mr. Henry Schoenfeld, who held his reputation as an able and intelligent leader and interpreter of the good list played by the fifty ladies in the orchestra.

The great number was the Beethoven "Piano Concerto" in E flat major, opus 73. The work of Mme. Carreno marked the greatness of the renowned artist. In a group of three gems of art works, the "Les Orientales" by MacDowell and the Schubert-Liszt "Erl Konig." She was most wonderful and was not permitted to go until three encore numbers were given.

A fair audience was in attendance. It merited a larger.

♮ ♮ ♮

The People's Orchestra Sunday afternoon concert was a pleasing change in the liberal use of popular encores as request numbers, rather than a repetition or part of the programmed pieces affording much pleasure as well as education.

Mr. Hans S. Linne, the late newcomer musician and orchestral leader, made his appearance as director of the People's, or Municipal Orchestra, and received a splendid endorsement from the large and enthusiastic audience. The classic grade will be not too severely adhered to, and request selections of good order will be given that will not test the endurance of the common amateur music lover.

The contributions of the city and county may sustain and bring into popular favor the musical education to the common people who cannot pay the higher rates usually required by the high grade programs of the symphony organizations. It will become a city interest, rather than a club or private enterprise.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Western Metropolitan Opera Company came to a close and, sad to say, a disbandonment of the organization, as did also the Tivoli Opera Company at the close of the three weeks' season given here. The Metropolitan company was entirely satisfactory in every operatic requisite, but with all this it did not draw enough to sustain the expenses of so high and excellent grade of talent.

Leoncavallo was enthusiastically received and feted, and some considerable regret was expressed that the dissolution was necessary. His talents have made a good reputation and we hope to have the pleasure to hear them again in the near future.

♮ ♮ ♮

"The Messiah," "Creation" and many Christmas cantatas are in store for holiday rendition.

S. W. MOUNTZ.

———♯♯♯———

INDIANAPOLIS

The Indianapolis Orchestra gave the third season's concert at the Murat, December 14. Marie Stapleton-Murray, soprano, was the soloist and the program follows:

Overture, "The Merry Wives of Windsor," Nicolai
Phaeton, Symphonic Poem ..... Saint-Saens
Carnival in Paris, an Episode ..... Svendsen
Aria, "Ocean, Thou Mighty Monster," from "Oberon" .....von Weber
Marie Stapleton-Murray
Wedding Music ..... Jensen
Air de Ballet (string orchestra) ..... Herbert
French Military March ..... Saint-Saens

Mr. Ernestinoff has brought the orchestra to quite a high standard and their playing was smooth and finished at this concert and the ensemble was good throughout. The managers of the orchestra were fortunate in securing as soloist, Marie Stapleton-Murray, who gave a magnificent interpretation of the aria. Mrs. Murray has a voice of fine timbre and range, the quality being at all times most pleasing and her high tones were resonant and free. Her enunciation is excellent. She was accorded a genuine ovation, singing three extra songs as encores and we sincerely hope to hear her again.

G. Y.

———♯♯♯———

PRICE, UTAH

With less than three months for preparation the high school choir and orchestra concert last Friday evening was a big success, speaking from an artistic standpoint. Every selection was rendered in a pleasing and artistic manner and great credit is due these organizations for the success of the entertainment. The work of the choir was spirited and full of life. It showed the result of careful and consistent practice. The same was true also of the orchestra. Their renditions were good and merited the generous applause given them.

One of the most pleasing features of the program was the piano solo by Professor Irving Gingrich. He played one of his own compositions, "A Romance in D flat." The audience was enthusiastic over Mr. Gingrich's composition and his splendid rendition.

MILWAUKEE

The first Arion Club program of the season consisted of part songs by the combined choirs and had the assistance of Florence Hinkle, soprano, and Herbert Kirshner, violinist. The work of the chorus was up to the usual good standard, in spite of a lack of male voices, especially tenors. Those on duty seemed to feel the responsibility and under Director Protheroe's able baton gave an unusually fine account of themselves. The attacks were good, the shading with fine regard to the text. Miss Hinkle has wonderful repose and poise in her singing, and her chief charm seems to be in an exceptional legato rather than a brilliancy of tone. Mr. Kirshner has very ample technic and played in a musicianly manner.

The Catholic Choral Club, directed as last year by Mr. Otto Singenberger, presented a program of folk songs for their portion of their recent concert, and was assisted by Alex. Zukovsky, violinist, and Mrs. Milch-Sittard, soprano. The club has been very much enlarged and is fortunate in securing many better voices which, with a longer training under Mr. Singenberger, enabled to do the best work they have attempted. Mr. Zukovsky is an artist and has had several return engagements as a result of his work of last year. Mrs. Sittard has a pleasing quality of voice and, with the exception of the manner in which she handled the extreme upper register of her voice, gave a smooth and flowing rendition of "Una voce poca fa" from "Barber of Seville."

The Milwaukee Musical Society, aside from the generous course of orchestra concerts they are managing this year, are scheduled for three concerts of their own, with the orchestra as accompaniment. The first took place last week and consisted of "Odysseus" of Max Bruch, with Wm. Wade Hinshaw, baritone; Jennie Johnson, contralto; Miss Charlotte Piege, contralto, and Helen Coperelli, soprano, assisted in some of the smaller parts and quartets.

♯ ♯ ♯

BOISE, IDAHO

The Boise Conservatory of Music introduced Dwight Edrus Cook, tenor, last evening in a recital. Admittance was by invitation, and a music-loving audience gathered at this initial recital. The audience was well pleased with Mr. Cook's singing and gathered about him in congratulation at the close of the concert. Miss Lillian Smith, principal of the conservatory, gave a "Hungarian Rhapsody" upon the piano, and Mrs. Moorehouse Purkhiser, teacher of violin, also gave a number.

Mr. Cook recently came to Boise as vocal instructor in the Boise Conservatory. He also has charge of the music at the First Methodist Church with a choir of twenty-five voices.

♮ ♮ ♮

Two evenings ago the ever popular opera "The Mikado" was given by the Boise Operatic Club under the directorship of Frederick Flemming Beal and with Fred Newell Morris in the leading solo parts. The presentation was a great success artistically.

ASBURY PARK, N .J.

The executive committee of the music department of the Woman's club met Friday evening with the chairman, Mrs. Bruce S. Keator, to outline the department work for the winter. The members of the executive committee are: Mrs. Keator, Mrs. E. W. Pennypacker, Miss Helen Treat, Miss Josephine Kingsley, Mrs. H. G. Shreve, Mrs. W. T. Hubbard, Mrs. Joseph Savage, Mrs. Estelle Billington, Miss Florence Cavanaugh, Miss Bertha Martin, Mrs. Ella Markell and Miss Francis Tatman, with Mrs. H. B. Martin secretary and treasurer of the department. Ten of the committee were present and the meeting was most satisfactory, the interest and enthusiasm shown being very gratifying to the chairman and to all present. It was decided to continue the musicales on the last Friday evening in January, February, March and April in Library Hall, and the theme of the course will be the opera from its beginning to the present day.

On Friday evening, December 19, in the First M. E. Church, the members of the executive committee will render a program consisting of favorite selections from the operas. The admission to this concert will be by cards of invitation which the committee will send to the entire music department; to the patrons of last year's course; to those who contributed special amounts for the department work, and to other friends interested in music. The subjects for the four musicales following this are: January 30, "The Beginning and Development of Opera;" February 27, "Modern Operas and Operettas;" March 27, "Wagner's Influence on the Opera;" April 25, "Strauss and Debussy."

SAINT PAUL

The Paulist Choir of Chicago was the attraction on Friday evening, and once again was the spacious auditorium filled, this concert being given for the benefit of the cathedral fund. The choir, numbering seventy-five voices, men and boys, displayed admirable training under their director, Rev. Father Finn.

Several numbers on the program were changed, owing to the lack of an organ, without which our splendid auditorium is still incomplete.

The "Fugue" from "Paradise Lost" of Dubois was the opening number, in place of the "Credo" from the "St. Cecilia Mass."

Master Edgar Donovan, the boy soprano of Grace Episcopal Church, New York, has a most beautiful voice, and never, from one so young, should we expect to hear "Voi Che Sapete" from Mozart's opera or the music from "Madame Butterfly," sung with such artistic finish as this youth of fifteen years sang them. Master Donovan also sang the "Lass with a Delicate Air" and the charming "Serenade" of Neidlinger, which was beautifully enunciated.

The "Sanctus" from Gounod's "St. Cecilia" was admirably sung, with Thomas McGranahan as soloist.

Altogether, the choir is splendidly balanced and much credit is due Father Finn for their excellent training. M. W.

♯ ♯ ♯

Kimbell.—Grant Kimbell was soloist at a special musical service given under the direction of Phelps Cowan at the Emanuel Episcopal Church, La Grange, Ill., Sunday last. He also sings in a joint recital December 16, with Miss Jennie Johnson and Clarence Eiden at South Bend, Ind., and in the "Messiah" at Albion, Mich., December 17.

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
IMMANUEL CHURCH
La Grange, Ill.

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Englewood 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Palmer Christian
Concert Organist - Pupils - Coach - Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music. Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone Austin 23973
5704 Washington Boulevard Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av
Phone Normal 1406

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS. RECITALS
PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

PEORIA, ILLINOIS

The following article is copied from the Peoria Star of November 29:

"The Peoria Musical College, 102-104 North Madison avenue, of which Franklin Stead of this city is director, and W. H. Stead of Ottawa, formerly attorney general of Illinois, is president, has purchased the lots at the corner of Madison avenue and Fayette street, diagonally across from the Woman's Club Building. The deal was closed Friday between J. W. McDowell of the Title and Trust Co. and Henry G. Gamber, business manager of the Peoria Musical College.

"Early next spring ground will be broken for a new and modern college building, which will be completed by the middle of July. The cost of the structure will range from $15,000 to $20,000. The building will be 38 feet in width and 80 feet in length and two and one-half stories high. The basement will be three feet below and six feet above grade and will extend under the entire building.

"The exterior of the building will be constructed of vitrified brick with Bedford stone trimmings. The structure will be built along fireproof and soundproof lines and will be up to date in every particular and a credit to Peoria. Plans for the building are now being prepared.

"The building will contain 18 large, well-lighted studios in addition to commodious quarters for the children's department, practice rooms, reception rooms, a business office and a recital hall.

"The stage in the recital hall will accommodate two grand pianos and a pipe organ. The halls, throughout the building, will be eight feet in width, well lighted and provided with ample exits and facilities for safety of students. The main entrance will be on Madison avenue.

"The Peoria Musical College was organized in 1911 and has just entered on its third year. It was successful from the start. It is now recognized as one of the leading musical colleges in central Illinois. Its enrollment has shown a steady growth. During the first year its total enrollment was 109; the second year the enrollment grew to 174 and the present year its enrollment will reach the 300 mark.

"The worth of this college is now recognized, not only in Peoria, but in the surrounding cities, and many students within a radius of sixty miles are receiving instruction at this institution.

"For the first two years Franklin Stead was both director of the college and business manager, but owing to his standing as a teacher of organ and piano, his services were in such demand by pupils that he was compelled to give up the business management and now devotes his entire time to directorship and teaching. Henry G. Gamber of Ottawa took charge of the business department last June and recently became a stockholder in the corporation.

The college has an exceptionally strong faculty composed of sixteen experienced teachers. The personnel of the faculty follows:

Franklin Stead, director, teacher of piano, organ, harmony, counterpoint, composition; Mabel Riggs Stead, piano; Ethel Clara McCune, piano, children's department; Louis M. Baptiste, piano; Mrs. Dudley Chase Chaffee, piano, children's department; Mrs. Bertha F. Todd, piano, children's department; Mrs. Mary Holmes Thompson and Miss Mary Wendell Greene, voice; Sol Cohen, violin, ensemble, musical history; Miss Estelle Van Horne, dramatic art; Mrs. Annie Brown Henniges, public school music; R. Rheaume, clarinet and saxophone; George W. Byers, cornet and trombone; Naomi Lagron, Italian, French and Spanish; Elva Kammann, German; Mrs. Georgia Schoemochker Bailiff, aesthetic dancing and physical culture.

MEXICO, MO.

An event somewhat different from our usual musical entertainments was the concert of Miss Mary Highsmith of Chicago, as the second number on the Hardin College Artist Course, last evening. Miss Highsmith was graduated from this institution, both vocal and piano departments, some years ago, and has since gained an enviable reputation as concert and church singer. She has traveled extensively and has always met with great success.

Miss Highsmith proved herself an artist of the first rank. Her voice is one of great natural beauty and has been well trained. Her singing last night was marked by many admirable qualities, her breath control being excellent and phrasing artistic. The program, including eighteen songs, ranging from Handel and Haydn to Debussy and Strauss, was well calculated to bring forth Miss Highsmith's interpretative abilities. Miss Highsmith won her audience entirely with her very first song, Haydn's "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," which she sang admirably.

In a group of German songs, Strauss' "Heimliche Aufforderung" deserves special mention. The singer showed in this number an abundance of temperament coupled with fine musicianship. A group of French songs added much to the variety of the program. The last part of the program was devoted to English songs, which closed with the effective "Natoma" aria, "I List the Trill in Golden Throat," by Herbert.

The audience was a large and enthusiastic one, Miss Highsmith having to respond to two encores and numerous recalls. The artist was very ably supported at the piano by Mr. Henrik Gjerdrum, of the Hardin Conservatory faculty, who, throughout the entire program showed discretion and excellent taste in his accompaniments.

Kid Chorus—The leader of the chorus at the Presbyterian Church in Woodstock writes to Music News protesting against the word "Juvenile" in a report of the Choir Concert recently given there. She insists that "Kid Choir" is the proper name and that the organization is known by this appellation to everyone in Woodstock.

Fergus Falls—The Handel Oratorio Chorus, Northwestern College, Fergus Falls, Minnesota, of fifty singers, under F. Albert Linder, director, rendered A. R. Gaul's "The Holy City" in the Swedish Lutheran Church, December 5. Local church soloists sang the solos. Mrs. Capitola Billings was the piano accompanist.

OLD HOME MELODIES IN PITTSBURGH

A concert of old home songs was given at the Rittenhouse in Pittsburgh Friday, December 5, by seven of the city's finest musicians. The program, though long, was saved from tedium by the variety of the selections and the distinct temperamental differences of the artists. The entire audience sat in delight to the very end, applauding the latest numbers as enthusiastically as the earlier ones, and demanding encores all through.

Edith Granville Filer, dramatic soprano, possesses a voice of beautiful, bell-like quality and exhilarating freshness of tone. She made much of Molloy's "Kerry Dance." A stage presence of commanding graciousness invested her work with charming dignity.

Gay Donaldson, baritone, who recently left Pittsburgh to accept a position in what is called Rockefeller's church, Cleveland, sang the heroic "Warrior Bold," with admirable dash, sympathetic comprehension of mood and fine tonal effect, passing from bravura to tenderest sentiment with enviable ease and sure art.

Martha S. Steele is a contralto marked by the depth and richness of her tone and the fervor of her temperament. Her entire group was feelingly sung, but her "Sweet Genevieve," especially touched the hearts of all. A vivacious personality relieved the somewhat plaintive character of her selections.

Paul K. Harper, who has for years been so closely associated with Charles Wakefield Cadman in his Indian Music Talk, has a tenor voice of peculiarly mellow, appealing beauty, shown to advantage in his choice of Foster melodies. He closed his group with Troyer's "Zuni Blanket Song," a number always associated with this singer.

Marie Sylvia Derdeyn, a Belgian lyric soprano, sang four old European songs delightfully. "Before the Lace Cushion," was delicate and quaint. "The Nightingale's Passion Song," displayed a wide vocal range and a marvelous trill.

Blanche Garbette Gibson has received honors abroad. She is a violinist of rare ability and true musical instinct. Her rendition of the "Garden Scene from Faust" was a lovely tone picture.

Earle Mitchell is a very young pianist, yet has for years been acknowledged an artistic and inspiring accompanist, traveling often with well known concert artists. His accompanying was excellent and satisfying, as always, and his solo number, the "Rigoletto Fantasia," was received with enthusiastic appreciation.

Duets and quartets varied the program and numerous encores were granted.

———♯♯♯———

Rankl—Miss Monica Frazier, soprano, and Mr. Lorenz Hirschhorn, tenor, pupils of John R. Rankl, recently gave joint recitals in Wausau, Wis., and Oshkosh, Wis., and will give recitals in Omro and Waupun during January.

———♯♯♯———

Beers—Mrs. Huldah Beers, contralto, sang before the Edison Park Woman's Club on Tuesday. Accompaniments were played by Hannah Matteson.

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers
Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants should be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on
KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

ELLA L. MILLS
PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

Ethel Altemus
PIANIST
New York Address 665 Lexington Av.
Personal Representative
FREDERICK CLARK
83 Auditorium Building, Chicago

SOFIA STEPHALI
COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 Accompanist
608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George
Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Jennie F. W. Johnson
Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Preiser Violin School
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director
Phone Austin 4043
STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.

CONCERTS
RECITALS
ORATORIOS
OSCAR SEAGLE
17 Avenue Mozart
Paris (France)
BARITONE
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER
In Paris all Summer
119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
RECITALS CONCERTS
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London
FRANCE
ENGLAND
GERMANY

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO
520 Fine Arts Bldg
Phone Drexel 8183

Esther Plumb
CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3246
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson
Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago, Ill

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

MR.
TENOR
MRS.
DRAMATIC READER
Karl Buren Stein
JOINT RECITALS
55 Auditorium Bldg.
TEACHERS of
SINGING
ELOCUTION
ACTING

FRANK W Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN American Conservatory Kimball Ha

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

DanielProtheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO The Miraflores, 1420 Flower St.
Los Angeles, Cal.

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
14-16 W. Lake Street, Chicago

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

HarrietCase SOPRANO
COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STONE
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

WORCESTER, MASS.

For the first time since jubilee year, the festival has a balance in its favor of $448. At the annual session Thursday, December 4, the following officers were re-elected:

President, William H. Cook; vice president, J. Vernon Butler; secretaary, Harry R. Sinclair; treasurer, Geroge R. Bliss.

Mr. Cook in his report spoke in favor of a large auditorium in order that festivals may be made to pay. He believes festivals can never be put on a paying basis until a hall seating 4,000 or more is supplied. He said for the next year, "The Children's Crusade" (Pierne), would be considered by the program committee, if an auditorium adequate for this work, which requires in addition to the regular chorus a children's chorus of 200 or 300 voices, could be engaged.

The treasurer's report is as follows:

George R. Bliss, treasurer, reported the finances of the association as follows; balance from 1912, $26,060.23; Edward L. Davis bequest of $3,000; income from funds, donations and earnings of festival, $14,828.01; making a total for the year of $43,888.24. Expenses, rent, insurance and festival of 1913, $14,379.66; balance on hand, $29,508.58.

Mr. Cook highly recommended Dr. Arthur Mees, the festival conductor, for his work during the festival.

The report of the committee on the revision of the by-laws was returned to the committee which will report December 19, at an adjourned meeting, at 5 o'clock, in room 3, in Mechanics Building.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Third Steinert Concert

The third concert of the Steinert series was given Sunday evening, November 23, in Mechanics Hall. The artists were Mme. Johanna Gadski, soprano; Miss Marie Caslova, violinist; Mrs. George Harris Jr., tenor.

The fourth and last concert will be Sunday night, December 7, the following artists appearing: Mme. Marie Rappold, soprano; Mr. Herbert Witherspoon, basso; Mr. Felix Fox, pianist.

♮ ♮ ♮

Recital at the Bancroft Hotel

Mrs. John Frederick Donnelly, a local contralto, formerly assistant music supervisor in Worcester public schools, and a member of St. John's Catholic Church Quartet, gave a recital in the ballroom of the Bancroft Hotel Wednesday night, December 3. She was assisted by Arthur J. Hackett, the well-known tenor of Worcester and Boston, whose vocal attainments have been made possible by a splendid natural voice, with Miss Constance Freeman, also of Boston, the accompanist of the evening. Miss Donnelly sang songs from French, Irish and German sources, opera arias, and a duet with Mr. Hackett. The audience was a musically representative one, and thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Second Boston Opera Concert

Monday evening, December 1, Mechanics Hall was the scene of Lina Cavalieri's first appearance in Worcester as a singer. She was assisted in the concert by Ramon Blanchart, baritone; Giuseppe Oppezzo, tenor; Edouard Tournon, pianist, and if other and more capable singers had furnished numbers, the event might have been musically impressive. As it was, however, to at least one in the fair-sized audience, the hour which it took to execute the program was too long, and a cheerful sensation was experienced when the final note of Mme. Cavalieri's aria, "Manon Lescaut," (Puccini), died away, giving an opportunity to retire from the hall. The first appeaarnce in Worcester of Luisa Tetrazzini will be Tuesday evening, January 6, 1914. This will be the third concert of the course.

♮ ♮ ♮

Personals

Friday night, December 5, Mrs. Emily Wardwell Russell, soprano, and for long time a pupil of Wilhelm Heinrich, the noted blind tenor of Boston, sang at a concert in Brockton, Mass. December 16, she will sing before the Woman's Club of Brattleboro, Vt., when she will be assisted by the Boston dancer, Miss Mary Kellogg. She also appears at a concert in Boston, January 26, with George Harris Jr., tenor, and Miss Alice Eldridge, who made her Worcester debut as a pianist, at the recent festival.

"The Nativity," a Christmas cantata, for chorus, solo, and piano, by David Nyvall Jr., formerly of Chicago, now of Johnstown, N. Y., has just been published. Its text is scriptural and the vocal score, melodious and moderately difficult, is well within the compass of ordinary church choirs. An introduction to a solo and chorus of "Unto Us a Child Is Born," in the hands of trained singers, should be interesting and musically effective.

Miss Alice C. Heaphy, pianiste, played Chopin's "Grande Polonaise" at a recital of her pupils in the Day Building Wednesday afternoon, December 3.

Margarite McQuaid, violinist, made her first appearance recently in Boston in a successful program, held at the home of Mme. Achard, 457 Audubon road. Miss McQuaid expects to give another recital soon at the Tuileries.

The first meeting of the Music Club of the Hultman-McQuaid School of Music was held on Friday evening, December 5, when a program was given by Miss Phyllis Lations, pianiste; Miss Blanche Dann, pianiste; Daniel Hult, singer, and Miss Frances Berkowits, violinist. Miss Beatrice Fitzwater, the new elocution teacher, added to the program. A social time followed.

The club's membership is about forty, taken from the different departments of the school. The purpose of the club is to stimulate an interest in concert work.

As Miss Widell, teacher of elocution, has not returned from Europe this winter, Mr. Hultman has engaged in her place Miss Beatrice Fitzwater of Virginia. Miss Fitzwater is a graduate of the Greely School of Elocution and Dramatic Art of Boston, and has been doing concert work the past season throughout New England. She appeared in a complimentary recital with Paul Hultman, pianist, and Miss Hazel Dann, violinist, Saturday evening, December 6, in the club rooms of the school.

LESTER S. BUTLER.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.

The usual round of lessons, recitals, weddings and sundry other busynesses mark off the days and weeks for most of us, with now and then an especially attractive program, or an "extra" pushed in, perchance to help cheer us onward.

At different times the Aeolian Company has done this, to some purpose. For, whilst the pianola does produce "canned" music, it gives us a clean, clear rendering, and under good hands is really very effective. Then, too, the accompanying soloists sent out by this company are usually worthy of more than the mere mention as such.

It has been our good fortune on two occasions to hear Miss Jessie Strauss, violinist, under their auspices; and to join in the hearty and sincere expressions of admiration for her splendid playing. Miss Strauss seems to be verily of the music, and in the instrument. The souls of all three joining, and greeting us as one. Sorry we couldn't have had more of the program from her. And this without a shade of disrespect to Mr. Carl Chamberlain or Miss Iva Irby, soprano, her companions in the last concert, Wednesday, November 26, Y. M. C. A. Hall.

♮ ♮ ♮

The second concert of the Kanawha Musical Society was given at the Burlew Opera House, Friday evening, December 5, when Alice Nielsen appeared in song recital, accompanied by Charles Strong at the piano.

Miss Nielsen presented a varied program, tinged very freely with the works of American writers, albeit chaste, and not injured thereby. She sang to us with charm and abandon, with pathos and exultation, and we lacked not in showing our appreciation and demanding a recall.

♮ ♮ ♮

Charleston Lodge No. 202, B. P. O. E., held its memorial service in Burlew Opera House, Sunday afternoon, December 7, and, as is usual on that annual meeting, the program was replete with music, the Mason Quartet and Elks' Chorus sharing the honors.

♮ ♮ ♮

A special musical service was rendered at St. John's Church, the first Sunday (evening) in the month, consisting of:

Prelude—Andante (from Fourth Symphony)....Widor
Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis.....Harrison
(Service in A flat)
Anthem—"Breast the Wave, Christian".....Shelley
Offertorium—"O Lord, How Manifold Are Thy Works" ..... Barnby
Postlude—Pilgrim's Chorus (Tannhauser).....Wagner

J. HENRY FRANCIS.

———♯♯♯———

Borroff—Raymon Borroff, tenor, will be the soloist at the twenty-second annual Christmas reception, given by the Elmwood School, 5495 Cornell avenue, on Monday evening, December 22. He will sing the "Iroquois Serenade" by Lucas, and the "Maid of Coleraine," by Newcomb. This is the first public appearance of the Chicago basso's son.

———♯♯♯———

Hay—Mr. William G. Hay, bass, sang on Friday evening last at a banquet given by Oak Park Lodge 1295, B. P. O. E., at Masonic Temple, Oak Park.

PROF. BERTRAND DE BERNYZ
VOICE SPECIALIST
also concerts and oratorios in Carnegie Hall & Aeolian Hall.
First teacher of Frieda Hempel, Metropolitan opera star, acknowledged by New York music critics as only successful rival of Mmes. Patti Melba and Sembrich, also teacher of many other eminent concert and operatic artists. Special course in TONE PRODUCTION, INTERPRETATION and OPERATIC ENSEMBLE. Special features: OPERA PERFORMANCES in NEW YORK THEATERS. Information, 58 W. 72nd St., New York City, "The Adrian"

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman
Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

Peoria Musical College
102-104 North Madison Avenue
PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEA ector

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

Julia Culp
Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY MURRISON MABEL
Bass-Baritone Oratorio Concert
JOINT-RECITALS
Pianist Accompanist
Alliance Ohio

Wm. Alfred White
522 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Practical Theory

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC MILWAUKEE, WIS.

MYRTLE Elvyn
RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Kimball Piano Used
Concert Direction M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av. New York

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
"A Lodder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys 50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice 50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO CONCERTS ORATORIO RECITALS
Phone Austin 22712
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT
5943 OHIO STREET

WILLIAM HINSHAW
BARITONE
Of the Metropolitan Opera Company Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

Helene Koelling

Prima Donna
SOPRANO

Montreal Grand Opera Co.

ROSALIE WIRTHLIN
CONTRALTO
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 WEST 34th STREET NEW YORK

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

COLLINS J. BROCK
Basso-Cantante
EUDORA MOODY
SOPRANO
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER
Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

DR. FREDERICK CLARK
VOCAL INSTRUCTION BARITONE
83 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone
BAILEY
JOINT RECITALS—ORATORIO 608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Music in the Public Schools

WILLIAM AP MADOC—Article III.

The suggestion made in the second article that it would be a delightful thing for classes in music to have occasional visits from good soloists, was unexpectedly realized soon after the suggestion was made. It was at the Calumet High School that a charming tenor in the person of Mr. Raymond Williams of Norman, Okla., formerly of Chicago, suddenly appeared and graciously consented to sing a song or two for each of the classes. It was Schubert's "Serenade" for one, and Balfe's "Then You'll Remember Me" for another, both songs given in a voice and with such expression that are far from being common. The pupils were more than pleased, they were edified, and the day to them was a musical red letter day.

On another occasion, at the Curtis High School, Principal Thomas C. Hill, who is a musical enthusiast and a capable and experienced choral and orchestral director, gave an unexpected treat to the music classes by placing a "Victor" on the Assembly Hall stage, and from the "records" the pupils heard the voices of Mesdames Melba and Homer and Signor Caruso in operatic selections.

In this same High School an orchestral association has existed for the last five years, which has a repertoire of over one hundred selections, made by the director, Mr. Hill. Such is the love of the young players for the orchestra that even a number of those who graduated there two and three years ago, continue as members and are always present at the after-school rehearsals. The present orchestra is made up of the following players:

First Violin—Frieda Bethig, Josie Pon, Pearl Nelson, Anna Hardy, Paul Hermann, Stanley Koslowski, Joseph Booton, Albert Swanson, George Beard, Esther Smith, Lister Thomas, Hans Sott.

Second Violin—Helman Carlson, Albert Sietsema, Rebecca Rosenblum, Nina Lamble, Arthur Krieg, Arvid Johnson, Harry Hills.

Flutes—John Baffa, Harold Knudsen.

Clarinet—Sidney Freeman.

Cornet—Fred Freeman, Fred Hills.

Trombone—Lawrence Hill, Roland Higgins.

Drums—Carl Hermann, Clarence Schultz.

Piano—Katie Bettig, Elsa Stengel, Vernon Williams.

♮ ♮ ♮

At the Calumet High School "The Girls' Glee Club" is organized, and directed by Miss Nell Jackson, a graduate of the school, of the University of Chicago, and now a special teacher at the Calumet. The membership is as follows:

Soprano — Newell Mainwaring, Esther Tuoy, Ruth Beardsley, Herta Menzel, Gertrude Beattie, Astrid Peterson.

Mezzo-Soprano — Ebba Strott, Margaret Lindstrom, Zuelma Parnell, Margaret Rook, Bessie Gordon, Lillian Reynolds, Esther Lohse.

First Alto — Beatrice Stryker, Margaret Nash, Helen Turner, Anna Foster, Lillian Ewing.

Second Alto — Philis Krumdick, Olive Turner, Esther Merritt, Goldie Waffle.

These voices have been selected out of the music classes, because of their vocal quality, knowledge of music, and ability to read.

It will interest the Public Schools, and the Public itself, to learn of what is being done musically in some of the British Public Schools. There is a National Union of School Orchestras, with its headquarters in London. In the last June number of the "London School Music Review," an account is given of a May 3 afternoon demonstration made by eighteen young violinists, who had won scholarships provided by the National Union of School Orchestras. This demonstration took place at the Broadwood Galleries, London. The remarks made by Mr. Cyril Cobb, chairman of the London Choral Union, at the close of the entertainment, are worth quoting. Mr. Cobb said in part:

"As a member of this audience, I have greatly enjoyed this charming entertainment, of, which, indeed, the teachers in London undertake these things, and those who have carried them to the height we have heard today, must be very proud. In our Elementary Schools we have made some efforts ourselves of late years to improve the music. . . . . I should like to say a word to the general public, which does not quite understand what we are doing for our children. Rate-payers often ask: "Why teach the children so many different subjects. Why not keep to plain reading, writing and arithmetic?" One of my own constituents (who, of course, ought to be well informed), said to me lately: "What does this mean? I actually see the Council School children walking about with violin cases. Are they really teaching them at the schools to play the violin?" "Yes," I said, "Don't you think it is a good idea?" He answered, "I think it is a most unnecessary expense." "Ah, but it is not being paid for out of the rates." "Oh, that is all right then. It does not matter." But, ladies and gentlemen, I say it does matter. The teaching of any art such as music to our children makes for culture and refinement. School music, therefore, is of national use and national importance, and if it is done well, it not only teaches the children—whether in singing or the violin—better to appreciate good music, but also has a greater and much wider effect upon the bringing up of the child, upon his character, upon his temperament, and the quality and refinement he will show in after life.

——— ♯♯♯ ———

American Conservatory—The Alumni Association of the American Conservatory at a recent meeting elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Emil Ritter; vice president, Mrs. Rowena Gilbert-Miner; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Van Dusen; secretary, Miss Clara Busse. The society is in a flourishing condition.

——— ♯♯♯ ———

Levy—At one of the early recitals of the American Conservatory a new sonata for piano and violin, composed by Heniot Levy, will be presented by the composer and Adolf Weidig. The sonata is dedicated to Leopold Godowsky.

ELEANOR HAZZARD PEOCOCK

Following Is Some Foreign Review of the Work of Mrs. Peocock

Eleanor Hazzard Peocock's classic recitals and "Children's Songs and Stories" scored the finest kind of a success when given abroad, and the critics on leading continental newspapers spoke in terms of superlative praise of her art.

The Berlin "Boersen-Zeitung" wrote: "Eleanor Hazzard Peocock presented a program in many languages in her evening of songs and arias given in Bechstein Saal. It comprised old English, French, Italian and German songs, including several by Schubert, Brahms and Hugo Wolf. Mme. Peocock is a singer who interprets with intelligence and taste and she knows how to round out her offerings with artistry, revealing throughout the cleverness with which she manipulates her soprano voice in a manner indicating no small degree of vocal dexterity. Pergolesi's 'Se tu m'ami' and Mozart's 'Deh Vieni Non Tardar' were very finely presented with much warmth of feeling, and the expressive rendering of Schubert and Brahms songs elicted for the artist marked recognition."

The London "Musical Standard" said: "A striking personality, a beautiful soprano voice, clearness of diction, and command of every gradation of tone should carry this singer far on her way. Very interesting was her performance at Steinway Hall and worthy of a large audience. One feature which made a great impression was her admirable reserve, which enabled her to score a veritable triumph in the difficult recitative and air de Lia from Debussy's 'L'Enfant Prodigue' after singing some dozen numbers, including eight German leider. Mme. Hazzard Peocock appears equally in sympathy with the delicate phases of Mozart, the grace of Schubert, the grandeur of Brahms, and the modernity of Hugo Wolf, whose 'Elfenlied' and 'Die Zigeunerin' were rendered in a remarkable manner. The singer's gift of facial expression enabled her to present some characteristic folk songs with great effect."

"The Pall Mall Gazette" remarked: "One hears singers more liberally endowed by nature, vocally, than Mme. Eleanor Hazzard Peocock, who gave a recital in Steinway Hall yesterday, and yet they cannot make so many artistic effects as does this clever American lady. Her voice is but moderately powerful, but it is used just as the voice should be—that is to say, all the inflections, the coloring, the subtle tone gradations, are manifested with so evident a first consideration of making clear the meaning and musical purport of the song, that the hearer feels satisfied.

The interpretation is the thing which counts in the long run, and there is no doubting Mme. Peocock's ability in this respect. She gives one that rare impression of self-effacement—an effacement that is of the purely physical attributes—hence the spirit is freed and the true personality can come through and give the singing conviction. In the group of German lieder one might single out Schubert's 'Fischerweise' and 'Hark, Hark, the Lark,' Brahms' 'Das Madchen Spricht' and 'Auf dem Kirchhofe,' and Wolf's 'Elfenlied' and 'Die Zigeunerin,' as being instances where her temperament most successfully sympathized with the spirit of the music."

—(Advertisement.)

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 9166)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 66 Rue de Seine
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 61st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorinm Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Anstin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 6171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
SIMMONS Ruth (Oak Park, Ill.) 622 N. Kenilworth Av. (Tel. O. P. 6249)
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4786) 620 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

CLEARY Mary Hester 54 uditorinm Building
PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Mnsic
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 66 Auditorinm Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 3754)
EMANUEL N. B. (Auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus
GINGRICH Irving (Director Choir and Orchestra) Carbon County High School, Price, Utah
RONEY Henry B. (Coach—Boys' Voices) 668 Wellington Av. (Phone Graceland 10301)

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Clarence D. Vo Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

HARPSICHORD

PELTON-JONES Frances (New York) 3 W. 92nd St.

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Mnsic Mansfield, 27 Rue Boisievant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir.) 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
DRIGGS and LE MESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av.
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrnde V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bnrean 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbnckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3836 Flournoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Condnctor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE J. S. (Lecture Recitals) 62 W. 45, New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4840)
CARL Wm. C. 44 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (6th Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5758) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone La Grange 962-R) Immanual Church, La Grange, Ill.
DEAL Alice R. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6219) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4383) 624 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo 2534 Lake Ave.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2866) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (St. Louis) 4417 a LaClede Av., Phone Forest 4763-R
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 2242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Chnrch) Belmont, near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lntheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (546 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sionx City, Ia.
MURDOCK Effie (Res, Phone Midway 1692) American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Chnrch)
SCHERGER George L. 6214 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WEISS Carl J. S. (Phone Graceland 5323) 1601 Cullom Avenue
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E. Church) 4453 North Winchester Av.
ZEUCH Wm. E. (Phone Harrison 7664) 812 FineArts Building

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1364 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
ALTEMUS Ettel (New York) 655 Lexington Avenue
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Mnsic
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia (Concerts - Pupils) 816 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Englewood 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRADFORD Bess Leone (Phone Midway 2372) 716 Fine Arts Building
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Appleton, Wis.) Voecks' Building
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 5065) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUCHHALTER Simon Phone Kenwood 5058) 424 Fine Arts Building
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1162 N. Ashland Avenu
BURNHAM Tbnel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenue
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 64 Auditorinm (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3866 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 27 18th Av.
DANA Lynn B. (Warren, O.) Dana's Mnsical Institute
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.

DOELLING Mae (Concert Pianist) 4141 N. Hermitage Av.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland, Ohio
ERST Stephen Adolph 1553 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.
FARDAHL Anna M. Abroad for season.
2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Studio, 1527 High St.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearborn 6032) 874 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music.
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore School of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7046) 426 Fine Arts Building
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HUNT Emily Parsons (Phone Highland Park 120) 520 Fine Arts Bldg (Mon. and Thurs. P. M.)
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music) 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9206)
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KING Jessie (Studio) 419-59 E. Van Buren Street
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agathe (Pupils, Recitals) 3080 North Halsted St.
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
MATTESON Hannah (Accompanist) Edison Park, Ill.
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Lee and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Louis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich.
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimball Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (University School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (School of Piano Playing) 410 Fenton Bldg., Jamestown, N. Y.
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 415 W. 61st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 367 W. 63rd St.
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolfram St.
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
POTTER Grace Stewart Bush Temple Conservatory
RANN Edith V. (Phone Drexel 4415) 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res. 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Auditorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av. Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715) 6828 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lilian Mary 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THAL Delia (620 Addison St.) 610 Fine Arts Building
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn) 55 Auditorium
VAN KATWIJK Paul (Phone North 2694) 1225 Dearborn Avenue
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservato
WALLACE Evangeline 522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano College
WILFORD J. E. 502 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1616 Mailer's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Col'o (2226 Williams St.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Louisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 726 S. Michigan Aveuue
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8195) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro. New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 5[illegible] S. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 522 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. 235 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2751) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

GILDEMEISTER Louise M. (Phone Graceland 2166) 715 Fine arts Bldg. Sat. afternoons
McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1871) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabeth Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (E. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 509 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 51 Auditorium Bldg
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianoforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 8th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
INTERNATIONAL College of Music 54 Auditorium Bldg.
KNOX Conservatory of Music Wm. F. Bentley, Dir. Galesburg, Ill.
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir.) 309 Kimball Hall
Morningside Conservatory Sionx City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 66 Auditorium Bldg
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W 76th St., New York
VILIM American Violin School 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1516 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art. 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 89th St. and Wentworth Av.

TEACHERS AGENCIES

BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.
ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A.) 522 Fine Arts Bldg. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone North 815) Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Cousuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BINGHAM Mary E. (Joplin, Mo.) 812 Wall Street
BLAAHA Wayne Anton, Phone Wabash 1260 Hadley School of Music, 73 Auditorium Bldg
BRANDER Julius (Phone Edgewater 2755) International College of Music. 54 Auditorium
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Irving 22273) 4 20 Kimball Av.
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COX Mary A. Phone Hyde Park 3562 American Conservatory
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.) North Shore School of Music
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
FISCHEL Max I. 610 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 106 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MICHAELIS Drake School of Music, Chicago Branch, Kankakee, Illinois
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of Music) 4654 Grand Boul.
MUSIN Ovide (Virtuoso) 5 West 76th St., New York
PIZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York,
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 630 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Vilim, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1461 Broadway, New York
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis) 22 S. 10th St.
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

AID Mary Lucas (Soprano) 1514 E Sixty first St. (Tel. Midway 1172)
ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Bass-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 606 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert 6557 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimball Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 625 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEERS Huldah (Contralto) Edison Park, Ill.

BEEBE Agnes Leist
509 Kimball Hall

BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1006)
303 Kimball Hall

BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.)
Northwestern University School of Music

BENEDICT Ethel Geistweit (Phone Austin 5273)
128 N. Lotus Av. (Soprano, Accompanist)

BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist)
6119 Greenwood Ave.

BISPHAM David
44 W. 44th St., New York

BLOEDEL Elsa (Tel. Kilbourne 3378-C)
1247 19th St., Milwaukee

BOHLIN J. P., 61 Auditorium Bldg.
Drake School of Music

BOLLMAN Mande Fenlon
Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.

BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York)
Care Haensel and Jones

BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 6819)
Kimball Hall

BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8620)
4822 Madison Ave.

BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium)
Cosmopolitan School of Music

BRAUN Anna C. (Phone Seeley 2780)
2754 Wilcox Avenue

BREDIN Ellas (Lyric Tenor)
1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.

BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269
Northwestern Unl. School of Music

BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3886)
(Harry Culbertson, Manager)

BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio)
Ohio Wesleyan School of Music

BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth)
7022 Vernon Av.

BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041)
727 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.)
Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau

BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone)
609 Fine Arts Bldg.

BURTON Louise. (Phone Drexel 8183)
620 Fine Arts Building

Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass.
413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.

CASE Harriet
Auditorium Bldg.

CHENEY Mary (New York)
600 Carnegie Hall

CLARK Charles W. (Paris)
12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.

CLARK Dr. Frederick
83 Auditorium Building

CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831)
Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)

CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152
Sherwood Music School

CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone)
Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus, 1908-9-10 11

CLIPPINGER D. A.
410 Kimball Hall

CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher)
721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495

COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho)
Boise Conservatory of Music

COOK John Loring (Tenor)
800 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 6168)

COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913)
4117 W. Harrison st.

CORLEW Mabel (Contralto)
4202 Prairie Ave. (Phone Harrison 973)

CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009)
608 E. 46th Place

CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor)
234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)

DAHLSTROM Margaret
3242 Clifton Ave.

DEEMING Inez Taylor (Evanston, Ill.)
2738 Woodbine Avenue

DEEMING Inez Taylor (Phone Harrison 6457)
2738 Woodbine Avenue, Evanston, Ill.

DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977)
608 Fine Arts Bldg.

Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique
30 Rue Marheuf, Champs Elysees, Paris

DE BERNYZ Bertrand (Studios)
68 W. 72nd, New York

DE SALES Regina (Paris, France)
40 rne de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Bonlogne)

DeYOUNG Richard B.
American Conservatory

DEVRIES Herman
618-628 Fine Arts Building

DOWNING Frederica Gerhardt (Phone Oak Park 1478)
209 S. Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

DUFAU Jennie (Colorature Soprano)
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310
710 South Central Park Avenue

FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio)
H. B. Turpin, Manager

FARNUM Mrs. Frank
3369 Warren Ave.

FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante)
149 Tremont St., Boston

FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Harrison 3895)
63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 408)

FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg
6906 Ontario St. (Contralto)

FRIDENBERG Ahbie L. (New York)
Studio 110 Carnegie Hall

FRISBIE Constance (Soprano)
6142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)

GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4782)
318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.

GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886)
3435 Flournoy St.

GANNON Rose Lutiger
716 Kimball Hall

GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone)
413 Kimball Hall

GREGORY Heathe (Phone Kenwood 53)
616 E. 49th Street

GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory)
Chicago Address, 622 Kimball Hall

GROW Ethel (Phone North 2636)
1002 Dearborn Av.

GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art)
623 Fine Arts Bldg

HADLEY Grant (Tenor)
Suite 73 Auditorium Building

HAIGHT Irma (Los Angeles)
The Miraflores—1420 Flower St.

HALL William John (St. Louis)
Musical Art Building

HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497)
423 Fine Arts Bldg.

HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher)
72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.

HAMILTON Jessie Mack (Phone Ravenswood 325)
5067 Winthrop Av.

HARRIS Milon R.
403 Kimball Hall

HARTHAN-ARENDT Else (Phone Normal 1406)
care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawnsale Ave.)
Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)

HERDIEN Mabel Sharp
6132 Kenmore Ave.

HEUCHLING Mathilde
712 Fine Arts Building

HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923)
5422 Ellis Avenue

HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano)
1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)

HINKLE Florence (Soprano)
294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)

HINSHAW William Wade (New York)
Metropolitan Opera Company

HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003)
6th Floor, Kimball Hall

HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson)
304 Kimball Hall

HOLT George Nelson
509 S. Wabash Ave.

HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544)
Auditorium Bldg.

HOPKINS Hamilton
710 Fine Arts Bldg.

HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano)
3800 Broadway, New York

HOSTLER Eleanor Capps (Phone Austin 13737)
6836 Washington Blvd.

Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland)
Tudor Mansions, 3615 Pine Grove Av.

HUGHES T. Francis
75 Auditorium Building

HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante)
South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.

HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880
608 Fine Arts Building

HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund
Alliance, Ohio

HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267)
601 Kimball Hall

IREDALE Bertha Smart (Phone Englewood 8887)
357 W. 63rd st.

JOHNS Ethelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131)
6463 Kimbark Av.

JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 5104)
4937 Michigan Ave.

JONES A. H. (Tenor)
509 Kimball Hall

KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8619)
4433 Racine Avenue

KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201)
523 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)

KIMBELL Grant (Tenor)
6418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831

KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.)
University School of Music

LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774)
1376 East 54th Street

LASH De Witt Durgin (Phone Harrison 5365)
420 Fine Arts Bldg

LAYFIELD Mabel B. (Phone, Wenthworth 2082)
7111 Normal Av.

LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6830)
6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1

LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335)
4460 Berkeley Av.

LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto)
1311 E. 53rd St.

LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola
3814 Ellis Avenue

LUND Rene S. (Baritone)
2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6802)

LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J)
1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.

LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder)
Drake School of Music

MacBURNEY Thomas
609 Fine Arts Building

MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3060)
3422 Fulton Street

McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439)
3620 Parnell Av.

MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E.
616 Fine Arts Bldg.

MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France)
27 rue Boislevant

MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 661)
2459 Jackson Boul.

MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402)
6256 Berteau Av.

MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.)
209 Wesley Av.

MILLER Christine
1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

MILLER Herbert
716 Fine Arts Bldg

MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn)
1. W. 34th St., New York

MILLER John B. (Tenor)
Chicago Musical College

MOSHER L. Drew
137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.

MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone)
1166 Belmon Ave

MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles)
446 W. 40th Place

MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest
3122) River Forest, Ill.

MULREY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist
47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.

MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4677
300 Athenaeum Bldg.

MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano)
4902 Friendship Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.

MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano)
5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)

MURRISON Harry K.
Alliance, Ohio.

NARELLE Marie (New York)
110 Carnegie Hall

NAZOR Naomi (Phone Midway 7122)
1215 E. 63rd Street

NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano
Plymouth, Ind.

NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199)
237 North Howard Av., Austin Sta.

NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York)
330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)

NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5508)
4137 Drexel Blvd.

OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute)
303 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 5919)

OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147)
2112 Washington Blvd.

PANGBOURNE Annette (Phone Harrison 2313)
519 Kimball Hall

PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England)
Care L. G. Sharpe, 61 Reg S

PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto)
Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.

PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.)
Toledo Musical College

PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3248)
4173 Lake Av.

POTTER Mildred (Contraito)
Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.)
Winona School of Music

PROTHEROE Daniel
610 Fine Arts Bldg.

RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880)
609 Fine Arts Building

RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 6782)
1738 Humboldt Boulevard

RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor)
Barre Plains, Mass.

RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513
413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av

REED Esta Asher (Soprano)
14 West Lake Street

REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165)
6627 Indiana Av.

REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg)
202 Nixon Building

RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.)
Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.

RIHELDAFFER Graco Hall
6318 Burenfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa

ROBBINS Edith Luclie (11th and R sts.)
University School of Music, Lincoln Neb.

ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting)
1372 E. 62nd St.

ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877)
7206 Stewart Ave.

RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto)
Principal Liederhelm, Auburndale, Mass.

RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 9265)
719 Fine Arts Bldg.

RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448)
3100 Lexington St.

SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing
201 Clarendon St., Boston

SCHWARTZ Cora (soprano)
401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.

Schwickerath Jos. A. (Musical Director)
54 Auditorium Bldg. (Tel. Lincoln 4521)

SCHUSTER Katherine
71 Auditorium Bldg.

SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York)
Wolfsohn Bureau

SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 469)
408 Kimball Hall.

SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner)
St. James Bldg., New York

SHELP Dr. H. Wm.
726 Fine Arts Bldg.

SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor)
616 Kimball Hall

SLACK Arthur R (Phone Evanston 4706)
1823 Wesley Avenue, Evanston, Ill.

SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano)
4055 Michigan Av.

SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano)
6523 St. Lawrence Av.

SMIDT Mable Corlew (Phone Austin 22712)
5943 Ohio St.

SMITH Lyla L. (Phone Albany 10069)
Studio 3200 Logan Boul.

SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173)
625 Madison St., Gary, Ind.

SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano)
Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio

SPOONER Philip (New York)
205 W. 57th St.

STEELE Mary Hinman
603 Kimball Hall

STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh)
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.

STONE Frank (Tenor)
304 Kimball Hall

STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48)
4439 Calumet Av.

STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 877)
65 Auditorium Building

STEPHALI Sofia (Phone Midway 6912)
6106 Kimbark Av.

STEVENSON Lucille
4438 Berkeley Avenue

STRIBLEN Louise Mathews (Phone Drexel 4923)
1134 E. 47th St.

STULTS Walter A. (Evanston)
Northwestern University School of Music

TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L.
Lewis Institute, Phone West 793

THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano)
Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill.

THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2082)
620 Fine Arts Building

TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3766
Bush Temple Conservatory

TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor)
813 La Salle Av.

TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949)
404 Kimball Hall

VER HAAR Elona Swanson (Tel. W. Pullman 157)
11204 Michigan Avenue

VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799)
6611 Woodlawn Av.

WAIT Barbara (Phone Midway 2380)
428 Fine Arts Building

WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958)
1325 E. 64th St.

WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Austin 23973)
5704 Washington Boulevard

WATSON Ruth Swing
1225 E. 62nd St.

WEAVER Iva Bigelow
Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.

WEBSTER Frank B.
719 Kimball Hall

WEGENER Mme. Justine
Bush Temple Conservatory

WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone)
61 Auditorium Bldg.

WESTERVELT Louise St. John (Phone North 1408)
Columbia School of Music

WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 5646)
Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal

WHEELER Beatrice
Chicago Grand Opera Co.

WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 E 34th St., New York

WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 16
728 Fine Arts Bldg.

WILCOX John C. (Teacher)
Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo

WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio)
616 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS Dr. Carver
Auditorium Bldg

WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey
406 Kimball Hall

WILLIAMS H. Evan
Akron, Ohio

WIRTHLIN Rosalie (Wolfsohn)
1 W. 34th St., New York

WORTHINGTON Jullan (Phone Midway
6107 Woodlawn Av.

WYCOFF Eva Emmet
500 W. 143rd, New York

ZENDT Marie Sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778)
(1140 E. 44th St)

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Chicago, Dec 2, 1912

My Dear Mr. Lemicki:

I am commencing my third private season with my "Ideal" Hamlin as my closest & most constant companion & I have found it to be the only piano made which is always & unfailingly in perfect pitch & unbounded for beauty of tone.

Very sincerely yours,

Carolina White

Carolina White
writes of the
Mason & Hamlin

Cable Piano Company
DISTRIBUTORS

Wabash and Jackson

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

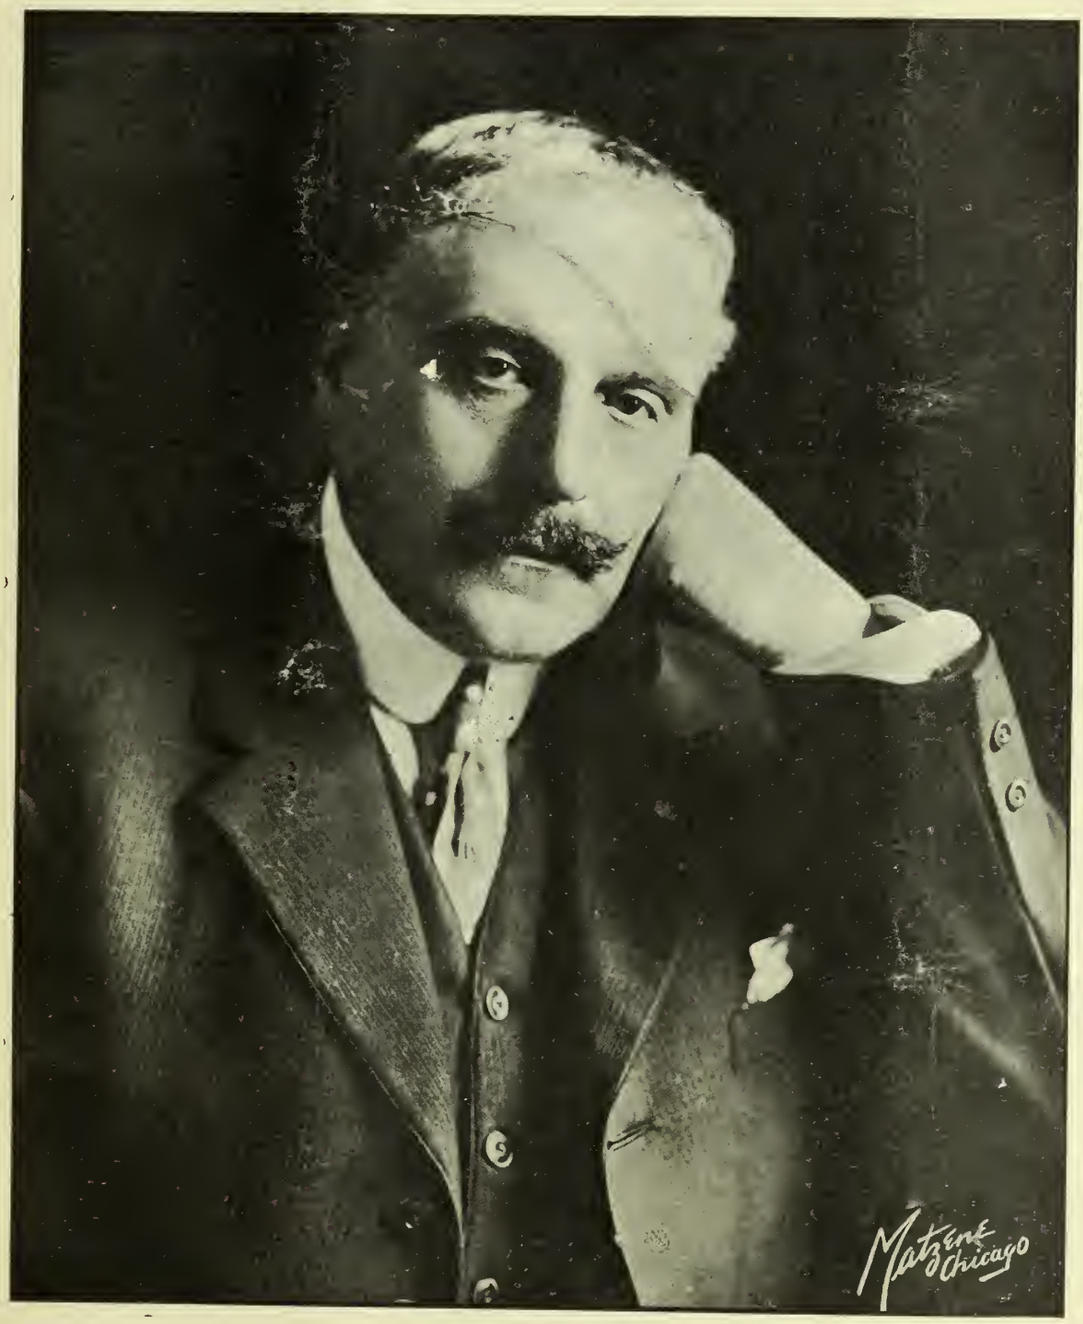
Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

LARGEST BONA FIDE CIRCULATION OF ANY MUSIC JOURNAL IN THE WEST

TEN CENTS A COPY
TWO DOLLARS A YEAR

Music News



HERMAN DEVRIES

CHICAGO, AMERICA

DECEMBER 26, 1913

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
Evanston-Chicago

The University School of Music offers courses in Piano, Organ, Violin, Voice and Theory of Music leading to academic degrees. Also courses in Public School Music, and Piano and Voice Pedagogy. Literary studies in the College of Liberal Arts or Evanston Academy included without extra cost. Thorough Preparatory School maintained. Refined social environment and beautiful situation on the wooded shores of Lake Michigan.

The professional String Quartet, the student Symphony Orchestra of sixty, the A Cappella Choir, the Evanston Musical Club, and the great North Shore Musical Festivals with choruses totaling over 2,000 voices offer unparalleled practical advantages.

Send for detailed description of courses and book of Evanston views.

Peter Christian Lutkin, Dean
Evanston, Illinois

Anna Groff - Bryant
Studios of Vocal Art
Ethel Bell Reeves Assistant
606 Fine Arts Building Chicago, Ill.
Phone Wabash 1051

The Musicians' Piano Tuner
Rudolph W. Lingenberg
Concert and Studio Work a Specialty
639 Postal Tel. Building Phone Harrison 2161

COMPOSITIONS
CELESTE D. HECKSCHER
ORCHESTRAL, VOCAL, ETC.
Novello Edition, N. Y.

LYCEUM ARTS CONSERVATORY
522-526 FINE ARTS BUILDING, CHICAGO
A thorough training offered in musical and dramatic art. Companies organized and placed. Catalog mailed on request.
Address: KATE JORDAN HEWETT Sec

Epigrams and Sayings for Young Musicians
by Horace D. Hitchcock
A pleasing gift book for anyone. Unique and original. The Evening Sun of Baltimore says:
"Mr. Hitchcock's work is more sayings than epigrams, for the author seldom sacrifices a sound truth for a pretty phrase, and that very fact increases their helpfulness to the student of music, for they offer him indubitable wisdom in serious and dignified form."
For sale by Broadway Publishing Co., New York
Bound in cerise cloth, 75 cents Postpaid.

MASON'S
"Scales-Keys" Booklet
Invaluable to every music student and teacher.
Mail edition 30 cents postpaid (silver).
J. S. COOGAN, Dept. M. N., Paterson, N. J.

Bergey
CHICAGO OPERA SCHOOL
Voice Piano
430-431 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Harrison 1595

Music News

CHARLES E. WATT, Editor and Publisher

Published Every Friday at 522 Kimball Hall, Chicago. Tel. Harrison 7169

Entered as Second-Class matter November 24, 1908, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1879

CHICAGO, DECEMBER 26, 1913.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS
United States, per year, postpaid.....$2.00
Foreign, per year, postpaid..... 3.00
Single Copies, 10 Cents

On failure to receive The Music News regularly subscribers should notify the office promptly.

Copies of the paper for sale at the news counter of Lyon and Healy's Gamble Hinged Company and Summy's music stores; or may be ordered through any of our correspondents in other cities.

Advertising rate card will be sent on application.

Changes in advertisements must be ordered one week in advance.

All cuts made for advertisers are charged to their accounts.

Frances Bowser and Herbert Bailey
Business Representatives

LIST OF CORRESPONDENTS

NEW YORK
Abbie S. Fridenberg
110 Carnegie Hall
For sale at Brentano's, 27th st. and 5th av.

BOSTON
Lester S. Butler
Steinert Hall

ST. LOUIS
Mrs Elmer E. Froman
5825 Nina Place

PITTSBURGH
Catherine Elston
University of Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI
L. Drew Mosher
137 W. Fourth av.
On sale Geo. B. Jennings
105 Fourth av. W.

CLEVELAND
George Emerson
616 The Arcade

INDIANAPOLIS
Gaylord Yost
Indianapolis Cons.

ATLANTA, GA.
W. H. Hartley
307 Candler bldg.

DENVER
R. Jefferson Hall,
St. Mark's Church

KANSAS CITY, MO.
Miss Jo. Shipley Watson
4414 Main st.

WICHITA, KAN.
Ralph Brokaw

WORCESTER, MASS.
Lester S. Butler
441 Day bldg.

GRAND RAPIDS
Louis McKay
2 Nelson place

MILWAUKEE
Iva Bigelow Weaver
Mack block
Frank E. Percival

TOLEDO, OHIO
Toledo Musical College

LINCOLN, NEB.
Sidney Silber
Univ. School of Music

NASHVILLE, TENN.
C. J. Schubert
Schubert Cons. of Music

LOS ANGELES, CAL.
S. W. Mountz
446 W. 40th place

ERIE, PA.
Albert H. Dowling Jr.
456 E. Seventh st.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.
J. Henry Francis
St. John's Church

WASHINGTON
Horace D. Hitchcock
2224 F st., N. W.

LONDON, ENGLAND
George Cecil
46A Penywexa Road
Earls Court, S. W.

PARIS, FRANCE
May Mansfield-Boulet
27 rue Boislevant

DRESDEN, GERMANY
Anna Ingman
Franklinstrasse 20

Papers on sale
J. Ries' Music Store
Seestrasse 21

GEORGE W. MUNRO
Voice Specialist
Tel. Harrison 4577 59 E. VAN BUREN ST.
Pupils fitted for Church, Recital, Concert, Oratorio, and Opera.
Four thoroughly equipped assistants. Pupils booked at any time.
Mr. Munro Tests all Voices and Supervises all Work.

All the Leading Artists
Are Featuring
Palmer John Clark's
New Song
Someday, Sometime
Published in four keys
Low in Eb | Med. low in F | Med. high in G | High in Ab
For Sale Everywhere
GAMBLE HINGED MUSIC CO.
CHICAGO

Harmony and Counterpoint, by Mail if Desired
Critic and Special Writer Musical Mss. Edited
LESTER S. BUTLER
TEACHER OF SINGING
Boston and Worcester Critic and Correspondent of Music News. Steinert Hall, Boston, Mass.
Day Building, Worcester, Mass.
Compositions and Arrangements
A Sigh (medium voice) - - - .50—27
Dear Girl with the Dreamy Eyes - .50—27
Twilight Hour - - - - .30—17
Missionary Call (mixed quartet) - - .05
Brotherhood Hymn (male quartet) - .06
The Darkey's Lullaby (male quartet) - .15
Inner Voice Waltz (Piano) J. W. Black .30—17
All the compositions here listed are musically melodious. Obtained of the advertiser or at music stores.

Languages
The Berlitz School of Languages.
Auditorium, Congress St. Entrance
Telephone Harrison 392
All Languages by Superior Native Teachers
Terms Reasonable. Trial Lessons Free
Private Lessons and Classes School or Residence
400 BRANCHES IN ALL COUNTRIES

Voices Made Beautiful
Our new book tells how to transform weak, tuneless voices into beauty, sweetness, power, birdlike trill. Falsetto to pure tenor. Robust health. Price, $1.00. Lessons by correspondence.
Mme. Girard, 818 E. 51st St., Chicago, Ill.

Music News

Vol. 5 Chicago, December 26, 1913 No. 52.

Editorial

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Music News wishes all its readers a Merry Christmas and a Very Happy New Year.

MUSIC FOR ALL THE PEOPLE

Much has been said about the musical development of Chicago during the past quarter of a century and indeed so wonderful has this development been that, without any stretch of the imagination, this city may be classed as among the very great music centers of the world.

However, not much had been done toward providing music for the people who could not afford regular opera and concert prices until within the past few years, and it is with a view of showing what has been done along that line recently that a little investigation has been made by Music News.

The Apollo Club and the Mendelssohn Club have in the past few years given quite a few concerts for the direct benefit of the citizens in the less fashionable quarters of the city and the Northwestern University has also had a hand in this work, Dean Lutkin having repeatedly brought the singers of the Evanston Choral Society to South Halsted street to sing the "Messiah" at Hull House.

The Amateur Club—long favorably commented upon for its great work in providing a scholarship fund to educate certain talented young Chicagoans, has also made it a practice of paying young artists to appear before various clubs and institutions where there was no possibility of engaging them direct, the Amateur Club defraying this expense out of its fund for the purpose.

Two other factors are actively at work to provide good music for the masses, either free or at purely nominal cost.

Three years ago a committee from the Chicago Woman's Club was appointed to collaborate with the Art Institute in an effort to make that institution more fully a meeting place for the general public, especially on Sundays, and not only is it possible now to view the art treasures there free on Sundays, but also a light supper is furnished at purely nominal cost each Sunday evening and there are fine concerts both afternoon and evening at a very small price of admission to Fullerton Hall, in the institute.

The concert of the afternoon, inaugurated three years ago, is given by Chicago Symphony men under the direction of Walfried Singer, and these, from the beginning, have been so popular that twice during the afternoon of each Sunday the program is given to capacity houses and even then at times hundreds are turned away.

The success of these purely orchestral concerts encouraged an extension of the plan this year and Mrs. John B. Sherwood, as head of the committee from the Chicago Woman's Club, has evolved a new idea, and with the assistance of many interested people, is bringing it to pronounced success.

This consists of opera evenings, when, on each Sunday an opera is explained at Fullerton Hall by Miss Henriette Weber, an enthusiast on the subject, and extracts from the opera are presented by Mr. Franz Itte, violinist, and other players, as also, each evening, a specially selected vocal soloist.

These affairs are now in the hey-day of a great popular success and will be continued indefinitely, no doubt.

Still another factor most actively at work is the Civic Music Association of Chicago, of which Mrs. George B. Carpenter is president, and Miss Frances F. Brundage, the most capable superintendent.

This association has this winter inaugurated an elaborate and very important series of concerts in the field houses of the various parks of the city.

The following letter was written for Music News by an officer of this association and explains the work in detail:

What "Civic Music" Means

The Civic Music Association is organized to promote city music, Chicago music—music "of the people, for the people, by the people" of Chicago.

Music "of Chicago people" means the music of the world, for probably no other city can boast of so many nationalities within its limits as this great city of ours. Have we realized the great wealth of musical tradition, understanding and creative talent that lies waiting for encouragement in these foreign settlements of ours? We may not understand German, Bohemian, Russian, Italian, Norwegian, but we do understand the languages of Bach, Schumann, Schubert, Dvorak, Tschaikowsky, Verdi and Grieg, and these foreign-born citizens of ours speak this same language and long to hear it in their daily lives. Do you doubt it? Watch the Italian group at Seward Park when an excellent orchestra plays the march from "Aida" or a group of Italian folk songs. Witness the intense joy at Dvorak Park when a group of Dvorak songs are beautifully sung. Share the racial and religious fervor of an audience at Mark White Square when the Paulist Choir sings. Learn that all over Chicago groups of Germans, Poles, Swedes, Danes and Irish are active in the organization of choral clubs, making great sacrifices to pay the small dues for competent directors that the music of their native land may live in their hearts and be a factor in the education of their children. The music "of the people" is the best music of all nations and of all ages.

Music "for the people." Certainly Chicago has music for the people. All the art world knows of our unexcelled Symphony Orchestra, and do we not have ten weeks of opera, brilliantly produced; do we not point with pride to many excellent

Valparaiso Music College
Department of
Valparaiso University
Second Largest University in the United States
VALPARAISO, IND.

The Music Department in its new building is thoroughly equipped for giving the highest grade of instructions.

Private Practice Rooms, Studios, Recital Hall, etc. More than 70 pianos in daily use.

The teachers are all artists, having been educated in the best schools in America and Europe.

While the very best advantages are given, yet the expenses are the lowest. Tuition for 22 piano or voice lessons, 22 harmony lessons, 3 practice hours daily, a lesson in notation daily, together with the privilege of taking chorus work, recitals, etc., $35.50 for a term of 12 weeks. This same tuition also admits the student to any studies in the Literary Department of the school. Board and furnished room, $1.70 to $2.75 per week.

Catalog giving full particulars mailed free. Address

H. B. BROWN, President
OR O. P. Kinsey, Vice-President

Students may enter at any time.

HAYDN GUNTER
SOLO VIOLINIST
Welsh Internatianal Festival
MUNCIE, IND. NEW YORK

CONSTANCE FRISBIE
SOPRANO
Drawing Room Recitals - Concert - Pupils
5142 Madison Avenue

EDITH SHAW BROWN
PIANIST
8556 Aberdeen St. 620 Fine Arts Building

FRANCES CAREY LIBBE
CONTRALTO
Phone Drexel 4335 4460 Berkeley Avenue

L. DOUGLAS RUSSELL
TEACHER OF SINGING
STUDIO 719 FINE ARTS BUILDING

CHARLES EDWIN LUTTON
BASSO-CANTANTE
Mgr. Music Dept. Clark Teachers' Agency
416 Steinway Bldg. Phone Harrison 496
Management Charles E. Watt Phone Evanston 3475-J

Mrs. Edward B. Summers
VOICE CULTURE AND TONE PRODUCTION
METHOD OF DELLE SEDIE
Studio, Room 6, Monarch Bldg. KEOKUK, IOWA

ESTELLE L. RUSSELL
The Art of Singing
81 Auditorium—Monday and Thursday
Res. Studio—3100 Lexington St. Phone Garfield 844

J. EDWARD LOEBER
VIOLINIST
TEACHER
RECITALS
Musicales
3533 W. MONROE ST Phone Kedzie 651

Richard B. DeYoung
Baritone
TEACHER of SINGING
American Conservatory
Kimball Hall

choral societies; do we not boast of four or five perfect programs given each Sunday by the famous artists of the world? Yes, those to whom the Michigan avenue concert halls are possible are richly provided for, but what of the thousands who love music no less because the price of a ticket is prohibitive? What of the thousands who might pay for the ticket but whose home duties make the trip to the heart of the city impossible—mothers who cannot leave the Sunday meal unprepared, who cannot leave the little children alone in the evening? Nowhere in Chicago are there better concert halls than those of the small parks and playgrounds. Scattered as they are throughout the city, they provide ideal centers for music in the various communities—no long car rides, no car fare, only a few moments' walk, and the weary toiler is seated in a bright airy hall listening to the best talent Chicago affords. Groups of young girls and boys soon learn that there is another way to spend Sunday afternoon than in loitering about the streets or going to the "movies." Music "for the people" must be for ALL the people—the same music, distributed impartially to all localities.

Music "by the people." Again we mean ALL the people. We claim Chicago to be the musical center of America, and justly so. Ours is a proud list of resident artists, a list too long to include in this article,—distinguished men and women who have made our art life what it is through years of earnest work, and those who have come more recently, attracted by the congenial atmosphere and the possibilities in the musical field. The many excellent music schools and private teachers of international reputation attract thousands of students, many with rare talent who will soon be ranked as professionals. Professional and amateur musicians are united in choral and orchestral groups, doing work of exceptionally high order. Music of all kinds is available, from the more intimate recital programs to orchestral and oratorio concerts. Chicago musicians are not only artists, they are big-hearted, generous men and women, as well.

Given, an eager public, halls suitable for concerts, and available musicians, the need is for an organization that can unite these factors in a practical working plan and this need is being met by the Civic Music Association. The movement was inaugurated last spring and now has the following officers and directors: Mrs. George B. Carpenter, president; Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, first vice president; Mr. John C. Shaffer, second vice president; Mr. Charles L. Allen, secretary; Mr. John S. Smulski, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Jerome, chairman of the executive committee; Miss Frances F. Brundage, superintendent; Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Miss Dora Allen, Mr. Harold F. McCormick, Mr. Edward B. DeGroot, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dixon, Miss Virginia Pope, Mrs. Burton Hanson, Mrs. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler, Mrs. Edward E. Reininger, Mr. Francis T. Simons, Judge John Barton Payne, Mr. William Rehm, Mr Charles H. Wacker.

Too much cannot be said of the tireless efforts of those who have perfected the organization. Hours of time and the rich experience of years in civic and music work have been contributed by the men and women constituting the directorate.

The association has been made possible through the generosity of three classes of people:

Those who have given money.
Those who have given talent.
Those who have given time.

The present park ruling prevents any charge for admission to the field houses, therefore the work of the association is entirely dependent upon the contributions of public-spirited citizens. Did you experience intense joy at the opera this week, or find the Symphony program unusually satisfying? A two-dollar membership fee (less than the price of your seat) sent to the Civic Music Association will make it possible for fifty or sixty people to hear a concert equally inspiring to them.

Make all checks payable to the Civic Music Association and address them to 539 Fine Arts Building.

. . . . . .

Music News has nothing but praise to offer for all of this splendid work of the various factors enumerated above and hereby pledges itself to assist in every possible way to further these matters by all available publicity.

There is but one point on which caution need be urged and that is the question of reimbursement of the artists employed. Whenever a choral society appears, as they frequently do, no remuneration is possible or perhaps desirable, unless it be expense of transportation, but, no soloist should be asked by any one of these agencies to appear without pay; this pay should perhaps, very properly, be somewhat less than in other environment and under other circumstances, but nevertheless, the principle of payment to all artists should be absolute.

The municipality is the proper place to look for funds to cover the work of the Civic Association undoubtedly, and that is a matter which will work out satisfactorily in time, but unless it does, the money to pay for all concerts given should be contributed from sources which can afford the

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Direction
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 W. 34th St., New York
In America Continuously until June, 1914. Dates Booking for Season, 1913-14.
Steinway Piano Used

outlay. Musicians themselves cannot possibly afford to give of their time.

This is offered only as a caution, for, as matter of fact the artists have been paid at the Art Institute, and by the Amateur Club. In the case of the Civic Association they have also been paid in most cases and the question is one that is under active discussion.

MUSIC TEACHERS NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

The Music Teachers National Association meets in Cincinnati, Ohio, on next Monday, December 29, and continues through Thursday, January 1.

The program, as outlined in Music News two weeks ago, is one of the very greatest importance and the indications are that this meeting will be the most generally attended for many years.

The officers of the association for the current year are: President, Charles H. Farnsworth, Teacher's College, New York; vice president, Allen Spencer, American Conservatory, Chicago; secretary, J. Lawrence Erb, 543 Arlington place, Chicago; treasurer, Waldo S. Pratt, 86 Gillett street, Hartford, Conn.

The editor of Music News will attend the meeting at Cincinnati and expects to write a complete review of the varicus sessions.

The meetings will all be held at the Cincinnati College of Music and all enquiries about accommodations, etc., should be addressed to Arnold J. Gantvoort, care the Cincinnati College of Music. The opening session takes the form of a general reception on Monday evening.

THE INTERNATIONAL

The International Magazine in its Musical Number (December) prints a long article on "Schoenberg and Chicago," most of the material for which is culled from a recent issue of Music News. No mention is made of this in the article, however.

Edwards.—Knowing the need of more organs in Chicago to be used for the purposes of lessons and practice, Mr. C. W. Edwards, always alert to build up his Illinois College of Music at 2831 Washington boulevard, has just installed a new organ in the college rooms. Miss Marie Edwards is announced as a teacher of organ and opportunities for practice can also be secured.

Music in Chicago

A RECEPTION TO LEONCAVALLO

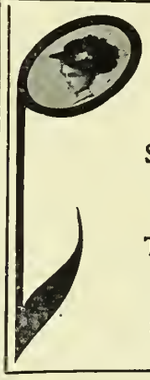
Mme. Carolina White and Sig. Amedeo Bassi invited fifty guests to meet Sig. Leoncavallo at a midnight dinner on Friday after the sensationally successful performance of the new opera "Zingari."

The company was made up of stars from the opera and newspaper critics, and a delightful affair resulted.

There was no formal speech making but Sig. Cleofonte Campanini, general director of the Chicago Grand Opera made an impromptu address in which he complimented the artists of the company as well as Sig. Leoncavallo on the immense success of the evening and, informally, he suggested that Leoncavallo should next write an opera especially for Chicago and her opera company.

Sig. Leoncavallo replied to this most poetically and said in substance that he would be more than glad to write an opera for Chicago and the artists here and that when he did so he would certainly do his very best, or freely translating his Italian expressions, that he would put into it "the best of his Life, his Blood, his Heart and his Mind."

This sentiment and promise were most enthusiastically applauded by every one at the table and many toasts were proposed to the distinguished guest of honor as well as to Campanini and the artists who had so beautifully read the parts in the Leoncavallo operas.



EFFA ELLIS
Constructive
Music Book, $1.50
Special Introductory Price
65 Cents
TO TEACHERS ONLY
ADDRESS
Effa Ellis Music School
205 BOSTON STORE BUILDING
OMAHA, NEBRASKA

James.—May Rosella James, soprano, sang in Gaul's "Holy City" on Thanksgiving night and on last Monday evening gave a recital at the Cook County Hospital. On January 3 she sings at the Ladies' Day banquet of the Irish Fellowship club.

SCHUMANN-HEINK AT ORCHESTRA HALL

On Sunday afternoon Mme. Schumann-Heink appeared at Orchestra Hall in conjunction with the Paulist Choristers and scored a great personal triumph and an artistic success.

The choristers and their distinguished director, Father Finn, gave a splendidly arranged and presented program of Christmas carols, and the program was further enriched by the addition of Gustav Huberdeau of the opera.

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK

CHARLES E. LIVENGOOD

Charles E. Livengood, who has at his command an excellent bass-baritone voice and possesses an equally good personality, is achieving splendid success in his concert and church engagements. In the past few weeks Mr. Livengood has sung the bass solos in Gaul's oratorio, "The Holy City," at the Fullerton Avenue M. E. Church; has filled vacancies at the Second Baptist, Rogers Park Baptist and St. Paul's Episcopal churches. He is now singing at the Forty-first Street Presbyterian Church. Mr. Livengood is of the kind that will soon make himself known in the music profession, and he owes much of his success to his present teacher and coach, Grant Kimball.

Lucy Hartman
CONTRALTO Oratorio—Recital—Church
2422 S. LAWNDALE AVENUE

MR. and MRS.
Herman Devries
Voice Production
Preparation for Oratorio, Opera and Concert in English, French, German and Italian
Studios, 518-528 Fine Arts Building, CHICAGO
Public Recitals by Pupils—Fine Arts Theater
Opera Performances by Pupils—Studebaker Theater

CECIL FANNING Baritone
H. B. TURPIN Accompanist
Having returned from a year of concert giving in Germany, Italy and England, are
Available for Recitals in America after Sept. 1st, 1913
Address: H. B. TURPIN; Dayton, Ohio

ROBERT LOUIS BARRON
VIOLINIST 226 E. ONTARIO ST.

MAGNUS FLORENCE R. RUDOLPH E.
Tone Production Preparation for Song Recital, Oratorio and Grand Opera. 616 Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

MRS. CHARLES ROBBINS
SOPRANO
Teaching Choral Conducting Recitals
Residence and Studio 1372 E. 52nd St. Phone Hyde Park 194

Carl M. Beecher
Piano - - Composition
Northwestern University School of Music Evanston Ill.

GertrudeConsueloBates
SOLOIST VIOLINIST TEACHER
309 E. 41st St. Chicago - - Phone Drexel 2849

Elizabeth Lay Soprano
Alfred - - NEWMAN
Baritone
Joint Recitals Oratorio
North Howard Avenue - AUSTIN—CHICAGO

Edith Kramer STERN Coloratura Soprano
Management HARRY CULBERTSON

AL MEDA WADHAMS—Pianiste
COACHING - ENSEMBLE - ACCOMPANYING A SPECIALTY
Music Critics Say: Miss Wadhams is one of the few accompanists whose proficiency especially in the art of interpretation not only supports but inspires-makes not mars-the soloist, enabling him to bring out his best. 1246 N. CLARK ST. Tel. North 4579

PERMELIA GALE
CONTRALTO
ORATORIO RECITAL CONCERT
Management Alma Voedisch. 3838 Wilton Ave., Chicago

DEWITT DURGIN
TENOR LASH
420 Fine Arts Bldg

BETHANY UNION CHURCH

Mr. William Griswold Smith, director of music at Bethany Union Church, One Hundred and Third and Wood streets, presented to an audience of fair size on Tuesday evening, December 16, the oratorio, "Holy City," by Gaul, sung by a combined choir chorus of eighty voices, and assisted by an excellent array of soloists, which included Mary Stephenson Atwood, soprano; Jean Wilson, contralto; Edward Walker, tenor, and J. Lakin Porter, bass, with Frank M. Bronson furnishing very satisfactory accompanniments.

Mr. Smith proved to be a most admirable conductor, capable of bringing from his force of singers most splendid results. The chorus entered into the reading of the oratorio with more enthusiasm than when heard on a previous occasion, and a feeling of true sincerity appeared throughout the whole work. Mrs. Atwood received well-earned applause for her singing of the one aria allotted to the soprano. Miss Wilson, in the contralto solos, was very satisfactory, as was Mr. Porter in the bass solos. His singing of "Thus Saith the Lord," with responses from the "Holy Quartet," was very artistic and effective. Mr. Walker raised the tenor solos to a high point of perfection, singing with beautiful tone and expression. His addition to the evening's work proved to be a wise and valuable choice and was one of the delightful parts of the evening's entertainment.

H. M. B.

A WOLF RECITAL

Credit has been given many times to Mr. MacBurney and his pupils for the extraordinary care taken in selection of studio programs, and for the immense amount of research which has made their novelty programs possible.

No one who has ever sung at these functions, however, deserves more credit than Mr. John R. Rankl and Mr. William Lester for the program they gave last Monday evening, devoted wholly to Hugo Wolf.

The two names are coupled purposely, and the credit must be shared alike, for difficult as is the vocal score of Wolf the piano accompaniment is no less in any case, and the complete picture is obtained only through absolutely flawless work both by the singer and at the piano.

This was supplied in full measure on Monday by both the artists. The program was printed in full in the last issue of Music News and its preservation is suggested as it certainly represents an immense amount of work in the choosing of what would be absolutely best for a recital by the baritone voice.

Mr. Rankl proved himself at this time a remarkable young artist. Not only is his voice good, but the intelligence displayed, and the ease of presentment of the tricky scores was remarkable.

Mr. Lester, accustomed to all sorts of difficult tasks and also to praise for their successful performance, may rest assured that he has never appeared to greater advantage than at this time.

Interpretatively the program, presenting many moods and pictures, was a delight.

C. E. W.

CHRISTINE MILLER IN "THE MESSIAH"

On December 26 and 27, Christine Miller will sing in "The Messiah" with the New York Oratorio Society for the seventh and eighth consecutive time in this work with this society. The Boston Handel and Haydn Society has also engaged Miss Miller for this work on the 22nd, her second appearance under their auspices in "The Messiah" and on the 18th she sings this same Christmas oratorio in Sewickley. With Mr. Charles Heinroth, Miss Miller will present a "Handel and Bach" program before the Pittsburgh Art Society on the 19th, this being the third joint appearance of these artists before this society.

Miss Miller has just returned from a series of triumphs throughout Texas and Alabama. The following brief excerpts speak of her success in Birmingham:

Birmingham Ledger: "Miss Miller was heard last spring in this city, and won instant approval. Since that time there has been a desire in the minds of music lovers for a return engagement, which was gratified last night. The gods were most generous in dealing out favors to Miss Miller. It was not enough to endow her with a rare talent, but they gave her in addition grace of figure, beauty of face and charm of manner which tend to heighten the value of her exquisite voice. It is contralto in quality, but has a wide range. The two groups of songs she presented gave ample opportunity to show her versatility."

Age-Herald: "Miss Miller was a feature of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra concerts here last spring. She has a beautiful sympathetic voice and uses it only as one thoroughly trained in vocalization could. Miss Miller was warmly received on her former appearance in Birmingham, but even greater enthusiasm was manifested last night. Miss Miller has a captivating stage presence." (Advertisement.)

MUSIC AT CURTIS HIGH SCHOOL

It was a happy idea that caused Principal Thomas C. Hill to close the last day of school before vacation by calling the High School classes to come together into assembly hall last Friday, where his orchestra of twenty-four members had prepared a delightful program, and on this occasion Mrs. C. H. English of Roseland brought her bass viol to join the orchestra in the following numbers, which were applauded to the echo by teachers and pupils:

March, "Echoes of Seville" ..... Moret
"Grand Potpourri" ..... Schlepegrell
A Group of German Songs by Miss Prentiss's Class
Overture to "Barber of Seville" ..... Rossini
March, "Civic Pride" ..... Panella
Chorus "Handel's Hallelujah," led by Mr. Pease
Potpourri, "Around the Christmas Tree," air by.... Tobani
March, "Lincoln Centennial" ..... Sandford

No sooner had this program been finished than the grade children begged "to have a program, too," and Principal Hill could not deny them. It was a most interesting sight to see the little ones almost running in and filling all the seats. As the program proceeded, the little ones showed their delight by splendid attention and the most enthusiastic applause. "Verily, verily," remarked a visitor, "Roseland must be a musical town."

ONE OF THE BOYS.

HANDEL ORATORIO SOCIETY

The First Methodist Church of River Forest held a splendid audience that was bubbling over with enthusiasm and appreciation, on Friday evening, December 19, when the Handel Oratorio Society of Austin and Chicago presented "The Messiah" with the following soloists: Sibyl Sammis MacDermid, soprano; Esther D. Muenstermann, contralto; Elias Bredin, tenor, and Arthur Middleton, bass; Ida Belle Freeman was the conductor, with Ethel Geistweit Benedict at the organ, and Lillian Grant at the piano. The society contains within its ranks about sixty voices, all of whom are most willing to give of their best at each performance, and this was truly shown throughout the giving of "The Messiah" on last Friday night. Each of the chorus numbers as given deserves high praise, but special mention must be made of the two choruses, "Glory to God" and "Lift Up Your Heads." In their reading of these numbers a true feeling of the inner meanings of this great work was experienced and there was more spirit, better blending of tone and excellent expression shown. Mrs. Mac Dermid was most cordially received by the audience, and she well deserved such tribute, for her vocal display in the "Rejoice Greatly" was, indeed, delightful, and her interpretation of the beautiful aria "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" glowed with beauty of tone and a sincere regard for the text. Miss Muenstermann gave an excellent account of herself on this occasion and proved again the fact that she is well fitted for this style of singing, as did Mr. Bredin in the work for tenor. His opening recitative and aria, "Comfort Ye" and "Every Valley" was where his best work was done, singing with absolute poise, splendid command of the breath, and carrying a true inspiration. As is so well known, Mr. Middleton is a delightful addition to any performance of "The Messiah," and this fact was no less so at this rendition. The bass solos were carried to the same high plane as always attained by Mr. Middleton. This society is, indeed, fortunate in having as director a person of such capabilities as Ida Belle Freeman. She is a most graceful conductor and keeps her forces well in hand at all times.

Much credit is due Mrs. Benedict for her tireless and splendid work at the organ, giving both chorus and soloists the best of accompaniments, and in her playing of the Overture and Pastoral Symphony she drew from the organ many beautiful orchestral effects. H. M. B.

———♯♯♯———

COLUMBIA SCHOOL OF MUSIC

At the reception given by the public school music department of the Columbia School of Music, on Saturday afternoon, December 13, Mrs. Julia Ensign Warren entertained the guests with several songs, among them "Petites Roses" by Cesek, "Waldensamkeit" by Reger, Needham's "Irish Lullaby," "Non Petit Coeur" by Wekerlin, and "Lenz" by Hildach.

Mrs. Warren has a wonderfully bell-like tone that is very pleasing, and her refined interpretation is a delight.

CHARLES WAKEFIELD CADMAN AT MUSICIANS CLUB

The reception tendered to Charles Wakefield Cadman by the Musicians' Club, at its rooms, 62 West Forty-fifth street, last Wednesday afternoon was very successful, the rooms being crowded by hundreds of the members and other musicians from 3 to 6 o'clock. Vice President John Lloyd Thomas was in charge of the reception, which always means that things have to go right. Mrs. Anna Zeigler assisted in the introductions. The musical program was in charge of Mrs. Julian Edwards and Miss Flora Hardie. Through the influence of Mr. Thomas, the famous Welsh "Gwent Glee Club" was present and sang several selections, being rapturously applauded after every number. Miss Warfel of Lancaster, Pa., played very delightfully several harp solos. Several of Mr. Cadman's songs were sung by Mrs. Edith Hallett Frank and Marie Morrisey, a very talented pupil of Mme. Ziegler's, Miss Love. The composer accompanied on the piano all these singers. Dan Beddoe, the well-known tenor, sang "Lend Me Your Aid" and the "Prize Song." Mr. Cadman was called on for a speech and responded, thanking the club for this brilliant reception, and stating that he was delighted to be a member of an organization that was already known to the musicians from Maine to California. He outlined the plans for the congress for American music at the San Francisco Fair in 1915. Mr. Thomas called on Tali Esen Morgan for a few remarks, stating that now that he had resumed his activities in the club that success was assured. Mr. Morgan outlined some of his plans for a new clubhouse with all club features. He wanted to see a thousand new members secured within the next month. Mr. Morgan was heartily applauded.

This was the most successful gathering of the club membership for a long time, and great enthusiasm was manifested by everybody present. The need of such an organization among the musicians was never made more plain, for under no other conditions could such a reception be held.

———♯♯♯———

THE CARRENO RECITAL

Mme. Tereso Carreno will make her first public appearance after an absence of several years at The Studebaker, next Sunday afternoon, December 28, under the direction of F. Wight Neumann. This remarkable artist looks back over a career of nearly half a century and at sixty still plays with the physical vigor and spiritual beauty that have made her art admired throughout the world. Mme. Carreno stands today as the last representative of the great age of piano playing that produced Liszt and Rubinstein. Her program is as follows:

Chromatic Fantaisie and Fugue ..... Bach
Sonata quasi una Fantasia, Op. 27, No. 2 ..... Beethoven
Adagio, Allegretto, Presto Con Fuoco
Nocturne, B major, Op. 9
Fantaisie Impromptu, C minor, Op. 66
Waltz, A flat, Op. 42 ..... Chopin
Ballade, G minor, Op. 23
Variations and Fugue on a theme by Handel ..... Brahms
Impromptu, Op. 90, No. 3 ..... Schubert
Hexentanz ..... MacDowell
Marche Militaire ..... Schubert-Tausig

MARVIN HINSHAW
TEACHER OF SINGING
Director Voice Department Hinshaw Conservatory
6th Floor Kimball Hall Harrison 2003

MAX R. WALD
PIANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
Studio 520 Fine Arts Bldg.

The Hadley School of Music
Suite 73 Auditorium Building Phone Wabash 1260
GRANT HADLEY Director

LILLIAN Mac LEISH
SOPRANO TEACHING
3422 Fulton Street

ABIGAIL M. RAYMER
SOPRANO
1738 Humboldt Boul. Phone Belmont 6782
In Europe, 1912-13; Chicago, September, 1913-14

BLISS SCHOOL OF MUSIC
JENNIE MAUD BLISS, Director
234 N. Kenilworth Av., Oak Park, Ill. Phone Oak Park 690
FACULTY—Edwin Schneider, Anna M. Thompson, Piano; Permelia Gale, Clara Page Ongawa, Voice; Day Williams, 'Cello; Ethel Robinson, Dramatic Art.

Tina Mae Haines
Teacher, Coach
Lectures, Recitals
4503 Woodlawn Avenue

MINNIE CEDARGREEN
VIOLIN
1962 Leland Av. Phone Ravenswood 141

Mrs. Chas. Orchard
Accompanist and Teacher of Piano, with Cosmopolitan School
9th Floor Auditorium Kenwood Studio, 1535 Hyde Park Blvd

MABEL WOODWORTH
VIOLINIST American Conservatory
Phone Kedzie 7937

Kurt Wanieck
PIANIST
AMERICAN CONSERVATORY

LOLA BUCKINGHAM
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
CONCERT - ORATORIO
Sole management HARRY CULBERTSON

MELBA MAE FRENCH
Soprano Soloist, Violinist, Reader, Pianist
CONCERTS RECITALS RECEPTIONS
Residence 4123 Ellis Av. Telephone Oakland 4365

Alice Ione Cramer
SOPRANO
508 E. 46th Place Phone Drexel 7009

MAE Doelling
Pianist
Teacher
4141 N. Hermitage Av

ELSA BLOEDEL
CONTRALTO
Concerts - Oratorio - Recitals
Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee, Wis.

Chicago Piano College
(Piano-Musicianship)
Harmon H. Watt, Eleanor F. Godfrey, Directors
Kimball Hall, Chicago, Illinois

The following Artists of The Chicago Grand Opera Company can be engaged for CONCERTS, RECITALS, "AT HOMES," ETC.

Address: JULIUS DAIBER Auditorium Theater, Chicago

JENNY DUFAU SOPRANO Chicago Grand Opera Co.

Beatrice Wheeler CONTRALTO Chicago Grand Opera Co

WHITEHILL BARITONE

Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Opera Companies

ANNA GROFF-BRYANT

Mrs. Anna Groff-Bryant, lately added to the faculty of the Lombard College at Galesburg, Ill., is making a pronounced success at that institution.

Following is some comment on the work of two of her pupils:

"Mr. Homer De Witt Pugh, who came from Chicago to lead the tenor part in the cantata, sang the solo, 'The Lord Is the Life of My Salvation.' He possesses a beautiful, sweet, clear tenor voice that is most unusual. He sings with a confidence that is the result of years of careful study. Somehow he takes right hold of the hearts of his hearers—partly because of the personality of the man himself, as well as of the message he sings, for the words and the music of the song become very real to him. His enunciation was perfect, every word being distinct and clear cut. It is the opinion of a good many who are competent to judge that Mr. Pugh is the greatest tenor ever heard in this city. Of all the solos he sang while in Evansville, the one given Sunday night, 'Open the Gates of the Temple,' was probably the most appreciated. When he concluded the solo every one felt they had been listening to that which was truly great."—Evansville Review.

"Mrs. Lillian McKinney has a marvelous lyric soprano voice—clear and sweet as a bell. She is a dainty slip of a girl, with pretty, graceful presence. She resembles a canary bird just poised for flight as she faces her audience, golden-haired and singing without the least effort, her high tones clear and true, trilling the bird notes and enthralling the guests. She is the best soprano ever heard in the Birchwood Club."—From the North Shore News. (Advertisement.)

———♯♯♯———

Fallon.—Miss Rose Fallon, contralto, has returned to Chicago after a six weeks' trip through the South with the Thaviu Operatic Company.

MYRTLE ELVYN IN CHICAGO

Miss Myrtle Elvyn appeared in piano recital at the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone Hotel, on Monday morning, and again demonstated all those distinguished qualities which made her work so notable in a recital recently reviewed in Music News. Her reception by the audience was unusually cordial.

MYRTLE ELVYN

———♯♯♯———

Gannon.—Mrs. Rose Lutiger Gannon has many important bookings for the near future. She will be the contralto soloist for the Apollo Club "Messiah" performances at Orchestra Hall on December 29, and at the Auditorium on January 2. On December 30 she appears in the Harvester Choral Society concert at Orchestra Hall, January 8, in "Messiah," at Kenosha, and on the 9th in a recital at Wheaton, Ill.

HERMAN DEVRIES

Mr. Herman Devries, whose friends and patrons in Chicago and the country at large are legion, and whose studio is the especial Mecca of students who wish to study for opera, is known everywhere as a coach with the most intimate acquaintance with the entire operatic repertoire as well as a vocal teacher of excellent methods and one who invariably accomplishes much with his pupils.

Mr. Devries, during his operatic career, was a tremendous favorite both in Europe and America and made splendid successes in many roles, notably Mephistopheles in "Faust," Capulet in "Romeo and Juliet," Plunkett in "Martha," Basilio in "The Barber of Seville," Sparafucile in "Rigoletto," and St. Bris in "The Huguenots."

The following short comment is taken from the Chicago Record-Herald:

"Although Mozart's 'Don Giovanni' was made known to Chicago at a comparatively early period of the city's musical existence—it was first given here in 1859—the work has been heard so rarely of late years that a production of it presented by Mr. Campanini and the Chicago Opera Company at the Auditorium last evening took on almost the character of a novelty.

"At least one performance of the opera was offered to its patrons by the Castle Square Opera Company in the days when that popular organization occupied the Studebaker Theater, but the last great interpretation of 'Don Giovanni' took place at the Auditorium in November, 1899. In it Mmes. Sembrich, Nordica and Clementine de Vere, Edouard de Reszke, Salignac and Herman Devries sang and played, and Mancinelli directed the whole. There were giants in those days—the giants are less gigantic now."

Mr. and Mrs. Devries will present their pupils in a concert at the Fine Arts Theater on Monday evening, December 29.

———♯♯♯———

JENNY DUFAU IN "THE BARBER"

The Chicago Inter-Ocean comments as follows on the work of Jenny Dufau in "The Barber of Seville:"

"Miss Dufau made memorable return to the fold. The old-timers did not recall a performance more brilliant technically than her's since Adelina Patti's triumphs here. Her arch comedy enlivened the performance, but her interpretation's greatest aspect was its musical side. During the lesson scene she introduced the 'Mignon' polonaise and was obliged to add an encore."

The Philadelphia "Ledger" says:

"She delivered the famous 'Una Voce Poca Fa' with much charm, but she was even better in the 'Io Sono Docile,' which follows immediately and which is one of the loveliest bits of the opera.

"In the famous 'lesson scene' she interpolated Luigi Arditi's 'Un Bacio' (A Kiss), and for an encore 'The Last Rose of Summer,' sung in English.

Jenny Dufau's Rosina was dainty and effective, elegant and full of life, and her interpretation had sprightliness and piquant archness throughout. Rosinas are frequently too old to look this capital part. The young and pretty Rosina aroused the audience to a high degree of enthusiasm."

(Advertisement.)

Thomas N. MacBurney

Baritone

Voice Production
Three years assistant to King Clark

Song Recitals

608-609 Fine Arts Bldg. Chicago

Phone Harrison 6880

AN INTERVIEW WITH AMEDEO BASSI

Amedeo Bassi, the popular dramatic tenor of the Chicago Opera Company, despite his repeated triumphs is very sad these days. So is Mme. Bassi, his very charming wife, here with him during the season.

Over in sunny Italy three little Bassi boys are quite as lonesome for the father and mother, in America, at this happy Christmas time, though they already understand that father is a great artist and that he cannot remain always at home. Ugo and Mario, the two eldest, are at their studies and will choose each a profession. Not so the youngest, Walter. who plainly inherits a great musical gift from his father. This little lad, though but six years old, is possessed of the real temperament; also he is no respecter of time, place or persons. When he is inspired—or, one might say, inclined to break forth in song, he does so,

AMEDEO BASSI
In "Figli de Ri"

this generally occurring in class or during study time, quite to the delight of the other youngsters and to the amazement of his teachers. And this little man can give, most accurately as to text, parts of such operas as "Pagliacci," "The Girl of the Golden West," and others in imitation of his father, whose great admirer is the baby musician.

Bassi, the tenor, likewise had his talent from his father, who was a remarkable pianist and who supervised the early musical education of the son, Amedeo. Marquise Pavesi, in Florence, was the sole cultivator of Bassi's voice, though later, for repertoire, Lombardi was in charge. Bassi began his career as a light lyric tenor. To this time he has sung about sixty-five roles, the greatest number claimed by any tenor on the operatic stage here or abroad. And he has been singing but ten years. However, during this time many honors have been accorded him, among others that of being the personal guest of the Czar of Russia; and of having been decorated by the King of Italy, before whom he was commanded to sing. His fame having reached even South America, Sig. Bassi appeared in "Aida" in the magnificent theater Colon at Buenos Aires, in 1908, where he was accorded an ovation.

Naturally, such great success has been attended by (in plain English) hard work. Like a few of the greater stars of the Chicago Opera Company, Sig. Bassi practices many hours each week, not a small part of two hours each day being devoted to just technic. Perhaps the most tedious to him of his work is the studying of the English roles. As an Italian, naturally Sig. Bassi finds the hardness of the language most trying. particularly the usual unfitness of the texts used in translations of operas and which, as David Bispham asserts, are too frequently the efforts of mere music copyists.

The accompanying picture, published for the first time in Chicago, represents Bassi in the leading role of "Figli de Ri," an opera in which he was very successful abroad.

F. B.

Cook—Mr. Dwight Edrus Cook appeared on Monday night in "The Messiah" at Boise, Idaho, in connection with the Boise Choral Society, under direction of Mr. Westbrook, teacher of music in the Boise high schools.

New First Church—Harker's "Star of Bethlehem" will be sung at the New First Congregational Church on next Sunday evening by the choir and soloists.

Widerhirn.—John Widerhirn, a young Chicago pianist, was the soloist at the Boeppler concert at the North Side Turner hall on last Sunday.

Cosmopolitan School of Music and Dramatic Art
AUDITORIUM BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL. Mrs. W. S. Bracken, President
Offers teachers of authority in all branches. Unrivalled advantages in its Theoretical Department.

Bertha Beeman Contralto - Teacher of Voice
Northwestern University School of Music, Evanston

Peoria Musical College 102-104 North Madison Avenue PEORIA, ILLINOIS
Opens September 11 Strong Faculty Excellent Equipment
For Catalog Address FRANKLIN L. STEAD, Director

AAGE FREDERICKS
VIOLINIST
WESTERN CONCERT MANAGEMENT
Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago
Representative—MR. FREDERICK A. TOLHURST
106 Central Park West NEW YORK CITY

Julia Culp Management of Antonia Sawyer
Penn., Ohio and Middle West - Catherine Elston
Edgewood Park - - Pittsburgh, Pa.

HARRY Bass-Baritone Oratorio Concert
MURRISON
JOINT-RECITALS
MABEL Pianist Accompanist
Alliance Ohio

Wm. Alfred White 522 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Practical Theory

Frank Olin Thompson
PIANIST
WISCONSIN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC MILWAUKEE, WIS.

MYRTLE Elvyn RENOWNED AMERICAN PIANISTE
Kimball Piano Used
Now Booking for American Tour 1913-1914
Concert Direction M. H. HANSON, 437 Fifth Av. New York

NEW SONGS BY HELENA BINGHAM
"A Ladder of Clover Bloom" 2 keys 50
"How I Love Thee" For Medium Voice 50
Beatitudes (Medium) .60; Rock Him to Sleep (Medium) .50
At all music stores. Published by Illinois Music Co., Chicago

FREDERICA GERHARDT DOWNING
CONTRALTO
Oratorio - Concert - Recital
209 South Harvey Av. Oak Park, Ill., Phone O. P. 1478

John Loring Cook LYRIC TENOR
TEACHER OF VOICE
300 STEINWAY HALL Phone Harrison 5186

The Compositions for Violin and Piano by
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Are played by World Famous Violinists
For Sale by All Music Dealers

ROSALIE WIRTHLIN
CONTRALTO
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau
1 WEST 34th STREET NEW YORK

Arthur P. Thomas
CONCERT PIANIST AND TEACHER
Lawrence Conservatory Appleton, Wisconsin

OLGA LEAMAN
Teaching SOPRANO Concerts
6450 Woodlawn Av. (1st Apt.) Phone Harrison 6880

Martha S. STEELE
CONTRALTO
Oratorio Recitals Concerts
Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Ehrhardt EDWARD V.
CONCERT PIANIST
Mang't. Harry Culbertson

COLLINS J.
Basso-Cantante
EUDORA MOODY BROCK
SOPRANO Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
Delaware, Ohio

Herbert Edmund HUTCHINSON
VOICE TEACHER Director Mt. Union-Scio College Conservatory Alliance, Ohio

MRS. WILLIE M. SLOAN
LYRIC SOPRANO
Open for Concert Engagements 6523 St. Lawrence Av.

Chicago College of Music
ESTHER HARRIS, President
All Branches Musical and Dramatic Art
Catalog on Application KIMBALL HALL

DR. FREDERICK CLARK
VOCAL INSTRUCTION BARITONE
83 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO

CARDON V. BURNHAM
CONCERT BARITONE RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building

WENGERD Conductor
Baritone Recitals
Voice Production
61 Auditorium Bldg.

SILVIO SCIONTI
PIANIST KIMBALL HALL

ANNA AGNES Soprano
HERBERT M. Baritone BAILEY
609 Fine Arts Bldg.

"MESSIAH" AT EVANSTON

The echoes of the great "Messiah" performance at the May festival still ring in the ears of singers and auditors in Evanston. For the one, the echoes incite to continued endeavor to hold the standard then reached. For the other, there is increased appreciation. Therefore this year's Christmas presentation took on new values.

The work was given on the 18th, Thursday, at the First Methodist Church, Mr. Peter C. Lutkin, as usual, conducting. The evident esteem for him by his forces was also reflected in the attitude of the audience. If any man deserves well of his community, Dean Lutkin does. And the friendly, cordial, almost intimate atmosphere indicated how fully the man and his work were identified with the community life and rated at a high ethical figure.

By reason of the church architecture, the singers were placed in unsual position, the women's voices for the most part being in the side galleries, while the men crowded into the choir loft, with the orchestra placed on the main floor. Contrary to expectation, this resulted in an unusual clarity for the principal choruses. All the fugal working out came forth with brilliant decision and steadiness, the rhythms were well defined and there was no tonal faltering. Only in the "Lift Up Your Heads" was there a lack of cohesion; and at another time this could be remedied by a more free use of the organ as a binding factor, as was evidenced in the "Hallelujah," when there was a superb solidity and vitality throughout. The various choirs were in splendid fettle and the sturdy old choruses rang out, or ran on endlessly, with a fine vigor and elasticity, reaching a high water mark in the "Surely He hath Borne Our Griefs." More suavity in the orchestra was rightly to be expected, since the Thomas men are supposed to know "The Messiah" backward and forward. Whenever the organ was used there was a distinct elixir infused. Mrs. Katherine Howard Ward was the player, and every note had a strength and character which enhanced the moments when the organ was heard. Mrs. Ward's assistance was uniquely valuable.

To Mrs. Mabel Sharp Herdien were assigned the soprano arias. Her voice carries with it a sense of purity and serenity. There is never any hint of doubt, but an absolute poise which creates satisfaction from the start. She elected to accent the dramatic side of the text and made very brilliant indeed the "Rejoice Greatly," by the liquid ease with which its elaborate fioriture was delivered. Her popularity with the audience was unquestioned. Mrs. Permelia Gale did in the finest sort of way the contralto parts. Her voice is one of great natural beauty, warm and rich in the lower register and clear and vibrant in the upper tones. Particularly well done was the "He Shall Feed." There was an attitude of unaffected sincerity and simplicity in this which gave it renewed interest. Her interpretative sense is genuine and colors beautifully what she undertakes. Mr. Gustaf Holmquist gave to the bass solos the quiet dignity which comes from complete confidence in one's own resources. His voice obeys him readily. It is big and sonorous, but ever polite and mellow when required. The audience seemed to like the "Why Do the Nations" immensely, but there was a notable rendering also to Mr. Holmquist's credit of "The People that Walked in Darkness." Mr. Alfred D. Shaw, once a familiar figure in local musical affairs, made a successful re-appearance in the tenor solos. He was in capital voice and did them excellently.

The oratorio closed, as is now the custom, with the "Hallelujah." But the work is still too long. What further to cut out is a problem. ALBERT COTSWORTH.

———###———

MARIE SIDENIUS ZENDT

The following comment of the local press shows the success attained by Mrs. Zendt with the Chicago Sing Verein:

"The vocal soloist was Marie Sidenius Zendt, a technically well trained singer with a very pleasing voice. Her high tones are especially fine and strong. Mrs. Zendt sings with true musical feeling and spirit. Her rendition of the aria 'Der Freischutz' was splendid; also 'Ein Traum' (Grieg) and 'Der Spielmann' were sung with spirit and were very satisfactory."—The Abendpost, December 17.

"Mrs. Zendt combines a splendid soprano voice with an excellent pronunciation and a highly pleasing appearance. Gifted with these qualities, she took her audience by storm, as was shown in the applause that followed every one of her songs."—Zee-Haatszelitung.

"Marie Sidenius Zendt sang the aria from 'Der Freischutz' with appreciation and much beauty of tone. Everything she does is well thought-out and her fresh voice brilliant high notes and distinct enunciation make her an enjoyable artist."—Chicago Evening Post. (Advertisement.)

———###———

THE WALTER SPRY MUSIC SCHOOL

William Beard on December 20 gave the last of a series of lecture-recitals during the month of December, his subject being the German song. Mr. Beard is an authority on the subject and his lecture on Schubert was inspiring and instructive. Later in the season Mr. Beard will lecture on the modern English and American song.

During January Mr. Spry will give a series of three lecture-recitals on the following subjects: January 10, "Lechetizky Principles of Piano Playing;" January 17, "Reminiscences of Hearing Brahms, Rubinstein and Saint-Saens;" January 24, "Contemporary Masters of Piano Playing—Busoni, Godowsky and Bauer."

These recitals take place Saturday afternoons at 2:30 in the studio of the school.

———###———

STEIN CONSERVATORY

Madame Josephine Hatlanek, formerly premier danseuse with the Grand Opera ballet of Vienna, Paris, Madrid and all the great European capitals, who has been teaching operatic toe dancing with great success at the Stein Conservatory, has recently organized a class in the technique of modern ball room dancing and many enthusiastic students are taking advantage of this unusual opportunity for correct artistic work.

CIVIC MUSIC ASSOCIATION

The Civic Music Association of Chicago has just sent out its first report, which reads as follows:

The Civic Music Association of Chicago was granted a charter last spring by the state of Illinois.

Chicago's unequaled playgrounds with their splendidly equipped field houses offer exceptional advantages for permanently extending musical privileges to those who now have little or no opportunity to hear good music.

These assembly halls seat from 300 to 600 people. The present park ruling prevents any charge for admission, consequently the necessity for funds is apparent. We beg to call your attention to a detailed plan for the winter's work.

The following concerts have been given:

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1913

Hamlin Park, Hoyne and Wellington streets; Association of Commerce Glee Club; Arthur Dunham, director.

Ogden Park, Sixty-fifth and Centre avenue; St. Peter's Church Choir; Herbert Hyde, choirmaster.

Eckhart Park, Chicago avenue and Noble street; Commonwealth Edison Orchestra; Sibyl Sammis MacDermid, soloist.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1913

Sherman Park, Fifty-second and Loomis streets; Hyde Park Choral Club and Orchestra; Mrs. E. E. Robbins; Mr. Arthur Dunham, conductors.

Seward Park, Elm and Sedgwick streets; Illinois Theater Orchestra; Antonio Frosolono, conductor; Mrs. Myer S. Emrich, soloist.

Dvorak Park; Juvenile Bank of the Chicago Home for Jewish Orphans; Jessie L. Zeman, soloist.

Each of these programs was enthusiastically received, the combined attendance on each day numbering more than a thousand people.

Plans for the winter include a series of six artist recitals at Sherman Park, beginning November 16, and ending December 21; a series of eight each at one north and one west park, and others of the seventeen available parks will be provided with programs by the following organizations:

The Apollo Club
Marshall Field Chorus
Harvester Chorus
Columbia School Chorus
Mendelssohn Club
Paulist Choir
Palmer Park Chorus and Orchestra.
American Conservatory Orchestra.
St. Paul's Church Choir.
Association of Commerce Glee Club.
A Cappella Choir of Northwestern University.

The entire success of the Civic Music Association depends upon the hearty co-operation of the public in contributions of talent and money. Through the generosity of the local artists and organizations the musical resources are practically unlimited; a corresponding generosity in membership fees and larger cash subscriptions will make possible the realization of the broadest plans of the association, which include:

1. Organization of local committees to co-operate in arranging and managing musical entertainments at each center.
2. Organization of neighborhood choral and orchestral clubs at each center.
3. Lecture recitals.
4. Opportunities for young artists to make their initial appearances.
5. Production of works of resident composers.
6. Production of distinctively American music.
7. Annual musical festivals, bringing together the local groups.

CIVIC ASSOCIATION CONCERT

American composers were represented on both programs given Sunday by the Civic Music Association. At Sherman Park Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Butler played Rossetter G. Cole's sonata for violin and piano.

At Hamlin Park the Columbia School Chorus, conducted by Louise St. John Westervelt, sang "Night in the Forest" by A. Cyril Graham. This chorus is taken from the cantata, "The Poet and Dryad," libretto by Mrs. Harriet Edgarton, music by Mr. Graham. The cantata was given last summer as part of the MacDowell pageant at Peterborough, N. H., when Mr. Graham conducted the chorus and orchestra and Mrs. Edgarton was a guest of honor.

Barron.—Robert Barron, violinist, is at home in Chicago for the holidays after a three months' concert trip through the West, having appeared in Denver, Kansas City, Salt Lake City and many other places. He leaves shortly after New Years to fulfill another four months' engagement.

"MESSIAH" AT ST. PETER'S

The annual performance of the "Messiah," under the direction of Mr. Herbert Hyde, was given before a filled church on Wednesday evening, the 17th.

Most of the choruses were very effective, and the difficult contrapuntal work in many well sustained. Occasionally the voices of the men overbalances those of the boys, and sometimes in the climaxes the organ was too heavy for the chorus. Yet, as a whole, the rendition was excellent, and quite true to the "Messiah" traditions.

The work of all the soloists was good, but particularly well suited to the occasion was the work of the soprano, Marie Zendt, whose voice rang out clear and full, and the tenor, Mr. Barnard. The low and rich qualities of Miss Jennie Johnson's contralto voice seemed peculiarly fitting to the music allotted that voice-part, and Miss Johnson made full use of the opportunities offered her. Mr. Frank Collins completed an effective quartet.

With the exception noted above, the accompaniments of the organ were extremely well done. Altogether, it was an excellent musical evening.

Mr. Hyde has made a special feature of the "Messiah" for several years and has developed such style and facility in its rendition with his choir that a great many people have come to regard it as a distinct event. These people were out in full force on Wednesday evening and the audience was both large and extremely appreciative of the music.

W. A. W.

WILLIAM HINSHAW
BARITONE
Of the Metropolitan Opera Company
Management: R. E. JOHNSTON, 1451 Broadway, New York

Messiah
By the Apollo Musical Club
Of Chicago (300 Singers)
HARRISON M. WILD, Conductor
Monday Night, December 29, Orchestra Hall
Friday Night, Jan. 2, Auditorium Building

SOLOISTS
Mabel Sharp Herdien, Soprano
Reed Miller, Tenor
Rose Lutiger Gannon, Contralto
Arthur Middleton, Bass
EDGAR NELSON, ORGANIST
THE CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Tickets 50c to $2
Now on sale at the Apollo Club Box Office in Lyon & Healy's, Wabash & Adams
CARL D. KINSEY, Secretary

On the Pacific Coast

Frederick Preston

SEARCH

Amazes music lovers with the

DVORAK CONCERTO

"Then came the astounding revelation when Frederick Preston Search played Anton Dvorak's "Concerto" in B minor. No such music had ever been heard here before. Ecstasy was too keen for a long applause between the movements. It was the experience of a lifetime to hear this marvelous work, the greatest 'cello concerto ever written, interpreted by such an artist. It is rarely attempted except by a few of the greatest artists, on account of its enormous difficulties. Last night's interpretation was sublime.

"The first, or allegro movement, is fast, very exciting and invigorating, and full of technical difficulties. The second movement, adagio ma non troppo, is slow, large so to speak, remarkable for its sweetness and extreme length, but it nevertheless kept the audience at the heights of joy throughout. Especially effective were the sobbings of the 'cello in the slow movement. They struck right to the heart. This effect has never been excelled by any other composer or artist. The third movement, allegro moderato, brought one back to the lightness and happiness of the first movement. It was a glorious climax for the whole concerto. After several passages of very great difficulty, came the "Coda," in which the 'cello brought out a beautiful melody of charm and cantilene, or song-like quality. But this soon resolved itself into some very brilliant and exciting passages. The concerto closed with some long-drawn-out harmonies, giving the illusion that the music was vanishing in the distance. At the end full chords from the piano brought the rapt hearers back to the world again.

"After having heard Frederick Preston Search play that concerto, one concludes that Dvorak has stated everything that can be said in the highest forms of music."—From report by Prof. J. M. Beere.

Available for engagements with Symphony Orchestras, at Music Festivals, and for High Grade Artist Recitals.

Address: THE SEARCH RECITALS
437 Fifth Avenue, New York; or care Gamut Club, Los Angeles
(Personal Mail and Telegrams Promptly Forwarded)

ALBIN STEINDEL WITH THE ORCHESTRA

The concerts of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra of last week were notable in the fact that they introduced to Chicago for the first time in this environment a very remarkable young violinist in the person of Albin Steindel, who is only twenty years of age but who plays with a master's authority.

Mr. Steindel is a member of the musical family of Steindel, which in Chicago is already well known through the work of the cello soloist of the orchestra, Mr. Bruno Steindel, and his training has been since childhood along the most exacting and artistic of lines.

The program opened with the Mendelssohn "Italian Symphony," which came to hearing with idyllic charm after the stressfulness of many of the recent offerings of the orchestra and which found a ready response from every listener.

The last half of the program consisted of smaller works by Enesco, Greschaninow, Saint-Saens and Brahms-Dvorak and constituted a list which might almost be called "popular" and which was approved by the audience to the full.

Mr. Steindel chose for his offering the "Recitativo" and "Finale" from the Bruch "Concerto," No. 2, D Minor, Op. 44, and he played it with splendid technical skill and fine interpretative thought.

The "Recitativo" was of remarkable beauty as to tonal quality in the authoritativeness and charm of the phrasing, while the "Finale" not only glowed with intelligence and temperament but was also an exposition of technic which has been developed to the most fluent degree.

The audience was charmed by Mr. Steindel's good appearance, fine concert poise and masterful playing, and at the close of the "Concerto" gave the young artist a genuine ovation to which he responded after many recalls by playing a Bach number (unaccompanied) with clear insight into its technical and musical intricacies.

Comment of other Chicago papers on this playing read as follows:

Besides presenting novelties in the way of composition the program gave to young Mr. Albin Steindel, nephew of the first 'cellist, his first opportunity as soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Bruch's second "Concerto" in D Minor proved an admirable vehicle for the portrayal of the genuine artistic spirit which Mr. Steindel inherited from a distinguished father, and has done much to develop. With an instrument of extraordinary warmth he produced a tone of great clarity and expressiveness, and left the impression that behind there is a much greater tonal power. The nervousness that can readily be attributed to a first appearance with the symphony orchestra was not manifest in matters of technic. This was exemplary, both in the concerto and the Bach Fugue in G minor offered as an encore. The young violinist was cordially received.—Tribune.

The soloist of the afternoon was Albin Steindel, a nephew of the first violoncellist of the orchestra. Mr. Steindel, who made his first appearance on this occasion, was drafted into the ranks of Mr. Stock's performers this season. As the interpreter of two movements of Bruch's D Minor "Concerto" for violin he disclosed notable gifts. His tone, it is true, is not large, but it is singularly smooth and attractive, and Mr. Steindel made it evident that his execution leaves nothing to the imagination.—Record-Herald.

This youthful virtuoso (twenty years only can he claim) quite justified the faith reposed in him by Mr. Stock. He chose the "Recitative" and "Finale" from the Bruch "Concerto," which, of itself, was a wise choice for display of his beautiful tone, a facile finger technic and pronounced lyric gifts. Mr. Steindel was fortunate in the use of a remarkable Stradivarius violin belonging to the Earl of Harrington. Though he did not draw a big tone, its purity, its silken smoothness, more than compensated.—Inter Ocean.

Though very youthful in his interpretation and still lacking in physical power and endurance, this violinist is yet possessed of a clear touch, which has a sensitive singing quality. His technic is flexible, as was evidenced in the execution of yesterday's selection, and he plays understandingly. Mr. Steindel was received with flattering approval.—Daily News.

Albin Steindel, one of the first violins of the orchestra, made his first appearance at these concerts as a soloist, choosing the Bruch "Concerto" for violin, No. 2, in D Minor. He wins your good will at once by the boyish earnestness and the straightforward sincerity with which he goes at his work. There were no airs about him, but he knew the concerto and was going to play it for every ounce there was in him. He took no risks in the recklessness of youth, but showed a thorough knowledge of himself and of what he could do; so he kept himself well in hand, lacking a little in the free swing of the more experienced artist, but by his grasp of the thing and his self-control proving the soundness of his artistic foundation. His tone, while not large, was of excellent quality, and his fingers have been well trained.—Evening Post.

Albin Steindel, one of the recent acquisitions to the orchestra, and a nephew of Bruno Steindel, the first 'cellist, was the soloist, playing the recitative and finale of the Bruch violin "Concerto" in D minor. He played upon an instrument which is reported to be a Stradivarius, and to have been in the possession of the Earl of Harrington, a famous collector. It is a beautiful violin, emitting from all its strings a sound of wonderfully even, sympathetic quality. Steindel drew from it a tone of medium dimensions but placed well in the middle of the note. He interpreted his number with much artistic feeling.—Evening Journal.

Albin Steindel draws a fine tone of very musical quality from his violin, though it is small, and as yet limited in power, he shows ample technical resources and played the two movements of the "Concerto" with artistic feeling and taste. He was well received and added a Bach number as an encore.—Examiner.

The program for the current week is as follows:

Overture to "Der Freischuetz" ..... Weber
Symphony No. 4, E Minor, Opus 98 ..... Brahms
Allegro non troppo
Andante moderato
Allegro giocoso
Allegro energico e passionato

INTERMISSION

Concerto for Violoncello, D Minor ..... Lalo
Prelude. Lento—Allegro maestoso
Intermezzo. Andante con moto
Rondo. Andante—Allegro vivace
"Italia," a Rhapsody ..... Casella

SIG. Antonio FROSOLONO
CONCERT VIOLINIST
Pupils accepted at Residence Studio—Tel. Drexel 5079
1227 East 44th Place - CHICAGO

M. A. Monzel MUSICAL COLLEGE
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO, ILL.

Joel Mossberg Baritone
309 KIMBALL HALL Teacher of Singing
Residence 1155 Belmont Av. Tel. Graceland 3752

MARGARET KEYES
CONTRALTO
Chicago Philadelphia Grand Opera Co.
Management The Wolfsohn Bureau

ELENA MONEAK VIOLINISTE
1024 E. 42nd St.
PHONE OAKLAND 2357

Grace Brune-Marcusson
SOPRANO
Management, HARRY CULBERTSON Fine Arts Bldg.

BUCHHALTER-ENGBERG RECITAL

Simon Buchhalter, a very brilliant pianist, added to Chicago's musical colony some months ago, and Rudolph Engberg, a baritone who has often appeared on the local stage and who has a very devoted following, appeared in a splendidly arranged and contrasted joint program at The Studebaker Theater on Sunday afternoon under the Neumann management.

Mr. Buchhalter played first the C Major "Sonata" by Brahms and showed such an insight into its meanings and such facility in technical equipment to translate these that he was accorded the unusual honor of an encore on his first number.

His last number was a group of Liszt, including "Ballad," "Liebestraume" A flat, E and A flat, and the "Rakoczy March," all played with very great brilliance and with an abounding clarity, these resulting both from the presence of a trancendent technic and very great interpretative intelligence.

Between these there was given a "Prelude" by Kreider, and two "Preludes" by Kramer, both unknown, but evidently of great worth. At least Mr. Buchhalter made the three numbers very beautiful, and very attractive in their uniqueness.

Another "Prelude," this by Borowski, was also more than usually attractive and was received with great favor. "A Vision," by Buchhalter, showed much skill and grace in writing and was played beautifully and the group closed with a scintillant reading of the MacDowell "Hungarian."

Mr. Engberg sang two groups, splendidly chosen and contrasted and which he maintained at a high level of musicianship throughout.

Handel and Brahms were treated with great intelligence and sung with beauty of tone while Grieg in his "En Svane" and "Med en Vandlige" provided Mr. Engberg with his most agreeable opportunity, one which he employed to the full, with the result that the audience approved these numbers in most gratifying fashion.

Tremisot's "Novembre" is a song of the most charmingly poetical content and it was given in like fashion, while the group closed most attractively with the Wild "Le Plongeur."

Mr. Engberg displayed great facility in the various interpretative moods and was also very happy in his use of the various languages included in the group.

His last group was all in English and proved that not only can he pronounce the language beautifully, but also that he can enunciate it very clearly. The group was a distinctly representative one and was sung with much charm. The numbers were "Invictus" (Huhn) "May, the Maiden" (Carpenter), "Sad Memories" (Downing) "Serenade" (Bantock), "The Cave" (Schneider), and "The Song of Tristram" by Borowski. Very beautiful accompaniments were provided throughout by Mr. Sol Alberti. C. E. W.

———###———

Harris—Milon R. Harris closed the season for his chorus at Monon on last Thursday evening, giving a fine concert by the society which was very much appreciated by the city. The work will be resumed next fall.

MUSIC TO COME

(Under this caption Music News will hereafter schedule all announcements received by Tuesday noon of each week.)

Friday, December 26

Orchestra Hall, 2:15. Symphony Orchestra.

Auditorium, 8:00. "Thais."

Saturday, December 27

Auditorium, 2:00. "Le Ranz des Vaches."

Auditorium, 8:00. "Mme. Butterfly."

Sunday, December 28

Studebaker Theater, 3:30. Piano recital. Carreno.

South Side Turner Hall, 3:00. Boeppler Orchestra.

Lincoln Turner Hall, 3:00. Ballmann Orchestra.

Monday, December 29

Fine Arts Theater, 8:15. Devries' pupils' recital.

Orchestra Hall, 8:15. Apollo Club, "The Messiah."

Auditorium, 8:00. "Don Quichotte."

Tuesday, December 30

Auditorium, 2:00. "Thais."
Auditorium, 8:00. Opera.

Wednesday, December 31

Auditorium, 8:00. "Jewels of the Madonna."

Thursday, January 1

Auditorium, 8:00. Opera.

Friday, January 2

Auditorium, 8:15. Apollo Club. "Messiah."

———###———

THE APOLLO CLUB

Next Monday at 8:15 Handel's "Messiah" will receive its first holiday performance by the Apollo Musical Club of 300 singers at Orchestra Hall. There will be a second presentation of this grand old choral work next Friday night at the Auditorium Theater. The same forces will take part in both performances and include Mabel Sharp Herdien,' soprano; Rose Lutiger Gannon contralto; Reed Miller, tenor; Arthur Middleton, bass; Edgar Nelson, organist; Harrison M. Wild, conductor, and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. This year marks the 49th and 50th performances of "The Messiah" by the Apollo Club in Chicago. The occasion will be made memorable by using for the first time in the west, a new orchestration of the entire work by Prout, very recently published by Novello. It is expected this new orchestration will add greatly to the effectiveness of many of the solos and choruses.

———###———

WILLIAM WADE HINSHAW

The following comment is copied from a new circular being sent out by the Hinshaw management:

"A large and enthusiastic audience filled Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon to hear William Hinshaw, the American baritone, sing songs. Mr. Hinshaw has been heard many times at the Metropolitan Opera House, but never before in this city in recital. His program was an unusual one, showing a commendable tendency to choose songs that are melodious rather than of the ultra-declamatory style. His warm, big voice showed to advantage in this type of singing, which is so different from most of the operatic work in which he has figured. * * * noble, manly songs for a virile voice such as his. Mr. Hinshaw's diction is excellent."—Henry T. Finck in New York Evening Post.

"William Hinshaw, whose appearances in baritone parts at the Metropolitan Opera House have been watched with pleasure, entered the lists of lieder singers yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall. Mr. Hinshaw's voice is a fine one, and especially in Wagnerian roles have his good schooling and diction been apparent. A novelty of the program was a group of songs by Hugo Bruckler, a young German composer, who died thirty-five years ago at the age of twenty-four. Notably charming was 'Lind Duftig Halt die Maiennacht,' which was also sung with great sympathy. The audience was large and most enthusiastic."—H. E. Krehbiel in New York Tribune.

"William Hinshaw, baritone, who is one of the members of the Metropolitan Opera House Company, gave a song recital yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall. His program was one of much merit. Special stress was laid on the Bruckler songs by their position in third place. This baritone demonstrated in his recital yesterday that he had substantial reason for offering himself for consideration on the concert platform. He sang with intelligence, with taste and with excellence of enunciation."—W. J. Henderson in New York Sun.

"William Hinshaw, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, ventured yesterday afternoon in the way many of his colleagues have recently taken when he gave his first song recital in this city. The large audience that sat through a difficult program in Carnegie Hall included many of his friends, but among those who were not prejudiced were quite a few who joined heartily in what the singer did. Mr. Hinshaw's achievement was most creditable.'—Pierre V. R. Key in New York World

"Following the example of various other members of the Metropolitan Opera Company, William Hinshaw, one of the Giulio Gatti-Casazza's giants, gave a song recital yesterday afternoon, singing to a large gathering. The towering American baritone, whose skill as an interpreter of songs has been exhibited on various occasions at Sunday night concerts in the Metropolitan Opera House, confined himself entirely to German lieder."—Max Smith in New York Press.

"William Hinshaw, who never sings at the Metropolitan without awakening admiration for the great beauty of his clear, resonant voice, gave his first song recital yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall, before a representative audience which contained many of his colleagues from the Opera House. Mr. Hinshaw showed much more than beauty of voice, as his program and the manner in which he delivered it proclaimed him a musician of distinction."—Emilie Frances Bauer in New York Evening Mail.

(Advertisement)

Churches

NEW FIRST CONGREGATIONAL

Clough-Leighter's "Righteous Branch" is almost the final word in church music. In a certain sense it is Wagner or Debussy applied to that branch of composition. It is one of those weaving, elastic masses and lines of sound, with continually shifting keys and involved harmonies that delight the soul of the musical person, and keep the other kind guessing. There is harmony in plenty, there is defined purpose, there is abundant color, there is deftness in fitting tone and accent to make the text speak in the music, there is climax building and the climaxes themselves are tremendous. There is the valuable pause, and the dignified approach and retreat from text treatment, and a hundred shades of infinite nuance and phrase that betoken a work of great excellence. Of course it bristles with almost unsurmountable difficulties for more than the average choir. The parts are divided to the last degree, the soloists are part of the ensemble, and a page of the score resembles a page from an opera in its multitude of detailed working out.

So much for the work itself. It was approached, prepared and delivered with great enthusiasm by those involved in the presentation on Sunday evening at New First Congregational Church. Endless rehearsals were devoured by its insatiable demands, but the forces came to the task with brisk spirit and gave an excellent account of themselves. Its evident difficulties may have robbed it of spontaneity and ease and prevented the full effect intended by the composer. Mr. Smith's forces included a choir of about one hundred voices, and the solo quartet of the church. The body of tone was splendid, the color warm and vibrant, and the involved attacks commendable, and the fervor unquestioned. Miss Hartman did her two short solos excellently, the voice rich and mellow, and the poise absolute. Mrs. Smidt was in the best of trim and with Mr. Smith they made the "Love Divine" a bit of delicate beauty. Mr. King, to whom fell the longest solo, and perhaps the most thankless one, gave it a well balanced presentation, sure and authoritative.

A trio for organ, violin and piano closed the service. Mr. and Mrs. King were included in this and the number was tasteful and enjoyable.

ALBERT COTSWORTH.

CALIFORNIA AVENUE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Sunday, December 28, Christmas music both services.

The choir of fifty voices will sing "Peace on the Earth" (Hawley), male and female choruses; "Sing, O Heavens" (Tours), "Nazareth" (Gounod), "Hushed Lies the Holy City" (Harker).

Miss Ruby Saaf, soprano, will sing "Jerusalem," from "The Coming of the King" (Buck). Mr. Charles Alden, baritone, will sing "The Prince of Peace" (Hanscom).

KENWOOD EVANGELICAL CHURCH

Celebration of Christmas week was ushered in at Kenwood Evangelical Church, Forty-sixth street and Greenwood avenue, last Sunday morning with a most impressive order of worship. A splendid program of well selected Christmas carols and solos appropriate for the occasion was arranged by Mr. Palmer Christian, the efficient organist and director of this beautiful church. The choir, which consists of the well known Chicago singers, Marie Sidenius Zendt, soprano; Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto; William Clare Hall, tenor; Dr. Carver Williams, bass, and supplemented on this particular day by Miss Maude Lewis, soprano; Day Williams, 'cellist, and Fritz Itte, violinist, gave the numbers allotted in beautiful and well balanced effects, splendid ensemble and, above all, there appeared throughout the service a true religious atmosphere. Dr. Williams' singing of the solo "Christ, the Friend of Children" by Cornelius was a tender and impressive bit of work, and the charm of the number was all the more brought out by the 'cello obligato arranged by Mr. Christian and played by Day Williams. Worthy numbers by the choir as a whole were "The Shepherds' Christmas Song," "Let All Men Sing God's Praises" and "There Were Shepherds." In place of organ, the piano, violin and 'cello proved satisfactory and effective on this occasion.

H. M. B.

ST. JAMES' METHODIST CHURCH

Special musical services were held both morning and evening at St. James' Methodist Episcopal Church, Forty-sixth street and Ellis avenue, on Sunday, December 21. The congregation was large and was not disappointed, for the church rang with good music at both services. Miss Tina Mae Haines is the organist and director here and has under her command the solo quartet—Naomi Nazor, soprano; Charlotte Ikert Kimball, contralto; James Hamilton, tenor, and Charles F. Champlin, bass; and a chorus choir of twenty-some voices. That they are a most capable lot of singers was, indeed, proven by their singing of the hymns at the morning service, which were carried to a high plane of expression and tone control. The anthems, "Hail the King" by Bartlett, "Christmas Bells" by Stevenson, and the "Shepherds' Christmas Song" as sung by the quartet were very effective, and especially was this so in the Stevenson number.

Mr. Walfried Singer, harpist, was a worthy addition to both services, and his playing, with Miss Haines at the organ, of the Rubinstein number "Kammenoi-Ostrow," was much enjoyed and worthy of a place in these services. The number of most interest at the evening service was a new Christmas cantata, "The Annunciation," by Julius Harrison. The contralto and tenor have the principal parts of this new work.

H. M. B.

A CHURCH CONCERT

DeWitt Durgin Lash, musical director at the Buena Memorial Presbyterian Church, arranged a most interesting program for last Friday evening, the occasion being to secure funds for the choir treasury.

Opening the evening was the Bierly "O Columbia, Queen of the Nations," given by the robed choir of thirty voices. It may be clearly understood by any auditor that these voices were responding to a masterly baton, for such excellent ensemble singing results not from ordinary training.

The Schubert "Great Is Jehovah" was likewise well given, as regards rhythm, ensemble and other desirable points of chorus singing. The last selection presented by them, at the end of the program, however, was not of their best work, which fact evidently was realized by their leader.

The Kate Greenaway Quartet, composed of very able singers, was a genuine delight, each of her three numbers being necessarily followed by an encore. Each member of the quartet is herself a good soloist. Mrs. Edith Connelly Cutler and Mrs. Esther Walrath Lash, both being sopranos of well known ability, which was again proved on this occasion. Mrs. Edna Ver Haar is a young contralto who is filling numerous engagements this season and whose voice is one of a quality quite out of the ordinary. Miss Clara Livingston, alto, completes the quartet.

These singers do very beautiful unaccompanied work, and a similar ensemble is not commonly found.

Miss Eloise Ramsey pleased with readings from Oscar Wilde and Urban, and Mr. Elmer Ende, organist, and Miss Amy Kleinofen assisted at the organ and piano, respectively.

F. B.

THE STORY OF BETHLEHEM

One of the most attractive Cantatas ever prepared for the Christmas season, and one also of splendid musical worth is "The Story of Bethlehem" by Daniel Protheroe.

This work was given on last Sunday evening at the Austin M. E. Church before an audience of something like a thousand people, under the baton of the composer, and the result was pure musical delight.

The work is not long, one hour being quite sufficient for its presentment, but there is infinite variety in effects and an always smooth musical flow.

At the Austin Church Mr. Protheroe has a splendid chorus choir, and not only is the ensemble a well-balanced one, but each section is also fully alive to its duties and fully competent to execute them. This was emphasized in the fact that the Women's chorus numbers were of extremely fine grade, and not to be outdone in this matter the men also gave a splendid account of themselves in their special number, "Accursed King," in which there was a fine tonal mass and much dramatic color.

"Arise, Shine," for full chorus was admirable in its solidity of effect and the march chorus, "We Bow to Thee," was rhythmically strong and musically correct.

The unaccompanied number, "Guide Them to Him," was full of value of purely musical kind and the closing chorus, fugal in character, was alert and exact.

Four soloists were employed—Mrs.

FREDERICK PRESTON SEARCH

AMERICA'S GREATEST 'CELLIST

In Home-Land this Season; January and after April 1 in the East; February and March in the West.

ENGAGEMENTS NOW BOOKING FOR 1914-1915

Eastern Address, 437 Fifth Avenue, New York

Western Address, Care Gamut Club, Los Angeles

PROF. J. M BEERE, Pendleton, Oregon:

"Frederick Preston Search amazes music lovers with the Dvorak Concerto. His recital was the greatest musical event in the history of the city. Music critics pronounced him a marvel in expression, sympathy, power and technique. His tour of the United States is developing into the musical sensation of the age."

Ward, soprano; Miss Harriet McConnell, alto; Mr. Brines, tenor, and Mr. Lloyd, basso.

Mrs. Ward carried her work with skill and filled her interpretations with authority, while Miss McConnell in "Sleep Baby, Sleep" made the one strongest impression of the evening and showed her beautiful voice and achieved musicianship in fine light.

Mr. Brines has a nice voice and good style and Mr. Lloyd completed a quartet of much value, which, as an ensemble was particularly gratifying in "He Watching over Israel," a number of the utmost worth and beauty and which was alike, on Sunday evening, a credit to Mr. Protheroe and the four singers.

Mrs. Bates, at the organ was entirely in keeping with the general excellence of the program. C. E. W.

HYDE PARK PRESBYTERIAN

Christmas week was opened with much enthusiasm, rare fervor and a crowd that taxed the seating capacity of Hyde Park Presbyterian Church, Fifty-third street and Blackstone avenue, on Sunday afternoon, December 21, when the Hyde Park Choral Club of one hundred voices and orchestra of fifty-five pieces, with Mrs. Charles Robbins and Arthur Dunham, conductor, and Mrs. Arthur Dean, accompanist, assisted by Mrs. E. N. Layfield, contralto; Robert Quait, tenor; Arthur Dean, baritone, and Nicholas de Vore, organist, gave a program of much merit and containing such numbers as "The Angels and Shepherds" and "Hail, All Hail," both old Bohemian airs; "Calm on the Listening Ear of Night," by Harker, and "The Glory of the Lord" and "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah" for the chorus as a whole, and the orchestra under the direction of Arthur Dunham gave the numbers, "Pastoral Symphony" from "Messiah," and "Largo" by Handel, "Coronation March" by Meyerbeer, and "March of Magi" by Dubois, showing a good balance of instruments and much preparation of their numbers. The chorus is indeed a good one, and has the advantage of a conductor of high attainments and pleasing personality. The capabilities and future prospects of this chorus and orchestra are very promising and we expect to hear much from them in the coming seasons. The solo work of Mr. Quait and Mr. Dean was a pleasant addition to the afternoon's concert and Mrs. Dean deserves special mention for the excellent accompaiments furnished by her from the piano. H. M. B.

FIRST METHODIST, OAK PARK

An almost ideal combination was formed for the special service on Sunday afternoon last at the First Methodist Church in Oak Park, where Mr. George L. Tenney is the efficient director of the music, and where Miss Ruth Simmons plays the organ so well that there is nothing done that is more artistic than her accompaniments. Supplementing the regular quartet which includes Mr. and Mrs. Tenney, Miss Jessie Lynde Hopkins and Mr. Frank Collins, there was added Mrs. Mable Corlew Smidt, Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson, Mr. Arthur Kraft and Dr. Carver Williams. The medium selected for musical expression was C. B. Hawley's lyrical, "Christ Child" and the octet sang it for all it was worth. It is not elaborate and sometimes the harmony is less than thin, but it is effective, singable and readily understood and therefore quick in its appeal. A noticeable feature, indicating the finest sort of courtesy, was that the choice solos were bestowed upon the visitors. To Dr. Williams fell the number "The People That Walked in Darkness," which he sang with his superb poise and authority. Mr. Kraft, who has a fresh clear voice, sang the "Hail! Thou" excellently, and Miss Johnson had the little section "The Angel Gabriel," which had also all her finished art placed upon it. The ability to take a little thing and make it artistic is a notable talent. Mrs. Smidt was apportioned the choice moment, the setting of Brooks' "Little Town," which she did so exquisitely that it became the last word of taste and feeling. Miss Hopkins, Mrs. Smidt and Mrs. Tenney sang a short trio so beautifully, with such lovely blend that the regret was there was no more. Mrs. Tenney was in excellent voice for the "Magnificat" and Miss Hopkins had another short number in which to add the weight of her merit. Mr. Tenney's authority, influence and command were potent throughout, and the final concerted numbers were shaded and phrased with nicety. As said above, Miss Simmons was above reproach, save that precedent has established faster tempo for the "Hallelujah."

ALBERT COTSWORTH.

FESTIVAL SERVICE AT ST. JAMES' CHURCH

The monthly festival service at St. James, Mr. John W. Norton, organist and choirmaster, on Sunday afternoon, December 21, was an inspiring musical service. The organ is one with a beautiful quality of tone, in all registers, and Mr. Norton's solo numbers were particularly well played and were suited to a special Christmas service.

The quality of tone of the choir is very good, and the unaccompanied numbers were particularly well rendered, with almost exact sustaining of pitch, with the contrapuntal passages well marked and clear.

The vocal soloist of the afternoon, Mr. B. C. Burton, tenor, sang three splendid selections, all of which displayed a fine tenor voice, excellent use thereof, clear enunciation, and style that was assured and very effective. W. A. W.

MR. LEVY'S NEW SONATA

The "Sonata" for piano and violin, Op. 6, by Heniot Levy (dedicated to Leopold Godowsky), recently published by Riss and Erler, Berlin, Germany, has attracted most favorable critical comment as evidenced by the appended notices from representative German musical papers.

A "Sonata" for violin and piano in C minor by Heniot Levy, which is composed in strictly classic style, demands skillful and expericnced ensemble artists. It reveals decidedly creative talent, the themes are throughout plastic and conceived on broad lines, although having a tendency towards diffuseness. Much passion is contained in the first movement, which is rythmically strong; the "Scherzo" being of especial charm. Warm emotion and sense for insinuating and yet not sentimental melody is characteristic of the "Adagio." Piquant and grateful for the ear is the "Scherzo." The "Finale" is justly marked "Allegro resoluto," the second theme is powerfully effective. It is worth the while to occupy oneself with this "Sonata," which, by the way, is dedicated to Godowsky.—Die Musik, December.

The C minor "Sonata" for piano and violin, Op. 6, by Heniot Levy, originated from a different emotional source than that by Dohnanyi, just mentioned. It has become the fashion among most modern musicians to shrug one's shoulders whenever the composer Rubinstein is mentioned, but how desirable would be for the most of them only a fraction of the big lines, the glowing fancy and sensuous wealth of melody, which so distinguished Rubinstein. Many of these excellencies one may find to a considerable degree in Levy's "Sonata," which, besides, is of better workmanship than were Rubinstein's works. The construction resembles those of his prototype, without, however, revealing any direct leanings. The composition is from a pianist and is dedicated to another, Professor Godowsky, hence the elaborate treatment of the piano. The violin is treated as an instrument of song, frequently developing interesting double contrapunted moments with the piano, of which I will especially mention the one above the bass of the "Finale." The piece is grateful for both players.—Berlin Signale, December 1.

The Elderly Person

"Mother's Tree" stands about a hundred yards from the house and just where the ground makes a gentle rise after sloping leisurely away from the doorstep. The forest comes just as close to the side entrance as it dares, and that is not much more than sixty feet. It has a hundred little marauders, using every sort of an opportunity to trespass on the grass plot which covers what was once a part of the thicket. The boundary of the forest calls to mind at once the irregular line easily seen where a crowd of boys are toeing the mark preliminary to the start in a foot race. Every mother's son of them tries to get some portion of his frame a bit over the mark, so that in some way advantage at the beginning will be that much towards success at the end. With some such enterprising method new growth sends out shoots and feelers and bold trespasses. Inch by inch they encroach stealthily, pushed and urged on by the crowding young trees and shrubs which are behind the boundaries set by the householder. Once in every so often these invaders are discovered and set upon by creatures with lawn mowers and scythes, and the advancing forces routed and crushed. But only for the nonce. Next day they are alert for a chance at the clearing, determined to win back to the forest what was once its own. One side of the rounded hillside looks down upon the islands in the river, and at its foot is the thick growth of trees which hides the winding roadway. And, too, this is the point, where at night the stars can be seen in a glorious parade.

Just where the forest was halted and facing the doorway, a wide swath was cut, which spared no sort of tree life, large or small. This glade is perhaps sixty feet wide, and is soft underfoot with a springy turf. To compensate for the heavy undergrowth thus removed, the shrubs still left and lining the edges, have been clipped and pruned and trimmed and encouraged in every other sort of way to make themselves luxuriant and even rampant in lavish foliage and density. Here mingle the hazel brush, the choke cherries, the young elms and basswood, the red dogwood and his even-layered brother, striving oak or locust and fine young hickory saplings, toughening ironwood and quick-growing and even young cedars, to say nothing of ash and sugar maple, all living in hearty fellowship together. Any interstice not pre-empted by a hopeful shrub or tree is quickly seized by the sunflowers and asters and goldenrod while black-eyed susan, and her cousin with the brown eyes and folded back petals, peeps out from the coppice cordially and very much at home.

The tree so affectionately named is an almost perfect specimen of the white oak. Until it goes the way of all things perishable, and its rings can be counted, its age can only be estimated. At least one hundred and fifty and perhaps fifty more summers and winters have found it growing there. Each season has seen some expansion of the tiny shoot now become a real monarch. The trunk at a man's height wants nearly two pairs of wide-stretched, full-grown arms to circle it. This trunk is free from limbs or any sort of growth up to a towering height. Tape line or pole measurements do not mean much in such a presence. The limbs that have been removed were cut near the face of the tree, and the healing current, whose business it is to look out for bruises or mutilations, had plenty of reserve supply and sent it up generously and so covered all marks of amputations. The surface of the bark is singularly free from any blemish or rampant growth. The lines of age are there, deep and many curved, but the storms of life have been conquered. Serenity reigns and the face is sweet, calm and benignant. Then come the long waving branches, no two alike and with no set order in the extension of their shade and shapeliness. But they grew beautifully just the same with soft undulations and hundreds of lesser and then still lesser branches, until at the very tips is found the fresh invigorating greening of the current year. These had dipped and waved and curved, and wove themselves into graceful masses, so that when every leaf had done its part there was a dense shade, widening each year until the area covered was many paces in extent. On its northward side, and clustering thickest near the base, in summer comes the delicate green moss and some curling, creeping lichen. The heavy roots, those which delve deepest into the earth, have their beginnings exposed by their increasing size and by the washing away of earth by the rain. These are like the mighty bulging muscles of a giant, but they give a graceful shape to the base as they slope gradually from sight. One knows that there are numberless tiny rootlets running from them and their brothers, close to the surface as far at the tree's branches spread, to gather moisture and sustenance for the stronger burden-bearers who must bore deep down and fix themselves so firmly in the earth, that the upper branches can play in the wind, and the lower limbs feel no anxiety when the storms are beating. These muscular roots, with the great top root working silently far out of sight, are the necessary foundations for the shapely superstructure.

The tree stands protectingly, benovelently, generously. Its pose bespeaks endurance, vigor, patience, encouragement, dignity and serenity, and these together create beauty. It looks down with sweet enjoyment at the seat under its wings and incites confidences and promised sympathy. It has been there so long and watched so much of change, as well as many years of gentle monotony, that it has the capacious bosom and inviting arms of a kindly nurse offering soothing rest for those who have not yet learned to understand. And it suggests reminiscence and a comparing of notes from those who have lived and learned. It has learned also, and longs to reveal to others that there is nothing trival, nothing wasted, nothing unavailing, nothing to be despised. It could tell how it had experienced surprise and disappointment, mastered them and wrested from each its secret meaning. It could tell of the many who have come and gone in all the varied flush and fever and impatience of restlessness, while it had found its happiness in composure and unswerving industry and making good use of the things nearest at hand. It has no idea of its lofty stateliness. It knows only that it has climbed towards the light as it saw it, blessed each new outlook and because of a nobler view beyond had gone on higher still. And in its serene elderliness it loves the expanse it has before its eyes, and laughingly proposes to see a little further before it finally admits that it is too old to go on growing.

Paths of many sorts and widths converge to its base and it regards them all as of infinite interest. The wide sward of the glade before it, of course, engrossed its attention largely. Because down its soft surface footsteps go and come daily, especially in summer, sometimes singly, sometimes in incoherent quantities, sometimes with laughter and the fresh sound of young voices in the air, and sometimes with slow steadiness and the silent comradeship of memories of those gone before. And there is the fellowship of the birds, of the squirrels running up and down its bark, but not offering to nest in anything so stately. Elderliness can only look on at the home-making and recreation. Birds and squirrels must have something more yielding than old trees for their nests. For them always, the sensation is desired of a nest that will swing on a bearer that sways almost from its base. But they like to visit the ancient tree and have good times, as the young generation always does, if it is built rightly and approaches the older one with any sort of good will. The tree views with a species of horror an intruding picnic party which presumes to spread its table right in the heart of sacred precincts. Frantic are its efforts to call attention to anything so unheard of, and it is days before its ancient equilibrium is restored. * *

Down on the sward comes Johnny Cottontail with leaps and bounds, and a quail will scurry across the open and perhaps pause to salute with its clear "Bob White" whistle. And robins of all ages seek the early and late worm and grub. For the night there is the soothing murmur of the river, the constellations in their orbits, the countless stars, and the winds which are seldom still. Best of all are the household lights and the sounds of voices in music or words. And the blessed laughter of young life touching with illuminating fingers every object, and giving to them the freshening vitality which renewedly makes life so well worth living.

"Mother's Tree" sees it all, absorbs it all, shares it all. Not always observed, it carefully secrets unto itself passing moments pregnant with beauty and joyousness. Nothing is passed by. All is of moment. In the years that are to be it will have these present joys in readiness to share with those who helped to make them, and who come back to recall them.

THE ELDERLY PERSON.

North Shore School of Music
Broadway and Leland Ave.
Regular Courses, Certificates, Diplomas and Degrees.

Strong Faculty, including the following: PIANO, Charles J. Haake, Gail Martin-Haake, Alice Emmons McBride, Alice Anderson. VOICE, Mary Ann Kaufman, Hilda B. Brown. VIOLIN, George Dasch, Minnie Cedargreen, Edwin J. Stringham, Edith Nicklin. THEORY, Charles J. Haake. DRAMATIC ART, Grace Doland Paul
ONE BLOCK NORTH OF WILSON AVENUE "L" STATION (N. W. Elevated) TELEPHONE EDGEWATER 868
CHARLES J. HAAKE, Director M. M. LANGGUTH, Registrar

AT THE OPERA

CHARLES E. WATT

At the performance of "The Barber of Seville" last week very especial beauty, both of vocalization and characterization, were found in the work of Aristodemo Giorgini, a tenor, who has been steadily growing in favor this season and who at that performance excelled himself.

His conception of the part was very good,

MABEL RIEGELMAN
In "Cricket on the Hearth"

his dressing all that could be asked in the way of correctness and tastefulness and his singing was admirable throughout.

Mme. Lina Cavalieri's continued illness has so far made "Fedora" impossible, and at the substituted "La Boheme" of last Wednesday, Giorgini again showed his fine mettle and honors were won also by the others who had previously appeared in that opera. On Saturday afternoon "Faust" was repeated in the same admirable style as at a previous performance.

♮ ♮ ♮

Don Giovanni

The Mozart masterpiece, withheld from Chicago hearing for more than half a score of years, was given on Thursday evening a most glorious revival and pleased a large audience to the very full.

Ruffo, with true artistic instinct, kept "Don Giovanni" in his proper scale as compared with the others and made a pronounced, if somewhat quiet, success.

Giorgini emphasized his ability to read Mozart delightfully, and the other men of the cast added impressive characterizations, especially Trevisan, who as Masetto was admirable.

The three sopranos, Mmes. White, Dorda and Zeppilli, each sang to advantage and acted their parts with discretion.

The voice of Carolina White was particularly luscious in most of this score, and Dorda proved her great dramatic ability conclusively.

♮ ♮ ♮

Leoncavallo Night

Friday was distinctly Leoncavallo night and it is doubtful if ever there was so great enthusiasm in the Auditorium as on that occasion.

"Zingari" was found to be along the same strenuous dramatic lines as "Pagliacci" but musically a bit inferior. It was, however, so delightfully given and so splendidly directed (by the composer) that it made a tremendous sensation.

TITTA RUFFO

Carolina White has seldom done such magnificent work as at this time and has never been more royally received by the public.

Amedeo Bassi, who appeared both in "Zingari" and in "Pagliacci," has never done a more splendid night's work in Chicago and never has he so advanced himself in popular and critical esteem. He is delightful in everything he does, and on last Friday he excelled himself.

Federici sang his part in "Zingari" extremely well and acted it in a stilted, ineffective way. Henri Scott had the least important part in the opera.

Nothing new is to be said of the cast or performance of "Pagliacci," except to repeat that the singing of "The Prologue" by Ruffo is the most magnificent piece of vocal art one may hope to hear and to add, regretfully, that his playing of the part has been so broadened, with an eye to the gallery, doubtless, that it has lost most of its charm.

Leoncavallo conducted "Zingari" and Campanini took care of "Pagliacci," both artists scoring equally with those on the stage.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Cricket on the Hearth

Quite the best of the Saturday evening performances so far given was "The Cricket on the Hearth" on Saturday night, this being very largely due to the very careful stage manipulation, and also to the efforts of Mabel Riegelman, who as "Cricket" has evolved a character in which she is simply delightful and which dominates the opera in a most surprising way.

Maggie Teyte, limited in the parts she can sing, is the characteristic "Dot" and Dufranne as "John" is a picture to remember, while his vocalization was, as always, superb.

Amy Evans was an improvement on her predecessor in the part of "May," and Henri Scott again played "Tackleton."

George Hamlin, who is becoming known as the "Saturday evening tenor" again displayed advance in dramatic art and especially was improved in make-up. His singing was again subject to the charge made before, i. e., he forces his voice off key at times and his "Sailor Song" was very much at variance in pitch with the orchestra.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Sunday Concert

The program for Sunday shows what a treat was provided for those who went to the Auditorium on Sunday.

Margaret Keyes, routined concert singer, admirable in appearance and attitude, sang her numbers in a way which was impossible for any other of the artists to distance

PROF. BERTRAND
DE BERNYZ
Voice Specialist
Who taught Frieda Hempel, Metropolitan Opera Star, only acknowledged rival of Mmes. Patti, Sembrich Melba; as well as teacher of other famous artists.
Prepares for Concert, Oratorio, Grand Opera
NEW YORK: 58 West 72d Street

Katherine Howard Ward
Organist - Pianist - Teacher - Accompanist
917 Wilson Avenue Phone Ravenswood 2152

ROY DAVID BROWN
PIANIST
KIMBALL HALL

and added again to the esteem in which she is held.

The program throughout afforded immense delight and was greeted with very unusual enthusiasm. Accompaniments were played by Charlier, Winternitz and Clay.

American songs—
Hills o' Sky.....Victor Harris
The Danza .....Chadwick
Margaret Keyes

German songs—
Ich Liebe Dich .....Beethoven
Die Allmacht .....Schubert
Marta Dorda

French songs—
Sonnez les Matines .....George Hue
Chanson des Noisettes.....Gabriel Dupont
Edmond Warnery

Italian songs—
La Mia Bandira.....Rottoli
Occhi di Fata.....Denza
Francesco Federici

Russian songs—
Rosa Raisa

Welsh songs—
Llam Y Cariadau.....R. S. Hughes
Y Deryn Pur.....Old Welsh Air
Amy Evans

Swedish songs—
Ro, Ro, Oginsten.....Emil Sjogren
Words by A. Gellerstedt

Danserskaus Sang.....Itallo Morales
Words by B. Gripenberg
Julia Claussen

Neapolitan song—Francesco Daddi—
English songs—
The Promise of Life.....F. Cowen
Songs of the Pilgrims.....E. Brooks
Ruby Heyl

♮ ♮ ♮

The Juggler

A fine performance of "The Juggler" ushered in the fifth week, when Mary Garden made her reappearance to unlimited applause.

On Tuesday the Leoncavallo bill was repeated with the same success as before.

Other Bills

Tonight, "Thais," with Garden, Ruffo and Dalmores, has produced the condition of "a sold out house." Saturday will bring "Le Ranz des Vaches" and "Mme. Buuterfly," Clarence Whitehill appearing in the latter.

Monday will witness the last performance of "Don Quichotte" and the week will bring many more novelties, "The Jewels of the Madonna" being adjudged the most popular bill for New Year's eve.

CINCINNATI PRAISE FOR CHRISTINE MILLER

On December fourth, Christine Miller filled her third engagement as soloist with the Orpheus Club of Cincinnati, at which concert she was received with splendid enthusiasm. The press of Cincinnati spoke in the following glowing terms of her work on this occasion:

"The soloist of the evening was one who needs no introduction to the musical public of Cincinnati, for Christine Miller, with her rich, pleasing and well-trained contralto and her musicianly interpretations, is no stranger within our gates. Perhaps the severest test for her musicianship was her first offering, the Lia aria from 'L'Enfant Prodigue.' Miss Miller did full credit to the composition and achieved remarkable success with her interpretation of the same. Not less marked was her artistic handling of a group of three songs written in the German folk-song style by the late Gustav Mahler, which style and the varying moods expressed in both music and poetry were beautifully brought out by the singer. Miss Miller's last group consisted of three songs by American composers, and here also everything that they contained of musical or poetic value was clearly displayed in the rendition which they received. After each of her efforts Miss Miller was forced by insistent demands to respond with an encore. The added numbers were 'Der Schmied,' by Brahms; 'In the Time of Roses,' by Reichardt, and a Scotch folk song harmonized by Helen Hopekirk."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"The club was assisted by Christine Miller, one of the most locally popular soloists who has ever graced a Cincinnati stage. Miss Miller's art needs no lengthy description for local audiences. This charming contralto has on several occasions proven herself to be one of the most finished as well as one of the most naturally gifted concert contraltos before the public today. Her first number was a recitative and aria from Debussy's 'L'Enfant Prodigue,' which she interpreted splendidly. Her second group, in which she attained her chief success artistically, included three Mahler songs, which she personally prizes very highly and sings with a conception and musical appreciation that brings forth every hidden beauty. Her final group included three English songs—Carpenter's 'Don't Ceare,' delightfully done; Grant Schaefer's 'The Sea,' dedicated to Miss Miller, and the Whiting setting to 'A Birthday.' Miss Miller's triumph of the evening, however, was hidden from the eyes of the audience and took place during the intermission when the entire chorus filed into her waiting room and begged the honor of pouring forth their ardent admiration. Miss Miller was overwhelmed and declared it was the finest reception she had ever experienced, and that though Cincinnati was ever a joyful place for her, it had fairly outdone itself on this occasion."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

(Advertisement.)

♯ ♯ ♯

CINCINNATI, OHIO

The second symphony concert of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra was given on Friday afternoon, December 19, and Saturday evening, December 20, with Julius Stevens' 'cellist, as the soloist, and Dr. Ernest Kunwald, conductor. Mr. Stevens is a very talented young man and extremely popular with the Cincinnati audiences. He is a member of the faculty of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Raymond Baker, basso-cantante, sang the bass solos in the Christmas cantata, "The Coming of the King," at Aurora, Ind., Sunday evening, December 21, for the First Presbyterian Church. Mr. Baker has a wonderful voice and shows careful training. The singing of his solos was exceptionally fine.

♮ ♮ ♮

The opera class of the College of Music produced Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman" on Tuesday evening, December 16. The parts were well taken and the audience enjoyed the production.

♮ ♮ ♮

The first popular concert will be given by the Symphony Orchestra at Music Hall, December 28. John Hoffman, tenor, will be the soloist on this occasion.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. and Mrs. L. Drew Mosher, tenor and soprano, respectively, and Mrs. Carl Eller, violinist, will assist Mr. M. Y. Cooper, lecturer, with a musical program, at Cynthiana, Ky., December 26.

♯ ♯ ♯

HENRY B. RONEY

Mr. Henry B. Roney recently finished twenty-five years with Roney Boys Concert Company, giving concerts to millions of people in forty-eight states, and disbanded the company. He will seek relief from almost constant travel by dividing his time between studio work, his real estate interests, and delivering his new lecture, "Boys, from Cradle to Manhood," the condensed experiences in training the 10,000 boys who have been under his instruction in a long and active life.

Mr. Roney will specialize in coaching singers for concert and church work, and in the artistic development of boys' voices. His studio, equipped with a Steinway grand, is at his handsome new home on the north side, 558 Wellington avenue, corner Broadway.

ALBERT SPALDING
European Tour Season 1912-13
Management G. ASTRUC & CO. 30 Rue Louis le Grand Paris
Accompanist—ANDRE BENOIST

MRS. MABLE CORLEW SMIDT
SOPRANO
Phone Austin 22712
CONCERTS - ORATORIO - RECITALS
MANAGEMENT CHARLES E. WATT
5943 OHIO STREET

THE
College of Music of Cincinnati
An Ideal School of Music and Dramatic Art. As "A Tree is Known by Its Fruit," so is a school known by its products, and our certificate or diploma is a recognized pass-word in the professional world.
Chorus, Orchestra, and School of Opera. Dormitory for Ladies.
Address: The College of Music of Cincinnati, Elm Street, Adj. Music Hall.

Music in New York

By ABBIE STEPHENS FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall

When you take up to read and enjoy this issue of our delightful little Music News—the journalistic multum in parvo—Christmas, so often termed the great human festival, will have come and gone, leaving behind its memories as well as its gifts. For the annual holiday is a recurring culminating point when so many thinking human beings—not necessarily the religious, or more properly speaking, the pious—cast up their accounts in preparation for that new year, when there must be an individual stocktaking.

I'm not indulging in a resume to include the kinds and varieties of occupations and vocations filling the world, for that would consume time and space; I am not even preparing an homiletic discourse for this special class of persons in whom I am so much interested—the musicians of America. But I am permitting myself the privilege of putting to my musical readers this question: What does Christmas and the new year mean to you individually in the retrospect? Has the year been a true reflection in its performances—which, of course, are yours—of your ambitions and aspirations? Has it been fruitful of the plants of your honest endeavors? Or does it mean that having resolved high—and in imagination "hitched your wagon to a star"—you have subsided into the humdrum or narrow groove chiselled out by habits?

I shall not dwell upon this subject. I shall say only this: There is an honorable place for the American musician in his own land and fame and honor await him in the civilized countries of the globe. Let him avail himself of his opportunities—and it is his to make them—and insist upon recognition. It is quite true that nothing succeeds like success, but success comes to him only who insistently and persistently demands it.

As I write there is anything but an ideal Christmas in the spring-like air, for what unregenerate would ask a Christmas in summer. The weather-prophet promises a white Christmas, but do we not all know that, like the proverbial pie-crust, the weather man's promises are made to be broken.

And speaking of promises, all the vows of the musical world, excepting the appearances operatic of Miss Geraldine Farrar, seem to have behaved themselves.

♮ ♮ ♮

I had the satisfaction of hearing Dr. William C. Carl play a certain composition of his respected master, the late Alexandre Guilmant, for orchestra and organ, at the concert of the People's Symphony on December 14. It was indeed a "Marche Fantasie" founded on two ancient church chants, "Iste Confessor" and "Ecce sacerdos magnus," and it provided glorious entertainment for an appreciative audience, which I trust fully realized the difficulties under which Dr. Carl labored in getting such truly magnificent effects from the unspeakable and unworthy instrument masquerading in Carnegie Hall as an organ. This city is sadly in need of a spacious concert auditorium with up-to-date equipments.

The soloist of the occasion was Horatio Connell, baritone, who was warmly applauded for his excellent work in Handel's "Ruddier than the Cherry," which inevitably reminded me of David Bispham, and "Eri tu," that favorite of ambitious baritones.

Mr. Arens and his orchestra, of which that clever young violinist, Maximilian Pilzer, is concert-master, gave an excellent reading of Schumann's moving symphony No. 1, B flat, and he was singularly successful in a composition (new) of Henry Gilbert's, built upon negro melodies and entitled "Negro Rhapsody." Mr. Gilbert has fine gifts compositional, and it is to be hoped that he will do something in a wider field. Plume himself for a higher flight. This "Opus" is so promising that one may hope for a symphony, or at least a new piano or violin concerto, embodying the less tangible side of aesthetic America. Less concerned with symbolism of one order; rather engaged with what would represent the spirituality of the nation and country. The crucible is doing its work. The melting-pot approaches homogeneity for its output.

♮ ♮ ♮

And, speaking of composers, that admirable American composer, Celeste D. Heckscher, bids fair to lead in the attempt to secure recognition for the honest and earnest American composer in other lands.

In a letter received from her a few days ago, Mrs. Heckscher encloses the program of the York Symphony Orchestra's concert in the Exhibition Buildings, York, England, November 26. Almost cheek by jowl with the joyous "Marche Hongroise" from Berlioz's "Faust," one read Orchestra Suite, "Dances of the Pyrenees," Celeste D. Heckscher.

Imagine the surprise of that British audience when it heard this magnificently vigorous and broadly sketched "Opus" with its inspiring and inspiriting measures. Entirely free from the Yankee note, and as characteristically Spanish as the "Carmen" of Bizet, or the "Don Quixote" of Cervantes.

Mrs. Heckscher was delighted with the warmth of the reception this masterly composition received; nor were flowers wanting to complete the triumph of one of America's leading composers.

I am looking forward with conviction to the day when Celeste D. Heckscher will be reckoned with as one of the world's composers, worthy to take her place with the elect, which reminds me that you will be pleased to learn that a program of Mrs. Heckscher's compositions was the entertainment offered by the Harlem Philharmonic Society at its first musicale of the season, held very recently at the Waldorf-Astoria, and including, besides a picked

BONCI
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR SEASON 1912-13
"The Greatest Living Illustrator of Bel Canto"
Exclusive Management HAENSEL AND JONES
92 West 42nd Street, New York
Knabe Piano Used

PIANIST BACHAUS
BALDWIN PIANO USED
Management Loudon Charlton

J. S. VAN CLEVE Ph. D.
Concert Pianist, Lecturer & Coach for Singers, Pianists & Composers. Lecture-Recitals a Specialty, given before Lyceums Women's Clubs, Conservatories & special audiences, either in private parlors or schools. For terms address—
Care the Musicians' Club, 62 W. 45th Street, New York City.

Philip SPOONER
AMERICAN TENOR
Exponent of Bel Canto.
J. W. LYMAN, 501 Fifth Av.
NEW YORK

BISPHAM
All communications to
Private Address 44 West 44th St.
NEW YORK

Albin STEINDEL
VIOLIN SOLOIST
Available for Private Engagements. A limited number of pupils accepted. Address:
CHICAGO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA, ORCHESTRA HALL

MRS. STANLEY WOOD
School of Piano and Voice
STUDIO—R. I. THE BIRMINGHAM, SIXTY-NINTH ST. AND WENTWORTH AV.

RALPH Violinist Brokaw Power-Meyer Conservatory
WICHITA, KAN

MADELINE GALLAGHER
SOPRANO
Church Concert Recital
3435 Flournoy St. Phone Kedzie 4886

CLEMENS A. HUTTER
VOICE BUILDER
and Choir Director 501 KIMBALL HALL

J. E. Wilford
PIANO - VOICE
KIMBALL HALL and MAYWOOD, ILLINOIS

Edith V. Rann TEACHER OF PIANO
Res. Tel. Drexel 4418 620 FINE ARTS BLDG

AGNES LEIST-BEEBE ORATORIO SONG RECITAL PUPILS
SOPRANO
509 Kimball Hall and 3985 Drexel Boulevard

NORA LORAINE OLIN
VOICE
303 KIMBALL HALL Phone Harrison 5919

ETHELLE FLORENCE JOHNS
SOPRANO
CONCERT - RECITAL - PUPILS
6463 Kimbark Av. Phone Hyde Park 1131

T. Francis Hughes
TENOR 75 Auditorium Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Concert and Choir Bureau
HARRIET MARTIN SNOW, Director
(In Summy's Music Store)
64 E. Van Buren St., Chicago

GRACE GROVE
ORGANIST ACCOMPANIST
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Grant Tenor KIMBELL
Soloist First Congregationalist Church, Oak Park
Management CHARLES E. WATT KIMBALL HALL

HENIOT LEVY PIANIST
Kimball Hall
Exclusive Management HARRY CULBERTSON

JOHN R. RANKL Bass-Baritone
PUPILS CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
609 Fine Arts Building Phone Harrison 6880

RAMON GIRVIN
VIOLINIST
Just Returned from Europe American Conservatory

orchestra directed by Saslavaky, the temperamental concert-master of the New York Symphony Society, Miss Isabel Hauser, the charming and versatile pianiste; Louise Voight, soprano, and Corinne Wolerstein, accompanist.

The program duplicated the concert of Mrs. Heckscher's compositions given last March in Aeolian Hall, when Zimbalist was the violinist, and the beautiful and gifted Florence Hinkle, the soprano, and the audience had reason to congratulate itself upon the wisdom of the Music Committee of the Haarlem Philharmonic Society in offering them a musical repast of such excellence.

There is no question that Mrs. Heckscher's compositions deserve that wide recognition which will ultimately be theirs.

Her talents are of a kind that pique interest as well as curiosity. She sets the mind as well as the body tingling. There is so much that is alive, new and of the future in her harmonic appeals; so much indeed to incline the mind to speculate upon her future performances.

I for one am fascinated by what she has to say in music; for her songs sing themselves delicately and winsomely in my ears. But I am not the only one. Mme. Narelle sang several of her songs in my studio last week. She is in love with the "Folded Rose" and the "Norse Maiden's Lament." She says they affect her strangely, insidiously, delightfully.

Stella Barre sang the "Folded Rose" in Brooklyn at a concert two weeks ago. She tells me that several persons in the audience asked for information about the composer.

And, speaking of her Spanish "Dances of the Pyrenees," reminds me that one of the hits of the "Philharmonic" concert on the evening of December 18, was a "Capriccio Espagnol" Opus 34, by Rimsky-Korsakow, with its subdivisions as follows: "Alborado," "Variations," "Alborado," "Scene and Gypsy Song" and "Fandango of the Asturias," which might have been a pendant of the Heckscher "Suite," which owns similar themes; it is even more ardent and flame-like in embellishments and in startling, yet satisfying eventuations. If that delightful young conductor, Josef Stransky, will only take notice, we may yet have the opportunity of comparing Celeste Heckscher and Rimsky-Korsakow in their Spanish metier.

That concert was the most delicious of the Thursday evening series. Think of it, gentle reader, there was no soloist. Neither a bleating tenor from the Metropolitan Opera House, nor a superannuated instrumentalist from over the seas, nor a Signor, Herr or Madame of any age, clime or variety; and yet the house was more than well-filled, though Christmas was so close at hand; and the audience insisted upon presenting Mr. Stransky with one ovation after the other.

The people who were not in their seats when the first number was played missed an unusual treat—a Bach "Prelude," "Choral" and "Fugue" (arranged by Abert), if you please. What deliciousness; what modernity; what close-knit, logical, keen, shrewd figurations. The composition sparkled like a chaplet of perfect white diamonds. Its frank lucidity made you gasp; and when it was finished you became a real Oliver Twist. You begged for more and the audience went fairly mad with excitement, and in the end Mr. Stransky had to make his men rise, and he himself was forced to come out and bow and bow like the veriest prima donna.

The Third Symphony of Beethoven followed upon the heels of Bach's merry "Fugue," and it was truly revealed. Not since Mahler, has the "Marche Funebre" been so displayed; so re-created; so exquisitely shaded in nuance, in poetic and mournful detail; so entirely and upliftingly thought out. To me the spirit of Mahler himself (dead and forgotten by a world which is still too unripe to recognize him) brooded over the house, and inspired the genius of Stransky to its best revelations.

How proud Richard Arnold (erstwhile concert-master, always the high spiritual impulse of this orchestra, the pet and darling of his heart) must have been at this great concert. He knows the strength and powers of Mahler's successor; he knows the pliability, ductility, eager obedience of the musical phalanx under the general's baton. How much and more is due to Arnold's unflagging interest and tireless devotion, the world will never know.

The "Tasso" of Liszt made the point of contrast in the program. And it, too, was played with energy and a consummate discretion and subtlety.

♮ ♮ ♮

Delighting a large and interested assemblage of concert-goers came Mr. Harold Henry, pianist, of Chicago, to New York. In Aeolian Hall, where others have been seen and heard, he appeared in recital on

HUGO P. GOODWIN
ORGANIST
3534 Lake St. Available for Church Position

L. DREW MOSHER
TENOR—Teacher of Singing
137 West Fourth Avenue CINCINNATI, OHIO

Frederick Schweikher PIANIST ORGANIST
PRESIDENT
WESTERN INSTITUTE OF MUSIC AND DRAMATIC ART
25-29 East Eighteenth Avenue, Denver, Colo.

BEN O. BASS TUFTS
Teacher of Singing. 404 Kimball Hall.

EMMA BRUCE BECK
SOPRANO Columbia School of Music
Tel. Harrison 2580

Abbie Stephens Fridenberg
THE METHOD OF PORPORA
From the Rudiments to Artistic Finish
Professional Coaching
VOCAL STUDIOS
Suite 110-111 Carnegie Hall NEW YORK CITY

Herbert E. Hyde
ORGANIST
St. Peter's Church, Chicago

The Piano Pedals By MRS. A. M. VIRGIL, Clear, Concise, Melodious, Results Unequaled.
Price $1.00. Sale unparalleled. Address Dept. C.
The Virgil Piano School Co. 42 West 76th St., New York

the afternoon of December 16, and proved himself an accomplished virtuoso of his instrument; a coming factor to be respectfully considered in the field of his art.

It is gratifying to know that Mr. Henry is a young American of polished and attractive exterior, whose culture and refinement are reflected in his art.

The West has special reason to be proud of him in that his debut in New York was a sort of triumph and ratification of the verdict of Chicago and the West generally.

His program, beginning with a characteristic Bach-Busoni "Prelude" and "Fugue," D major, technically ripe and temperamentally discriminated in his interpretation, included numbers which might have constituted a strain upon the artistic resources of any of the pianists of the first rank. For the idiosyncratic composers after their kind were in evidence, even to the Wagner-Liszt "Isolde's Liebestod," which, played to death, is rarely given with the masterful breadth and poetic thought its character demands, and to which Mr. Henry brought understanding and earnestness.

The "Keltic" Sonata of MacDowell, not too richly wrought by a composer whose imagination was never heavily freighted by the exotic, was performed with fine force and the desire and ability to bring to the surface its true content.

If applause and enthusiasm are outward marks of internal satisfaction, Mr. Henry has every reason to feel that he has made a conquest in the metropolis.

It is gratifying to know that he will be with us in March. Perhaps next season we may have the pleasure of hearing him play a concerto with one of the orchestral organizations.

His interesting program follows:

I.

Prelude and Fugue, D Major.....Bach-Busoni
Rigaudon ..... Rameau-Godowsky
Concert Allegro ..... Scarlatti-Godowsky

II.

Intermezzo, Op. 118, No. 1.....Brahms
Intermezzo, Op. 116, No. 4.....Brahms
Barcarole ..... Chopin
Scherzo, C-sharp minor..... Chopin

III.

Keltic Sonata .....MacDowell

IV.

La Vallee des Cloches.....Ravel
Etude, Op. 64, No. 2.....Cyril Scott
Le Vent ..... Alkan
Sonnetto del Petrarca, No. 123.....Liszt
Isolden's Liebestod .....Wagner-Liszt

OLD VIOLINS AND NEW
OUR CATALOGS WILL SAFELY GUIDE YOU ALL FREE
AUG. GEMÜNDER & SONS
42 EAST 23 ST. NEW YORK
DEP'T. T Special Discount to the Profession. Send for Sample Copy of THE VIOLIN WORLD

I shall have something to say about that interesting composer, Charles Wakefield Cadman, in my next letter.

♮ ♮ ♮

And now, gentle reader, a happy new year to you and yours. Remember that there are various methods whereby the American musician may make good in the coming twelvemonth. Not the least factor in the scheme of success is publicity. And in considering the media of publicity, do not overlook that remarkable publication, Music News.

BISPHAM'S VOGUE IN VAUDEVILLE

David Bispham is upon his tenth triumphant week in vaudeville in Milwaukee, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Buffalo, Toronto, Boston, Providence and two weeks in New York—at the Palace and Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theater. Record audiences and record enthusiasm mark his progress. The public approves his every selection, the Press commends his work as singer, actor and orator, and also as that of a great educator. Not only these, but also as an exponent of the value of the English language sung and spoken is Mr. Bispham held up as a model for the present generation.

♮ ♮ ♮

"David Bispham, supreme artist, is not only a remarkable singer, but an actor of mellowed art. His voice, a rich baritone, is splendid in its tones, never once forced. His enunciation is finely clean-cut, and there is a distinction and finesse—an old-school courtliness—in his personality and methods.

"Mr. Bispham not only aims to delight music-lovers, but he strives to make his offerings educational and instructive. He is one of the great artists of our day, and vaudeville will be vastly the gainer for his appearance."—Dramatic Mirror, October 1, 1913.

♮ ♮ ♮

"The hearty prolonged applause which greeted each effort of David Bispham at his opening performance at the Majestic Theater yesterday was not only a tribute to the wonderful operatic and dramatic ability of the splendid basso, but an expression of the appreciation of really good music and the work of a great artist by a vaudeville audience.

"Such demonstrations as these prove, beyond a doubt that the classics would be popular if they were made familiar to the public."—Milwaukee Free Press, September 2, 1913.

♮ ♮ ♮

"David Bispham, with that dramatic sense which has always made his concert work distinctive, accentuates the actorial features of his songs, thus giving them a direct appeal to the masses. He knows how to suit the best in music to the popular taste, and the result is that his rendition of selections from various operas in English, with his brief introductory remarks, compels an unusual interest and attention. His program is well selected, his voice is as resonant as when he was last here on the concert stage, and his wonderful gift of getting the soul out of a song remains an irresistible asset."—Milwaukee Sentinel, September 2, 1913.

♮ ♮ ♮

"The reception accorded Mr. Bispham was the most spontaneous and genuinely enthusiastic that has been given any artist this season. He presents the same delightful personal traits, the same spirited rendition and the same rich sonorous voice and clear enunciation that have won this singer innumerable friends. It is a pleasure just to listen to David Bispham talk."—Milwaukee Daily News, September 2, 1913. (Advertisement)

LYRAVINE VOTAW
CONTRALTO Recitals, Concerts, Instruction
Studio 521 Kimball Hall, Tues. and Fri. Res. 6611 Woodlawn Av

DORA HEYMAN
PIANIST

Following is some comment of the Chicago press on the recent piano recital of Miss Dora Heyman:

Miss Heyman's Debut

A numerous gathering greeted Miss Dora Heyman, who made her debut in piano recital in the Howard theater. The young artist possesses one of the most promising talents recently displayed in the local concert halls. She has a most surprising facility, her tone is firm, warm, and nicely shaded, and she plays spontaneously. The piano is to her a natural medium of expression, but it also is evident that she has been excellently taught. Her training has been received entirely in Chicago from Miss Delia Thal.

Miss Heyman opened her program with the Liszt transcription of Bach's organ prelude in A minor. Its quite considerable mechanical difficulties she mastered with ease without, however, achieving a notable definition of its musical significance. Paderewski's variations were more within her grasp musically, and she made the most of their opportunities for technical display. Especially attractive in her Chopin group was the etude in F minor, Op. 25.—The Tribune.

The young pianist, Miss Dora Heyman, already is an artist of quality. We could hear but a little of her program, but she gave the Bach-Liszt "Prelude and Fugue" in A minor with an understanding of the music and a clean, firm technique that spoke volumes for her musical powers.—Evening Post.

In her rendition of the "Prelude and Fugue" in A minor by Bach-Liszt and the theme and variations in the same key by Paderewski, Dora Heyman, a young Chicago pianiste, disclosed good technical resources and keen musical perception. She gave her initial recital at the Howard Theater yesterday afternoon and made a successful debut.

The Chopin "Etude," Op. 10, No. 3, showed a commendable singing tone and a flash of temperament.—The Examiner.

A young pianiste, Miss Dora Heyman, introduced herself to a Chicago audience yesterday. The young lady received her musical education in this city, being a pupil of Miss Della Thal.

She is possessed of many promising musical gifts, among which are a sure beautiful tone and a well rounded method of playing, strongly appealing to the sympathy of the hearers. With decided ease and nearly faultlessly she overcame the technical difficulties of the Liszt transcription of the Bach "Prelude and Fugue" in A minor. Musical taste and fine feeling were especially noticeable in the rendering of the Paderewski "Variations" and the playing of the Chopin numbers.—The Abendpost (translated).

Boston, Mass.

Editor
LESTER S. BUTLER

Boston Symphony Orchestra Scheduled

Friday afternoon the Rachmaninoff "Second Symphony," in E minor, was given, and Alfred Holy, the new harpist, made his initial appearance here as a soloist, playing with Mr. Maquarre Mozart's concerto for flute and harp. "Sea Calm and Prosperous Voyage," by Mendelssohn, ended the concert.

Friday afternoon, December 26, and Saturday night, the 27th, Ravel's children's suite, "Mother Goose," following tradition to play one popular number on the Christmas program each year, will be given. "Wachterweise," a symphonic poem by Paul Juon, based upon Danish folk songs, and a novelty, with Berlioz's "Rob Roy" complete the orchestra numbers.

Sylvain Naack, second concertmaster of the orchestra, plays the Mendelssohn concerto.

December 30 the orchestra plays in Infantry Hall, Providence.

♮ ♮ ♮

Bauer and Thibaud, pianist and violinist, give a concert in Symphony Hall, under Mr. Mudgett's management, Sunday afternoon, December 28.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Tourjee Memorial Aid Fund

An increase in the available funds of the Tourjee memorial student-aid fund of the New England Conservatory of Music will result from the very successful "Evening in Holland" given December 19 in Horticultural Hall by the Alumni Association. The affair was under the management of Mrs. Clara Nelson-Tourjee, daughter of Dr. Eben Tourjee, founder of the conservatory. The memorial fund is one which the association started three years ago. As the income is applied to living expenses of needy and meritorious students, it supplements the funds of the New England Conservatory Beneficent Society, the income of which secures remission of tuition for a limited number of young people.

♮ ♮ ♮

With Music Schools and Individuals

On Friday evening, December 19, there was a concert by the Conservatory Orchestra and Choral Club, George W. Chadwick, conductor, assisted by Mrs. Mabel Stanaway-Briggs and Charles Bennett of the faculty. The program included the elfin song from Chadwick's "Noel," Grieg's "At the Cloister Gate," a work intended for women's chorus and orchestra; Schubert's unfinished symphony in B minor; the "Arlesian Suite" of Bizet; the aria "Madaminia, il catalogo e questo" from "Don Giovanni;" two selections from Saint-Saens, who can rarely be overlooked in preparing a music school program.

On Saturday afternoon, December 20, in place of the usual pupils' recital, members of the faculty gave an informal recital. Those appearing were Wallace Goodrich, dean of the faculty; F. Morse Wemple, Clarence B. Shirley, Timothee Adamowski, Charles Bennett and Homer Humphrey.

Miss Bessie Talbot Salmon, since her Boston debut, has been very busy filling engagements in Greater Boston, in Portland, Me., and elsewhere. In Portland she assisted Miss Alice May Hamlin, A. M., who has opened there the Hamlin College of Expression, at a recital that included readings and songs. The Portland Express says: "Miss Salmon is a soprano of lyric capacity, with voice possessing great clearness and warmth of tone and whose execution is remarkably finished." The Portland Daily Press corroborates this and adds, "and her diction is a perfect delight."

Miss Sarah E. Bagley of Boston, her accompanist, won this from the first-named journal: "Not a little of the completeness of the program was due to her adequate work."

Miss Salmon was the vocal soloist of a program of old-time American ballads, piano pieces, like "Monastery Bells," "Battle of Waterloo," "Washington and Lafayette" marches. She sang modern American songs, and there were duets and quartets, ending with Eishburg's "National Hymn."

A paper on "Progress of American Music," written by her aunt, Alice W. Pope, was read. This was illustrated by quartets, duets and vocal solos.

The affair took place Tuesday afternoon, December 16, at Hotel Westminster, Boston, and was given for the State Chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution. Those taking part wore old-fashioned costumes.

Miss Salmon recently read a paper before an Auburndale, Mass., audience, on "Voice Placement, Diction and Interpretation."

The Christmas Sunday program at her church, Melrose, included "Rejoice Greatly" ("Messiah"), the soprano, tenor and bass trio from Saint-Saens' "Christmas Oratorio," and other standard works.

In the afternoon she sang in Stewart's "Christmas Cantata" in the M. E. Church, Newton Center.

♮ ♮ ♮

An interesting and instructive program was given in Huntington Chambers Hall, Thursday night, December 18, by the pupils of the Faelten Pianoforte School. There were ensemble, solo, and illustration of unison playing, and composers represented included Schumann, Bach-Faelten, Grieg, Saint-Saens and Rubinstein.

♮ ♮ ♮

The New England Chapter of the A. G. O. held an interesting meeting at the Harvard Musical Association Wednesday night, December 17, at which plans were discussed for extending the influence of the guild. Dean Clemson read a paper on the "Plans of the Chapter," which met a response from Benjamin Whelpley and other members.

After the business meeting, about forty members and their women guests partook of an informal spread.

A committee has charge of perfecting plans for future effort along the lines mentioned.

The first concert this season by the Cecilia Society, Dr. Arthur Mees, conductor, of a chorus, an orchestra of symphony players, a quartet, Mme. Sundelius, soprano; William Wheeler, tenor, and Reinold Werrenroth, bass (the alto's name is unknown), was given Thursday night, December 18.

Chadwick's "Noel" and a new work by Florient Schmitt, "Psalm Forty-six," were on the program. Interest centered in the latter work, which critics say contains many beautiful passages that were, unfortunately, not clearly brought out on this occasion. John P. Marshall was the organist.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Harold Henry Recital

Monday afternoon, December 15, Harold Henry, a young pianist from Chicago, gave a recital in Jordan Hall before a fair sized audience that listened with critical attention to his playing. That he had made an impression favorable to his artistry was made evident early in the hour by frequent applause, and at the end he held an involuntary reception for very many of his patrons hastening with their congratulations.

At a first hearing one may be impressed with the sincerity of Mr. Henry's efforts and the technical equipment which meets every demand. His repose is also noticeable and his emotional nature well within control. Probably with wider view a greater variety of expression will be acquired and his interpretations more compelling. Of this he gives great promise, and when the moment comes America may have cause to be proud of another musician.

THE CERNY CONCERT COMPANY

Miss Zdenka Cerny, the young Bohemian violoncellist, and her concert company, including Glendora Barnes, vocalist; Beatrice Hellebrand, Bohemian pianist, and A. V. Cerny, accompanist, of Chicago, returned last week from a successful tour in Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota.

The artistic excellence of their performances, and fine programs, won the admiration and praise of audiences wherever they appeared, and the young artists individually scored justly deserved success, especially Miss Cerny, who is well known as a gifted 'cellist, with a fine repertoire of 'cello compositions.

R. M. FIELDS.

TITTA RUFFO'S master
LELIO CASINI, recommends
HAMILTON
HOPKINS
(Casini's Assistant for 4 Years in Milan)
710 Fine Arts Building
CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY IN NEW YORK RECITAL

The following is some comment of the New York press on the recent appearance of Harold Henry in piano recitals:

"It is not often that musical New York hears a young pianist as proficient or possessing so marked a talent as Harold Henry, a westerner, who made his debut here yesterday in Aeolian Hall. Concluding his studies in Europe, Mr. Henry has been playing for several years abroad as well as in this country. And the recognition extended him yesterday is said to be a repetition of what usually happens at his every concert. Thoroughly American in appearance, unaffected and magnetic, Mr. Henry goes about his task in a sincere and effective fashion. He has a singing touch, a fine legato, a splendid sense of rhythm, and ample, accurate technic."—The World, December 17, 1913.

"The central number on his program yesterday was appropriately the 'Keltic' sonata of Edward MacDowell, one of the most valuable compositions left by the distinguished American writer. Before it Mr. Henry played Bach's prelude and fugue in D major, a rigaudon of Rameau, and a concert allegro of Scarlatti. He would have been wiser if he had played these works as they were left by the composer, rather than in transcriptions by Busoni and Godowsky. But the temptation to display technic is almost irresistible in youth. Mr. Henry demonstrated that he possesses genuine piano touch, no small variety of color, a tone always warm and a knowledge of pedal effects not always revealed by young players. His talent is a substantial one."—The Sun, December 17, 1913.

"The most notable number on Mr. Henry's piano recital program yesterday afternoon at Aeolian Hall was MacDowell's 'Keltic' sonata. Mr. Henry gave an interesting performance of the sonata, especially of the poetic second movement. Mr. Henry deserves praise for his unconventional program, as well as for his playing, which was interesting and beautiful as well as correct, thus having the three qualities Hans von Bulow demanded in a pianist."—The Evening Post, December 17, 1913.

"Mr. Harold Henry, who gave a pianoforte recital in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon, is a young man, apparently an American, with talent and a considerable degree of development, technical and artistic. He showed yesterday in his playing musical feeling, fire and individuality, taste and intelligence; also no little confidence and aplomb. His most extensive number was MacDowell's 'Keltic' sonata. He began with Bach's D major prelude and fugue, as Busoni wishes it played; a rigaudon by Rameau, and an allegro by Scarlatti, as Godowsky wishes them (in both of these last the composers would have been amazed); intermezzi by Brahms, a group of modern pieces, including Alkan's 'LeVent' and Liszt's transcription of 'Isolde's Liebestod.'—The Times. December 17, 1913.

"A distinctly favorable impression was made by Harold Henry, a pianist from Chicago, who gave a first local recital yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall. Mr. Henry played with vigor, clean and well developed technic and sound ideas of interpretation. One might have asked for a little more warmth and poetry, but one was glad for the substantial merits disclosed."—The Globe and Commercial Advertiser, December 17, 1913.

"Harold Henry, a pianist with no heralding save that he is a resident of Chicago, played yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall, where, after a few minutes' occupancy of the stage, he proved that he has serious qualities. His principal offering was the 'Keltic' sonata of MacDowell, but before this he had aroused interest and respect for his readings of two intermezzos of Brahms, opus 118, No. 1, and opus 116, No. 4, which are not familiar to the average concert-goer. In the Chopin barcarolle, also in the C sharp minor scherzo, he proved himself fluent of technic, with clear, easy scales and a poetic imagination which remains sane and manly. His opening group was devoted to arrangements. At the close his group included Ravell's 'Vallee des Cloches,' an etude by Cyril Scott; Liszt's 'Sonnetto del Petrarca,' and the Wagner-Liszt 'Liebestod.' He aroused genuine enthusiasm throughout the entire offering."—The Evening Mail, December 17, 1913.

Chicago Pianist Welcomed Here

"Henry's playing seemed refreshingly sane, clean-cut and manly in Busoni's adaptation of Bach's prelude and fugue in D major, and arrangements by Godowsky of a rigaudon by Rameau, and a concert allegro by Scarlatti."—The Press, December 17, 1913.

"There was plenty to occupy the concert-goers in the musical world of yesterday. In the afternoon Harold Henry, a pianist, well known and popular throughout the west, made his New York debut with a recital in Aeolian Hall, and disclosed himself an artist of not a little promise. His tone was warm and he played at times with much delicacy. His technical equipment was always adequate and there seems no reason why he should not grow in artistry as he grows in years."—The Tribune, December 17, 1913.

"He began with three severe and trying numbers, the playing of which proved him a technician of considerable achievement. The Bach-Busoni prelude and fugue in D was managed with uniformity of power, precision and sincerity."—American, December 17, 1913.

"Harold Henry's piano recital yesterday in Aeolian Hall showed the young Chicago artist in excellent light. His work is interesting. His program began with the Bach-Busoni prelude and fugue in D major and went on to the 'Rigaudon' by Rameau-Godowsky, and the concert-allegro by Scarlatti-Godowsky. There was an interesting hearing of Brahms in his intermezzos, opus 118, No. 1, and opus 116, No. 4, and Chopin was represented by a barcarolle and scherzo in C sharp minor. The MacDowell 'Keltic' sonata was given broadly, and yet with great contrasts of light and shade. At the finale the big, splendid theme and gentle melody which are interwoven at the end were given poetically and forcefully in alternation. The last group of numbers revealed the player as one who can make a program of singular interest by departing from the beaten paths. He played 'La Vallee des Cloches' by Ravel in mellow bell tones and rich effects of harmony as if carillons were sweeping through the air. The Cyril Scott 'etude' was brilliantly played, and Alkan's 'Le Vent,' with its rich runes, deep-toned cantabile and surge of minor was brought out with fluency. The Liszt 'Sonnetto del Petrarcha' was played with lovely expression. Wagner's 'Isoldens Liebestod' had a sensitive and imaginative interpretation. Mr. Henry gave the impression of being a scholar and a thinker."—Brooklyn Eagle, December 17, 1913. (Advertisement.)

SWAINSON LECTURE RECITALS
THIRD AMERICAN TOUR 1914-1915
Address - - - Care MUSIC NEWS

ARCANGELI
ITALIAN VOCAL SCHOOL
504 Athenaeum Bldg. CHICAGO

Mme. Carola Loos-Tooker
Expert Voice Builder and Coach.
3814 Ellis Avenue. Tel. Aldine 7931

Lemuel W. Kilby
BASS-BARITONE
Management Charles E. Watt, Kimball Hall, Chicago

Melvin Martinson
VIOLINIST
Concerts. Teaching
411 Kimball Hall and 1139 Michigan Avenue

GUSTAF HOLMQUIST
BASSO Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
606 Fine Arts Building

Clara Jeannette PEARNE
Teacher of Piano, Harmony and History of Music
419 MERRICK BUILDING 357 W. 63rd Street

Clarence Eidam Pianist
Ninth Floor, Auditorium Building CHICAGO

MILON R. HARRIS, Tenor
Voice Development and Artistic Singing—
STUDIO, 403 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

Mendelssohn Conservatory
Carrie Scott, Director
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

HAROLD HENRY
CONCERT PIANIST
426 Fine Arts Building

Silas Wright Mountz
Vocal Culture and Art of Singing
Lecture Song Recitals
Concert and Oratorio Basso Cantante
Studio 446 W. 40th Place Los Angeles, Calif.

Mary Lindsay Oliver
PIANISTE TEACHER
STUDIO, MOLINE, ILLINOIS
Exclusiv Manageme - HARRY CULBERTSON

WANT ADVERTISEMENTS

(Advertisements under this head will hereafter be accepted at 20 cents a line.)

FOR SALE—Steinway Baby Grand Piano; two years old; perfect condition; mahogany case; $700.00. Call prone North 458, between 9 and 12 a. m.

HARMONY and composition by mail. Raymond Robinson, organist and choirmaster of Central Church, Boston. Address 6 Newbury st., Boston, Mass.

TO RENT—Unusually large Studio equipped with Grand and Upright piano, electric lights and fan. Reception room with telephone in connection. Tuesdays and Fridays from 3 o'clock on; 516 Kimball Hall.

JESSIE KING
PIANISTE
Studio 416, 59 E. Van Buren Street

John Allen Richardson
TEACHER OF SINGING
Ninth Floor - - - Auditorium Building

HARRISON EMANUEL
CONCERT VIOLINIST
6352 RHODES AV. PHONE CENTRAL 2112

DELMA-HEIDE
MAESTRO DI BEL CANTO ITALIANO
30, Rue Marbeuf (Champs-Elysees), Paris

Julius BRANDER
VIOLINIST TEACHER
54 Auditorium Bldg. Home Phone Edgewater 2755

HANS HESS 'CELLIST
American Conservatory Telephone Lincoln 7917

Mrs. M. Schutz Burkhardt
SOPRANO
Oratorio Concert Song Recital
Direction Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau, Meadville Pa.

HEATHE GREGORY
BASS-BARITONE
Recitals Concert Oratorio
616 East 49th Street

Wm. Clare Hall
Tenor Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

Hazel Dell Neff
SOPRANO
PLYMOUTH - INDIANA

ELECTA AUSTIN
PIANIST TEACHER
NORTH SHORE SCHOOL OF MUSIC and
4554 North Lincoln Street RAVENSWOOD

W. Otto Miessner Supervisor of Music Oak Park, Ill.
COMPOSER, CONDUCTOR and Teacher of Singing
Pupil of Edgar Stillman Kelley and Alexander Heinemann, Berlin
Res. 209 Wesley Av. Tel. Oak Park 2507

LOUISE MATHEWS STRIBLEN
SOPRANO
Voice Building, Oratorio and Song Recital
429 Fine Arts Building Res. Phone 4923 Drexel

Music in America

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA

A charming event of artistic importance was the song recital given by Gustaf Holmquist in the Temple Theater, December 16, under the auspices of the Grieg Male Choir. A large number of Mr. Holmquist's countrymen, together with many local music lovers, were in attendance and showered no end of cordial applause upon the artist. Mr. Holmquist received nineteen recalls and added five selections to an already generous program. A feature of particular interest and charm were the accompaniments furnished by Mr. Arvid Samuelson, who supported the artist, playing accompaniments which were fluent and highly sympathetic, achieving a delightfully artistic result.

♮ ♮ ♮

Frysinger Organ Recital

Of an interest quite extraordinary was the dedicatory organ recital given at the East Lincoln Baptist Church by Mr. J. Frank Frysinger, on the evening of December 18. The church was well filled by a large percentage of church members and a goodly representation from the ranks of Lincoln's music lovers and musicians. The latter, who made the effort to go out to East Lincoln, were well repaid. Mr. Frysinger's status as a musician, composer and organist of the highest rank has been firmly established in this community. He is the organist of the First Presbyterian church and his selections during regular church services invariably attract many non-members.

J. FRANK FRYSINGER

It is, however, a matter of sincere regret that Lincoln does not possess a large instrument adequate to Mr. Frysinger's great musicianship and artistry. On the other hand, it is remarkable how worthily he manages to frequently present some of the masterpieces. It is superfluous to dilate upon his skill, his absolute mastery of registration and the charm generally of his performances.

The following program was rendered:

Sonata, D Minor ..... Mendelssohn
Minuet in G ..... Beethoven-Rogers
By the Sea ..... Schubert-Eddy
Prelude and Fugue, A Minor ..... Bach
Allegretto, E Flat ..... Wolstenholme
Scherzo, B Flat ..... Hoyte
Legend, G Minor ..... Federlein
In Springtime ..... Kinder
Traumlied
Laudate Domini } ..... Frysinger
Meditation in G }

In presenting these numbers, Mr. Frysinger succeeded admirably in holding the attention of his audience throughout and delighting them to a high degree. The Mendelssohn and Bach numbers, together with Mr. Frysinger's compositions, constituted the greatest interest to musicians. The Mendelssohn sonata was given a most worthy and impressive reading, while the Bach number was exhilarating in the extreme. Mr. Frysinger's "Laudate Domini" is a work worthy the serious consideration of great organists and is a valuable addition to modern organ literature. It is rich in harmonic invention and represents a most eloquent message in splendid idiomatic modern treatment. The "Traumlied" and "Meditation" are smaller forms, characteristic of Mr. Frysinger's well known rich, melodic wealth, and in every respect most grateful to listener and performer.

In response to urgent recalls, Mr. Frysinger consented to add Dvorak's "Humoresque" in the Rogers arrangement.

♮ ♮ ♮

Silber Pupil Graduate Recital

On Monday evening, December 22, Miss Etta Bickert, student with Sidney Silber of the University School of Music, gave her graduate recital, which attracted a large representation from her home town, College View. The following program was rendered:

Sonata, F Minor, Op. 5 ..... Brahms
Allegro maestoso
Andante espressivo
Scherzo—Allegro energico
Intermezzo
Finale—Allegro moderato ma rubato
Nocturne, Op. 15, No. 2
Etude, Op. 25, No. 9 } ..... Chopin
Scherzo, Op. 20, No. 1 }
Concerto, A Minor, Op. 54 ..... Schumann
Allegro affetuoso
Intermezzo—Andantino grazioso
Allegro vivace
(Orchestral parts on second piano, Mr. Silber.)

Miss Bickert showed the results of excellent training together with inherent gifts of a high order. She possesses fine musicianship and pianistic ability. Her work is at all times most substantial and clear. A facile technic, a sympathetic touch and a masterful treatment of the pedals combine to make her playing most attractive, charming and artistically satisfying.

LUDWIG BECKER
VIOLINIST Columbia School of Music
Management Harry Culbertson, Fine Arts Bldg.

ROCK ISLAND, ILL.

An interesting program was given last evening under the auspices of the Rock Island Monday Music Club, La Porte Van Sant directing. A select audience of invited guests manifested much enthusiasm over the work of the club, and the several visiting vocalists from out of the city. The program was opened by Miss Irene McLeay with "I Dreamt" by Scheria, in the singing of which she exhibited fine musical qualities and a voice of great richness and flexibility. She was no less successful in the "Cavatina" from "Roberto Il Diavolo," the latter requiring considerable dramatic expression.

Mrs. James Wilson of Monmouth, the possessor of a beautiful contralto voice of power and range, greatly pleased in "Summer Rain," by Willoughby. In her two Cadman numbers, Miss May Allen captivated her audience, her tonal quality and artistic conception giving great promise of future success in the field of vocal art.

Miss Florence Winter, who possesses a contralto voice of unusual power and brilliancy for a young singer, fully sustained the reputation she has already acquired in local musical circles by her spirited rendering of "Vainka's Song" by Von Stutsman.

Sidney Steamburg, although suffering from a slight indisposition of voice, greatly pleased in "Lolita" and the duet, "O, That We Two Were Maying," with Miss McLeay.

The singing of the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria" by Miss Tillie Wanke, fully demonstrated the unusual powers of this young soprano, who, with sufficient study, should achieve success in the world of song, her voice showing tonal beauty and extended range. With a low F of the power of the average contralto, she takes the high B natural in beautiful soaring quality in this trying selection.

Mrs. Martin T. Wiedman, one of Burlington sopranos of much local repute, greatly pleased in "Mother of Mine," by Frank Tours, and Mrs. F. B. Crandall, who appeared before the club for the first time, created a very favorable impression in her sympathetic rendering of "Ah Let Me Dream," by Taylor. The singing of Mrs. Dr. Miller, who possesses a fine sympathetic voice, showed excellent musicianship and artistic conception, especially in the rendering of "Carissima" by Penn, her singing evoking much favorable comment from many of her auditors.

After the collation was served several impromptu numbers were called for and received with enthusiasm. The accompaniments were well rendered by Miss Dae Allen, Miss Florence Winter and Mr. Van Sant. The club, which after the beginning of the New Year will have new features added to its activities, has proven helpful to local singers and, judging from the enthusiasm and interest displayed by its members, promises to be even more so in the future. MRS. RAE BAKER.

———♯♯♯———

Root.—Mr. Frederick Root is holding this winter his repertoire class on Saturday mornings at his Kimball Hall Studios, this being the fourteenth season. The opera of "Aida" is being studied at present.

Iva Bigelow Weaver SOPRANO Oratorio & Recitals
Cosmopolitan School of Music, CHICAGO
Mack Block, MILWAUKEE. WIS.

Science of Movement for Musical Interpretation. Gestures, Posing, Dancing and Stage Work. May Mansfield PARIS STUDIOS: 27 Rue Boislevent Passy

THE IMPERIAL QUARTET
BEN Q. TUFTS, Manager 404 Kimball Hall, Chicago Phone Harrison 7949

HERBERT BUTLER VIOLINIST
KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

South Bend Conservatory 207-211 South Main St. South Bend, Ind.
A modern and thoroughly equipped College of Music and Dramatic Art. Graduate Courses under fine faculty of fifteen Artist Teachers
Publishers of THE LARK Ask for Catalog Sample Sent on Request Address MILTON B. GRIFFITH, Director

CADMAN AMERICAN COMPOSER
In Indian Folk-Lore Recitals.
Recitals of His Compositions.
Accompanying Famous Singers in His Songs
Care WHITE, SMITH AND CO., BOSTON SEASON 1912-1913

H. W. OWENS VOCAL DIRECTOR
WESTERN CONSERVATORY
Voice Teacher Coaching
PHONE CENTRAL 7804

CHRISTINE MILLER
CONTRALTO
Personal Address, 1003 Heberton St., Pittsburgh, Pa. Management Haensel & Jones, Aeolian Hall, New York

MARIE NARELLE AUSTRALIAN SOPRANO
Management SUTORIUS
ABBIE S. FRIDENBERG, 110 Carnegie Hall, Sole Representative No. 1 West 34th St.

MR. & MRS JOHN W. NICHOLS Tenor & Pianist
JOINT-RECITALS Address 330 West 58th St. NEW YORK CITY

Mrs. Stacey Williams
ARTISTIC SINGING Specialization of Tone Production
406 KIMBALL HALL, CHICAGO

GERALD HUNT Basso-Cantante
ADDRESS MUSIC NEWS

JOHN DOANE, Jr. Concert Organist
Pupil of EDWIN H. LEMARE
PUPILS - ACCOMPANIST - COACH
NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC - - EVANSTON

Hazel Huntley Contralto
EXCLUSIVE MANAGEMENT HARRY CULBERTSON
609 FINE ARTS BUILDING PHONE HARRISON 6880

Jessie Lynde HOPKINS Contralto
Studio, Auditorium Bldg., Chicago
HOME PHONE DOUGLAS 2544 STUDIO PHONE HARRISON 4868

Edward Walker TENOR
Exclusive Management Harry Culbertson
1325 E. 64th St., Chicago, Ill.
Phone Midway 2958

PHELPS COWAN ORGANIST AND ACCOMPANIST
IMMANUEL CHURCH
La Grange, Ill.

Day Williams
Teaching 'Cello Soloist Ensemble
1229 Norwood St., Phone Edgewater 4480

MABEL BOND
TEACHER PIANIST
6415 Sangamon St., Phone Englewood 2519

JESSIE MACK HAMILTON
SOPRANO
Teacher of Singing. Recitals. Concerts
914 LaFayette Parkway Tel. Ravenswood 325.
Studio 714 Kimball Hall

Palmer Christian
Concert Organist - Pupils - Coach - Accompanist
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Building

DWIGHT EDRUS COOK
TENOR Director Vocal Department Boise Conservatory of Music.
Pinney Building, BOISE IDAHO

MARJORIE DODGE WARNER
Phone Austin 23973
5704 Washington Boulevard Soprano

GEORGE G. EMERSON
TEACHER OF PIANO
THE ARCADE CLEVELAND, OHIO

Edith Adelaide Kien
Pianist and Accompanist
Studio, Arlington Av. and May St. South Elmhurst, Ill

Reese R. Reese
BARITONE Concert Oratorio Recital
202 Nixon Bldg., Pittsburgh

ELSE HARTHAN-ARENDT
DRAMATIC SOPRANO
Care of Music News or 5742 Calumet Av
Phone Normal 1406

H. EVAN WILLIAMS
TENOR Concert, Recital, Oratorio
Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 456 W. Market St.
NEW YORK AKRON, OHIO

DR. CARVER WILLIAMS, Basso
Concert, Oratorio, Recital, Voice Development and Repertoire
Management, Sam'l B. Garton, 323 S. Wabash Av., 2nd Floor

Marie Sidenius Zendt
SOPRANO Concerts, Oratorio, Recitals
Phone 849 R, Wilmette 719 Park Av., Wilmette Ill.

Harry R. Detweiler
PIANIST Teaching Recitals
61 Auditorium, Chicago
Pres. Columbia Cons. Aurora, Ill. Dormitory Acommodation

ALEXANDER Zukowsky
The Russian Violin Virtuoso
VIOLIN SCHOOL
627 Fine Arts Building
CONCERTS, RECITALS
PRIVATE ENGAGEMENTS

LOS ANGELES

A centenary celebration program to Verdi was presented under the direction of Signor Pietro Buzzi. The program was a commendably good one and, barring the use of the Italian text throughout, it was highly acceptable in rendition. The performers were Mrs. Aliberto Arnaz, a lyric soprano with promising possibilities in operatic roles. The second was Miss Helen Beatrix Cooper, an artist of good preparation, who the past year attained here some popularity. Miss Adela Levy was an acceptable third lyric soprano. They were all very ably accompanied by Miss Glenora Zink, who also gave three overtures as piano solos. Signor Buzzi read a well prepared paper on the great Italian Verdi and his musical influence as educator in popular operas.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. William Mead, director of the Congregational Church Orchestra, with Miss Nell Lockwood McClune, contralto soloist, gave in good style and finish a program of merit. "An Indian Love Idyl," words by Alice Rogers and music by Verne Elliott, with orchestra, in four parts, was the contralto's contribution. Both authors are of Los Angeles.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Gage Christopher, with his pupils, gave a list of twenty good selections with ten promising voices.

♮ ♮ ♮

The Harmony Club, especially a leader in musical education, gave a very meritorious program, in which Julian Pascal, a high grade pianist, opened the program, followed by other excellent vocal artists.

♮ ♮ ♮

Mr. Bernard Berg, with his violin pupils, and Mr. Parmegiani's saxophone pupils, in solos and quartets showed good work in process of development.

♮ ♮ ♮

The People's Orchestra and the Orpheus Male Chorus of fifty singers, under the conductorship of Mr. Dupuy, gave an enjoyable entertainment. The chorus has seldom sung better than on this occasion. The orchestra is invariably good. The Bizet "L' Arlesinne" suite was most interesting, as well as Berlioz's "Marche Hongroise" for the closing.

The management is using every effort to sustain the People's Orchestra concerts on Sunday afternoons, but without some guarantors the admission will not sustain the expenses.

We are promised two performances of "The Messiah" and "Elijah" and "Creations" in preparation for early rendition.

The Symphony will give its second pair of concerts next week. A surfeit of Christmas cantatas by the church choirs is also promised.

♮ ♮ ♮

This week at the sessions of the City, County and Southern California Teachers' Association meetings many excellent recitals, vocal and instrumental, have been given, that have had a very hearty reception by the visiting teachers. The greatest program was that of the piano recital by Fanny Bloomfield Zeisler, and she will appear for the people in another program tomorrow evening.

Long Beach inaugurated an annual teachers' institute course and made a special feature in the music interspersement, Miss Gertrude Cohen in a piano recital, Mrs. Bessie Abbott Howland in a song recital in which she was very ably supported by Mrs. Luella Clark Emery as accompanist.

Mme. D. Clement Chevrier, contralto, in a fine recital. Mr. Walter Hastings Olney, baritone, in seven good songs. Mr. Ralph R. Laughlin in a program of tenor songs. This work is strongly educational, as its enthusiasm is carried into the schools and must bear good fruit. What a change from a score of years ago in the opportunities for cultivation of musical taste and scientific musical education. What a part music plays in the heart life of its devotees. We could not do without it. S. W. MOUNTZ.

446 West Fortieth Place.

♯ ♯ ♯

BOISE, IDAHO

Mr. Dwight Edrus Cook, who recently joined the faculty of the Boise Conservatory, gave a recital last Wednesday, the local press commenting as follows:

"The program given by the faculty of the Boise Conservatory of Music on Wednesday evening, introducing Dwight Edrus Cook, its most recent member, was a complete and gratifying success. Mr. Cook's voice is a full, robust tenor. Throughout the entire program he had it well in hand and used it to its best advantage in the 'Rigoletto' number, which was enthusiastically received and encored. The group of songs in the ancient style was quaint and pleasing, showing one side of the singer's artistic ability. In quite a different vein, but especially pleasing, might be mentioned 'One Tone,' 'Songs My Mother Taught Me' and 'I Love Thee,'" of the second group, revealing depth of feeling and originality of interpretation. The sympathetic quality of voice was brought out in his singing of Tour's appealing 'Mother o' Mine,' which created such an impression that his hearers demanded it the second time. The program was an arduous one, comprising as it did works of varied styles, ancient and modern, bright and grave, and operatic numbers of the old Italian and ultra-modern schools, but Mr. Cook was equal to them all and never once was there the least strain on voice or listeners. The work of Miss Grace Sensenig as accompanist was another factor which added to the enjoyment of Mr. Cook's work."

♯ ♯ ♯

WOOSTER, OHIO

On Friday evening the oratorio "The Crusaders" by Niels Gade was presented by the Oratorio Chorus and soloists, under the direction of Professor V. V. Lytle, in the Memorial Chapel.

This is the first oratorio concert over which Professor Lytle has acted as director since coming to Wooster as director of the conservatory of the university, and the complete success of the entire evening's entertainment was due in a large measure to his ability as a director.

♯ ♯ ♯

Dunford.—Frank M. Dunford is to appear in a "Messiah" performance at the Englewood Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening, January 4.

ERIE, PA.

Franz Egenieff, the noted German baritone, gave a successful song recital at the Hotel Lawrence on Friday evening, December 12, and the beautiful ball room was crowded to the doors with an audience which listened with deep appreciation to a program which was far more interesting than the average of its kind, in that it was composed of numbers seldom heard in present day song recitals, such as Schumann's "Belsazar" and Loewe's "De Nock." From the opening group of Hugo Wolf's songs to the closing number, Kaun's "My Native Land," Mr. Egenieff's program stamped him as a singer of high ideals, and possessed of one of the smoothest voices it has ever been the writer's privilege to hear, combined with unusual interpretative ability. A word of praise is due Dr. Jeno Kerntler for his sympathetic accompaniments and his artistic playing of two solo numbers. This recital was the first of a series which is being given under the direction of Mrs. William Hart Boughton, at the Hotel Lawrence, the next one being a piano recital by Myrtle Elvyn.

♮ ♮ ♮

On his Christmas program, Albert H. Dowling, Jr., organist of First Unitarian Church, will feature two organ compositions which he has just completed, a "Serenade" and "Capriccio."

♮ ♮ ♮

Mrs. Edwin Brevillier, contralto, of the Park Presbyterian Church, was heard as soloist at a concert given by the Sixty-fifth Regiment Band, in the Broadway Auditorium in Buffalo, Sunday evening, December 14. Mrs. Brevillier was programmed for only two numbers, but in response to enthusiastic applause was compelled to add six encores. The Buffalo papers were unanimous in their praise of Mrs. Brevillier's artistic singing.

ALBERT H. DOWLING, JR.

TALLEHASSEE, FLORIDA

Ella Scoble Opperman, director of the School of Music of Florida State College, Tallehassee, presented Paul Bliss' Indian operetta, "The Feast of the Red Corn," on December 15. It was most artistically produced by Marlea Oskinwau Bishop, teacher of voice, with dances by Dubois Elder of the School of Expression. The chorus of sixty-five voices gave an ensemble of song and grace in a degree to compare favorably with professionals. The soloists, Constance Cavell and Grace Hilditch, deserve special mention for their clever interpretations.

Hostetter.—Hildred Hanson Hostetter was soprano soloist at the "Messiah" performance at Kalamazoo recently, the other artists being Miss Sprague, John B. Miller and Arthur Middleton. Last week Mrs. Hostetter also appeared as soloist in a concert at the High School Auditorium of Oak Park under direction of Otto Miessner.

Moline.—Lily Wadhams Moline was accompanist at a musicale at the Woman's North End Club, Edgewater, last Monday evening a number of pupils of Mrs. Hanna Butler appearing in song program.

LILIAN MARY STOUT
PIANO
Just returned from study in Berlin
429 FINE ARTS BUILDING
Phone Sunnyside 8540

Speech Technique for Teachers, Speakers and Singers
Do you know how a "well placed tone" feels? Do you know the fifteen definite vowel forms? Do you know how all consonants shou'd be produced? How connected? Do you know when R should be trilled and when it should not be trilled? If you do not know these truths then your diction is inefficient. If you are not happy in your work, call on
KATHERINE SCHUSTER
71 AUDITORIUM BUILDING, CHICAGO
Specialist in Tongue Training and Voice Placing.

ELLA L. MILLS
PIANIST
American Conservatory and
117 S. Austin Av., Oak Park

Ethel Altemus
PIANIST
New York Address 665 Lexington Av.
Personal Representative
FREDERICK CLARK
83 Auditorium Building, Chicago

SOFIA STEPHALI
COLORATURA MEZZO-SOPRANO
CONCERTS RECITALS CLUBS
Res. 6106 Kimbark Av. Phone Midway 5912
Exclusive Management Musical Bureau for American Artists

MARGARET LESTER WILLIAM
SOPRANO COMPOSER
Phone Harrison 6880 Accompanist
608 FINE ARTS BUILDING

Louise George
Children's Harmony
Chicago Piano College

Jennie F. W. Johnson
Contralto
American Conservatory and
4937 Michigan Av., Chicago

Preiser Violin School
STUDIOS
530 N. Pine Av., Austin
5407 S. Halsted St. and
2831 Washington Boul.
ALBERT LEO PREISER Director Phone Austin 4043

CONCERTS RECITALS ORATORIOS
OSCAR SEAGLE
17 Avenue Mozart
Paris (France)
BARITONE
American Tour October to March, 1913-14. Management LOUDON CHARLTON

THUEL BURNHAM
PIANIST AND TEACHER In Paris all Summer 119 rue de la Tour (XVIe

ELEANOR HAZZARD-PEOCOCK
DRAMATIC SOPRANO RECITALS CONCERTS
FRANCE ENGLAND GERMANY
Manager L. G. Sharpe, 61 Regent Street, London

LOUISE BURTON
SOPRANO 520 Fine Arts Bldg Phone Drexel 8183

Esther Plumb
CONTRALTO
4173 Lake Avenue
Phone Oakland 3246
Exclusive management, Harry Culbertson
Fine Arts Bldg., Chicago

WALTER DIEDERICH TENOR
TEACHING CONCERT ORATORIO RECITAL
608 Fine Arts Building, Phone Harrison 6880

MR. TENOR
MRS. DRAMATIC READER
Karl Buren Stein
JOINT RECITALS
55 Auditorium Bldg.
TEACHERS of SINGING ELOCUTION ACTING

FRANK W. Van Dusen PIANO-ORGAN American Conservatory Kimball Ha

LUCILLE STEVENSON
4438 Berkeley Av. SOPRANO

Edna Winifred Cookingham
PIANIST Teacher in American Conservatory
Res. 3856 N. 42nd Avenue

Daniel Protheroe
Teacher of Singing and Composition
610 FINE ARTS BUILDING CHICAGO

IRMA HAIGHT
SOPRANO The Miraflores, 1420 Flower St.
Los Angeles, Cal.

MASON SLADE
PIANO Christ Episcopal Church ORGAN
65th and WOODLAWN AVENUE

IRVING C. HANCOCK
Organist and Choirmaster, Trinity Episcopal Church
PUPILS—PIANO AND ORGAN Phone Drexel 6903

ESTA ASHER REED
14-16 W. Lake Street, Chicago

THEODORA STURKOW-RYDER
PIANIST
4715 Lake Av. Chicago

Mary Hinman STEELE
TEACHER OF SINGING
503 Kimball Hall - - - - - CHICAGO

KENNARD BARRADELL
Kimball Hall TENOR Chicago

Ralph M. Gerber
Organ Piano Teaching Accompanying
5402 JACKSON AVENUE

MARIE EDWARDS
PIANIST
Cosmopolitan School of Music Auditorium Bldg
Home Address—2831 Washington Boulevard

Harriet Case SOPRANO
COSMOPOLITAN SCHOOL OF MUSIC

ETHEL GROW Contralto
Soloist New England Congregational Church
CONCERT---ORATORIO---SONG RECITAL
1002 DEARBORN AV. Phone North 2635

Stephen Adolph Erst
Pianist 1553 Edgewater Place

Gaylord YOST American Violinist
Address
INDIANAPOLIS CONSERVATORY

FRANK STONE
TENOR
304 KIMBALL HALL CHICAGO

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON

An interesting feature of the meeting of the Piano Teachers' Association last week was the discussion of the registration of music teachers, which has become a progressive movement through the instigation of John C. Freund. A brief talk was given on the subject by Willard Howe, who said, in part:

"To discuss such a registration with the members of congress was the chief cause of Mr. Freund's recent hurried visit to Washington. He is gathering statistics and information from various sources in order to determine just what would be the most feasible course to be pursued. The movement is young, but it is spreading rapidly, because the thinking public at once realized that such a registration would mean that the incompetent teacher must of necessity fall by the wayside."

Owing to the success of the series of lesson-recitals given here last winter by Harold Randolph, director of the Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore, he has been asked to continue the course with a new series, beginning Tuesday morning, December 9. Mr. Randolph plays at each recital a program of piano music, interspersed with explanatory comment, and will also take up orchestral and operatic work of special interest at the time.

Mr. Randolph, who gave a recital recently in New York, meeting with most favorable criticism, is well known here, having played at many recitals in private houses, notably the Netherlands legation, which, during Jonkheer Loudon's term of service, was a center for music lovers.

George H. Miller, who is so well and favorably known in Washington, who recently opened a studio in Kansas City, accepting at the time the position as bass soloist of the Independence Christian Church, has been appointed musical director of Grand Avenue Methodist Church, the largest church of the city. He will assume his duties January 1. He recently gave a recital and was most favorably received by musicians and critics.

HORACE D. HITCHCOCK.

GARY, INDIANA

Enthusiastic rehearsals are being held weekly by the Choral Society preparatory to the cantata, "Rose Maiden" (Cowen), which will be given at the Gary Theater on Tuesday evening, January 13, and which promises to be one of the most successful musical performances ever held by a local musical organization.

The chorus consists of about fifty voices, including well known and talented musicians of the city. There will be four assisting artists, all musicians of note and possessed of rich and beautiful voices. They are: Mabel Corlew-Smidt, soprano; Miss Ethel Grow, contralto; Grant Kimbell, tenor, and Lemuel W. Kilby, bass-baritone.

Mrs. Smidt is possessed of an exceptionally rich voice, especially adapted to her profession. Her voice is one of rare beauty and she possesses temperament to a remarkable degree. Among the younger sopranos she is rapidly winning and holding a prominent place. Miss Grow is also the possessor of an exquisite voice which has all of the qualifications required for a contralto singer. She has appeared with marked success in many song-recitals and concerts. Mr. Kimbell is soloist at the First Congregational Church of Oak Park and at Temple B'nai Sholam, Chicago. He has made splendid advance in his art and has been highly successful in fulfilling concert, recital and oratorio engagements as well as work in quartet in Chautauqua and other tours. He has a clear tenor voice, wide range and pleasing expression, which meets the appreciation of every audience before which he appears. Mr. Kilby is a singer of fine presence, excellent voice and with an extended repertoire. His song recitals have been enthusiastically commended and his success in oratorio has been very pronounced.

SOPHIA STEPHALI

Concert Lecture was Big Success

"The popular concert-lecture given by Mme. Sofia Stephali last evening was one of the enjoyable musical events of the summer season and was well-attended.

"The points made by Mme. Stephali were splendidly illustrated in her program which followed. She possesses a beautiful voice, under perfect control, and she sings with much feeling. The program was a big success."—The Reporter (Fond Du Lac, Wis.).

"Mme. Sofia Stephali, one of the foremost concert artists before the public, today gave a concert-lecture Monday evening. In her brief talk, she gave an interesting demonstration that captivated her audience. She has a beautiful mezzo-soprano voice that causes one to forget the singer in her song. Last night she charmed another large audience. The concert program was every bit as wonderful as that of the evening previous."—Haverhill (Mass.) Evening Gazette.

"The appearance of Mme. Sofia Stephali, the noted mezzo-soprano, is causing much interest in local artistic circles, for not only is she an artist to her finger tips and possessed of an unusually attractive personality and a voice of rare beauty texture, but she has something to say and she conveys this message through the double medium of speech and song. The entire course was one that made for an uplift and was a rare treat in the full sense of the word."—Hartford (Conn.) Times.

"Mme. Sofia Stephali in her first concert-lecture last evening spoke on the 'Influence of Music.' She is a concert singer of wide repute in both Europe and America. She is a pupil of Corelli. Since her formal introduction to the musical world, her services have been eagerly sought."—Hartford, Conn.

"A large crowd assembled last evening to hear the concert-lecture by Mme. Sofia Stephali. Her attractive program gave great pleasure to the music lovers.

"The program consisted of songs calculated to touch popular feelings and please the taste of the wider-minded public. She is the possessor of a strong, clear, mezzo-soprano voice and sings with a finished and fine artistic understanding. It was clearly visible that the excellence of her illustrations came from the perfection of her interpretations. She caught and expressed the spirit of her songs with unerring instinct, which was greatly helped by the excellence of her enunciation.

"The entertainment was the first of its kind ever given in this city, and was greatly appreciated by the audience."—The Hamilton (Ont.) Spectator.

"Mme. Sofia Stephali gave a program before a large audience last evening that showed the wonderful power of music. She is a talented musician and lecturer. Her audience was thoroughly appreciative. Her illustrative program was very delightful indeed."—Jamestown (N. Y.) Evening Journal.

"Music and Childhood," the subject of the second concert lecture by Mme. Sofia Stephali, was given a most helpful, thoughtful and sympathetic treatment when the artist spoke Saturday afternoon. The singer's affection for the little folk was evidenced in both her lecture and her songs, and her understanding of their needs was made apparent to the mothers of the audience. The children were there, too, and were made happy by the songs she sang. Mme. Stephali is a charming woman, as well as a musical artist, and it was a good thing for the city when the Women's Department Klub brought her here."—Kokomo (Ind.) Tribune.

"Mme. Sofia Stephali gave two concert-lectures yesterday afternoon and evening, and the audiences were much larger than the opening night, and unusually select. A pleasing list of illustrative songs were sung by Stephali. Her voice is a coloratura mezzo-soprano of great breadth and power, and it has a sweetness that can only be described by the term sensuous. Her technic is superb and her method perfect, showing the best of training. Although an American by birth, her greatest triumphs have been won in Europe. The critics have united in acclaiming her a singer of the first rank. Nor has she been without her triumphs in America. Both press and public have joined in her praise.

"Her program on 'Music and Childhood' was a particularly sweet and helpful one and appealed to all that makes for child understanding. Stephali is a charming woman whom to meet is a delight."—Lewiston, Maine. (Advertisement)

———♯♯♯———

Muskegon, Mich.—The Congregational Choral Society of the First Church gave a concert on last Wednesday evening, under the direction of Frank L. Showers, in memory of Frederick H. Pease, who founded the Conservatory of Music in connection with the Michigan State College, and who was the teacher of Mr. Showers.

———♯♯♯———

Willett.—Mrs. Elizabeth Peterson, a pupil of William Willett, gave a recital of MacDowell, Chadwick and Foote songs in the Willett Studio in Kankakee last Friday evening.

———♯♯♯———

Hinshaw.—William Wade Hinshaw will appear in joint recital with Mme. Jeanne Jomelli at Carnegie Hall in New York on Sunday afternoon, December 28.

DIRECTORY

Addresses are Chicago unless otherwise stated

ACCOMPANISTS

BAKER Alice Wright (Organ and Piano) 5627 Indiana Av. (Phone Normal 0165)
BROWNE Helen M. (Phone Graceland 7714) 4308 Greenview Avenue
CAMPBELL Gordon (Paris, France) 66 Rue de Seine
FORD Susie B. (Phone Garfield 8791) 4131 Jackson Boulevard
FRAM Arthur (Phone Wellington 4148) 4100 N. Maplewood Av.
GROVE Grace (Home Phone Dearborn 713) 609 Fine Arts Building
LESTER William (Phone Harrison 6880) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
MARSHALL Caroline E. (Phone Garfield 9470) 417 S. Central Park Av.
NELSON Edgar A. Bush Temple Conservatory
ORCHARD Mrs. Charles (S. S. Branch, 1535 E. 61st St.) Cosmopolitan School, Auditorium Bldg
PETERSON Harriet Irene (Phone Wellington 3797) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
PETTIBONE Charlotte L. (Piano) 224 N. Prairie Av. (Phone Austin 3858
REITERMAN Mabel (Phone Austin 6171) 5748 W. Lake St.
SCHEIB Eleanor W. (Phone 4232 North) 45 Bellevue Place
SIMMONS Ruth (Oak Park, Ill.) 622 N. Kenilworth Av. (Tel. O. P. 5249)
WADHAMS Al Meda (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St.
WALD Max R. (Phone Graceland 4786) 620 Fine Arts Building

COMPOSERS

FREER Mrs. E. E., care of Clayton Summy, 64 E. Van Buren St.
DELLERS Walter (Phone River Forest 2547 412 Kimball Hall

DRAMATIC ART

CLEARY Mary Hester 54 Auditorium Building
PRINCE John T. Jr (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
STEIN Mrs. Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building

DIRECTORS

BALLMAN M. (Orchestra and Band) 1257 Foster Ave.
BOEPPLER Wm. (Chorus and Orchestra) 3842 Sheffield Av. (Phone Graceland 3754)
EMANUEL N. B. (auditorium) Concert Orchestra and Opera Chorus
GINGRICH Irving (Director Choir and Orchestra) Carbon County High School, Price, Utah
RONEY Henry B. (Coach—Boys' Voices) 558 Wellington Av. (Phone Graceland 10301)

ENSEMBLES

CHICAGO CONCERT TRIO Auditorium & W. V. Kimball Hall
MALE QUARTETTE Imperial 404 Kimball Hall
MENDELSSOHN Trio (Piano-Violin-Cello) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.

HARP

MARTIN Edith (Boston) 29 St. James Avenue

HARPSICHORD

PELTON-JONES Frances (New York) 3 W. 92nd St.

LECTURE-RECITAL

SWAINSON History and Development of Music Mansfield, 27 Rue Boislevant, Paris

MANAGERS

ANDERSON Walter R. 171 W. 57th St., New York
BEST C. W. (Phone Midway 2106) 5412 Woodlawn Av.
CHOIR BUREAU (Harriet Martin Snow, Dir.), 64 E. Van Buren St., Phone Harr 5881
COWEN Gertrude F. (New York) 1451 Broadway
CULBERTSON Harry 606 Fine Arts Bldg
DRIGGS and LE MESSENA Publicity for Artists 501-5th Av., New York
ELSTON Catherine Edgemont Park, Pittsburgh
GRABO H. F. Mendelssohn Club, 323 S. Wabash Av
HAENSEL & JONES 29 W. 42nd St. New York
JOHNSTON R. E. (New York) 1451 Broadway
KINSEY Carl D. Apollo Musical Club, Lyon & Healy
O'HANLON Gertrude V Cable Building
REDPATH Musical Bureau 603 Cable Bldg.
RICHARDSON G. Dexter Arbuckle Bldg., Brooklyn, N. Y.
SHIPMAN Frederick 3835 Flournoy St.
SMITH Edgar Kimball Hall
WOLFSOHN Bureau (New York) One W. 34th St.

MANUFACTURERS & DEALERS

BALDWIN Piano Co. 323 S. Wabash Av.
CABLE Piano Co. (Mason and Hamlin Pianos) Wabash Avenue and Jackson Boulevard
KIMBALL W. W. (Co.) 304 S. Wabash Ave
STARR Piano Co. (Richmond, Ind.) Mallers Bldg., Chicago

MISCELLANEOUS

CADMAN Charles W. (Indian Music) Care R. E. Johnston, New York
PAPE Thomas A., (Choral Conductor) 1200 Powers Bldg.
VAN CLEVE J. S. (Lecture Recitals) 62 W. 45, New York

ORGAN

BOYDSTON Florence E., (Central Park Pres. Church) 267 N. Sacramento Boul. (Tel. Garfield 4810)
CARL Wm. C. 44 West 12th St., New York
CHRISTIAN Palmer (Phone Kenwood 4018) Kenwood Evangelical Church
COOK Frances Anne, (Phone Douglas 3908) 644 Woodland Park (62d Pres. Church)
COTSWORTH Albert (Phone Seeley 5756) New First Congregational Church
COWAN Phelps' (Phone La Grange 962-R) Immanual Church, La Grange, Ill.
DEAL Alice R. 716 So. Campbell Av. (Phone Seeley 6210) (Leavitt St. Congregational Church)
DE VORE Nicholas (Phone Harrison 4388) 624 S. Michigan Av
DOANE John Jr., (Phone Evanston 414) 1812 Sherman Av., Evanston
EDDY Clarence (Concert Organist) 510 Oakwood Boul.
FRANCIS J. Henry (Choral Conductor and Composer St. John's, Charleston, W. Va.
FRYSINGER J. Frank, (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
GERBER Ralph M., (Phone Midway 3461) 5402 Jackson Av.
GOODWIN Hugo 3534 Lake Ave.
HAINES Tina Mae (Phone Kenwood 2866) Organist St. James M. E. Church
HANCOCK Irving C. Trinity Episcopal Church
HEMINGTON Francis Church of the Epiphany
HENRY Miss M. A. (St. Louis) 4417 a LaClede Av., Phone Forest 4763-R
HODGE Florence (Edgewater Presbyterian) 7242 Lincoln Park, West
HOLMES A. Alfred Kimball Hall
HYDE Herbert E. (Organist & Choir Master St. Peter Church) Belmont & near Evanston Av., Chicago
JOHNSON Ora A. (St. Paul Norwegian Lutheran) 5346 Southport Av.
KELLER Walter (712 Fine Arts Bldg.) Organist, St. Vincents Church.
KNODLE Walter St. Clare Philadelphia, Pa.
McDUFFEE Mabel H. (546 East Thirty-sixth St.) Garfield Boul. M. E. Church
MATTISON Myrtle E. California Av. Cong'l Church
MIDDELSCHULTE (Theodore Thomas Orchestra Orchestra Hall)
MOLINE Lily Wadhams (Phone Diversey 8470) 2550 Burling St. (Wesley M. E. Church)
MORSE Orwin Allison (First Presbyterian Church) Morningside Cons., Sioux City, Ia
MURDOCK Effie (Res. Phone Midway 1692) American Conservatory
NORTON John W. St. James Episcopal Church
PRUYN-HALL Edythe (Phone Drexel 4763) 4326 Greenwood Avenue
RICHARDSON John Allen St. Paul's Episcopal Church
RODEN Stella (Temple Emanuel and Lake View Presbyterian Church)
SCHERGER George L. 6014 Prairie Av.
SCHEVE Edward B. (Grinnell, Ia.) Iowa College, School of Music
SLADE Mason (Christ Episcopal 65th and Woodlawn Av.
VAN DUSEN Frank W. American Conservatory
WARD Katherine Howard (First M. E. Church Evanston Chicago Sunday Evening Club
WEDERTZ C. Gordon Chicago Musical College
WEISS Carl J. S. (Phone Graceland 5323) 1601 Cullom Avenue
WILD Harrison M. Kimball Hall
ZARING Irene Belden (Ravenswood M. E. Church) 4461 North Winchester Av.
ZEUCH Wm. E. (Phone Harrison 7664) 812 FineArts Building

PIANO

ADLER Lois 1354 Kenwood Park Place
ALBERTI Sol Chicago Musical College
ALTEMUS Ethel (New York) 655 Lexington Avenue
AUSTIN Electa, 4554 N. Lincoln St., Ravenswood North Shore School of Music
BACHAUS New York (Loudon Charlton)
BARGMAN Sylvia 815 Addison St.
BARNES Leada (Valparaiso, Ind.) University School of Music)
BALATKA Anna H. Balatka Musical College
BEHRENS Cecile M. (New York) 100 West 71st Street.
BEECHER Carl M. (Evanston, Ill.) University School of Music
BIRDSALL Edna J. (Phone Lincoln 4635) 2315 Seminary Av.
BOND Mabel (Phone Englewood 2519) 6415 Sangamon Street.
BRADFORD Bess Leone (Phone Midway 2372) 716 Fine Arts Building
BRAZELTON Edgar A. (Appleton, Wis.) Voecks' Building
BROWN Edith Shaw (Phone Wentworth 3066) 8556 Aberdeen Street
BROWN Roy David (311 Kimball Hall) 304 S. Wabash Avenue
BUCHHALTER Simon (Phone Kenwood 5058) 424 Fine Arts Building
BUNGE Carl (Piano and Violin) Chopin Cons., 1152 N. Ashland Avenu
BURNHAM Thuel (Paris France) 119 rue de la Tour
BYRUM Estella (Pianist and Accompanist) Hinshaw Conservatory
CLEOPHAS Mrs. Kirsti (Piano and Voice) Kensett, Ia., and Albert Lea, Minn
CLARK Ella M. (La Grange, Ill). 338 N. Ashland Avenue
CLARK Emma E. (Piano School) 64 Auditorium (Phone Ravenswood 2437
CLEOPHAS Gertrude (Herman Wolf, Berlin) In Europe
COOKINGHAM Edna Winifred (Phone Irving Park 1539), 3866 N. 42nd Av.
COZAD Louise (Phone Oakland 3433) 303 Kimball Hall
CLEVERLY Franklin (Denver, Colo.) Studio, 37 18th Av.
DANA Lynn B. (Warren, O.) Dana's Musical Institute
DETWEILER Harry (Auditorium Bld Drake School of Music.

DOELLING Mae (Concert Pianist) 4141 N. Hermitage Av.
EDWARDS Marie (Phone Garfield 5007) 2831 Washington Boul.
EHRHARDT Edward V. 523 Oakdale Av.
EIDAM Clarence Auditorium Bldg
ELVYN Myrtle (Edgar Smith) Kimball Hall
EMERSON George G. The Arcade, Cleveland Ohio
ERST Stephen Adolph 1553 Edgewater Place
FAIRCLOUGH G. H. Schiffman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn
FARDAHL Anna M. Ahroad for season. 2508 Pleasant Av., Minneapolis, Minn.
FLECK Edward B. (Denver, Colo.) Res. Stndio, 1527 High St.
FRAZER Arthur (Phone Dearhorn 6032) 874 Cass St.
FROTHINGHAM Frances (Harmony and Ear Training) Columbia School of Music.
GALLUP Emory L. (Phone Austin 3236) Organist 1st Presbyterian, Maywood
GEORGE Louise Chicago Piano College
GRANQUIST Arthur Columbia School of Music.
GODFREY Eleanor F. Kimball Hall
HAAKE Gail Martin, North Shore School of Music and Northwestern University School of Music
HAAKE Charles J. North Shore school of Music Northwestern University School of Music
HENDERSON Mildred Marsh (Phone Lake View 3773) 750 Bittersweet Place
HENRY Harold (Phone Drexel 7045) 426 Fine Arts Building
HULTMAN Paul (Worcester, Mass.) 443 Day Building
HUNT Emily Parsons (Phone Highland Park 120) 520 Fine Arts Bldg. (Mon. and Thurs. P. M.)
HURLEY Agnes Cecilia (Phone Drexel 4741) Sherwood Music School, Fine Arts Bldg.
IRONS Myrle Tyler (Stevan School of Music) 306 Kimball Hall (Phone Drexel 9206)
JOHNSON Elmer G. (Phone Lakeview 41) Chicago Piano College Kimball Hall
KIEN Edith Adelaide, (South Elmhurst, Ill.) Arlington Av. and May St.
KING Jessie (Studio) 419-59 E. Van Buren Street
KOBER Georgia (Sherwood Music School) 712 Fine Arts Bldg.
LANGRICH Agatbe (Pupils, Recitals) 3350 North Halsted St.
LEVY Henlot (Kimball Hall) American Conservatory
LIEBLING Emil Kimball Hall
LOOMIS Clarence American Conservatory
MATTESON Hannah (Accompanist) Edison Park, Ill.
McBRIDE Alice Emmons, (Leland and Evanston Avs.) North Shore School of Music
McKAY Lonis P., 2 Nelson Pl. Grand Rapids, Mich,
MILLS Ella Louise (Phone Oak Park 3420-W) American Conservatory, Kimhall Ha
NELSON Fredrik (Valparaiso, Ind.) (Univer sity School of Music
NYVALL David Jr. (School of Piano Playing) 410 Fenton Bldg., Jamestown, N. Y.
OLIVER Mary Lindsay Moline Ill.
PAINE Sarah E. (Piano and Flute) 416 W. 51st Place
PEARNE Clara Jeannette (Phone Stewart 1904) 419 Merrick Bldg. 357 W. 63rd St
PERSSON Frederick (Phone Graceland 8288) 1921 Wolfram St.
PILLSBURY Agnes Hope 707 Fine Arts Bldg.
PINCH Ruth, Piano and Organ (Huron, S. D.) Huron College School of Music
POTTER Grace Stewart Bush Temple Conservatory
RANN Edith V. (Phone Drexel 4418) 620 Fine Arts Bldg.
RECKZEH Karl (Res, 4728 Eberly Av. Chicago Musical College
RICE Emma Stillman Valley, Ill.
RIVE-KING Julie Bush Temple Conservatory
RIPLEY Elbert N. (Pianist—Organist) Audltorium Bldg. Tel. Kedzie 5629
ROBINSON Carol (Phone Diversey 8142) 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
ROGERS Ruth Alta (Duluth, Minn.) 11 South 20th Av., East
RUSSELL Julia A. (Berwyn, Ill.) 3131 Oak Park Av., Tel. 121 J Berwyn
RYDER Theodora Sturkow 4715 Lake Ave. (Phone Drexel 3300)
SAMUELSON Arvid (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SCIONTI Silvio (Phone Drexel 2420) American Conservatory
STAUFFER Paul Clarke (Denver, Colo.) Green Gables Studio, 2939 E. Colfax
STEVENS Robert W. (Phone Midway 5715) 5828 Woodlawn Av.
STOUT Lilian Mary 429 Fine Arts Bldg.
SILBER Sidney (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
SMITH Mrs. Lura Schuler (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music.
SNELL Ella V. (512 Kimball Hall) 1624 Park Av. Phone Seeley 1771
SPENCER Allen (Pianist-Teacher) American Conservatory
SCHWEIKHER Frederick (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute of Music
STEAD Mabel Riggs Peoria, Ill.
THAL Della (620 Addison St.) 610 Fine Arts Building
THOMAS Arthur P. (Appleton, Wis.) Lawrence Conservatory
THOMPSON Frank Olin Wisconsin Conservatory, Milwaukee
TOMLINSON Anna (Phone 774 J. Berwyn) 55 Auditorium
VAN KATWIJK Paul (Phone North 2694) 1225 Dearhorn Avenne
von MICKWITZ Harold Bush Temple Conservato
WALLACE Evangeline 522 Kimball Hall
WANIECK Kurt (Phone Graceland 831) American Conservatory.
WATSON Jo. Shipley (Kansas City) 4414 Main St.
WATT Harmon H. Chicago Piano College
WILFORD J. E. 602 Kimball Hall
WILLARD Carolyn Louise 721 Fine Arts Bl
WILLIAMS Guy Bevier (Berlin, Germany) Schaper Str. 22 H. P.
WILLIAMS Kathryn L. 1616 Mailer's Bldg.
WORRELL Lola Carrier (Composer-Pianist) Denver, Col'o (2226 Williams st.

PIPE ORGANS

HENRY PILCHERS SONS Louisville, Ky. Estimates on request.

PUBLISHERS

BOND Carrie Jacobs and Son 726 S. Michigan Avenue
C. C. PUBLISHING CO. Opera House Block Syracuse, N. Y.
DITSON Oliver Boston, Mass
DOWNING Lulu Jones (Phone Graceland 8195) 608 Fine Arts Bldg.
FILLMORE Music House 528 Elm St., Cincinnati, O.
FISCHER (J) and Bro. New York 7 and 11 Bible House
GAMBLE HINGED Music Co. 67 E. Van Buren
ILLINOIS MUSIC CO. 6119 Greenwood Ave.
LYMAN M. B. and Co. 622 Kimball Hall
MacDERMID James G. Fine Arts Bldg.
SUMMY Clayton F. (Co.) 64 E. Van Buren St.
THOMPSON C. W. & Co. Music Co. A. and B. Park St., Boston, Mass.
Waldo Music Co. Publishers 235 W. Newton St., Boston
WITMARK M. & Sons New York

PIANO TUNING

LINGENBERG Rudolph (Phone Harrison 2151) 639 Postal Tel. Bldg.

PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

GILDEMEISTER Louise M. (Phone Graceland 2166) 718 Fine Arts Bldg., Sat. afternoons
McCLURE Letha L. (Phone Oak Park 3729-R) Columbia School of Music
ROBINSON O. E. (Res. Phone Drexel 1871) American Cons. Kimball Hall

SCHOOLS

AMERICAN Conservatory Kimball Hall
ANNA GROFF-BRYANT Institute of Vocal Art Fine Arts Bldg.
BIEDERMANN School, Piano and Vocal Art 74 Auditorium Bldg.
BINTLIFF Mrs. Elizabetb Battle School of Music, Ripon, Wis.
BLISS School of Music (Oak Park) 234 N. Kenilworth Av.
BOEPPLER (Wm.) School of Piano and Voice 714 Kimball Hall and 3842 Sheffield Av
BUCKMEYER (F. F.) Director School of Music Zanesville, Ohio
Bush Temple Cons. Kenneth M. Bradley, Director N. Clark St. and Chicago Av.
CHAIGNEAU School of Music 69 rue Raynouard, Paris
CHICAGO Piano College Kimball Hall
CHICAGO College of Music (Esther Harris, Pres.) Kimball Hall, Chicago.
CHICAGO Opera School (Bergey, Dir.) 430 Fine Arts Bldg.
Chicago Kindergarten Inst. C. C. Cronise, Sec. 40 Scott St.
CINCINNATI College of Music Elm Street, opp. Washington Pk.
COLUMBIA School of Music (Clare Osborne Reed, Dir.) 609 South Wabash Avenue
COSMOPOLITAN School of Music Auditorium Bldg.
DRAKE School of Music 61 Anditorium Bldg
EFFA ELLIS Music School (Omaha) 203-4-5-6 Old Brandeis Bldg.
FAELTEN Pianaforte School Huntington Chambers, Boston
HINSHAW Conservatory of Music 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
ILLINOIS College of Music, C. W. Edwards, Dir. 2831 Washington Boulevard
INTERNATIONAL College of Music 54 Auditorium Bldg.
KNOX Conservatory of Music Wm. F. Bentley, Dir., Galesburg, Ill.
LOUDON The Jennette (School of Music 629 Fine Arts Bldg.
LYCEUM ARTS Conservatory (Phone Harrison 2074) 522 Fine Arts Building
MANDY STUDIO Violin and Piano 413 Kimball Hall
M. A. MONZEL Musical College Kimhall Hall
MENDELSSOHN CONSERVATORY (CarrieScott Dir) 309 Kimball Hall.
Morningside Conservatory Sioux City, Ia. Orwin A. Morse, D.
NEW ENGLAND Conservatory of Music Boston, Mass.
NORTH SHORE School of Music Evanston and Leland Avs
NORTHWESTERN University School of Music Evanston, Ill.
OSTROVSKY Institute, Hand Development 513 Steinway Hall (Rex Underwood)
STEIN STUDIOS Music and Dramatic Art 66 Auditorium Bldg.
UNIVERSITY School of Music (W. Kimball, Dir 11th and R Sts., Lincoln, Neb.
VALPARAISO University School of Music Valparaiso, Indiana
VIRGIL Piano Cons. and School of Pub. Performance 42 W 76th St., New York.
VILIM American Violin School. 411 Kimball Hall
WESTERN CONSERVATORY E. H. Scott, Pres. 1516 Mallers Bldg.
West Side Conservatory C. Wood, Pres. (Monroe 438) 27 South Ashland Boul.
WESTERN INSTITUTE Music and Dramatic Art. 29 E. 18th Av., Denver, Colo
WOOD Mrs. Stanley (Voice and Piano) 63th St. and Wentworth Av

TEACHERS AGENCIES

BABCOCK Charlotte (College-Church-Concert Agency) Carnegie Hall, New York
LAHEE Henry C. (218 Tremont St., Boston) College and Church Agency

THEORY

ANDERSEN Arthur Olaf 421 Fine Arts Bldg
BRADLEY Kenneth M Bush Temple Conservatory
BUTLER Lester S. Worcester, Mass.
LUTKIN Peter C. Evanston, Ill.
ROSBOROUGH John (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
WATHALL Alfred G. (Theory and Violin) 716 Diversey Boulevard
WATT Harmon H. Kimball Hall
WHITE (W. A.) 522 Fine Arts Bldg. Harmony, Ear Training, Sight Reading

VIOLIN

BARRON Robert Louis (Phone Northb 815) Studio, 226 E. Ontario St.
BATES Gertrude Consuelo (Phone Drexel 2849) 309 E. 41st St.
BECKER Ludwig Columbia School of Music
BRANDER Julius (Phone Edgewater 2755) International College of Music, 54 Auditorium
BROKAW Ralph (Power-Meyer Conservatory) Wichita, Kas.
BURKHOLDER Raymond Streator, Ill.
BUTLER Herbert (Phone Harrison 1831) Kimball Hall (American Conservatory)
CEDARGREEN Minnie (Phone Irving 22273) 4c20 Kimball Av.
CLEOPHAS Cornelia Studying Abroad
COX Mary A. (Phone Hyde Park 3562) American Conservatory
DASCH George, (Evanston and Leland Aves.) North Sbore School of Music
DRAKE Earl R. 84 Auditorium Bldg.
EMANUEL Harrison (Phone Central 2121) 6352 Rhodes Av.
FISCHEL Max I. 610 Fine Arts Bld
FREDERICKS Aage (Tolhurst) 106 Central Park West, New York
FREDERIKSEN Fredrik 426 Fine Arts Bldg.
FRENCH Melba Mae (Phone Oakland 4365) 4123 Ellis Av.
FROSOLONO Antonio 1227 East 44th Place
GIRVIN Ramon B. (Phone Belmont 2969) 3144 Logan Boulevard
GOLDBLATT Maurice H. Chicago Musical College
GUNTER Haydn (Muncie, Ind.) 917 E. Adams St.
HEIZER Frederick (Sioux City, Ia.) Heizer School of Music
ITTE Fritz (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1225 Morse Av. (Phone Rogers Park 6664)
KOHLER Franz (Oberlin, Ohio) Oberlin College Conservatory
LOEBER J. Edward (Phone Kedzie 6517) 3533 W. Monroe Street
MARTINSON Melvin 411 Kimball Hall
MONEAK Elena (Phone Oakland 2357) 1024 E. 42nd Street
NUSSBAUM Percy L. (Nussbaum School of Music) 4654 Grand Boul.
MUSIN Ovide (Virtuoso) 5 West 76th St., New York
PILZER Maximilian (Phone Morningside 8832) 101 West 115th St., New York,
PREISER Albert Leo, (Austin-Chicago 630 North Pine Ave.
ROEDER Edward (Phone 552-R Blue Island) Villm, American Violin School
SPALDING Albert (R. E. Johnston) 1451 Broadway, New York.
STECKELBERG Carl Frederic (Lincoln, Neb. University School of Music
STEINDEL Albin (Chicago Symphony Orchestra) 1325 Birchwood Av.
WOODWORTH Mabel (Phone Kedzie 7937 American Conservatory
YOST Gaylord Indianapolis Conservatory
ZUKOWSKY Alexander 627 Fine Arts Bldg.

VIOLONCELLO

HESS Hans (Phone Lincoln 7917) American Conservatory
SEARCH Frederick P. Wyoming, O. Cincinnati Station R
VAN VLIET Cornelius (Minneapolis)
WILLIAMS Day (Phone Edgewater 4480 1229 Norwood Srteet

VOICE

AID Mary Lucas (Soprano) 1514 E Sixty first St. (Tel. Midway 1172)
ALLEN Leonora A. (Phone Kenwood 30) 4718 Kenwood Av.
ARKWELL Wm. J. (Basso-Cantante) Worcester, Mass.
ANDERSON Hugh (Hinshaw Conservatory 506 Kimball Hall
ARCANGELI Studios (Phone Harrison 5147) 304 Athenaeum Bldg.
BAILEY Mr. and Mrs. Herbert 6557 Ingleside Avenue
BARRADELL Kennard Kimhall Hall
BARRE Mme Stella (Soprano) 110 Carnegie Hall, New York
BEARD William 625 Fine Arts Bldg.
BECK Emma Bruce (Phone Harrison 2580) Columbia School of Music
BEEBE Agnes Leist 509 Kimhall Hall
BELL Ada Louise (Phone North 1005) 303 Kimball Hall
BEEMAN Bertha (Evanston, Ill.) Northwestern University School of Music

BENEDICT Ethel Geistweit (Phone Austin 5273) 128 N. Lotus Av. (Soprano, Accompanist)
BERGEY Theodore S. (Tel. Harrison 1595) 430 Fine Arts Building
BINGHAM Helena (Composer-Recitalist) 6119 Greenwood Ave.
BISPHAM David 44 W. 44th St., New York
BLOEDEL Elsa (Tel. Kilbourne 3378-C) 1247 19th St., Milwaukee
BOHLIN J. F., 51 Auditorium Bldg. Drake School of Music
BOLLMAN Maude Fenlon Oak Lodge, Rockford, Ill.
BONCI Sig. Alessandro (New York) Care Haensel and Jones
BORROFF Albert (Phone Harrison 5819) Kimball Hall
BORROFF-JONES Anna Allison (Phone Drexel 8520) 4822 Madison Ave.
BRACKEN Mrs. W. S. (Auditorium) Cosmopolitan School of Music
BRAUN Anna C. (Phone Seeley 2780) 2754 Wilcox Avenue
BREDIN Elias (Lyric Tenor) 1426 Elmwood Av., Evanston, Ill.
BRENNEMAN Hedwig (Sop.) Phone Evanston 2269 Northwestern Uni. School of Music
BRIGHT-BENGEL Helen (Phone Wentworth 3886) (Harry Culbertson, Manager)
BROCK Mr. and Mrs Collins J. (Delaware, Ohio) Ohio Wesleyan School of Music
BUCKINGHAM Lola (Phone 3621 Wentworth) 7022 Vernon Av.
BURDICK Sara (Tel. Harrison 7041) 727 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURKHARDT Mrs. M. Schutz (Meadville, Pa.) Pa. College of Music Concert Bureau
BURNHAM Cardon V. (Baritone) 609 Fine Arts Bldg.
BURTON Louise, (Phone Drexel 8182) 520 Fine Arts Building
Burton Mrs. E. O. (Mary Howe) Boston, Mass. 413 Day Bldg., Worcester, Mass.
CASE Harriet Auditorium Bldg.
CHENEY Mary (New York) 500 Carnegie Hall
CLARK Charles W. (Paris) 12 Rue Leonard de Vinci.
CLARK Dr. Frederick 83 Auditorium Building
CLARKE Edw. 613 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 1831) Residence Phone, Edgewater 9133)
CLIFFORD William (Tenor) Phone Drexel 1152 Sherwood Music School
CLISSOLD Edward T., 431 S. Dearborn St., (Baritone) Dir. Men's Fall Festival Chorus. 1908-9-10 11
CLIPPINGER D. A. 410 Kimball Hall
CONGDON Ethel M. (Soprano-Teacher) 721 Fine Arts Bldg. Phone Lincoln 4495
COOK Dwight Edrus (Boise, Idaho) Boise Conservatory of Music
COOK John Loring (Tenor) 300 Steinway Hall. (Phone Harrison 6158)
COOLEY Sydnie Smith (Phone Garfield 2913) 4117 W. Harrison St.
CORLEW Mabel (Contralto) 4202 Prairie Ave. (Phone Harrison 973)
CRAMER Alice Ione (Phone Drexel 7009) 598 E. 46th Place
CRAVEN Carl E. (Tenor) 234 W. 57th St. (Phone Normal 5373)
DAHLSTROM Margaret 3242 Clifton Ave.
DEEMING Inez Taylor (Evanston, Ill.) 2738 Woodbine Avenue
DEEMING Inez Taylor (Phone Harrison 6457) 2738 Woodbine Avenue, Evanston, Ill.
DIEDERICH Walter A. (Home Phone Kedzie 8977) 508 Fine Arts Bldg.
Delma-Heide Officier de l'Instruction Publique 30 Rue Marbeuf, Champs Elysees, Paris
DE BERNYZ Bertrand (Studios) 68 W. 72nd, New York
DE SALES Regina (Paris, France) 40 rue de Villejust (Ave. Bois de Boulogne)
DeYOUNG Richard B. American Conservatory
DEVRIES Herman 518-528 Fine Arts Building
DOWNING Frederica Gerbardt (Phone Oak Park 1478) 209 S. Harvey Avenue, Oak Park, Ill.
DUFAU Jennie (Colorature Soprano) Chicago Grand Opera Co.
DUNFORD Frank M. (Bass). Phone Kedzie 8310 710 South Central Park Avenue
FANNING Cecil (Dayton, Ohio) H. B. Turpin, Manager
FARNUM Mrs. Frank 3359 Warren Ave.
FICHTNER Ludwig Carl (Basso-Cantante) 149 Tremont St., Boston
FITCH Mrs. Wilbur (Phone Harrison 3895) 63 Auditorium (Home Phone Longwood 408)
FREEMAN Ida Belle, 716 Fine Arts Bldg 5908 Ontario St. (Contralto)
FRIDENBERG Abbie L. (New York) Studio 110 Carnegie Hall
FRISBIE Constance (Soprano) 5142 Madison Av. (Phone Hyde Park 3482)
GALE Permelia (Phone Oak Park 4784) 318 North Kenilworth Av., Oak Park.
GALLAGHER Madeline (Phone Kedzie 4886) 3435 Flournoy St.
GANNON Rose Lutiger 715 Kimball Hall
GARRETT A. Howard, (Baritone) 413 Kimball Hall
GREGORY Heathe (Phone Kenwood 53) 616 E. 49th Street
GRIFFITH Milton B. (South Bend, Ind. Conservatory) Chicago Address, 522 Kimball Hall
GROW Ethel (Phone North 2686) 1002 Dearborn Av,
GROFF-BRYANT Anna, (Institute of Vocal Art) 623 Fine Arts Bldg
HADLEY Grant (Tenor) Suite 73 Auditorium Building
HAIGHT Irma (Los Angeles) The Miraflores—1420 Flower St.
HALL William John (St. Louis) Musical Art Building
HALL Wm. Clare (Home Phone Normal 6497) 423 Fine Arts Bldg.
HALL R. Jefferson (Teacher) 72 Barth Block, Denver, Colo.
HAMILTON Jessie Mack (Phone Ravenswood 326) 5057 Winthrop Av.
HARRIS Milon R. 403 Kimball Hall
HARTHAN-AREND Else (Phone Normal 1406) care of Music News

HARTMAN Lucy J., (2422 South Lawndale Ave.) Contralto (Phone Lawndale 1767)
HERDIEN Mabel Sharp 5132 Kenmore Ave.
HEUCHLING Mathilde 712 Fine Arts Building
HIGHSMITH Mary E. (Phone Midway 2923) 5422 Ellis Avenue
HILLEBRAND Katherine (Coloratura Soprano) 1144 Diversey Parkway (Tel. Grac. 1733)
HINKLE Florence (Soprano) 294 West 92nd St., New York (Wolfsohn)
HINSHAW William Wade (New York) Metropolitan Opera Company
HINSHAW Marvin (Phone Harrison 2003) 6th Floor, Kimball Hall
HOLMQUIST Gustaf (Harry Culbertson) 304 Kimball Hall
HOLT George Nelson 509 S. Wabash Ave.
HOPKINS Jessie Lynde (Home Phone Douglas 2544) Auditorium Bldg.
HOPKINS Hamilton 710 Fine Arts Bldg.
HOSTETTER Hildred Hanson (Soprano) State Normal (Kalamazoo, Mich.)
HOSTLER Eleanore Capps (Phone Austin 1373) 5836 Washington Blvd.
Hudd-Treloar Minnie (Phone 8668 Graceland) Tudor Mansions, 3515 Pine Grove Av.
HUGHES T. Francis 75 Auditorium Building
HUNT Gerald (Basso-Cantante) South Bend (Ind.) Conservatory of Music.
HUNTLEY Hazel (Phone Harrison 6880 608 Fine Arts Building
HUTCHINSON Herbert Edmund Alliance, Ohio
HUTTER C. A. (Home Phone 4267) 501 Kimball Hall
IREDALE Bertha Smart (Phone Englewood 888) 357 W. 63rd St.
JOHNS Etbelle Florence (Phone Hyde Park 1131) 6463 Kimbark Av.
JOHNSON Jennie F. W. (Phone Drexel 6104) 4937 Michigan Ave.
JONES A. H. (Tenor) 509 Kimball Hall
KAUFMAN Mary Ann (Phone Edgewater 8519) 4433 Racine Avenue
KILBY Lemuel W. (Phone Ravenswood 7201) 523 Fine Arts Bldg. (Phone Harrison 2074)
KIMBELL Grant (Tenor) 5418 Jackson Av., Phone Midway 3831
KIRKPATRICK Howard J. (Lincoln, Neb.) University School of Music
LANGER Ora Padget (Phone Hyde Park 6774) 1375 East 54th Street
LASH De Witt Dargin (Phone Harrison 6365) 420 Fine Arts Bldg
LAYFIELD Mabel B. (Phone, Wentbworth 2082) 7111 Normal Av.
LEAMAN Olga (Phone Harrison 6880) 6460 Woodlawn Av., Apt. 1
LIBBE Frances Carey (Tel. Drexel 4335) 4460 Berkeley Av.
LIVENGOOD Charles E. (Bass-Baritone) 2226 W. Adams st. (Tel. Seeley 5802)
LONGMAN Marie White, (Contralto) 1311 E. 53rd St.
LOOS-TOOKER Mme. Carola 3814 Ellis Avenue
LUND Rene S. (Baritone) 2453 W. Monroe Street (Phone Seeley 6602)
LUTTON Charles Edwin (Phone Evanston 3475-J) 1117 Main St., Evanston, Ill.
LYNCH Miriam Goodhue (Voice Builder) Drake School of Music
MacBURNEY 509 Fine Arts Building
MacLEISH Lillian (Phone Garfield 3050) 3422 Fulton Street
McGRANAHAN (TENOR) Thos. J. (Phone Yards 3439) 3620 Parnell Av.
MAGNUS Florence R. and Rudolph E. 616 Fine Arts Bldg.
MANSFIELD May, (Paris, France) 27 rue Boisievant
MARCUSSON Grace Brune (Phone West 661) 2459 Jackson Boul.
MERCER Ella-Freeman (Phone Edgewater 7402) 5265 Berteau Av.
MIESSNER W. Otto (Oak Park, Ill.) 209 Wesley Av.
MILLER Christine 1003 Heberton Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.
MILLER Herbert 716 Fine Arts Bldg
MILLER Reed (Wolfsohn) 1. W. 34th St., New York
MILLER John B. (Tenor) Chicago Musical College
MOSHER L. Drew 137 W. 4th A Cincinnati O.
MOSSBERG Joel (Baritone) 1155 Belmon Ave
MOUNTZ S. W. (Los Angeles) 446 W. 40th Place
MUENSTERMANN Esther D. (Phone River Forest 3122) River Forest, Ill.
MULREY Mabel V.—Soprano—Pianist 47 Wave Way, Winthrop, Mass.
MUNRO George (Studio) Phne Harrison 4577 300 Athenaeum Bldg.
MURRAY Marie Stapleton (Soprano) 4902 Friendship, Av., Pittsburgh, Pa.
MURPHY Mrs. John Fremont (Soprano) 5000 Dorchester Av. (Phone Kenwood 4042)
MURRISON Harry R. Alliance, Ohio.
NARELLE Marie (New York) 110 Carnegie Hall
NAZOR Naoml (Phone Midway 7122) 1215 E. 63rd Street
NEFF Hazel Dell, Soprano Plymouth, Ind.
NEWMAN Mr. and Mrs. Alfred (Phone Austin 11199) 237 North Howard Av., Austin
NICHOLS John W. Tenor (New York) 330 W. 58th St. (Phone 1434 Columbus)
NORTH Dorothea (Phone Oakland 5508) 4137 Drexel Blvd.
OLIN Nora Loraine (Wheaton Musical Institute) 303 Kimball Hall (Phone Harrison 5919)
OWENS W. H. (Tel. Seeley 1147) 2112 Washington Blvd.
PANGBOURNE Annette (Phone Harrison 2313) 519 Kimball Hall
PEACOCK Eleanor Hazzard (London England) Care L. G. Sharpe, 51 Regent St.
PECK Minnie Mory (Contralto) Studio, The Angelus, Denver, Colo.
PERCIVAL Frank E. (Toledo, O.) Toledo Musical College
PLUMB Esther (Phone Oakland 3248) 4173 Lake Av.
POTTER Mildred (Contralto) Walter R. Anderson, 171 W. 57th St.,

PRINGLE Samuel B. (Winona Lake, Ind.) Winona School of Music
PROTHEROE Daniel 610 Fine Arts Bldg.
RANKL John R. (Phone Harrison 6880) 509 Fine Arts Bluilding
RAYMER Abigail M. (Phone Belmont 5782) 1738 Humboldt Boulevard
RICH Stephen Ezra (Tenor) Barre Plains, Mass.
RINEBOLD Helen (Contralto) Phone Drexel 2513 413 Kimball Hall, 4409 Greenwood Av
REED Esta Asher (Soprano) 14 West Lake Street
REED Alma Hays (Phone Normal 9165) 5527 Indiana Av.
REESE Reese R. (Pittsburg) 202 Nixon Building
RICHARDS Vere Stiles (Denver, Colo.) Western Institute, 29 E. 18th Av.
RIHELDAFFER Grace Hall 6318 Burchfield Av., Pittsburgh, Pa
ROBBINS Edith Lucile (11th and R Sts.) University School of Music, Lincoln Neb.
ROBBINS Mrs. Charles (Choral Conducting) 1372 E. 62nd St.
ROSS Mrs. Edna McDevitt (Phone Stewart 877) 7206 Stewart Ave.
RUGGLES May Sleeper (Contralto) Principal Liederheim, Anburndale, Mass.
RUSSELL L. Douglas (Phone Stewart 9265) 719 Fine Arts Bldg.
RUSSELL Mrs. Estelle L. (Phone Garfield 8448) 3100 Lexington St.
SALMON Bessie Talbot (Soprano) Teacher of Singing 201 Clarendon St., Boston
SCHWARTZ Cora (soprano) 401 Boyd Theater, Omaha, Neb.
Schwickerath Jos. A. (Musical Director) 54 Auditorium Bldg. (Tel. Lincoln 4521)
SCHUSTER Katherine 71 Auditorium Bldg.
SCHUMANN-HEINK Ernestine (New York) Wolfsohn Bureau
SCOFIELD Mrs. W. C. (Phone Harrison 469) 408 Kimball Hall.
SEAGLE Oscar (Charles L. Wagner) St. James Bldg., New York
SHELP Dr. H. Wm. 726 Fine Arts Bldg.
SHORT Vernon R. (Heroic Tenor) 516 Kimball Hall
SLACK Arthur R (Phone Evanston 4706) 1823 Wesley Avenue, Evanston, Ill.
SLATTERY Margaret (Soprano) 4053 Michigan Av.
SLOAN Mrs. Willie M. (Soprano) 6523 St. Lawrence Av.
SMIDT Mahle Corlew (Phone Austin 22712) 5943 Ohio St.
SMITH Lyla L. (Phone Albany 10059) Studio 3200 Logan Boul.
SMITH Wm. Griswold (Tenor) Studio 6753 Perry Avenue
SPEARIN Jane Polson (Phone Gary 1173) 625 Madison St., Gary, Ind
SPECK Austa Belle (Lyric Soprano) Mt. Union-Scio Conservatory, Alliance, Ohio
SPOONER Philip (New York) 205 W. 57th St.
STEELE Mary Hinman 603 Kimball Hall
STEELE Martha S. (Pittsburgh) Wightman and Fair Oaks Sts.
STONE Frank (Tenor) 304 Kimball Hall
STERN Edith Kramer (Phone Drexel 48) 4439 Calumet Av.
STEIN Karl Buren (Phone Harrison 977) 55 Auditorium Building
STEPHALI Sofia Phone Midway 5912) 6106 Kimbark Av.
STEVENSON Lucille 4438 Berkeley Avenue
STRIBLEN Louise Matbews (Phone Drexel 4923) 1134 E. 47th St.
STULTS Walter A. (Evanston) Northwestern University School of Music
TENNEY Mr. and Mrs. George L. Lewis Institute, Phone West 793
THOMAS Mr. and Mrs. (Baritone-Soprano) Zion White Robed Choir Zion City, Ill
THOMSON Mary Peck (Res. Phone Douglas 2083) 520 Fine Arts Building
TODD Ernest O. (Tenor) Phone Edgewater 3766 Bush Temple Conservatory
TROWBRIDGE J. B. (Tenor and Conductor) 813 La Salle Av.
TUFTS Ben Q. (Phone Harrison 7949) 404 Kimball Hall
VER HAAR Edna Swanson (Tel. W. Pullman 157) 11204 Michigan Avenue
VOTAW Lyravine (Phone Midway 8799) 6511 Woodlawn Av.
WALKER Edward (Phone Midway 2958) 1325 E. 64th St.
WARNER Marjorie Dodge (Phone Austin 23973) 5704 Washington Boulevard
WATSON Ruth Swing 1226 E. 52nd St.
WEAVER Iva Bigelow Mack Block, Milwaukee Wis.
WEBSTER Frank B. 719 Kimball Hall
WEGENER Mme. Justine Rush Temple Conservatory
WENGERD Charles S. (Baritone) 61 Auditorinm Bldg.
WESTERVELT Louise St. John (Phone North 1408) Columbia School of Music
WETZEL Le Roy (Phone Harrison 5646) Metropolitan Conservatory, Kimball Hal
WHEELER Beatrice Chicago Grand Opera Co.
WHITEHILL Clarence (Wolfsohn Musical Bureau 1 E. 34th St., New York
WING Eloise Hilton (Soprano), (Phone Rogers Park 18 728 Fine Arts Bldg.
WILCOX John C. (Teacher) Wolfe Hall, Denver, Colo
WILLETT Wm. A. (Vocal Studio) 516 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS Dr. Carver Auditorium Bldg
WILLIAMS Mrs. Stacey 406 Kimball Hall
WILLIAMS H. Evan Akron, Ohio
WIRTHLIN Rosalie (Wolfsohn) 1 W. 34th St., New York
WORTHINGTON Julian (Phone Midway 6107 Woodlawn Av.
WYCOFF Eva Emmet 500 W. 143rd, New York
ZENDT Marie sidenius (Phone Drexel 2778) (1140 E. 44th St)

Service Is Extended to Every Purchaser

IT MATTERS not whether you buy our most expensive product or if you choose to be more conservative—whether you pay cash or take advantage of our many convenient methods of payment. Certain privileges and protections are due you and these we guarantee.

An absolutely uniform price to all.

The greatest value for the amount invested, whatever that may be.

We can convince you that the best need not be the most expensive, that there is no uncertainty as to the value of any instrument of our make.

We shall be glad to have you call at our store and examine our complete line of instruments.

STARR
RICHMOND

The Starr Piano Company

TRAYSER
REMINGTON

4th floor Mallers Bldg., Cor. Wabash and Madison St. We also manufacture a full line of Player Pianos

Chicago, Dec 2 1912

My Dear Mr Lemert:

I am commencing my third operatic season with my "Pianola" & Hamlin as my staunch & much constant companion & I have found it to be the only piano made which is always & unfailingly in perfect pitch & unbridled for beauty of tone

Very sincerely yours

Carolina White

Carolina White
writes of the
Mason & Hamlin

Cable Piano Company
DISTRIBUTORS

Wabash and Jackson

INDIAN SCENES

FIVE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

(Based on Indian Motifs)
from the music to

"The Story of a Vanishing Race"
by EDWARD S. CURTIS

Composed by

Henry F. Gilbert

No. 1. By the Arrow.
No. 2. The Night Scout.
No. 3. In the Kutenai Country.
No. 4. Signal Fire to the Mountain God.
No. 5. On the Jocko

Illustrated.

PRICE, $1.50

Copies may be had on approval

THE H. W. GRAY CO.
21 East 17th Street - NEW YORK

Sole Agents for

Novello & Co., Ltd.
LONDON

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS-URBANA
3 0112 097182262